Local Election Returns Announced

All incumbents retained their positions after the Democratic primaries held Saturday except for the Country Treasurer position after incumbent Metha Trainer withdrew from the race Monday.

A run-off had been scheduled between Joyce Hearn Chalk and Trainer for June 5th when Trainer released the following statement:

"I am announcing my withdrawal from the race for Sutton County Treasurer, in favor of Joyce Hearn Chalk.

"I have sincerely enjoyed the nearly ten years of being your Treasurer, and feel that I have done the job to the best of my ability. I have also enjoyed working with the others in the Courthouse and thank them for being loyal to me. It has been a real pleasure to have served the citizens of Sutton County. Thanks to those who voted for me in the May Primary."

Chalk led the voting for County Treasurer Saturday with 379 votes, Metha Trainer had 244 and Jessie Kerbow had 187.

Incumbent County Judge Charles Sherrill held his position in an uncontested race with 688 votes.

Justice of the Peace Herman Moore defeated Bill Lamb 739-76.

Erma Lee Turner retained her position as District and County Clerk. She had 747 votes.

Incumbent Juan Carlos Gonzales retained his position as County Commissioner Precinct 4 by defeating Joe Friess 135-71.

J. Clifton Hancock was named Democratic County Chairman with 659 votes.

Bryan Hunt Places In State UIL

The State Capital was the scene of yet another triumph for the students of Sonora High School last weekend. Five students traveled to Austin to compete on the State level in University Interscholastic League literary events, with all five placing among the State's top ten.

Bryan Hunt, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Hunt, brought home a coveted third place medal in the field of Persuasive Speaking. His preliminary topic was "Can the Russian Economy Support a Global War?", and his topic in the finals was "Begin---Does He Still Run Israel?" These topics are assigned by draw, so a winning student must of necessity be very well informed indeed in a great variety of subjects. A graduating senior with the class of 1982, Bryan plans to attend the University of Texas at Austin in September.

Charles Carroll, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Tittle, placed among the State's top ten in the field of Informative Speaking. Also a graduating senior, Charles was offered two forensics' scholarships while in Austin---one by Texas Tech University in Lubbock and another by West Texas University in Canyon, where he will serve as staff assistant to James Buchanan this summer in forensics camp.

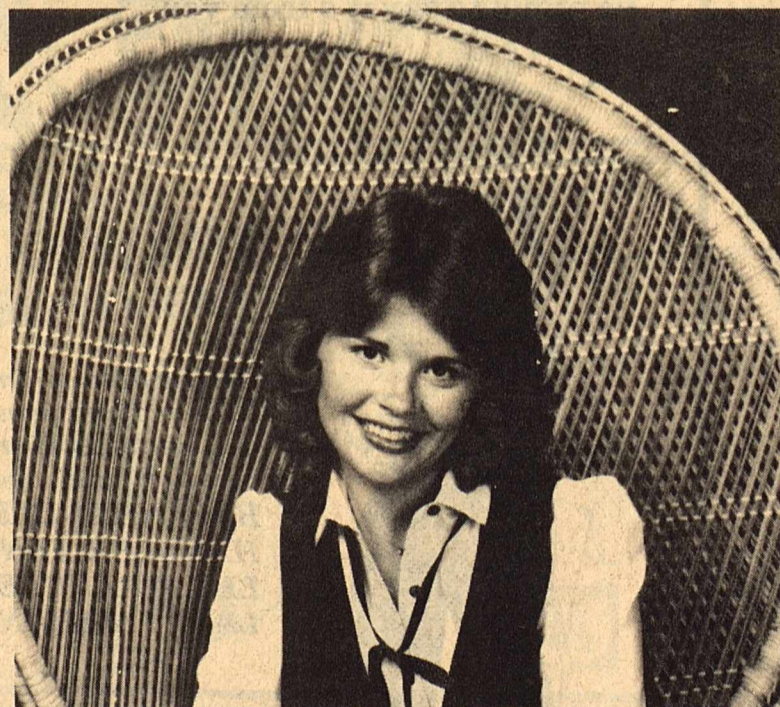

The remaining three students who competed in Austin are Vicki De Marco, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward DeMarco, who placed in Persuasive Speaking; Eric Neal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Smith Neal, in prose; and Julie Stewart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Stewart, in ready writing.

Of the five students, all are graduating from Sonora High School on May 21st except Vicki DeMarco, who is a junior.

James Buchanan, director of the speech and drama department at the high school, said, "I am very proud, not only of these students, but of the progress of our whole department this year. The building of a strong program has been very fulfilling for me upon returning home to Sonora. This year is just the beginning. I appreciate especially the support of the Board of Trustees the community, the administration, and above all, the talented students at Sonora High School."

25 girls were entered in the contest. Sue Blancett of San Angelo Sundown club was second runner-up. Teresa Alexander of the Big Spring Evening club was first runner-up.

enship won the Outstanding Basketball Awards.

Rosa Noriega and Allen Stewart were named winners of the Ruth

Library Needs Overdue Books

In an effort to collect the Sutton County Library's Overdue books, we are publishing the following list of people with late books. We have tried to contact people who have overdue books and are not always successful.

Therefore, we will be publishing lists from time to time. Our apologies to those names appearing on this who shouldn't be. It is interesting to note that the average book, today, costs $14.95. With our present operating budget, we cannot afford to replace these overdue books and keep up-to-date with the new books being published. Your cooperation will be greatly appreciated.

Cancer Crusade Underway In Sutton Co.

"According to our projected statistics, one in every four persons in Sutton County will eventually have cancer. The mission of our committee is to prevent this projection from becoming a reality."

So stated Crusade Chairman, Thelma Johnson, of the American Cancer Society's Sutton County Unit.

"We know," Chairman, Johnson continued, "that our best defense against cancer is to educate people on the value of early diagnosis and treatment and to show them ways of preventing cancer."

Chairman, Johnson appealed especially to presidents of civic and social clubs, to school officials and to employers to schedule a cancer control program for their group. "The committee thinks that every person in the county should know about cancer, and our program is designed to this end, but we'll need help."

Chairman, Johnson stated that the Society could arrange programs to suit the needs of any group, furnishing educational films, speakers and printed materials about the disease. "All of these are available, but they're worthless unless they are used."

Chairman Johnson reported that of every six persons who have cancer, two will be cured, three will die because present knowledge about the disease does not permit a cure, and one will die because he was not "reached" in time.

"This last one is really a needless death," Chairman Johnson because his cancer will not be detected early enough or because he does not know how to prevent cancer. And, some forms of cancer are highly preventable."

Chairman Johnson said that any club or person wanting a meeting program could contact her at 387-3269.

Program Available To Help Family Of Alcoholics

"You don't know it, but you're sick, too." The words are harsh when spoken to family members of an alcoholic. Yet, they are also a relief, for they underscore an approach to treatment which recognizes the needs of the victim and of those are close to him.

The Alcoholism Treatment Program (ATP) conducted by the Department of Psychiatry of Texas Tech University School of Medicine deals with the spectrum of problems associated with alcoholism and substance abuse.

"There is no one solution to the problem of alcoholism," said Rudy Arredondo, Ed.D., associate professor of psychiatry and inpatient program director for the ATP. "Individuals who have the disease are complex. Their conditions have many varied aspects with broad ramifications.

"The family shares in the disruption caused by the disease and they need to be involved in the healing process, too," Arredondo said. "They receive counseling as individuals and as a family and begin to learn to deal non-judgmentally with their ill family member and with themselves."

Patients in the program are admitted to the Chemical Dependence Unit at St. Mary of the Plains Hospital in Lubbock for an inpatient phase of four to six weeks. In the hospital they receive a physical examination, diagnostic workups and assessments of the physical and psychological effects of their dependence. They begin both individual and group counseling activities and education sessions to learn both about their disease and about themselves.

While the patients are in their inpatient phase, help also begins for family members.

Family members join support groups such as Al-Anon and Alateen. Values clarification groups, communication groups and spiritual concerns groups help the family and the patient learn to share feelings and problems.

"We strive toward education and reeducation for the patient and for family members," Arredondo said. "Each person learns about the disease and about themselves. They learn to evaluate their lifestyles and their values and to form new attitudes upon which they can build."

Upon completion of the inpatient phase of the program, patients continue with counseling sessions as needed. They and their families maintain their participation in Alcoholics Anonymous, Al-Anon or Alateen. Additional family counseling is also available throughout the psychiatry department's outpatient treatment program.

The ATP uses a multidisciplinary team to meet patient needs. Psychiatrists and other physicians, psy-

At General Telephone, better service isn't just a goal. It's a solid commitment. General Telephone spent over 354 million dollars in 1981 on capital expenditure projects (i.e. new electronic switches, expanded cable projects and modernization), and GTE will spend over 410 million dollars in 1982 to provide you the best telecommunications available.

For you, as a valued customer, this investment in service improvement is working as shown below. General Telephone is working hard to continually provide you with the best of service.

The Texas Public Utility Commission (PUC) has established certain standards in public hearings, and our service results are listed against those standards.

The Xerox Personal Computer. Miraculously easy to use.

So easy, in fact, anyone can use it to make almost any office task simpler and easier. Because anyone can learn how to operate it in just a few hours. And because there's the added convenience of a familiar typewriter-style keyboard with a handy numerical pad.

So before you know it, you'll be using it as a personal computer for everything from keeping inventories up to date to financial planning. Or as a word processor, to type, edit, store and recall the printed word in just seconds. Even as an intelligent terminal, providing access to remote data bases or communication of information from one location to another.

The Xerox personal computer. A simply amazing machine that's so easy to use, it's almost miraculous.

Mayor Bill Gosney and Lung Association Volunteer Fay Dunnam sign a proclamation naming May 2-8 "Clean Air Week."

Mayor Names "Clean Air Week"

Mayor Bill Gosney of Sonora joins Texas Governor William P. Clements in proclaiming May 2-8, 1982, Clean Air Week. The purpose of Clean Air Week is to protect and conserve Texas' air resources.

I would like to thank everyone who supported me in the recent election. My best wishes to Joyce Chalk in her term in office.

Thank you,
Jessie Kerbow

The Texas Air Control Board (TACB), the state agency with responsibility for reducing and controlling air pollution, and the American Lung Association of Texas (ALAT) are cosponsors.

For the second consecutive year, energy conservation is Texas' theme for Clean Air Week because of the relationship between energy production and air pollution," said Fay Dunnam, R.N., volunteer for the Lung Association and resident of Sonora.

TACB Executive Director Bill Stewart said, "The need for energy and for clean air need not be at odds. Conserving energy can help protect our precious air resources by limiting the amounts of air pollutants released when oil, gas, or coal is burned to produce energy. Even with the best control equipment available, we cannot completely eliminate the release of air contaminants from industries and from motor vehicles vehicles. "We hope that Texans will use Clean Air Week to focus their attention on how energy use relates to environmental pollution and to think of ways to conserve energy. Helping reduce air pollution can be as simple as using mass transportation or car pools, adjusting thermostats, using less hot water, and turning off lights when leaving a room," he said. Dunnam suggested several ways to help reduce air pollution: do not burn leaves and trash; keep automobiles properly tuned and keep pollution control devices maintained; and use car pools and public transportation and walk rather than ride as much as possible. Remember, the more cars on the road, the more pollution.

Johnny Fields Attends Seminar

Dr. John W. Fields D.V.M. of Sonora attended a scientific and educational seminar April 24 and 25 in San Antonio. The seminar was sponsored by the Texas Veterinary Medical Association (TVMA) and the Texas Academy of Veterinary Practice (TAVP).

"It is a measure of their dedication to professionalism that has prompted these more than 100 veterinarians to seek postdoctoral education beyond their degree of doctor of veterinary medicine," said Dr. John W. Fields of Sonora, TAVP President.

Various workshops in both large and small animal veterinary medicine were presented to seminar participants. The workshops were conducted by authorities distinguished in their field, said Fields.

Workshop topics include: equine orthopedics and pediatrics; current food therapy in food animals; interpretive diagnostics in small animal medicine; use and interpretation of laboratory medicine in equine and bovine practice; and immunity in small animal medicine.

In addition to workshops for veterinarians, the seminar included sessions for animal technicians, Fields said.

Speakers for the two-day seminar were Dr. Robert Bartsch, President of Southwest Veterinary Diagnostics, Phoenix, Ariz.; Dr. Robert Fiske, Assistant Pathologist with the Texas Veterinary Medical Diagnostic Laboratory, College Station; Dr. Lelve Gayle, Head of Diagnostic Services, Texas Veterinary Medical Diagnostic Laboratory, College Station; Dr. Jim. y Howard, Extension Veterinarian for Brucellosis, Texas A & M. College Station; and Dr. Don Reed McDonald, Practitioner of equine medicine, Sterling City.

The Texas Academy of Veterinary Practice is the continuing education arm of TVMA and was organized in 1970 for the veterinarian who seeks to promote and maintain the highest standards in the practice of veterinary medicine through participation in postgraduate education, said Fields.

Reports from Washington

Updating The Communications Act

Telecommunications is as critical to this nation as the central nervous system is to the human body. And telecommunications technology is changing at a pace that outstrips the law's ability to keep current. Deregulation is the key phrase as the new market defines itself and allows engineers to take this exciting new field into a challenging era.

Congress has now been urged to revamp the communications policy rather than have the regulatory agencies do so, or having lawsuits define the rules one case at a time.

Much has been written about the January settlement of the government's anti-trust case against American Telephone & Telegraph (AT&T) — the world's largest telephone company. Now a committee in the House of Representatives is considering H.R. 5158, a proposed law designed to update the Communications Act of 1934, which has become a regulatory dinosaur in the face of today's space-age technology.

This bill establishes a new method of government involvement as competition develops in the communications industry. A primary concern of the 15-member bill-writing committee was to assure that ratepayers and users did not suffer undue increases in their rates; that universal, uniformly high-quality telephone service would remain available to all Americans; and that AT&T's shareholders and employees would be protected during the company's restructuring.

As you have probably seen in both the national and local media, there is serious concern about the effect on local phone rates, continued good service, and even potential losses to stockholders. There is also concern that the January settlement does not adequately address these very basic issues.

There is universal agreement that some of the provisions in H.R. 5158 are necessary and desirable. But because the bill is so complex, it is equally controversial. AT&T and the Communications Workers of America have mounted major lobbying campaigns in opposition to the bill. They have argued that Congress should not consider comprehensive legislation while the matter is pending in the courts.

The company also asserts that the bill needlessly threatens the viability of the local telephone companies that are to be divested as part of the anti-trust case settlement.

Ironically, the 21st Congressional District reflects the many complex issues which the bill attempts to address. In our state-sized district, we have many different telephone companies which serve us: Southwestern Bell in the Bexar County and Midland areas, GTE in the San Angelo area, and many independent and cooperative telephone companies in the Hill Country and rural West Texas. We also have representatives of the data processing industry and representatives of major communications networks, all of which have differing views on various parts of the legislation.

I assure you that it is still too early in the legislative process on the House side to predict the outcome of H.R. 5158 with any certainty. To date, the bill has only been considered by the subcommittee; it must now be considered by the full Energy and Commerce Committee, where many changes could be made. It will then go to the House Floor — another opportunity for change — and then to conference for reconciliation with the Senate version, which passed last October by a vote of 90-4.

Should the bill reach the House Floor this session, it will be necessary for all Members of Congress to weigh the conflicting views and try to reach a consensus equitable for all concerned. My personal goal is to ensure that the final version provides universal telephone service to consumers at reasonable and affordable rates.

Telecommunications products and services in the future will play a critical role in revitalizing America's economic base by improving productivity and reducing manufacturing and service costs. Our economy increasingly depends on efficient, high-speed voice and data communications linking employees and computers across a city, across the country and internationally. Already we are seeing the first pulse beats of deregulation; but we have hardly yet begun.

High School Cheerleaders Named

leaders were elected for the 1982-83 school year: Casey Crites, Junior; Jennifer Spencer, Senior; Judy Merrill, Junior; Kristi Hill, Junior; Melanie Kelly, Junior; and Janice Gomez, Sophomore.

At a separate election following the varsity election, the following junior varsity cheerleaders were elected: Anita Balch, Sophomore; Becca Powers, Sophomore; and Gina Black, Sophomore.

Head cheerleaders for both squads will be chosen at a later date. This is the first year for junior varsity cheerleaders to be elected.

Beware Of Home Improvement Frauds

(The following article is a public service by the Devil's River News through the cooperation of Bill Mason, District Attorney and The Prosecutor Council. Its purpose is to make you aware of a prosecutor's role, of your responsibility as a resident of Sutton County and how we can work together to alleviate some of society's problems.)

Beware of Home Improvement Frauds

Whether it's repairing a leaky roof, putting on a new wing or contracting for a complete remodeling, the process of improving your home can be an economic nightmare for the unwary consumer. Through most of those in the home improvement business are honest, an alarming number use lies and deception to defraud millions of dollars from unsuspecting consumers every year.

What you want done: It's your home—you're the boss! The contractor works for you. The kinds of improvement, large or small must suit your needs, so plan ahead. Know what you want done. It's your decision, not his! Beware of door-to-door solicitors of the contractors who want to "sell" you improvements that you don't need or want for your home.

Who does the work: You're the boss; know whom you are hiring. Demand references such as other jobs and local suppliers, give them a call. Check to see if the contractor is licensed or bonded. Know where to find him—address, phone, license number, etc. Beware of the contractor who is reluctant to talk to you about his business or his former customers.

What papers to sign: It's your responsibility so make sure all promises are in writing: work to be done, quality of materials, total cost, completion time, etc. Take your time—you don't have to sign today. Know what you're signing:

mortgage? a loan contract? a promissory note? job contract? completion certificate? (This document means the job is finished, so never sign it until it is.) It's YOUR contract, so be sure it contains EVERYTHING YOU think is important. Read it and keep a copy of all papers. BEWARE of promises not in writing.

How you pay: It can be cheaper to arrange your own financing—you don't have to take the contractor's deal—shop for your money. BEWARE of the contractor who wants big payments of money from you before work is begun. It's your decision; but you can say "no".

How to control the job: Check the quality of the work and materials as the job progresses. Make sure you're getting what you pay for and don't pay until you get it. BEWARE! If your contractor doesn't pay subcontractors or suppliers, they sometimes can foreclose on your home.

Junior High Cheerleaders Elected

The following were elected Sonora Junior High School Colt Cheerleaders for the 1982-83 school year at an election held on April 29th: Eighth Graders are Jari Todd, Head Cheerleader; Gail Mesa; and Laura Sotelo; Seventh Graders are Gigi Speers; Julie Jackson; and Precia Miller.

Sixth Grade Tours Ranch

The sixth grade classes toured the Edwin Sawyer ranch and Bob Caruthers ranch Friday on their annual field tour.

"We're trying to make this an annual event. This is the second year we've had the tour," Tom Payton of the local Soil Conservation District said.

The tour was sponsored by the Sonora Independent School District and Edwards Plateau Soil and Water Conservation District in cooperation with the Texas Agriculture Extension Service, Texas A&M Experiment Station and Texas A&M University.

Instructors for the tour included:

Bob Knight, a graduate student at Texas A&M; Leo Merrill, Experiment Station; Preston Faris, County Extension Agent; Jake Landers, Area Range Specialist with Extension Services in San Angelo; Virgil Polocsek and Tom Payton, Local Soil Conservation District; Dwight Gwynn, Extension Wildlife Specialist from Uvlade; Mark Mosley and Willard Richter, San Angelo Soil Conservation Area Office; Fred Stumberg and John Wimberley, Eldorado Soil Conservation; Ralph Ward, Extension Communication Specialist; Sam Coleman, President of Texas Society of Range Management and Glen Fisher, Sonora Wool and Mohair. Present from the Edwards Plateau Board were Armer Earwood and Albert Ward. Other members are Scott Shurley, Bob Caruthers, and Bob Brockman. "Essentially three areas were covered: range management, Wildlife management, and cropland and soil demonstrations," said Tom Payton.

"In the cropland area, we tried to show soil types and formations water infiltration, conservation practices and soil erosion by wind and water," Payton added.

"In the range area, we demonstrated how to doze brush, showed water infiltration on good conditions land as compared to poor condition and controlling brush with fire.

"For the wildlife area, the classes were shown wildlife habitats, plants identified that were used by various wildlife, and showed how range and wildlife were intertwined," Payton said.

The classes ate a barbecue lunch at the Edwin Sawyer ranch. The meal was provided by the SISD and Edwards Plateau District Board.

After lunch, Preston Faris demonstrated shearing sheep and Armer Earwood discussed the economics and uses of wool from the ranching standpoint.

Glen Fisher discussed uses of mohair and showed samples of cloth made of mohair and told the children how the cloth was made.

Dwight Gwynn demonstrated turkey calls and showed how ages of turkey were told.

As a rap up of the tour, Mark Mosley gave a slide show on Rocky Creek in Tom Green County. The slide presentation was an example of how brush control and proper range management made Rocky Creek go back to life.

Underground Injection Program Approved

A new program proposed by the Railroad Commission to deal with the underground injection of fluids in the state's oil and gas fields has been approved by the federal Environmental Protection Agency.

The new program is effective today with publication in the Federal Register. Texas and Louisiana, which had a similar program approved today, are the first state to win federal certification for all types of injection wells.

The new program establishes permit requirements and standards for enhanced recovery and disposal wells and hydrocarbon storage facilities. It also provides for increased notice of injection well permit applications to local governments and other interested persons.

The technical standards include requirements for casing and cementing, tubing and valves, as well as for testing, reporting, monitoring and plugging. Review provisions for unplugged wells were also established.

Without federal approval of the RRC program, federal regulations as well as state regulations would apply to underground injection operations in Texas.

In recommending adoption of the program to the Commission last December, Examiner Glenn Jordan said that the RRC's program accomplishes "the main purposes of federal and state law--protection of fresh water and prevention of waste--without adopting federal UIC (underground injection control) rules."

Six Pipeline Permits Granted In March

Railroad Commission Chairman Jim Nugent announced that six permits to operate new pipelines in Texas were granted by the RRC in March 1982.

Through the first three months of this year, the Commission has granted 26 permits to operate new lines. For the same period last year, 36 permits were approved.

Two of the permits in March were for gathering pipelines, two were for trunk transmission lines, and two were for other purposes.

Gathering lines bring oil and gas from production leases, while a trunk transmission line is a larger diameter line into which smaller lines connect.

Four of the newly-permitted lines will transport gas, while one will move crude and another will transport petroleum products.

Private pipelines accounted for five of the permits last month. One is for a common carrier line.

Gathering lines approved:

Champlin Petroleum Co., Corpus Christi, products, Nueces County; Wesco Pipe Line Co., Denver, crude oil, Terry County. Trunk Transmission lines approved:

Link systems, Inc., Dallas, gas, Harris County; Liberty Natural Gas Co., Dallas, Gas, Grayson County.

Other lines approved: Estate of S.H. Killingsworth, Longview, Gas, Cass County; Southwestern Public Service Co., Amarillo, Lamb County.

Off-Shore Production Released

State leases in bays, inlets and the Gulf of Mexico produced 69,052 barrels of crude oil during February 1982, in contrast to 47,638 barrels in the same month of 1981 and 77,052 barrels in January 1982, according to Railroad Commission Chairman Jim Nugent. So far this year, state leases have produced 146,530 barrels of crude oil offshore.

Gas well gas production from state leases amounted to 15,907,569 Mcf in February against 18,476,644 Mcf a year earlier, 17,649,852 Mcf in January, and 33,557,421 Mcf so far this year.

Casinghead gas production totaled 200,856 Mcf in January, and 420,677 Mcf so far this year.

Condensate production from state leases amounted to 48,082 barrels in February, down from 70,876 barrels a year earlier and down from 52,016 barrels in January. So far this year, state offshore leases have produced 100,098 barrels of condensate.

In February, offshore crude production was less than 0.1 percent of total estimated crude production in Texas. Offshore gas well gas production was approximately four percent of the state total.

Wallace Urges Congress To Override Rejection

Texas Railroad Commission Mack Wallace urged Congress today to override the state of Washington's decision to reject the Northern Tier pipeline project. The remarks were delivered to oil industry representatives gathered in Midland for the Railroad Commission's monthly statewide oil and gas proration hearing.

Calling the pipeline "one of the most important energy projects of this decade," Wallace said the Northern Tier project is one of the measures needed to resolve the nation's energy problems.

The pipeline would have moved Alaskan crude oil 1,500 miles to refineries in other parts of the country. The governor of Washington cited concern for the state's coastal waters, calling them "a national treasure," when he rejected the Northern Tier project.

"I would caution that the treasure he is protecting becomes pale when measured against his nation's energy needs, unemployment and national security," Wallace said. "We have taken the risks in Texas--other states need to assume national citizenship also."

Wallace, the senior member of the Railroad Commission, once again called for the development of a clear cut national energy policy and urged the American public "demand the Congress take the energy steps necessary to free ourselves from foreign oil dependence--free ourselves economically, free ourselves strategically.

"The alleged 'Glut of Oil' has become a lullaby to rock to sleep not only the Congress, but the public as well. The price of gasoline goes down and stays there for a while and everyone forgets where it comes from," Wallace continued. "There can be no fuel glut in America until we produce one ourselves."

Thirty percent of the fuel for automobiles in this country comes from foreign sources he said, and the pipelines from those sources are "extremely vulnerable."

Quoting "A National Oil

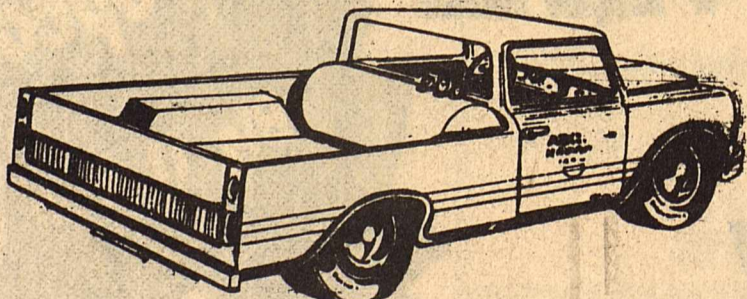

Policy for the United States" written by the National Petroleum Council over thirty years ago, Wallace said a policy on petroleum imports that will encourage development of the domestic industry and make a maximum supply of domestic oil available is needed.

"America's energy problems require resolution on an emergency basis," Wallace concluded.
