Board election settled out of court

BY JOAN LATTA

All seven seats on the Sonora ISD Board of Trustees will be up for grabs on April 6 as a result of a recent out-of-court settlement of a single-member district civil action filed against the district in the spring of 1984.

James Bible, superintendent of schools, said that the Board members decided on the advice of legal counsel and expert witnesses to submit the compromise agreement to the federal court in San Angelo. The agreement was approved by the judge as submitted, and United States Department of Justice pre-clearance is expected to go through without a hitch, according to a school administrative spokesman.

The election plan calls for four of the seven seats on the board to be elected from each of the four Sutton County precincts, and three will be chosen at large—that is, they will be chosen from the county-wide vote, as all trustees have been in the past.

This first time, all the at large members will serve three-year terms of office, and the four members elected from the four precincts will draw lots for the length of their terms. The two elected members who draw numbers one and two will serve for one year, and those drawing numbers three and four will serve for two years.

The agreement calls for a run-off election within 30 days of the April 6 election if any one candidate fails to get a majority of the votes cast within that precinct. In that case, the top two vote-getters in each precinct would run against each other for the seat on the board. The top three vote-getters for the at large seats will be declared the winners—no run-off will be required.

The members of the governing board for the school district have been elected under an at large, by-place system since 1971. The existing Board is composed of local veterinarian Dr. John Fields who is serving his second full term and is the board president; Kenneth V. Cayce, border patrolman, the secretary; and members Jimmy Condra, local business man; Rosemary Mathews, manager of a local savings and loan branch; barber Sam Perez; rancher Scott Shurley, and another local businessman, Carl Teaff.

Anyone wishing to file for a place on the school trustee ballot may do so by appearing in person at the school administration office, 807 South Concho, from Monday, February 4 through Wednesday, March 6, between the hours of 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. and weekday.

Any person filing for one of the four precinct seats must live within that precinct, or must move to that precinct within 90 days after the election. In future years, precinct residence will be a requirement at the time of filing for the office.

The third quarter went to the Lions 9-4 while the final stanza was even at 17 points each. The Sonora J.V. fems upped their season record to 18-3 as they escaped from Ozona Lion Country with a very narrow 38-37 win.

Gayann Dobbs led the Broncos with 21 points, Kathy Richter 6, Delma Chavez 4, Rachel Merck 3, Julie Jackson 2, and Alicia Sanchez 2.

The Broncos fell behind early as the Lions took a 7-6 first quarter lead and upped it to 20-13 at the halftime. The Broncos cut the lead to 27-24 at the end of three periods and then outscored the host Lions 14-10 the final eight minutes for the win.

The Sonora Varsity fems enter the last week of district play in a three-way tie for the second-half lead. Crane, Ballinger and Sonora are all 2-0 while Coahoma, Ozona and Colorado City are all 0-2.

The Bronco fems attained their 2-0 mark by downing the Ozona Lions 63-29. The Broncos came out hot hitting for a 14-4 first quarter lead and then upping it to 34-16 at halftime. The Broncos scored 29 second half points while holding the Lions to 13.

Debbie Bible led the Broncos with 17, Becca Powers and Gina Heffernan each had 8, Lea Whitehead and Carrie Sorenson and Kate Mathews each had 6, Debbie Shannon and Traci Cascadden each had 4, while Della Heffernan and Bonnie Jackson each had 2 points.

The Broncos were to host Ballinger Tuesday and then travel to Crane on Friday. They will probably have a make-up game with Colorado City either Saturday or next week.

Bullock said Tax Representative Al Butkovich will meet with local taxpayers in the County Clerk's Office at the Sutton County Courthouse from 11 a.m. to 12. "If Sonora area merchants, or anyone else for that matter, have any questions about state taxes or need help in preparing state tax forms, Butkovich will be there to assist them," Bullock said.

"We're trying to cut the red tape in this office, and we believe these face to face sessions with taxpayers help to do just that," Bullock added.

The San Angelo office serves San Angelo and surrounding counties.

A special meeting of the Sutton County Commissioners Court was held Monday, January 28 at the Sutton County Courthouse at 9 a.m.

The primary purpose for the meeting was to consider plans for development of the new Road and Bridge Department yard. However, a number of other matters were discussed and acted upon during a lengthy morning meeting. A recess was called at 11:45 a.m. for lunch. Afterwards, the Commissioners made a tour of the new yard.

The Court then decided to advertise for bids for approximately 2000 feet of chain link fence to enclose a part of the property.

It was decided to employ architect Gary Donelson to begin work on plans for new office and maintenance building for the Road and Bridge Department.

City gets check

Sonora received a check for $12,678.19 last week when State Comptroller Bob Bullock sent checks totaling $51.6 million on local tax payments on the 997 cities that levy the one-percent local sales tax.

Sonora's check is down only $248.18 from the same period last year and the year-to-date total is down only 1.92 percent. This accounts for the first check in 1985.

Eldorado's check of $3,395.58 is up $652.92 (or 23.81 percent) from the same period in 1984.

San Angelo received a check for $262,034.51, down $2,341.36 from the same period in 1984. That amounts to a decrease of .89 percent.

Del Rio's $57,910.93, up $5,112.60 over the same period last year for an increase of 0.68 percent.

"Statewide payments are up more than 15 percent over last January's checks, mostly because of the new items brought under the sales tax by the Legislature last summer," Bullock said. Bullock cautioned city governments not to expect similar increases for the rest of 1985. "The cuts we've had to make in expected state revenues are coming from the slump in the oil industry and reduced receipts from oil companies aren't yet reflected in these payments," Bullock added that sales taxes from a disappointing Christmas retail season are due in payments to cities next month.

Houston's check was the largest payment—$8.6 million—compared to $8.2 million received in January 1984. Dallas received $6.7 million, up 24 percent from the $5.4 million sent last year. San Antonio's payment of $3.1 million is 22 percent more than 1984's $2.5 million.

Austin received $2.6 million, up 33 percent from the $1.9 million last January. Fort Worth's check for $1.8 million was a 12 percent increase over last year's $1.6 million. El Paso's payment was $1.2 million, a 20 percent increase over the $1 million last January.

Bullock also sent checks totaling $20.6 million to the state's four Metropolitan Transit Authorities. Houston's MTA received $9.9 million, compared to $9.5 million last January. Dallas' DART check was for $8.6 million and San Antonio VIA received $1.6 million, up from $1.4 million last January. The Fort Worth Transit Authority received $439,200.

January checks represent taxes collected on sales in November and reported to the Comptroller by December 20.

garbage trucks for rear collection.

During the morning session Commissioners designated official holidays for County employees for 1985. County holidays will be Memorial Day, May 27; Independence Day, July, 4 and 5; Labor Day, September 2; Thanksgiving, November 28 and 29; Christmas, December 24 and 25 and New Years Day, January 1.

A motion was made to construct a sidewalk across the Courthouse lawn to the rear of the new County Annex. Since there is no public entrance to the rear of the new building, the motion was withdrawn.

The location of the Probation Office was discussed. Gene Upshaw, Chief Probation Officer from Fort Stockton, objected to plans to put the office in the County Jail. He had no objection to the present location, therefore it was decided to leave it there subject to approval of the Sheriff.

Gulf Coast Governors decry drug smuggling

The governors of the five Gulf Coast states met recently in New Orleans and adopted a resolution calling for a greater U.S. Defense Department role in protecting national borders against drug trafficking.

I called the meeting because the Gulf Coast states are losing the war against narcotics, and the casualties are as staggering as anything recorded since the Vietnam War.

In Texas today, 700,000 people need drug abuse treatment, and 14,000 young people become drug abusers each year. Texas prisons are filled with inmates who abused drugs before they abused the law. An alarming 45 percent of all Texas bank robberies are committed by drug users-and that is not surprising considering that narcotics addicts may need $50,000 a year to support their habit.

Texas' lengthy coastline and 1,200 miles of shared international border with Mexico make it a prime target for drug smugglers. The Texas Department of Public Safety seized more than $300 million worth of drugs in 1984-a six-fold increase over the previous year.

Over the past several years, the multi-agency drug enforcement efforts in South Florida have caused the cocaine distribution routes to shift westward along the Gulf Coast. Last August, DPS officers in Houston seized approximately 1,000 pounds of cocaine with an estimated street value of $210 million-making that bust the largest in the state's history. In the first nine months of 1984, DPS seized 12 times more cocaine than in all of 1983 and reported a 30 percent increase in marijuana seizures. Only a few weeks ago, the Mexican government found and destroyed 11,000 tons of marijuana in a small town across the border from Presidio-all of which was targeted for trafficking in Texas.

The governors of Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, and Florida agree that a coordinated regional strategy is needed to combat the drug problem. We also agree that the federal government needs to do more to protect the Gulf Coast states' borders against narcotics trafficking.

Our resolution to Congress calls on the federal government to channel the seized assets of drug smugglers into a new fund to underwrite the cost of drug control efforts.

Gulf coast governors are also insisting the military take a more active role in using sophisticated radar equipment to apprehend drug smugglers.

The United States is spending an unprecedented amount of taxpayers' dollars on a national defense, but our lack of defense against an invasion of drugs raises serious questions about our country's ability to stave off any kind of military attack.

How can we ever hope to stop sophisticated aircraft from entering this country, when we cannot pick up a single-engine plane making a nightly run of cocaine into Texas? We need to apply our most advanced military technology to combat the drug invasion.

States have a major responsibility in this area, and my budget proposal calls for spending $1.5 million over the next two years to hire 20 additional narcotics investigators and support staff. I also support adopting a strong state anti-racketeering statute to take the profits out of drug trafficking.

With greater federal assistance in policing our borders, the Gulf Coast states can win the war on drugs.

South. Animal Control Officer logged 40 hours during this period picking up 4 dogs and 2 cats.

A business meeting was held after the dinner and Mr. and Mrs. Arturo Trevino and Mr. and Mrs. Claude Flores were named as co-directors for 1985.

board members, as approved, will be: Jim Garrett, Debbie Bounds, Tryon Fields, Frank Gamboa, Sam Mata and Diane Keller.

A considerable amount of discussion was devoted to the question of drilling water wells for the County Park, Cemetery, and Road and Bridge Yard. It was pointed out last year the water bill for the cemetery was about $6000 and has been increasing about $150 per year. The park used about $3500 worth of water. It was estimated that adequate wells would cost about $20,000 to bring into operation.

A motion by Commissioner Keel to advertise for bids to drill, case and test wells for the cemetery and park. The motion carried three to one.

It was decided to move the Emergency Response System for elderly or infirm persons to Hudspeth Memorial Hospital. Hospital authorities have agreed to operate the system.

A long-standing dispute between the County and the Internal Revenue Service was resolved. The IRS won. The tax men have been insisting that money was due from Emergency Medical Service deductions dating back to when the EMS was operating out of the hospital. The County has argued that the apparent discrepancy was not what the IRS claimed but finally capitulated when the IRS threatened to impound County funds and confiscate its property! A motion to pay the IRS under protest carried.

Now what would the IRS do with a county? Anyone out there want to buy one?

Arbor Day Foundation to give free trees

The National Arbor Day Foundation is giving ten free shade trees to people who join the nonprofit Foundation during February, 1985.

A Sugar Maple, Weeping Willow, Red Oak, Green Ash, Thornless Honeylocust, Pin Oak, Silver Maple, Tulip Tree, European Mountainash, and Red Maple tree will be given as part of the Foundations campaign to encourage tree planting.

These trees were selected because they provide flowers, berries and nuts, in addition to shade and beauty, according to John Rosenow, the Foundation's executive director.

The Foundation will give the ten free trees to members contributing $10 during February. The six-to-twelve inch trees will be shipped this spring between February 1 and May 31 when conditions are right for planting. They will be sent with enclosed planting instructions, and are guaranteed to grow or they will be replaced free by the Foundation.

To become a member of the Foundation and to receive the free trees, a $10 membership contribution should be sent to SHADE TREES, National Arbor Day Foundation, 100 Arbor Avenue, Nebraska City, NE 68410, by February 28, 1985.

Loeffler attacks IRS regulations

Congressman Tom Loeffler today introduced legislation, which was co-sponsored by 13 other members of the Texas delegation, to immediately repeal the new record-keeping requirements imposed by the Internal Revenue Service on all taxpayers who use personal property for business purposes.

The new requirements went into effect January 1 of this year. "These idiotic requirements are the trivial pursuit by the Internal Revenue Service of the most minute details in the daily lives of millions of honest, hard-working, taxpaying American businessmen and women. Such regulations represent nothing less than punitive harassment," said Congressman Loeffler.

In the past, business taxpayers could claim business deductions by reasonably reconstructing their expenses. Under the new guidelines, a business taxpayer is required to keep a record each time the property is used.

"Taxpayers using motor vehicles in their businesses, for example, are now required to keep exact odometer readings each time the vehicle is used for a business purpose--a needless activity and a waste of valuable time," said the Congressman.

"We are trying to reduce government interference in our daily lives--not add to the burden. This is a back-breaking exercise for millions of honest taxpaying Americans--from ranchers and farmers, to small businesses, to law enforcement officials." Adding that "compliance with and respect for our tax system is not well-served by such intrusive record-keeping requirements," Loeffler called for swift passage of his bill.

Churches to greet delegates

A full agenda, including resolutions concerning the Episcopal Church's relationship with the National Council of Churches of Christ, will greet delegates to the 81st Annual Council of the Episcopal Diocese of West Texas, convening in San Antonio Thursday, February 14, for a three-day meeting.

Approximately 1000 persons from Churches in the 60-county diocese, including lay delegates and alternates, clergy and visitors, are expected to participate in one or more functions of the conclave, the Rt. Rev. Scott Field Bailey, Bishop of West Texas, has announced.

Ramblin' Raun Outdoors

BY JERRY RAUN

Ducks are pretty scarce in this part of the world and duck hunters may even be rarer. However, if there are any hardy souls who enjoy the miseries of duck hunting, they are aware of how difficult it is to stay legal unless one is a lousy shot.

Migratory waterfowl are under federal jurisdiction and nothing can fowl up a good thing faster than a federal regulatory agency. True, the game laws are designed for the protection and preservation of the game not the hunter. This is as it should be because a number of waterfowl species are in need of protection. The fact that hunting has had little to do with their plight is of little importance.

No matter, the complicated point system that determines bag limits of ducks is enough to make anyone who worries about being legal hang up his shotgun forever. A trained ornithologist has trouble identifying flying ducks with the aid of high powered binoculars. Over the sights of a shotgun it is almost impossible. Even with the bird in your hand it is not always easy to know how many points you have.

Ducks probably do not concern many people reading this paper but fish do. Fishing has always been a relatively uncomplicated pastime in Texas. It has not been too difficult to stay legal. Possession of a valid license has been the major criterion.

However, things are changing. If you decide to try your luck in new lakes you had better start checking with the game warden for local regulations. Some recent changes in Texas Parks and Wildlife regulations pertaining to several Texas impoundments are getting angler's attention.

Bass fishermen beware! Most of the new rules pertain to you although those who fish for other species are not immune.

It is enough to make a grown man cry. Imagine, if you can, hooking onto a monster large mouth bass larger than any you have ever caught. After a heart-pounding battle you get your prize in the boat. It measures 20½ inches and weighs 8½ pounds. Turn it loose! It isn't legal.

Does this sound like a nightmare? It isn't-not if you are fishing in Lake Braunig just south of San Antonio. New regulations for Lake Braunig specify a 21 inch minimum and two bass per day limit! An 8½ pound lunker could easily fall below the length requirements!

Bob Kemp, director of fisheries for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, recently announced that the new size and limit restrictions for Lake Braunig is only one of a number of regulation changes affecting power plant lakes in Texas. According to Kemp, Lake Braunig has not been a "high pressure lake for bass fishing" since most fishermen there are after redfish or other species. "For that reason, the department will manage black bass in the lake to attain very large sizes."

Power plant lakes are different in many ways than other impoundments and Lake Braunig is no exception. For unknown reasons black bass do not reproduce naturally in the lake. Fertilized eggs and young fish introduced into the lake do well and are capable of reaching trophy sizes. The lake is very high in nutrients and forage fish are abundant. Kemp said, "Due to the high forage base, Braunig bass can attain trophy sizes in as little as four years."

Bass fishermen who are only interested in trophies or a possible state record will find Lake Braunig a challenge. Those of us who prefer to eat our catch may have to try elsewhere.

Those of you who could care less about bass are probably yawning and saying "so what". Well, watch out! The Parks and Wildlife Department is in the process of considering a number of regulation changes that could affect lakes all over the state and will also affect other species of fish including crappie, catfish, white bass, striped bass and hybrids. More about this later.

What must I do to be Saved ?

by Jon Bratton, pastor, Live Oak Baptist Church

In the book of Acts, chapter 16, a man asked a very important question. In a traumatic time, he asked the most important question anyone could ask. "What must I do to be saved?" The answer could mean the difference between Heaven and Hell.

The Bible says, "For all have sinned and come short of the glory of God." Romans 3:23. In order for us to get to heaven on our own, we must be perfect, which is the way God created us. But none of us is perfect any longer. Some may be worse than others but none is perfect. We all fall short.

God puts a price on our sin. Romans 6:23 says, "For the wages of sin is death..." Just as surely as your boss pays you for a days work, your sin demands a price. The price for sin, just one imperfection (if indeed you have only one!), is death or separation for God. If you speed on the highway and get caught, you pay a fine. God always knows when you break His law. Romans 5:8 says, "But God commandeth (showed) His love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us..." As a father might pay the ticket for his sons speeding, Christ payed the price for our sin because He loves us. We are still sinners, but the penalty has been paid.

The answer to that all important question, "What must I do to be saved?", is given in Romans 10:13. "For whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved." It's just that simple. God has already done the work. He only wants us to admit that we are sinners and ask him to save us from our sins, believing that he can. The rest is up to Him.

You may pray and ask God to save you right now. If you do so, or if you want to talk to someone about it, please call me, Jon Bratton, at 387-2377.

Reports from Washington

The Upcoming Arms Talks

President Reagan believes that there is no more important goal to be achieved during his second term than to reduce and ultimately eliminate nuclear weapons.

To underscore the importance he places on this issue, the President chose to meet early on the first official working day of his second term with the three Americans he has charged with pursuing the goal of true arms control.

The negotiating team, which begins discussions with the Soviet Union in Geneva on March 12, is composed of individuals who bring a unique blend of substantive diplomatic and political acumen to the bargaining table. It is a bipartisan team which offers the skills necessary to achieve their goal.

Heading the team is Max Kampelman, noted lawyer and seasoned negotiator, who will lead discussions on space weaponry. Senior Foreign Service Officer Maynard Glitman will lead the talks on reducing intermediate range weapons. And, leading negotiations on the reduction of strategic weapons is the former senior Senator from our own State of Texas, John Tower, who chaired the Senate Armed Services Committee until his retirement in January.

As one who first came to Washington to work for Senator Tower — and who considers him both a mentor and close friend — I know personally of the unique and exceptional strength he brings to the team.

John Tower's intimate knowledge of weapon systems, his firm determination to protect our nation's military strength, and his much-recognized military expertise, honed over 24 years in the Senate, will prove invaluable assets in the months ahead. More than any other negotiator, John Tower's name sends a clear signal to the Soviet Union — and to the world — that the United States, while seeking genuine reductions in arms, will grant no concessions that might jeopardize our nation's security. Furthermore, as a realistic skeptic on arms control agreements of the past, John Tower's support of any final agreement would be a clear indication that the President's goals are attainable.

As we proceed, it must be with the clear understanding that the negotiating process will be lengthy. Due to today's increasingly sophisticated weapons technologies, the problem confronting the negotiators is how to accurately verify that both sides are in compliance with agreed-upon reductions. Additionally, I do not believe that it is in our nation's best interests to even consider unilaterally abandoning such systems as the MX or our research into the Strategic Defense Initiative — as some suggest.

These weapons advances are what brought the Soviets to the bargaining table. To abandon them now would give the Soviets what they want and would give us nothing in return. Only by negotiating from a position of strength can we ensure that it is in the Soviet's best interests to reduce — and eventually eliminate — their nuclear arsenals.

Bentsen opposes punishment

Senator Lloyd Bentsen served notice last week that he will oppose efforts to have the federal government punish states, like Texas, that have low taxes and reward those with high tax rates.

Bentsen made his views known in a letter advising Senator David Durenberger (R-Minn.), Chairman of the Senate Finance Subcommittee on Health, that he will oppose any formula change for Medicaid funds that would reduce the amount Texas receives.

"I read with interest, and considerable concern, your comment in the December 10, 1984 issue of MEDICINE & HEALTH that 'some states are not getting enough money' under the current funding formula for Medicaid," Bentsen said.

"Given our discussions on this issue in the past, I assume it is your intention to seek changes in allocation formulas that would have the effect of taking Medicaid support away from states such as Texas and redirecting these funds to North-eastern and Midwestern states."

"There has long been a feeling among some in Washington that the Federal government should reward those states that have high state and local taxes by giving them a proportionately larger share of federal funds."

The latest effort to advance this cause is the proposal to base federal funding formulas on the Representative Tax System (RTS). This is a somewhat more sophisticated approach, attempting among other things to calculate the value of some natural resources in a given state (while excluding others), but the end result would be the same. The federal government would reward those states and local areas that have higher taxes and punish those with lower taxes."

"In my home state of Texas, the General Accounting Office has estimated that application of an RTS formula to programs such as General Revenue Sharing and Vocational Education would result in a loss of nearly 20 percent of current federal funding, or approximately $52 million a year in those two programs alone."

"The current Medicaid funding formula is based on per capita income and is recalculated every three years. I don't maintain that this is a perfect formula. I do feel, however, that it far more accurately and equitably assesses the need for Medicaid services than would a formula which will ultimately reward those states with high taxes and punish those with low taxes," Bentsen said.

"I will continue to oppose to the utmost any proposal to use federal largesse to pressure the State of Texas to increase taxes. I would very much wish to be an active participant in any hearings you may hold," Senator Bentsen said.

Beef skirt steak used frequently for fajitas

Texas industries must compete with Japanese technology and now Texas meat consumers must also compete with Japanese appetites for beef skirt steak.

The beef skirt steak now so popular for fajitas used to be thrown away by meat wholesalers or ground into hamburger, says Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service nutritionist Mary K. Sweeten.

But prices for skirt steaks have increased from 49 cents a pound in 1976 to between $1.79 and $2.79 a pound in 1985. One reason for the price rise is the fajitas craze in Texas and other parts of the country, she says.

"The demand for beef skirts in Japan has also risen sharply in the last decade, driving up the prices," Sweeten explains. The Japanese buy about 90 percent of America's production of beef skirts, which do not fall under the beef quotas set by Japan on American beef because they are classified as variety cuts.

Sweeten says "inside" beef skirts from the hindquarter and "outside" skirts from the forequarter of the animal are distinguished in the wholesale meat trade. However, at the meat counter the cut is usually labeled simply as "skirt steak," and most sold in retail stores are inside skirts.

The outside skirt is usually the more palatable of the two cuts, notes the specialist. Research at Texas A&M University indicates that the outside skirts are more tender and have higher overall ratings for flavor and tenderness than the inside beef skirts, she reports.

Given the foreign and domestic demand for this cut of beef, consumers aren't likely to find more outside skirt steak in the supermarkets soon, Sweeten predicts.

She advises compensating for a less tender inside skirt steak by cutting diagonally across the grain of the meat first in one direction and then the other, pounding it to break down the connective tissue.

Marinating the skirt steak in a food acid such as lime juice, lemon juice or vinegar for several hours or overnight also increases tenderness and enhances the flavor.

ASU wool judging team captures championship

Angelo State University's wool judging team captured the team championship at the National Western Stock Show and Collegiate Wool Judging Contest for the second consecutive year and for the third time since 1980.

According to Dr. Gil Engdahl, sponsor of the team, the win at the Denver Colorado show earlier this month enables Angelo State to permanently keep the challenge trophy which goes to the winner of the competition.

"Three wins by any one team and you get to keep the trophy," said Engdahl. Colorado State University was Reserve Team Champion, the University of Minnesota placed third, Texas Tech was fourth and the University of Wyoming was fifth.

Members of the championship team from Angelo State are Scott Porter from Fort Stockton, Randall Jenkins from San Angelo, Jonama Cox from Stanton, Jo Elynn Rose from Del Rio and Bonnie Lou Mayer from Sonora.

In addition to the team victory at the show, Cox won high individual honors in grading class and teammate Jenkins was second.

Angelo State also took four of the top five individual places in the wool judging competition. Jenkins was runnerup in individual wool judging contest with Cox placing third, Porter fourth and Rose fifth. In the placing classes competition Porter was fourth place.

Angelo State will participate in the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo Collegiate Judging Competition the weekend of March 1.

CLIFTON RECEIVES AWARD

Tom Clifton (left) was awarded a certificate of appreciation last week by the local chapter of the American Heart Association for his chairmanship of the Annual Turkeywalk held last November. The certificate was "thanks" for the hard work that Clifton put into the fundraising and the gathering of prizes. Tom Payton (right) stated that the local chapter is now 100 percent over the funds raised for the same time in 1984 and there are several months left. (Staff Photo--CLJ)

A Budget-Balancing Amendment

Year in and year out, in prosperity and in recession, the Federal Budget seems to end up in deficit. Spending has exceeded revenues in every year except one since 1960, and the Treasury is forced to make up the difference by borrowing.

Eleven years ago, the Congress passed a budget act that it thought would impose a sterner discipline on its own spending practices. However, annual deficits have persisted and borrowing to finance each year's deficit continues to drive the cumulative federal debt steadily upward.

Obviously, the framework and budget restraint mechanisms established in the 1974 Congressional Budget Act have not resulted in the anticipated and necessary fiscal restraint. If we consider that in the first 200 years of our nation's existence we ran up a national debt of $500 billion — coupled with the fact that this figure has more than doubled since 1976 — it is obvious that spending is not under control. This incredible, rapid drain on our nation's financial resources simply must be stopped.

Because Congress has not demonstrated the will to control deficit spending and live within a budget — as all responsible Americans do — you, the long-suffering taxpayers have sought relief by urging that an amendment be added to our Constitution requiring a balanced budget.

As a reflection of this popular sentiment in favor of a balanced budget, 32 state legislatures — including our own State of Texas — have adopted resolutions calling for a Constitutional Convention on this issue. According to Article V of our Constitution, such a convention is to be convened by the Congress following the requesting petitions of two-thirds — or 34 — of the states. Today only two more states are needed.

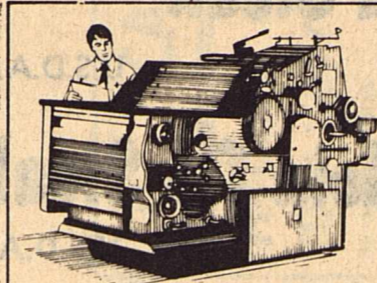

I share the great indignation of the American people, who are clearly fed up with irresponsible spending policies. Because of my strong commitment to a responsible fiscal policy, I have long supported a balanced budget amendment and have already joined with over 100 of my colleagues in the 99th Congress in co-sponsoring H.J. Res. 27, which calls for a balanced budget amendment. With such support so early in the session, coupled with the support of President Reagan in his Inaugural Address, I hope that the measure will be considered quickly.

The time has come for Congress to face the facts — and to respond to the will of the American people. Because Congress has clearly demonstrated that it cannot exert needed self-discipline, that discipline must be imposed through a Constitutional amendment. Our past actions leave us no other choice.

Some people used to believe that hanging a branch of mistletoe on the ceiling would protect them from harm in general, and fire in particular.

Early 19th century French looms were controlled by punched cards that were the forerunners of those used in modern data storage systems.
