County extends July 25 invitation

Thursday, July 25 from 4 until 6 p.m. you will get a chance to see the new building on the corner across from the post office. The Sutton County Commissioners' Court will host an open house and ribbon cutting for the newly constructed courthouse annex and the newly remodled

The building was built in 1891 on the courthouse square which was donated by R.W. Callahan to the city of Sonora and the county.

Sutton County was actually created in 1887 from Crockett County and was named after Lt. Col. John S. Sutton of the 7th Texas Cavalry of the Confederate States of America.

There was a struggle between Winkler's Well and Sonora for the position of county seat. According to historical records, Winkler's Well was already better situated, had superior terrain, a greater potential for development in its area, and a dependable water

However in early 1889 a water well was drilled on the courthouse square which solved Sonora's water problem. At about the same time Charlie Adams, credited as the founder of Sonora, and some of his associates began to give lots to anyone who would build on it.

Each home that was built meant more voters for Sonora as county seat and in the election of 1890, Sonora was granted that privilege.

Winkler's Well, which had changed its name to Wentworth in an apparent attempt to gain support of P.A. Wentworth owner of the Ft. Terrett Ranch, slowly vanished and was gone by the early 1900's. The following is a summary of what Sutton County Texas will be the place to be in 986 for active athletes as well as the "armchair" vatiety, when the state plays host to several major sports events planned especially for the Sesquicentennial. The latest of these, a convocation of amateur athletic events called the Texas Games, will soon be "signed up" with the Sesquicentennial Commission as an official event.

The Sesquicentennial will provide the ideal vehicle to launch the first Texas Games, based on an idea for a state amateur athletic event that was first proposed to the Texas Legislature in 1983, said Association Executive Director Joe Wilson. The inaugural Texas Games will be hosted by the city of San Antonio July 25-27 and August 1-3, 1986, and will become a yearly event thereafter.

The Games will consist of the following events: adult baseball, youth and adult boxing, youth and adult golf, men's fast pitch and men's and women's slow pitch softball, youth swimming, youth and adult tennis, youth and adult track and field, and a 10,000 meter run for all ages. A number of other non-competition "demonstration" events, such as polo and soccer, will also be features and will be considered as competitive events for future Games, said Wilson. Events will be held at various city and private locations throughout San Antonio, and will be hosted by the San Antonio Parks and Recreation Department. "The Texas Games are also a part of the San Antonio Sesquicentennial Commission's overall sports program," said Wilson. The Games are ecpected to draw some 15,000 athletes, and many more officals and other events coordinators. Participants will be those perons who qualified earlier in district events held in each of the Association's state regions.

The Texas Games will open with a gala celebration similar to that of the Olympic games, said Wilson. "We hope to have some kind of torch carrying event, perhaps from the Capitol in Austin to San Antonio, and there will be bands, fireworks, hot air balloons, and other festivities."

For more information about the Texas Games, conact Wilson at 512/835-1434.

Social Security helping the homeless

One of the challenges facing Social Security and other social welfare agencies designed to provide income and assistance to people in need is the plight of the homeless. How to help homeless persons apply for Supplemental Security Income (SSI) payments or Social Security benefits has become a special outreach project of the Social Security Administration (SSA).

Because many of the homeless suffer from disabling conditions or are 65 or older, they may be expected to qualify for SSI, which makes monthly payments to needy people age 65 and over or blind or disabled. Others may qualify for Social Security retirement, disability, or survivors benefits.

In response to the special problems of the homeless-the difficulty in applying and finding evidence and the lack of a permanent address for check delivery--Social Security has established special procedures for dealing with the homeless. These include taking claims and conducting interviews at facilities that provide services to the homeless--shelters, churches, and so forth. In addition, we are attempting to establish liaison with shelters and other organizations serving the homeless to make sure Social Security services are available. Many organizations working with the homeless may not be aware of how Social Security rules make it possible for them to play an important role in assuring a homeless person a source of income. For example, Social Security has a pre-release program under which it will work with mental institutions to insure that a person being considered for release qualifies for SSI payments

Barr stressed that we need to ask: What time and season is it from God's viewpoint?

Barr said the handwriting is on the wall. Referring to the days of Daniel of the Bible, he reminded the audience that God's finger wrote the words of doom for Babylon on the wall. At that very moment the Medo-Persian armies were invading the city through gates left carelessly open.

Barr implied that when God decides to act, nothing can stop Him. Divine intervention, he said, is based upon God's own time-table.

filed a petition recently with the Public Utility Commission of Texas asking permission to refund $13.7 million in fuel costs savings and interest to its retail customers.

Glen D. Churchill, WTU president and chief executive officer, said the refund is possible because of efforts by the Company to reduce production costs by obtaining cheaper boiler fuel and buying available economy power from other companies. As a result, WTU has actually been able to spend less for power plant fuel than was anticipated when the fuel factors were established by the

The savings have accumulated since August 1984 when the fuel recovery account was last reconciled by the Commission. The total available for refunding includes $12.6 million in actual savings, plus an estimated $1.1 million in interest.

"We want to pass these savings on to our customers as quickly as possible in order to bring some relief during the season of hot weather and high utility bills," Churchill said. "While we are not yet due for a reconciliation, we are voluntarily asking permission to make refunds now.

Since 1983, electric customers in Texas have been charged for fuel according to fixed fuel factos set by the PUC. This method of fuel cost recovery was ordered by the PUC to replace the automatic monthly fuel adjustment which matched fuel billings to fuel expense immediately and under which utilities had operated for many years.

Under present rules, a reconciliation of the fuel costs may be required a year after the factors are fixed, but adjustment are possible sooner if actual fuel costs are substantially above or below the amount being charged.

"Over the past several months, the Company has made considerable savings by purchasing surplus power from other companies cheaper than WTU could generate it, and by taking advantage of a softer natural gas market," Churchill said.

Natural gas is the principal fuel for all of WTU's eight major power generating stations. In recent years, fuel costs have amounted to more than half of WTU's total operating revenues.

Much of the economy power being sought from other companies now comes through a new high voltage, direct current interconnection completed last December near Vernon. This facility allows WTU to import electricity from outside the state of Texas.

WTU proposes to make the refunds to existing customers through a one-time credit to their bills, commencing immediately after Commission approval. Refunding through bill credits would be more timely, efficient and cost effective than attempting to send customers checks, Churchill said.

The credit would be calculated on an individual customer basis using each customer's monthly kilowatt-hour consumption during the period involved.

Refund amounts will vary with the amount of customer's usage. The average residential customer is expected to receive about $32. The petition filed Tuesday is for an exception to PUC rules requiring a formal reconciliation procedure. A full fuel cost reconciliation for WTU is not due for several months.

Experience has shown that reconciliation proceedings are quite lengthy, delaying refunds reaching the customers. For this reason, the Company is asking the Commission to make an exception to its rules so that refunds can be made immediately during the hot summer season.

THE PIERCING LOOK

A recent survey among jewelers indicates that more than 80 percent of all earrings sold are for pierced ears. The younger the woman, the more likely it is that she will have pierced ears. Women feel secure wearing pierced earrings because they will not pull or slip off. Wearing earrings in pierced ears is very comfortable and one is hardly aware of them. Piercing ears is a simply, quick and painless process. For best results, experts suggest that the ears be pierced a little high on the lobe and that karat gold stubs be worn for about three weeks. After a few months, women with pierced ears can wear screwbacks, clipbacks or any kind or earring they Tedford Jewelry has a wide selection of diamond stud earrings, as well as studs with other precious and semi-precious stones--any of which are wardrobe basics. They can be worn alone, or enhanced by the addition of earring attachments to coordinate with a particular dress. See our collection today.

Hint: Screwback earrings can be adjusted to fit more easily than clipbacks.

Trailways announces family fare discounts

Trailways Lines, Inc. announced June 25 that a broad-based family discount travel program which allows children under 12 to ride free and children under 17 to ride half price on all Trailways schedules. As part of the program Trailways will donate a portion of the revenues from their "Family Fare" to the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children in Washington, D.C. According to Trailwalys Chairman, James L. Kerrigan, the donation will be "at least $25,000.

In making the announcement Mr. Kerrigan stated, "The prohibitive cost of traveling as a family has discouraged many Americans from taking trips in this country. We of course want to bolster our ridership, but we also want to encourage families to travel together; to take the kids along to share in the experience of discovering America."

The "Family Fare" program which will remain in effect through the end of 1985 allows one child, under 12-years-of-age, to travel with a full-fare paying parent free of charge. The program also allows one child 16 years-of-age or younger to travel with a full-fare paying parent for just half the standard fare. Thus, a family of four can travel for the price of two adult tickets if their children are under 12; and they can travel for the price of three if their children are over 12 but under 17.

Mr. Kerrigan stressed that the 'Family Fare' program would be free of restrictions usually associated with special discount fares. The program can be used on all Trailways schedules seven days per week with no reservations and no advanced purchase. He said he hoped to promote a "trend toward value" that would have far reaching impact on not only the bus industry, but all travel related industries.

"We're in an age where too many families are feeling the effects of career demands and the lack of quality family time," noted Kerrigan. "We want to make it easy and economical for families to get away, together, and share the positive experience of travel. We also can think of no better way to express our ongoing percentage of our revenues to the new National Center for Missing and Exploited Children in Washington, DC. We have had a rewarding relationship with the Center during its first year of operation and we hop that our donation will aid in a measurable way to their continuing good work, while setting an example other corporations might follow,' Kerrigan said.

Trailways Food Services, Inc., a subsidiary of the Trailways Corporation which operates restaurant facilities in selected Trailways Lines terminals will also offer a special beverage discount to families utilizing the "Family Fare."

"We hope that other entities within the spectrum of travel reated services will complement our effort to promote family travel," stated Kerrigan. "I'd like to see more companies offer programs that make it easy for families to ravel as a unit. It makes good business sense and it makes good sense for our customers."

Reminders for beneficiaries

If you receive Social Security or Supplemental Income (SSI) disability benefits, you should be aware of your rights and responsibilities. In this way, you can be assured of getting all benefits due you and of avoiding possible overpayments.

You can count on receiving benefits as long as you meet-all requirements. Be sure to promptly report events that may affect entitlement such as medical improvement, work activity, and (if you get SSI payments), change in income or resources.

Your case will be reviewed periodically to see if you still do meet basic requirements. Regarding your medical condition, benefits generally will continue unless there is evidence that your condition has improved enough so you can do substantial gainful work. But, there are exceptions to this such as: your ability to work has been restored through medical advances or vocational therapy; new or improved disability evaluation methods show you are not as disabled as previously thought; or certain other reasons involving work activity, fraud, and other situations.

If a decision is made that you are no longer disabled, you have appeal rights. For example, you can meet face-to-face with a deisionmaker during reconsideration which is the first appeal step to explain why you believe the decision is wrong and to submit additional evidence.

Also, you can have your benefits continued through the second appeal step. If you lose the appeal, generally you must repay any benefits that were not due you; however, you also have the right to request a waiver of any overpayment.

There are several special rules that can help you if you wish to try working again even though still disabled:

Trial work period -- Unless you have improved medically, you can continue to receive full benefits for up to 9 months while testing your ability to work. After the trial work period ends, a decision is made as to whether your work was "substantial and gainful". If it is, benefits end after a 3-month adjustment period. If it is not, payments continue.

Deductible work expenses --Most impairment-related work expenses you pay for can be deducted from earnings in deciding whether your earnings represent substantial gainful work.

Extended period of eligibility for disability -- If you stop work or your earnings drop below the substantial gainful activity level within 15 months after a trial work period, generally your benefits can start again without the need for a new application.

Continuation of Medicare -- If your Social Security checks stop because of work activity and you are still disabled, Medicare coverage generally can continue for 2 to 3 years after payments stop.

Continuation of SSI payments --If you get SSI payments and work while still disabled, in some cases your eligibility for SSI payments and Medicaid may continue even though your earnings represent substantial gainful activity. In some other instances, where your earnings are too high to receive monthly SSI benefits, you still may be eligible for Medicaid if you cannot work within health services and do not earn enough to pay for medical care.

For more information about your rights and responsibilities as a disabled beneficiary, contact the San Angelo Social Security Office at 2214 Sherwood Way. The tele-

SCOTTISH EGGS A FEATURE

Surrounded by regal tartans Mrs. Betty Lange of the Scottish Society of San Antonio offers some tasty scotch eggs to visitors at the Texas Folklife Festival August 1-4 who want to become Scots, even if just for the day. Discover the fascinating culture of the Scottish as Lange and nearly 6,000 participants share the folkway of their ancestors with more than 100,000 visitors. The Festival showcases the culture, ethnic and folk history of the more than 30 different ethnic groups who settled and developed the state and is sponsored by The University of Texas Institute of Texan Cultures on HemisFair Plaza in San Antonio.

Folklife Festival under way

According to an ancient Scottish proverb, there are but two kinds of people in the world--Scots and those who would like to be.

While this is surely a bit of an exaggeration, it isn't that far from the truth. For whether intrigued by the exotic customs, enchanted by the mythical tales of old, stirred by the haunting strains of bagpipes or charmed by the dashing costumes, many people have found themselves curiously captivated by the thought that they too might have ancestral ties to the legendary Highlands of Scotland.

People are always interested to know whether or not they belong to a clan," says Betty Lange, president of the Scottish Society of San Antonio. "And when it looks like they don't have one," she adds with a mischievious lilt to her musical Scottish brouge, 'they try even harder to find one.'

At the Texas Folklife Festival, scheduled for August 1-4, more than 100,000 visitors from across the state can be Scottish for a day even if they don't have a clan Sponosred by The University of Texas Institute of Texan Cultures and held on the Institute's grounds in downtown San Antonio, the Festival is an annual celebration of the state's ethnic diversity and pioneer heritage. An extension of the Institute's role as a statewide learning and communication center concerned with the history, culture and folklore of Texas, the Festival showcases the more than 30 ethnic groups who helped settle and develop the Lone Star State.

The Scottish Society of San Antonio, which has been involved in the Festival since 1972, has nearly 300 members, many of who are native born Scots. Lange points out, however, that membership in the society is open to anyone interested in preserving the history and culture of Scotland. "You don't have to be Scottish, you just have to like things Scottish," she says with a smile.

This same attitude of friendliness and cultural exchange permeates the Festival as society members invite visitors to experience and enjoy "things Scottish." Like the setting in a Sir Walter Scott novel, the society's booth creates the aura of Scotland in its most glorious era. The stately castle is filled with tartan-clad lads and lassies busily preparing to welcome their honored guests.

For refreshments, visitors can partake of such enticing edibles as fish and chips, scotch eggs, shortbread and haggis balls, a Texas version of a traditional Scottish dish. Haggis gained its reputation as a symbol of Scottish pride in the common man from a poem written by the national bard of Scotland,

At annual Burn's night celebrations held by Scottish societies all over the world, haggis is more than just the main dish. In fact, it's treated as the guest of honor, ushered in "wi' a skirl o' the pipes" and served with great ceremony. Such reverence for the haggis has inspired the creation of all sorts of fanciful tales about its meaning and origin which the Scots, with their delightful tongue-in-check humor, relate quite convincingly.

Good food and whimsical stories aside, a visit to a Scottish castle wouldn't be complete without a little pipe music to fill the air and members of the Houston Highlanders are happy to oblige. While the Highlanders like to suprise visitors with an occasional rendition of "The Eyes of Texas," traditional Scottish pipe tunes are the mainstay of their repertoire.

From the classic strains of "Piobaireachd" to the lighter melodies known as "ceol beag," the music of the pipes has played a significiant role in Scottish culture since the 16th century. As a highly respected member of the clan it was the piper's duty to commemorate important occasions with appropriate compositions. Consequently, the bagpipe music of Scotland is extremely varied. Wild marches conjure up images of clansmen as they stride into battle; mournful laments memorialize fallen chieftans; and gay jigs bring back happier times such as weddings

It is, however, more than music that keeps the legends of each clan alive. Throughout Texas and the United States clan associations have been developed by immigrants and their descendants to maintain historical and cultural ties with the Scotland of old. Several clan representatives are on hand at the Festival's Scottish castle to help visitors find out if they might have a Scot or two among their ancestors.

Representatives also explain to visitors the significance of clan tartans. According to L.A. and L.E. Geddes, authors of "Wearin' o' the Tartan," no one is sure exactly when tartans became badges of family identity but most historians agree that they probably developed first as district dress and later came to denote clan relationships. The word tartan, derived from the Gaelic "tarstin" meaning across, refers to the distinctive "sett," or pattern created by threading the warp (which runs the length of the fabric) and weft (which runs across) identically. This method of weaving results in an arrangement in which each color appears not only its pure form, but also in an equal blend which every other color.

In earlier days the use of tartans was governed by definite rules as to who had legitimate rights to wear them and how they were to be displayed. But today the guidelines are much more lenient and identifiable tartans are showing up in some rather interesting places. "I see a lot of the Wallace tartan being used these days, mostly on some very nice pieces of luggage," quips Lance.

At the Festival the many hues of Scotland are all around--in the regal kilts of the Houston Higlanders and the San Antonio Scottish Rifles and in the tartan banners which drape the scene at the Scottish castle. But more than just reminders of Scotland's glorious past, the colorful tartans serve as symbols of the ways in which Scots and their culture have been woven into the pattern of Texas history.

The last chapter in the Festival's Scottish novel is found in the Institute's exhibit which describes contributions made by Scottish Texans to the growth and development of the state.

Here visitors can learn about the influence of such individuals as Jesse Chisholm, who blazed the famous wagon trail from Kansas to Oklahoma; Rev. John McCullough, organizer of the first Texas Presbytery; Dr. George Cupples, who estabilshed the first Texas Medical Association; the skilled stone cutters brought to Texas in 1885 to complete construction of the new state capitol; the businessmen who inspired the birth of the Texas cattle industry through their investments in major ranching enterprises such as the Matador Land and Cattle Co.; and the many others who helped shape the state's rich heritage.

Tickets for the 1985 Texas Folklife Festival are $5 for adults and $1 for children ages 6-12. Children under six are admitted free. For more information, or to order tickets, write the Texas Folklife Festival, Institute of Texan Cultures, P.O. Box 1226, San Antonio, Texas 78294, or call (512) 226-7651.

The children of working mothers also have as much attachment to their moms as the children of non-working mothers have to

Even during the often-troubled teenage years, a mother's employment alone seems to have little impact. The researchers say that within the entire range of behavior from marijuana smoking to attitudes toward school and parents, there's almost no difference between teens with working mothers and those whose mothers don't work.

Teenagers also say that the advantages of a working mother outweigh the disadvantages.

Water conservation a must for hot summer months

When the weather turns dry, don't just turn on your lawn sprinkler and then gripe about your high water bills.

By watering, fertilizing and mowing your lawn properly, you can reduce your water bill as much as 40 percent, says a turfgrass specialist.

"Conservation by the homeowner provides the only solution to high water bills and excessive water demands during our hot and usually dry Texas summers," says Dr. Richard Duble with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University

In small cities where industrial demand for water is low, lawn watering may account for as much as half of all water used during summer months. Even in larger cities, lawns get 30 to 40 percent of all the water supplied by muni-

"Most Texas lawns use about 2 inches of water per week during the summer and most of this usually comes from irrigation," Duble says. "However, as little as 1 inch of water per week can keep lawns alive and green."

Exactly what can a homeowner do to reduce his summer water

"First, water your lawn only when grass starts to show signs of drought stress," explains Duble. "Look for discoloration and wilting. If leaves roll up in the late afternoon and footprints remain after walking across the lawn, then water within 24 hours.

"Once you've decided that your lawn needs watering, do it right," he emphasizes. "Most Homeowners don't water their lawns properly. They either water too often, causing grass to develop shallow roots and making it a prime target for insects, diseases and temperature extremes, or they water too infrequently and apply too much water at one time, resulting in a lot of runoff.

"When watering, soak the soil to a depth of 4 to 6 inches,' recommends the specialist. In heavy clay soils, watering for 15 to 20-minute periods may be necessary to prevent excessive runoff.

'Cutting back on lawn fertilization can also reduce watering," says Duble. Applying fertilizer in the spring and fall will generally keep you lawn healthy. Fertilizing during the summer, especially with nitrogen fertilizer, will green up your lawn, but it wil also increase grass growth and water

"Mowing less often and cutting your grass at taller heights also will help keep your lawn in better shape during hot, dry weather," adds Double. "St. Augustinegrass lawns do well when mowed at a 3-inch height, and bermudagrass lawns can be cut at a 2-inch

Bentsen Reports

Senator Lloyd Bentsen said May 30 that U.S. trade problems, which have been pushing Americans out of high paying manufacturing jobs and into low wage service jobs since 1981, caused productivity in the country to decline sharply during the first quarter of this year.

Bentsen, Chairman of the Senate Democratic Working Group on Trade Policy, commented on releasing a new Joint Economic Committee staff report of the economic impact of the current trade imbalance. The U.S. had a trade deficit last year of $123.3 billion. The U.S. Trade Representative anticipates that the deficit could surpass $160 billion in 1985.

"It is most disturbing to learn that, because of soaring imports and weak exports, virtually all employment growth in the United States since 1981 has been in the low wage service sector of our economy," the Senator said.

"This new report indicates that employment in our goods-producing sectors is lower today than it was before the 1982 recesssion."

"It is not a good trade when an American has to give up a job as an auto worker or a steelworker for employment in a fast food outlet or or a laundry.

"With this trade-induced weakness in our most productive and competitive economic sectors-manufacturing, and agriculture as well--it is not surprising that productivity rebounded relatively weakly during the recovery from the 1982 recession.

The JEC report indicates that U.S. productivity growth was disappointing throughout the period 1908-84. U.S. productivity, defined as output per worker hour, grew at 5.6 percent during that time, compared to average growth for major industrialized nations of 7.8 percent. Productivity growth in Japan was 11.3 percent and in England, 10.7 percent.

The U.S Bureau of Labor Statistics reported May 29 that productivity decined at an annual rate of 2.5 percent during the first quarter of this year. The Administration had predicted it would increase 2 percent in that period.

The Commerce Department reported recently that the economic recovery almost ground to a halt during the first quarter, with the economy growing at only .7 percent rather than the 3.9 percent anticipated by the Administration.

"You don't have to be an economist to understand that, with productivity growth only half that of our major foreign competitor, America is much less productive and competitive than it was in 1980," Bentsen said.

"This country is already paying the price--a stiff one--for our failure to develop an effective trade policy. Things will only get worse if we cannot persuade the Administration to come to grips with this very serious problem," Senator Bentsen

Morgan--a man of many faces

He called himself Roger E.

Morgan, M.D. Police say his name wasn't Morgan. He also was not a doctor.

He worked in a clinic treating mental retardation in New Braunfels, passing himself off as a psychiatrist. Detectives say that was nothing new. Once in Schulenburg, they say he talked his way into the principal's position at a parochial school without having any teaching credentials.

He has 12 different college degrees under 12 different identi-

Who is this man? Investigators from Comal and Hays counties say he is Roger Prewitt Orive, 47, a man of a thousand names, a mysterious past and what is certain to be a cloudy future.

Detective Mario Guerrero of New Braunfels Police Department says Orive worked in that central Texas community from August, 1984, to January, 1985, before skipping out on almost $25,000 worth of bad checks.

As investigators expanded their probe, they uncovered the fantastic saga of Roger Orive.

They discovered that he had degrees from such universities as Yale and California, that he had entered New York Teachers College three times under three different identities, that he had at least four different Social Security numbers listed to him under various names and that police departments from Alaska to Texas were looking for him.

On April 17, Orive was indicted by the Hays County Grand Jury for Theft by Check of over $750 and under $20,000. Comal County has an outstanding warrant charg-ing him with theft of over $750 and less than $20,000 as well as a warrant for a woman identified as was added to the Texas Most Wanted roster. A reward of up to $1,000 is being offered for information leading to his capture.

Orive is described as a white male, 6-0, 160 pounds, with neatly cut brown hair and brown eyes. His most outstanding facial characteristic is a long, deep dimple on

Detectives have compiled an extensive list of identities that Orive has assumed during his strange

-- He was Roger E. V. Morgan when he applied for a credit union application in New Braunfels. He used a Social Security number of 598-18-2272

-- He was Roger Vanderbilt when applying for a loan in Austin.

-- He was Roger E. Morgan, with Social Security number of 261-38-1474, when applying for a loan in San Antonio

-- He was Roger Erik V. Ashly Morgan with a Social Security number of 491-18-2272 when applying for a loan in Oklahoma

-He was Roger Vanderbilt Morgan when he applied for his Texas driver's license.

-- Then he was Dr. Roger E. V. Morgan with a Social Security number of 595-18-3869 when he applied for employment in New Braunfels.

All these identifications have made it difficult for investigators to catch up with Orive.

'He's a real pro," Det. Guerrero says. "He really knows what he's doing.'

There are a number of businesses throughout Texas that will sadly agree with Det. Guerrero's assessment.

Three businesses in San Marcos reported bad checks worth $6,439. Marion State Bank told detectives it lost $1,500 in loans. A Dallas collection service said it had $2,352 worth of bad checks. Nineteen businesses in Austin reported a total of $9,716 in bad checks written to the suspect's account.

But the big losers were businesses in and around New Braunfels. A total of 15 firms reported bad checks losses of $24,219.31, most of them written in a two-week period between Christmas and January 7, 1985.

Detectives believe Orive and his wife have fled Texas, but continue to have ties to the Austin area. They say he might be using the name Roger E. Morgan Russmann.

Anyone who might have information concerning Orive's whereabouts is asked to call the Texas Crime Stoppers Advisory Council toll-free at 1-800-252-8477 or their local Crime Stoppers program. In all cases, callers do not have to reveal their identitites.

Texas Most Wanted is a cooperative program between the Department of Public Safety and Texas Crime Stoppers and is designed to generate information about the location of major fugitives wanted in the state.

-Cooktops save energy-

An innovation in energy-saving cooking equipment--the induction cooktop--is not the same thing as the smooth top ranges that have been on the market for several

"They both have a smooth glass top, but that's about the only similarity," says consumer economics specialist Bonnie L. Piernot.

Induction units, such, as the cooktop, heat the cookware itself and the cookware heats the food. A high frequency induction circuit just below the cooktop surface will heat any pan with a magnetic bottom.

"The pan itself gets hot, not the cooktop," explains Piernot, a home economist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service.

Because the unit creates heat in the pan, it uses energy more efficiently than conventional cooktops tops.

"Since the induction coil responds immediately to heat settings, there is also minimal heat-up or cool-down time when cooking," points out the specialist.

In addition, cleaning is easier because the cooktop is not hot and spatters don't burn, Piernot notes.

The home economist advises using cookware with a ferrous metal, such as cast-iron or steel, on bottom. The cooktop operates on a magnetic attraction between the coils and the pan, so if the bottom of the pan attracts a kitchen magnet, you can use it on the induction top, she says.

Heating and cooling tests have shown that light-weight pans heat and cook quickly. Heavy-weight stainless steel cookware gives the most even cooking results, advises the specialist.

the specialist.

"Although widely available to consumers, induction cooktops are still relatively expensive," Piernot says. "But experts expect the cost of electrical components to continue falling and allow induction cooktops to beome more price-

I.R.R. tour to begin July 29

Separate ranch tours in South Texas and Mexico will conclude the program for the 5th Annual International Ranchers Roundup (IRR) here, July 29 - Aug. 2. Persons planning to make the tours should pre-register by July 1 so that meals and tour buses can be arranged.

Simultaneous educational tours will depart from the Laredo Civic Center at 7:30 a.m. Aug. 2 and return that evening after visiting some of the most progressive farming and ranching operations on both sides of the Rio Grande River, according to George L. Gonzales, Webb County Extension agent and tour coordinator.

The U.S. tour will start at the historic Callaghan Ranch, north of Laredo. Tour stops will include aerially applied herbicide result demonstration test plots using pelleted and liquid herbicides; a 3,000-acre cell grazing system; wildlife management practices targeted at dove, quail, white tail deer and javelina production; fish pond management practices on ponds up to 5 acres, the registered quarter horse operation and a visit to ranch headquarters.

A chuck wagon lunch will be arranged at noon by owner Joe Finley, Jr. The afternoon tour will continue to the Espuela Beefmaster Ranch operated by Sharon Link, where participants will see demonstrations and hear discussions about the artificial insemination and embryo transfer programs used with the registered Beefmaster operation. Mrs. Link also will outline her views of women in agriculture, particularly ranching, and explain how she runs her operation on a year round basis.

The U.S. tour will conclude at Ranch Blanco, owned by the H.B. Zachry family and managed by Al Brothers. Tour discussions will include the farming operation, the commercial Brangus beef cattle operation, ranch management practices and rotational grazing systems; wildlife management explaining the combination of exotics and native wildlife plus a tour of the ranch headquarters.

The Mexico tour will begin at the 100-acre Rancho Chavarria, owned by Rodolfo Chavarria and located near Nueva Laredo. Here the artificial insemination and embryo transfer program with registered Simmental cattle will be highlighted in detail. The tour party will continue on to the 600-acre Rancho Las Mujeres, owned by Humberto Garza Flores. Here, the program will include talks on the registered Beefmaster cattle operation, irrigation farming practices, feed mill, ranch management practices plus the forage crops grown.

Following lunch the tour will finish up at the Rancho La Herradura of Hector Barbarena Ramirez. This 5,000-acre ranch tour will focus on mechanical brush control, grazing and watering systems, buffelgrass seeded pastures and the registered Brahman type cattle operation.

"I feel we have planned educational tours representative of the agricultural farming and ranching operations found in this part of south Texas and in Mexico," says Gonzales.

Gonzales had assistance from the Webb County local arrangements and planning committee as well as the Nuevo Laredo Cattleman's Association in arranging the Social activities during the IRR will include a hospitality hour on Monday, July 29; a "Night in Mexico" with a social provided by the mayor of Nuevo Laredo, buffet meal at La Hacienda Hotel and entertainment provided by the Nuevo Laredo Chamber of Commerce on Tuesday, July 30; and a banquet and western dance on Wednesday, July 31.

To pre-register and qualify for a substantial discount, individuals may contact their local county Extension agents or Gonzales, Webb County Extension Agent, 600 Sandman, Building 979, Laredo, Texas 78041, telephone 512/727-0801; the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center, 2401 East Highway 83, Weslaco, Texas 78596, telephone 512/968-5581; or the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center, P.O. Sessom takes skills to Mexico

June 23, 1985 Don Sessom joined by John Sheehy, Carry Leech, Wander Bender and Ann Robinson, left Dallas-Ft. Worth Air Port and flew to Mexico City.

The group represented the Texas Baptist Men and the Royal Ambassadors. The Group worked as teachers in Basketball Clinics in Mexico City and at the University of Pachuca in Pachuca, Mexico. It was a very gratifying experience and one to never be forgotton.

The group worked with young people ages 10 through 22. The students were taught fundamental skills and drills in basketball. Coaches of the local teams were very attentive while the groups of American coaches worked in the clinics.

The group of American coaches were treated very well and were invited to come back again next summer for a longer term.

Coaches involved in this venture were John Sheehy, head basket-ball coach, Howard Payne University; Carry Leech, head basketball coach, Mary Hardin, Baylor University; Wanda Bender, head girls basketball coach, Kingsville High School, Kingsville; Ann Robinson, assistant girls coach at Mediloathian High School, Mediloathian; and Don Sessom assistant coach Sonora High

This group of men and women had a great time teaching and coaching for the Lord and they are looking forward to another great the next summer.
