All that practice . . . does make perfect as the Mighty Bronco Band proved this past Saturday in Brady.

Band marches to victory

Bulldog Stadium in Brady was the setting Saturday for the District VII Marching Contest. When the dust had cleared, the Mighty Bronco Band from Sonora had earned its 10th consecutive first division in marching contest in Temple on Saturday, November 2. Five bands competed in the AAA portion of the contest, with Brady, Llano, Ozona, and Sonora placing in the first division. The judges then selected Llano and Sonora to continue on to regional.

The Mighty Bronco Band performance included musical selections "Fanfare from E.T." and "Heart-light", followed by "I've Got the Music in Me" and "Barbara Ann". The Mighty Bronco Band closes its program with "Traces". Soloists include Sidonna Ridgeway, Greg Anderson and Luie Gonzales. Comments from the judging panel were complimentary and included "Nice Show. Very well done...very good show design and playing fundamentals," from Norman Deisher of Mineral Wells. "What a fine big band," and "Exciting Show. I enjoyed seeing you," from Texas Music Educators State President David Pennington of Temple. Warren Thaxton of Abilene added, "This band shows excellent fundamentals". For other comments, see any one of the many Mighty Bronco Band supporters who attended. Each one has his own "special" memory.

The Mighty Bronco Band gives a big THANK YOU to Police Chief Brent Gesch for the escort through town. That was a fantastic end to a great day.

The regional contest to be held in Temple will begin at 9:00 on Saturday, November 2, with Class A bands, followed by AA, AAA, AAAA, and AAAAA. District VII will be joined by Districts VIII (Waco area) and XVIII (Austin area). Strong competition should come from all five of the other AAA's, especially Waco Robinson who is the defending state champion, and has won 2 of the last 4 titles. The Mighty Bronco Band marches at 12:45 p.m. Two bands from each class will earn the privilege of competing at the State Marching Contest in Austin on November 11.

The Drum Major for the Mighty Bronco Band is Sidonna Ridgeway; Twirler is Kristen Keel; Flag Captain is Stacy Miller. Directors for the band are Forrester Halaicek, assisted by John Gibson.

4th graders become publishers

by Ann Cates

Last week the Devil's River News started a new weekly feature called "We ask the kids" and I prefaced the first column by saying how cooperative everyone in our school systems had been.

Let me back up now and tell you the truth of the matter. On my initial approach, Mr. Bible said "Fine", Mr. Cade said "fine," Mr. Ramos said "Fine - but...". Pleased with the three responses of fine and undaunted by the dangling "but.....", we proceeded.

Mr. Ramos said he had a fourth grade teacher who had gotten herself into a bit of a bind and could we at the Devil's River News, help her.

Armed with knowledge, we entered the world of Sharon McNutt and her class, not realizing we were embarking on a most productive, enjoyable venture.

Mrs. McNutt explained her problem, "I read the book, Fourth Grade Celebrity, to my Reading Class. In the book, the main character organized a group of her classmates to write a class newspaper."

"One Friday night, at the football game, Amy Patton and Kelly Kiowski asked Mr. Ramos if they could organize a newspaper for our school." Mrs. McNutt continued, "he was very receptive to their idea. They asked if I would sponsor them and we decided we would make this our Language Arts class project."

Already I was hooked - this sounded like fun! As all newspapers operate on a deadline, Mrs. McNutt decided on a "cut-off" date. We suggested topics of interest, in view of the season, suggested some pictures and we scheduled a field trip to the Devil's River News Office.

I agreed that we would typeset all of the copy and offer assistance on the final page but from there, the class was on their own.

The articles are all original compositions, by members of the class, and display a great deal of potential.

If the "Middle School Gazette" contains any proof-reading errors, it is our fault at the Devil's River News, and not that of the kids. They "proofed" their copy carefully, indeed you could feel the air being moved by fanning of the dictionary pages as they checked spelling.

In the final step, each member taking a turn under the direction of the Editor and Co-Editor, the class composed or "pasted-up" their page.

"but..." as you will see on page 7, turned out to be a delightful success.

As there was not room on the page for the "Staff Box", it reads:

Editor-Amy Patton
Co-Editor-Kelly Kiowski

Contributing Writers-Rena Smalling, Austin Sipes, Mary Beth Dean, Tina Kohutek, Heather Hill, Wade Spain, Thomas Herod, Beverly Cooper, Tabby Sanchez, Tessa Robertson, Erica Ramos.

Production-Cindy Chavez, Venessa Zapata, Cole Crenwelge, Mike Gonzales, Felicia Sentana, Armando Martinez, Becci Merrill, Cynthia Ramirez, Nancy Monsivias, Rosa Ausces.

This "staff" was excellent to work with. They were all extremely well mannered, enthusiastic and by their questions, it was evident they were truly interested in their enterprise.

Their attitudes speak well for their soft spoken, sweet, smiling teacher Mrs. McNutt. Her excitement and pride in the class accomplishment was a very present factor throughout the project.

Thanks go to the fine people at Sutton County National Bank who felt this project worthy of their commercial sponsorship.

Families and individuals who are residents of Sutton County may apply and have their eligibility determined at City Hall and Sutton County Senior Center between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. on November 12, 1985.

Recipients of food stamps, medicaid, AFDC and SSI are automatically eligible for donated foods but must present verification such assistance is being received. Certification of eligibility of other applicants is based on family size and income.

First distribution of donated commodity foods is expected soon and will be announced on the radio and in the paper.

Proof of residency in Sutton County must be provided in the form of driver's license, rent receipt, utility bill, or something that indicates a street address or mail route within the county.

Amount of food distributed to each family is determined by the number of members in the household.

Volunteers are needed for this program. If you wish to donate four (4) hours a month to this worthwhile project please contact the City Secretary's office at City Hall. Your assistance will be greatly appreciated.

"Some time ago," says Mrs. Buena McFarland, of R.F.D. 2 Bostic, N.C., "I suffered a great deal with weakness common to women. I had bearing-down pains, my sides and back hurt, and my limbs drew. I would get so weak in my knees I could scarcely stand."

"I was very nervous, and could not rest. I didn't feel like eating. I grew thin, and did not have ambition for anything."

"I had been trying other remedies...but did not get any better. "Some one told us of Cardui, and what it was recommended for. I also took a Ladies Birthday Almanac and read of a case something like mine. I told my husband to get it and I would try it.

"I saw a great improvement after the first bottle (of Cardui), so I kept it up until I was well. Now I am the picture of health."

Thousands of other women have written to tell of the beneficial results obtained by taking Cardui, and to recommend it to others.

Cardui has stood the test of extensive use, for more than forty years, in the treatment of troubles common to women.

HOMEMAKER UPDATE

by Gail Rucker

Childless older adults: Who helps them?

Children are important to their elderly parents. Adult children provide their parents with emotional, material, financial and other types of support.

Yet recent research studies indicate the childless elderly have levels of well-being that match and sometimes exceed those oldsters with children.

Since childless older adults are able to construct a parallel quality of life it suggests that children are not crucial in the quest for independence. Or it may mean that childless couples are able to establish effective alternatives to the benefits they would receive from children.

Adult children are not available as a fail-safe resource. Studies indicate that as a result, childlessness seems to produce capable, self-reliant elderly. Of course, this adaptation is a lifelong process.

It's incorrect to assume that the elderly who have children will have someone who can and will look after their interests. The family is not necessarily the crucial element in determining a high quality of life in old age. What is important is for adults to sustain close friendships and/or kinship relations throughout life.

The elderly need the same things all adults do-social contacts, self-esteem and independence. They need to feel like useful, contributing members of society and the family; otherwise life becomes meaningless.

Sociologists have defined five needs that all of use have, regardless of age. Those needs are physiological needs such as thirst, hunger and sleep; security; love and belonging or the need for acceptance by friends and groups; recognition and the highest need of growth and new experiences. Sociologists believe very few people have reached this highest level.

Who provides services to older people? Ten to 15 percent of the services are provided by professional support systems such as nurses and home health aids.

Family, friends and neighbors provide 85 to 90 percent of services for the elderly.

What is the most important thing invented? And why?

(Our question this week is answered by fourth graders of SISD.)

Benjamin Franklin was the person that invented calectristy, and what would we do with out light. Peopl thoulth that Ben was a loser but when he envented light peopl loved him.

Cesar Elquezabal

The most important invention for me is the Statue of liberty. The Statue of Liberty is the most important thing because it is pretty and big. The Statue of liberty became a national monument in 1924. It is maintained by the National Park Service, U.S. Department of the Interior, and is open daily. At the Statue's base is the American Museum of Immigration, honoring those who have come in search of liberty and opportunity.

Claudia N. Luna

I thing the most important thing man has made is a house. But some people don't live in a house they live on the streets. I am glad that I live in a house to keep warm.

Danny Gomez

The most important thing invented is cars. Because they take us places and we can get there anywhere fast. The only thing bad is you have to pay for the gas.

Wade Spain

Electricy. I thing that who ever invented electricity was very brave. And probably rich. Electricity helps to see.

Felicia Ann Sentena

Electricity is a useful sorce. We use electricity all the time. We have lots of things that run on electricity at home and everywhere. Electric can openers, stoves, phones, lights, hairdryers, and other stuff. I think we should conserve our power because we may not have electricity in the future.

Kelly Kiowski

The most important thing invented is clothes. It protects your body.

Chris Rojas

1. A Car, beacaus you do not have to walk.

2. shoes, you don't have to go bare footed.

3. washing machine, you don't have to go to the river to wash your clothes.

4. caps, They keep the sun out of your eyes.

Will L. Matthews

The most important thing is portrait of woodrow wilson.

Cesar Villavicencio

I think the most important thing invented by man is a candle because if the lights go out at your house you can light it.

If you date have light you cannot see.

Brandon

Guns. Because we would not have won the war and we would be dead.

Bobby Mogford

Schools are the most important thing invented because you learn stuff and if there were no schools every poson would be dum. And you would not be able to get a job.

Amanda Kinchelae

It is the heart. Because it gives live.

Samuel

School is the most important thing invented. Because it gives us a chance to learn and have an education.

Laura

The most important thing invented is a atom-Bomb. The atom-Bomb is the most important thing because we would not have won a war without it.

Rhett Johnson

The most important thing is sun why because it gives you everything you have to grow things like food, water, trees to hold the ground when it rains hard.

Leanna

The most important thing invented is a computer. The computer helps people to do their jobs and if we did not have a computer their will not be almost all these jobs today.

Tammy McGinnis

The most important thing invented is Elelristy Why? Because you use it for plugging everything in. Like and iron, or lamp, vacomeclener, machine night light.

Virginia

The most important thing invented is school. The reason why school is imporianit it is a quiz

Rodney Conger

The most important invention ever made was electricitey. Why? Because with out electricitey we would not have air conditioning lights, electrici stove, a tv, telu-phone, subways I think electricitey was a great thing. Immaigen if we did not have any electricitey.

Amy

The most important invention ever made was a traffic light.

A traffic light is something that is made by man. A traffic light is something to make a stop and go If they won't be a traffic light they would be crashes.

Asuzena Gutierrez

The most important invention ever made was light. It helps me with thing at night like when you have homework and when you cooking. You use light for head-lights on a car, for schools, for camp outs, and when you want to watch tv. and when you under water you can take a flashlight that is water proff.

Amber L. Beebe

I think cars are important to me because you can drive it were ever you want because if anybody got hurt we could not run all the way to the hospital to get the pashent in the bed thats why we got an ambulance.

John Olivares

I thank the most important invention ever made was schools to write read and learn.

Why because if we didn't have schools we would never been able to do the things that we've been abe to do.

Tessa Leigh Robertson

The most important invention was man because if man wasn't invented there wouldn't be any other inventions.

Austin Sipes

I think the most important invention ever made was the Seismograph. It is a machine that tells a Scientist whene a earthquake is coming and goinging on. If man had not invented a Seismograph we would still wonder when a earthquake would happen and how big it was.

Matt Stokes

I think the most important invention ever made was the telephoen.

If the telephoen was not invented we wouldn't how would we call incase of an emergency like a fire or an bad siken how would we call the ambulance.

Elsa Lumberas

I think the most important invention ever made was the bicycle is the most popular and one of the fastest machines by which a person can use his own power to get from one place to another. In many countries people depend on the bicycle as one of the cheif means of transportation.

Rosario Ausces

Electricy, because every thing is mostly run by electricity. Cars, Radios, T.v.s lights, phones computers, saws, and a million of things.

Beverly Cooper

Glasses. Because they help you to see better.

Jenny Purvis

The most important thing invented is a refrerater because without a refrdrezer we would have rotten milk and no ice cream.

Venessa Zapata

The atomic bomb. It had saved as and many other countries from being totally destroyed.

Thomas

I think they news. Why? Because it tells you about things you need to know.

LeAnn Barnes

Your body for you can live.

John Lopez III

The thing most important invented were the trafack light because cars wn't stop and would runover people.

Trinidad Guerra

The historic bell rung in Independence Hall Philadelphia, on July 8, 1776. The occasion was the celebrate the proclamation of the Declaration of Independence which had been adopted on July 4. The Liberty bell was rung on every important festival and annaversary thereafter until 1835, when a crack apared in the bell. Acordint to tradition the crack occurred on July 8, 1835, while the bell was be tolled during funeral rites for Chief Justice John Marshall.

Jody

I think the space rocket was the best thing invented because you can get in it and go into space.

Cole Crenwelge

The most important thing invented is eleciricity. Because it helps us see when we do things. Things like read, write, so we won't fall and hurt our selfs.

Cherie Morrora

The best thing invented is the farm. We can not live with out farm because it gizev us are food and fruts and things we need.

Jamie Espinosa

I think the most important thing invented is a stove. Because if we didn't have one then we woulnd't have any warm food to eat and we could have water but about a week without food then we would probably get ill.

Alma Sanchez

The most important thing invented I think is cars.

Cars are most important because you can go from one place to another. For instance you could go fram Alaska to California. But you couldn't go if you didn't have fuel. You could come from school to your house. You can also go to work and back to your house. And also to the grocery store and back to your house. Cars are good for every-thing.

Rena Smalling

I think the most important invention ever made was a car, becaus if a car wasn't inveted then we would have to walk evlery were we wanted to go. We would have to walk to school, store, house, football games. I would feel bad cause I would have to walk and my feet would hurt, I'd be late, tird. And the streets would be imty, and a lot of horses would be running around in the streets. You could not get were you wanted to go as fast. And if someone was hurt and you wanted to get there fast you coulnt.

How Halloween started

by Austin Sipes

The Druids an order of priests in ancient Gaul and Britain, believed that on Halloween, ghosts, spirits, fairies, witches, and elves came out to harm people. They thought the cat was sacred and believed that cats had once been human beings but were changed as a punishment for evil deeds. Many superstitions and symbols are connected with Halloween. The Irish have a tale about the origin of jack-o'-lanterns. They say that a man named Jack was unable to enter heaven because of his miserliness. He could not enter hell because he had played jokes on the devil. So he had to walk the earth until Judgement Day.

Birds

by Mary Beth Dean

Over the hill the birds fly high
In daytime and even in the nighttime sky
There are blue ones, red ones, yellow ones too
I wish we could fly as high as freely in the sky just you an I
Birds are funny creatures
They have a lot of neat little features
There is birds that stay up late at night
Those birds just might give you a fright
I like the way the birds sing
And just think of all the joy they bring
Birds are a big part of life
And to think of all the world watching
they can still sing and bring lots of joy!

The Littles Secret Place

by Tessa Robertson and Erica Ramos

It was Halloween Eve. Erica and Tessa decided to sneak into the old creaky house to see if it was really haunted. Erica pried open a boarded up window on the ground floor. The girls swung themselves into the dim hallway and crept up the dusty creaking stairs. As they reached the top, a door slowly opened! Suddenly they heard a scream of a little girl! It was a tiny girl named Lucy. She had other friends like her. They were called the Littles. We were very surprised that they were three inches tall. They were as little as our finger. Then we saw a ghost when we reached the hallway. We ran inside an open door and closed it. Somebody locked us in. We were wandering around and we fell in a secret passage way. The littles were scared of us. But Lucy said not to be afraid of us, because we were friendly. All the Little came out of their hiding places. The funniest one was Dinky. Dinky had a weird plane. All of a sudden the chandelier fell and trapped the Littles. We tried to lift the chandelier. It took us a while because it was heavy. We finally got it up. The Littles were saved.

The librarian is in charge of buying the books. She gets them ready to check-out. She helps find special books for the customers. She plans movies and special programs for kids. She also has a lot of reports and paperwork to do.

Mrs. Cooper loves being the librarian. She hopes that all of us at the middle school will use the library. She wants all of us to enjoy reading.

Here are some bus safty rules-(1) Do not pass a stopped school bus with flashing lights, (2) Do not step in front of a moving school bus, (3) Do not hit the school bus windows or be too noisy because this might distract the bus drivers.

Ghogst and Witches

by Tina Kohutek

Once upon a time there were these three ghost. They lived in a witches house, and would always sneak up on the witch. She would always hear something but she would never pay any attention. One day she wanted to see what it was, so she went up to the attic and guess what she saw! Her eyes got big then she saw three little ghosts. She was so mad she ran after them, then before she could catch them they jumped out the window. She was so upset she jumped out too. Then she fell in the water and the ghost never came back. Then she lived happily ever after.

by Beverly Cooper

Guess what is coming? The Sesquicentennial is coming. Texas our Texas is having a birthday. Her birthday is in 1986 and she will be 150 years old. During the year long celebration there will be festivals in almost every town.

One of the most exciting things will be the wagon train. The wagon train will go through the whole state. It will even go to San Angelo. Anyone who wants to join needs a horse or buggy. They will camp out under the stars and cook on campfires just like Texas settlers. There will be a Sesquicentennial train too. It will travel the state where there are tracks and people can go on board and see the old time things that it will carry.

Sonora is going to celebrate too. Sonora is going to clean up the town and fix up the old jail. The Library will have programs. The Woman's Club is going to have a show of 150 years of Texas fashions. Lots of people will be putting up Texas flags. All the Clubs in Sonora will be doing special things. In a sense, we are all hungry, and in need, but most of us do not know it. With plenty to eat in the freezer, a roof over our heads, and a car in the garage, we assume that the empty feeling inside must be a simple case of the blues that can be cured by a weekend in the country or an extra dessert, or a new color television. The poor know better. When Jesus says, "Come unto me all ye who labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest," the poor will be the first to know that He is talking to them.

They may even accept His offer. No wonder Jesus calls them blessed.

The Presbyterians of Sonora gather every Lord's day to be reminded that God is the source of every good and perfect blessing; to put it another way, with confidence in God we can accept everything that life gives us as a gift from God.

We invite you to come, and worship God with us. Let Him help remove that hunger and emptiness from your life.

By Faith, Receive Ye Him...

By Pastor Louis Halford
1st Assembly of God

From Genesis to Revelation the Bible makes it clear that no one is ever saved by his own works, but only by faith in the promises of God. Only in the Garden of Eden was salvation put upon the basis of obedience, with the accompanying warning of death for the transgression of God's command. "But of the tree of knowledge of good and evil, thou shalt not eat of it; for in the day that thou eatest thereof thou shalt surely die." (Gen. 2:17) "Now therefore, if ye will obey my voice indeed, and keep my covenant, they ye shall be a peculiar treasure unto me above all people, for all the earth is mine." (Exo. 19:5) Great emphasis is laid upon obedience, but by no means does this suggest an alternate way to Heaven apart from faith. The promise in Exodus was given to believers who had already repented of sin and surrendered their hearts to the Lord in faith. Obedience is a necessary and natural consequence of faith, but obedience is not a substitute for faith.

Adam and Eve taught their sons the necessity of sacrifice to the Lord for the sins they might have committed. "By faith Abel offered unto God a more excellent sacrifice than Cain, by which he was righteous, God testifying of his gifts; and by it he being dead yet speaketh." (Heb. 11:4) Abel presented the acceptable blood sacrifice upon his altar as an act of faith. His sacrifice signified in advance the atonement later to be offered on Calvary. "An altar of earth, thou shalt make unto me, and shalt sacrifice thereon they burnt offerings, and thy peace offerings, thy sheep, and thine oxen; in all places where I record my name I will come unto thee, and I will bless thee." (Exo. 20:24) This is sacrificial worship. The underlying principle of each sacrifice was that the life of the innocent animal was substituted for the guilty, forfeited life to the believer. He received the forgiveness of God only through repentance and faith, not through obedience. "But Christ being come an high Priest of good things to come, by a greater and more perfect tabernacle, not made with hands, that is to say, not of this building, neither by the blood of goats and calves, but by his own blood he entered in once into the holy place, having obtained eternal redemption for us." (Heb. 9:11-12)

The benefit of this blood bought atonement is brought to sinners by faith, not through deeds of obedience as works of merit. "For by grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves; it is the gift of God." (Eph. 2:8) Our faith needs to be genuine and produce the fruit of a Godly life. "I beseech you therefore brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable, unto God, which is your reasonable service. And be not conformed to this world; but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove, what is that good, and acceptable and perfect will of God." (Romans 12 1-2)

Remember always that we are saved by grace and our faith in Christ. Also remember that "obedience is greater than sacrifice" and "Faith without works is dead."

34-0
Broncos "bulldog" Coahoma

Third times a charm. After 2 attempts the Broncos captured a district win. The victory came at the hands of the Coahoma Bulldogs here Friday night. The score was 34-0.

The Broncos dominated the game from the very beginning. After losing the toss, the Broncos defense recovered a fumble and Senior John David Martinez carried the ball in for the first touchdown of the game. The extra point was no good and the Broncos were ahead at the end of the first quarter 6-0.

The second period went much the same as the first with Broncos moving the ball pretty much at will against the Bulldogs. Martinez once again penetrated the end-zone from the 1-yard line for his second touchdown of the evening.

The 2-point conversion was good and the Broncos increased their lead to 14-0 at halftime.

Junior Stevie Love scored the next touchdown on a beautiful open field run of 47 yards.

Love had an excellent night of rushing. He gained 175 yards and had a game "even a pro would be proud of."

Mike Fullen concluded the third period scoring with a 27 yard pass play from quarterback Mickey Sharp. With the kick missing the score was 27-0 heading into the fourth and final quarter of play.

The action on the sidelines was still intense but along with it came the smell of victory in the air. Even the rugged coaches had a slight hint of a smile on their faces. Sophomore Sammy Mata added the icing on the cake with a 5-yard touchdown run for the last score of the game. The kick was good and the score was raised to 34-0 which was how the game ended.

The Broncos are preparing this week for a long trip to Colorado City to face the Wolves this Friday. Colorado City was defeated by the Ballinger Bearcats 39-7 in other district action. Crane also beat Ozona 56-6.

7th Grade loses 24-8

Last Thursday was not a good day for the junior high Colt football players.

The seventh grade team managed but 8 points against the much larger Del Rio team.

The points came with 44 seconds left in the final quarter on a 20-yard pass from quarterback David Mirike to fullback Greg Brandon. The 2 point conversion was good. The score ended 24-8.

The eighth grade game was much closer but the result was the same. The Colts lost 6-0.

The boys did put out an excellent effort led by #20 Juan Ramirez.

The Rams scored in the second quarter and Sonora could never manage to catch up.

Excellent season predicted

by Rodney Knight
The upcoming deer and turkey season looks to be an excellent one. All of our wild game including the exotics have done real well due to the rains we've had this year. The majority of Sutton County is going into the winter with plenty of grass and forbs. The acorn crop seems fair.
The deer count is up over the last few years. It look like every doe in the county tried to have twins and most of them did. There were still fawns being born in late September, and there will still be fawns with spots when season opens. The hunter will have to take a little extra care when he shoots a doe this year.

The antler development has been very good this year. In my rounds of the county, I have seen more good bucks than ever before. The antlers seem to have better than average weight and spread.
The turkey crop was also very good. Most ranchers are reporting more turkey than they've seen in several years. The hunter should have little trouble getting a turkey or two. On this year's Hunting License there are three turkey tags, one is good for either the fall or the spring. Therefore the hunter can kill two turkeys in the fall and one gobbler in the spring; or one turkey in the fall and two gobblers in the spring.

The exotic game in the county has also done exceptionally well this year. I've seen several record book type heads around the county. The sika bucks seem to be carrying some real good antlers.
Overall the season should be a good one and with the number of young animals out there, next year should be better.

Axis deer killed January 1985 on the Alice Nelson Ranch, Station B Road.

Posted: No Trespassing

To help clarify the new trespass law, Section 30.05 of the Penal Code, here is an explanation since it applies mainly to hunting and fishing.
A person is trespassing if he enters or remains on property belonging to another without consent of, or when he has had notice that entry was forbidden or received notice to depart and has failed to do so. Entry means the intrusion of the entire body.
"Notice" means that:
1. A sign or signs have been posted on the property that indicate entry is forbidden.
2. If no signs are posted but a person in authority of that property tell them to leave.
3. If there are no signs and no oral exchange but that person crosses a fence designed to exclude intruders or to contain livestock.

Trespassing would be a Class "B" Misdemeanor, meaning:
1. A fine not to exceed $1000.
2. Or jail sentence not to exceed 180 days.
3. Or both of the above.
If the person trespassing is carrying or is in possession of a deadly weapon or firearm at the time he is on the property it becomes a Class "A" misdemeanor which means:
1. A fine not to exceed $2000.
2. Or jail sentence not to exceed one year.
3. Or both of the above.
This includes a sportsman carrying a gun!!

Good Luck, Hunters

For those ranchers who did not get their antlerless deer permits, you can pick them up on Friday, November 8, 1985, between 10:00 a.m. and 12:00 a.m. at the Game Warden Office in the Sutton County Jail. Please remember to bring land owner's name and address.

RODNEY A. KNIGHT

Introducing . . . Rodney Knight Game Warden III

Knight has been a resident of Sonora for the past fifteen years. He says if he has his way about if, he'll spend the rest of his life here watching out for the wild animals of Sutton County.
The son of Mr. and Mrs. R.A. Knight of Potect, Knight grew up on a dairy farm. He attended Texas A&M University and the State Game Warden Academy.
He and his wife, Kathy, have five children: Joe, Debbie, Edie, Lonnie and Betsy.
And as you might expect Knight's hobbies are hunting and fishing.
A good sense of humor, big smile, hearty laugh, hunting tips and recipes (he tells us he's the best wild game cook in the County) are the things you can expect from Knight providing you stay on the right side of the law. But remember, he has the same authority as any other law officer and he does the job of enforcing the game laws to the utmost.

Determining a deer's age

The age of a deer is of interest to both the landowner and the hunter. This interest is more than simple curiosity. Many things which measure deer quality and welfare are related to age.

On nearly all deer ranges in Texas, the food supply is the most critical element in the habitat. When deer numbers are not in balance with available food, inadequate nutrition is reflected in the herd by poor body condition, reduced reproductive efficiency and undesirable antler characteristics.

The massiveness of the antlers, rather than the number of points usually is related to age but is more strongly influenced by nutrition. A well-fed yearling could be an eight-point buck, but a poorly fed 7 year old could be a four-point. Large antlers at an early age reflect good food conditions.

The age of a deer cannot be determined by replacement of the front teeth as it can in sheep, goat and cattle, but age can be determined by replacement of, and wear on, the jaw teeth. As a deer grows older, certain portions of its teeth, particularly the crests on the jaw teeth next to the tongue, wear and expose increasing amounts of the dark dentine. Description of most age classes is based on the relative amount of exposed dentine on the crests near the jaw.

Deer have only six jaw teeth, although they appear to have many more. The teeth are in two distinct categories--the premolars, and the molars.

Deer are good in fractions because they are born around June or July and usually are examined during the fall hunting season. Deer managers should keep accurate records on all deer harvested to determine the effects of practices such as brush control, livestock management and levels of deer harvest. Without such records, any change in management cannot be evaluated accurately with respect to the impact on deer quality.

Records need not be elaborate. On males, antler characteristics can be measured using a small steel measuring tape. These measurements should include the circumference of the antler at the base, above the burr; the inside spread of the widest point of the main beam measured on the outside of the antler from base to tip. The number of points on each antler should be noted.

Body weights, usually from field dressed (internal organs removed) animals, should be kept. Also, the sex should be recorded. General body conditions can be recorded as good, fair or poor based on predetermined criteria.

Finally, all animals should be aged. This will allow the deer manager to categorize the information by age and sex. The records then will allow at a glance, for example, what the average weights and antler characteristics are for all bucks in any given age class. Even if some error is made in aging individual deer, the combined records will reflect the quality of the young growing deer, mature animals that should be prime and older animals that may be declining in some quality characteristic.

By maintaining these and other records (deer density figures, range condition, livestock stocking rate, etc.) the deer manager can best determine the results of herd management.

about that before you cut! After you have shot your trophy of course you must field dress him. Again, use caution here. When you make the incision up to the brisket of the animal do not cut too high. Go on further than the back of the legs. You will have to reach up in knowledge by the hunter in taking care of his trophy in the field. With this article I would like to discuss some of the problems that can be incurred in the field after you have downed your trophy.

First of all let me introduce myself. I am Bob McWilliams, a taxidermist. I was raised in the heart of the hill country between Junction and Sonora, on the J.P. Rieck ranch. I have been a commercial taxidermist for seven years but have dabbled in it for most of my life, first being introduced to the "art" by an old gentlemen of the name of George Cox of Hext, Texas when I was only four or five.

Being raised around whitetail and exotics that is what my shop specializes in. I do all of the mounts myself trying to make the most realistic mount possible utilizing the most advanced techniques in the field of taxidermy today. I attend conventions on the state and national levels trying to obtain the latest in taxidermy advancements. So, armed with this knowledge and year after year of sewing up the trophy hunters mistakes with a knife, I will offer a few ideas here that might either put on your office or living room wall. Usually when you see the animal standing or working his way through the brush you already have an idea whether you are going to mount this animal or not. If and I realize that it can be a big if, but if he gives you the opportunity for a standing or broadside shot, shoot him behind the shoulders. For some reason some hunters think it is prestigious to break the animals neck. As a taxidermist I am telling you to forget about that and you will have a more prestigious looking mount on the wall. By shooting him behind the the shoulders you take away number one, the possibility of shooting a horn off and the possibility of blowing the side of his neck away when your bullet exits. This can usually be repaired but sometimes will be noticeable, especially if there is hide missing.

After you have downed your trophy, please don't cut his throat! This can also be repaired but there can be a seam left showing on some animals (especially thin haired deer). Besides, if you shoot the animal in the heart or lungs he has bleed thoroughly in the body cavity anyway! Think the chest cavity to remove the heart and lungs, but it could save you some problems on your mount.

After your deer or exotic has been field dressed you have to decide whether you are going to quarter up the animal or bring it in to the processor to be processed. If you are going to skin the animal and he is to be mounted here is the correct way to cape a deer.

(1) Peel the hide down from the rear in the usual manner until you get to about 4 inches behind the animals shoulder. You should make an incision here all the way around the animal's body.

(2) Then take each leg and split down the "back of the legs," to the incision that you made around the body. Notice that I did not say the inside of the leg. More capes are ruined each year because of this mistake than any other reason. I had hunters bring me the whole hide but split down the inside of the leg and think that they have plenty of hide. The reason that you go down the back side of the leg is that the area on the leg will be left in front where it is supposed to be. If you split down the inside of the leg, part of this brisket area, which is

First of all, what exactly is an exotic? Simply, it's an animal that has been transplanted from his native range into other habitat. The idea is to find suitable habitat so that the animals become naturalized, establish breeding populations, and do not compete unduly with already-present native populations, thereby maintaining a balance of nature yet with another species present. Eventual harvesting of surplus animals may or may not be a goal or a byproduct. Other equally valid reasons for the esta-animal that can look mighty similar to what you'd find in the Black Forest. Totally wild, breeding populations of wild pigs are found today in the South, the Northeast, Texas, and much of California's coastal mountains. These are the result of domestic stock gone wild mixed, in most cases, with some purebred Europeans that have escaped the confines of private game preserves.

In some parts of the South they have achieved the status of game animals, and you can bet they're the state game departments and are not recognized as having established wild populations? Now we're talking about exotic game ranching, and it's becoming big business in any parts of the country.

The great state of Texas is unquestionably the center of the exotic ranching industry.

The first exotics were released nearly 50 years ago (by most accounts) the eventual hunting of them was far from anyone's mind. The pretty little black buck from India, the ishment of exotics are the preservation of endangered species or simply because it's pleasing to see the animals and have them around.

What exactly is an exotic?

Most hunters have reaped the benefits from successful exotic experiments without even thinking about it. The ring necked pheasant, for example, is one of America's most popular gamebirds, yet he's every bit as much an exotic as a mouflon sheep or an African oryx. The ringneck was introduced, took hold, and now stretches from coast to coast with an annual harvest running into the millions. Even the beautiful ringneck, though, has not totally escaped the stigma of being non-native.

The wild pig is a classic example of a successful, though often inadvertent, transplanting program. Domestic pigs, you see, are very, very close to their wild counterparts, the European or Russian wild boar. They're even the same species, sus scrofa. Pigs left untended in farm areas rapidly go completely wild, and the boars all grow tusks. A little introduction of European blood, and soon you've got a game spreading their range rapidly.

Basically there is nothing wrong with that. Pigs have totally different feeding habits from deer, and as far as can be determined are not detrimental to deer populations. They are extremely prolific.

Wild pigs, though successful, have spread much through accident and their natural tenacity and breeding abilities. Other equally successful transplants have been through design and careful management. Alaska, for example, introduced Roosevelt elk onto Afognak Island, Greenland muskox onto Nunivak Island, and bison into a couple of areas in the interior. Yes, those animals are exotics. Alaska was not their native range, but they've done well enough that hunting must be conducted to cull surplus animals. Hawaii has introduced wild turkeys, black-tail deer, and pronghorns onto a couple of the islands where suitable habitat was found. Yes, even these oh-so-familiar game animals are exotics in this particular instance.

But what about the exotics that aren't recognized as game animals by spotted Indian Axis deer, and the Indian nilgai were among the first introduced, apparently for ornamental reasons as much as for any other reason.

Aoudad, European mouflon sheep, European fallow deer, and a host of other animals followed suit. Back in 1974 the Texas Parks and Wildlife conducted a survey on the status of exotics in that state, and although several years outdated, the figures are mighty interesting. At that time, 39 exotic species totalling 57,278 animals were estimated to be present. Although exotics are present on some state-owned ground, remember that 98 percent of the state is privately owned. Three hundred and sixteen ranches comprising 4,488,753 acres reported having exotics present. Of greater interest is that only 142 of these ranches reported having a deer-proof or game-proof fence that would confine exotics. The only state sponsored transplant was that of aoudad into the rugged Palo Duro Canyon, and the aoudad is the only exotic recognized as a game animal, and that only in the eight counties in the Palo Duro or panhandle region.

 Bandera, Mason, Menard, Schleicher, Llano, Crockett, Val Verde, Kendall, Blanco, and Sutton. We are recognizing the modern day whitetail so we are requiring that all deer be killed on or after the first of October 1975. In the U.S. Courts of Law all persons are considered innocent until proven guilty. In Records of Trophy Whitetail all bucks are non hill country proven to be from one of the 15 counties listed. All bucks entered must be reared in the hill country as well. This means that a buck brought in from Canada, Pennsylvania, South Texas, etc. and killed will not be eligible for entry. The decision of the Records of Trophy Whitetail committee is final.

CATEGORIES
 We will list bucks according to the number of points in addition to the overall class. In other words each deer will be listed twice. There will be separate listings for the best eight pointer, the best nine pointer, the best ten pointer, the best eleven pointer, the best twelve pointer, the best buck with more than twelve points, and all bucks will be entered in the best all around class.

METHODS OF HUNTING
 We will include in our listings whether the buck was taken by rifle, muzzle-loader, or bow and arrow. All state, local and federal laws must be adhered to.

Preliminary Measurement
 Use the scoring information in this booklet and measure the deer antlers yourself. If you score meets or exceeds 100 points, then contact our office to arrange an official measurement.

Official Measurement
 We will arrange to have your whitetail officially scored by one of our recognized measurers. Please be ready to provide proof of where the deer was killed. This will include name of county harvested in, harvest date, your hunting license number (if available), name of ranch, and address of owner of ranch, plus any other material you may have.

Entry Fee
 The entry fee is $15.00 which records your animal and your name in our soon to be printed book. You will receive a certificate of qualification. Your animal will be automatically entered in our annual awards competition. We welcome all photographs for publication of our book.

Recognition Plaque
 For an additional fee of $25.00 you will receive a beautiful engraved plaque with medal attached representing qualification in bronze, silver, or gold class. Bronze 100-115, Silver 115 1/8-127 7/8, Gold 128 & up.

RUSSIAN BOAR

The most numerous were axis deer (19,000 animals), mouflon or mouflon-barbados cross (16,000 animals), blackbuck antelope (7,300 animals), fallow deer (4,500 animals), aoudad (3,600 animals), sika deer (3,000 animals), and nilgai antelope (2,800 animals). Most informed sources feel these figures were low in 1974, and of course by now most populations are much larger.

At some point in time, deer hunters in Texas got the idea that some of these exotics made interesting game animals as well.

Wildlife can legitimately and necessarily be viewed as a cash crop. This attitude has been the salvation of game in many African areas, and it's the reason for the influx of exotics into Texas and other states.

Totally free ranging exotics are dog-gone hard for the native Texan to locate and obtain permission to hunt, and harder yet for the outsider.

There is, of course, a big difference between the various exotics. Based on their habits and their habitat preference, some animals make more sporting game animals than others. The whitetail deer is more difficult to hunt than the moose, given equal population densities, and the bighorn sheep is regarded as more wary than the pronghorn. The same holds true for exotics. Some are going to be easier to approach than others. Given that exotics are valuable animals, they are going to be fenced in any instances. The key to quality hunting is to have them in proper habitat of adequate size so that they can react naturally to danger. Sika deer, for example, are secretive, brush-loving deer, like our whitetail, and like the white tail can be virtually lost in a relatively small area. Open country game like the blackbuck need substantially more ground for sporting hunting.

A classic example of an exotic that always provides exciting, sporting hunting is the aoudad. He loves rough, rocky country as similar as possible to his native North Africa, and he is always wary and hard to approach. He sees well, blends in to his surroundings well, and just plain doesn't like people. Under almost all circumstances he must be hunted strictly on foot, and he will always be a hard-won, much cherished trophy.

General Hunting Regulation

FIREARMS: Taking of game animals and game birds is limited to rifles, shotguns, other legal firearms, and longbow and arrows. Firearms are further restricted as follows:

It is illegal to use firearms capable of being fired fully automatic or firearms equipped with silencers or sound suppressing devices to take game animals or game birds.

It is illegal to use a jet gun or rocket gun or any firearm using rimfire ammunition in taking deer, antelope and elk. These methods are also prohibited in certain Panhandle counties for taking aoudad sheep.

It is illegal to shoot prairie chickens with a rifle. It is illegal to shoot migratory game birds with any firearm other than a shotgun fired from the shoulder that is permanently plugged to a three-shell capacity, including one in the chamber.

ARCHERY EQUIPMENT:

In taking game animals and game birds, bow must be capable of shooting a hunting arrow equipped with a broadhead hunting point for a distance of 130 yards; broadhead hunting point must be at least seven-eighths inch (7/8") in width and not more than one and one-half inches in width, and arrows must be marked with the name and address of the user in a non-water-soluble medium. Arrows may not be poisoned, drugged or explosive.

Crossbow are not legal for taking game animals and game birds at any time.

Shotguns with shells having shots no larger than number 4 may be possessed during the open archery only season but may not be used for taking deer or turkey.

Legal archery equipment as defined may be used for taking game animals or game birds during any open season.

RESTRICTED DEVICES:

Animals and birds not classified as migratory may be hunted from a motor vehicle, powerboat, or sailboat, or from any other floating device within the boundaries of private property or upon private water if no attempt is made to hunt any wild bird or wild animal on any part of the road system or public waters of this state.

Calling devices, except recordings and electrically amplified calls, are permitted.

Artificial light of any form may not be used to take game animals and game birds.

Cables, chains, ropes or other devices connected between moving objects may not be used when hunting pheasant.

DOGS: It is illegal to hunt deer with dogs, except as permitted in the county listing.

In all other counties except as further restricted, no more than two dogs may be used for trailing wounded deer. A wounded deer is defined as a deer leaving a blood trail.

FALCONRY: Persons holding valid falconry permits issued by the Parks and Wildlife Department may hunt game birds only during the period from Sept. 1 through March 1 of each year except Attwater's prairie chicken. Migratory game bird digest. Game animals and furbearers may be taken only during regular open seasons. The bag limit for game birds is one, either sex, per raptor. Bag and possession limits for game animals and furbearers are the same as for regular seasons. Persons hunting by means of falconry may not possess, or be accompanied by anyone possessing, either firearms or longbow and arrow.

The scoring method we will incorporate will measure on each antler the beam length, the length of all points over one inch inside main beam spread will be added to the above measurements. The main beam is not to be measured as a length of a point as the main beam length measurement takes care of this.

velvet, it would feel very warm because of all the blood flowing through it. This velvet covering also may keep the deer cooler in the summer by bringing some of the animal's body heat to the surface where it can escape.

An antler in velvet is soft, tender, easily injured and will bleed if cut. Bucks make every effort to protect their growing antlers, and a serious injury could produce a deformed set. Once the three-month, rapid growth period is over, the antlers begin to harden (mineralize) beneath the velvet.

By September the fully developed antlers have hardened and the buck's body starts getting ready you haven't found any lying around in the woods.

Once the antlers are shed, they don't last long in the wild. As storehouses for mineral salts so prized by rodents, they quickly become food for mice, rats, squirrels and porcupines. As they nibble away, the antler's calcium and phosphorus provide nourishment and the gnawing action helps keep the rodents' teeth worn down. Those not eaten are bleached, softened and weathered away by the sun and rain until they become part of the soil. Their minerals may one day provide the nourishment for a plant that will be eaten by a buck and in turn provide nourishment for his growing antlers. So go the cycles in nature.

for the breeding season. His complex hormone balance changes and the blood supply to the antlers is cut off. The un-nourished velvet dies and begins peeling away from the hardened antlers. As the buck rubs his antlers on trees and brush all the velvet eventually is rubbed off, but until this is accomplished, it is not uncommon to see bucks running around with shreds of dried velvet hanging from their antlers.

Majestic, polished antlers once more adorn the buck's head when the breeding season starts, and if the buck is not harvested during the hunting season, these antlers will be shed as last year's were. At this point you may be asking, "What happens to all those antlers the bucks are shedding each year?" Or you may be wondering why where they were attached. Scabs quickly form over the raw pedicels and before long only scars remain to mark where the antlers were. Once the pedicels are healed, new antler buds form and the buck begins growing the next year's rack. Growth is extremely rapid and requires a tremendous amount of food. If the buck is able to find enough high-quality, protein-rich browse to satisfy his increased appetite and antler-growing needs, he can produce a full rack in about three months.

From the time the new antlers begin growing from the pedicels until they reach their full size, they are covered with a soft, brown-haired skin called "velvet." Tiny blood vessels in the velvet bring food and minerals to the growing antlers. If you were able to touch this the points (tines) is broken during combat. When you consider the impact on the tines as the bucks clash together and thrash around it is surprising they are broken so seldom.

Breeding hormones keep the antlers firmly attached to the head; however, as the season draws to a close this hormone production stops. The bone at the antler base (pedicel) then begins to erode or wear away and the antlers drop off. Individual bucks usually drop their antlers about the same time each year. Shedding takes place from mid-January to mid-April, but most mature bucks in good physical condition have dropped theirs by the end of February. Immature bucks usually are a little slower.

When the antlers are shed, a slight amount of blood oozes from the spots

Antler Development

Article by Ilo Hiller Illustrations by Andrew Saldana

Horns and antlers both are hard objects that protrude from the heads of various mammals, but the two growths are not alike.

Horns have a bony center or core, from the base of which grows a covering of hardened, modified cells called keratin. (Keratin also is found in such things as hair, fingernails, beaks, claws, hooves, snakeskins and armadillo shells.) Horns rarely are shed and usually continue to grow throughout an animal's lifetime. Both males and females may have them, but the female's usually are smaller and less impressive. Most hoofed animals, such as cattle, sheep, goats and their wild relatives, grow horns.

Pronghorn antelope also grow horns, but theirs are slightly different. They, too, have a keratin sheath covering a bony core, but a new sheath grows each year, pushing off the old one shortly after the breeding season is over. The male's horns are branched (pronged) while the female's are smaller and seldom pronged.

Unlike horns, antlers are solid bone and are grown only by members of the deer family--deer, elk, moose and caribou. Normally only the males grow them; however, female reindeer and caribou are exceptions. These females generally use their antlers to push others away from the best feeding spots, especially when food is scarce. Males primarily use their antlers for fighting each other during the breeding season.

Moose antlers, which measure as much as seven feet from tip to tip and weigh more than 45 pounds, are among the largest modern specimens, but the extinct Irish elk's were even bigger. Antlers from this elk, found buried in the peat bogs of Ireland, measure 11 feet from one side to the other. The impressive size of some antlers becomes even more amazing when we discover that antlers are shed each year after breeding season and must be replaced with a new set grown the following year.

To understand the mysteries of antler development, let's follow the growth cycle of a normal, well-fed, male white-tailed deer.

As we join him during the breeding season, his antlers are fully developed--the hard, polished weapons of a lusty warrior competing with other bucks for available does. The antlers are solid calcium, so no bleeding occurs if one of

160 County Deer Census

by Bruce Kerbow

The following information was gathered from a job performance report as required by the Federal Aid in Wildlife Restoration Act. This report was issued June 1, 1985. White-tailed deer (Odocoileus virginianus) were censused in 160 counties in Texas during 1984. Methods used to census deer populations included Hahn cruise lines, spotlight surveys, evening mobile counts and aerial surveys.

The annual census indicated that Texas had an estimated 3,985,825 white-tailed deer which occupied 71,641,775 acres. On a statewide basis, the surveys indicated a density of 55.6 deer per 1,000 acres or 18.0 acres per deer. The central one third of Texas which includes the Cross Timbers and Prairies, Edwards Plateau, and South Texas Plains ecological areas comprised 63 percent of the State's deer range and contained 68 percent of the whitetailed deer population in 1984.

Long term density estimates (10 years, 1975 through 1984) expressed an acres per deer ratio for various areas of the state as follows: Gulf Prairies and Marshes as 14.3 acres per deer; Post Oak Savannah, 23.8; Cross Timbers and Prairies, 25.3; Edwards Plateau 13.4; South Texas Plains 26.8; and Trans Pecos, 62.5. Note should be made here that the ratio above refers to whitetailed and should not be interpreted to include Mule Deer. Fawn production and survival which are expressed as fawns per doe for the same areas are as follows: Gulf Prairies and Marshes .45; Post Oak Savannah, .37; Cross Timbers and Prairies, .63; Edwards Plateau, .57; South Texas, .39; and Trans Pecos, .57. These ratios show a higher rate of survival. These are the areas that, in order to maintain a healthy deer population, need to be hunted. The deer in the Edwards Plateau region have to compete with the livestock for survival and as a result, this region has larger die offs than other regions. This should tell the landowner that:

1.) The carrying capacity of the land is inadequate for the number of livestock units if he wishes to maintain a whitetail deer herd or

2.) The number of deer harvested annually needs to be increased. The ability of the whitetailed to be used for a source of income is remarkable. Of course, the landowner does not own the deer on his land and a hunter does not pay for the actual harvest but for the right to trespass.

The Buck to Doe ratio within the various areas of the state are as follows: (These ratios are likewise long term and are expressed as does and bucks.) Gulf Prairies and Marshes, 2.72; Post Oak Savannah, 4.77; Cross Timber and Prairies 3.68; Edwards Plateau, 3.29; South Texas Plains, 3.40; and Trans Pecos, 2.87. For the hunter, the greater possibilities of harvesting a buck are found in the Gulf Prairies and Marshes which contains a density of one deer for every 14.3 acres with a buck/doe ratio of 2.72 does per buck.

Within the Edwards Plateau, the ten counties, in order of population estimates, are: Kerr, Mason, Gillespie, Kimble, Crockett, Edwards, Val Verde, Llano, Sutton, and Blanco. One only has to look at a map with county delineations to see which of these are the smallest counties and should have highest population density of whitetailed deer. I think one would find that Mason county has the highest density of deer with one deer for every 4.3 acres followed by Kerr with 1/4.9 and Gillespie at 1/5.3 acres. What is the ideal density for any given county is more or less an educated guess. But the fact remains that in order to obtain maximum growth to the individual deer itself and to the population of the deer herd in any given area, there has to be a management program of some kind.

The Edwards Plateau is probably the largest designated area in the state, hence the higher population figures.

1.) This report was issued June 1, 1985 by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department under the Federal Aid Project No. W-109-R-8.

2.) Each Hahn Cruise line is two miles in length and lies cross-country from east to west through typical deer habitat. An observer (wildlife biologist or wildlife technician) walks each line, which is permanently marked with paint on trees, rocks, and posts, etc., during the last hours of daylight, recording the number of deer seen by age and sex class. Deer density estimates are obtained by dividing the number of deer into the number of visible acres calculated along the survey route.

Statistics for Sutton County are as follows:

1983 population 67,428 density 1 deer per 14.1 acres 20.5 percent bucks 3.72 doe/bucks 1984 population 69,397 density 1 deer per 13.7 acres 14.7 percent bucks 3.59 doe/buck 1985 population 75,038 density 1 deer per 12.67 acres buck/doe 1/3.58 Herd Increment .59 fawn/doe .76

DAY LEASES

According to Texas Parks and Wildlife, prospects for the upcoming white-tailed deer hunting season are good across most of Texas. Wildlife officials say deer are numerous, antler development is good and habitat conditions are much better in most areas than they were last year.

"I would advise hunters that prospects for success may be much better later in the season than they will be in the first week or two," says Horace Gore, white-tailed deer program leader for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department. The whitetail season is Nov. 9, 1985 through Jan. 5, 1986 in most counties.

From information received from the Sonora Chamber of Commerce the following is a list of Day Leases and Season Leases available in Sutton County. Although most leases are booked for this year, it is always a good idea to get a jump on next year's hunters. So make your hunting plans for 1986.

THE 10 COMMANDMENTS OF SHOOTING SAFETY

1. Treat every gun with the respect due a loaded gun. This is the cardinal rule of gun safety.
2. Guns carried into camp or home must always be unloaded, taken down or have actions open; guns always should be encased until reaching the shooting area.
3. Always be sure that the barrel and action are clear of obstructions.
4. Always carry your gun so that you can control the direction of the muzzle, even if you stumble. Keep the safety on until you are ready to shoot.
5. Be sure of your target before you pull the trigger.
6. Never point a gun at anything you do not want to shoot.
7. Unattended guns should be unloaded; guns and ammunition should be stored safely beyond reach of children and careless adults.
8. Never climb a tree or a fence with a loaded gun.
9. Never shoot at a flat, hard surface or the surface of water.
