Young exhibitor captures hearts of crowd

Editor's note: The following article was written by Wade See, a junior Ag. Journalism major at Texas A&M and submitted as news from the Houston Livestock Show.

In a cover letter accompanying the article, See notes that this was an especially moving story for him. We would like Mr. See to know that anyone who has watched the subject of his article show sheep has also been moved.

Brandon Faris was diagnosed as having a brain tumor when he was seven months old. Although he is currently nine years old and the size of a four to five year old, he captured the hearts of the crowd as he waltzed into the judging arena at the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo.

He was almost hidden from view by his 103-pound fine wool market lamb. He appeared confident for his first appearance at the Houston Show, but the grimace on his face was apparent as he struggled to maintain control over the animal that weighed almost twice as much as his own 55 pounds.

What Brandon, son of Preston and Kay Faris of Sonora, lacks in size, he more than makes up for in character and courage.

The first sign that the crowd was pulling for Brandon came as he walked his lamb toward the gate leading out of the arena. Brandon's lamb had not made the first cut and they were gracefully bowing out when judge Larry Shell stopped Brandon for a second time and paused again. Suddenly, accompanied by a roar of screams from the crowd, Shell gave the signal to weigh the lamb. Brandon's lamb, "J.J.", was back in the competition.

His mother said when she saw Brandon make the cut, she was thrilled. "I think I cried," she said.

As Brandon struggled, determined to get his lamb to stand right, his parents anxiously leaned toward the rail. Mrs. Faris said, "You want to help them but you can't. You just have to let them do it on their own." Brandon did it on his own and he did it with pride.

"J.J." went on to win 23rd place in his light weight class of 93 lambs. Brandon's mom urged him to tell about his lucky suspenders, and he replied with the same proud grin, "They keep my pants from falling down!" His mom added he wore the suspenders when he won the championship at his county fair.

His mother was smiling brightly with the love she holds for her son beaming out—it wasn't something she could hide nor did she want to. She said as prideful tears began to well in her eyes, "We are very proud of Brandon, he has come a long way. He is always well liked—he has a wonderful personality."

Indeed he does, the crowd and this reporter both were captivated by this young man's personality and courage.

National Employ the Older Worker Week, March 13-19

Each year National Employ the Older Worker Week is proclaimed to draw special attention to the growing and valuable resource of older workers. During the week of March 13-19, Green Thumb, a senior community service employment program, funded by the Department of Labor, encourages both public and private employers to join in acknowledging the important contribution of older workers.

Joe Rankin, President of Texas Farmers Union, which sponsors the Green Thumb, invites employers "to utilize the abundance of talent, resourcefulness, and experience by hiring older Texans. Programs such as Green Thumb assist older workers in locating jobs both in the public and private sectors of rural Texas where employment opportunities and services are so greatly needed.

"We at Farmers Union take very special pride in our affiliation with Green Thumb, which currently provides part-time employment and training for over 1,000 program enrollees in 129 Texas counties.

"Senior employment programs allow senior Texans to prove to employers that chronological age is the least important measure of a person's true worth," he added.

Texas Farmers Union Green Thumb places program enrollees age 55 and older with local non-profit organizations to provide needed manpower services in such areas as senior centers, day care and headstart programs, schools, public works, weatherization, libraries, and municipalities.

"During National Employ the Older Worker Week, and every other week, Texas employers should utilize one of our state's most valuable resources—the older worker. Hiring experience, dependability, reliability and dedication is simply good business," Rankin concluded.

The public is cordially invited to be present for this informative health awareness program.

Texas taxpayers are angry!

Dear Commissioner Nabers: I am sick of bureaucratic double talk and non-explanations for this mindless increase in our taxes. I had no claims filed and yet my rate went up over 200% while those who are contributing the most to unemployment got about a 16% increase. I defy anyone to give me a reasonable explanation for why this should be so. I furthermore wonder why the Texas Employment Commission continues to pay benefits to every lazy bum that thinks he's too good to work. Jobs are going begging around here, yet people just keep on getting their unemployment checks. I tell you and every other state employee living off my tax dollars that state government is fast making Texas a LOUSY place to do business.

A Texas Taxpayer who is hanging on by a thinner and thinner thread every day.

Dear Taxpayer: I understand your rage but I urge you to consider the following: For decades, Texas ranked almost at the very bottom nationally as far as unemployment taxes. Everyone knew that if we ever suffered a recession tax increases would be swift and severe. Still, no one wanted to pay more until it was absolutely necessary and that is understandable. Unfortunately, that time has come!

Over 60% of the state's taxpayers have been paying the minimum rate and you were one of those fortunate ones. The legislature was forced to make changes in the state's method of taxation because of the number of unemployed men and women in Texas and the fact that in 1987 there were more bankruptcies than ever before in the state's history. Rates were forced up because we are dealing with a

Commissioner
Mary Scott Nabers

Texas Business Today

50 year old federal law that says people who become unemployed through no fault of their own must be paid benefits. No one in state government had any option in the matter!

If you know of any man or woman who is drawing benefits while turning down work, please call me immediately (1-800-TEC-MARY). That is a situation that should never occur!

Dear Commissioner Nabers: How much more will Texas employers be paying into the unemployment fund in 1988 than they did in 1987?

F. T.
Odessa, Texas

Dear F. T.: Our projections are that employers will be paying approximately $400 million dollars more into the fund this year than last year. Total tax revenue collected in 1987 was $943,304,100. Projected tax revenue for 1988 will be 1.3 billion dollars.

Dear Commissioner Nabers: How does unemployment in Texas compare to other states? How do our tax rates compare?

V. C.
Brenham, Texas

Dear V. C.: As of October, 1987, only 5 states had higher unemployment. We are #6 in the nation behind Louisiana, West Virginia, Mississippi, Alaska and New Mexico.

It is difficult to compare in any meaningful way the tax rates of all the states. Average wages vary considerably from state to state as do the taxable wage bases. Overall, however it is accurate to say that even with our current increases, Texas still ranks in the bottom half of the nation in unemployment tax rates.

Ms. Nabers represents 336,000 employers throughout Texas. If you have any questions you want answered, please write Commissioner Nabers at: TEXAS BUSINESS TODAY, 614 Texas Employment Commission Building, 15th and Congress, Austin, Texas 78778.

Texas' oldest producing producers being sought

Have you been actively involved in farming or ranching in Texas for several decades? If so, then the Texas Department of Agriculture is looking for you.

For the first time, TDA is attempting to locate the oldest active producer in each of the regions served by its district offices. The honoree in each of TDA's 12 districts will be honored during the special observance during Texas Agriculture Week, March 20-26. The 1988 theme is "Planting Today for Tomorrow's Harvest."

"Seasoned farmers and ranchers have made invaluable contributions to the agricultural industry. This year, we wanted to take time during our annual focus on this vital industry to recognize the hardworking people who repeatedly overcome devastating odds to provide the rest of us with food and clothing," said TDA El Paso District Supervisor Luis Mata.

"It is our hope that they will take a few moments out of their busy schedules and allow us to try to give them a brief token of our appreciation of their tireless efforts," Mata said. "After all, without the strong foundation they have laid, there would be no future for Texas agriculture."

For more information about the Oldest Producing Producer contest or other Texas Agriculture Week activities, contact TDA's El Paso District office at 915/532-6567 or Odessa satellite office at 915/337-0491.

Teacher Job Fair, April 6th

The 7th Annual Angelo State University Teacher Job Fair will be held Wednesday, April 6, 1988 from 9 a.m.-4:00 p.m. in the Houston Harte University Center Ballroom. Personnel representatives from more than sixty school districts will be on hand to interview prospective teachers. Anyone may participate who is currently certified or who will be certified by August, 1988.

There will be no need to pre-register, but teachers should bring enough copies of their resumes so that one can be given to each district in which there is interest. The Job Fair is being sponsored by the Center for Counseling and Placement Services and the ASU Department of Education. If you have questions, call 942-2255.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

by T. Driskell

Massive legal resources come out of the woodwork, without eradicator inducement, to eagerly defend the rights of convicted felons. The rights of the victims of felonies, however, appear to be virtually defenseless. The icing on this nauseating bit of cake, a federal judiciary which demands a trend toward the "country club" in our penal institutions, offers no improvement. It forces, in fact, release of prisoners before completing their term, or building prison after prison.

In my lifetime it has been my pleasure, or consternation, to watch auxiliary construction in Texas back yards. The 1930's allowed me to watch the construction of backyard storm-cellar (protection against toronados). The late 1940's and 1950's saw atomic shelters built (against an atomic war). Looking at Eden, Pecos, Snyder and other Texas towns one might ask, "Have you built your backyard prison yet?" Absurd? Yes, but a logical projection of present trends.

There would seem to be better solutions. We could, for example, build a big confinement area, say around Texas, fifty miles inside the Texas boundaries, with a ten to fifteen mile buffer zone inside that. All unconvicted Texans would be placed inside the confinement area, and all convicted felons would be placed outside the area, to take care of their own rights. Adjustments would be quite simple - people convicted of felonies would be booted over the fence.

Preposterous-yes-but something must be done to restore the Constitution's interpretation to the realm of reality. The prison, no deterrent to crime, is neither corrective nor punitive but takes on rest and recuperation aspects for the repeater. Financially it is unrealistic. A man who has worked with the State's prison finances, now makes about $65,000 a year, says he could barely afford two prisoners in maximum security. How many can you and I afford?

TO THE VOTERS OF SUTTON COUNTY: THANK YOU!

Thank you for your vote of confidence at the polls. My staff and I appreciate the opportunity to continue to serve you as we have the past eleven years.

A special thank you to the many, many individuals who expressed a personal interest in my re-election campaign. My family and I appreciate the time and effort of many spent on my behalf. The generous campaign contributions allowed me to communicate to the public my desire to continue to serve as your Sheriff.

The posters hand-made by many of you, the willingness to display them, the telephone committee, the public support of many of our community leaders, the assistance with distribution of literature, the 500 plus persons who publically endorsed my re-election efforts, the personal messages we received expressing moral support-to all of you: Heartfelt Thanks!

There are so many I would like to mention individually, but this space will not allow. However, I must say a big "thank you" to Pat and Butch Campbell, who in the beginning organized all of the above campaign efforts. Also for the assistance with the radio campaign, I want to thank Ernest Barrera, Roberto Duran and Lemuel Lopez. The support and hours spent in my behalf is so very much appreciated.

The Sutton County Sheriffs office is always at your disposal. Should any one of you have a personal need, I hope you will free to call upon me at any time. Thank you again.

New construction is underway at the Sonora Golf Course. A water hazard is currently being built by Locations Builders on Hole #1. This will be the second water hazard on our nine hole course. We also have fifteen ducks that attend class regularly.

Local contractors, merchants, and other individuals are periodically asked to help on special projects relating to the golf course. There are not enough words to express our thanks to the folks that donate time, money, or equipment to our municipal course. Within a radius of 100 miles you will find very few courses to equal ours. Club Pro, George Johnson, along with Brian Rhodes, keeps our course in excellent shape.

Spring is almost here, so get the dust off your clubs and come play some golf!

Homemakers Update

Packs or pounds?

Almost 4600 Texas women--our mothers, sisters and friends--died last year from smoking-related diseases. Although most women know that smoking poses significant health risks, many fear they will gain weight once they stop.

Which is worse, smoking or gaining weight? According to Dr. Michael Crawford, President of the Texas Affiliate of the American Heart Association, "pound for pack, you're better off giving up cigarettes."

But putting on pounds doesn't have to be the result if you put down cigarettes. Here are some of the problems women who quit may face, and some ideas for dealing with them.

*Increased appetite, once you quit smoking, food may taste better, so you want to eat more. Or since you no longer smoke after dinner, you may find yourself having extra helpings or desserts. Try slowing down meals by cutting food into smaller pieces; eat slowly, and leave the table as soon as you are finished. Save dessert for later and substitute lower-calorie treats.

*Oral craving. If you're used to having a cigarette in your mouth, food may become a replacement. Instead, try sugarless gum or mints. Occupy your hands too, with needlework, puzzles, gardening or anything you enjoy doing.

*Munching. The desire to munch is associated with oral craving. You put food, rather than a cigarette in your mouth. To satisfy the munchies, keep your kitchen stocked with raw vegetables, crackers, unbuttered popcorn or dry cereal. Or try saving a portion of your meal as a snack.

*Social situations. You may find yourself overeating in social situations where you ordinarily would have smoked. Try substituting a walk for a donut at coffee break, and position yourself away from the food table at parties.

FIS to be presented at City Hall March 22

Notice is hereby given that a Final Community Coordination Meeting for the National Flood Insurance Program (NFIP) will be held on Tuesday, March 22, 1988 at 2:00 p.m., in the Sonora City Hall.

The purpose of this meeting is to present and discuss the Flood Insurance Study (FIS) prepared for your community by the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA). In the meeting Mr. Bob Hendricks will discuss the minimum requirements for community participation in the NFIP, the flood insurance maps and study prepared for Sonora, the study appeals process, and the availability and significance of flood insurance coverage within the community. Also, to be discussed will be various planning considerations which exceed the minimum requirements of the NFIP, but which would offer an additional degree of flood protection for the citizens of Sonora.

Everyone in the community, including elected officials, appropriate city staff, emergency services personnel, the public and representatives of the media, are encouraged to attend to review and discuss the potential for flooding within the City of Sonora.

Girl Scout Rendezvous '88

Picture a sea of green in May on the South Plains of Texas. No, it's not wheat or cotton. It's thousands of Girl Scouts-Girls and Adults-gathering for the Texas Rendezvous in Lubbock May 27-29 for the biggest Girl Scout Reunion ever.

A new concept in encouraging the sisterhood of all Girl Scouts, the Texas Rendezvous wants current and former members to convene for a Memorial Day weekend of entertainment and fun sponsored by the Caprock Girl Scout Council.

An array of events have been planned for all ages including a parade, contests, tours and a talent show.

Housing will be available in local motels, dormitory beds at Lubbock Christian University, tent and RV sites and homes for individual girls and small groups.

Participants may come as an individual or troops, "One girl or a busload," according to Liz Sisco, chairman.

Individual girls will be "Adopted" by Lubbock Area Girl Scout Troops and participate with that troop.

"We envision the Texas Rendezvous as an opportunity for former troop members or camp staffs to get together in an atmosphere tailored to bring back memories. For current girl and adult members we want to entertain them on a Texas-sized scale to show the scope of girls scouting," she explained.

For additional information, check with individual Girl Scouts Council offices or write Caprock Council, 2567 74th Street, Lubbock, Texas 79423.

SOCIAL SECURITY

Employers should check wage reports

Employers, particularly those who have only a few workers, should ensure that the correct names and Social Security numbers of their employees are being reported in their annual wage and tax reports to the Social Security Administration. Social Security records show that small employers are more likely than larger employers to have errors in their wage reports.

Employers are required to report wages paid in 1987 to the Social Security Administration through the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) by the end of February. The wage reports go into lifetime earnings records for workers, which are the basis for benefits paid under the Social Security programs of retirement, survivors, disability insurance, and Medicare.

To insure correct wage reporting, employers are urged to ask to see each new employee's Social Security card and to record the name and Social Security number exactly as shown on the card at the time they are hired. Don't rely on the employee's memory.

In addition, employers should have their employees compare the Social Security number card with the name and number on their pay stubs and on their W-2 forms. If they are not the same, the employee should be sure to report the discrepancy to the Social Security Administration.

Employers who file 250 or more wage reports will be required for the first time this year to file wage reports by magnetic media. The new IRS requirement will mean faster and more accurate processing of the millions of employer wage items by Social Security. Magnetic reporting reduces the cost of data entry for Social Security as well as the risk of loss, damage, and errors that may result from the manual processing of paper reports. It also reduces paperwork for the employers, including printing, stripping, handling, sorting, and mailing forms first class.

Employers who want more information on how to assure accurate wage reports should call the nearest IRS or Social Security office. The San Angelo Social Security Office is located at 2214 Sherwood Way, and the telephone number is 949-4608.

Nature Facts

Over six billion tons of soil are wind-swept or rain-washed off U.S. farmland, forests, rangelands and streambanks each year. According to National Wildlife magazine, that's enough soil to fill a line of dump trucks stretching from the earth to the moon and three-quarters of the way back.

Nature Facts

Tropical rain forests grow on less than two percent of the earth's surface. But according to Ranger Rick magazine, the forests are home to well over half of the earth's species—many of which have yet to be discovered.

San Angelo Symphony Orchestra and Chorale present REQUIEM

Giuseppe Verdi's dramatic and possibly greatest work, the REQUIEM, will be performed by the San Angelo Symphony Orchestra, the San Angelo Symphony Chorale, and guest soloists on Saturday, March 19th, 8:00 P. M. at the San Angelo Auditorium. This presentation of the 19th century Italian composer's masterpiece features the combined efforts of the eighty piece orchestra and one hundred twenty member chorale under the direction of Maestro Gene Chartier Smith. The Director of the Chorale, James Queen, has prepared the latter group for this dramatic choral work. Soloists for the performance are Marion Cawood, soprano, Professor of Voice at Abilene Christian University; Cheryl Allen, alto, Assistant Professor of Voice at McMurry College; Reginald Pittman, tenor, Assistant Professor of Voice at the University of Nebraska; and Charles Nelson, bass, presently Artist-in-Residence at A.C.U.

The REQUIEM was written as a musical memorial to the departed, a mass for the dead, but in this case was intended to be performed as a concert piece rather than for liturgical use. Divided into seven sections, the REQUIEM'S various movements express solemnity, doom, fear, hope and peace. It is a powerful, moving work.

The opera will be performed in Latin with the Latin text and English translation provided in the program. There will not be an intermission during the performance to insure the flow and continuity of this work.

Approximately sixty members of the San Angelo Symphony Chorale will perform in New York at Carnegie Hall on May 29, 1988. Under the direction of Maestro John Keenan, the Chorale will join eight other distinguished choruses from major cities throughout the United States in a major presentation of Verdi's REQUIEM.

The San Angelo Symphony's "Gourmet Season" will present its final concert April 23rd. The family Pops Concert is entitled "Encore, Encore" and will feature returning artists, Buddy Spicker, Michael Henry Martin, and San Angelo's own Broadway singer, Tudi Roche.

Tickets are $7.50 for adults and $3.00 for students. They are available at Holland Jewelry stores (downtown and Sunset Mall) and Sloper Jewelry (Park 2400). Tickets are also sold at the door the night of the performance. For further information, contact the Symphony Office at 658-5877 or write P. O. Box 5922, San Angelo, Texas 76902.

HEALTH CARE

A sense of purpose

Many feel that the script of their lives is already written. All that is left for them to do is follow along to its conclusion. To do so precludes any idea of self-determination. It negates any thought that a single person can make a difference. While it may well be true that the "stage" of our lives is set, it does not necessarily follow that we should be passive actors. As William Jennings Bryan opined: "Destiny is not a matter of chance, it is a matter of choice; it is not a thing to be waited for, it is a thing to be achieved." Life requires that a person be fully engaged. Otherwise, the seas of life will toss him about like a ship without a rudder.

As seasons come and go, so do one's needs in life. At the Lillian M. Hudspeth Nursing Home, 308 Hudspeth, we realize there is this changing pattern and approach each of our nursing home residents, striving to meet their individual requirements. We offer a home town spirit and a neat and clean environment. For more information, call 387-2521.
