What about an employee who gives a two weeks notice of resignation?

Dear Commissioner Nabers: An employee of mine came in yesterday and gave me a written two week notice of resignation. I think this employee has been looking for other work for some time now as his performance for me has been less than sterling lately. I would prefer to let him go today instead of letting him work out his notice. Can I do this or would that be changing his resignation to a discharge? If I can go ahead and accept the resignation effective immediately, do I have to pay him for the two weeks?

S.V.
Amarillo, Tx.

Dear S.V.: As far as a possible claim for unemployment insurance benefits is concerned, accepting an employee's two week notice at your convenience does not change the work separation from a voluntary quit to a discharge. Immediate acceptance of notice of more than the standard two weeks, on the other hand, may

Commissioner

Mary Scott Nabers

Texas Business Today

call the nature of the separation into question. Unless your company policy specifically obligates you to pay the unworked two weeks, you do not have to do so. It is wise to remember, however, that the two week notice is a traditional standard which exists because it normally benefits both parties in making a smooth transition. If you accept resignations effective immediately without pay, you are discouraging employees from giving you any notice whatsoever. In the absence of an employment contract, an employee is no more obligated to give you notice than you are obligated to let him work out that notice.

Dear Commissioner Nabers: Is it possible to get transcripts of an appeals hearing?

H.J.
Killeen, Tx.

Dear H.J.: The agency does not provide written transcripts of the recorded hearing. We do, however, provide a tape duplicate of the hearing. You may request a tape by contacting the Appeal Tribunal or the Department of Commission Appeals at the TEC Building, 15th and Congress, Austin, Tx., 78778. Be sure to include on your request the claimant's name and social security number as well

Letters To The Editor

Editors note: The following letter was received at Lillian M. Hudspeth Hospital and needs to be shared with the community.

Dear Staff,
We would like to sincerely thank all of you who tended to Casey on Saturday, April 29. We think the whole lot of you (doctors, nurses, attendants, everyone) are just fine people. We are really grateful for the attention you gave to Casey and to the whole family.

Also please convey my gratitude to the Sheriff's office for their help and consideration. The whole town of Sonora should be proud of you all!

Casey is doing fine. I know some ambulance attendants came to Shannon on Tuesday the 2nd to see how she was doing. I appreciate your thoughtfulness very much.

Dr. Lagrande at San Angelo released Casey on Wednesday evening. She has improved steadily ever since with just an occasional headache now and then. The hairline fracture she suffered will take care of itself, and she seems to have escaped any serious side-effects.

Again, we all thank everyone who attended to Casey and hope you will pass on our deep appreciation!

Sincerely,
Patricia Knaupp
and family.

P.S. I am sending back the gown Casey used. Thanks!

To the Editor:

Here we go again. I personally am weary of the early morning interference, static, distortion, or whatever, that is in evidence on CBS Channel 8, (KLST, San Angelo), every morning until shortly after 8. (I'm told that it clears up about then--like so many of us, I have to be at work at 8, so I seldom know what's going on in the more-or-less local area until late afternoon.)

Of course, the cause of all this interference in well-known. It is caused by a variety of things: either the wind is blowing, weather conditions are too hot, too cold, or too still; it's clearly the fault of the electric power company; it's raining--or to dry; or someone spit on the road between here and San Angelo.

If this were not a daily occurrence, it would be more easily borne. One would think that the cable company could be persuaded to plow some of what must be enormous profits back into the company to update or replace this amazingly sensitive equipment. Why can we get Dallas, Chicago and Atlanta, but not San Angelo, which is as close as we have to a local station, is beyond my comprehension. Ah well--perhaps all this is to teach us country bumpkins patience and fortitude. Unfortunately, it's not working.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

by T. Driskell

We live in a most interesting age. President Bush is walking into a virtual hornet's nest in the next NATO meeting of foreign ministers in Brussels. Germany, it seems has realized that in case of a Russian push into Western Europe they will be the first battle ground, a fact that has been rather obvious since the onset of the Cold War about 41 years ago. In the shadow of the somewhat blighted olive branches that have been extended by Gorbachev, they perceive an escape path, even though it may be imaginary. They want to be led or walk down the that path.

Our standpoint is clear; we must have tactical nuclear weapons (as modern as possible) for use on the battlefield. Without them it becomes a game of numbers because the concern is the necessity to match the eastern forces man for man and tank for tank. We can hardly afford the expense required to bring us up to parity in men, tanks, and planes.

Gorbachev has thrown a monkey wrench into the flywheel on NATO tranquility by offering to discuss a reduction of short range missiles (an offer laid out to the German opposition parties in great detail). It has really snarled up the German Premier Kohl's political machinery with support at home to remain in office.

Bush is confronted by some indications which might lead to the conclusion that Russian tactical "nukes" may be more advanced than the ones in the hands of NATO forces. He is therefore confronted by the necessity to modernize our tactical nuclear NATO before any reduction can even be considered (and Gorbachev has already thrown the idea on the table). Our machinery as a result is running with a chip knocked out of the flywheel by the monkey-wrench.

The support lines are shaping up on two sides of the question. One side favors retention of tactical "nukes" until we have a valid indication that Gorbachev is sincere in his reduction of conventional forces and has carried it out to a level of parity with our forces. The second side wants to get rid of all tactical "nukes" last week with a blind trust in Gorbachev. The preferred retention time diminishes rapidly as you approach the Russian frontier reaching the vanishing point first about the dividing line between East and West Germany.

Bush has trump card in the threat to withdraw the American forces from NATO, severely damaging its structure, or leaving a somewhat smaller token force in place and then negotiating a further reduction in forces with Gorbachev to compensate. The shakedown cruises are over Bush is in for the ultimate test of diplomacy.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Sonora,

I would like to thank you so very much for supporting me for the Miss Texas Pageant. This is a special honor and very exciting opportunity.

Thanks to your help all of this can be possible.

Love, Preccia

I wish there were words to adequately express my gratitude to all the wonderful people of Sonora for their concern. their prayers, telephone calls, cards, visits, flowers, and the many kind deeds they did for me during and following my stay in Shannon Hospital. When I came to Sonora in 1932 I thought I had come to the end of the world:

Today there is nothing that could make me leave! There is surely not a more caring, loving community in all the world. Thank you from the bottom of my heart!

Retirement reform proposed

State Sen. Hugh Parmer filed legislation that would provide earlier retirement and other significant pension improvements for all public school employees.

At a Capitol news conference, Sen. Parmer was joined by the bill's backers, the Texas State Teacher Association, to lay out Senate Bill 368, legislation that would shave years off the required age and years of service for full retirement for teachers and other school employees.

The bill, which would cost the state $3 million, would reform the state's Teacher Retirement System (TRS) by providing retirement without loss of benefits to persons who have accumulated any combination of years of service and age totaling 85 years. The current law provides for full retirement only after a person's age and years of service total 95 years.

"It is my belief that the immediate savings to the state by early retirement of those now approaching the age of 65 will offset this small increase in cost because these are the people at the top of the pay scale," Parmer said. "They would be replaced by many who are just now entering the profession on the lower end of the salary schedule."

TSTA President Charles Beard called the legislation a step in the right direction for making teaching and other types of public school service more attractive as careers.

"Texas provides its school employees a miserly benefit package," Beard said. "Teachers get a minimum pay schedule that's ranked 27th in the nation, five days of sick leave with no paid holidays, and a 'bare bones' retirement program. Other school employees get nothing more than the retirement benefits."

Sen. Parmer said he believes the effect of the bill will be to help avert a teacher shortage that could occur as early as 1990.

"I believe this bill will go a long way in persuading middle-aged teachers to stay in the profession at a time when national teachers shortages will be occurring in every state," Parmer said.

Senate Bill 368 would also provide retirees greater flexibility in options for beneficiary payments. For instance, currently if a retiree chooses to accept a lower benefit payment in order to guarantee lifetime payments for his or her spouse, the individual will receive the lower amount even if the spouse dies first. The bill would provide that the retiree's payment would revert to the full amount when the primary beneficiary dies.

Last Tuesday Maxine Locklin called from her office by the old Jail. She said there was a person there who wanted to go through the Museums. Since there are no volunteers to keep the buildings open, I went to do the tour. Waiting there was Pierre Kenyon a pleasant, well dressed young man, originally from Germany, who now lives in Dallas and flies for American Airlines. An experienced and very well equipped photographer, he enjoys touring Texas.

On this particular day, he had flown from Dallas to San Angelo, rented a car and drove to Sonora. The sole purpose of this trip was to see and photograph the country around Sonora. On his list were the Caverns, the Historical area of Sonora which he had read about in a guide book, and Ft. McKavett. He was so interested in the countryside that my husband, Alvis, took him around our ranch to see the goats, cattle and the old windmills.

He ate in Sonora, spent the night in Sonora, bought contact lens solution and probably film. He is just one of scores of people who come into Sonora to see the Historical area. Most of the time there is no one to greet them-so they just travel on.

The Mobile Breast Cancer Detection Unit of Odessa, which services Sonora received the certification of the American College of Radiology Mammography Accreditation Program.

Mammography is an x-ray examination of the breast, which the American Cancer Society and other medical experts see as the best means for the early detection of breast cancer.

The program is voluntary and is designed to insure that women receive optimum quality mammographic examinations. The process is done through a peer review evaluation of the facility's staff qualifications, equipment, quality control and quality assurance programs, image quality, and breast dose. The accreditation must be renewed every three years.

The accreditation program was instituted because of the concerns of radiologists, other national medical organizations, and the public that qualified personnel perform and interpret mammograms and that dedicated mammographic equipment be used. The American College of Radiology received an American Cancer Society Control Grant which was used to pilot test the Accreditation Program.

Breast cancer will strike one in 10 American women. The American Cancer Society predicts that about 41,000 women will die of breast cancer this year. As there is no way to prevent the disease, early detection and treatment offer the greatest hope for survival.

The American Cancer Society recommends that women do monthly breast self-exams and have regular physical breast exams by a doctor. It further recommends mammography on the following schedule:

A baseline mammogram (for reference) between age 35 and 39.

A mammogram every one or two years between age 40 and 49.

An annual mammogram from age 50.

The Breast Cancer Detection Unit will be in Sonora on Thursday, June 1st. You may call 387-2521 for an appointment.

I am so tired of opening my mail box to another pile of junk mail. How can I get my name off mailing lists?

Companies buy and sell mailing lists to other companies all the time.

If you have ever ordered something through the mail, chances are your name was put on a list. That company may have sold the list to another company, who turned around and sold its list to another company.

If you want to get your name off mailing lists, send your request in writing to: Mail Preference Service, Direct Mail Marketing Association, P.O. Box 3861, Grand Central Station, New York, NY 10163-3861.

Your name will be sent to nationwide and regional companies that use mailing lists. Your name should be removed from their lists within about 4 months.

Companies pick up the tab for the service because they see it as a money-saver: it costs them money every time you throw their catalogue away.

Is there a publication I could buy or a place I can call for a listing of mutual funds that are currently available? I have been looking to invest my money in a mutual fund, but there seems to be so many ways to go.

There are quite a few mutual funds out there-several thousand to be exact.

The Investment Company Institute is a national trade group whose member companies comprise most of the mutual fund industry. The institute publishes a guidebook listing the funds that are members of the institute, along with basic information on mutual funds, advice on reading a prospectus and contact names for each fund.

SELF CONTROL

by J. Michael Fish

May the force be with you

External and internal criticisms have proven to be formidable barriers in confining one's creative interests. Coupled with over-estimations of responsibilities or handicaps and infirmities, as the case may be; people wither away into obscurity and nothingness, never realizing the fulfillment, vitality and satisfaction their creative expressions can offer.

Many times I've tried in vain to convince others to pursue their latent or undeveloped talents, explaining that they could actually lengthen their life and more importantly, add vitality to those years. Most of the time I am frustrated by reasons regarding the lack of money, physical impairments, obligations and responsibilities, and some 'half-baked' excuses why they can't yield to their God-given abilities.

What's more, "keeping the drive alive" after discovery and through early stages of development is a feat of sheer courage and self-esteem. External and internal criticisms and doubts can cripple or kill the drive to persist.

My early years in poetry passed with a great deal of ridicule and name calling, often to the point I doubted my own masculinity. I was once propositioned by another male individual after learning I as a poet. For several years I could have been classified a "closet poet" in my reluctance to let people know I could write poems.

It was only after I had come to terms with myself and realized the amount of courage, satisfaction and self-esteem I received from poetry, that I came out into the open. The opinions of others are now of no consequence.

During the research of this and several other articles, I came upon a story of a farmer who became a corporate president after an accident paralyzed him from the neck down. No longer able to work his farm, he went into the implement business with the help of his wife and two of his sons.

He accepted the fact he couldn't move but he could think and communicated first by blinking his eyes and then by means of a specially equipped computer. Imagination and experience provided much more than a better living for his family.

Pablo Casals, the world famous Spanish cellist, conductor and composer was wrought with arthritis and emphysema. Nevertheless, when he put his hands on the cello all symbols of his ailments seemed to disappear. He died at the age of ninety-seven in 1973.

Professor E. Paul Torrance, in the department of educational psychology at the University of Georgia, conducted a study of two Hundred elderly men and women. The subjects were between the ages of 65 and 85 years and lived in a nine-county area in rural Northeastern Georgia.

After a year-long course of painting and drawing, ninety of the aging students completed a questionnaire which yielded some astonishing revelations concerning the benefits of tapping into one's creative potential.

Ninety-six percent said they felt "more alive and fresh"; 71 percent reported they were more active than before; 59 percent said they were not as sick as often as they were before the classes.

Eighty-eight percent did not feel as lonely as they once were; ninety-three percent thought they understood other people better; and ninety-four percent felt "more at peace within myself."

A similar study was made Nebraska with a group of thirty-five senior citizens who took art classes for eighteen weeks and a matching control group of 35 who did not. Eleven years after the classes sixty-seven percent of the students were still living, compared to only thirty-eight percent of the control group. All of the remaining art students were mentally alert and active while only sixty-two percent of the remaining control group were classified as alert and thirty-eight percent were bedridden.

Thomas A. Edison was still inventing at age ninety; Michelangelo did some of his best painting after eighty; Grandma Moses became a painter at seventy-nine. Imagine their out-come had they accepted the popular attitudes concerning the elderly.

We must allow ourselves to be driven by the force that stems from our creative instincts in order to realize the benefits that are ours and ours alone. Though we may share similar skills with others; the products are as individual as those that possess them. Creating the products of our imagination will bear the fruit of a long and vital life for we are merely fulfilling our roles; as the children of God, the Creator.

Those blooming Christians!

C.E. Huffman,
Hope Lutheran Church

"You were born again, not by a seed that perishes but one that cannot perish, God's ever-living Word. All people are like grass, and all their glory like the flower in the grass. The grass withers, and the flower drops off, but the Lord's Word lives forever. This Word is the good news you have been told". 1 Peter 1:23-25

As you've probably noticed, spring is blooming all over! Flowers of different shapes and colors are opening up and witnessing to the beauty of their Creator. The showers and sunshine of springtime bring forth all kinds of new life and growth, refreshing and renewing us with the wonder of it all.

A story is told about Lord Alfred Tennyson, famous poet of the last century. Accompanied by a friend, he was walking in a beautiful garden one day. As they walked, the friend said: 'Mr. Tennyson, you often speak of Jesus. Would you tell me what Christ really means to you?' Tennyson stopped, thought for a moment, and then pointing down to a beautiful flower, replied: 'What the sun is to that flower, Jesus Christ is to my soul!'

And who of us that claim Christ's name should not say the same! What the sun is to the flowers, Christ is to our souls! There isn't a blessing in our life-if we trace it back to the hand which gave it, that doesn't lead us to the creative power and the redeeming love of the Son of God. No matter where we turn, no matter where we look-if there's anything good, anything true, anything that's brought lasting joy and gladness into our life-we must recognize it as a gift that has come to us thru faith in Jesus Christ, our Savior.

Through the prophet Malachi, God the Father promised in chapter 4: "But for you who respect My name there will rise the Sun of Righteousness with healing in His wings". In days of gloom Jesus is our Light of life. In days of sorrow or despondency it is the warmth of His love that lifts our drooping spirits. In days of temptation it is the magnetism of His Cross which holds us from the paths of evil and draws us to His outstretched arms. Yes, in a very real and special sense, Christ is to our souls what the sun is to the flowers!

As we live in the light of the Resurrection of Him who loved us and gave Himself for us-even into death of Calvary's Cross-we can truly sing with blooming gladness the words of the Hymn, 'Beautiful Savior':

*Fair are the meadows, Fair are the woodlands,
Robed in flowers of blooming spring,
Jesus is fairer, Jesus is purer;
He makes our sorrowing spirit sing!*

So remember, when the pressures of life begin to wither your blooming Christian spirit, to again do what the verse of another song urges:

Turn your eyes upon Jesus, Look fully into His wonderful face, And the things of earth will grow strangely dim, In the light of His glory and grace!

Bible School teachers needed

The Episcopalians, Methodists, and Presbyterians are joining in a ministry to the youth of Sonora July 10-14 for Vacation Bible School. There is a need for six teachers and at least twelve aides for the three-four year olds through the fifth and sixth grade classes. A minimum of five women are needed to serve on the refreshment committee, as well as ten students (seventh grade and above) to serve as class escorts for the children.

Be sure to get a few priceless snapshots as family members jump on stage to join the Alabama-Coushatta Indian dancers or learn some fancy footwork at the Filipino tinikling school.

Comfortable walking shoes are a must on any vacation and with 15 acres of events and activities to cover they definitely come in handy at the Festival. Hike to the "Back 40" area to learn more about such crafts and skills as horsehair rope spinning, candlemaking, basket-making and fashioning tree limbs into treenware. March to the rhythm of the farriers as they hammer horseshoes into shape and take a leisurely stroll through the tree-lined animal alley where children and adults can pet sheep, goats, and other farm animals.

Collecting souvenirs is always fun at vacation time and at the Festival children can construct their own kites, make folk toys and screenprint designs on paper to create special mementos for friends and family back home.

When it's time to cool off, step into the Institute's exhibit area to learn more about the many ethnic and cultural groups of Texas. Before heading outside for more Festival fun, relax and enjoy the audiovisual presentation "Faces and Places in Texas."

Festival tickets are $6 for adults, $2 for children ages 6-12 if purchased at the gate; and $5 for adults, $1 for children 6-12 in advance. Children under six are admitted free. Advance tickets will be on sale at numerous locations in imagine reading prayers from a book!

"THOSE CRAZY EPISCOPALIANS"

It's true. Episcopalians base a large share of every worship service on "The Book of Common Prayer," a very uncommon piece of literature.

The word "common," in this instance, means "together." Most churches use a hymnal because they want to sing together. Episcopalians use a prayer book, too, because they like to pray together. No one is ever asked to "lead in prayer," but each finds ample opportunity during the service to frame his own private prayers.

To those who decry written prayers, Episcopalians point out that The Lord's Prayer is just that... and yet its meaning to every Christian is undimmed by its being reproduced in print.

They believe there's good reason for following the Prayer Book's carefully-planned schedule and form of services throughout the Christian year. For one thing, an individual church is thus spared from becoming mired in its minister's "hang ups." Pretty good point, these days?

The biblical background, the history, and the simple form of the Episcopal prayer book make a fascinating story. Your nearest Episcopal minister would be delighted to cover them in detail with you. Don't be afraid he'll "twist your arm." He won't.

Eight tips aired to help Latchkey Children

Latchkey children, those school-age youngsters that must cope each day with empty homes until parents return from the workplace, are a growing breed, numbering from two to six million across the nation.

These children need special guidance in self-help, said Dr. Sarah Anderson, family sciences specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Anderson said that latchkey youngsters need to learn such self-care skills as how to use their time wisely, how to plan and prepare nutritious snacks, and how to deal with various emergency procedures.

Parents can provide a safer environment their latchkey children by instructing them in a number of items, including the following:

*Keys. Instruct your child to keep housekeys in a pocket, purse or wallet.

*Schedule rules. Establish and post house safety rules on use of appliances, answering the door and telephone, and play activities.

*Emergency procedures. Post emergency telephone numbers and addresses near the phone, and make sure your youngster knows how to report an emergency. Practice these steps and enroll the child in a first aid or life skills class.

*Check-in. Set up a check-in routine so that a responsible adult knows when the child has arrived home. This could involve a phone call to your workplace or to a neighbor.

*Friends. Do not allow friends to visit your child when he or she is at home alone. Unsupervised play may get out of hand.

*Entertainment. Provide some type of safe home entertainment or simple chores to ensure that your child won't be bored after school.

*Travel. Do not allow your child to experiment with new routes to and from school. If possible, have your youngster walk to and from school with friends. Emphasize the need to come straight home.

*Alternatives. Keep searching for ways to provide adult supervised care. The local PTA, recreation department or other community agency may offer a school-age child-care program. The county office of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service also can offer assistance.

Texas unemployment rate reverses downward trend

The downward spiral of unemployment rates in Texas reversed itself last month and climbed upward for the first time in many months according to Mary Scott Nabers, Commissioner on the Texas Employment Commission. An actual unemployment rate of 7.0% was recorded in April. That is up from 6.3% in March.

"While we certainly do not like to see unemployment rising," Commissioner Nabers said, "the current rate is no higher this year than it was this time last year."

In 1989, there were an estimated 575,900 unemployed in the STATE, and 7,666,000 Texans were employed.

The count of nonfarm salaried jobs in Texas increased by over 21,000 between March and April, due primarily to seasonal growth. The largest gains occurred in services and in trade, particularly restaurant and amusement industries.

Among the twenty-seven major metropolitan areas for which data are currently available, the majority mirrored the statewide unemployment trend, with higher rates in April. Only two MSA's had April rates which were lower than their March rates. Nine MSA's had rates below 6.0 percent in April, and only four areas had rates above 10 percent.

The areas with the lowest unemployment rates in April were Bryan-College Station, with a 4.6 percent rate; Lubbock, at 5.0 percent; and Austin, Dallas and San Angelo, each with a rate of 5.6 percent in April.

Highest rates were recorded in McAllen-Edinburg-Mission where the April rate was 16.7 percent; Laredo, with a 13.4 percent rate; Brownsville-Harlingen, at 11.8 percent; El Paso, with a 10.3 percent rate; and Beaumont-Port Arthur, at 9.6.

SOCIAL SECURITY

Changes of address must be reported

Social Security beneficiaries risk having their benefits suspended when they forget to inform the Social Security Administration (SSA) of a change of address, Franklin H. Upp, Social Security Manager in San Angelo, said recently.

The people who are most likely to forget to let SSA know about a new address are those whose benefits are going to a bank or other financial institution in direct deposit, Upp said. Even though these benefits are deposited directly to an account, SSA needs current addresses for all beneficiaries in order to send out notices and to fulfill its obligation to verify continuing eligibility.

Every year in January, SSA sends Social Security Benefit Statements Form SSA-1099 to each beneficiary by first class mail. If the Post Office returns the SSA-1099 as undeliverable mail, SSA begins a process which may result in suspension of benefits, Upp said.

First, computer records are checked for a recent change of address, and the notices are mailed a second time. If the second notice is also undeliverable, the bank or other financial institution is asked to provide an up-to-date address. If a good address is not found or the person does not use direct deposit, the next step is to ask the Post Office to check its change of address records. Local telephone directory assistance is also checked.

One more first class mail notice is sent stating that benefits will be suspended. If the beneficiary fails to respond to the notice, benefits are suspended until the agency hears from the person, Upp said.

The best way to avoid this inconvenience is to remember to tell us when you move, Upp said. The San Angelo Social Security Office can help out. It is located at 2214 Sherwood Way, and the telephone number is 949-4608.

Misleading labels increase sales

Label jargon can be misleading to consumers who base buying decisions on information found on product packages.

Dr. Mary Kinney Sweeten, a registered dietician and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said the Food and Drug Administration requires a food label to state the name and address of the manufacturer and to list ingredients in descending order of weight.

"Calorie information is optional," she said. If included, the label must give the serving size; per serving amounts of calories, protein, fat, carbohydrate; and the percentage of the recommended daily allowances of five vitamins, two minerals and protein.

She said labels get confusing when terms such as "lite" or "light" that have no standard definitions are used to appeal to consumers.

"Lite can refer to color, taste, texture, calories, or weight," Sweeten said. "Consumers should look at the ingredient list or nutrient chart to determine why a product is lite."

This list of possibly deceiving terms was published in the American Institute for Cancer Research Newsletter to help consumers make informed food choices when reading labels:

•Lean: No more than 10 percent fat by weight--not by calories.

•Extra Lean: No more than 5 percent fat by weight--not by calories.

•Leaner: At least 25 percent less fat (by weight) than the original product.

•Dietetic: One or more ingredient has been changed, substituted or restricted. Not necessarily low in calories.

•Sugar-free/Sugarless: Contain no sucrose; might contain corn syrup, fructose, honey, sorbitol or other sweeteners. Not necessarily low in calories.

•Sodium-free: No more than 5 mg sodium per serving.

•Very Low Sodium: No more than 35 mg sodium per serving.

•Low Sodium: No more than 140 mg sodium than the original product.

•Reduced Sodium: At least 25 percent less sodium than the original product.

•No Salt Added and Salt-Free: No salt added in processing. Can have natural sodium, or sodium from other sources such as soy sauce.

•Low in Calories: Less than 40 calories per serving.

•Reduced Calorie: One-third fewer calories than similar product. Meat and poultry must contain 25 percent fewer calories than similar product.

•Enriched: Replacement of nutrients lost in manufacturing.

•Fortified: Addition of nutrients to foods that did not originally contain them.

1. Immediately helps to ease pain.

2. Prevents burn progression by removing excess heat

3. Protects against contamination

4. Cools the burn area through transference, rather than evaporation, lowering the risk of hypothermia.

5. Lowers & stabilizes skin

Living history camp marks Fort Concho's Centennial

In June of 1989, the United States Army left Fort Concho to area civilians. The military had accomplished its mission of pacifying the wild frontier of West Texas. To mark that century of civilian care and preservation of Fort Concho, a major living history camp and display will take place on the grounds of the Fort Concho National Historic Landmark on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, June 8, 9 and 10.

Over 100 volunteers portraying the infantry, cavalry, and artillery of the 1870s and 1880s will make camp on the historic site, dressed and equipped in authentic uniforms and gear. During the three-day event, the infantry will perform marching and firearms demonstrations; the cavalry will display its riding and saber skills; and the artillery will show why its weaponry was feared and respected by the enemy. Throughout each day, period activity of inspections, meals, guard and fatigue duty, and general camp life will transform Fort Concho into a living history setting of the 1870s.

Units and individuals from across the state and nation will converge on the post for this "once in a century" event. The 4th Memorial Cavalry from San Antonio will join members of the Fort Davis National Historic Site at the fort. Also, the event will host the uniformed and civilian members of the National Indian Wars Association (N.I.W.A.) as they hold their annual encampment and convention. The N.I.W.A. represents late nineteenth century military and civilian living history programs across the west. Members of Fort Concho's four re-enactment groups, 4th and 10th Cavalry and 11th and 16th Infantry, will serve temperatures

Water-Jel is a patented system that combines a scientifically formulated gel and a special carrier material. Together, these elements can withstand extremely high temperatures. The carrier is 100% new wool with an intercellular weave capable of absorbing up to 13 times its weight. The Water-Jel formula combines ingredients that are safe, biodegradable, bacteriostatic, and water soluble.

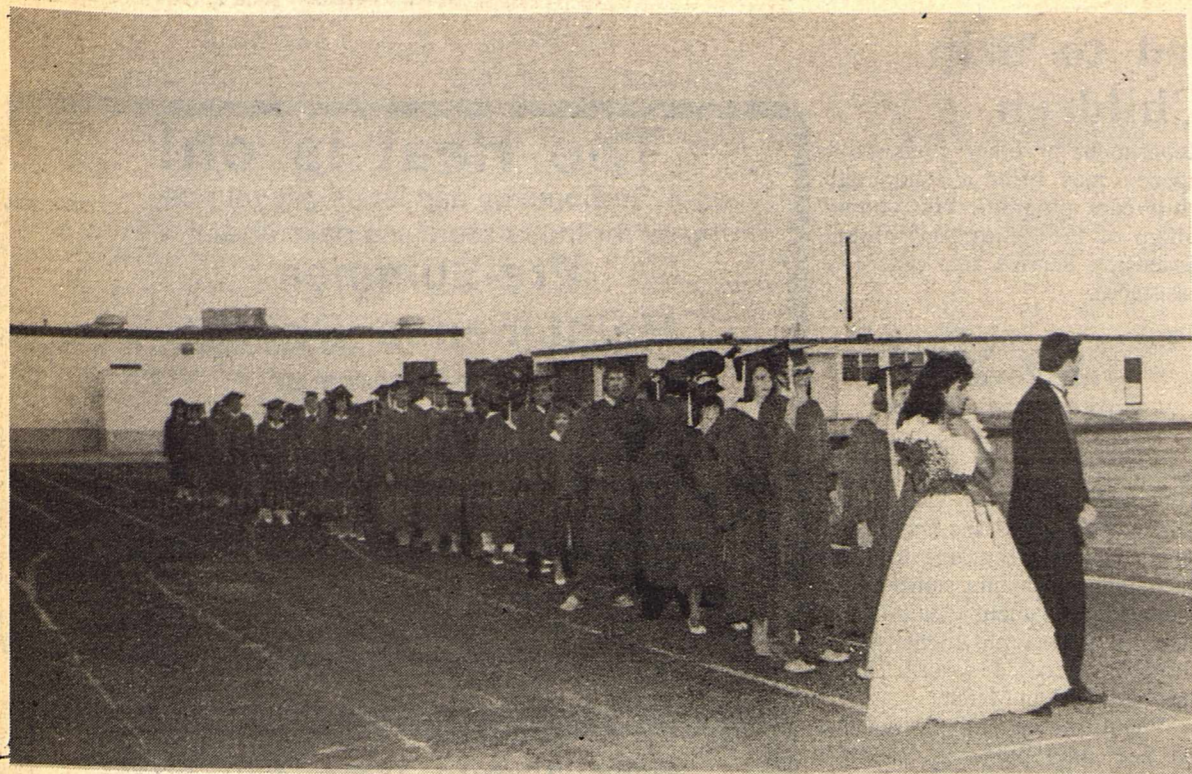

Two organizations sent representatives to view this program. They were the Sutton County Sheriff's Department and Hudspeth Hospital.

as the local coordinators and host for the event. In addition to the soldiers, there will be individuals portraying the civilian roles whose work was vital to the military of the western frontier.

All activity will peak on Saturday with a special ceremony and parade at noon, as the soldiers of the various units prepare themselves for a grand inspection and assembly. Area and regional dignitaries will review the troops and the flag will be symbolically lowered for the last time, re-creating that moment of a century ago when the soldiers left the post. However, unlike 1889, when the troops marched to San Antonio, this year's complement of soldiers will remain behind after the ceremonies to perform drills and activities for the visiting public.

Fort Concho is one of the best preserved frontier forts in the nation, and its superbly restored and preserved structures and exhibits will be open to the public on all three days. Visitors may visit soldiers' camps, inspect and barracks, watch exciting military drills, experience a ride with two army mules pulling the wagon, and witness an 1880s style baseball game in the evening as the local and visiting soldiers challenge each other with a game that is as timeless as Fort Concho itself.

The grounds and exhibit buildings will be open without charge, but contributions will be gratefully accepted at various locations. For more information about Fort Concho and this event, contact Fort Concho, 213 East Avenue D, San Angelo, Texas 76903, (915) 657-4441. The site is located just south of downtown San Angelo, accessible by US Highway 67, 87, 277 and 83, in West Texas.

AT&T MultiQuestsm Service

AT&T Communications of the Southwest, Inc., (AT&T) announces its intent to introduce within Texas on July 14, 1989, AT&T MultiQuest Service, a new interactive 900-type telephone service. Since February 19, 1989, this innovative service has been available to Texas businesses only on an interstate basis. With AT&T MultiQuest Service, Texas business customers (otherwise known as sponsors) may offer value-added information services to callers originating long distance calls from Texas or elsewhere in the United States over AT&T's public switched network. A Texas caller, accessing the service by dialing the sponsor's 1-900 plus seven-digit number, can obtain recorded and/or live information by communicating with attendants, voice messaging equipment and computer data bases. Flat-rate, time sensitive usage charges will be billed to the caller for the sponsor's service.

AT&T is offering AT&T MultiQuest Service within Texas in response to requests by its business customers for a service that offers intrastate as well as nationwide interactive voice & data transport capability. Potential sponsors include entrepreneurial companies entering into new ventures that are information intensive, local mass announcement sponsors who want statewide as well as national coverage coupled with interactive capability and other information service providers.

The Texas intrastate AT&T MultiQuest Service will be tariffed as an "add-on" offering to a sponsor's existing interstate AT&T MultiQuest Service. The intrastate AT&T MultiQuest Service costs will be recovered from sponsor usage charges set forth in AT&T's intrastate tariffs. The usage charges billed to the caller are determined by the sponsor as appropriate to the service being offered and are not tariffed charges.

For more information about AT&T MultiQuest Service please call your AT&T Account Executive or AT&T's business consultants toll free on 1 (800) 552-0212. They can answer your questions regarding this service and how it can be of benefit to you.

AT&T intends to file a tariff to offer this service with the Public Utility Commission of Texas on June 13, 1989, effective July 14, 1989. Persons who have questions regarding this tariff filing may contact the Public Utility Commission's Public Information Division at (512) 458-0223 or (512) 458-0227 or (512) 458-0221 teletypewriter for the deaf, or write to them at 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757.

Intrastate AT&T MultiQuest Service is projected to generate $1.1 million in the first year of its offering or .1% of AT&T's total gross service revenues in Texas.

Surprise...

Mike Ramos was definitely surprised when the staff and the third, fourth and fifth grades from the Intermediate School in Sonora gave him a surprise send off and special gift.

He stands here among some of the students and staff that signed the autographed sweatshirt, which was a present from the whole school.

They presented him with the shirt Friday May 19th at 3:00 p.m. The sweatshirt was monogrammed with the Intermediate motto "Expect the Best!", which we all know Mike Ramos is doing. The staff and children of the Intermediate School would like to say "We'll miss you when your gone".

Mr. Ramos is leaving Sonora for Sweetwater, Texas in June.

Safe Boating Week June 4-10

Two significant positive developments will greet the 4.5 million Texans who enjoy recreational boating as they observe Texas Safe Boating Week June 4-10. During this period boaters are urged to "Know Before You Go," the reminder being promoted by the National Safe Boating Council and the Boating Trades Association of Texas (BTAT).

Boaters can learn proper planning and on-the-water procedures from a new video being produced by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department with a $10,000 grant from BTAT. The 15-minute production will soon be distributed to boat dealers and boater education teachers throughout the state. In addition more and more operator safety courses are becoming available statewide.

This year's emphasis on safety also will have new meaning due to recently passed legislation which gives law enforcement officers the tools necessary to properly enforce the existing law prohibiting persons from operating a boat while intoxicated. Although it has been illegal since 1959 to operate a boat while intoxicated, prosecutions have been scarce due to legal technicalities.

"We welcome this legislation as a positive step to help ensure that boating remains a safe and wholesome activity for the whole family," said Gene Schkade, BTAT president. "Those few irresponsible boaters who choose not to use alcohol wisely have no right to jeopardize the safety of the vast majority of boaters who use good judgement on the water."

Senate Bill 276 was authored by Sen. Carl Parker (D-Port Arthur) and sponsored in the Texas House by Rep. Barry Connelly (R-Houston). The new law will bring about the following improvements:

- * Clearly make operation of a moving vessel while under the influence of alcohol over .10 blood alcohol a violation of the Water Safety Act.

- * Provide for the enhancement of penalties in the case of more than one conviction for boating while intoxicated in a five-year period, or when the operator is involved in an accident in which severe injury or death occurred.

- * Provide that the operator of a vessel is understood to have given their consent to take a breath, blood or other test if requested to by a law officer. There is no penalty for refusing to take such a test, but the refusal can be used against the operator in the courts.

The legislation does not:

- * Prohibit open containers of alcoholic beverages on board any vessel.

- * Prohibit the operator or passengers from consuming alcohol while on board or underway.

- * Require mandatory jail time for offenders, although the court can impose jail time if desired.

- * Apply to any vessel that is propelled solely by the water current. However, other provisions of the Water Safety Act do prevent anyone from operating any type of water craft in an unsafe or hazardous manner.

"We urge everyone who does enjoy alcoholic beverages while boating to use good judgment,"

June 17th-Fort Concho's Frontier Days celebrate the rich heritage that is part of the Concho Valley. The visitor is taken back 100 years to life as it was on a Frontier Fort. Starting with a pancake breakfast, Frontier Days includes a sheep shearing contest, 1880's baseball game, early ranch demonstrations, sheep dog trials and many other fun events.

Fiesta time in San Angelo is the best fun packed value in the state for Admission is Free to all activity areas. The only admission charged is to the Western Dance, Talent Show and Johnny D and the Rocket 88's.

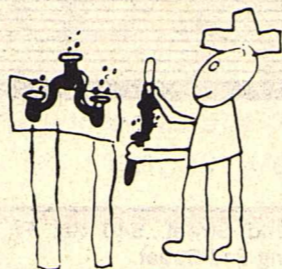

Fiesta Del Concho is one of Texas' premiere summer events. The array of activities held along the Concho River and The Fort Concho from June 9-18th provide a wonderful time for all the family.

There's no reason to advertise, if . . .

• Your customers aren't interested in reading about new products, services and prices. • The economy is so good that it's a cinch to make a barrel of money by continuing to do the same old thing. • Your present inventory is so good that you don't want it disturbed. • You already net a million dollars a year (after taxes). • Your growth factor is at zero.

. . . but you should advertise if and when any of the above aren't true

And here's how to start

Call the Devil's River News, 387-2507, and ask about a program that would do you the most good.
