For the fifth year in a row Sutton County employees will fail to receive a pay increase.

Sutton County commissioners voted 2-1 Monday morning to wipe out a projected five percent pay raise in the 1991 budget and apply the savings toward lowering the expected tax increase.

Commissioners Bill Wade and Bill Keel voted in favor of the motion while Mike Villanueva cast a negative vote.

County Judge Carla Fields did not vote, thus allowing the measure to pass. Fourth commissioner, Baldo Castaneda, failed to show up for the meeting.

In a phone interview Monday evening, Castaneda said he missed the meeting due to work related problem.

Fields said Tuesday morning there was no need for her to vote since she agreed with the move and there was already a majority.

County pay hike abolished

The commission had to vote on a budget Monday in order to have a set budget by the required Sept.

Inital budget numbers showed a tax increase of 7 1/2 cents would be needed to balance the 1991 budget. Fields said the effect of wiping out the pay raise will be a little over a penny.

The exact figures were unavailable as of press time.

Wade opened discussion on the budget by attacking the pay increase.

"Those I've talked to are against the five percent pay raise and so am I," said Wade.

Wade did not offer any further comments during the meeting except for the motion to exclude the pay hike.

Following the meeting, Wade said he didn't foresee any problems with county employees over the void pay raise.

"I don't think they'll have any objection," said Wade. "They get paid more here than in Schleicher County.

Fields and County Auditor Charlie Graves, defended the pay increase due to county actions the past couple of years.

With a large contingent, the wagon train should at least double the size of the parade.

As of Tuesday morning, the parade was expected to have more than 50 units, including about a half-dozen floats, the Sutton County Queen Candidates and U.S. Marshall's posse of the Western District of Texas. They are out of San Antonio.

Sutton County: 100 years Eaton: celebration is late

By Griffin B. Cole DRN Editor

Parades, rodeos, dances and more have all been scheduled for this weekend to celebrate the centennial of Sonora. Some contend the celebration is a year late.

Local historian John Eaton is one of those who holds to the belief Sonora was actually founded in 1889.

Eaton moved to Sonora in 1913 and has lived here since. That has given him plenty of time to study the history of Sonora and the area.

When asked why he was pursuing the idea Sonora is 101years-old, Eaton said, "Historically something is either right or wrong.

Plenty of facts support Eaton's belief.

First on the list is an article from the Devil's River News, Oct. 25, 1940. In the article written from an an interview with G.W. Morriss, it says, "...and the town itself was born when Driller Smith brought in the well on the Sonora courthouse square, Feb. 10, 1889.

Eaton has built a chronological Please see Sonora, page 8 year will be Sonora Police Chief Brent Gesch.

Providing music for the parade will be the Sonora High School band.

The parade route has been changed. It will form in the area of the Sutton County Rodeo Arena and exit the rodeo arena on to U.S. 277.

From there, the parade will turn on Water Avenue and continue until it hits Main Street where they will turn right and travel through town.

The parade will follow Main Street to Crockett Avenue where it will turn right and follow Crockett back to the Rodeo Arena.

The parade will begin at 4:30 p.m.

Travelers should be aware traffic will be cut off from the streets involved for an amount of time. The Texas Department of Highways will assist with detour signs to re-route traffic around the parade.

The parade will be immediately followed by the barbeque on the courthouse lawn. Attendance will cost $5 for adults and $3 for children 12 and under.

Activities Thursday will wrap up with the first of three Professional Cowboys Rodeo Association shows at the County Arena.

Friday's activities are highlighted by the second show of the PRCA and the Sutton County Days Dance with entertainment provided by Clay Blaker and the Texas Honky Tonk Band.

Clay Blaker will be back on Saturday evening following the final performance of the third rodeo as well.

Saturday will be the big day for the centennial celebration with activities planned from 8 a.m. to 1 a.m.

Events begin with the Fun Run at 8 a.m. though the Opening Ceremony will not be held until 9:30 a.m.

PRCA bringing the best to town

This week's Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association stop in Sonora should be one of the best vet. The rodeo has been extended from a two day show to three days and will include lots of special acts.

Bad Company Rodeo, run by local cowboy Mack Altizer, will be producing this year's rodeo. Bad Company also produced the Sonora Sensation bull riding event this spring.

The rodeo is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. all three nights with a dance to follow on Friday and Saturday evenings. Music will be provided by Clay Blaker and the Texas Honky Tonk Band.

The PRCA rodeo has attracted some of the area's best contestants along with national performers.

Those competing from Sonora include Jacque Barton, Jo Cox, Louise Dermody, Jessie Kerbow, Rachel Merck, Debby Tiffee and Lea Whitehead in barrell racing, Ed Hale Jr. in team roping and Barry Simpton and Decky Spiller in steer wrestling.

Some of the other locals include Arnold Felts, Ben Ingham, Allison, Houston, Jimmy and Mickey Powers and many more.

Ty Murray of Stephenville, an all around champion, will be in Sonora for the first time competing.

Joining Murray will be Guy Allen of Lovington, N.M. a finalist in steer roping, Southwest Texas Junior College head coach Roy Angermille, Beth Braudrick in the top 10 for barrell racing, Jon Brockway a circuit finalist in bareback riding, Shanna Bush, winner the last three years at Pecos in barrel racing.

Those are just some of the contestants who will be battling for a payoff expected to be around $30,000 to the cowboys and cowgirls.

Performing all three nights will be the Taylors, a husband and wife specialty act team. Brother and

Poof, gone in an instant

On Monday morning the Sutton County commission managed to win the battle but lost the war.

Just Chatting

by Griffin Cole

DRN Publisher

The commission voted 2-1 to wipe out a five percent pay increase for county employees and apply that toward lowering an expected tax increase for 1991.

On the surface this sounds great. But a good look at the situation and it's easy to find fault with the commissioner's thinking.

By deleting the pay increase from the budget, the tax rate increase is expected to drop from 7 1/2 cents to a little less that 6 1/2cents. When the property owners pay their taxes I do not think they will even notice the difference.

I certainly don't think they will be taking any vacation to the Bahamas with the savings.

On the other hand the negatives are great.

The most obvious problem is county employees will now have gone five years without any type of raise. Not only that, but many employees have actually taken a loss in pay the last year due to the dropping of insurance for dependents.

An extra $100 to $200 has been taken out of their paycheck if the employees still wanted the insurance. Multiply that by 12 and the problem jumps out where anybody can see it.

The national inflation rate for 1990 looks like it will be a little bit more than five percent. This means even if the employees had gotten a raise it would have worked out to a loss.

During the meeting Monday I thought Bill Keel understood the situation. He called a five percent raise in four years, "a slap in the face." Yet he voted in favor of wiping out the raise.

I wonder what Keel would call no raise in five years? I guess he thought it was better to give no raise than "a slap in the face" five percent.

One of the biggest lessons learned by businesses is: when the employees don't get paid what they are worth they move on.

Oh yes, there are always people to replace them. But, will they be of the same high quality that is in place now? It takes a lot of money to train somebody for a job when they take over for another that has been there extended time and knows what to do.

Raising taxes is a very unpopular thing to do right now. Even more unpopular is raising taxes and lowering salaries.

Lowering the tax rate by a little more than a penny solved absolutely nothing. The public is still not going to be happy because money is being taken out of their pocket and the county's employees are going to be upset because they are not getting what they are worth.

After the meeting I talked with Bill Wade who made the motion to wipe out the pay raises. Wade said area ranchers had taken, "a helluva cut" over the past few years.

This kind of thinking is called, "Hey, if one area is going bad, every other area better be going bad too."

Granted, Wade said the people he had talked to were against the pay raise. So did Keel and Baldo Castaneda.

Did they also explain how little the tax rate would be affected by the elimination of the salaries? Did the commissioners know themselves?

I broke the story three weeks ago about the tax increase and there has not been one letter. Walking around town nobody told me how mad they were over the increase.

What surprised me was that there was never any consideration on cutting the increase in pay to three percent and slicing the budget elsewhere or to two percent.

Luckily the commission saved the county employees from "a slap in the face." Instead, they gave the employees a kick in the behind.

Letters to the editor

Dear Editor.

I read in the San Angelo paper where Junior and Webster's narc, Lonnie Hood, is still doing his (Standard-Times, "thing". Wednesday, August 15th, page 8-C)

It's funny how he only "deals" in methamphetamine. Except this time he messed up, it wasn't "just him, the defendant and the restroom" as he testified in the Alfredo Galindo trial. He tried to set someone up, but the jury didn't buy his story. The defendant had witnesses too, and an alibi.

By the way, Junior is still stalling. Remember the July 30th Drug Trial date I told you about last time, he moved it to sometime in September. I think he means this year but don't beat on it.

Ramblin'

Four seconds to find courage

There was a three to four second gap during the recitation of my first poem at the dinner theater on Friday, August tenth. It was barely noticed by most of the audience and appeared as little more than a lapse in memory. Nevertheless, during that scant interval, I literally turned fear into courage.

I spent three months of writing, rewriting, recording and listening and memorizing in preparation for my performance. The nervousness, or excitement grew with each passing day. I used my knowledge of the human psyche and that excitement to produce courage and confidence for the coming event. Twenty years of writing poetry, as a cowboy poet for the passed three, and confronting an audience four times before should have been enough to insure a flawless recital. It wasn't.

Clay Lindley, a cowboy poet/comedian from Spur, opened the show and I was to follow. Within five minutes he captivated the gathering and I knew he would be a difficult act to follow. He was marvelous, to say the least. Doubt entered my mind and changed my dauntless confidence into an overwhelming fear of failure. Within minutes I knew I would make a fool of myself as soon as I stepped to the podium and uttered my first verse.

When my turn was at hand, I was determined to "give it the old college try", no matter the outcome. Stumbling through the first four stanzas of "Fer the Tough Times", my fear was realized in the fifth. My memory failed under the stress of compelling doubt.

In those few eternal seconds a tumult of thoughts crossed my mind, most were self-destructive. Then I remembered a quote from a textbook, a reference used in many of my articles concerning human behavior.

"Until you direct it toward a goal, excitement is neither fear, anxiety, courage, confidence, or anything else other than a steppedup, re-enforced supply of emotional steam in your broiler. It is not a sign of weakness. It is a sign of additional strength to be used in any way you choose," from "Psycho-Cybernetics", by Maxwell Maltz, M. D., F. I. C.

Suddenly, I found a seedling of confidence nurtured by a minute of courage. Returning to the written sheet, I found my place and continued. The listeners may not have received the effect I sought to represent in the poem, but the four that followed tripped from my tongue rather well; if I may say so myself.

Several people complimented my performance and expressed their enjoyment when the show closed. Naturally, I was critical of myself and felt they were merely being polite. Then a lady asked where she might purchase a book of my poems. She said that she inquired at the table where the books were being sold that night, but was told I had none there.

Delighted, I informed her I have not yet been published but planned to query three publishers for that purpose in the coming week. She immediately asked, "Which ones?"

I began telling publishers names and she stopped me abruptly at 📢 one in particular, which produces the Peregrine Smith books. "Send them to Peregrine Smith Books. They will publish them," with a great deal of certainty in her tone of voice. I was a little startled and perplexed by how she could possibly be so sure. I wish I had gotten her name.

Well, I have just mailed a letter of query and an assortment of my work to the firm. Should know something in a month or so.

All in all, I'd say my performance was a success, for this point in time of my poetic career. There is still a lot of room for improvement. That is the challenge for which I should be most grateful.

BE A RED CROSS VOLUNTEER

by M. Scott Gilmore, Hospital Administrator

A knowledgeable Dallas corporate executive recently expressed frustration with the rapid increase in his company's expenses for employee health. While the increase was for the cost of the entire health plan, he focused on hospitalization. He had questions about productivity and charging practices in hospitals. His own company's business decisions are controlled by supply and demand economics, he said, so why aren't prices in hospitals and medicine restrained by such forces as excess capacity and purchaser attitudes?

His questions relate to issues vital to the public and to us. We want and need his understanding, and yours, on these issues and will seek to explain them in this series.

Our hospital is acutely concerned not only about the impact of healthcare costs on employers and the national economy but also the burden for individuals who pay the charges. With annual health care expenditures already at $2,000 per person in the United States and 11 percent of the Gross National Product, the rate of growth cannot continue. We are doing our best to manage those costs that are within our control. It's true that price competition does not drive consumer demand for hospital services. Most users of services are covered by insurance or government programs and do not pay the bill. They choose a hospital based on existing doctor-patient relationships, perceptions of quality, and convenience. Even if they tried to compare prices in two or more hospitals, they could not obtain charges estimates in advance for major emergency treatment or for a serious illness because of the unpredictable needs for tests and treatments. Since a full service hospital has between 7,000 and 10,000 separate products and service items, even the best-informed and mostdetermined corporate purchaser can make only gross (and often misleading) cost comparisons.

While market forces do influence a hospital's decisions and actions, federal and state payments and regulations dominate the choices hospitals can and must make. Every year since 1984, new revenue restrictions have forced massive down-sizing and cost cutting in hospitals. In response, hospitals have markedly

Medication In The Workplace

Surprising to many of our nation's hay fever sufferers, (there are about 41 million) is how the medication they often must take affects their performance in the workplace.

Studies show that workers who use antihistamines for hay fever relief tend to suffer drowsiness, inattentiveness, lack of concentration and diminished performance on both physical and mental activities in many instances.

Now, many doctors prefer to prescribe a medication for workers and others with hay fever. It's Seldane, an antihistamine that doesn't cause drowsiness while it relieves hay fever symptoms.

Both employers and workers give this hay fever medication a high job performance rating.

The road to safety is getting easier to follow these days, thanks to innovations from America's auto industry. According to the National Auto Dealers Association, cars today are engineered for safety. Automotive standards have reduced traffic fatalities by nearly a third since the 1960s. New cars have:

Centennial plans shaping up in Sonora-Sutton County

Centennial planning got underway in Sonora in January 1987, when the Outdoor Drama Group first met to discuss plans for what eventually would become the Covered Wagon Dinner Theater. One of the initial goals of the group was to provide a major event by 1990, combining entertainment and historical education, for Sonora, the surrounding area and tourists who would attend the shows.

Other centennial events began occurring in January 1990. The first being Sonora's famed Fling Ding when it took the 1890's theme. Then the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet used the theme and numerous attendees donned 1890's dress for the occasion. The Covered Wagon Dinner Theater published a special newspaper supplement, "A Centennial Salute", in May. The yearly Hudspeth Memorial Hospital Auxiliary's Game Night, St. Ann's Catholic Church's Spring Festival, Sonora Woman's Club Cookbook, the winter Tarantella Club dance, an old timer's rodeo, the Goat Cook-Off, Bad Company Rodeo's Sonora Sensation and possibly other events or activities have been part of the year long celebration of 100 years.

Two major periods have been scheduled: August 21-25 and October 26-28. The first period coincides with Sutton County Days and the second with Homecoming

Scheduled events for August include: August 21-Wagon Train and Trail Ride, August 22-Community Box Lunch, August 23-Parade-Barbecue-PRCA Rodeo, August 24-PRCA Rodeo and Dance and August 25-Sutton County Days activities on the Courthouse lawn.

Scheduled events for October include: October 26-Crowning of Homecoming Queen-Football Game with Colorado City,

October 27-Homecoming Reception-Class Reunions, Will Carver Centennial Play-Dance and October 28-Community Church Service and Gospel Singing-Dinner on Courthouse lawn-Will Carver Centennial Play.

Sonora older/from page 1 summary of the first 10 months or so of Sonora from articles which appeared in the San Angelo Standard. At the time the newspaper was a weekly.

The chonology begins on Feb. 10 when the well was completed then moveds to March when the first hotel was completed and the first store was started.

According to Eaton, R.W. Callahan moved the store from Ft. McKavett to what is now Main Street.

In April the first residences, five of them were completed. Then the town name of Sonora was chosen by Mrs. Charley Adams.

Eaton said J.G.B. Chetwyne bought the first lot with the guarentee of title in three years. The post office was established in September with Callahan as the first post master. Also in September the first weddings occurred.

In October the first school opened and in November the first birth occurred.

The first death was recorded in December.

All these facts are well and fine, but the question remains when is a town actually a town? Sonora itself was not incorporated until 1890.

Eaton is not unhappy about the celebration taking place.

"If they want to celebrate the wrong year that's fine," said Eaton.

He just wants people to know that the actual date should be Feb. 10, 1889.

improved their productivity -- the cost of doing the same things -with savings in both utilization and total expenses that have. benefitted all payers. The national rate of increase in inpatient hospital expenditures has declined to a modest level.

Employers cannot see the gains in hospital payments, first, because their health plan expenses for physician services, outpatient care, and psychiatric and chemical abuse care have increased dramatically. Company expenses for insurance company overhead, consultant services, plan administration, and claims handling have also soared. Their projected future health costs for retirees have multiplied. While these are not hospital costs, they are paid from the same source, adding to the overall problems that cause us concern and that we will be discussing in this series.

A good night's sleep.

Now AmWest has "DreamSaver"-a savings program designed to bring peace of mind to all those who worry about saving money.

Here's how it works: You tell AmWest how much you want to save every month, (as little as $25 if you like) and they'll deduct it automatically from a free checking account (that's right, free checking) and put it into a CD account. Keep your money there for a full 12 months and it will earn a high-interest CD rate. Take it out early, and you'll get a penalty - three months interest or $50.

So "DreamSaver" not only helps you save money on a regular monthly basis — it helps you keep your hands off it too. And with a little money in savings a good night's sleep will come a whole lot easier.

Put Your Money on Texas.

Substantial penalty for early withdrawal. Interest paid quarterly. Rates subject to change without notice.

completely for what was taken out last year," said Fields.

Graves added," A substantial amount of employees have taken cuts over the last four years. That makes them unique."

While the pay raises carried the bulk of the debate, Villanueva said, "The only complaint I've had is the sheriff's and jail budget. It's reached its highest amount yet."

Villanueva suggested the dispatcher could be a jailer as well, but Sheriff Bill Webster said this would add a tremendous burden to one person, especially with the expected expansion of the 911 emergency system next July.

Keel said he agreed with everything Villanueva said but added, "The taxpayers in Sutton County voted on a bond issue to build the jail. They're willing to pay what it takes to run the thing." Monday evening Castaneda said he would have voted for taking the raise out.

"Right now is not the right time to give a raise," said Castaneda. "I wasn't for it from the beginning, but sometimes you get outvoted."

The county commission will be holding a public meeting Aug. 23 concerning the 1991 budget. The meeting will be held in the court room at the county courthouse beginning at 7 p.m.

Centennial celebration

Birthdays have always been a popular time to celebrate. As with the birthday of people, cities also celebrate their birth.

That is the case with Sonora as it reached its centennial birthday this year.

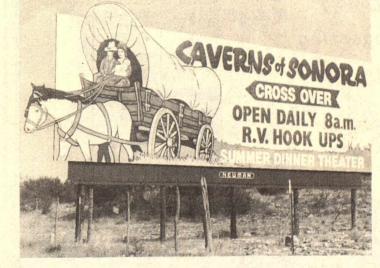

To make the celebration something to remember, many people worked hard over the past year. It takes time and a lot of energy to plan something as spectacular as this celebration.

Just imagine all the activities, a parade with over 50 units, food and game booths, Miss Sutton County, the Little Mr. and Miss Contests, two dances, a three-day rodeo, a wagon train and trail ride.

The list really is endless. While enjoying the celebration remember the hard work that went into it and if you run into somebody who was part of it all, take the time to pat them on the back.
