Following the lead of Snyder, Sonora is looking for the person or persons who could afford the time to lead the way in attempting to attract a prison.

The top question still appears to be on where the prison could be located. Without the available land, any other questions continue to be moot.

"I can see a $100,000 to even get in the race and we might not win it," said Gosney.

Meanwhile the current deadline of Jan. 15, 1992 came into question.

Committee members and council members both stated doubt as to if Sonora could put a package together in the short time left. Though the effort as of now continues to shoot for that date.

the Sonora area could be a future remedy to the financial woes of Lillian Hudspeth Memorial Hospital.

What everybody wants to do ultimately is replace tax revenue with other revenue," said the Hospital Administrator in an interview Monday. "(The prison) would be a way to do so."

Hempel visited the state prison in Snyder last Thursday and said he gained some answers, "In the sense it is or has the potential revenue producer. What I didn't gain was the flip side which war, the expenses."

The biggest revenue gain, Hempel said, would be the steady operation of the clinic in the Facts learned which stood out to Hempel included that the prison in Snyder did bring in more nurses. For Sonora that would mean being able to staff not only the clinic at the prison, but also the hospital and nursing home.

For there to be a profit made, Hempel said the clinic would have to be run efficiently. That would include, intelligent purchasing and

The Snyder Hospital Administrator said expenses included $60,000 in renovation for a secure wing at the hospital for prisoners being treated. As an early guesstimate, Hempel said the amount would be similar for Hudspeth Hospital.

Weighing all issues, Hempel said a prison application would be worth looking into.

"As administrator I don't set policy, the Hospital Board does so," said Hempel. "On the personal level (the visit to Snyder) answered questions I have and other people have as well....It alayed my fears and I would have whatever government level...look into it much further."

Latch-key children...home safe Tips on dealing with boredom for children in self-care

Children will be bored at times no matter what their after-school arrangement. The availability of activities your child enjoys and can pursue without a lot of set-up time makes it easier for her or him to keep busy.

Physical activity is one good way for many children to combat boredom. If there is a safe way for your child to spend some time after school in active play perhaps outdoors with a trusted adult present - this may decrease problems with boredom. Hobbies are another good boredom-fighting activity because they can be pursued for many months.

It is important for children to realize that they can make choices during their time alone that can lessen their boredom. One way to help your child combat boredom is to make a list of possible activities from which he or she can choose. You also can encourage your child to develop

Some possible choices include: * Keeping a daily journal to write about what happens at school or home.

* Collecting something photographs, buttons, dolls, bottle caps, maps, coins, baseball cards, postcards, etc.

* Practicing a skill such as magic tricks, playing the guitar,

The tours will be in two parts. First will be the Mystery Venture into Darkness which will be a 3/4-mile tour (about 20 minutes) through the Caverns. Cheryl said the entrance and exit will be decorated and the guides will be in costumes.

The Trail of Horror will be outside which will include eight different spooky scenes including a cemetery, a sick doctor performing surgery and an executioner.

Cheryl said the idea was to bring business from the surrounding area into Sonora during the winter months. For October it seemed appropriate to

That closed-in feeling

To do something a little different last week, I decided to visit the prison in Snyder. Actually hospital administrator John Hempel invited me along on a fact-finding tour he was taking.

I think he just didn't want to go to the prison alone, because soon I realized I was a little nervous about the visit.

The nervousness wasn't the type that fulfilled every minute of my thoughts. It was more like the kind that sits in the stomach a while and forms an ulcer.

There is something about going inside a prison, even for an hour, that makes you think you have done something terribly wrong. I'm sure it is possible to get over it. I would hate for the guards and others who work there to be uncomfortable all the time.

I put on a brave front waiting outside the gate. I showed a cool exterior, like I did this every day. But inside my stomach was telling the truth.

We had to wait outside the gate because we had to be escorted in. It was just like in the movies. A tall guard tower with the guard down asking what we wanted and then calling inside with the news.

While John and I waited another man came up and said he was passing through and wanted to visit a cousin who was inside. His actual explanation was, "I'm from El Paso and I was passing through and I just found out I have a cousin here. I wanted to see if I could visit him."

Yeah, like there is a list of prisoners that can be found in the telephone book.

He wasn't let in, but it sure didn't help my nerves any.

The Wildlife Management Field

and hunters.

I noticed a sign which said, "No hostage will pass through this

John noticed it asked what that meant. The guard told him that a person loses their identity if they are taken prisoner. Thus, if the warden is taken prisoner it doesn't matter. The prisoner will not get outside using him as a hostage.

We went through administration and then headed through the compound to the clinic. There were prisoners all over the place. I kept my reflective sun glasses on because I knew I probably would not be able to keep myself from staring. The last thing I wanted was for a prisoner to know I was starting at him. I mean, I don't like it when I'm stared at.

It's not like the movies. The prisoners had all sorts of hair fashions though most of them were short. They all wore white with tags identifying them.

I was still nervous because I don't hang around people who commit murder or armed robbery or other violent crimes. At least as far as I know I don't.

The feeling of nervousness subsided somewhat because I realized they are also human. Some said hi as we passed and others didn't, just like in Sonora. Some looked to be in a good mood and some a bad mood, just like in Sonora.

After a tour around the clinic we headed back out and the guard was explaining the prisoners are treated according to the way they act once they are incarcerated not the way they acted "on the outside."

This made sense to me. I know I acted a lot different inside the Finally, we were escorted in and fences than I did outside.

The Tour which included a look at some wildlife cool season food

plots and some innovative techniques in deer proof fencing seemed to draw considerable interest. Wildlifers and ranchers

EMS to sponsor blood drive

Sonora's next blood drive will be held from 3:00 p. m. to 8:00 p. m., Tuesday, October 22, 1991 at the Sutton County EMS Building at 211 E. 3rd. This is an opportunity for residents of Sonora to positively affect the lives of others. Giving blood is safe and easy, and takes only about 30 minutes. "There is absolutely no risk of getting AIDS or any other diseases by giving blood. This is a statement of fact that is echoed by every medical, scientific and blood service agency in the nation," said Paula Kennemer, Community Relations Director of United Blood Services, the area's nonprofit community blood provider.

Only sterile, disposable equipment is used during the donation process. Everything, from the swabs to the blood bags to the needles, is used just once and then disposed of. "There is simply no way to get any infectious disease from giving blood,' she said.

Before the blood donation, the donor is asked a series of medical questions to help assure the safety of both the donor and the patient who will received the blood. In addition, the donor's pulse, temperature, blood pressure and iron level are checked.

Once the blood reaches the United Blood Services laboratory, several hours of tests are performed to further assure patient safety.

"Hospital patients' blood needs are increasing every year, and the only way to meet their needs is by healthy people regularly volunteering to donate blood," Kennemer concluded.

Sciatica can make bending, standing, walking, sitting and sleeping almost impossible. It can be caused by trauma which causes spinal misalignment, arthritis, diabetes, a tumor, an irritated disk, or spasm of the piriformis muscle.

There is usually no quick fix for sciatica, but spinal adjustments, physical therapy, and muscle relaxers can help relieve the symptoms quicker.

Not all leg pain is due to sciatica, so consult your Chiropractic or medical doctor for a proper diagnosis.

The clean facts on doing laundry

The rising cost of energy is one of the most critical external factors affecting home laundry today. Heating water accounts for 90% of the energy used to operate the washer. West Texas Utilities Company advises us to:

*Choose the wash time and cycle suitable for the type of load. *Use hot water only for washing very heavily soiled clothing. Most loads can be washed at warm water settings. *Use cold water rinse for all loads. It is just as effective as warm or hot.

*Match the water level to the size of the load.

*Sort articles according to color, amount of soil and type of fabric. *Pretreat stains and heavily soiled areas before washing. *Using the right amount of detergent is important. Check use and care manual and detergent label for correct amount. *In hard water areas, detergents with phosphates are recommended. Also, extra detergent should be

*Wash full loads, but do not overload. Overloading limits the cleansing action of the water.

*Dry only full loads. Drying small loads wastes energy. However, do not overload. Clothes will be wrinkled and uneven drying can occur. *Do not overdry. Not only does this waste energy, but it also shortens fabric life, causes shrinkage and generates static electricity. *If possible, dry loads one after another to utilize heat from the previous load.

*Clean the lint screen after each drying cycle. A build-up of lint on the screen can lengthen drying time by slowing down escaping heat and moisture.

*If possible, do not install dryer in an unheated space; drying times will be longer.

*Be sure dryer venting is properly installed to the outside. Keep outside vent clean and clear. Check monthly to insure that flap opens and closes freely. Jr. Carcass show to be held Saturday

The Annual lamb carcass show which is a part of the Sutton County Jr. Livestock Show has been scheduled for a new time. The show is normally held in January but has been moved to the fall in order to facilitate processing the lambs. The live lambs will be exhibited on Saturday, October 19, at 1:00 p. m. at the 4-H Center.

Ten finewool and ten crossbred lambs will be selected for the final carcass judging which will be conducted on Tuesday evening, October 22, at 6:30 p. m. also at the 4-H Center.

The public is invited to both sessions and the evening educational program will also offer 1 CEU of credit on your private pesticide applicator's license or certificate in the area of business ethics. This offers an excellent opportunity for you to come and learn about the latest in lean lamb production and pesticide safety.

Dr. Dan Hale from the meats lab at Texas A&M will be here to give the program on carcass evaluation and Dr. Frank Craddock will be present to discuss feeding and breeding techniques to achieve lean lamb.

All persons are invited to attend and educational programs conducted by the Texas Agriculatural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap or national origin.

Fisher re-elected to SWCD board

Glen Fisher of Sonora was reelected to the Edwards Plateau Soil and Water Conservation District board of directors on October 8, 1991. Fisher represents Zone 3 of the district.

The purpose of the Edwards Plateau SWCD is to promote sound soil and water conservation programs on agricultural lands within the district and to serve as a voice for farmers, ranchers, and local community entities on conservation matters.

The board of directors coordinates the conservation efforts of various local, state and federal agencies and other organizations and has authority to enter into working agreements with these governmental agencies and private concerns to carry out its purposes.

In Texas there are 211 soil and water conservation districts. Each is a legal subdivision of state government organized by local agricultural landowners with the assistance of the Texas State Soil and Water Conservation Board. Unlike most other legal subdivisions of state government, SWCDs do not have the powers of taxation or eminent domain. All conservation programs managed by the district are of a voluntary nature to the landowner or operator or other potential users of the SWCD's programs.

4-H awards banquet and dance held Oct. 5 held its annual achievement banquet on Saturday, October 5, 1991 at the Clint Langford Memorial 4-H Center with an excellent crowd in attendance. The banquet was presided over by Club President, Brian Faris and was conducted by the 4-Hers themselves. The only adult participation took place when Tom Payton, club manager, presented the Gold Star honorees with their certificates of recognition, assisted with installing the 1992 officers, and Rita Hale presented the Glasscock award and Melinda Crane presented the Earwood award.

The Gold Star award is the highest award which can be received on the county level. Sutton County honorees were recently awarded medals at the District banquet in Uvalde. They are Amy Patton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Patton and Bobby J. Mogford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Mogford.

Perhaps the most coveted award is the Fred T. Earwood Memorial award which is presented to the outstanding senior 4-H member in Sutton County each year. The award is based on achievement in a broad range of 4-H projects, leadership and character. The 1991 winner was Julie Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cleve Jones III. Julie is an active teen leader and a veteran of many 4-H activities including Texas 4-H Roundup and Congress and the National Citizenship Washington Focus.

A junior 4-Her is honored annually under the same basic criteria with the Edgar Glasscock Memorial award. This year's recipient was David Fisher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Fisher. David is a four year veteran of 4-H with projects ranging from sheep to foods and nutrition and David has already shown excellent leadership ability.

The Home Ecomonics award is presented to stress that 4-H involves many areas. Julie Jones presented the 1991 award to Lora Hale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Hale.

Each year two adults are honored with the silver spur award for outstanding leadership and service to the 4-H club. This award is selected by 4-H members and was presented to Mrs. Rita Hale and Mr. Bobby Mogford by Brian
