Downtown Lights Up Lady Broncos Hoop it Up! With Christmas Cheer

Miss Sutton County, Jamie Teasley, leads the lighting of the downtown area.

by Storie Sharp

The 1998 annual downtown lighting was a great success. The Community filled main street early, waiting for the much anticipated arrival of Santa and Mrs. Claus. Rudolph's red nose was replaced with the flashing red and blue lights of Chief Croy's police car lights, as Santa was led into view. Santa's traditional sleigh was replaced with a Texas style wagon led by mules instead of reindeer with L.P. Bloodworth as the jolly elf at the helm. The street was lined with booths from local organi- or for hinting to loved ones on zations that had all kinds of goodies and fun to offer. People wandering around found themselves being entertained by the Elementary School students singing festive christmas carols and the Bronco Band filling the air with christmas tunes. Homemade sweets could be purchased to snack on later or there was hot chocolate, cookies, corn on the cob, sausage on a stick and other good food to munch on while browsing. The businesses on Main Street were open late for shopping what might be desired under the tree this Christmas morning. As darkness fell on the crowd, Miss Sutton County, Jamie Teasley, led a group of riders with lanterns and slowly lit up the downtown area. The lighting parade made its end at the Courthouse for a final spectacular lighting display as the Courthouse and its lawn came to life in twinkling color.

Holiday spirit was definitely in the air!

The undefeated Lady Broncos traveled to Big Lake Tuesday, December 1. The Reagan County Owls came into the game with an impressive record (3-1) and one of the top scorers in the area. Not to mention past District rivalry.

The game began with both teams playing conservatively allowing the defenses to dominate. The Lady Bronco offense worked patiently for open shots that didn't fall. By the end of the first quarter Reagan County led 15 to 10. In the second quarter the Lady Bronco defense began to slow the Reagan County attack and the Lady Bronco shooters found their mark, outscoring the Lady Owls 15 to 6 for a four point lead at the half. The battle continued in the third quarter as the Lady Owls gained a slight scoring advantage to tie the score at 36. The fourth quarter was a classic battle between two very good teams. Neither team could put the game away as the lead changed back and forth throughout the quarter. With only one minute remaining the Lady Owls took a one point lead 45 to 44. Against all - out pressure from the Lady Owls the Lady Broncos calmly ran an inbound play to break the press. Kim Marshall slipped behind the Reagan County defender, fielded the long pass and outraced the defender for a layup and the lead 46 to 45. With only 30 seconds on the clock Reagan County brought the ball down court trying to work the ball inside to their leading scorer, but the Lady Bronco defense was flawless. Reagan County was forced to call timeout with 13 seconds remaining. The Lady Broncos expecting a play inside, instead saw Reagan County kick the ball out to the perimeter for a three point shot and a two point lead. Time ran out as the Lady Broncos brought the ball up court! Coach Marshall was very pleased with the overall effort especially the strong team defense and a good rebounding game for Stacy Fox. Scorers of the game were Cindy Jones-15, Japha Word-8, Daisy Mireles- 6, Stacy Fox- 4, Marisha Henson-4, Dana Duhon-4, Kara Eaton-3, Kim Marshall-2. The final score Reagan County 48-

Thursday 12/3- Game 1 vs.

Rankin Lady Red Devils Rankin fielded a team with a lot of height which the Lady Bronco offense had trouble penetrating. However, the Lady Broncos showed their versatility by adjusting to more of a perimeter game. Team defense is always a part of the Lady Bronco game plan and Rankin felt its pressure. The scorers were Cindy Jones-15, Kim Marshall-12, Marisha Henson-6, Dana Duhon-5, Daisy Mireles-4, Sarah Ball-4, Stacy Fox-2, Japha Word-2. The final score was Sonora 49 and Vista Lady Longhorns The Buena Vista girls were led by a very good point guard who put a lot of pressure on the Lady Bronco defense. Kim Marshall and Sarah Ball led the defensive effort. Offensively this was another big game as the Lady Longhorns had .. hard time keeping up. The scorers were Cindy Jones-13, Japha Word-10, Stacy Fox-8, Kim Marshall-8, Daisy Mireles-8, Kara Eaton-6, Marisha Henson-5 and Dana Duhon-2. The final score was

Saturday 12/5- Game 3 vs. Alpine Lady Bucks

Alpine did their homework and had a good game plan which they executed. The Lady Broncos were not on top of their game, shots wouldn't fall and rebounds were hard to catch. Alpine was very much in this game down to the last two minutes, when forced to press, they committed several fouls which the Lady Broncos converted to bonus points and a hard earned victory. The scorers were Cindy Jones-14, Daisy Mireles-10, Kim Marshall-10, Kara Eaton-6, Japha Word-4, Sarah Ball-2, Stacy Fox-2, Liza Ramirez-2. The final score was Sonora 50 and Alpine 44.

Saturday 12/5- Game 4 vs.

Iraan Bravettes The Iraan Bravettes, cheered on a capacity crowd of Iraan fans couldn't upset the Lady Bronco. After the sluggish game earlier in the day the Lady Broncos were on a mission. The offense was solid as ten players scored. Team defense played a major role in this victory as the Lady Broncos adjusted each time Iraan mounted a threat. The scorers were Kim Marshall-9, Daisy

Christmas Angels Up For Adoption

by Storie Sharp

If you haven't had a chance to go by either the First National Bank of Sonora or the Sutton County National Bank to adopt a Christmas Angel, there is still time. The Christmas Angels are a tradition that goes as far back as 12 years here in Sonora, when they were introduced to the community by Maxine Locklin.

Locklin was a Municipal Judge in Sonora who devoted her life to making the lives of less fortunate children better. Every year the Christmas Angels are sponsored by the Child Welfare Board, which strives to continue Locklin's generous spirit by making sure these children have something under their tree at Christmas time. The Angels have helped to provide gifts of clothing to hundreds of children of school age over the years. There is no specific age limit, as long as the children are in school, because all "kids" who are out there working on an education to better their future deserves to have Merry Christmas, be they 6 or 16.

This year the Elementary School is one of the groups participating in the Christmas Angel adoption, to help teach compassion to the students. Compassion is the attribute being studied for the month of December in the "Building Good Citizens" program that has been introduced at the Elementary level this year.

If you, your business, or your organization, are interested in adopting an angel, go by one of the banks an d pick an angel for the trees, that will have a number on it. There is a list with co-ordinating numbers that will give you the sizes of the child you are to buy for. The Child Welfare Board recommends

Ask the Historical Society

Q. Do you know how Christmas is celebrated in Italy, France, Germany and Sweden?

A. In Italy they have a female Santa Claus named Lady Befana. She gives gifts on the Epiphany while the children are out walking around the streets blowing paper trumpets. There is a legend that when Christ was born the shepherds told Befana about the birth and the guiding star. Befana delayed setting out and now every Christmas she wanders in search of the Holy Child. Like Santa Claus, Befana comes down the chimney and leaves gifts in every house but she does it with the hope that the Christ Child might be within.

There are several other Christmas customs one being the pipers, or pifferai, which are shepherds, in sheepskin trousers, flaming red vests and broad-brimmed hats with red tassels and white peacock feathers, who march into town during Advent from the outlying districts. They stop at each shrine to the Christ Child and play music on bagpipes, reeds and oboes.

They also stop at carpenter shops to in honor of Joseph. Many people invite the pifferai into their homes to sing old carols and folk songs. There is also a custom called the Urn of Fate. A large bowl is filled with many wrapped boxes. People take turns drawing boxes from the bowl and opening them. The trick is some of the boxes are empty and many have to draw several times and open several boxes before getting a present.

In Italy they have something called a Ceppo, their equivalent of our Christmas tree. The Ceppo is made out of cardboard and several lathes or canes and is shaped like a pyramid. The Ceppo is three or 4 feet high and has shelves in 3 or 4 levels. On the top of the pyramid they place a pine cone or a puppet and wax candles are lit and placed along the sides of the pyramid. An infant Jesus made out of wax or plaster, lying in a cradle and surrounded by shepherds, saints and angels is placed on the bottom leveland fruit, candy and presents are placed on the upper levels.

A Christmas feast in Italy usually includes dishes like noodle torte, prosciutto and panettone.

In Europe, going back as far as people can remember, evergreen trees were brought into the home during the winter as symbols of unending life.

In the Black Forest they were first used as part of Christmas. It was here, when Alsace was German, that the fragrant firs and spruces were originally decorated with glass balls and garlands.

The Germans have wonderful foods for Christmas like Marzipan, lebkuchen, springerle and stollen. They have beautiful Advent Calendars that have little windows that are opened each day, usually by the children (I had one of these that had chocolate candies behind each little window.)

In many houses a wreath with four candles is hung in the home and each Sunday until Christmas Eve one candle is lighted.

There is an old custom called Knocking night that is held on the last Thursday before Christmas, where mummers in grotesque costumes would go from house to house knocking on doors, rattling cans and bells, and cracking whips, supposedly to drive away evil spirits. In some parts of Germany this is done on the first three Thursdays.

Father Christmas is the one who delivers the gifts and legend has it that at one time he had masked companions who carried switches and doled out punishment instead of presents to the children that had been

In France you find small painted clay figures that are made in Provence and called santons, which means little saints. Some are figures to be placed in a creche, manger scene, others are figurines of butchers, bakers, policemen and priests which are given to the children to

Almost every home has a creche and in rural areas it is decorated by the children with laurel, holly, stones and moss they gather from the woods. The grownups go into the woods also to get the Yule log which has wine poured over it before it is lighted on Christmas Eve. Many people have a large late supper after Midnight Mass. In cities, where many don't have fireplaces, the people eat cakes shaped like a log and covered with chocolate icing to look like tree bark. After this the children set out stocking or shoes for Father Christmas to fill. Adults don't get their gifts on Christmas but on New Year's Day. In some places the children dressed as shepherds and shepherdesses march through the streets. beating on drums or playing wind instruments, led by men carrying lighted torches all the way to Midnight Mass. On Epiphany they have gateaux des rois, which is kings cakes, that are baked to honor the Magi. These are round cakes, iced with almond paste and each one contains a coin or a bean as a small favor. The one who gets the coin in his cake is given a paper crown and named king or queen for the day. Games and dances follow this and the ruler commands what is to be played and his demands must be followed.

In Sweden on December 13th which is St. Lucia's Day, a young girl dressed in white with a crown of greens topped with candles and other young people in the family carrying candles, wake up the family at dawn and offers them wheat cakes and coffee. Many people think she represents Lucia of Ancient Syracuse. Lucia had her eyes put out for refusing to renounce her Christian faith. Children in villages throughout Sweden compete each year for the honor of portraying her. Another custom is Star Boys that portray the journey of the Three Kings to Bethlehem. They go about the town singing and are followed by strangely costumed figures, one portrays Judas carrying his purse. There is a big dinner with a Christmas pig and they drink Christmas beer which is supposed to represent fecundity. It is believed that if the Christmas cake dough doesn't rise properly there will be a bad year. It is not uncommon in rural areas, to see sleighs filled with people and lit by torches gliding across the snow to Midnight Mass. On December 31st a prayer vigil is held in many churches at the stroke of midnight. Following the prayers parties are held in restaurants and halls and the young people go through the streets ringing bells to celebrate the New year.

Though my reader didn't ask for it I think next week we will see how Christmas is celebrated in Poland, England, Spain and Mexico. If you have any questions concerning Sutton Co. history send them to Ask the Historical Society, P.O. Box 885, Sonora, TX 76950-0885, e-mail me at or call me at 915-387-2855 in the afternoon or evening only please.

I'd like to take a minute to remind our readers that there are a great many accidents around the holiday season and ask them to please buckle up every time they get into their vehicle. I don't want to see anyone in the hospital or funeral home for Christmas because they didn't buckle up.

Progress Steady on new 4-H Civic Center

Steady progress is the term most descriptive of the construction effort for the new Sutton Co. 4-H Civic Center. The outer metal construction of the building is nearing completion with trim work and doors remaining. The bulk of the effort now is indoors. All of the air conditioning units have been hung and the duct work is nearing completion. The studs for the interior walls should be completed by this week and the electrician is scheduled to begin with a bang late this week. Since most of the effort is interior, the weather has little influence on the progress of the new building. There remains a tremendous amount of work to do on the center because there is a huge amount of electrical wiring, computer wiring and audio system wiring planned in the facility. Estimates for completion by the contractor are for mid- January but no concrete plans have been made to begin booking the facility or to host an open house.

Rediscovering Christmas

From the beginning, Christmas has been a holiday that features the family. For many people, it still is. Here are some hints that can help make your family's holidays celebration lovelier than ever. On Christmas Eve, have each member of the family tell a story about a favorite Christmas and what it was that made it special.

Go out one night to view all the holiday decorations in the neighbor-

Pop a tape of holiday songs in the car and sing along.

Invite a friend or neighbor with no place to go to share your family traditions.

Decorate your home with handmade things. For example, you can create a great table topper or mantel decoration out of cardboard and cotton balls. Create a cone out of the cardboard. Then dip the cotton ball in glue and silver glitter, just on one side. Glue the cotton balls to the cone until you've built up an icylooking snowball tree.

You can make beautiful crossstitch Christmas ornaments with Duckwall-ALCO Stores, Inc. from $3.2 million, or $0.62 per share, in the prior year.

Glen L. Shank, President and Chief Executive Officer, said "We are looking forward to beginning our seasonally strong fourth quarter, having completed our store opening schedule for the fiscal year. After opening four ALCO stores in new non-competitive markets in the third quarter, we started the fourth quarter with the opening of three ALCO stores and three Duckwall stores, which bring total openings to 36 in the current fiscal year (16 ALCO and 20 Duckwall stores) and a total of seventy-six in the two year peri-

Shank added, "Sales have been our biggest challenge all year. We have had some merchandise categories that have performed well, and while we are not satisfied with sales results, our challenge is to improve same store sales, which has been difficult due to the weak farm economy. Continued unseasonable warm weather during the fall season has also, at least temporarily, postponed consumer purchases of cold weather merchandise."

Duckwall-ALCO Stores, Inc. is a leading regional retailer which operates 258 full-line discount and hometown variety stores in the midwestern United States under the names "ALCO" and "Duckwall," respectively.

metallic floss and a free instruction sheet from the DMC Corporation, maker of Embroidery Floss and other fine needlework threads.

You and your youngsters can turn this year's greeting cards into delightful decorations and place cards. Just cut out your favorite pictures from the cards and attach them to one side of index cards folded in half to form the place cards. The cut-out pictures can also be used to trim gifts, backed with cardboard and hung on the tree, or taped to the window pane.

Another project to pin your hopes on: spray a tiny twig from an evergreen with gold or silver paint. Glue on tiny Christmas tree balls and glue a pin backing onto the flattest part of the branch.

For an easy-to-follow instruction sheet for cross-stitch Christmas ornaments, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to The DMC Corporation, Dept. N-C98, South Hackensack Avenue, Port Kearny Building 10A, South Kearny, NJ 07032-4688.

Reduce Holiday Stress - Shop and Ship Early

With the holidays quickly approaching, comes the annual ritual of decorating, entertaining, foam-in-place or corrugated eating, and of course, shopping for gifts. For those shipping gifts, UPS has some tips to help reduce stress and ensure packages will arrive safe and sound.

"During the holiday season, UPS will ship more than 295 million packages around the world by ground and air," said UPS Packaging Lab Manager Dennis Amato. "Consequently, we've spent an enormous amount of time and study developing proper packaging techniques. UPS is passing along its tips to help ensure the safe and timely delivery of customer shipments.'

* Choose a good box The outer box should be large enough to fit the package and any needed cushioning material. If the box is not new, it must be strong enough to support the contents and able to be stacked with other boxes. Make sure there are no old labels, creases, tears or punctures.

The flaps should be intact. * Protect it inside

Surround each item with bubble pack, Styrofoam "peanuts," dividers to protect against shock that occurs when packages come in contact with each other or hard surfaces. Wadded newspaper should only be used for lighter packages.

* Seal it securely

Use heavy-duty, pressure-sensitive plastic or nylon-reinforced tape. Don't use masking tape or cellophane tape. Never wrap a cartons in paper or tie them with

* Label properly

The mailing label must include the the complete name and address, including the Zip code. If necessary, make sure to put the business name, apartment or floor number. While you're packing the box, it's important to place a duplicate mailing label inside the carton in case the outer label becomes unreadable. Pay extra attention to make sure all the information is correct.

* Ship as early as possible Catalog orders may take a day or two to process before being shipped, especially during the holiday season. * Special tips for specific

Fragile items, such as glass and ceramics, need extra packaging. Use bubble wrap around these items and place in a separate box inside the packing box. When shipping your favorite holiday cookies, place them inside a smaller container and surround them with adequate packing material. This will help avoid shifting during transit.

Electronic equipment should be shipped in its original packaging, surrounded by additional cushioning materials and placed inside a larger box. If you open the box containing the gift before shipping, be sure to repack it exactly the way it was packed.

Clothing and soft toys may be gift-wrapped and placed in a strong outer carton with protective wrap. Shipping a gift-wrapped package in brown paper will not provide adequate protection.

Plants, fresh fruits or vegetables shipped to California, Hawaii or Arizona require a special blue identification label and are subject to inspection. This can add an additional day in transit.

If you have other questions or concerns about shipping packages this holiday season, call UPS's 24hour toll-free number (1-800-PICK-UPS) or visit the UPS web site at http://www.ups.com. The UPS web site also is an easy way to track your packages throughout the shipping process.

UPS's peak season begins November 27 and the company anticipates its peak day will be Tuesday, December 22, with an expected delivery volume of more than 17 million packages. UPS is the world's largest express carrier and packaging delivery company, serving more than 200 countries and territories around the world. Headquarters in Atlanta, GA, UPS has been rated the world's most admired mail, package and freight delivery company by Fortune Magazine, just six months after winning its fifteenth consecutive annual award as America's most admired transportation company.

106th Congress: New Congress Hits the Ground Running

by U. S. Congressman, Henry Bonilla

The campaigns are over, and the American people have made their choices. In the next few weeks, representatives from across the country will arrive in Washington to start the business of forming a new Congress. It is a process established by our Constitution and one that takes place every two years.

The 106th Congress will be sworn in on January 6th of next year. Joining that Congress will be 40 newly elected members of the House of Representatives. To help these new members get acquainted with their new responsibilities, as well as their new surroundings, the House of Representatives conducts an orientation program, usually held in November or December before the January swearing-in.

Newly elected representatives, however, can't coast until January. They must immediately begin putting together a competent staff from the thousands of resumes that await them in Washington.

These will be the people who make sure that constituent casework is handled responsibly, the office will operate within its budget, the issues important to the district are fully researched, and the mail and phone calls get a timely response.

A new member also has to find space for offices in the congressional district as well as in Washington. Many of my constituents often ask me how this process take place. It is done by seniority of the class. For example, those elected in 1996 choose offices before those elected this year. Individual office selection within the class is based on a lottery system. It is fairly typical for freshman members to end up with smaller offices on the top floors of the House office buildings.

Freshman, as well as more senior members, work hard to get on important committees. Each political party establishes a committee, which makes committee assignments. Members are usually placed on committees based upon their particular knowledge of a subject or the committee's importance to their constituents.

time studying the complicated but 50.50; Cull and Utility 1-2 35.00necessary rules of the House that govern debate on the House floor. They spend an equal amount of time finding their way around the maze of corridors, hallways and tunnels that make up the Capitol complex. Like a rookie arriving at the Cowboy's training camp, a freshman member cannot help but be in awe, following in the footsteps of legislative giants in a place where so much of our history was made.

Whether a freshman member or the Speaker of the House, the responsibilities of a member of Congress don't change. We must answer to our constituents and work for the good of the entire nation. The 435 members of the 106th Congress will try to reach agreement on issues ranging from highway spending to Social Security, national defense to the minimum wage, wool tariffs to foreign trade. They will be expected to be familiar with hundreds of issues and then vote responsibly. They will find out that their country and their fellow citizens are as diverse as they are similar. They will be guided by the greatest document providing representative government: our Constitution.

Hopefully, they will not forget its words or the intent of its authors and ratifiers: Government serves the people.
