Casualty of Border Strife

(NEA Radiophoto)

Proof of the reported series of battles along the Czech-German frontier is this radiophoto showing a wounded "free corps" Sudeten-German being carried away in a stretcher by his comrades after a sudden battle for control of the customs house at Wepert on the border. This is the first photo of border casualties to reach the United States. In the window at the upper left, two German customs officers are visible.

Duce Voices New Threat To Use Army

Mobilization of Italian Troops Will Be Ordered

VICENZA, Italy, Sept. 25 (AP).—Premier Mussolini threatened Sunday to take military measures if other nations do not cease mobilizing men and warships. Mussolini spoke briefly, still holding hope that at least a general war might be averted. The crowd he addressed had massed to cheer him on his tour of regions along Italy's German frontier. It was his seventh brief talk since he reaffirmed the strength of the Rome-Berlin axis and declared last Sunday at Trieste Italy's place "is already chosen." "Up to now Italy has not taken the slightest measure of a military character," he said. "But if others continue to recall reservists and mass on frontiers, and if others are concentrating their fleets, it is clear—and none of you will be astonished—that Italy also will take measures."

Mussolini did not mention by name either France or Great Britain, both of which have taken emergency precautions, but it was believed his declaration was directed at them. This week will be Europe's "passion week," he said, but he indicated a general war still could be avoided if other nations abandoned the "error," which he said, was committed in the post war peace treaties in creating an excessively large Czechoslovakia.

"It may be said that beginning with yesterday what may be called Europe's week of anxiety and passion commenced," he said. "Mussolini declared it was 'universally recognized by now' that in the peace treaties of 1919 'grave errors were committed.'"

"Now, in the face of error, what should be done? Rectify it. To err is human but to preserve an error is diabolical."

"Now they are not only reluctant to rectify that error which was committed in expanding Czechoslovakia immeasurably but they wish to maintain this error. And for this the peoples of Europe should throw themselves against one another!"

"Now, until proof to the contrary, I do not believe this, which would be one of the most tragic paradoxes in human history, can come about. However, men aware of their responsibilities cannot reject those theses which may appear most absurd."

Here, Mussolini warned that Italy was about to take military measures to match those of other nations. He continued: "The world has had proof of our resolution and determination."

Lions Club Party Scheduled Tuesday Night at Cloverdale

Plans for the Lions Club barbecue-picnic at Cloverdale park Tuesday evening at seven o'clock are nearing completion, according to Luther Glover, general chairman, indications being that the affair will be one of the high spots of the year so far as social activity of the club is concerned. The barbecue-picnic will be a ladies night affair, all club members being urged to bring their ladies.

Club members who plan to bring guests other than their wives or sweethearts are requested to call either George Philippus, Luther Glover or Claude Crane this afternoon or evening. Approximately 125 persons are expected to attend the outing.

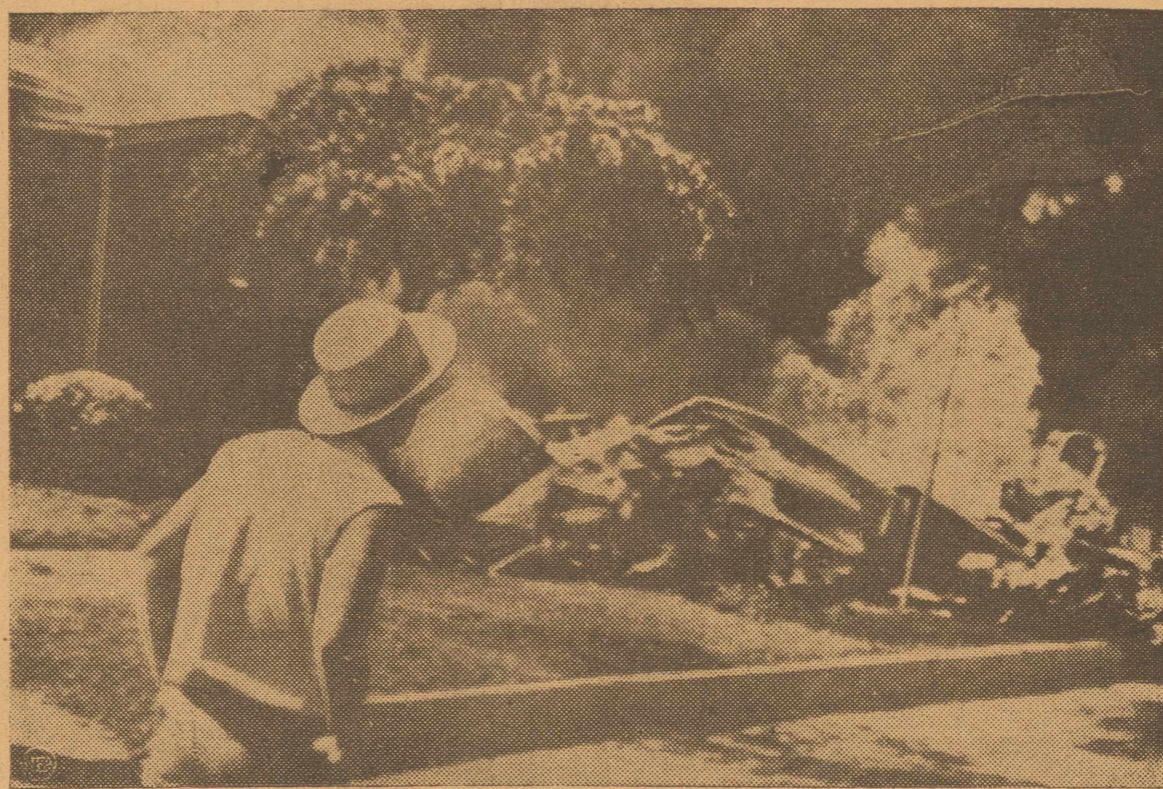

Members of the losing side in the recent Lions Club attendance contest will be the hosts to members of the winning side at the affair. Gene Reischman was captain of the winning group, Glover having captained the losers.

Midland Group to Fort Worth Funeral

Dr. Hull, who had practiced dentistry in Archer City for several years, had gone to Ft. Worth to consult a physician about his health, but fell dead soon after reaching the office, relatives here were informed. Mrs. Hull had accompanied her husband to Ft. Worth. Dr. Hull was a member of the Baptist church and known as a devout Christian.

Death Pyre of Army Air Chief and Aide

In the flaming wreckage of the single-engine attack plane, pictured above, Maj.-Gen. Oscar Westover, chief of the army air corps, and his aide, Sam Hynes, crashed to their deaths at Burbank, Calif. The 55-year-old No. 1 flyer of the army was circling his plane to land when it burst into flames and plummeted to earth.

New Air Corps Head Veteran of "Crate" Days of 1911

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—Command of the Army Air Service passes in to the energetic hands of General Henry H. Arnold following the death of Maj. Gen. Oscar Westover in a plane crash at Burbank, Calif.

General Arnold was disciplined three years ago for excessive zeal in seeking legislation affecting the Air Corps, when he was information officer here under General Patrick. His transfer from Washington followed, but he has long been considered a "spark plug" of the air service.

One of the army's pioneer flyers, Arnold in 1911 was already piloting the "crates" which passed for planes, and the entire air force consisted of two planes.

Fifty-two years old, Arnold was born in Gladwyn, Pa., and educated at West Point, the Army staff and Command School, and the Army Industrial College. During the World War he was assistant director of military aeronautics in Washington, and after the war he was in charge of army flying in the northwest.

He was a pioneer in the aerial Forest Patrol and aerial relieving, and assisted in development of aerial cameras, machine guns, and radio communication. He was the first army flyer to win the Mackay trophy for the best performance of the year in the military services.

This trophy was awarded him a second time for his direction of the army's 9290-mile mass hop to Alaska and return in 1934.

Henry H. Arnold

As head of the western zone, Arnold was in charge of the flying of the air mail in that area when

It was turned over temporarily to the army in 1934. He has recently been serving as assistant chief under General Westover.

In addition to his ability as a flight officer, General Arnold has especially studied broad-scale problems of plane manufacture in relation to the national defense.

French Civilians Are Requested to Evacuate Capital

PARIS, Sept. 26 (AP).—The ministry of public works, "because of circumstances," today called upon all persons ready to do so to evacuate Paris by rail.

The ministry announced all necessary measures had been taken by the railroads to evacuate the civilian population from the capital if the European crisis developed into war.

ROOSEVELT, CABINET TO MEET TOMORROW

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 (AP).—President Roosevelt decided today to hold a cabinet meeting tomorrow to consider the crisis in Europe.

The state department announced Great Britain had "pledged with gratitude" the president's appeal for world peace.

Fire Prevention Week Scheduled For Oct. 9 to 15

AUSTIN, Sept. 26.—Stressing the importance of continued vigilance on the fire prevention front, Marvin Hall, fire insurance commissioner, today urged state-wide observance of the annual Fire Prevention Week scheduled for October 9 to 15.

"Fire uncontrolled is one of the most serious problems that confronts us today," Hall said. "Each year its heavy toll in life and property is a black mark on the proud name of Texas. Only by constant and relentless vigilance on the part of every Texas citizen can we hope to reduce, and finally to eliminate the costly destruction of this economic enemy number one."

"Active participation in Fire Prevention Week by every Texas citizen will go far toward curbing losses and saving lives, and, since fire losses have a direct bearing upon the fire insurance rates, there are other practical benefits accruing from effective fire prevention."

"Fire Prevention Week is designed for every Texan interested in performing a distinct service to his state, to his community, and to himself," Hall said. "If we remember that the fire that never starts will never get out of control, and keep that thought before us each day of every year, then we will rightfully say that the practice of fire prevention pays big dividends in human lives and happiness."

Oil Editor Still Ill

Frank Gardner, oil editor of The Reporter-Telegram, continues ill at his hotel apartment here. Extreme weakness and fever made it impossible for him to gather his usual quota of oil news today, although his fever had abated somewhat from what it was yesterday, according to reports early this afternoon.

ROOSEVELT URGES PEACE SETTLEMENT

BERLIN, Sept. 25 (AP).—Adolf Hitler told an anxiously-awaiting world tonight his demands on Czechoslovakia were "the last territorial claim I will make," but added ominously, "It is a claim which I will not give up."

Regarding the Sudeten issue, the Fuehrer declared "we now stand confronted with a last and final problem, which has to be solved and will be solved."

This declaration followed a review of his relations with the principal European powers, in the course of which he voiced his dissatisfaction with the 1936 naval treaty with Britain, limiting Germany's naval power.

Earlier, he told his countrymen Germany had "an armed force the like of which the world has never seen."

"Man for man, woman for woman, we are decided on one will," were the closing words of Adolf Hitler in his world broadcast received in Midland this afternoon.

Other highlights of the broadcast, which was picked up by short wave in this country by NBC: We are no longer letting democratic lies influence our people today. The whole people of Germany is united and we are absolutely confident of victory.

And let the world know that behind me marches a new nation... a different nation from what it was in 1918. If Benes does not stand behind his promises, WE SHALL TAKE SUDETENLAND... for in all my years of political life, none can say that I am a coward. Mr. Benes now has the choice of war or peace. I as a decent German have my duty to perform.

I have assured Chamberlain that when this matter is solved, there will be no more territorial difficulties insofar as Germany is concerned. My patience has been exhausted. Mr. Benes thinks he can do what he wants to do, with the assurance, he believes, that France and England will back him up.

Today there is only one great statesman outside of Germany, and that is my good friend Mussolini. The Italians can rely on us. These two states will stand side by side in defense of each other. When one traitor is shot, the democratic nations protest vehemently, but when thousands suffer every day they say nothing.

The Sudeten demand is the last that I shall make in Europe, but it is a question which I will not yield. We have only one interest now and that is to work in peace. This activity is not a blind reality and no lying democracies can contradict it.

At the close of the speech tumultuous cries of "Hail Victory" were heard for long minutes.

Desperate attempts to save Europe's peace were made today as much of Europe sprang to arms in fear dramatic efforts would be in vain.

Britain's parliament was summoned to meet Wednesday to hear Prime Minister Chamberlain's accounting of his efforts to keep peace.

President Roosevelt addressed a message to Adolf Hitler and President Benes of Czechoslovakia, urging them to make peace.

Chamberlain sent an urgent and personal message by Sir Horace Wilson to Hitler in an effort supported by France to keep Europe out of war.

German anxiety, already evident as the result of a steady flow of troops toward Czechoslovakia, deepened in anticipation of Hitler's speech tonight.

The United States embassy at Paris warned Americans to return to the United States if they could. Arrangements were made for all women and children of the British embassy and consulate affairs in Berlin to leave for England tonight.

Czechoslovakia waited in the midst of defense preparations for Hitler's new declaration following the Czechoslovak decision his demands were unacceptable. The government was reported to have decreed immediate auxiliary service for men and women between the ages of 17 and 60.

Konrad Henlein, leader of the Sudeten, crossed into Czechoslovakia to inspect his free corps fighters along the front line but ordered combat be avoided with Czechoslovak troops.

The British war secretary called out officers and men in the anti-aircraft and coast defense units of the territorial army. In Washington, the state department reported the German frontier along Czechoslovakia is closed and Americans attempting to leave Czechoslovakia via Germany had turned back to Prague.

Secretary Hull extended the scope of President Roosevelt's appeal for world peace to include Poland and Hungary. Copies of the president's appeal to Germany and Czechoslovakia were ordered delivered to those governments.

In Brussels, the Belgian cabinet, after a hurried session, recalled soldiers on leave.

Additional Aid Rushed To Flood-Stricken Areas

BOSTON, Sept. 26 (AP).—As Harry Hopkins, Work Progress Administrator, mapped rehabilitation programs with governors of hurricane-stricken states, relief workers today brought the total identification of dead to above 450 through discovery of more bodies.

It appeared probable the final toll would be more than 500.

BOSTON, Sept. 26 (AP).—Attacking their monumental "mopping-up" task with fresh vigor, relief agencies throughout New England last night made a new survey of damage wrought by this section's first hurricane and tidal wave. Leading a party of Works Progress administration officials was Administrator Harry L. Hopkins, who inspected the damaged areas preparatory to a relief conference here today. At the same time, the Red Cross checked its reports and rushed help to the needy.

The death list from Wednesday's storm mounted slightly—the toll of identified bodies going over 420.

They Took "Little Hell" For a Ride

By BRUCE CANTON. A few years ago, when the big city gangs were making more noise and doing more business than they are now, it was common to say that they were "inevitable."

The argument was true enough, as far as it went. The only trouble was that it didn't go far enough. For while it was impossible to keep those causes from producing gangs, it was perfectly possible to remove some of the causes.

Not so many years ago, a certain section of Chicago was known as "Little Hell." It was a slovenly district of crowded and inadequate homes, and the young fellows who were growing up had no outlets for recreation except the streets, the pool rooms, and the speakeasies.

Here was a perfect breeding ground for crime. The development of gangs in that neighborhood was truly "inevitable." The only possible remedy was to change the neighborhood.

That idea at length got hold of certain public-spirited citizens. They bestirred themselves, interested the city government, did some work and spent some time and money on their own hook.

Playgrounds began to appear. Recreation clubs were organized. And presently things were fixed so that a growing lad could get into a baseball game, or do a little boxing in a gymnasium, or do some bowling, when he wanted to have a little fun.

The results were magical. "Little Hell" changed, over the years. The boys who had naturally drifted into the petty gangs which, in turn, fed them into the big gangs, had other things to do with their time.

And today, as a news dispatch describing the change says, the young fellows who once were recruited to fill the gaps in the ranks of the gunmen "are now more interested in Joe DiMaggio than in Al Capone."

A growing youngster is going to have some sort of outlet for his energies, and he is going to have some sort of idol to model himself after. If society doesn't provide the right outlet and the right idol, he will find his own.

But the remedy is fairly simple. Any time society chooses to spend on prevention of crime a fifth of the sum it ordinarily spends on its control and punishment, it will collect rich dividends.

Weavers in Jamaica are now making sport coats out of banana fibers. Doubtless this makes them easier not only to peel but to slip on.

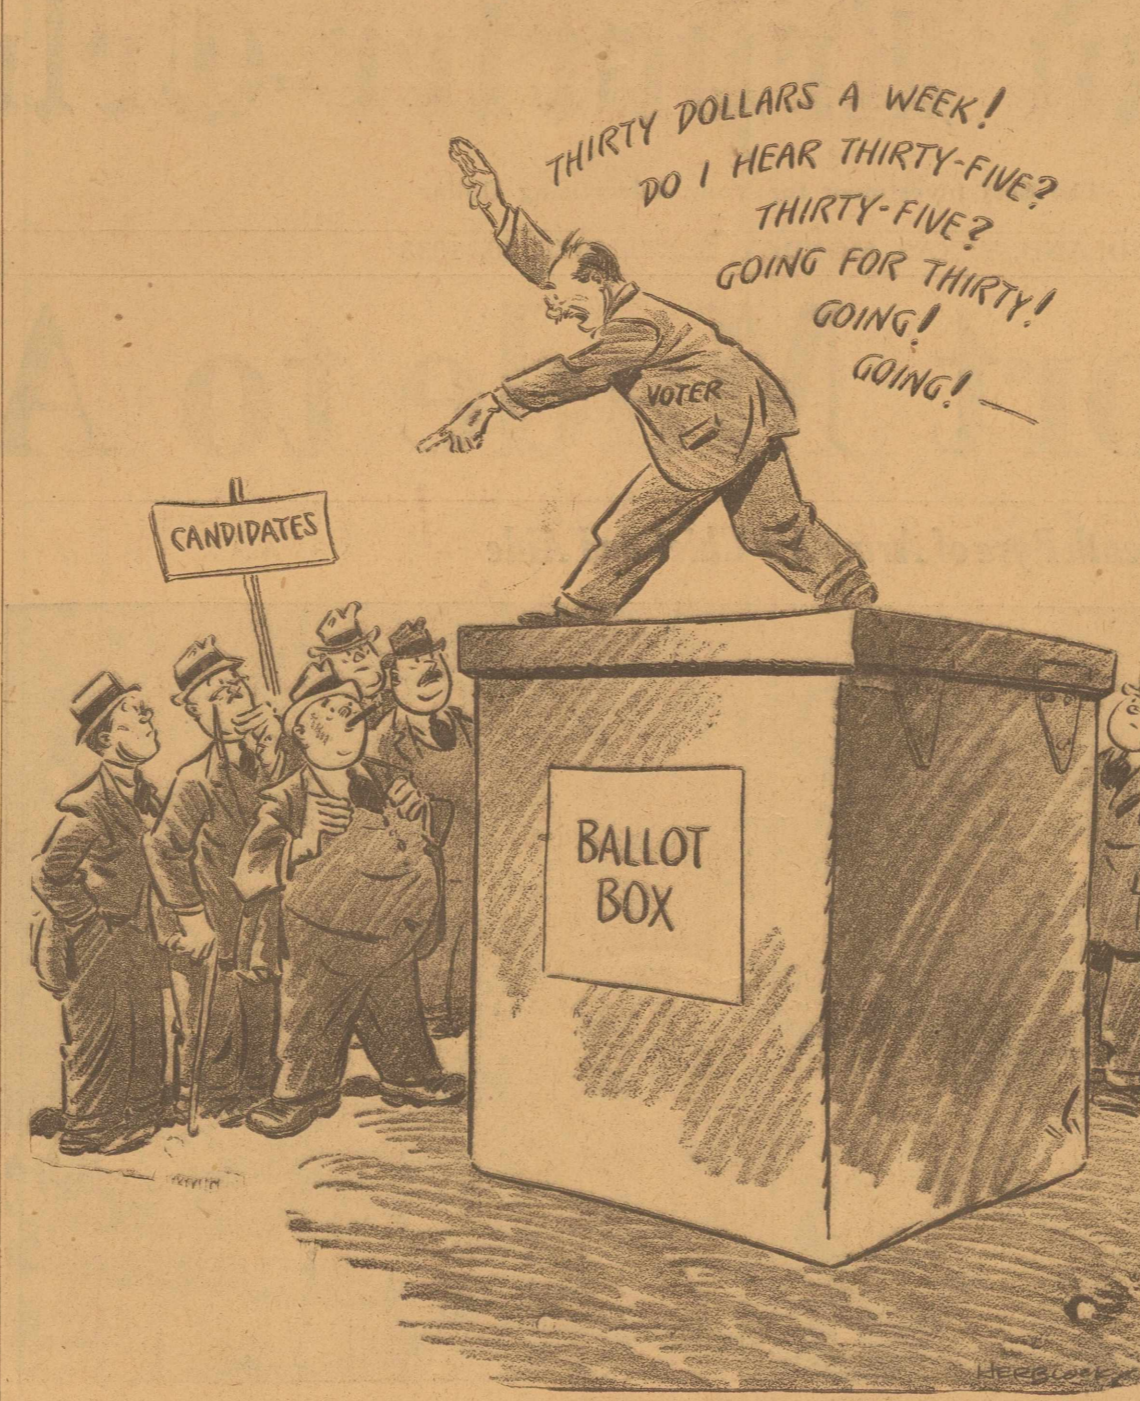

It's getting to be a terrible drawback not to be a minority this year.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

By WILLIS THORNTON NEA Service Staff Correspondent. WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Congress will discuss profit-sharing plans for industry this winter. A pet interest of Senator Arthur Vandenberg, these plans are to be studied by a subcommittee of the senate finance committee beginning Dec. 1, just before congress assembles.

off of inventory or some other bookkeeping factor, leaving him puzzled as to why he isn't cut in on the "profit." The National Industrial Conference board went into this matter in 1928, and found few profit-sharing plans had survived.

UNIVERSITY OF APPEAL IS REASON FOR MOVIE SUCCESS

There is no question that motion pictures ARE the greatest form of entertainment. The question is why they are, and that has been a topic of discussion since the industry got its start a generation ago. I think universality is the real answer. No other form of man-devised entertainment ever began to have the universal appeal of motion pictures.

Death Rides the Rails

This is what happened when a brakeman threw a switch and sent the Southern Pacific flyer "Argonaut" crashing into the passenger train "California" of the same line at Tortuga, Ariz., near the Arizona-California border. At least 11 died in the disaster and more than 100 were injured.

The Town Quack

Little George McEntire rivaled Paul Bunyon in a tale today about the Bodkins-McEntire non-stop, round-trip flight over Shafter Lake, in Andrews county, yesterday. He said the flight was calculated to win the hypothetical $25,000 check imaginatively offered by Editor Charley Roberts of the Andrews County News and now in escrow in the Caliche Bank.

One experienced observer commented that any of the delegates were the "same old guard" which had been attending state democratic conventions for many years. He suggested this was to be expected largely because O'Daniel had no organization in his campaign and consequently made no effort to capture precinct conventions which choose delegates to the county conventions.

After O'Daniel won in the first primary, one of the first questions asked by men experienced with politics was who would control the state convention. It was said generally there would be no attempt to deny O'Daniel's friends places in the state meeting, and him control of it; but it soon became apparent there would be difficulty in determining just who were O'Daniel's friends.

The rush to proclaim friendship for the successful nominee was well-nigh overwhelming. The observer said the question was to who constituted O'Daniel's friends hadn't really been answered by the time the Beaumont convention was held and wasn't known after it.

U. S. Senator Tom Connally furnished an excellent example of a speaker who does not read his address but adapts it to his crowd as he goes along. Connally put out advance copies of his speech but told correspondents he didn't think much of it and probably would depart from it freely. That's what he did.

He soon found a note that interested the crowd. It was the war situation in Europe. When he remarked that Europe's problems were Europe's alone and not ours, he received a roar of applause.

So he stepped back, paused and added that America would never send another boy overseas to die on a European battlefield. The applause increased.

Then Connally settled down and reception earlier in the day. When he walked upon the rostrum, accompanied by Mrs. O'Daniel and the O'Daniel children, while a phonographic outfit played "Beautiful Texas," the packed hall of delegates and visitors stood and applauded.

Some might say the applause wasn't very warm but that probably would be a matter of opinion. It was applause and hearty enough. O'Daniel read his address, which always is a bad form of delivery and usually doesn't cause much excitement among the listeners. An address which is read simply doesn't arouse much response, as a rule. It

The movies are a quick and easy way to accomplish it. Of course this is the same basic appeal that the theatre originally gave us. But the practical limitations of a stage presentation are such that, try as we might, we never quite create a perfect illusion. The theatre must ask its audiences to assume and believe certain things—that a painted backdrop is a real grove of trees, for instance. The unreality of this is amply demonstrated by this year's Pulitzer prize winner, "Our Town," a play presented without any scenery whatever.

The screen knows no such limitations. It can bring real trees, real ships, real herds of cattle before our eyes. Thus it can create a real illusion—a paradox, I admit, but then Hollywood is full of paradoxes. Technical skill has advanced to the point where literally anything can be put on the screen.

One of the well-known perfume houses is now putting out a new fragrance with the intriguing name of "Danger."

Knowing full well that humans are drawn to the idea of danger as moths are drawn to flame, it is a clever bit of stage play that makes the manufacturer give the scent such a name.

This will no doubt be an exclusive perfume and will therefore be more desired—for the smallest size container retails for $27.50, we've been told.

At that price, we're afraid we'll never be able to see whether "Danger" suits our personality or not.

Even small children who flee from the sight of Mother and her soapy wash cloth should be incited to make a stand for cleanliness when they see the new "scap-zoo" now available.

This presents a quartet of such improbable creatures as a green elephant, a pink camel, and others all molded in nicely-scented soap.

For group-up cleaner—uppers, never has there been such a fascinating array of bath accessories. All sorts of oils, colognes in squat colored bottles or tall clear ones, soaps in all desired fragrances, including these pale green ones molded in the form of pine cones—all are displayed these days to make the evening bath hour the pleasantest.

Particularly pleasing to the housewife who is interested in the Southwestern motif are the new bookends in large size, showing Mexican figures, in gay colors scented in relaxed pose with sombre-crowned heads resting upon their knees.

Newest thing in the way of clinics is a halitosis clinic at Northwestern University at Chicago. By means of a series of tubes, thermos, and other apparatus with queer names, the sensitive person who wants to know what his chances are of becoming a social outcast because of bad breath may learn how he ranks in a scale ranging from 0 to 6 p.p.s.

Frorrhea, of course, accounts for the 6 p.p.s. (a p.p.s. is the unit of measure for such things) but other high ratings are caused by sinus, throat or nasal infections and sometimes stomach ulcers.

Smokers also registered strong p.p.s.

Despite a tendency to unduly strong opinions upon subjects, we admit we haven't decided whether to applaud or to deride the clinic. Who said there aren't new things under the 1938 sun?

DON'T LET YOUR NERVES GET TIRED, UPSET!

Irish Setter He's giving his nerves a rest...and so is she

THE DOG pictured above has a nervous system amazingly similar to yours, with this difference: It is the nature of the dog to rest when he needs rest. It is the nature of mankind to drive on...until nerves jerk and twitch...until you are cross and irritable...tired out without knowing it. No matter which of the common forms of tenseness you feel, try this experiment: Ease up and enjoy a Camel. Camels are made from costlier tobaccos. They are so mild and comforting. Smokers find that "Let up—light up a Camel" puts more zest into life, and that Camel's costlier tobaccos soothe their nerves.

"Let up—light up a Camel" puts more joy into living

Terrell Jacobs, lion trainer, and "Tony" Cancelli, circus aerialist (right), both testify to the value of "Let up—light up a Camel." "Animals can spring into instant action—then relax," says Jacobs. "We are apt to get our nerves all wound up with our tense way of living—can't let go. I find that Camels soothe my nerves." "Terrell's right," Miss Cancelli says. "When my nerves are tired, a Camel helps them to rest."

DID YOU KNOW?

—that one tablespoonful of tobacco seed will sow 100 square yards? Right down to the day of harvest, Camel tobacco experts watch the development of the crop in each locality. The Camel cigarette buyers know where the mild, choice, aromatic tobacco is, and buy accordingly.

Camels are a matchless blend of finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic

Fred L. McDaniel, cowboy (right), says: "When I feel nervous I let up, and light up a soothing Camel. Camels are mild—I smoke 'em steadily. They are so comforting, and never tire my taste."

Here's Sample of Gale's Work

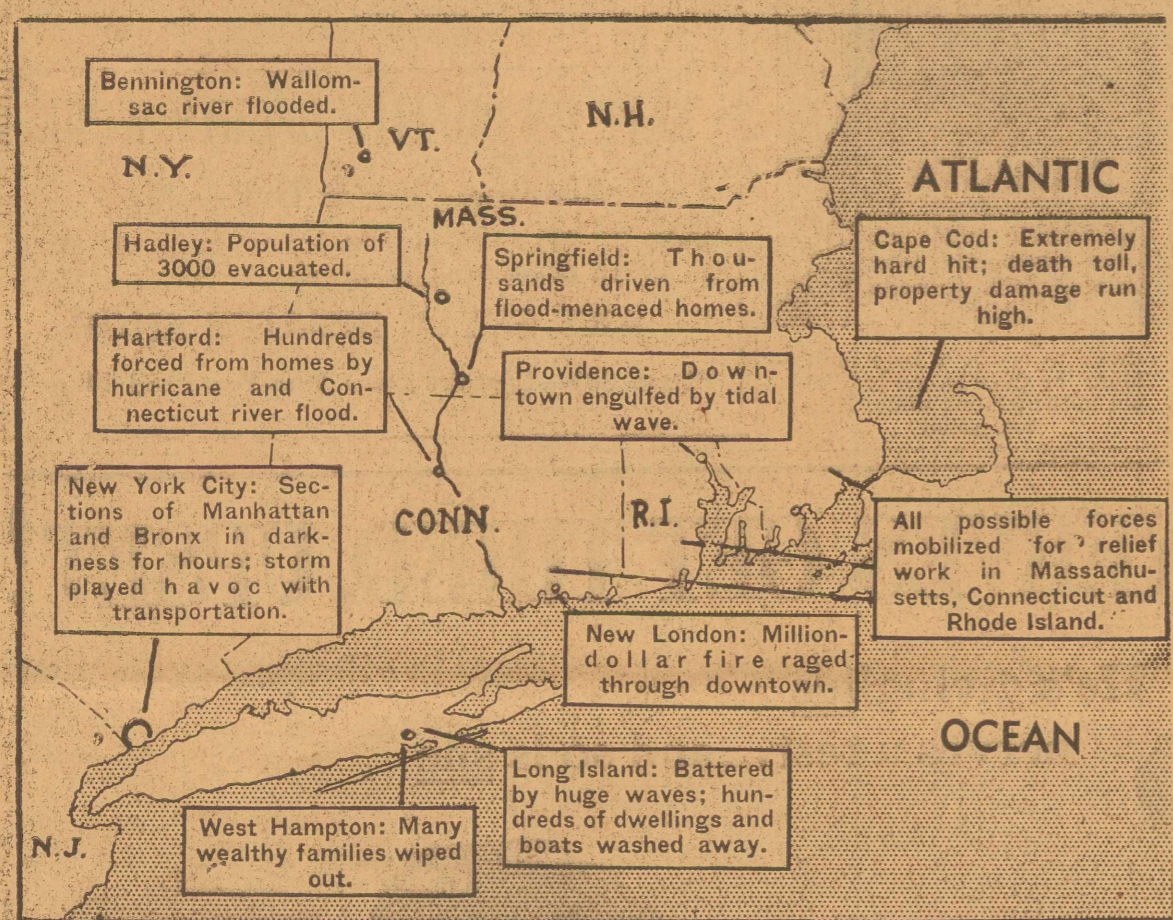

Piers and piling crumbled like matchwood when this steamer, tossed by wind and water, crashed into the docks at New London, Conn. Scenes comparable to this were common all along the Connecticut coastline after the record hurricane smashed its way across the northeast states, leaving death and ruin behind.

Whale of a Blow Levels Whaling Center

This air view of New London, Conn., showing buildings unroofed and wreckage strewn everywhere tells a graphic story of the havoc wrought in the New England states. Fire followed flood and blazing ruins can be seen at the right, center. Note the backwash of lumber in the shipways in foreground. With the death toll mounting hourly, the number of missing was a matter of guesswork. New London is a historic New England whaling center.

Highlighting Storm Damage

The toll of known dead mounted to more than 300 in the first 24 hours after devastating hurricane winds and unprecedented floods swept over the area in the above map. Swinging abruptly out into the Atlantic after making a threatening rally at the Florida coastline and then wheeling savagely inland opposite the New Jersey coast, the storm brought the worst wind and flood disaster in the history of the eastern seaboard to the sections shown here. The map highlights the places where the record-breaking storm struck hardest.

Frogs Hold Edge Over Razorbacks

FORT WORTH, Sept. 26. — Historically, the Horned Frogs are better than the Razorbacks on the football field, but whether or not history will repeat when the two meet in Fort Worth next Saturday afternoon is another matter.

T. C. U. and Arkansas have met on the gridiron 14 times dating back to 1920. The Frogs have won nine of these, for a total of 176 points, while the Razorbacks have run up 123 points in winning four contests. Last year's game was a 7-to-7 tie.

In 1930, at the dedication of the new T. C. U. Stadium, the Frogs piled up against Arkansas the greatest score ever made against a conference foe—40 to 0.

McCamey to Get New Phone System

MCCAMEY, Sept. 26. — McCamey's new "lift-the-receiver" telephone system will be housed in a new building on Burleson Avenue, one-half block south of the Grand Theatre, H. F. Fox, district manager of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, announced this week. The building will be erected by H. B. Robb, and work probably will start today.

In the city will be thoroughly tested, and present telephones replaced with new "crankless" instruments. If present schedules are maintained, the entire system should be completed and placed in service by the end of the year.

The PAYOFF

BY JESS RODGERS.

No longer should there be any doubt about the strongest Class-B district in the state. The convincing manner in which Wink drubbed Eldorado, champs of region 11 last year, adds emphasis to statements declaring region 2 is the best of the lot.

The Wink club was primed for the Eldorado game and played at mid-season peak to hang up just about as easy a victory as the team will win this fall. The 61-7 score fails to indicate just how helpless the boys from down south were.

Wink, it appeared to this department, has the best of all the good teams it has boasted in past years. Already, it is better than the team that wound up last season by coping the regional title.

The Wildcats showed the hardest charging and blocking line we have looked at in a long, long time. The Eldorado team had 10 boys on it that were members of the starting line-up for the team that copped a regional in 1937 but they were shown all the field by the Wildcats.

Coach Clyde Parks of Fort Stockton, referee of the Wink-Eldorado game, declared that Dison and Balfew played two of the best games at guard that he had ever seen in high school circles. And there is decidedly nothing wrong in the tackle play of Martin and Hoskins.

The Eldorado team was far from being as smart as it had been alleged. Time after time the boys let Wink pull plays they should have solved in the first quarter. However, there was nothing they could do about a lot of the plays even had they smartened up.

With three team members like, Don, Dee and Beekman Ezzell in the line-up, no team could help being strong. Don is still the choice of this department for number two back in the district—our number one is Midland's Jay Francis. Don Ezzell is the fastest man in the district, next to Francis, and at 170 pounds has the power of a run-away truck once he gets out in the open.

Plenty of people will tell of how rough Callahan of the Wildcats is—and believe every word of it. He has put on about 90 pounds since last year, now weighing 195 pounds. And every ounce of it spells power and lots of it. He is better than Don Ezzell at busting the line for a few yards but is not fast enough to get loose on the long runs that features play of the latter. Right now, half-back Don Ezzell is a part-time player while recovering from a broken finger, and quarterback Torrance is in a hospital recovering from a chest injury received in the Hobbs game. When both recover, Callahan will be placed on one end. Paired with Beekman Ezzell on the other end, that is going to spell plenty of trouble for others.

It appears fairly certain now that Midland is going to be the chief threat to the Wildcats repeating. Chances for a Midland victory are exceedingly slim, but stranger things have happened. Correct us if we are wrong: But we don't believe Wink has ever won a game in Midland. And the Wildcats have been favorites every year for the past several.

At any rate, if the Wink supporters start giving any 40 and 50 points on the game here, put the family pails in hock and take all you can get.

For the benefit of some who overlooked Midland scheduled as it last appeared, here is what remains of it:

- Oct. 1. Iraan at Iraan.
Oct. 7. Stanton at Midland.
Oct. 14. Open.
Oct. 21. Wink at Midland.
Oct. 28. Odessa at Midland.
Nov. 14. Midland at Kermit.
Nov. 11. Pecos at Midland.
Nov. 18. Midland at Crane.

Avoid Monotony In Daily Menus

Menus, like routine tasks, become monotonous if served time after time in exactly the same way. It takes a surprise now and then to add the savor and spice for making meals enjoyed.

How to add the surprise touch to the meal is a problem which concerns every housewife. Sometimes it may be through the addition of an unusual seasoning, or a unique way of serving, or variety gained by the choice of different foods. But, however achieved, the surmounting menu the "lift" is well worth the thought and effort required.

Since meat is the center of the meal, and a most important part of it, how about a few suggestions for adding the surprise note to the meat dish? These are given by Inez S. Wilson, home economist:

Try This for a Variety

- Season a beef pot-roast with curry powder. Garnish with lemon to serve.
- Rub skillet with a cut clove of garlic before cooking pork chops. This adds a subtle but delightful flavor.
- In making ground beef cakes, flatten the cakes quite thin. Pile on top of half of the cakes a spoonful of savory bread dressing to which ground or finely chopped peanuts have been added. Place a cake on top of each and pinch edges together. Broil or panbroil cakes as usual.
- Just before a baked ham slice is done, spread the top with a combination of drained crushed pineapple and brown sugar. Return to the oven to slightly brown the pineapple.
- After browning veal cutlets, add a small amount of sour cream cover tightly, and let cook slowly. The veal cooked in this way has a delicious flavor and the liquid makes an excellent sour-cream sauce.
- Broiled lamb chops have an unusual but delicious flavor, if immediately after broiling they are spread with a Roquefort cheese sauce, made by mixing 2 ounces Roquefort cheese with 2 table-spoons cream.
- For dumplings served with veal stew, use tomato juice as the liquid. This gives the dumplings a pink color and an excellent flavor.
- For a savory bread dressing, add browned pork sausage to bread crumbs and other seasonings.

Dance Halls Ban Shag.

"Jitterbugs" have no place to "shag" in Wilkes-Barre. Dance halls and cafes here have banned "swinging" and one proprietor—who had four bouncers on hand—said: "It wears my customers down."

Shark Fishing Profitable.

MELBOURNE, Australia (UP).—Shark flesh having become a popular item of diet here, at least three boats in a 40-foot cutter which they built themselves are making a living by shark fishing. During a recent day they made a catch that netted them $200—but this, they admit, does not happen often.

Steel Traps Banned.

NORWALK, O. (UP).—The county humane officer has placed a ban on steel traps for capturing wild rabbits that have been damaging garden and flower beds. He said the traps would catch birds, dogs, cats and even children.

Ermine is not expensive because weasels are rare, but because they are difficult to trap.

Rousing Backfield Makes Panthers Favorites Again on Eastern Front

By JERRY BRONDFIELD
NEA Service Sports Writer.

Lining up sectional football champions in September is a hazardous job, but a preview of the eastern battleground shapes up something like this:

Number one choice, Pitt—overwhelmingly. Following close in the Panthers' tracks, Dartmouth and Cornell. And ready to step forth as the surprise team, if Jim Crowley can mold seven more blocks of granite, is Fordham.

Pittsburgh's losses, including Frank Souchak, Tony Matis, Don Hensley, and Frank Patrick, were damaging, but not irreplaceable. Jock Sutherland will unquestionably have the finest ball-carrying backfield in the section in John Chickerno, Dick Cassiano, Harold Stebbins, and Marshall Goldberg.

The latter moves to full this season to make room for Cassiano, his 1937 understudy, who probably will be Sutherland's biggest ground gainer.

Dartmouth will have something of a backfield herself in Harry Gates, Bill Hutchinson, Bob McLeod, and Colby Howe. McLeod should be Dartmouth's best since Swede Oberlander, and along with his mates will operate behind a tough line that contains an All-America candidate in Gus Zitrides, a guard.

Carl Shavely worked wonders with a flock of sophomores and juniors in 1937. They're all back with an added year's experience. Brud Holland, negro All-America end, returns for duty, as do George Peck and Whit Baker, who will be spearheads of an exceedingly versatile backfield.

If the Big Red gets past Colgate, Harvard, and Syracuse in the first three games, it will be hard to stop.

NEW ARMY COACH TACKLES TOUGH JOB.

Fordham's hopes are built around a crackbackfield and a mediocre line. Billy Krywicki and Dom Principe will pace the backfield again, with the aid of Pete Holovak, a classy newcomer. But only Capt. Harry Jacumski, end, and Mike Koebel, guard, return from that robust 1937 forward wall.

The ever-resourceful Crowley has some fine material on Rose Hill, however, so the Ram isn't to be taken lightly.

Capt. William H. Wood, Army's new mentor, has 12 available lettermen headed by Jim Schwenk and Art Fronczak in the backfield, and Woodrow Wilson and Jim Lotozo, tackle, in the line.

The situation is none too rosy, and the same can be said about

Bob McLeod

Bill Osmanski

Navy, which with 14 lettermen gone from last year's club, is in the process of rebuilding. The Wildcats, who enjoyed an undefeated season a year ago, lost a great back in Andy Stopper and two clubs that will bear watching are Villanova and Holy Cross, a bang-up tackle in John Mellus, but Clipper Smith has plenty left—most notable of whom being John Wysocki, devastating All-America end.

Last year's reserves were strong, and the freshmen were tough, so Villanova should bound along in good shape.

Holy Cross lays claim to the best fullback in the east in Bill Osmanski, and when one considers the fact that eight regulars a year ago were juniors and are going to war again, the Crusaders take on menacing proportions.

Andy Kerr is still the Wizard of the Chenango Valley, but he'll have to dig deeper than ever into his bag of tricks to come up with much at Colgate.

N. Y. U. TEAM BOASTS BIGGEST BACKFIELD.

Dr. Mal Stevens, head man at N. Y. U., admits he has the best bunch he ever had at Washington Square. He has the heaviest backfield in the east, averaging more than 200 pounds. If he can get a line to match, his boys won't be shrinking violets on anybody's gridiron.

Pop Warner lost only three regulars from last year's Temple club, but a terrific schedule probably will take its toll.

Despite the loss of Vern Struck, the great spin-bucker, and Alex Kevorkian, tackle, Harvard will be dangerous to all.

Tad Wieman, with material galore at Princeton, will be especially formidable in November, when he gets some of his promising sophomores whipped into line. Loss of that great backfield of Clint Frank, Al Hesseberg, Charley Ewart, and Dave Colwell leaves Yale a question mark until Ducky Pond develops a new set of ball carriers.

Penn., with George Munger new at the helm, will depend greatly on four or five touchdowns to plug gaps left by graduation.

Optimism runs high at Syracuse, where Ossie Solem will have a whale of a line and a fair-to-middlin' backfield.

Columbia has the brilliant Sid Luckman, but not much else. Penn. Carnegie Tech, and Boston College will play tough football, but they're not Rose Bowl bound by plenty.

Little Lafayette is all steamed up for a second undefeated season, but Penn in the opener may prove a little too much.
