Duce's Talk Brings Peace Hope to U. S.

State Department Not Surprised at Attitude of Italy

WASHINGTON, April 21. (AP). — Disappointed, though hardly surprised, at Mussolini's disdainful reaction to President Roosevelt's anti-aggression plea, State Department officers nevertheless found in the Italian premier's words a faint hope for peace.

They expressed belief that however much the Duce decided in his address at Rome the value of the conference table as a means of adjusting economic inequalities, he still did not absolutely bar the way to an effort at stabilizing the European situation by collaboration. (Mussolini said non-aggression guarantees were unnecessary and that President Roosevelt's peace plea failed to take into consideration "fundamental errors of geography.") He indicated he might make no further reply to Mr. Roosevelt's appeal of last Friday to him and to Chancellor Hitler of Germany to pledge that their armies would not move during the next 10 years against 31 countries which Mr. Roosevelt named. While Secretary Hull and his associates were weighing the Italian leader's informal reply, there were, elsewhere in the city, additional developments bearing upon America's plans for defense and her place in foreign affairs.

Before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee which is studying proposed changes in the neutrality act, Raymond Leslie Buell, president of the foreign policy association, asserted that if the Fascist powers should "subjugate" Great Britain and France they probably would turn to the Western Hemisphere next. For that reason, he urged economic help for Great Britain and France, to be achieved by permitting belligerent nations to buy war supplies here on a "cash and carry basis." American troops, he said, should not be sent into action until the Western Hemisphere is actually attacked.

Texon 1-A Midland National Bank Is Gauged at 2,468 Barrels in 24 Hours

Extending the North Cowden pool of northern Ector two locations east, Texon Oil & Land Co., No. 1-A Midland National Bank (Carl Roberts) today flowed 2,467.62 barrels of oil through 7-inch casing on 24-hour Railroad Commission gauge.

The well was tested after it had been shot with 495 barrels of nitro. Oil is 35-gravity and gas-oil ratio of 73-1. The Texon producer topped pay at 4,287, stopped drilling at 4,408 in lime, and is credited with having headed 450 barrels of oil in 14 hours before shooting. It is located 2,200 feet from the north, 2,260 from the east line of section 36, block 43, township 1 north, T. & P. survey.

Over a half-mile farther east and slightly north, J. M. Rush No. 1 Midland Farms was said by some to have topped brown lime at 3,940 feet. Only 41 feet low to the new Texon well. It is drilling ahead past 4,120 in anhydrite and lime.

Magnolia Petroleum Company No. 1 TXL, extreme northwestern Ector wildcat, this morning was babbly rotary mud at 3,000 feet. It probably will be drilling plug from 7-inch casing with standard tools by tonight. Total depth is 4,310 feet in lime which showed good saturation and porosity in the last 10 feet.

Texans Celebrate 103rd Anniversary San Jacinto Battle

By Associated Press.

Texans paused today to commemorate the one hundred and third anniversary of the battle of San Jacinto.

Most colorful festivities were on the battlefield near Houston and San Antonio where a clear sky made an ideal setting for the famed Battle of Flowers parade.

The San Jacinto celebration was started yesterday with the first program incident to dedication of the museum of state history in the base of the towering San Jacinto monument. Today Governor O'Daniel and other state notables spoke from the same site.

Banks throughout the state were closed. At Austin the senate was in recess but the house continued to work.

Sunday Shutdowns To Be Continued All During May

AUSTIN, April 21. (AP). — Six-day production will be continued in May for most of Texas' oil fields. Lon A. Smith, chairman of the State Railroad Commission, said Thursday.

Smith said the commission, administration of state oil and gas conservation laws, also was aiming in a statewide order for May being prepared, at keeping the total allowable for Texas within the estimate by the Federal Bureau of Mines of market demand for Texas' crude.

"We believe that by shaving a little here and there this can be done," he said.

The Bureau of Mines estimate was for 1,406,100 barrels daily in May, which is about 6,900 barrels less than the comparative figure for April.

The average daily production in Texas for the week ending April 15, considering Sunday shutdowns, was 1,435,150 barrels.

After many months of two-day weekly shutdowns, in efforts to bring production and consumption into balance, the commission lifted the Saturday closings starting in April but continued Sunday shutdowns.

It also sharply cut allowances of West Texas, Southwest Texas and Gulf Coast districts, while in effect giving increases to North, East and Panhandle Texas.

Lindbergh Urges Nation Cinch Leadership in Plane Development

WASHINGTON, Apr. 21. (AP). — President Roosevelt said today he and Col. Charles Lindbergh talked about the world military situation in their conversation yesterday but declined to go into details.

WASHINGTON, April 21. (AP). — Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh advised army, navy and civilian aeronautics officials Thursday that the United States should use every effort to clinch world leadership in plane development.

Reporting to the national advisory committee for aeronautics on strides made by Germany and other nations, the flier was said by officials to have advised more emphasis on research in the United States.

Lindbergh attended the session of the NACA executive committee of which he is a member, after a 25-minute talk at the White House with President Roosevelt.

Some of his hearers quoted him as saying it was vital that the United States develop superior types of military and civil aircraft. The tenor of his remarks was that quality was more essential at present than quantity.

He said that in an emergency production could be sped up but it might be too late to develop quality. (Congress has approved a program to extend the army air force to 6,000 planes in two years.)

Lindbergh's reported views reinforced a plea by the NACA for $10,000,000 to establish a new research station at Sunnyvale, Calif., to supplement the existing research center of the governmental agency at Langley Field, Va.

At the White House, Colonel Lindbergh, temporarily an active army officer to make a survey of air research facilities, reported to his commanded-in-chief, presumably on European aviation advances.

Cooperation Of 2 Nations Urged Today

Rumania, Poland Thought Against Signing Accord

LONDON, April 21. (AP). — An impeccable source said today Russia has demanded full military support of Britain and France in return for her cooperation in the Anglo-French front.

The source said Britain had expected a much more vague and less binding agreement by which Russia would merely "support" the coalition being formed by London and Paris.

Although Britain was reported willing to accept Russian cooperation on a tri-partite military alliance basis, it was feared British-French guarantees of their independence might block negotiations.

It was pointed out officially the conversations are continuing and the new soviet plan was not necessarily final.

Uncle John Scharbauer, Man Who Brought Pure Breds to West Texas, Still Active

By L. C. SLOAN Associated Press Staff

Probably no other Texan his age holds the helm of as great a ranching empire of his own building as John Scharbauer, 87-year-old president of the Scharbauer Cattle Company.

Soon, however, he was on his own, the possessor of a flock of sheep which he took out on the free grass near Sweetwater.

The next few years were filled with hardships for the young easterner. He lived in a tent, doctor-ed and lambed his sheep and herded them together when blue northers or violent rainstorms whipped across the prairie.

The market slumped steadily. They went down in price as fast as we could raise them in numbers and while we had lots more sheep at the end of four years the flock wasn't worth any more money."

For a time he had a partner who sold out and returned to New York "because he couldn't stand the gruff."

West Texas was a wild region in those days. There were no houses at the present site of Abilene until the railroad came through a few years later. Laborers building the railroad would gather at Abilene saloons on pay days to drink and fight with cowboys from nearby ranches. Shootings were frequent.

Paradoxically, the fortunes of the famous cattle company were founded on a flock of sheep in the days when cowmen regarded the "woolies" as an abomination destined to destroy the freedom of the open range.

Conditions improved after four years and the sheep began to make money. Scharbauer sent for his family and made Midland his headquarters.

His brothers, Phil and Chris, father of Clarence, followed him to Texas.

In 1888 he shipped 49,000 sheep to Chicago and cleared $50,000. Two years later he and the Cornell brothers formed a bank which later became the First National Bank at Midland.

The cattle company expanded rapidly thereafter.

"I always had good credit and kept my money and lots of the other fellow's money busy," Scharbauer said.

The Scharbauers quit sheep in 1892 when the free range was disappearing and it became necessary to lease the grazing land.

"We thought we couldn't keep sheep in one place. We also thought we were going broke when we had to pay 2 cents an acre for leases," Scharbauer related.

He discovered his mistake and returned to operating in sheep. Part of his 35,000 head of Longhorn cattle were trailed to Amarillo and shipped to grass in Wyoming and Montana each spring.

In 1890 the company brought the first Hereford cattle to West Texas from Illinois and operated one of the world's top show herds.

"We supplied the western country with lots of bulls from 1893 on," Scharbauer said. "Our show cattle took as many blue ribbons as any of them. At one time we registered more cattle with the association than any other United States breeder."

The company now runs 15,000 cattle and 10,000 sheep on its ranches in Martin, Midland, Gaines and Andrews counties and around Hobbs, N. M.

Looking to the future, Scharbauer believes the activities of the 4-H clubs in educating young cowboys of today will be of great benefit to the Texas livestock industry.

"I think that's going to be the great thing for our country. It's going to help these youngsters who are coming along to take the place of the old cattlemen. It is going to bring lots of money into Texas as most of the cattle fed by the 4-H clubs are fattened by feed that is raised at home."

Scharbauer divides his time between Fort Worth, Hobbs and Midland where he and Clarence have extensive holdings. He maintains his residence at Fort Worth. Mrs. Scharbauer died in 1935. His daughter, Mrs. W. C. Stonestreet, resides in Fort Worth.

During the depression in 1932 large demands for cash were made by depositors upon a Midland bank of which Scharbauer is director and he was notified by telephone. Scharbauer withdrew $100,000 from a Fort Worth bank, chartered an airplane and flew to Midland before closing time.

"We put the cash up where they could see it and most of them put their money back in the bank that day," he said.

At Midland, he sometimes speaks before the Scharbauer Men's Sunday school class. He is fond of dancing and often attends dances at Midland and Hobbs.

"Dancing keeps me young," he said.

Political Pot Boils as 1940 Voting Looms

Says New Deal Can Be Counted Out as Democrats Split Up

By ROGER W. BABSON Copyright, 1935, Publishers Financial Bureau

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 21.—Two recent trends have helped President Roosevelt politically. These are: ONE, the fear of a war involving Great Britain and France; and TWO, the possibility that the Republicans may be unable to get together on a strong candidate.

The Scharbauers quit sheep in 1892 when the free range was disappearing and it became necessary to lease the grazing land.

"We thought we couldn't keep sheep in one place. We also thought we were going broke when we had to pay 2 cents an acre for leases," Scharbauer related.

do not make business conditions.

Business conditions are fairly good today as far as retail trade and other statistical indications are concerned.

Measured by the number of people out of work, however, conditions are not much better than when Franklin Roosevelt took office six years ago.

Millions more voted for him in 1936 because more people had jobs than in 1932. Since then unemployment has become bad again.

What the voters did last fall is a preview of what will happen in 1940 unless jobs greatly increase.

Democrats badly split

Will a possible business boom and a big gain in employment help President Roosevelt if he runs in 1940? The answer is: "Yes, but it will not heal the split in the Democratic party."

The New Dealers are at swords' points. The gap between them is far wider than the average voter realizes. It looks now as though Mr. Garner and Mr. Farley will determined the Democratic candidate. In addition to Mr. Garner and Mr. Farley the leading non-Roosevelt possibilities are Hull and old Clark. New Dealers such as Wallace, Hopkins, Jackson, and McNutt today stand no chance of being elected.

The New Deal can now be counted out.

If President Roosevelt should run as a third party candidate, he would automatically elect a Republican. Furthermore, any other Democratic standard-bearer than Mr. Roosevelt would find the going pretty rough.

Voters know that the Democrats promised recovery during the 1932 house-cleaning and that they claimed credit for it in the 1936 tidal wave. They also know that millions of people are still out of jobs in spite of the fantastic sums of money which have been spent to eliminate unemployment.

The Law of Action and Reaction is today working against the Democrats as it worked against the Republicans in 1932.

THIRD TERM OBSTACLES

Recent polls show that President Roosevelt still is personally popular with 55 per cent of the voters.

Why, then, could he not win? Answer: Because there is a deep-seated tradition against three terms.

More significant than the polls of his popularity is the fact that other polls show that only about half of those who approve of Mr. Roosevelt would support him for a third term!

With the hamstringing of C. G. O. P. will give him in Congress for the next 18 months, with millions still out of work regardless of how much of a business upswing may have, with no chance for economy or a balanced budget, the present outlook is that President Roosevelt could not win a third term.

The above, of course, is all "ex-war." A big European War is F. D. R.'s real opportunity to come back for another four years.

If Woodrow Wilson came in 1916 and it saved Lincoln in 1864. "Don't change horses in the middle of the stream" is a powerful political slogan. A European War in 1940, with us involved, could bring Mr. Roosevelt back for four years. A war which even threatened to invade us would make him a heavy favorite.

Actually, a European War right now would help the President far more than a roaring business boom. Perhaps this explains much of the war propaganda in the United States today!

TAFT AND DEWEY LEAD

Now, who looms up as the Republican standard-bearer in November, 1940? The wise boys here in Washington are focusing on four men—Dewey, Taft, Vandenberg, and Eidelberg.

JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

Written by students of John M. Cowden Junior High School, under direction of Miss Louise Latham

Also, if you consider the facts, anyone that can make good class grades is bound to know something about his subject, and it should not be necessary to require him to put what he knows on paper.

In the short thirty minute periods which we have in Junior High, the students are so pressed for time to get through with the exam that unless one knows exactly what he is going to say, he makes a muddle of his answer.

One of the most promising developments in the entire field of extra-curricular activities is the school of publications. They offer opportunities for the discovery of talents of all kinds, and in a small way may offer vocational insight.

The school assembly may teach lessons through the celebration of important anniversaries and the presentation of interesting incidents from the lives of great statesmen.

The school clubs should occupy a place in the lives of the public. In an athletic game, more or less rigid rules and standards are set and followed. In a club there is a certain prescribed order, but at the same time the pupil has rights and privileges; he can suggest, make motions, and vote. He has the same freedom of choice that he will have in adult society.

Extra-curricular activities carefully selected, and well planned, also help train the boys and girls along character lines.

ESSAY COLUMN. Should There Be Exemptions of Exams in Junior High. Yes. By John Perkins.

I believe that in Junior High a student should be exempt from exams if his daily grades are high enough. For in most cases what one writes, he has memorized the night before, and never remembers the knowledge more than two or three days.

In other cases some students may be very good in class, and make good grades where on the other hand there are some who might not know how to put what they know on paper, and making a low grade on exams lowers his average enough to make a C out of an A or B.

If there are exemptions in these grades where the fundamentals of reading, writing, and arithmetic are learned, may a child would pass into the next grade with flying colors because of the work of others.

Again I say, that if you want a student to learn the subjects that are most important in forming a foundation for his higher education, keep exemptions out of the junior high schools.

ART APPRECIATION COLUMN. James Whitcomb Riley and His Poetry. By Elaine Hedrick.

All of us love and delight in the reading of James Whitcomb Riley's poetry. We appreciate his delightfully fresh literary creations because they are filled with the beautiful and simple things of life.

There is no poem of his but what is duly appreciated by everyone in every clime and life. Thus it is said of him that he is the best loved and most widely read poet in American literature.

Riley was born in Greenfield, Indiana on October 7, 1843. After receiving a common school education, he worked against the Republicans in 1932.

Labor Act may come in for a few minor changes. A new Neutrality Act, however, should be drafted.

FORGET POLITICS AND EUROPE

My real message, as I leave Washington, is for business men now to forget the political picture. Those who are frightened about another four years of Roosevelt are worrying unnecessarily. If we have him, we will also have a war!

A war might be just what the doctor ordered for American business. We would take over world trade, world manufacturing, world financing. Our huge surpluses of wheat, cotton, metals would be used up. Millions of dollars in gold bullion, shipped to this country and Canada in the last six months from France and England, would provide the buying power. Forget politics and forget Europe. We have seen the worst of both for the time being!

When You Wear Eyeglasses Chic is All In Your Hat,

By ALICIA MART NEA Service Staff Writer

You have finally decided that the lines around your eyes are getting deeper from squinting—not laughing.

You are tired of saying, "No, I haven't read that book yet."

You realize that you just cannot go on reading only the headlines in your daily paper.

In other words, you have made up your mind to see an eye specialist and get some glasses. Naturally enough, you don't think much of the idea. The mere mention of the word "spectacles" conjures up dandy little visions of thick dark horn rims, of never again looking pretty or smart in a hat, of appearing prim and older than you are or maybe even frighteningly scholarly.

Well, don't brood too long. Your spirits will lift when you discover that modern eye glasses are designed to suit every face. You'll be allowed to try on different types of frames and bows until you find some which are right for the size and shape of your face, eyes, cheek bones and so on. Complexion lenses which do not catch and reflect the light are inconspicuous in themselves. And you'll find rims and bows in tones to match your own skin. Don't get an idea that you will find invisible eye glasses, but don't think for a moment that you'll be forced to choose very conspicuous ones.

Once you have the glasses, see a good hairdresser. Chances are ten to one that your present coiffure won't do. If you have been brushing your hair straight upward all the way around and piling it on top of your head or if you have been wearing a fluffy bob that covers the sides of your cheeks, a change certainly is in order. Go in with your glasses on and keep them on while consulting with the coiffure expert. If possible, don't let him see you without them.

WRONG: Thumbs down on an off-the-face hat, the lines of which are so severe they give the face a prim, unattractive appearance. The metal rims of the glasses, catching the light, add to the impression of hardness.

Your next visit should be to a hat shop. Because it isn't likely that your old hats will be any more suitable now that you have glasses than your hairdo was.

Generally speaking, hats with a forward movement will be more flattering than off-the-face types. Try on brims that slant forward, and, for dressier occasions, little toques to be worn far forward over one eye. So far as you're concerned, face-concealing veils are out. You can have veiling trimming, but it must not float down over your glasses.

Avoid severe, untrimmed felts, too. Try pretty hats or dashing hats instead.

You may be able to wear small button earrings, but long, dangling ones are absolutely out. Glasses plus long earrings or glasses plus a face veil will give a cluttered effect.

Take your grooming routines even more seriously. Be spick and span from head to foot at every hour of the day. Clean your face and put on fresh makeup frequently. No one seems to know exactly why, but it is true that stringy hair and a soiled face seem to be even more unpleasant looking with glasses. Perhaps it's because the glasses are so bright and clean by contrast.

RIGHT: A medal to the miss smart enough to select a brimmed hat whose forward movement and interesting trimming give her face a smart, well-groomed look. Notice how inconspicuous are the rimless glasses with flesh tinted bows.

Bien Amigos Club Is Complimented At Dessert-Bridge

Entertaining with a dessert-bridge at 1:30 o'clock, Mrs. C. A. Mix was hostess to the Bien Amigos club at her home, 800 W. Louisiana, Thursday.

A novel dessert plate featuring ice cream molded in the form of a cluster of purple grapes was served with yellow cake.

Pantries carrying out the purple and gold theme and sweetpeas in pastel shades were employed in the playing room where bridge games occupied the afternoon.

Mrs. Curtis Inman scored high in play and Mrs. F. E. Weaver second high.

During the business session two new members, Mrs. Pat Ruckman and Mrs. L. A. Absher, were voted into the club.

Members present were: Mmes. Inman, Weaver, Joe Pymon, W. B. Harkider, Neilson Young, Jas. H. Chapple, John House, J. M. Haygood, and the hostess.

Traveler Says Lovely Women Live in Sahara

LONDON (U.P.)—Mrs. Leo d'Erlanger, famous Mayfair beauty, has discovered the "most lovely women in the world" in the heart of the Sahara Desert.

Mrs. d'Erlanger returned to London after a daring trip with two companions by car across the Sahara from the Mediterranean to Timbuktu.

She met the women of the Tuareg tribe at Hoggar, in the southern Sahara.

"They are the most beautiful women in the world," she said, "incredibly lovely, even when judged by Western standards."

"One theory for their presence is that they are descended from a band of Crusaders who became lost in Africa."

"They must be the most independent women in the world. They choose their husbands, and at any time they can divorce them. All they have to say is that they're 'going home to mother.'"

Paul Wins Recognition of the Gentile Christians of the World

Editor's Note: The following discussion of this week's Sunday school lesson is printed here through courtesy of J. Fred Cooke, teacher of the Business Men's class of the Methodist church.

Acts, 15:1-29 and Galatians, 2

Getting together, obtaining a hearing from Peter with reference to the Holy Spirit coming upon the Gentiles, Paul and Barnabas relating their missionary experiences, their sentence and opinion from James, Paul not yielding to the Jews in later years; these are the prime reasons why Paul wins recognition of Gentile Christians.

1. A good way out of a dilemma is that persons come to the same council table. Here, they come to understand each other's view point, for misunderstandings are the only causes why righteous people disagree. To come together and talk differences over will cause the finite mind to grasp the difficult problems in question and come to a nearer righteous solution of them. Right thinking powers were at work in September of last year asking that war be avoided in Europe. No one knew the secret to avoid war more than Neville Chamberlain who made three trips to a foreign country to get a consultation with Adolf Hitler. The Munich agreement was the closest to this near desperate effort of the Premier.

While this is being written, our chief executive is trying with much earnestness to last some representation of this nation and Italy and Germany get together to devise plans to at least postpone war for another ten or twenty years. The hot-headed agitators have near gotten this world at the point of the hell of war and, before this gets to the printer, the powers may be involved in a great struggle. But if the nation's leaders were righteous at heart, and would now come to a roundtable talk, the suffering of women, little children, and dying of youth upon the battle field could be avoided. It was the Jews' attitude that created the differences in the church world at that time. But the good leaders got together and settled the trouble.

2. When Peter stood forth on the day the council met, all must have given his address special attention. He was the first to speak and now to play the part. He was very naturally, appearing as the first speaker on the program. He went over the experience of the coming of the Holy Spirit in the house of Cornelius and likely told the vision, how that he saw the sheet, shadows, and gurgling ceremonies. James is now ready to tell what the new Gentile converts should refrain from. They should not partake of blood because it is the emblem of immortality. They should not eat things strangled because the blood of the animal thus killed is still in their flesh. They should keep themselves pure and clean morally. Also they were not to eat meat which had been offered to idols, because the Jews would think this an act of partaking in the worship of stocks and stones. (See Ex. 34:14.)

3. Paul contends for the decision of this council many years later, against Peter, Barnabas, and others. The reason he was in accord with the decision of the Convocation, was that these conclusions were reached by Divine revelation. (See BIBLE LESSON, page 5) phylacteries to be seen of men, were vanishing. Though the people were accustomed to seeing this kind of procedure in matters of religion, they were now going to witness a change from that formality and bigotry to that humble and prayerful spirit, not of a selected few, but to all (who would pray) including the Gentiles. Heretofore, the Jews had been looking for religious inspiration from a place, the Temple. Not so now, for they will look up to the Lord from all parts of the earth. Unlike some of this age who cling to that idea of a certain place, as the supreme good. As said E. Stanley Jones. (Am quoting from memory) "A woman measured her length for fifty miles while the thermometer was 120 degrees in the shade, that she might ring the bell in the temple in order to awaken the Divine in her behalf." He also saw a Mohammedan, saying his prayers in the train. He knelt upon his prayer mat on the floor and tried to face toward Mecca. It was difficult—for the train was winding through mountainous hills. But he was equal to the occasion, for there was a compass on the floor beside him, and as the train twisted he moved with it, he kept facing toward the Holy place of Mecca. The Jew kisses the foundation stones of the Temple and grooves them with tears; this near makes us lament for the chosen race. The Initiatives of this nation, taking long pilgrimages to a sacred shrine, can be heard crying, "Adios! Adios! Christos." "Farewell! Farewell! Oh Christ"—as they leave with tears. They had left him behind in a sacred place. How often we leave religion in a sacred place, and LEAVE it there—Embalm'd! But all places should be made sacred since the coming of the Holy Spirit. Not only are we to be religious in our church, Sunday school, and prayer meeting, but in office, shop, farm, and place of business. "For what sayeth it? The word is in his heart, in his heart and in thy mouth; that is the word of faith which we preach." Hence where ever we are in this world God is near. He is especially near those who are of a broken heart. "And saveth such as be of a contrite spirit." No more can the Hindu, Latin American nor Mohammedan find their god at a certain sacred place only. Nor can the Jews keep the sacred things within the bounds of the Holy Land. For now it is to be officially proclaimed to the world, shorn of all its types, shadows, and gurgling ceremonies. James is now ready to tell what the new Gentile converts should refrain from. They should not partake of blood because it is the emblem of immortality. They should not eat things strangled because the blood of the animal thus killed is still in their flesh. They should keep themselves pure and clean morally. Also they were not to eat meat which had been offered to idols, because the Jews would think this an act of partaking in the worship of stocks and stones. (See Ex. 34:14.)

4. They are now ready to hear the sentence of James, that the Gentiles are coming in as a fulfillment of prophecy. Prophecy was backing up the experience of Peter, Paul, and Barnabas. The old religious forms were crumbling down. The change was already well underway. Those standing on the street corners, making broad their

COWBOYS DEFEAT LAMESA IN 10-INNING BATTLE

Game "Donated" to Home Club by Lobo Outfielder's Play

Jack Cheeves is officially listed as a Lamesa outfielder but he was the best player the Midland Cowboys had yesterday as they hung up an 8-7 victory over the Lamesa Lobos in ten innings.

In the sixth inning Cheeves overran a ground ball hit by Sam Malvica, letting the Cowboy shortstop complete a home run inside the park behind a mate on base at the time. It looked like that was about all the Midland fans could expect Cheeves to do for them but he "out-Hermaned" the original in the ninth. With two men on base and his team one run behind, Cheeves hit one so hard that it is probably still rolling and raced around the bases for an apparent home run. However, as soon as a new ball was put into play it was tossed to Bill Vlasek on first base and Cheeves was declared out for missing the base. It appeared for a while as if Cheeves and Manager Tate of the Lobos would tear the fence down one board at a time but they finally decided the decision was going to stick.

The game was close throughout, the only disturbing factor being wind and sand that whipped across the field into the stands.

The Lobos scored the first time at bat when Peacock walked, Reeves, Thornton and Guynes singled. One man was retired on an outfield fly and a snappy double play erased the threat.

The Cowboys got even in their half when DeNeff led off with a triple and came in on a wild pitch. The locals then went three runs ahead in the third when they took advantage of an error, walk and two base hits. The Lobos kept plugging away at Peacock, getting men on base in every frame, and picked up two runs in the fifth, then went one ahead by making two more in the sixth. Cheeves then gave Malvica his homer and the Cowboys once more were ahead.

The score stayed that way until the ninth when Cheeves hit the ball over the fence, allowing two runs to score and putting the Lobos one ahead again.

In the last of the ninth, after Vlasek had struck out, Witt doubled, Joe Piet batted for Peacock and flew out to center. DeNeff walked and Bob Petzold came through with a line single to right to send Witt home with the tying run.

"Pat" Patterson went in to hurl the rest of the game for the Cowboys and got credit for the win through one inning's work. He gave up a single to Oscar Bates, who once wore a Midland uniform, but throttled any scoring chances by striking out a pinch hitter.

With one out in the tenth, Wally Glowicka worked pitcher Cloninger for a walk, stole second and came home when Lynn Everson hit a rousing double deep into left field. Individual batting honors of the day went to second baseman Thornton of the visitors who got four singles in five trips to the plate. For the Cowboys, Petzold, Mort and Everson each had two safe raps.

The game was the last one for the Cowboys until they will open the season here next Tuesday against the Big Spring Barons.

200 Attend Supper, Dance Given Here by Brewing Company

An estimated 200 persons last night attended a supper and dance given at the Hotel Scharbauer by the Pabst Brewing company and the local distributor, H. B. Dunagan. In charge of the program was R. G. Brantley, representative of the brewing company.

The evening started with the showing of a film depicting the actual manufacture of beer in the company's Milwaukee and Peoria plants. The film showed, step by step, history of a bottle of the beer from the field to the consumer.

Following showing of the film, a Dutch lunch was served to all persons in attendance. After the meal, couples crowded the floor to dance until midnight.

Longhorns to Meet Lowly Frogs Saturday

AUSTIN, April 21.—Uncle Billy Disch's Texas Longhorns will attempt to lengthen their Southwest Conference baseball lead here Saturday with another victory over the Texas Christian Horned Frogs. The Steers cracked the Frogs twice at Port Worth last week.

Another game is near with a team that Texas has defeated twice—the Rice Owls come here next Monday to complete their '39 Texas series.

A fortnight ago the threatened loss of Melvin Deutch would have sent Coach Disch scurrying frantically in search of pitchers. However, the Longhorns' recent North Texas trip uncovered several possibilities—among them Charley Still, a cautious, clever right-hander; Bob Metzger, slender sophomore with a lot of steam; and Odell Moore, proficient with the "sinker ball" that carried his dad, Wiley Moore, to organized baseball fame.

With young Dave Rodriguez about to conquer a blistered pitching finger, Coach Disch will have his choice of these promising although inexperienced lingers for the TU and Rice games.

Deutch, ace of the staff, snuffed an appendicitis attack last week. Although he was attending classes this week, he probably will not be ready to pitch for several days.

Another top-notch was lopped off temporarily this week when a wild throw caught Ned McDonald on the side of the head, breaking his right cheek bone. McDonald, a veteran, had established himself as a regular starter by turning back Southern Methodist and Billy Dewell, C-2. He will not be available for at least another week, Coach Disch feared.

Horse Sheds Coat Twice Annually

WEATHERFORD, (AP)—H. A. Tankersley farmer at Ruckers Creek in the southern part of Parker county, has a horse that sheds its coat twice a year instead of once as other horses do. The horse is twelve years old and is now shedding a heavy winter coat of about two inches in length. The heavy coats seem to have some connection with the twice-a-year shedding, but no one has been able to advance a reason for this unusual habit. Early this fall the horse will shed again and then put on another coat.

OLYMPIC TITLE ONCE AGAIN IS GOAL OF POWERFUL CREW AT CALIFORNIA U.

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Service Sports Editor

California's seven-year rowing famine is ended. Berkeley once more rules the waves with a dream crew and is in fine position for the 1940 Olympic year with few seniors in either the varsity or jayvee eights.

California practically pulled away and hid from Washington over the three-mile Cokland Estuary course. There were six and one-half lengths between them at the wind-up.

The time, 14 minutes and 48 4/10 seconds, lowered the record for the famous annual coast regatta by more than five seconds.

The answer is that Ky Ebricht has been set with his big eight since it started training in December.

The Golden Bears have last year's varsity virtually intact, six of the eight who battled Navy to the finish line at Poughkeepsie.

And one vacancy was filled by Dave DeVarona, a Hudson river varsity veteran of 1937, who remained out of the shell in 1938 to concentrate on football and his studies.

FINE CALIFORNIA CREW SQUAD IS 150 STRONG

Averaging 180 pounds and 6 feet 2 1/2 inches, the Gold and Blue has Kirk Smith at stroke, and behind him in order are Chet Gibson, Stan Freeborn, Emil Bergh, Linton Emerson, Dave DeVarona, Stan Blacklund and Benson Roe, bow; Jim Dieterich, coxswain's seat. Even Dieterich is a varsity holdover.

DeVarona scarcely can be called a newcomer or a green hand in any respect, so the only one in that category is Blacklund, who rose from the junior varsity. Bergh, No. 3 last year, has shifted to the No. 5 slide, and DeVarona has taken his former seat.

Power in the waist of the shell is provided by a foursome averaging 186 pounds. Smith, the great stroke, weighs only 167.

WASHINGTON MATERIAL IT AT ALL-TIME LOW

Several eastern colleges probably would be happy to be in Washington's unfortunate predicament, but from a Pacific northwest viewpoint the situation on Lake Washington is pretty bad.

Al Ulbrickson proved a good prophet before the clash with California.

"Our prospects are anything but bright," said the Huskies' coach. "We have a fair freshman outfit averaging 6:2 and 175 pounds, but our varsity and jayvee are very ordinary. The varsity and jayvee row neck and neck in trials. I can change every man back and fourth and they still stay the same,

Bible Lesson

and because none could be justified by the works of the law. Revelation should take precedence to any argument. One should offer no man-made logic when God speaks otherwise. His word should cause all to be in agreement concerning the ideas they express. Paul reasons that if men can be saved by the works of the law, Christ's coming and death are in vain, and preaching is vain. Paul was not only loyal to his home town of Tarsus, but to the councils and conclusions of his church. And last, but not least, his loyalty and devotion extended to God's Word.

God speaks! He listens well. His words are precious more than all earth's crowns, and diadems and store.

MIND Your MANNERS

1. Is it good taste to wear so much perfume that people frequently ask you what kind you are wearing?
 2. Are toeless and heelless shoes suitable for office wear?
 3. Is heavy make-up appropriate during office hours?

 5. Are the rustling petticoats that peep from beneath skirts a good choice for office wear?
- What would you do if—
 You are an office worker who loves frills and ultra feminine clothes—
 (a) Look fairly tailored during office hours and indulge your love of very feminine clothes in the evening?
 (b) Wear as frilly things as you like to work?

A pageant, recreating the city's buoyancy of progress, and known as Buccaneer days, will be similar to the allegory enacted last year in celebration of De Pineda's discovery of Corpus Christi bay in the 16th century.

Roosevelt's Reasoning In Europe. By Kenneth Taylor.

I think President Roosevelt is taking a wise viewpoint on the European situation. It is his first duty and interest to keep the United States out of war, and at the same time have the country prepared for the crisis.

President Roosevelt is sending letters and messages to these dictators asking, appealing, and almost begging them to act slowly.

The fact that he sees what would happen, encourages him to use every possible method to avert any crisis.

What is Greatness? By Mary Frances Carter.

Among the definitions of greatness in Webster's dictionary are the following: "High minded, high in rank, noble, able, and accomplished."
