More Money For Farmers Appropriated

Morgenthau Urges Passing of Taxes To Raise Funds

WASHINGTON, May 9. (P).—While sounds of pain came from the treasury, farm-conscious senators took firm command of the situation in the senate Monday and in rapid order voted a series of increases totaling $382,075,000 in the agriculture department appropriation bill.

As the measure stood at the close of the day, it carried the record-smashing total of approximately $1,215,000,000 for the year beginning July 1, including $225,000,000 for parity payments and $203,000,000 to dispose of surplus crops.

While the voting was in progress, Secretary Morgenthau was telling reporters he was "greatly disturbed." If congress adds hundreds of millions to the bill, he said, it should vote taxes to raise the money.

He recalled that the deficit for the next fiscal year has been estimated at $3,300,000,000, without the increases in the farm bill, and said $3,300,000,000 was "plenty."

There was no indication of a movement to apply taxes to raise the extra money. Farm leaders in congress had said that if this issue were raised they would reply that large increases in armaments expenditures were going through without any cry for taxes to pay for them.

Of the increases voted $380,000,000 had been approved by the senate agriculture committee. There was little debate as the reading clerk droned through the amendments by which the committee increased the house-approved figures, but Senator King (D-Utah) took the floor to protest what he said was a "spending spree" and "progress toward bankruptcy."

He said he would propose creation of a legislative budget committee to make an independent check on the need for executive budget estimates.

"We are the spendingest nation in the world and this is the spendingest administration I've ever seen," King told the senate.

Besides increasing the proposed appropriation for parity payments and surplus crop disposal the senate added $25,000,000 for loans under the farm tenant program.

The chamber accepted an amendment by Majority Leader Barkley (D-Ky) to increase to $5,000,000 the $2,000,000 voted by the house for land and national forests.

Operators, Miners End Conference at White House Today

WASHINGTON, May 9. (P).—Soft coal operators and miners in conference at the White House ended their session today with only a statement by John Lewis, CIO head, that the negotiators will meet again tomorrow in New York.

Suspect Caught

Robert Burgunder, Jr., above, 22, student at Arizona State Teachers' College in Phoenix, Ariz., prison parolee and son of former prosecuting attorney of King's county, Wash., who was captured Sunday in Johnson City, Tenn., and charged with the murder of two automobile salesmen in Arizona desert.

Burgunder Senior Will Help Son Who Faces Murder Trial

SEATTLE, May 9. (P)—Attorney Robert M. Burgunder Sr., former King county prosecutor, looking suddenly aged and weary, said Monday he would leave immediately for Phoenix, Ariz., to assist his 22-year-old son and namesake, arrested in Tennessee Sunday for two Phoenix slayings.

Burgunder said he had telephoned his divorced wife at Alhambra, Cal., where her mother died a few days ago, and they would meet at Phoenix.

"I can not say what I will do," he added. "I do not know any of the circumstances, other than what the newspapers have told me, but I do know my son is in trouble, and I'm his father."

He declined to state what role he would play if his son is brought to trial on the first degree murder charges.

"I'm going to do what I believe any father would do," he said, "go to my son, who is in dire need."

Burgunder, known as a fiery prosecutor, spoke wearily. Friends said they were shocked at his appearance. He had aged visibly and he looked ill.

He obtained a little more than $17, exchanged pistol fire with a constable and surrendered his father's pistol amiably after driving his mother's automobile into a dead-end street. He said he needed money to recoup gambling losses.

The youth pleaded guilty and was paroled after serving 22 months of a five to 15 year sentence in the state reformatory at Monroe. Since he regained his freedom the boy had been living with his mother until entering the Arizona Teachers' College at Tempe.

The father kept in close touch with the search for his son until Saturday when he went into seclusion at Enumclaw, at the foot of Mount Ranier.

DUKE OF WINDSOR ASKS PEACE

VERDUN, France, May 9. (P)—The Duke of Windsor appealed last night to "all political leaders" to rise above "purely national interests" to avoid war.

His words were broadcast and carried, it was understood, the approval of his brother, George VI of England.

Before the Duke spoke from this famous world war battle sector, a responsible source said he had exchanged radio communications with his brother, the king, who was aboard the Empress of Australia on route to America on a good will tour.

King George was understood to have given his personal sanction for the peace broadcast, although the Duke in his speech made it plain he spoke for no one but himself and "without the previous knowledge of any government."

He urged national leaders to bury "jealousies and suspicions" to negotiate by "mutual concessions in which conflicting claims can be adjusted."

The speech had aroused a widespread impression the duke was returning to politics, but he insisted he was not.

His speech was broadcast to the United States and by short wave to Europe and South America, but was abandoned in England by the semi-government-controlled British Broadcasting corporation.

English newspapers carried news reports of the address. Making his first broadcast since his abdication speech of Dec. 11, 1936, the duke spoke for exactly ten minutes in a strong, clear and unhesitant voice, pronouncing phrases very slowly, as if to let them have full effect.

Beside him was his duchess, the American-born Wallis Warfield, for whose love he gave up his throne.

The speech was delivered from a country inn here in the course of a several days' tour of world war battlefields. The duke chose Verdun, a place where Germans were repelled in an historic defense.

"As I talk to you from this historic spot," he said, "I am deeply conscious of the presence of the great company of the dead, and I am convinced that could they make their voices heard they would be with me in what I am about to say."

"I speak simply as a soldier of the last war whose most earnest prayer it is that such cruel and destructive madness shall never again overtake mankind."

"I break my self-imposed silence now only because of the manifest danger that we all may be drawing (See DUKE page 8)

High Anhydrite Encountered in Test Southwest of Ector Goldsmith Pool

By FRANK GARDNER

Attention today was turned to a wildcat about seven miles south and west of the Goldsmith pool in western Ector county. J. T. Barnes, of Abilene, Russell C. Conking and J. E. M. White, both of Midland, No. 1 R. Thomas estate, as it encountered top of anhydrite high structurally.

The marker was logged at 1,440 feet datum of plus 1,837, which puts the well 159 feet to the York & Harper No. 1 Slator dry hole two miles to the east, and 13 feet high to the old Penrose failure two miles to the southwest.

Drilling in No. 1 Thomas had passed 1,890 feet in salt and anhydrite at last reports. It is located 1,038.6 feet from the south, 1,039.6 feet from the west line of the northwest quarter of section 28, block 45, township 1 south, T. & P. survey.

Sloan & Zook Company and Ferrada Drilling Company No. 1 J. L. Johnson, wildcat between the North Cowden and Foster pools of Ector, ran 853 feet of 10 3/4-inch casing to shut off caves and is drilling ahead at 915 in red beds.

M. B. K. Drilling Company No. 1-B John M. Gist, a quarter-mile north of the farthest east Foster producer, completed 7-inch casing on the bottom at 4,086 feet in lime with 100 sacks, then pulled the string of 8 1/4-inch pipe. Pulling of 10 3/4-inch pipe was begun, but derrick buckled under the strain, and the well now is shut down while repairs are made to the derrick.

First oil appeared today in Sinclair-Prairie Oil Company No. 2 Pay Holt, a north offset to the company's No. 1 Holt, which recently extended the north end of the North Cowden pool a half-mile west. No. 2 Holt logged first slight show of oil 4,194 to 4,205 feet and noted an increase in oil, with some gas, from 4,213-17 and from 4,217-28. It is drilling ahead at 4,240 in lime.

A half-mile farther west, Gulf Oil Corporation No. 1 O. B. Holt had drilled to 4,482 feet in lime without finding increase in three gallons of oil hourly from upper shows.

Unconfirmed report From Masterson. An unconfirmed report today from Anderson-Prichard Oil Corporation and Monte Warner No. 1 M. T. Masterson, Ordovician pool opener in the Masterson area of northern Pecos, stated that production had settled to between 10 and 12 barrels of oil hourly, with gas estimated at at least 750,000 cubic feet daily. The well had been opened up at 2:30 a. m. Sunday, but no gauges were made public yesterday. It also was reported that 2 1/2-inch tubing, which had been set at 4,587, eight feet off bottom, had been raised approximately 30 feet. The discovery well is producing from the Ellenberger, lower Ordovician, which it topped at 4,550 feet. It is located 1,980 feet from the northeast and northwest lines of section 104, block 10, H. & G. N. survey. One 1,600-barrel tank has been erected in the center of the north quarter of the section.

Last reports from Leidecker & Cain No. 1 Texas-Lehn, gas discovery between the Masterson and Pecos Valley pools, stated that operators had halted drilling at 1,743 feet and were preparing to shoot with nitro. It had been making a light spray of oil on an estimated six to eight million cubic feet of gas daily from upper shows.

Magnolia Petroleum Company No. 1 Abell-Eaton, four miles southwest of Imperial in northern Pecos, is running 2-inch tubing to mud hole. It went to 2,068 feet in the Permian lime with showing any free oil or water. Some slight shows were logged but fell short of commercial amount. Deep test will be drilled nearby.

Samwan Oil Company No. 1 Bertha Young, south outpost to the Pecos Valley low-gravity area, is drilling at 365 feet in sand and shale.

Shell Youkum Discovery Twenty-four hours of swabbing in Shell Oil Company, Inc. No. 1 Waples-Platter Company, Youkum discovery two miles northeast of the Bennett pool, yielded 135 barrels of fluid, cut 30 percent with basic sediment and water. Swabbing continued at 6 a. m. today, with fluid level 2,200 feet off bottom. The well has been acidized with 500, 1,500 and 3,300 gallons of acid, in successive stages. Total depth is 5,312, plugged back from 5,380 to shut off salt water.

New location for the southeast part of the Slaughter pool of Hockley is Honolulu Oil Corporation No. 3-77 Alex A. Slaughter estate, 440 (See OIL NEWS, page 8)

Nazis Admit Effort Being Made to Line Up Pact With Reds

BERLIN, May 9. (P)—Nazi officials today admitted friendship negotiations were being conducted between Russia and Germany.

Mussolini Declares Italy Is Ready to Prove Her Strength

ROME, May 9. (P)—Speaking in connection with a great army day parade, Premier Mussolini declared today Italy would prove the strength of her decisions "when the hour comes."

The parade gave German military leaders further opportunity to appraise the fascist war machine which Mussolini has agreed to harness to German might in a military alliance.

18 Persons Die as Airplane Falls in Ecuadorean Street

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, May 9. (P)—A military airplane crashed in downtown Guayaquil Monday taking the lives of at least 18 persons in the crash and the fire that started from an explosion of the plane's gasoline tanks.

Piloted by Capt. Cristobal and Warrant Officer Galo Espinoza, the plane plunged suddenly to the city streets.

Fire spread quickly from the exploding gasoline tanks and burned down four houses before it could be controlled.

The two aviators were burned to death in their plane. A mechanic was slightly hurt.

First rescue efforts resulted in the extrication of 16 burned bodies from ruins of the houses. Authorities feared numerous other dead and injured would be discovered.

Brother Denies Man Is 'Charley Ross'

PHILADELPHIA, May 9. (P)—Walter Ross, who was kidnaped 65 years ago with his brother Charley, today described as "ridiculous" the claim of Gustave Blair, Phoenix, Ariz., a carpenter, that he was Walter's long-lost brother.

"The idea my brother is still alive is not only absurd, but the man's story seems unconvincing," Ross said.

Blair's claim, he was the missing Charley Ross, was accepted in court in Phoenix yesterday.

Record Balloting For Santone Mayor

SAN ANTONIO, May 9. (P).—With police on guard, the heaviest balloting in a decade was reported today as former congressman Maury Maverick, one of the six candidates for mayor, was trying a political comeback in his home town.

Herr Hitler's Record: Six Years of Broken Promises to People of the World Who Believed in Him

By NEA Service.

THERE is no record that Adolf Hitler is a student of Niccolo Machiavelli, but Der Fuehrer's record during the past six years suggests a devotion to the principles, or lack of principles, of the man whose name has become a synonym for wily and unscrupulous political dealing.

Hitler's six-year record as head of the German state is a study in contrast between promise and action.

Machiavelli was a courtier of Lorenzo the Magnificent. The little treatise on practical politics which he wrote for Lorenzo more than 400 years ago reads with surprising application to the Hitlerian credo.

"How laudable it is," wrote Niccolo, "for a prince to keep good faith and live with integrity, and not with astuteness, everyone knows. Still the experience of our times shows those princes to have done great things who have had little regard for good faith, and have been able by astuteness to confuse men's brains, and who have ultimately overcome those who have made loyalty their foundation."

And again, "Therefore a prudent ruler ought not to keep faith when by so doing it would be against his interest, and when the reasons which made him bind himself no longer exist. . . . Nor have legitimate grounds ever failed a prince who wished to show colorable excuse for the non-fulfillment of his promise. Of this one could furnish an indefinite number of modern examples. . . ."

CHRONOLOGY OF CONTRAST.

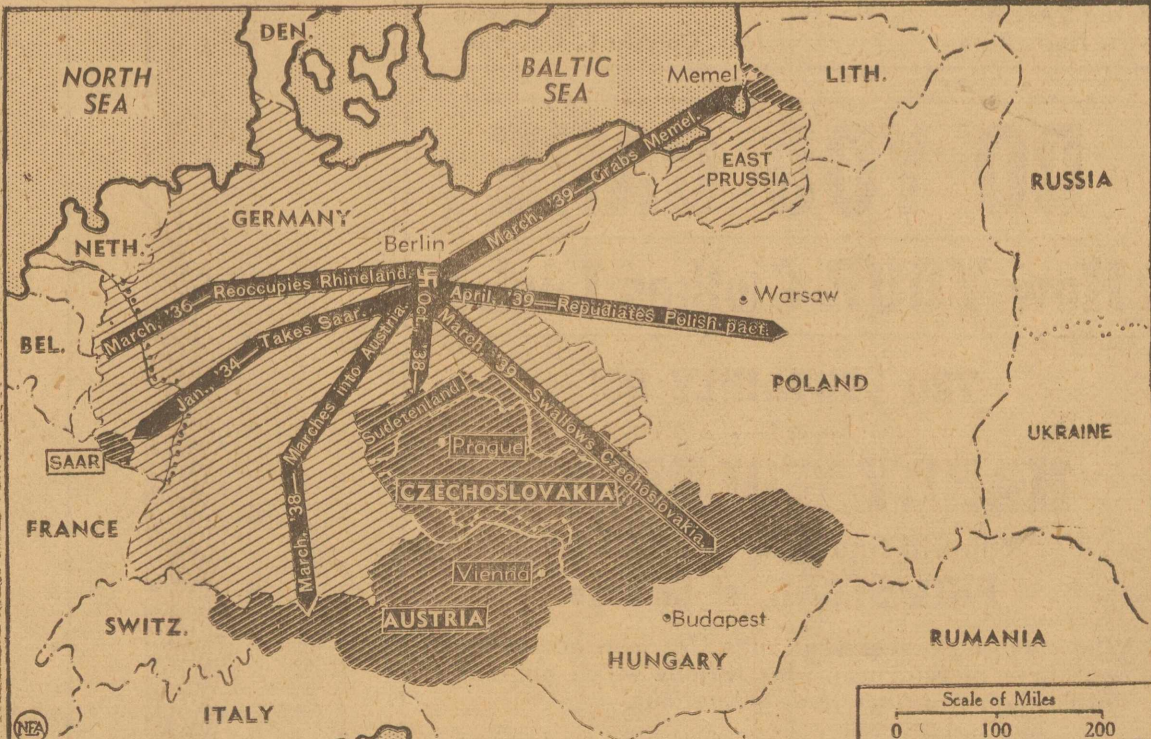

AT any rate, here is a Hitler chronology of word and deed since 1933:

FEBRUARY, 1933—Hitler dissolves the Reichstag, assumes complete power, and promises "to firmly protect Christianity as the foundation of our entire morality."

MAY, 1933 — Hitler: "Germany has only a single desire — namely, to preserve its independence and protect its borders."

JANUARY, 1934 — Just before the Saar plebiscite, Hitler: "After the solution of this question the German government is willing and determined to accept in its innermost soul as well as external formulation the Pact of Locarno."

LOCARNO, 1925 — To be subject to all border disputes in western Europe were to be provided to arbitration or conciliation, never to force.) The Saar voted German, and was formally returned to the Reich by the League of Nations. Hitler said, "We have no more territorial claims to make of France."

Arrows on above map show step-by-step story of promises and pacts repudiated by Hitler in his moves for a greater Germany. Black dots indicate Rhineland area; white line outlines Sudetenland. German acquisitions are in black.

March the secretly built air force was announced and conscription restored.

MAY, 1935—Hitler solemnly declares that after having repudiated the arms provisions of Versailles, that Germany will "unconditionally respect all other articles, including territorial provisions until the inevitable revision can be achieved by peaceful understanding."

He reiterated his adherence to the Locarno pacts.

MARCH, 1936 — German troops reoccupied the demilitarized zone of the German side of the Rhineland. Hitler: "We have no territorial demands to make in Europe. Germany has neither the wish nor the intention to mix in internal Austrian affairs, or to annex or unite with Austria."

MARCH, 1936 — Hitler: "What do we Germans want of the world? Nothing at all. We want to be let alone. We want to respect the frontiers of others, just as we expect others to respect our frontiers."

JANUARY, 1937—Hitler tells the Reichstag that the Versailles confession of war guilt has been wiped out, and that Nazi "surprises" are now ended.

SEPTEMBER, 1937 — Hitler: "If I had the Ural mountains and the Ukraine, Germany would swim in plenty."

FEBRUARY, 1938 — In a radio speech after his conference with Chancellor Schuschnigg of Austria, Hitler assured that he was guaranteeing the independence of Austria.

MARCH, 1938 — German troops march in, take over Austria. Hitler: "Germany wants only peace. She does not want to add to the sorrow of other nations."

SEPTEMBER, 1938—Hitler: "This is our last demand in Europe; we have no other claims. We do not want to dominate other peoples, and if one would offer the whole of Czechoslovakia to us, we would refuse."

OCTOBER, 1938—The Sudetenland of Czechoslovakia seized by German troops. Chamberlain reports Hitler's ultimatum, "That is the end of our territorial claims in Europe."

OCTOBER, 1938—Hitler in a Saar radio speech: "We have no more wishes or demands. We want peace."

NOVEMBER, 1938—Hitler: "We want nothing but to get on with our work in peace."

MARCH, 1939—The German army seizes all Czechoslovakia, then Memel, and establishes a "protectorate" over Slovakia.

APRIL, 1939—Hitler repudiates the Polish non-aggression pact and the British naval agreement which established a ratio between the British and German naval forces.

Tax Problem Begins to Yield to Study

All taxes are unpleasant.

Everybody thinks the best way to solve the tax problem is to cut out the particular taxes which bear most heavily on him.

But that is scarcely the way to go at it. With taxes, as with tariffs, it is dangerous to frame a system as a haphazard balance between conflicting claims of individual interests. Only the most disinterested study on the highest plane will produce results today.

Fortunately such studies are being made, and they have points on which they singularly agree.

Both the Fortune Magazine Round-Table discussion and the Brookings Institution, in studies made separately, agree that it is not the size of the tax burden that is holding up the parade, but the particular kind of taxes.

Both agree that present taxes tend to keep money from flowing into new investment enterprises, and both agree on several changes which, without reducing the tax "take," might help to get investment money flowing back into productive channels. Both agree that this is the only answer to unemployment.

Both reports condemn tax-exempt securities as a refuge in which potential investment funds can hide without risk, and without heavy taxation. Such exemption removed, they believe this money will be forced into more productive channels.

Both condemn the present corporation taxes, with their double taxation of dividends (once when the company makes the money, again when it pays it to the stockholders). Both recommend more leeway in deduction of losses by corporations, and in handling depreciation charges. Both would simplify the corporation taxes, which now include capital stock and excess profits taxes, and raise the simple corporation tax rate to make up for the loss. It would be simpler, bring as much money, and less restrictive on expansion.

The Canadian government, by the way, has just decided on a tax change whereby certain tax exemptions would be allowed on profits actually used for expansion or plant improvement, thus encouraging work-creating activities.

The Fortune Round-Tablers warn that deficiencies caused by loss of revenue from the now-complex corporation taxes must be made up by higher individual income taxes on a larger section of the middle class.

Both surveys again agree that our tax structure has not paid enough attention to the flow of savings into productive enterprise, noting that this is the spark-plug of the whole business system as we have it today.

The day is past when a federal tax system can be a mere thing of shreds and patches thrown together as a result of balancing the demands of one pressure group against another.

Taxation is a sort of combination between a science and a political art, and requires the most skillful manipulation if it is to get the results desired, and no others. Studies like those of Fortune and the Brookings Institution deserve the most careful attention of Congress in framing changes in the tax system which will give maximum results in stimulating recovery.

Rails Also Safer

So much attention has been focused in recent years on the safety of the highways and the magnificent accomplishments that have been made in that field, that it is a pleasant surprise to learn that the railroads are also being made safer.

The best general safety record in 50 years was established by the U. S. railroads in 1933, according to J. J. Pelley, president of the Association of American Railroads.

The number of train accidents in proportion to miles run, was the lowest on record, and the actual number of accidents was a third less than in 1937. Fatalities to employees were cut from 666 in 1937 to 479 in 1938. Passenger fatalities were up, 52 in 1938 as compared to three in 1937, as a result of two bad wrecks. Grade-crossing accidents were materially reduced.

One way of offsetting the falling birth-rate is to stop killing so many people after they are born. It is good to know that the railroads are doing their share to supplement the splendid achievements of the highway safety campaign.

Beggar--And Valet

The story about the beggar who turned out to have more money than the people who were digging down to help him is a pretty old one. It turns up every now and then.

But leave it to New York to give it a new twist. A crippled Times Square beggar who appealed to pedestrians by means of a white dog with a cup strapped to its back, turned out to be owner of a suburban home to which he returned each week-end, living during the "business week" in a New York hotel. But the twist here was that this fellow maintained a "valet" in his hotel headquarters to help him achieve comfort after an arduous day of appealing to the Times Square crowds.

"Set a beggar on horseback, and he will ride a gallop," said old Robert Burton. But even he did not envision the city in which beggars would have valets.

• BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

By BRUCE CATTON

WASHINGTON.—The most striking thing about the business leaders who gathered here for the convention of the United States Chamber of Commerce is the fact that they really aren't much like the common public picture of them.

They are pretty much "ag'in" the New Deal, but they aren't professional Roosevelt-haters and they don't think they know all the answers. They are ready to admit that there is more to this depression than appears on the surface, and they're equally ready to admit that they themselves are confused.

None of them seemed to feel that a change in the national administration would automatically bring back good times. The general consensus seemed to be that no matter who the next president is he will have to take time and use a good deal of patience to restore business confidence. The average guess is that this will, probably take him at least a year regardless of how the election goes.

ONE WANTS PRICE FIXING

Take Charles Bockus of New York, who owns a lot of coal mines and has 2200 miners working for him. He says he could run his business with 1700 men—but he simply can't take the responsibility for turning the other 500 out of their jobs. He adds that he is selling coal for 35 cents a ton less than it costs him to produce it; he'd like to see the Coal Commission establish prices and give coal operators a fair test of what that action might accomplish.

Mr. Bockus is worth chatting with, because, in a way, he is typical of the business leaders who convened here. Maybe you could class him as an economic royalist, but he is remarkably unlike the popular picture of the breed. He says that one trouble with business is that business men won't act as a unit. They're so busy getting each other's hides that they can't work out a co-ordinated plan of action in their own interests.

He doesn't like work relief; thinks the dole would be better. His slant on it is different, though. He says the wrongness of work relief struck him most forcibly one cold day last winter when he saw a gang of reliefers shoveling snow on Fifth avenue.

"Some of them," he says, "weren't warmly dressed. You could see they were improperly fed. One fellow had on low patent leather shoes. Few of them seemed to have the physical stamina for the job. You can't make a ditch digger out of a tailor."

ANOTHER SEEKS CONFIDENCE

Then there's Harper Sibley, who was president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce in 1935-37, who is director of a lot of big corporations like Western Union and New York Life, who runs a big farm near Rochester, N. Y.

He thinks the lack of confidence is largely psychological. The President makes too many frightening speeches, and the mere word "taxation" sets Wall Street trembling and quaking.

He'd like to see the President appoint some business men to big jobs in Washington just for a change. He'd also like to see the National Labor Relations Board reformed; says, "It's not a labor relations board—it's a labor organizations' promotion board now."

As a farmer, he sees part of the farm problem as due to the totalitarian states' desire to be self-sufficient. Another part, he says, is due to the disappearance of the horse.

When farms were worked with horses, part of the farmer's land was used to grow crops to feed them. Now that part is used to grow crops for market, which only adds to the surplus.

LOOKING FOR A FRIEND

Stray remarks at the convention helped to illuminate the business man's grievance with the national administration. For instance: "The trouble is there isn't an honest-to-goodness business man in an important job in Washington."

Or, when a note is read from the convention platform saying that Secretary of Commerce Harry Hopkins is unable to address the convention because of illness; then the murmur goes like this—

"There you are. That's what I say. There's no attempt made down here to be friends with business. Sure Harry Hopkins is sick—but there must be somebody in Washington who knows about business and could pinch hit for him."

Maybe it isn't quite fair to mention it, but there seemed to be a plaintive note in the sign over the registration desk at the convention. It read: "Please register. There is no registration fee."

John Litel Handy Actor to Company

John Litel is a handy actor to have around a studio. No matter what kind of role comes up, the producers can say "let John do it" and be sure the job will be done well.

It didn't take the Warner Bros., to whom Litel is under contract, long to recognize that fact and take full advantage of it. They've been letting John do everything from hard-boiled gangsters, to fond fathers and famous American patriots during the past three years. And not once has he let them down.

That habit of letting John do it is all right with Litel. He says he wanted work when he came to Hollywood from the New York stage and he isn't going to complain as long as he gets it. Only when it stops coming will he start kicking.

Litel, who is featured with Margaret Lindsay in the Warner Bros. courtroom drama, "On Trial," which comes Wednesday to the Yucca Theatre, doesn't believe in specialization for actors. That's well enough for doctors or lawyers, but a real thespian should be able to interpret any type of character.

In his own stage stock days he switched from juvenile to bearded old man roles and thought nothing of his versatility as an actor. Today that same versatility is standing him in good stead as one of the most capable actors in the acting colony.

Increasing Interest In Mother's Day Seen

AUSTIN. — "It is logical that annually upon the second Sunday in May an increasing interest in Mother's Day should be noted. This observance not only pays tribute to the mothers of yesterday, but also serves to emphasize that, despite great advances in the field of obstetrics, the penalty yet experienced by womanhood in childbirth still is pathetically too high," states Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

"Officials can efficiently cope with public health problems, such as assuring pure water and milk to consumers and other phases of disease control. These lend themselves readily to organized efforts. However, when the problem involves personal conduct the solution becomes more difficult.

"Physicians and public health officials realize that scientific information and the part that the in-

What comes after "Blue Monday" unless it is "Terrible Tuesday?" Here it is time for this to be turned back and I haven't got an idea of any kind about filling it up.

Of course there is the feud with Ralph Shuffler that has to be carried on but he has just about admitted he is whipped and indicates that he was just popping off about wanting to settle with me. And it is no fun fighting with someone who won't fight back.

Those of you who think George Phillips can't get in a rush should have seen him the other night. He was standing outside his beehive talking baseball when he heard someone inside the place drop a plate or some other dish. He was well on his way to setting a new

In the light of present day knowledge, nearly 30,000 annual deaths in the United States associated with maternity can mean only that medical science is not being given a fair chance in prevention.

"Expectant mothers must realize that both for their own sake and for that of the new life the time to become interested in a successful outcome is the moment the expectancy is realized. It so happens, however, that too many mothers fail to surround themselves with the medical advice and protection that are so important not only at the conclusion of the gestation period but throughout the entire term. It is up to everybody in Midland to fight for the bond issue on purchase and improvement of the local airport. Regardless of whether you are eligible to vote or not, get out and work for something that means more than a little bit for Midland.

The mayor has voiced the opinion that taxes would not be raised a bit by voting the $125,000 bonds since the airport is expected to be a paying proposition. He didn't declare officially that taxes would not be raised but when he said he didn't believe they would it was a pretty good indication they will be upped very little, if any.

Just remember this: Even if the bond issue is voted, the money will not be used unless the government assures the field will remain an army air stop.

less maternal mortality that can be traced to ignorance of or indifference to this primary guard.

"Or, to express it positively, every expectant mother should be under the supervision of a physician during the entire prenatal period. Until this fact is more generally appreciated the present loss of maternal life will probably continue."

Improvements Made In State Schools

AUSTIN, Texas. — A few years ago, school children universally attended class in a square room, with bare walls relieved only by blackboards. They sat at rigid desks, and studied by natural or by glaring artificial lights.

All that has been changed—in the modern school, Dr. J. W. Baldwin win, University of Texas education professor, reports.

Dr. Baldwin has written an article describing the University Junior High School, operated jointly by the University of Texas and the Austin school system, which is published in the American School and University Yearbook for 1939.

He cites the University Junior High School, operated jointly by the educational facilities for teaching the "new" social studies.

Banished are the ordinary desk and the bare walls. Instead, the class room and social studies laboratory are equipped with light weight chairs, grouped around heavy tables; with book carriages, public address system, cabinets, built-in lockers, sink, motion picture screen and projector, and map rail. Ceilings are soundproof, and semi-indirect lighting is used. Library facilities are adjacent.

How to Behave As Shown by the Dionne Quintuplets

(Copyright, 1939, NEA Service, Inc.)

"Now this," says Yvonne of the Quints, "is the way a CARELESS little girl treats her nice clothes. I always hang mine up CAREFULLY, and that's why I look nice and neat when I wear them."

Once there was a child who had about five dozen dresses. Her mother said she had to have about five dozen dresses because she mused them up so quickly. She went out and got spots on them, too. And she spilled things. And she did not hang them up at night. She never looked very nice for all of her five dozen dresses, because she was so CARELESS.

But another child had only a few dresses. She always looked as neat as a daisy. But this was because she had learned to be careful. She hung up her dress on a hook when she took it off, or laid it over a chair. She hung up her coat, too. She was careful to wipe her hands on a towel or handkerchief, not her dress. She tried to keep as many spots off her clothes as possible. But, of course, once in a while a spot DID get on.

Nobody cared the least about how many dresses the careless child had. And everybody thought how lovely the careful child was. And, oh, what a help she was to her mother. She could even clean her own shoes. Can you do that?

Cream the butter and sugar thoroughly. Add the egg and beat till fluffy. Melt the chocolate over hot water and blend with the creamed mixture. Sift together the flour, baking powder and salt. Add to the creamed mixture alternately with the milk and vanilla.

MENU

BREAKFAST: Orange juice, Chicken liver and parsley omelet, oatmeal muffins, crab-apple jelly, coffee, milk.

DINNER: Fresh pineapple mint cup, roast chicken with green herbs stuffing, giblet gravy, new parsley potatoes, asparagus with lemon butter, molded grapefruit salad, strawberries and cream, angel cake, coffee, milk.

SUPPER: Cream of asparagus soup in cups, minced chicken sandwiches, watercress sandwiches, assorted cheese, fruit compotes, cake, tea, milk.

Pour into two well-greased heat resistant glass cake dishes, 9 inches in diameter, and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for about 45 minutes, or until nicely done. When cool, frost with 7-minute marshmallow icing.

Marshmallow Icing (Top and sides of 2 layer cake)

One-half cup cold water, 2 egg whites, 1-2 cups granulated sugar, 1-4 teaspoon cream of tartar, 16 marshmallows, 1 teaspoon vanilla extract.

Mix the water, egg whites, sugar and cream of tartar in double boiler, and cook over boiling water, beating constantly until it stands in peaks, about 7 minutes.

Remove from the heat and stir in the chopped marshmallows and vanilla. Stir until all the marshmallows are dissolved, and thick enough to pile well. Spread between layers and on top and sides of cake.

To decorate this beautiful white cake, use a simple tinted frosting. "To Mother" is the best decoration your cake can have. Garnish it with the freshest of pink roses.

Easy Decorative Frosting

One-third cup sweetened condensed milk, 1-4 tablespoons butter, 1-3 teaspoon vanilla, 3-4 cup confectioner's sugar sifted.

Cream sweetened condensed milk and butter together. Add vanilla, blending well. Add sifted confectioner's sugar gradually and beat until smooth, creamy and light in color.

This frosting may be tinted with a speck of food coloring. Pale tints are most attractive. Spell out words through a pastry tube on top of the marshmallow frosting.

FEMININE FANCIES

By Kathleen Eiland

Perhaps the greatest mistake most of us make is in forming the habit of thinking small thoughts. We lack faith. That is a statement by Joseph T. Mackey in "Big Cigars for Big Money" in the volume "Still Thrilled by the Future." We think it is a wise saying. One of the most pathetic things in the blunders of humanity is the smothering of talent and ability, continuously and continually, by men and women, boys and girls, who think within themselves, "Oh, I'm just not that smart. I couldn't build a bridge like that," or "I couldn't invent anything that important," or "I couldn't ever get a job that paid that much money." And all the time potential inventors and bridge-builders and high-salaried executives and professionals are being lost to the world—and the good they might have done humanity is lacking—simply because they had such a poor opinion of themselves. Make no mistake—we're not trying to instill a superiority complex into people nor make them conceited. But faith in one's ability, no matter what other people think of it, will carry one a long, long way on the road to success. We take off our hat to the person who BELIEVES he can do something—and keeps on believing so, even if a failure or two are chalked up against him before the final success is attained (and it will be attained).

White costume jewelry is being seen more and more. Particularly dainty is a necklace of pretty morning-glory-shaped blossoms, strung on white links. What an effective contrast it would make with an all-black dress, or an all-navy one—or even with other colors. These flower necklaces, especially those in bell-shape or morning-glory shape, as we choose to call them, are quite new. Some are made up of blossoms daintily small in size and tinted all different colors, rose or yellow or blue. Or you may find a necklace with larger blossoms, fewer in number, but even brighter in shade. Too, there are tiny porcelain or plastic (we don't know which) bells which have a button of gold in lieu of a clapper. But the flower necklaces, for newness and for sheer femininity-plus are our choice.

Bags are specializing in flower trim, too. We've recently been noticing a number of pouchy fabric bags decorated with flowers made of wooden beads in colors or white.

Of course, most anyone can use it, but we're sure a would-be novelist invented it—the night-table memorandum pad which lights up (really and truly) when the accompanying pencil is removed from the holder. Clever no end.

Frocks for Sweet Girl Graduate Are--Yes--Really Sweet and Girlish!

ETHER of these smartly new, youthfully fresh white dresses is sure to flatter the Sweet Girl Graduate. The streamlined model at left is of waffle pique with a matching bolero. The more feminine creation, right, has a full skirt of plain white organdy, finished with a narrow dust ruffle of eyelet embroidered organdy to match the double-breasted bodice.

By MARIAN YOUNG, NEA Service Staff Correspondent. NEW YORK—The smartest graduation dresses are a happy compromise between what daughter wants and what mother feels is most suitable for a young girl. Fortunately, the cost of the most popular types will suit even father, who has to foot the bill. And the fact that the majority are ideal for summer dances as well as for graduation exercises ought to make everyone—mother, dad and daughter—pretty happy.

The note of femininity prevails, just as it does in collections of clothes for older women. And who possibly could be more flattered by the "little girl" silhouette than a bright-eyed girl graduate? Bows, ruffles, ribbons tied under the chin and other froth seem exactly right on her.

Organdy, eyelet batiste and starched chiffon are the favorite fabrics of girls who want sweetly feminine graduation dresses. Crisp pique, linen and cotton broadcloth are best liked by those who prefer streamlined, tailored types, of which there are plenty. White, as always, is right—with all white ribbons or other trimming, of course.

SWIRLING SKIRTS AND SLIM WAISTS

Among the full-skirted, slim-waisted models that fashionists like to think Sweet Girl Graduates will love is a stunning model which makes use of plain and eyelet embroidered organdy. The swirling skirt, of the plain, is finished with a narrow, Val lace-edged ruffle of eyelet embroidered organdy to match the double-breasted bodice. Sleeves are short and very puffed. Standup collar and wide lapels also are edged with lace.

One of the most charming of the streamlined versions is an evening gown of white waffle pique with a brief bolero. It's cut on figure-molding, princess lines with a moderate decollete and fairly wide shoulder straps. For graduation, Miss Graduate would wear the bolero. For summer dancing at the country club, she'd take it off.

There are "baby" dresses galore, of fragile white lawn with narrow, pastel velvet ribbons at necklines, waistlines—and sometimes around skirts.

For Class Day, plaid and check gingham are news. One neat little model includes a full skirt and short bolero of blue and white check, shown with a Tyrolean blouse of eyelet batiste with red button hearts down the front. The narrow belt is of red patent.

HINT OF COMEBACK FOR SHORT SLEEVES

Smart, too, is a two-piece polka-dotted dress with a skirt in dark rose with darker rose dots and a light rose, tuck-in blouse with dots to match the skirt. The blouse has a round neckline, buttons down the front and full, long sleeves. Incidentally, mother and daughter will do well to watch the sleeve situation. It appears that long ones are going to be important again.

It has been estimated that approximately 68,682 of the 243,135 horses and mules attached to the American Expeditionary Forces during the World War perished in service.

We, The Women

By RUTH MILLET

"Oh wad some power the giftie gie us To see oursel's as others see us!" —Robert Burns.

Most women waste a lot of time "seeing through" other women. But few of us can see through ourselves. Our mirror tells us what we look like. But most of us have a distorted picture of what we ARE like. If we could get the line-up on ourselves that we get on other women, it would do a lot to help us arrange our lives.

Among us there is the talented, capable young woman who underestimates herself and so stays in an inferior position, when she might move up to the top. There is the office girl who never becomes a good stenographer because she thinks she was meant to be a second Bernhardt. She kills herself that working in an office is only a stop-gap, so she never takes advantage of opportunities that would get her places in the business world.

There is the woman who is discontented because she thinks she is too good for whatever she happens to be. Her failure to go any further hasn't convinced her that maybe she has reached her level, and belongs right where she is.

Then there is the woman who sees herself as a perfect wife even though the very qualities which she thinks make a perfect wife bore her husband to distraction.

DON'T BLAME OTHERS FOR YOUR FAILURES

Women have all kinds of distorted pictures of themselves. Chances are your own picture of yourself is out of focus.

You have few friends, and blame it on the snootiness of the people around you.

You are convinced that the reason other people are more successful than you are is because they got the breaks—and you didn't.

You put all of the blame for the failure of your marriage on your husband.

You tell your children how much you sacrificed for them and demand that they be eternally grateful.

You say—and believe—that nobody understands you at all.

Nova Can't Punch, So Apostoli Fears Public Must Stand for Louis and Baer

BY HARRY GRAYSON, NEA Service Sports Editor.

NEW YORK. — Fred Apostoli believes we're going to have Joe Louis and Maxie Adelbert Baer once more in September whether we like it or not.

"Baer will knock out Lou Nova in six or seven rounds at Yankee Stadium, June 1," predicts the middleweight champion.

"Baer will beat anybody for whose hitting power he has no respect and he has the right slant on Nova's lack of authority."

Picking Baer to topple Louis in a return match is something else again, Apostoli admits, although he contends that the ex-champion stands a better chance of performing the feat than any other contender.

"After all, you must admit that Baer can smack 'em," he explains. "Just what he does against Louis in a second edition depends entirely on how he regards it mentally."

Apostoli bases his Baer-Nova prognostication on their starts against No-Hit Farr.

"Having sampled Farr's punches in London, Baer was certain Tony-pandy Tommy had little on the ball, so gave him a good going over in their encounter," points out the former bellhop. "Farr stirred up much more trouble for Nova, although my old Olympic Club mate had the Welshman in bad shape in the 14th."

Apostoli asserts that Nova won't be ready for Louis in the fall even an agreement calling for the winner of the Solly Krieger-Al Hostak encore in Seattle, June 29, to tackle him. Fearless Freddie hears that Krieger and Hostak had to consent to such an arrangement before Krieger was permitted to engage Billy Conn, the young Pittsburgh light-heavyweight, at Madison Square Garden, May 12.

But Apostoli isn't so sure that another Krieger-Hostak scrap in the Puget Sound country will not lead to a third before he is accompanied by either.

Apostoli and his composing room foreman-manager, Larry White, are intent upon breaking up the middleweight trust that has existed since Ben Juby won a tournament held in New York following the vacating of the title by Michael Walker some years back.

APOSTOLI ENTITLED TO CLEAR CLAIM TO CROWN.

It was White who broke up the welterweight clique which tossed the 147-pound bumble back and forth like a medicine ball. Remember the round robin among Young Jack Thompson, Jackie Fields and Tommy Freeman?

White refused to be whipped into line with Young Corbett III.

Instead he kept banging away with the southpaw until it became apparent to everybody that Corbett was the slickest welter of the day.

When the combination could no longer dodge the issue, Fields, then top man of the group, consented to tackle Corbett in an above-the-weight match. Corbett won and repeated his victory at weight to annex the crown. That broke up the trust.

... gave Jimmy McLarrin his shot at the three roots. McLarrin quickly knocked out Corbett and the welterweight division was on a prosperous footing again.

Apostoli, recognized as the 160-pound champion in New York and California, doesn't care anything about Solly Krieger, the N. B. A. titleholder. He has outpointed and spotted the Brooklyn veteran.

But Fearless Freddie would like to establish a clear claim to the championship, which is something he richly deserves.

One day last week the Barons played the Clovis Pioneers in the rain yet 175 paid their way through the gates. The crowds are going to grow if the team steps out as expected.

In going to Shreveport on option from Chicago's White Sox, Joe will be with Hack Miller, his former manager. The other two Lubbockans in "A-1" are Jerry Blanchard and Ralph Marshall, both with Oklahoma City.

COWBOYS DROP OPENER TO PAMPA, 3-5

Outfit Winners by 11-4; Wildness of Hurler Is Costly

PAMPA, May 9 (Special)—The Midland Cowboys dropped a heart-breaking game to the Pampa Oilers here Monday night on a cold and windy field.

The Cowboys got away to a good start by scoring in the second and third innings and appeared to have the game well in hand when Adair, the starting hurler, lost all control and walked three men in a row after one was out in the third. Mort took a long foul fly after a long run and two men scored while he was making the throw home.

After that, Johnson relieved and pitched jam-up ball for the rest of the way, allowing two hits and two unearned runs.

The Cowboys outthit the Oilers 11-4, but could not bunch their base knocks consistently against Grabek and Howard.

Garden Glamour Cited by Officials

COLLEGE STATION, Texas. — A man in search of romance need go no further than the nearest garden, for the glamour which has clung to mankind's story from time immemorial is bound up in the foods he eats.

Some of the fruits and vegetables are very, very old and have crossed many seas and lands; almost all have an interesting story of man's efforts to improve them.

"We all know the story of the tomato which used to be called the 'love apple,'" says J. F. Rosborough, horticulturist of the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service. "Many other vegetables have similar legends."

The carrot, a native of Europe and Asia, is a weed in its wild state. It is thought that the improved garden varieties are from the same stock. Improvement was first begun in Holland, from where it was taken to England and planted in the garden of Queen Elizabeth.

The most popular of the small fruits, the strawberry, has been grown in gardens less than 600 years, and was not commercialized until the 19th century.

Beets, on the other hand, have been cultivated since two or three centuries before the Christian era; cherries probably date from the beginning of agriculture and are now grown all over the world; asparagus is a native of Europe, and has been cultivated for more than 2,000 years.

America's most popular contribution to the vegetable world is corn, which was first cultivated by the Indians. It was introduced to Europe by Columbus. Corn dishes, such as succash and hominy, have names adapted from the Indians.

Sunday continues to lead all other days in number of accidents, with Saturday in second place. 6 p. m. to 9 p. m. are hours in which most accidents occur, and passenger cars were involved in 70% of all accidents. 62% of all accidents happened while the vehicles were going straight ahead, and 14% of all accidents happened while the operators were driving too fast for conditions. The PAYOFF

(Editor's note: The following article was written by Hank Hart, Sports Editor of the Big Spring Herald, following the recent series between the Abilene and Big Spring baseball clubs.)

Pincher Withers' "noble experiment" at Abilene is cracking up and the ex-Midland pilot is seeking new and greener pastures in which to operate his baseball business. He has offered Sweetwater folk an attractive proposition in that he would agree to move the franchise if but 1,500 tickets for an opening day were disposed of. Civic leaders have called a parley for tonight give their final decree.

We fear their decision will not favor the proposition, that the excuse that they will offer is that it is too late in the season to effect a switch. There they are wrong. They should greet Withers, who is desperately trying to make a go of the game, with open arms.

Withers obviously made the mistake of staking his claim in a city where the population belies its aggressiveness. He is capable of giving Abilene a ball club that will be in the running for the bunting but has received a slap in the face for his efforts. There has been no concerted drive behind him to "sell" the proposition to Abilene such as the one brought about here. In the recent Big Spring series 21 paid admissions were present for the first game, 28 the second. He has realized no better crowds against the other teams.

Sincerely we would hate to see Tate fold after making such a grand effort to build and establish on a concrete foundation his franchise.

While here he told your reporter he was losing money, that he was turning every stone in an effort to cajole the fans into the park but to no avail. However, he added, he was going ahead with plans to

Large Increase in Strength of Army Air Corps Assured by Passage of New Laws

FORT SAM HOUSTON, Texas. — With the approval by the President of the Act of Congress, authorizing the strengthening of our military defenses, and especially the expansion of the Army Air Corps, the War Department is preparing to increase the number of Flying Cadets to be trained during the coming year. It is contemplated that a new class of approximately 370 cadets will enter training every six weeks at the U. S. Army's "West Point of the Air."

The passage by Congress of this bill has made possible the increase of strength of the Army Air Corps to between 5,500 and 6,000 airplanes.

All qualified candidates are placed on a waiting list with a view to assignment to the first class in which they may be accommodated at the Primary Flying School. Flying cadets are furnished Government transportation from their place of enlistment to the school. They receive pay at the rate of $75 a month while undergoing training, a ration allowance of $1.00 a day, and are quartered in cadet barracks at no expense to them. A distinctive uniform and necessary flying equipment are furnished.

Upon graduating from the Training Center, which will take approximately nine months, a cadet is commissioned a Second Lieutenant, Air Corps Reserve, and ordered immediately to active duty with a Regular Air Corps unit. He draws the same pay as Regular Army Air Corps officers and may remain on active duty for a period of from three to five years. Army officials believe that even a longer period of active duty may be authorized. After three years of satisfactory service as a second lieutenant, an officer may be promoted to the grade of First Lieutenant and serve the remainder of the five year period in that grade which carries a substantial salary increase.

The Air Corps expansion program calls for more than 3,000 regular Air Corps officers. It is proposed over a period of several years over a period of several years with increments of as many as 300 per year. This opens up, for the first time, an opportunity for a flying cadet to make the Regular Army Air by July 1, 1941. In order to meet the need of trained pilots for this increase in airplanes, the government will accept approximately 3,000 Flying Cadets to be trained at Government schools each year for the next two or three years.

In order that the production of trained personnel may not lag behind the procurement of aircraft, Army agencies are making strenuous efforts to increase the list of acceptable applicants for the Air Corps Training Center in order that they may start training immediately when appropriated funds become available for this phase of the program.

To accomplish this goal, Boards of Air Corps and Medical officers have been set up at certain Army Posts throughout the Eighth Corps Area for the purpose of examining applicants who wish to become Flying Cadets. The Boards are located at:

William Beaumont General Hospital, El Paso, Texas; Lowry Field, Denver, Colorado; Post Field, Fort Sill, Oklahoma; and Randolph Field, San Antonio, Texas.

Candidates for appointment must be unmarried male citizens between twenty and twenty-six years of age. Those who have not satisfactorily completed at least two years of standard college work may qualify by passing a written educational examination, which is the equivalent thereof.

It should be remembered that the physical standard of flying is of necessity rigid, especially as to vision, hearing and the nervous system. Vision must be normal, that is 20/20 for each eye, without glasses. Candidates must have unimpaired ocular muscle balance, good hearing, a stable and balanced equilibrium, normal color vision, and a stable career, as only Air Corps Training Center graduates are eligible.

The first increment for the Regular Army will be taken in this year when an examination of candidates for commissions in the Air Corps Regular Army will be held. Former graduates of the Air Corps Training Center who will not be more than 29 years, 10 months old, June 1, are eligible.

Most of these officers will be obtained from former Flying Cadets who have become Air Corps Reserve Officers and have proven their suitability for Regular Army commissions during their period of active duty. Heretofore only a small number of vacancies have been filled by reserve officers, but the expansion of the Air Corps has opened up new opportunities to the young man who desires to make a career of believed it should possess. Now at 86, he has realized the hope Alford Lord Tennyson, British poet, expressed in a letter after receiving a pecan seedling from Risien that he should "live long and happily and see your pecan trees flourish."

More important to him, perhaps, is the realization that offspring of the twig are growing in England, France, Madagascar, Palestine, Australia, South America, Mexico and all states of the Union climatically suited for growth of Western varieties.

Texas Today

By The Associated Press

The preeminence of Texas in pecan culture rests upon a twig Edmond E. Risien of San Saba discovered more than a half century ago while seeking a specimen of the nut embodying the qualities he Biographically Mr. Risien was born in England, a cabinetmaker by profession, a resident of San Saba by accident and a horticulturist by instinct. He stepped on American soil at Galveston in the summer of 1872 with the intention of proceeding to California "in a few months." Instead, he lingered at the Island city, then went north to visit relatives in Limestone county.

Perhaps destiny brought him to San Saba county in 1874—certainly it ended his intention of going to California. He liked the natural beauties of the country and when he visited the Centennial Exposition at Philadelphia in 1876, he took along a small exhibit of Texas pecans.

A few months later the man who was to satisfy Queen Victoria's taste for fine nuts returned to the bottom lands of the San Saba to lay the foundation of his fame.

His instinct for horticulture, however, did not go into action at once. Instead, he took up his trade of cabinet maker, joined three associates in promoting the water system of San Saba, and got married.

In the '70's, wagons loaded with buffalo meat and pecans were on the streets of San Saba daily in the autumn and Risien became curious about the different types among the pecans. He examined them all—for flavor, color, time of maturity, texture and the possibility for easy shelling. Finally he offered a prize of $5 for the best specimens found in the county. The winner brought in nuts so large Risien asked to visit the tree.

When the man took him to the peninsula created by the junction of the San Saba and Colorado rivers he was horrified to find but one small twig on a limb of the tree.

"Why did you cut the tree that way?" Risien asked.

"Well," the prize winner explained, "I left one limb so I'd have something to stand on to cut off the others to get the pecans."

Risien determined to have the remnant of that tree and eventually bought 320 acres of land on which it stood.

The mutilated tree slowly put out new growth and Risien named it the "San Saba"—later to be known as the "Mother Tree" because on it he carried out the major part of his breeding work. Upon 40 acres of the original tract stand 1,000 large bearing trees stemming from the "Mother" tree, but no two are alike. The fruiting buds, (male blossoms) were artificially pollenated from the "Father" tree, 12 miles away.

When one of the new varieties generated from the crossing of the "parents" did not reach the required standard it was put aside. It is estimated by Mr. Risien he made hundreds of breeding experiments that did not meet the degree of quality he had set. Contending that trees which did not produce sufficiently had one of the many defects of the pecan kingdom, Risien rode hundreds of miles on horseback searching for the tree that indicated suitable healthfulness for crossing with the "Mother" tree.

Always he looked for trees in well-watered places because abundant water is necessary to proper development of the nuts. When found, the pecan catkins (male blossoms) were placed in saddlebags and carefully carried home where the pollen was applied to the female blossoms. Thus began Risien's patient process of building up paper shell pecans through cross pollenation. A decade of waiting was required for seedlings to mature. When they bore nuts of desirable variety, budwood was grafted to older native stock. This has become popular as a means of obtaining quick production.

Throughout his active years Risien has busied himself improving the western varieties of pecans, and from his untiring work came the John Garner, introduced two years ago; the San Saba Improved; the Texas Schley; Texas Prolific No. 60, because of 60 per cent nut meat; Squirrel Delight, and other types familiar to consumers of Texas most famous nut.

Mr. Risien established his nursery at San Saba in 1888, and in it was grown the seedling he sent to Lord Tennyson. Queen Victoria enjoyed pecans from his orchard as did John May, President McKinley's secretary of state. The elder Studebaker, wagon and automobile maker, ordered a barrel of eating pecans from him yearly, and C. W. Post, breakfast food magnate was so impressed with Risien's exhibit, arranged in a grape-like cluster at the Columbian Exposition at Chicago he visited the San Saba horticulturist to inspect his methods of culture. The grape cluster-like exhibit is credited with suggesting to Post the name of his best known cereal.

The eldest son of former King Alfonso of Spain, who died several months ago, had ordered eating pecans from Risien for several years.

Although his concern in improving pecan types has not slackened, Mr. Risien's hobby for several years has been breeding a type of weeping liveoak found in Texas, Louisiana and Old Mexico. His laboratory is an old oak standing just outside San Saba's limits and from which the commissioners' court granted him the right to propagate during his lifetime. He calls it his "mother" liveoak, and the "father" tree, from which is taken the pollen necessary for cross breeding, stands 15 miles southeast of San Saba.

nearer to a repetition of the grim events which happened a quarter of a century ago.

"The grave anxieties of the time in which we live compel me to raise my voice in expression of the universal longing to be delivered from the fears that beset us, and to return to normal conditions."

Stating that "peace is a matter far too vital for our happiness to be treated as a political question" and declaring that "in modern times the victory will lie only with the powers of evil," the duke expressed his "profound conviction that there is no land, whose people want war."

This is as true of the German nation, he said, as of the British, American, or French.

Texas Students Are Named to Positions

AUSTIN, Texas. — Two of the United States' leading schools dipped into the College of Engineering at the University of Texas last week for research fellows and assistants.

Reports on the recent state engineering officials disclosed here today.

L. T. Wright, Jr., who began research on steam jet ejectors at the University several years ago, received a grant from the McMullen Research Fellowship at Cornell University to continue his project for 1939-40. This will be Wright's second year at Cornell, having gone there last year on fellowship.

Davis Wilson of Dallas has been appointed to a graduate research assistantship at the University of Illinois, it was announced.

R. V. Vittucci, University instructor in mechanical engineering, received an E. J. Meyer Fellowship in engineering at Cornell for 1939-40.

Texas Geneticist Is Awarded Medal

AUSTIN, Texas. — A gold medal has been pinned on Dr. T. S. Painter, University of Texas geneticist, by the National Academy of Sciences, exclusive order of professional scientists.

Citing his contributions to scientific knowledge in picturing the lock, or habitat, of the gene—minute hereditary particles which determine sex, eye color, skin texture, length of toenails and other characteristics—the Academy proclaimed him the National's Number One Scientist for 1934.

Delaying its accolades until time has weighed the year's output of scientific discoveries, the Academy has just announced its awards for 1934 and 1935.

The University of Texas zoology professor was also presented a $200 honorarium, and a bronze replica of the official gold medal.

It was Dr. Painter who in 1934 informed the geneticists of the world that genes were strung along the chromosome — infinitesimal elongated, rod-like structures comprising the cell nucleus—like vari-colored beads on a string.

Early geneticists thought the genes lay along the chromosome in linear order, but not until the so-called "giant chromosomes" from the salivary glands of the ordinary fruit-fly were studied was it possible actually to see the genes.

Dr. Painter was able actually to map a giant chromosome showing the cross bands or striations along which the genes were strung in a regular pattern.

Adding still another star beside Dr. Painter's name, there has come today announcement of his election as a member of the American Philosophical Society, the nation's oldest society "for promoting useful knowledge."

Founded in 1743 by Benjamin Franklin, who was its first president, it also numbered Thomas Jefferson among its presidents. Only fifteen new members from the United States may be added annually to its rolls, with three foreign additions.

Ex-Union Pacific President Dies

WASHINGTON, May 9 (AP)—Carl R. Gray, 71, vice chairman of the board of the Union Pacific railroad and its former president, was found dead in his bed at his hotel today.

Gray served on President Roosevelt's joint labor-management committee appointed to work out a plan for reviving the nation's railroads.

Microscopic Whittlers Engage in Competition

DES MOINES, Ia. (UP)—Pick up your magnifying glass and take a look at the work of McDonald Taylor, world's champion microscopic whittler.

Last year Taylor gained national prominence when he carved tiny chairs from match sticks and mounted this almost invisible furniture on the heads of pins.

Then a rival carved a table, four chairs and four plates, and mounted them on the head of a pin. Taylor not only duplicated his rival's accomplishments but added a spoon at each plate and placed a bit of desert (carved from colored celluloid) on each plate.

The bowls of the spoons are one-fifth the size of a period in a newspaper, Taylor said. He's working on a chair with hair-like legs that will be 26 times smaller than the head of a pin.
