Cassino 'Positional' Warfare Recalls Static Battles Of '17

WASHINGTON—(P)—The close-in slugging of foot soldiers still clawing for possession of the rubble heap of Cassino underscores the fact that the stalemate "positional" warfare of 1917 is being repeated in Italy.

The attempt to blast a path through this key point with the most tremendous aerial bombardment of the Mediterranean campaign was only partly successful, and one highly qualified observer suggested Friday that there may have been an "over-use" of air power in this instance.

German Stubbards

Inside Cassino, New Zealand troops still beat savagely against stubbornly defended German strong points with the support of tanks and a heavy screen of artillery and mortar fire. The Nazi defenders were supported by both air attacks and increased artillery fire.

again wormed forward in the ruins and attacked the Germans on the western edge of the town. A spokesman said "some little progress was made and it is believed the enemy suffered severe casualties."

Churn Up Public

The 1,400 tons of bombs cascaded onto the mile-square town in one morning churned it into such a wasteland of rubble heaps and craters that Allied foot soldiers had difficulty moving through it, and it was even necessary for the engineers to clear a path for tanks.

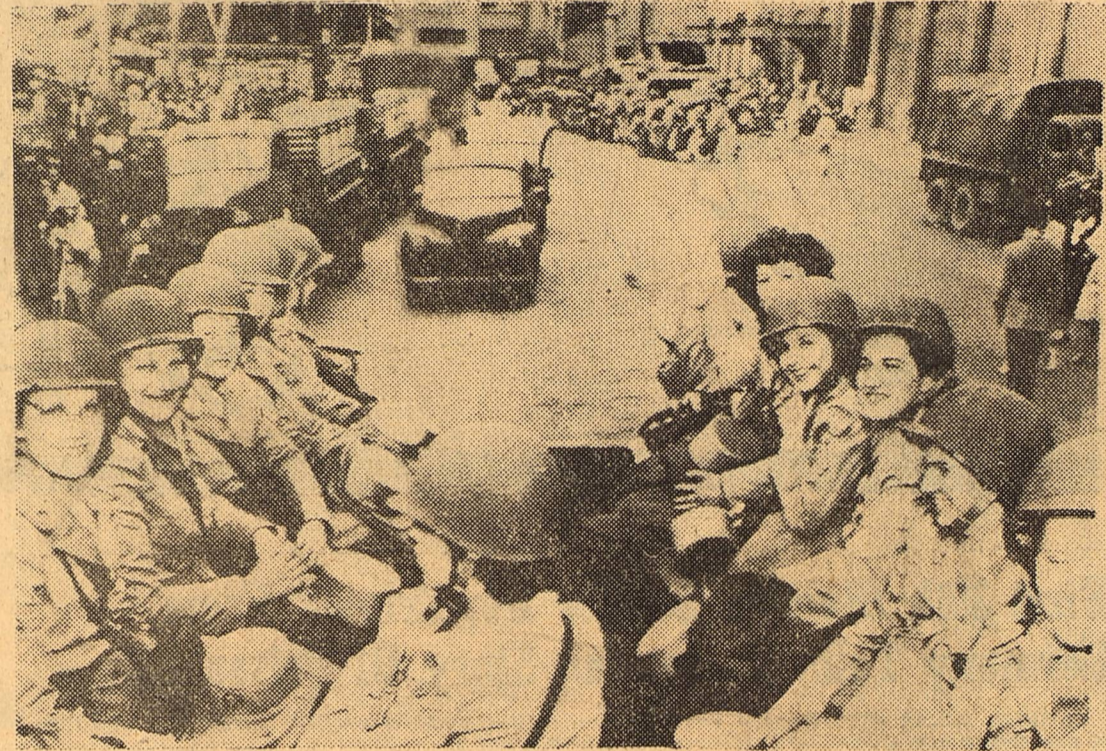

Meantime, although almost every German soldier who was in Cassino when the bombardment started was killed, Nazi troops from crack outfits in the hills were able to infiltrate the ruins from the enemy side, so that the creeping advance of Allied infantrymen again ran into desperate resistance and hand-to-hand fighting within the limits of what had been Cassino.

Question Answered

The question of why Cassino cannot be by-passed has been raised. One explanation comes from Brig. Gen. William H. Wilbur, infantry officer back from the Cassino front for medical treatment.

American Planes Return To Blast German Cities

While Flying Fortresses smashed into Germany to the accompaniment of the German warning service, "Achung, attention! Achung! Strong enemy bomber formations flying over Western Germany," Liberators bombed enemy air fields in Northeastern France.

RAF Heavies Strike

RAF heavies, bombing objectives around the industrial city of Lyon in Southern France and the railroad yards of Laon, 80 miles northeast of Paris, Thursday night brought the total Allied air forces over Germany and occupied territory in 36 hours to between 5,000 and 6,000 planes, it was estimated.

Churchill Tells Yank Skytroops Invasion Not Far Away

LONDON—(P)—Prime Minister Churchill paid a surprise visit to American air-borne troops in the English countryside Thursday and told them they "soon will have the opportunity" of landing upon the soil of Nazi-occupied Europe.

In company with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the prime minister witnessed the colorful spectacle of many hundreds of American skytroops leaping from swift-rolling waves of planes on to the green English fields a few hundred yards from the reviewing stand.

"You have a great part to play," Churchill told them. "You are specially trained. You are the most modern expression of war."

It was Churchill's first inspection visit to an all-American unit and the prime minister, in a jovial mood and showing the keenest interest in all the complicated paraphernalia of the American airborne equipment, paused repeatedly to talk with the men from overseas. Needless to say, the Americans showed even keener interest in the man who brought England forward from the black days of Dunkirk to the threshold of victory.

Something For The Voters

Here is unquestionably the prime man-bites-day item of the moment. The bureaucrats are accusing our economy-minded Congress of being wasteful and extravagant, with a charge of political boondoggling thrown in for good measure.

All the fuss really started last June, when Congress passed an appropriation for a large reprint of the 1942 Agriculture Yearbook. There has not been an edition of that monumental volume in two years. Congress refused to appropriate any money for it in 1943, what with the paper shortage and all. Of course, there's a paper shortage this year, too, but—well, maybe it has something to do with the elections coming up.

Anyway, the legislators apparently decided that this would be a good time to remember the electorate back home with a little something. So they slipped a yearbook appropriation of $178,000 into the June fiscal parade.
The fact that the bill is charged, not to Congress as is the custom, but to the Department of Agriculture only makes it all the more confusing.

The whole thing seems to have brought the Agriculture Department and the Government Printing Office to a slow boil.

There have been mutterings about such things as these:
The 1942 Agriculture Yearbook presumably has been sent out to constituents once already. And there are around 45,000 of these volumes left over, which, since they are outdated, will probably wind up in the waste paper salvage drive.

Congress has ordered 231,250 copies, the maximum number allowed by the law. That is 550 for each senator, and 400 for each representative.

Each book contains 1296 pages; total paper requirement, 440 tons. The order also would require 40,000 yards of high-priority blue vellum for the covers.

Every one of the book's chapters, some 200 of them, is already available in pamphlet form.

Nobody seems very anxious to do the printing. The Government Printing Office asked for bids, and only one firm responded; its bid is reported between $75,000 and $100,000 above the amount appropriated.

Well, our Congress is a great and valuable and indispensable institution. So is our custom of quadrennial elections. But sometimes their zodiacal conjunction produces the damndest results.

Major Austin's Resolution

"I'll never be a smug Vermonter again," Maj. Edward L. Austin wrote to his father, the senior senator from Vermont.

Major Austin made this resolution after seeing the tank-destroyer battalion which he commands in action on the American beachhead in Italy. There were real cowboys and real Indians in the outfit. There were also boys from the Bronx, State-of-Mainers, Pennsylvania factory workers, and lads from midwestern farms.

In its first action against enemy tanks, the battalion took a toll of Tigers and Mark IV's that played a major part in stopping the big Nazi counter-attack of mid-February.

It seems likely that there are thousands of American soldiers, who, consciously or otherwise, have taken a vow similar to Major Austin's. Most of us have a bit of the "smug Vermonter" in us, no matter what part of the country we hail from. The average American (like the average person of any nationality) sticks pretty close to home and his own kind in his thinking, however much he may have traveled.

The Army affords a wonderful opportunity to get over such insular attitudes. Dodging the same bullets, sharing the same ditch, facing the same flak in a bomber teaches tolerance. When men live the same life and face the same dangers, they begin to judge each other according to character, rather than accent, religion, education, or the size of their civilian salaries.

There are many, of course, whose ingrained prejudices will not be touched by any of these factors. But if only a small minority of service men bring out of military life less prejudice than they look into it, there can still be cause for rejoicing.

We are going to need tolerance and unselfishness during our peacetime readjustment. The returning veterans are going to be a great force in our civilian life. Their solidarity can work great good or great harm, depending upon how it is organized and directed.

It does not seem too much to hope that there may be enough men like Major Austin who have lost that "smug Vermont" attitude to influence the veterans and the country to work less toward selfish and sectional aims, and more toward the common good.

Love Breaks Into Print

We see where a leading New York dress designer presented, at his show of the new spring styles, a daring new print dress with "I Love You" stamped all over it by way of pattern.

A newspaper account of the style show said that the exhibits "reflected a unity of taste that represented refinement."
We can remember when a modest lapel button bearing the legend, "O You Kid," was considered a trifle rowdy.

The War Today —
Japanese Drive Into India May Be More Political Than Military

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst Japan's General Tojo is straining hard to make capital out of the Nipponese "invasion" across the northeast border of India from Burma, and it's of more than passing interest to find him trying to build a political sensation out of it with the claim that the so-called Indian National Army with headquarters in Burma, is participating with the idea of liberating India.
There is thus far no major threat, either military or political, against India. Allied headquarters minimize the importance of the attack. However, I'm sure they don't mean for us to dismiss lightly any enemy invasion. We cannot forget that this great sub-continent is the chief Allied base for the final smash against Japan. Its complete security is vital.
Chungking is shocked by the development. Unofficially the feeling is expressed in the Chinese capital that the invasion is supplying the Japanese propaganda guns with the best ammunition they've had in months.

O'Daniel Lambasts
New Deal Candidate
In Oklahoma

MUSKOGEE, OKLA. —(AP)—Voters of Oklahoma's Second District, who will elect a new congressman Tuesday, were urged Thursday night by Senator O'Daniel (D-Texas) to choose a man who has "not even a speaking acquaintance with the New Deal gang."
The Texan, an outspoken critic of the Roosevelt administration, spoke at a rally in behalf of Republican E. O. Clark, who will oppose Democratic W. G. Stigler in next week's election.
While O'Daniel said he was speaking not necessarily for Clark, but for a Congress of men "who believe in the Constitution of the United States, Republican leaders were elated when he declared:
"I know of no better reason why any candidate should be defeated than the fact that he may carry with him the blessing of the ruling dynasty in Washington." Stigler has the backing of Oklahoma's New Deal governor, Robert S. Kerr, and Senator Moore (R-Okla.) charged that Stigler would be a New Deal "rubber stamp." Republican leaders were coming on O'Daniel's speech to offset the appearance of Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, who will speak in Stigler's behalf Monday in Muskogee and Okmulgee.

First 36th Division Soldier Repatriated From Germany Tells Harrowing Story Of Prison Life

TEMPLE, TEXAS —(AP)—German 88 mm. shell fragments tore through Fvt. James E. Carpenter's right arm and the Jewett (Leon County), Texas, youth suffered excruciating pain—at times almost unbearable—before he received first aid behind German lines, administered by captured American Medical Corps men.
That was the beginning of the story told at McCloskey General Hospital here Friday by the first 36th Division soldier to be repatriated from Germany.
Carpenter was injured in the hills of Italy on Sept. 13 after the Salerno landing of the 36th.
Germans Find Him
He was unable to apply a tourni-quet, but Private Carpenter grasped his right shoulder firmly beneath the arm pit to stop bleeding to some extent. Then he waited six hours while the Jerries moved closer. Finally, he was discovered by two German foot soldiers, but by that time he was so weak that they had to carry him to the top of the hill.
Two American prisoners of the Germans—one of them T/S Smith of Weatherford, Parker County—gave him first aid and applied sulfa powder and sterile bandage. They were soon shifted back of the lines to a field hospital.
Said Carpenter: "I received no attention except for the care received from American medical soldiers. German doctors would come by occasionally and look at the German patients, but I can't remember their looking at any of us."

Amputated Arm
A German surgeon amputated his arm, leaving a two-inch stub, he related.
At a concentration camp, Carpenter stated, they were taken to a shed where they were allowed to lie on gunny sacks that were thrown on the ground. It was here that First Lt. Leonard E. Kremer of Patterson, N. J., wounded in the leg and arm by a hand grenade, amazed his fellow prisoners with his energy.
"The lieutenant gathered all first aid equipment from the American soldiers who were taken prisoners and set up a small hospital of his own," the Texan recalled. Most of the medical kits came from paratroopers. Lieutenant Kremer maintained a constant vigil over all 22 of us. He was superb.
Plenty Of Goat Meat
He said a Captain Bonds, member of the Mexia National Guard Company, took charge of the culinary department and that there was plenty of goat meat.
"The Germans neither helped nor hindered us and Captain Bonds made sure that all of us were fed," he asserted.
The trip into Germany started then with a short stay at another

Mexican President, In Surprise Move, Ousts All Railway Unions

MEXICO CITY —(AP)—Cracking down with a speed and severity which took even senators by surprise, President Avila Camacho has ousted the unions from the last remnants of their control of the government-owned railroad system.
The most surprising feature of the step to untangle the rail network was an order for the general manager of the system to set aside any union contract provisions which "slow up, impede or impair" operation.
This was as unexpected here as would be New Deal repeal of the Wagner Act.
President Cardenas, predecessor of Avila Camacho, turned the railroads over to workers to manage.
Union heads appointed the board of directors, which appointed the general manager.
This experiment did not decrease bickering between employes and the bosses, and did bring on a string of wrecks which killed more than 50 passengers in the first year of worker operation.
One of Avila Camacho's first acts was to resume government operation of the Mexican system. The U. S. came to the rescue, sending a technical commission to advise on rehabilitation and offering almost unlimited credits, of which $4,000,000 has been used.
This helped, but not solve the problem.
The manager ordered mechanics from Mexico City roundhouses to go to Acambaro to repair locomotives.
They refused, citing a contract clause forbidding employes to be sent more than 35 miles away.
The management ordered two shifts installed at Acambaro and the employes refused. They didn't want to work overtime and under their contract extra help could not be hired.

Winchell Walks One-Way Street In Latest Word Duel With Congress

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON —(AP)—When he feuds with congressmen, radio commentator Walter Winchell walks a one way street.
He can be held accountable for what he says about them in any place. They can't be prosecuted for what they say, so long as they say it in Congress.
This congressional immunity, violated sometimes by punched noses, has always been upheld. It's guaranteed in the Constitution.
It doesn't hold true, of course, for statements made by congressmen outside Congress.
Tangled With Dies
Winchell currently is tangling with Congressman Martin Dies, John Rankin and Clare Hoffman.
On the air, he's said things that pained them. In Congress they haven't minced words about him.
Dies' committee on un-American activities will investigate all Winchell has said for the past two years. Dies has demanded—and is getting—equal radio time to answer Winchell on the air in order to reach his same listening audience.
Dies will follow Winchell Sunday night and, by stepping outside Congress, foregoes his immunity for that 15-minute period.
Kidding about Dies' demand for air time, the Washington Post editorially wonders: Would Congress be willing to give equal time to a citizen on the floor of Congress to answer charges made against him there?
This is part of the Constitution—verified by federal court—which says congressmen can't be prosecuted for anything they say in Congress, and that includes libel and slander.
"The senators and representatives x x x for any speech or debate in either house shall not be questioned in any other place." Historian Charles A. Beard interprets this immunity further as extending to anything said "in committees, in official publications, or in the legitimate discharge of their legislative duties." The Constitution's words are taken almost exactly from the British bill of rights in which the Parliament in 1689, to protect members from arbitrary arrest for criticism of the king, declared:
"The freedom of speech and debate on proceedings in Parliament ought not to be impeached or questioned in any court or place out of Parliament.
But immunity to prosecution has

Kwajalein, Once Jap Stronghold, Now As American As Hot Dogs

By WILLIAM L. WORDEN KWAJALEIN ISLAND —(Delayed)—(AP)—To come back to Kwajalein after the battle is to come back to a few acres of soil already as American as hot dogs.
It was Japanese, a little more than three weeks ago. The stench of its dead two weeks ago was unbearable. Miserable natives and the stubborn enemy still lie in hospitals recovering from the soul and body shocking experience of being days without food and water among its smoking ghosts of trees. But now there is change.
Island Wasteland Kwajalein, when the battle was over, was a wasteland. Fires smoldered in the formless ruins of what had been Japanese buildings. Bodies were everywhere—more than 4,000 Japanese.
Trunks and fronds of shattered palms formed an impassable jungle on the ground. There were dud shells and bombs, smoking Japanese ammunition dumps, ruined gear, thousands upon thousands of sheets of paper, scattered everywhere—Japanese military forms, Japanese mosquito netting lay in green piles and Japanese sheet iron hung at crazy angles from the remains of roofs.
Today there are still signs. Japanese cannon, wrecked where they waited—unfired—in their permanent emplacements; a few wrecked

Use Convalescent Time For Beauty

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

Even illness has its bright side when a woman uses an enforced stay in bed to catch up on neglected beauty treatments. So says one busy career woman, whom I complimented recently because she looked so much prettier after a siege in the hospital.

Pinning her down to cases, here are some tips I was able to glean, which she says can be used to improve your looks and give your morale a shot in the arm.

"The time to get rid of corns and callouses is when feet are inactive," she says. "I treat ev-

Social Situations

THE SITUATION: You become engaged, by letter, to a young man who is now overseas. How would you act?

WRONG WAY: Without saying anything to the young man have your mother give an announcement of the engagement to the newspapers.

RIGHT WAY: Before having your engagement formally announced find out if your fiancé thinks that is the sensible thing to do.

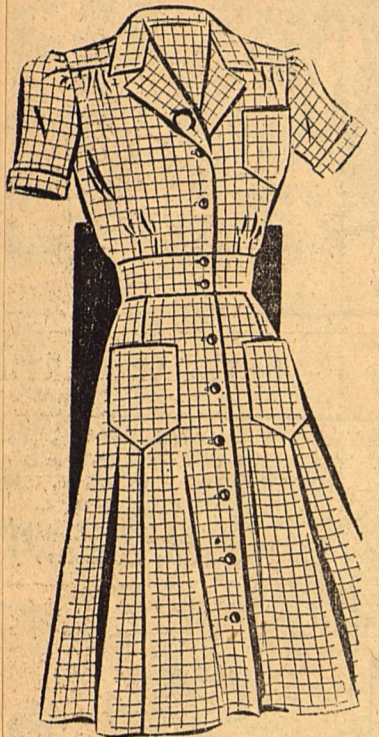

ery corny toe and horny spot on my feet to pads and solvents, slipped on bed socks, and lay blissfully quiet while science and nature took their course. When I got out of bed, my feet were as unblemished as a child's. So, I thank my illness for a wonderful new feeling underfoot.

Her hair, polished to look like hand-rubbed mahogany, is something else for which she thanks her enforced stay in bed. "Ordinarily," she told me, "I don't take time to whip a brush endlessly in and out of my hair. But with nothing else to do, I decided I'd try it and see what would happen."

Her hands, so much more smooth-skinned than you see at the tail end of winter, told their own story of a sick-room routine. Their owner vouched for their story, though, by explaining that she dipped into a lotion bottle pretty often and spent idle moments massaging crinkles out of her hands.

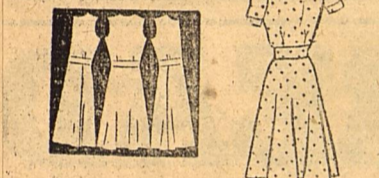

Her skin testified to careful nurturing, and our career lady explained that she had kept it glossed up almost the entire time that she was confined to her bed.

Talking With Reflection Aids Charm

Screwing up a face—known as "mugging"—is rarely a pretty practice. What's more to be dreaded, mugging exacts a wrinkle-tax of cross-hatchings around eyes, furrows in a pretty brow, grooves between cheeks and mouth.

"So, if you're guilty, get busy with creams to iron out lines," urges serene-faced Joan Alexander, heard on radio's "The Open Door," and correct the cause by correcting nervous mannerisms. Give yourself a demonstration of how your face behaves in normal conversation by having an animated tete-a-tete with yourself in the mirror.

Now, if you've followed Joan thus far and don't like what you see in the mirror, she has further suggestions to offer. First, make up your mind to go "dead pan" that is, keep your face absolutely expressionless—until you've licked your muscular habits. Next, make a practice of allowing only your feelings to animate your face. You'll be as pleased as punch to see how much lovelier your face is in action—and how much more attractive to the other fellow.

Once that is accomplished, says Joan, use your creams to grass lines. The job will be easier, now that you have your face under control.

WASTE PAPER needed for Plasma Containers!

Waste paper is such an ordinary thing... yet it may help to save the life of someone dear to you! For paper is playing a vital role in the war today. It makes containers for blood plasma, and food rations; even parachutes to float supplies down to hard-pressed troops in hot corners.

With wood pulp scarce, the paper industry has had to turn to waste paper for raw material. Waste paper is now our No. 1 war material shortage!

Save it, bundle it, turn it in. You'll save lives and shorten the war!

Lightnings to London

By Capt. Bernard W. Crandell

Copyright, 1944, NEA Service, Inc.

Shipping losses were up in March, 1942, and P-38 fighter planes were not getting to England in sufficient quantity. It was decided to fly them across the Atlantic via Labrador, Greenland and Iceland—a daring and novel project. Bombers had flown over but never fighters. This is the story of how it was done.

THE "FUDDY-DUDDIES"

FIGHTERS had been crossing the Atlantic like boys on pogo sticks. The time had finally arrived for the staff officers at Maine headquarters to pack up their troubles and move on. The staffers, naturally, were going to fly across in P-38's, just to see, as they facetiously remarked, whether the trip was actually feasible. In the fighters were Colonels Briggs, Gerhart and Kelsey, and Captain Hough (former 2nd Lieutenant). Gen. Monk Hunter was to ride in the B-17 which led them. These pilots, considerably older than the youths who had gone before them, immediately named themselves the "Fuddy-Duddies" flight.

The Fuddy-Duddies, with whoops of joy and a great creaking of joints, shoved the throttles forward on July 18, at 2:10 p. m., and settled down at Labrador two hours and 50 minutes later. Leaving this base on July 23 in good order, they ran into the inevitable weather half-way across Davis Strait. It was as thick as soup, and the B-17 went straight into it at about 7000 feet. Ice began forming on wings, and soon the planes lost contact with one another. Hough opened the throttle and climbed to 22,000 feet, where he found the top of the overcast. He took his bearings and continued toward Greenland.

He had flown for about 30 minutes when another P-38—this was Kelsey's—came bursting up through the clouds directly in front of him. The overcast was breaking up and soon they spotted Briggs, 5000 feet below them. After picking him up they saw a B-17. Joining it, the three Fuddy-Duddies discovered to their amazement that it was a different one from the Fortress they had started out with.

They tacked on to it, nevertheless, and in another half-hour they saw another B-17 in the distance. They followed it in to Base. The last leg of the long flight from Maine to England went more smoothly, but it was not altogether dull. The nearness of the enemy was brought very forcibly to mind. Several pilots had reported seeing German U-boats, and the Fuddy-Duddies saw with their own eyes that the airman had not been over-exercising their imaginations. They spotted a Nazi submarine on the surface between Iceland and Stornaway, Scotland, but their mission was to deliver fighters, not risk them against submarine anti-aircraft fire just for the pleasure of strafing, so they proceeded on their course.

"The rolling green hills of the United Kingdom were a very welcome sight after our wanderings, and it was with a sigh of relief that we turned in that evening, just eight weeks to the day from our arrival at Manchester (preliminary base in New Hampshire)," wrote one of the pilots.

leave the flight and strike out for Iceland by himself. Hough was saying goodbye to the flight when the B-17 radio operator broke in. He had contacted Iceland, and the Fortress was making the necessary 35 degree change in course which Hough had insisted was necessary. All the planes eventually made landfall at the Iceland base without further incident.

GENERAL HUNTER gave a dinner for his flight at Reykjavik's Borg Hotel. They took off for the United Kingdom the next morning, July 26. Another pilot had joined in the meantime and joined the flight.

Today's hand is one of the luckiest I have seen in a long time. It is not improbable that many players would arrive at a six contract, but now see what happens. The opening club lead is won by South, the declarer. He leads a small spade, and wishing to avoid too many finesses, he plays the nine-spot from dummy—and it holds. The eight of hearts is led, and again the goddess of luck is gracious and the finesse holds. The five of hearts was led and the nine-spot finessed and West showed out. One pair became careless at this point and as a result failed to make the contract. The proper play is to lay down the ace of hearts, then lead another spade take his king of hearts whenever he wishes, because the losing diamond goes on one of the good spades. But interestingly enough, even the diamond finesse works. Not one pair played the hand at spades, although seven-odd can be made without even taking the diamond finesse.

Don't Bother To Wait

CHICAGO — (AP)— The owner of a loop tobacco store who closed his shop when he went to a hospital for a checkup left a sign on the door — intended for would-be burglars. It read: "Burglars Attention! Money and Valuables Removed. In Hospital. Back in a Week, I Hope."

Expose Of Nazi Morals Is Coming To Ritz

A startling drama, literally breath-taking in its revelations concerning conditions in present-day Germany, is promised in "Women In Bondage," the Monogram film which opens an engagement at the Ritz theater Sunday. Gail Patrick and Nancy Kelly are seen in the co-starring roles, heading an exceptional cast which includes Bill Henry, Tala Birell, Gertrude Michael, Alan Baxter, Rita Quigley, Maris Wrixon, Felix Basch, Anne Nagel, Mary Forbes, H. B. Warner and many other popular screen players.

News To Him

TROY, N. Y. — (AP)— A 44-year-old man told the FBI he never had heard of Selective Service. In fact, he said, he didn't know the First World War had ended. His home is atop Berlin Mountain in a rugged section of Rensselaer County.

Bum Guess

CHICAGO — (AP)— Eli Mark, a zoo-keeper, had a .750 record for his obstetrical forecasts for Bebe, a hippopotamus. Three out of four times he was accurate in predicting the date of birth for Bebe's calves. But Mark's point record now could stand revision. In mid-February he said that Bebe was expectant again and that her fifth should arrive "any day." The calf has not been born yet.

DETAIL FOR TODAY

A MATTRESS COVER is a diabolical device designed by the quartermaster corps to cover the G. I. mattress. It is a long canvas sack that's supposed to be slid over the top of the mattress. In some Army posts the MATTRESS COVER is the only object the soldier sees that resembles a sheet. Every week he has an epic struggle with it—a struggle that resembles the saddling of a bucking bronco. The soldier starts out calm, cool and collected and 15 minutes later winds up in a condition difficult to describe. It is not surprising to find a soldier who has been missing for several days all fouled up in his MATTRESS COVER in some remote corner of the barracks.

Joan Barry Tells Of Relations With Charlie Chaplin

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Joan Barry, 24, who in another case alleges that Charlie Chaplin is the father of her child, was recalled to his Mann Act trial Friday for further cross-examination...

Chaplin is charged with transporting her from Hollywood to New York and return for immoral purposes. Her attorney, Jerry Giesler, was headed off by government objections whenever he attempted any reference Thursday to Joan's previous sex experience, if any.

Miss Barry sat erect in the witness chair, her hands tightly clasped in her lap. Once or twice she appeared on the verge of an emotional break as when Prosecutor Charles H. Carr asked her bluntly: "Did you have sexual experience with the defendant during July and August?" (1941).

"Yes," she responded, looking down at her folded hands. Under questioning by Carr she said that during the summer of 1941 she saw Chaplin "oh, very often, probably five or six times a week," mostly at his Beverly Hills home.

Giesler in cross-examination, brought from Miss Barry the statement that she had met the film comedian in May, 1941, after she returned from Mexico City with a letter of introduction from A. C. Blumenthal.

She testified she was intimate with Chaplin about two weeks after she had met him. "Did you consent voluntarily?" Giesler asked.

"Yes," Miss Barry responded, almost in a whisper. "He had had sex relations with anyone before?" Giesler queried, and here Carr's objections cut off her answer.
