Wainwright Set For Visit As Congress Considers Inquiry

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress concerned itself Monday with the hero of Bataan and the culprit—if any—of Pearl Harbor.

It starts the first full week of its "reconversion" session by formally receiving Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright and acting on a resolution for a Congressional investigation into the military disaster of Dec. 7, 1941.

Otherwise on Capitol Hill there was talk on such diverse subjects as a peacetime Navy, surplus property, airports, wages and hours, the atomic bomb and Presidential appointments.

General Wainwright, who finally surrendered the Philippines to the Japanese after a valiant fight, was scheduled to make personal appearances in both the Senate and the House.

But before his arrival, the House hopes to dispose of a Senate-passed resolution calling for the Pearl Harbor investigation.

The lawmakers—dissatisfied with reports of Army and Navy inquiry boards—want an independent study by Congress.

Investigation Almost Cinch
It is almost a cinch that the investigation will be ordered.

The only argument is over who should make it. The Republicans want equal representation. But the Senate resolution and the House Democrats want the usual party lineup—in this case three Democrats and two Republicans from each chamber.

This was the situation on other matters:

Peacetime Navy—Congress heard Monday the Navy wants a postwar fleet of 1,079 fighting ships—just 229 less than it has now. The chairmen of the Senate and House Naval committees—Senator Walsh (D-Mass.) and Rep. Carl Vinson (D-Ga.)—plan to introduce resolutions to permit this.

Surplus Property—High on the House calendar is a bill to replace the three-man surplus property disposal board with a single administrator.

Airports—Although the Senate has no "must" bill ready for action, it may be asked to consider a measure designed to spur civilian airport development. The bill, following in general Presidential thinking along that line, would authorize the government to spend $500,000,000 in the next five years to build 3,000 new flying fields and repair about 1,500 existing ones. States, cities and counties would have to put up the same amount of money as the government.

Wages and hours—Senator Aiken (R-Vt.) will pinch-hit for his Democratic colleague, Senator Pepper (Pa.) in opening hearings on a proposal to hike the minimum wage standard from 40 to 45 cents an hour. Pepper, who introduced the bill, won't be back from a European inspection trip for three more weeks.

Appointments—Capitol Hill confidently expects Truman to appoint Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson to the Supreme Court vacancy left when Justice Owen J. Roberts resigned. Both Patterson and Roberts are Republicans.

Deep Wildcat Is Scheduled To Be Dug In S-W Floyd

By JAMES C. WATSON
Oil Editor

Location for a wildcat to test the Ellenburger, lower Ordovician, in Southwest Floyd County has been reported by unofficial sources.

The project is slated to be George P. Livermore, Inc., No. 1 H. A. Krause-Humble Oil & Refining Company. According to the reports the test will be 660 feet from south and east lines of section 29, block K, T1 survey.

It is only a few miles north of some operator's No. 1 Wiese, in Northwest Crosby County, now making hole under 8,100 feet, in shale, headed for 10,000 feet, or Ellenburger above that level.

Cochran Prospector
Skelly Oil Company No. 1 Dorothy L. Slaughter is classed as a wildcat for Central Cochran County. Operator filed application with the Railroad Commission to drill it 540 feet from south and east lines of a 354.78 acre lease in northwest corner of league 113, Potter County School Land survey.

It is 560 feet north and 1,120 feet west of Texas Gulf Producing Company No. 1 Slaughter, which is trying to remedy pump troubles to complete, as a discovery from the San Andres-Permian, on total depth of 5,963 feet. The development, which is three miles west of closest production in the Slaughter field, swabbed around eight barrels oil per hour on preliminary tests.

Navy Will Release 423,000 Under New Discharge System

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy is lowering the gangplank for 423,000 more prospective civilians.

Effective Saturday, it is adding credit for overseas service to its point discharge system: one quarter of a point for every month of service outside the continental United States since Sept. 1, 1939.

No change was made in the point totals necessary to qualify.

Simultaneously with the Navy's announcement Sunday night, the Army disclosed that it has set next February as the date for completing the return of some 2,000,000 unneeded troops from Europe. It added that more than 1,750,000 men would be back from the Pacific by June.

The latter figure indicated occupation forces in the Pacific would be closer to 690,000 than the 900,000 previously estimated.

Secretary Forrestal said that within six months half the men now in uniform will be out.

Doctors Under System
Doctors were brought under the point system for the first time, with a score assignment of 60.

Other point requirements are 44 for male enlisted men, 49 for male commissioned and warrant officers, except aviators and doctors; 29 for enlisted WAVES and 35 for WAVES officers, nurses and women doctors. Aviators previously were given a reduced score of 44.

Officers and enlisted personnel in the hospital corps were assigned the same point requirements as other branches.

These seven groups will require approval from Washington before obtaining their release.

Shore patrol officers, military government officers, officer special-ists in electric tabulating machines, officers now assigned or in special training for civilian censorship duties in occupied countries, postal service officers, officer graduates of Naval schools of oriental languages, and officers, officer candidates and enlisted personnel enrolled in such schools.

M'Arthur Orders Abolishment Of Military Body

TOKYO (AP)—General MacArthur struck Japanese militarism a death blow Monday by ordering the Imperial General Headquarters abolished.

As supreme commander he issued a directive that the headquarters must dissolve by Sept. 13. General Headquarters was set up in 1940 a few months before Pearl Harbor to coordinate army and navy activity.

While the occupation of Japan moved smoothly, sparks flew in Korea over MacArthur's policy of retaining Japanese officials in office.

Tells Koreans to Comply
In a proclamation, MacArthur told the Koreans the purpose of the occupation by Seventh Infantry Division units was "to enforce the instrument of surrender" and protect them in their personal and religious rights.

Until further orders, all public officials and persons engaged in essential services in Korea were directed to perform their duties as usual and to this country long dominated by the Japanese the general called for "active compliance."

The blow at the Japanese general staff will erase the last symbol of Japanese aggressiveness. It was the tactical organization of the entire military step.

Even as this order was issued by MacArthur, Japanese demobilization was already well under way and trains loaded with hundreds of unarmed soldiers and naval personnel in the home islands were on their way home.

HAMBURG (AP)—Max Schmeling, former world heavyweight boxing champion, Monday was acquitted of an Allied military government court of a charge that he made a false statement to a member of the Allied forces contrary to military government regulations.

The first announcement was made over the Norse radio. Reporters covering the trial were locked in the courtroom and apparently were unable to leave until the end of the session. The last sitting started at 2 p. m. Oslo time and was expected to last at least an hour.

The Oslo radio said the verdict was unanimous.

LONDON (AP)—The Oslo radio announced Monday that Vidkun Quisling had been convicted of charges of high treason and condemned to death.

The pronouncing of the sentence by the court that tried Quisling for cooperation with the Germans during the occupation of Norway was broadcast direct from the courtroom.

A seven man judge and jury panel convicted the former Army major for his treachery in dealing with the Germans who established him as puppet premier during the long Nazi occupation.

2,000 Greet Wainwright At Capital

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright, tired but triumphant, returned to a hero's acclaim Monday from the trials of Bataan and the horrors of Japanese prisons.

The hero of Corregidor arrived at the Capital's National Airport at 11:28 p. m. (OWT). His wife, "Etty," was waiting to greet him as he stepped from an Army transport command plane. It was their first reunion in over four years.

General George C. Marshall, Army chief of staff, accompanied Mrs. Wainwright.

Other high ranking Army officers stood in line to meet the returning hero.

More than 2,000 people and two bands greeted him at the airport.

The Army commander who fought the Japanese on Bataan against overwhelming odds was accompanied here by four comrades who shared that ordeal with him.

They were Brig. Gen. Lewis C. Beebe, Wainwright's chief of staff; Lt. Col. John R. Pugh, and Lt. Col. Thomas Dooley of McKinney, Texas, aides de camps and Tech. Sgt. Hubert Carroll of Paris, Texas, Wainwright's orderly.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Government food officials said Monday no date has been set yet for termination of meat rationing.

With cattle marketings increasing seasonally, supplies of meats, particularly beef and veal, are improving. At the Office of Price Administration it was said however, that the meat supplies have not increased sufficiently yet to warrant ending of rationing.

There has been speculation that rationing would be ended Oct. 1. Aides of Secretary of Agriculture Anderson said that action may be possible but no agreement to that effect has been reached yet between the Agriculture Department and the OPA.

Australia Says Japs Butchered Yanks And Ate Flesh While Alive

American forces, warned by General MacArthur against "undue oppression", quietly occupied the length of Japan and South Korea Monday—while a Chungking source reported a post-surrender Japanese massacre of French in Indo-China, and Australia said Nipponese captors had eaten the flesh of living Americans.

MacArthur's policy of softly-firm control—permitting the Japanese to retain their own government, subject to his orders—drew sparks in Korea, where residents had expected a quick end to Nipponese officialdom. Australia's press and public also scored what it called the "kid glove" peace policy, stressed new atrocity stories, and cheered the blunt statement of their commander-in-chief, Gen. Sir Thomas Blamey, who told capitulating Japanese at Morotai:

"I don't recognize you as an honorable, gallant foe, but you'll be treated with due courtesy in all matters."

Unofficially No. 1 on the list of Japan's war criminals, wartime Premier Hideki Tojo was found living comfortably on his guard-encircled farm on the edge of Tokyo. One source said he was clinging to life until he could prepare his own defense and accuse the late President Roosevelt of being the real No. 1 war criminal—and that he would thereupon commit hara kiri.

Found and questioned by two Associated Press correspondents, however, Tojo brushed aside all such questions; and what he did say gave no indication of approaching suicide.

Chinese Demand Jap's Puppet
In China, where 1,000,000 Japanese troops surrendered at a formal ceremony at Nanking Sunday, Japanese leaders were given a blunt demand that they give up the Tokyo-appointed puppet president of China and seven of his aides.

In Chungking, a recent arrival from Hanoi, Indo-China, said Japanese outposts at Langson, North-ern Indo-China, had reacted to surrender news by slaying the entire French civilian population of 100, including women and children and 500 to 600 French prisoners of war.

Charges that Japanese had eaten the flesh of American prisoners—after they had been used for bayonet practice, but before they died—were made in an official statement by the Australian government. Times and places were not specified. This report, like many others given by the 11,322 Allied prisoners already freed from Japan, was to be submitted to the United Nations War Crimes Commission.

Of those rescued from Honshu camps, 6,000 already are on their way to America. Eighth Army Headquarters reported.

Tojo Says History May Free Japan From War's Responsibility

premier and virtual dictator of Japan from before Pearl Harbor until the Americans took Saipan, replied:

"You are the victors and you are able to name him now. But historians 500 or 1,000 years from now may judge differently."

Changing the subject, he said that he himself had narrowly escaped death May 25 when a Superfortress fire rained his house with flames.

Tojo's home is now, in the Yoda district about an hour's drive from the imperial palace and a half-hour from the Meiji Shrine where the U. S. First Cavalry Division is bivouacked.

When we first saw him, Tojo was lying back in a rickety rattan garden chair, supervising a solitary laborer who was filling in a cellar-like air raid shelter of concrete.

"You burned my three best pine trees," said the man whose armies destroyed most of Asia.

We were taken to the palace by Jintji G. Kasal, a liberal parliamentarian who was graduated from the University of Chicago in 1913 and who acted as interpreter for us.

Kasal said he had visited Tojo only ten days ago to pay his respects for the suicide of the general's son-in-law, Major Koga, who committed hara kiri upon failure of a conspiracy to prevent the emperor's peace announcement from reaching the public.

Tojo's House Partly Western
Tojo's house has been built since Tojo fell from power, and the Japanese say it is far more elaborate than any he would permit to be built under his regime.

The house is a strange mixture of Western and Japanese architecture. A tan stucco front porch makes it look like an ordinary suburban American home, but the main part is entirely Japanese, with big spacious rooms and glass sliding windows and panels.

The house, some sources say, was some sort of bribe.

The politician who earlier informed us of Tojo's plan to accuse Roosevelt of war-responsibility, insisted that the former premier was roundly hated by the Japanese public because he had thus far failed to commit suicide.

The informant begged that he remain anonymous, saying, "If the people knew I visited him they would kill me."

Quoting a friend in the Foreign Office, this informant said Tojo intended to commit suicide as soon as he had made his expected court defense.

Other sources reported that Tojo had amassed a fortune of millions of yen during his tenure of office, most of it coming from the illicit opium trade in China, where high generals acted as couriers to take the drug from North China to Shanghai markets.

Despite his power, Tojo's downfall was a foregone conclusion to the Japanese after the loss of Saipan. These sources said that for days after the island was lost, Tojo's telephone rang and anonymous voices asked his wife, "hasn't Tojo committed hara kiri yet?"

Even thus in disgrace, however, the man who began the war made one final gesture to try to keep Japan fighting.

One of the conspirators who killed the commanding general of the Imperial Guards Division in an effort to prevent surrender news from reaching the public was Tojo's son-in-law. When the plot failed and Major Koga himself committed suicide, Tojo's wife said, "He did a brave, honorable thing."

It seems evident that under the clanlike family relationships existing in Japan, Tojo himself had directed Major Koga's actions.

When we arrived at Tojo's house our interpreter wrote our names on a card and asked the young man to deliver it to Tojo. He departed with a deep bow, but returned quickly to say that Tojo would not see us, could have thrown him readily into secret torture chambers.

Carrying the card, he walked into the garden and motioned us to follow. Tojo, sitting on his chair, had his back to us and was unaware of our approach until we were within a few feet. Kasal then told him the purpose of our visit.

Tojo shook his shaven head vigorously. His face was set and stern. We stood there.

Finally Permits Interview
Finally, with a slight shrug he permitted introductions and held Kasal refused to take no for an answer from the man who once out his hand.

This would-be Napoleon of the Orient is only 5 feet, 4 inches and appears to weigh about 120 pounds.

Nevertheless, he is stocky and appears strong for his 61 years.

He was wearing a white sports shirt and white flannel trousers which had been cut off to make shorts held up by both suspenders and a belt. He had on brown, scuffed shoes of the three-button variety with brown socks.

Tojo obviously was still highly displeased by our intrusion and curtly declined to discuss the war.

Then he apparently decided to make the best of the situation by (Continued on Page Four)

Living With The Atom

It is already evident that Americans are not going to be scared to death by the atomic bomb. Maybe we ought to be sitting in anguished uneasiness on this earth which has suddenly become a powder keg.

But Americans, by and large, are taking the atomic age in their stride. We seem to be accepting it as we accepted Coueism, technocracy, mah jong, Mae West and the Dionne quintuplets. We are beginning to make jokes about it and exploit its commercial possibilities.

Puns are putting in an appearance—puns of such a nature as to make any self-respecting electron break loose from its orbit and run for cover: up and atom, Eve the first Atom-smasher, and so on, to the point where one has atomic ache.

The atom will inevitably appear in a popular song, if it hasn't already. Equally inevitable will be a lot of pictures of bathing beauties, pin-up girls and other curvy creatures, captioned "Anatomic Bombs".

At least one cafe has brought out the Atomic Bomb Cocktail, price 75 cents, and positively only one to a customer.

The sober fact that one atomic bomb is more than sufficient for 50,000 customers is beside the point. For today the atom bomb is a catchword as well as a terrifying, mystifying result of man's wisdom. It has caught the public fancy, and so long as it holds that fancy it will help sell merchandise, from cocktails to adventure stories.

So what? It isn't that Americans, even the punsters and the promoters, don't realize that the harnessing of atomic power is no joke. It isn't that we are completely irresponsible and senseless. Rather it may be that we are showing realistic courage.

The bombing of Hiroshima was one of the stiffest, most sobering jolts that the world of thinking men ever received. Yet a couple of weeks later we Americans were making jokes about it. And perhaps that is just as well.

Atomic power is here to stay, for better or worse, and has got to be lived with. At its worst, it is only another threat of death. And men live with that threat every day, as they have since the beginning of time.

Men stand today on the threshold of what they hope will be a better world. To achieve it they need hope and courage as well as wisdom. And while wisecracks and promotion may not be the ideal means of achieving those qualities, they are certainly preferable to utter discouragement and paralyzing fear.

Balloon Bomb 'Bust'

The characteristic inconsistency of the Japanese in their squawks about the "inhumanity" of the atomic bomb has been emphasized anew by the disclosure that at least 225 of their balloon bombs reached the American continent during the final nine months of the war.

It is true, of course, that the balloon bomb did not compare with the atomic in its destructive potentialities. But the manner in which the balloon weapon was used by the enemy was infinitely more barbaric.

Not even the enemy made any claims as to accuracy for their balloon bombers. The Japs simply released the balloons hoping they might explode with damaging effect somewhere. They knew that the mathematical chances were several thousand to one against them exploding on any military objective. They knew that victims were more likely to be innocent persons than anyone actively connected with our war effort. Indeed, the only victims were six small children on a picnic.

By way of contrast, the American atomic bomb was used as a precision weapon. Only two were dropped, each upon a prime military target.

The difference is that Uncle Sam adhered to the rules of war with his atomic bombs. The Japs, with their balloon bombs, violated all rules of war. The fact that the Jap weapon proved a complete "bust" was due to no lack of desire on the part of the enemy. It was the worst thing he could think of doing under the circumstances, and he did it. The only reason his balloons were not laden with atomic bombs was the fact that he did not know the atomic secret.

Bringing Them Home

The wartime story of the great ships Queen Mary and Queen Elizabeth is a dramatic one. Converted from luxury to drab-hued service early in the war, they crossed and recrossed the Atlantic in black-out secrecy, eluding and outrunning the submarines for which they would have been prime targets.

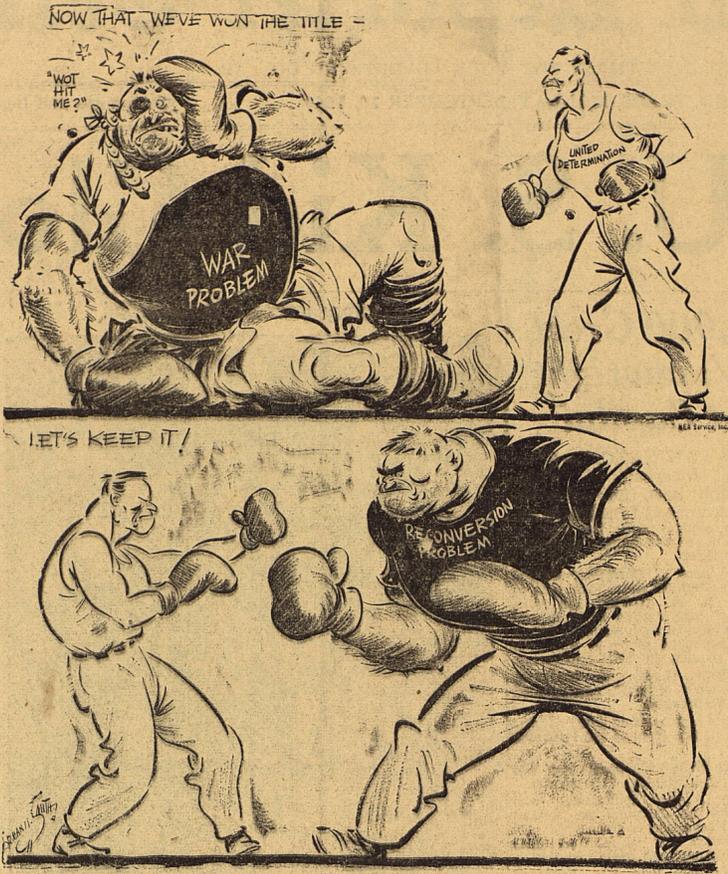

Now, as a fitting climax, they sail proudly into New York with flags flying, bearing home as many as 15,000 cheering American soldiers in one trip.

It is inevitable that the two great Queens should get a good deal of publicity, in picture and story. But we should not forget that these liners are doing only a small part of the job—less than 10 per cent, as a matter of fact.

The great bulk of our men returning from the European battlefields are aboard a never-ending procession of American ships. They are smaller and less famous than the Queens—passenger liners, converted Liberties, Victories, G-type freighters and tankers.

Maybe they aren't very fast or very comfortable. But they are numerous, and they are doing the only job that is important to the men on board. They're bringing them home.

Rep. Lyle Would Turn Bomb Over To Council

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A soldier-turned lawmaker said Monday the secret of the atomic bomb should be passed on to the World Security Council to strengthen its hand in maintaining peace.

Rep. Lyle (D-Texas), who was elected to Congress while fighting the Nazis, disengaged with Senator Connally (D-Texas) on that matter. Connally, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said Saturday he thought the United States should retain the secret but provide the Security Council with bombs and an adequate air force.

Lyle, a former Army major, predicted a mad race between nations to develop and improve the bomb if the secret is not turned over to the world organization.

"We would be stupid to think we could keep this secret to ourselves," he said in an interview. "It is inevitable that other nations will work out the answer. We have no monopoly on scientific brains."

Connally said he thought the United States should also tie up all sources of uranium and other elements necessary to the manufacture of the bomb, as well as holding the secret of its production.

The government expects the total synthetic rubber production in the United States in 1944 to reach 800,000 long tons. Pre-war rubber consumption was around 600,000 long tons.

Marines Want To See Tokyo Rose, Inspect Palace, Climb Fuji

By DUANE HENNESSY
WITH U. S. MARINES, JAPAN
—(P)—Most of all, Marines want to see "Tokyo Rose" — the radio announcer who tried to tear their hearts out and only cheered them with swell jive music.

"She was another Jap failure," says Lt. Elmer Imus of Kingsman, Ariz., holder of four Purple Hearts and father of an 18-month-old child he has never seen. "When we were at Bongalville, she'd harp on the cool ice cream at home and 4-F's going out with our girls and wives."

"That stuff didn't register with us but we always looked forward to her program because she had hot records. I'd like to meet Rosie. She was the best morale builder we had."

Pfc. Francis W. Goslee of Austin, Minn., an apprentice embalmer in civilian life, wants to see how the Japanese prepare their dead.

Many Marines, remembering their schoolyard geography lessons, want to climb Mt. Fuji, Japan's famed mountain.

Simply "to find out how the Japs act and what makes them tick," is the ambition of Don Farr of Bagar, Ariz., another pharmacist mate. "I've never had time to study the little men before," he says, "but maybe now I'll get the opportunity."

Just seeing the imperial palace from the outside won't satisfy Pfc. Arthur W. Gravit of Portland, Ore. "We should order Hirohito to open the palace," he declared, "so we can go through it. I also want to visit Hiroshima. That would be a thrill."

But the most ambitious man of all was Pvt. Henry E. Simmons of Coolidge, Ariz., who wants to ride Hirohito's white horse, either before or after Admiral Halsey. "But," he admits, "I might compromise for just a look at the nag."

State To Crack Down On Motorists Minus Driver's Licenses

AUSTIN—(AP)—The state police plan to crack down on the 250,000 Texans who have no automobile driver's licenses, or whose permits have expired.

Saying it was not a matter of revenue or red tape, Director Homer Garrison of the Department of Public Safety announced that a vigorous enforcement campaign would be started to "keep people from being maimed or killed."

"The impressive fact is that 15 per cent of drivers cause 85 per cent of collisions, and unlicensed drivers figure in more than a proportionate share of them. As traffic volume and fatalities continue to increase, the citizen's obligation to comply with regulatory measures likewise increases. We are headed for a toll of ten lives lost daily in Texas, and it will require drastic action to hold the figure that low when post-war traffic gets into full swing."

Prospectors Find Gold Mine In Ohio Town But Not The Kind You Think

By ROBERT BORDNER
NEA Correspondent
PENINSULA, O. — For months small parties have been prospecting the hills around this little northern Ohio village, digging for gold and extracting samples for assay.

Tight-lipped and non-committal, the searchers discourage questions, elude the curious who would follow them, and so about their hunt.

The first "find" was made last spring—with divining rods! It is gold, all right, though not a native ore!

Art Huey, Peninsula's police chief, and Dale Hall, first assistant chief, were fooling around with some old discarded divining rods one day. The instruments were supposed to be sensitive to gold and silver.

Up Dugway Hill they tried the rods near a place where some stuff had been dumped. A couple of feet down they got a piece of mirror—the old kind with genuine silver on the back of the glass. To their surprise, the things seemed to work, locating watches, coins, and other such.

Art and Dale got so confident of their prowess with the diviners they were willing to bet money on their results. Demonstrating to Mrs. Florence Huey, Art's wife, they handed her a silver dollar and said she could keep it if the rods failed to tell which hand she hid it in.

But the diviners would not point; to her at all. They went the other way. Mystified, they followed toward the shelf of a built-in linen closet.

There, tied in an old pillow slip and long forgotten, they found one of those little hoards of trinkets and jewelry that people save. They undid the bundle, big as two fists, and spread out the treasure.

A heavy old silver crucifix, some gold bracelets, gold rings, a couple of rosaries with silver waters between the beads, a foreign coin and a locket were in the pillow slip.

"The mass of this was so much bigger than that of the dollar that the rods went toward it instead," Dale said. Florence kept the dollar, Talk Less, Prospect more.

From then on, Art and Dale talked less, prospected more. People noticed their trips to the woods, up the deep ravines, along the creek bottoms.

Boys and men began to follow. Some are begging to get into the partnership. Others go off to digging on their own hook.

Holes multiply in the hills. And whenever a stranger approaches a little group talking excitedly these days, silence falls till he passes.

Out of the conference and probably later meetings they expect to bring a program which will get them some votes in the 1946 Congressional elections.

Leaders Are Confident
While not making any public claims at this time, Republican leaders are pretty confident they can wrest control of the House from the Democrats in next year's elections, and thereby improve their position for the 1948 Presidential campaign.

Right now they are 23 seats short of a majority in the House, the line-up being 241 Democrats, 190 Republicans, two minor party members and two vacancies. A majority of the entire membership is 218.

Republicans believe they not only can pick up next year most of the 19 seats they lost in 1944 when Franklin D. Roosevelt was on the ticket, but can take over enough other Democratic districts to give them a clear majority. A strong legislative program, they believe, will turn the trick.

The X-ray was discovered by Roentgen in 1895.

Aids MacArthur

George Atcheson, Jr., above, 48-year-old career diplomat of Denver, Colo., will be acting political adviser to General MacArthur in Japan. A veteran of 25 years' service in the Far East, he was aboard the U. S. river boat Panay when the Japs bombed it in 1937, and recently was named U. S. Ambassador to Thailand.

shu, 1,159 freed from Formosa arrived in Manila. The swiftly, quietly expanding occupation of the empire sent Lt. Gen. John R. Hodge's 24th Army Corps into Southern Korea, landing at Jinsen Sunday and winning earth-shaking cheers as the U. S. Seventh Division raised the American flag over Seoul (Keijo). Cheers turned quickly to jeers when Hodge's headquarters said Japanese officials would be left in office to carry out American orders. Japanese continued their own civil government in Northern Honshu and Hokkaido, into which Vice-Adm. Frank Jack Fletcher sent an occupying Naval task force Sunday; and MacArthur said this policy would be universal; the Japanese will rule themselves, subject to Allied will. MacArthur also emphasized that Japanese, although they must obey his orders, will be free from "all unwarranted interference" with their liberty and property rights. He said occupation troops will be returned to America as soon as possible—the time depending upon how effectively they accomplish their occupation mission. "The consolidation and securing of peace."

Deep Wildcat -

(Continued From Page One) of section 7, block 45, TP survey, T-1-S, and furthest northwest well to be completed in the TXL-Devonian field, in West Ector County, reported official potential test gauge of 284.64 barrels of 41-gravity oil, flowing natural, per day, from pay at 7,950-8,066 feet. Gas-oil ratio was 1,005-1. Robert M. Payne No. 1 McLain, North-Central Pecos County wildcat in section 7, block 2, H&TC survey, was bottomed at 5,322 feet, in Ellenburger dolomite, and was shutdown for orders. Found Sulphur At 5,242-5,322 feet, a 50-minute drillstem test was taken. There was a steady blow of air throughout the test, and recovery was 810 feet of drilling mud, cut with sulphur water, and 2,290 feet of straight sulphur water. Magnolia Petroleum Company No. 1-B Tucker, in north corner of section 25, block 1, H&TC survey, Southwest Crane County discovery in the Waddell-Simpson, swabbed 22 barrels of oil in 20 hours, from perforations at 5,789-5,809 feet, and is now cleaning out at 5,757 feet, over total depth of 5,817 feet. Magnolia No. 1 Coble, in northwest corner of tract No. 34, league 68, Hardeman County School Land survey, exploratory project in West-Central Hockley County, two miles south of closest production on west side of the Levelland field, was coming out with a core from 4,761-68 feet. A core at 4,746-61 feet, recovered three feet of lime. Current level of coring is near depth at which San Andres pay is expected. No Shows Skelly Oil Company No. 1 Sugg, in section 45, block 1, H&TC survey, Irion County wildcat, was bottomed at 8,700 feet, in dry Ellenburger dolomite, and was preparing to plug and abandon. An electric survey had been run. No shows of oil, gas or water had appeared in any tests. DeKalb Agricultural Association, Inc., reported that No. 1 Nora F. Coltharp, 661.6 feet from north and 1,991 feet from west lines of section 12, block A-24, psi survey, in South Gaines County, was good for 144 barrels of oil per day from pay section at 8,970-9,199 feet, in the lower Permian. Official completion report, on this well, which had been shuttin for several weeks, had not been filed. It is one-quarter of a mile south and same distance east of the discovery well for Clear Fork-Permian production in the Doss field. Buchanan Still Active Humble Oil & Refining Company No. 1 Buchanan, in Balchique survey No. 32-892, in East Midland County, reported having set a bridging plug at 11,700 feet. It was understood that operator was to perforate casing above that point and test. No information was released regarding tests which had been scheduled through perforations at 11,900-12,000 feet. Apparently no indications of petroleum developed in that horizon. Humble No. 1 Parker, in section 24, block A-41, psi survey, in South Andrews County, tried two drillstem tests in the Silurian at 8,163-8,254 feet. Both tests failed. It is possible that the owner will undertake another test of the same section shortly. Testing Shows Stanolind Oil & Gas Company No. 1-BB University, semi-wildcat in South Andrews County, and an suspect to initial producer in the Three-Bar field, was on total depth of 7,180 feet, in lower Permian, and was taking a drillstem test, after cores to that point had indicated possibilities of production. John I. and P. D. Moore No. 1 Southland Royalty Company-Waddell, in section 19, block 2, H&TC survey, in South Crane County, had progressed under 7,110 feet, in lime. Informal sources revealed that the project was in, or near the Simpson, middle Ordovician. Swabbing Oil Sinclair Prairie Oil Company No. 1 Williamson, in southwest quarter

Tojo Says Japan Not To Blame -

(Continued From Page One) employing repartee. Throughout life he has done this, with a mental keenness and ability at subterfuge that won him the army nickname of "Razor Brain". "I am filling in my foxhole because there's no more need for it," he said, gesturing to the laborer in the air raid shelter. "I am a farmer now and no more concerned with politics." I. Brines, remarked that Tojo's soldiers had captured me in Manila, and he replied. "Well, you turned around and captured them." When Tojo told about almost being burned up in an American air raid, I. Spencer, said I had dodged Japanese bombs many times. Tojo quickly retorted, "well, plus and minus from nothing leaves nothing. Everything is even now." Is Told Known in U. S. We told Tojo that he was more widely known in America than any other Japanese except the emperor. After a keen glance he shot back, "For good or for bad?" He threw back his head and laughed lustily, showing a mouthful of gold teeth. He laughed repeatedly, but each time his face slid smoothly back into the given impassivity so familiar in his photographs. Finally he seated us at a table in the spacious garden beneath a pine tree which he said was 200 years old. He clapped his hands three times and his daughter came with coffee. Tojo sent her back to get some tomatoes, which he proudly said he had grown on his own land. When we had finished the coffee Tojo brought out a tin can of cigarettes. After the cigarettes, he rose and escorted us to the road where he immediately expressed interest in our jeep, saying it was the first he had ever seen and asking immediately, "Can it be carried by airplane?" We assured him that it could and drove off.

Examining feminine purses accessories which guests left behind, and guessing from their tidy or untidy aspects to whom they belonged. Another was an heirloom snuff box in which one girl carried her vitamin pills.

Agriculture Department Study Shows Texas Has Big Soil Conservation Job

WASHINGTON —(P)—Planning experts of the Agriculture Department figure it would take one man a little over 500,000 years to do all the soil conservation work that should be done in Texas. The estimate wasn't made to kill time; it was part of a comprehensive soil conservation study for the state. The program would provide 574,063 man-years of work. The study is particularly timely because the attention of Congress soon may be focused on soil conservation work. Pending in the House is a bill by Rep. Bob Poage of Waco, already approved by the Agriculture Committee, authorizing the Secretary of Agriculture to requisition tractors, graders, bulldozers and other surplus army equipment and to allocate it by grant, lease or loan to soil conservation districts throughout the country. Actually, Poage's bill is before the House Rules Committee for assignment of a date on which it can come to the floor for action. The Rules Committee was just about to fix a date when the summer recess began. Study Of Land Made The soil conservation study of the Agriculture Department carried a detailed breakdown of the character of land in Texas. The study showed 64,946,000 acres suitable for continuous cultivation, 1,822,000 for occasional cultivation, 66,863,000 for grazing or woodland use, and 1,082,000 suitable only for wildlife. Under a section dealing with various soil conservation practices and headed "remaining to be done," there appears this outline for Texas: 18,195,000 acres of contour planting, 576,000 acres of irrigation development, 90,000 miles of fencing required, 3,910,000 acres grazing land need fertilizing, 2,264,000 acres in pasture need liming, 4,370,000 acres woodlands need improvement cuttings, 5,592,000 acres require prevention of grazing damage, and 2,019,000 acres need fire protection. Farmers Receive $30,582,078 In another and separate report the Agriculture Department disclosed that Texas farmers received $30,582,078 as production aid from the government during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1945. It was the largest amount received by any single state, out of a total of $319,529,878 distributed throughout the country. The Texas payments included $11,057 as production payments, $30,550,297 as conservation payments, $18,085 as parity payments and $2,837 as sugar payments. Irrigation was practised by the ancient Egyptians.

A One-Sided Story

By EPSIE KINARD
NEA Staff Writer

NEW YORK—Today's miss can tog herself out to look like a modern goddess in bare-shouldered styles translated from the Greek.

This provocative new fashion, borrowed from Aphrodite, pops up in all types of summer frocks from dinner dresses to bathing suits and often shows its single-sided self as the topper for a wrap-around or dirdnd skirt.

Giving fashion significance to the bare-shoulder by introducing the Hellenic drape into the costume at some other point, the designer exhibits her tricks in the blue chambray sun-dress, right, combining solid color and stripes. Backing up the Spartan shoulder strap is an apron-type peplum draped obliquely across the front.

More liberties are taken with the Greek shoulder in the dress shown left. This junior frock of flower printed cotton, able to double for day-time and evening wear, owes its unusual look to an eyelet embroidered ruffle which passes over one shoulder and under the other hangs by a single tiny strap.

XIII

THE car sang with speed now as his new foot bore down on the accelerator. He wanted to go faster, to get away forever from Drumhead Hill. The road topped the divide before Brock brought the car to a stop.

"Well . . ." Moya said and he turned toward her soft laughter. "It's like old times." Suddenly she slid her body over against him. They were knee to knee, shoulder to shoulder. Her head was up and back, her eyes dark, expectant, her mouth waiting. Her arms reached up as his went around her, and drew his face down. He kissed her with a sort of fierce abandon, as if with every kiss he would burn from memory the things he wanted to forget.

"Darling!" Moya laughed and there was triumph in it. "You haven't changed a bit. But I knew you hadn't; not really."

"You're the only one who did know it then."

"Am I, my sweet? Kiss me again. I think I've been terribly patient with you, taking all in all."

HILDRETH said, "Thayer, what is the matter? You're going all to eyes. No job's worth it. You did intend giving it up."

"I know. And then when Mr. Tipton came down with meningitis. . . I've been in the department the longest. And somehow assurance that things would continue without loss of momentum was tied up with his getting well." Thayer lifted her shoulders with a deep breath. "So I said I'd stay." Momentarily her eyes met Hildreth's. "Now I'm glad. It's—become important to me, too."

"What do you mean, Thayer?" Her voice was low, tight. "Well—I'm making good at something." Hildreth's sharp gaze bored into her. "Surely things are better between you and Brock."

Thayer said slowly, "In the beginning there were two against me: Mrs. Kittridge and Moya. Two convinced that my marriage to Brock was a mistake."

"And now?"

"Now there are three."

"I can't believe that, Thayer. That boy loves you."

"Does he? The first day he came home wearing his artificial leg he slipped in front of me. He looked at me as if he hated me."

"Oh, I know, child; he's young and foolish—and proud."

"So am I proud, Aunt Hildreth." Abruptly Thayer rose. "I must go."

"Don't go. Talk to me, Thayer. You need someone."

"No—no, I can't talk. I've got to work things out myself." Then she swung suddenly to the older woman. "You see, I knew the other Brock, Aunt Hildreth. That's why I haven't quit. I'm working at the plant—to give Mr. Tipton a chance; I'm sticking here—to give Brock his. His mother loves him, Moya loves him; all right, but it isn't the kind of love that will make him want to stand up and fight back at life again." Her hands clenched tightly. "It's important that Brock be that sort of person again. He's—got to be. It's important. . ."

"Thayer . . ."

The girl's voice broke suddenly. "Don't keep me. I've got to go. She was down the steps before Hildreth could speak. She did not look back. Tears were blinding her eyes. "It's important," she whispered to herself chokingly. "It's important."

THE big Kittridge house seemed deserted and still as Thayer let herself in. Ahead of her the stairs showed their polished treads. To climb them seemed suddenly too great an exertion. In a little while maybe, wearily she turned and went through the French doors to the terrace.

Then she stopped, like someone held motionless in the cobweb of a dream. Two figures were standing in close embrace. Dazed, Thayer saw the upreaching of Moya's face, the arms about Brock's neck with which she strained him to her.

Some awareness of an intruding presence touched them. For an instant the scene was a tableau, then they drew apart, stood facing her. There was neither guilt nor fear in Moya's face; Brock's was blank, washed of all expression.

Moya spoke first. "Well, Thayer, after all, pretenses are foolish. And you've really known all along, I guess."

"Know that from the day Brock came home you were determined to get back what you'd lost? Yes, I've known that, Moya. That you'd try it on the basis of old-time friendship; yes, I knew that. I knew, too, that I couldn't compete with you on those terms."

"Could you on any terms, Thayer?" Cool and triumphant, the voice.

"I thought so. Because you see, Moya, the Brock I knew was not the one you knew at all. You loved a boy; I loved a man. And so I wanted from him the things that a man can give."

"Well, if you think . . ." Moya interrupted.

"Thayer went on as if she had not spoken. "You're satisfied with the little, Moya. You and Brock's mother. I'm not; I never shall be. This isn't the Brock I knew. If there were no more to it than that, you could have him—and welcome. I wouldn't want what you've got now. This is today; it's tomorrow that I want. For that other Brock is there—under all that sympathy you've weakened him with. To me he's worth fighting for. Once maybe I wouldn't have had the courage for such a fight, but I have now. So you see, Moya, I'm not stepping aside. I'm fighting to the last ditch, not for the Brock you think you've won, but for the man I married."

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

By WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY
America's Card Authority

Just before the summer national tournament Lieut. (sgt) Oswald Jacoby returned to civilian life and it did not take him long to get back on the list of tournament winners. When the war broke out in 1941, Jacoby was playing in the fall nationals open pair event at Richmond, Va. He and his partner were right up among the leaders but Jacoby dropped out and returned to Washington and has served with the Navy ever since.

The world championship Masters team-of-four title was won this year by Jacoby and his teammates, Howard Schenken, T. A. Lightner, Sam Fry, Jr., and Edward Hynes, Jr. This is a total point knockout event similar to rubber bridge. That is the reason why Jacoby jumped to three no trump on today's hand after his partner had shown three suits. He played a small heart from dummy on the opening lead, West won with the king and elected to return a heart. Jacoby won with dummy's ace, finessed his queen of diamonds, cashed the ace and let East in with a diamond. East could have cashed the queen of hearts, but with a natural desire to defeat the contract, he shifted to a spade. Jacoby won with the ace in dummy and spread the hand, claiming the balance of the tricks.

Drill Is Stolen In Burglary Here

A quarter-horse power drill was taken from the Branch and Shepard building Saturday or Sunday night in the fourth burglary reported in Midland within the past week.

Sheriff Ed Darnell said the drill apparently was all that was missing. The thief broke out a window. The drill was near the window and he could reach through the window and get the drill without entering the building.

Policeman Picks Up Box—And $39,750

KANSAS CITY, MO.—(AP)—Orville Lashbrook, a Kansas City policeman, grew furious Sunday when he stumbled across a paste-board letter file lying in a vacant lot.

So he opened it. And inside were $39,750 worth of "E" War Bonds, which had been stolen a week ago from the E. E. Carpenter home in Kansas City.

But, the 400-pound safe in which the Bonds were kept still is missing.

Midland Soldiers Due In From Europe

Snead To Entertain McCloskey Vets After Winning Prize At Dallas Open

DALLAS—(P)—Slammin' Sammy of the Virginia Sneads, sub, hied himself down to Temple Monday to give a golfing exhibition for the wounded veterans of McCloskey General Hospital, $2,000 in War Bonds tucked in his pocket for winning the Dallas Open.

Vic Ghizzi of Deal, N. J., who finished seventh in Sunday's tournament windup, also will go to McCloskey Hospital to demonstrate golf shots to the veterans, but other members of the touring professional links troupe, except Byron Nelson, who has a dinner date in Fort Worth, were on the way to Tulsa to participate in an invitation tournament scheduled to open Thursday.

Snead registered his fourth sub-par round—a four-under 68—on the Dallas Country Club course Sunday in finishing with a total of 276 for the 72 holes. That was 12 under par for the four rounds and the drawing Hot Springs, Va., stylist had a four-stroke lead over that habitual runner-up, Harold (Jug) McSpaden of Sanford, Me., in third place with 281 was Nelson, the Toledo, Ohio, umbrella man who is golf's leading money winner, while little Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., was fourth with 285. The fifth spot went to an amateur, Wally Ulrich of Brooks Field, San Antonio, who had 287.

SAYS SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE:

Despite Victory Used Fat Saving Must Go On!

Every woman in America should know that our country continues to face a serious fat shortage. And victory over Japan won't solve the problem immediately. We must keep on saving used fats in our kitchens!

If you have any thought that saving used fats is one of those wartime chores we can drop, now that Victory is here, please consider these facts and tell them to your neighbors.

America still needs salvaged fats. Not even at the peak of our war effort, when fats were required for mountains of shells and bombs, medicines, in addition to ever-present need for soap, were our needs for salvaging fat greater than now. Our stocks have been drained by four long years of war, and there isn't enough on hand to meet all requirements.

Don't let "Victory psychology" blind you to this national need! If housewives stop saving fats now, the shortage will become even more critical.

Don't let a single drop of used fats go to waste! Little trimmings of fat left on plates, even the skimmings of soups and gravies are important. It is the consistent saving of these small amounts that counts.

Don't turn in fats that can be re-used! But some fats, such as those rendered from lamb and mutton, are not suitable for re-use. Put them immediately in the salvage can. And, with other fats, after you've got all cooking good out of them, there is always a little left. No matter how little it is, save it.

Your butcher will still give you 4c and 2c points for every pound you turn in. Save consistently—save every drop you can—every day—until Uncle Sam says the job is done.

long trips and he spent last summer teaching the cage game in Europe—traveling by air.

High Fliers
"Faculty groups," Hobby points out, "usually feel that more than a few days away from school is undesirable. . . . In our basket ball trips to New York, it has been necessary to take nearly three weeks for the trip, as we need to break it up by playing several games on route. . . . By air, we could play a game in New York Saturday night and the boys could be back in the classroom on Monday morning. . . . It seems to me that this is definitely the answer for team travel in all sports."

League of Nations
While in Italy, Hobson taught basket ball to Italian coaches and spent a week at the British sports school at Benevento. . . . Italy already has hundreds of teams and got a look at some of the 1200 service teams that played last season. . . . Guido Grassiani, coach of the 1936 Italian Olympic cage team, told Hobson that he thinks basket ball will replace soccer as Italy's leading sport within a few years and he favors importing American teams to help the game's development. . . . Major Geoffrey Dyson, peacetime coach at Loughborough College, has similar ideas about basket ball in Britain—including the invitations to American teams. . . . And Hobby adds that air travel would make playing in Europe as easy as it now is for a Western team to play in the East.

MAAF Tennis Team Wins Championship
The doubles team from Midland Army Air Field, Lt. Robert G. Wilson and Lt. Maurice R. Fincher, won the championship in the central CFTO divisional tournament Sunday at Waco.

Both of the MAAF players are former civilian collegiate stars from the University of Texas, and they took the Waco tourney in straight sets.

Lieutenant Wilson, who hails from Tulsa, was an Oklahoma champion before entering the Armed Forces and he was runner-up in the Heart of America tournament in Kansas City several years ago.

Lieutenant Fincher, whose home is in Abilene, was one of the stalwarts of the University of Texas team and was an outstanding contender in various pre-war tennis tournaments in Texas.

Canadian Veteran Hurls First No-Hit Game Of Season

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
The stirring big league pennant races were forced to share the spotlight Monday with a 21-year-old Canadian army dischargee who returned to the baseball front only 24 days ago.

The former soldier, Dick Fowler, righthanded hurler of the Philadelphia Athletics, celebrated his first 1945 starting assignment for the Mackmen Sunday by hurling the season's first no-hitter to whip the St. Louis Browns 1-0 in the second game of a double header. The A's also won the opener 6-2.

In spinning his masterpiece, Fowler allowed only five balls to be hit out of the infield and walked four, but two of these were erased by double plays. Fowler had made two brief appearances in relief earlier in the month.

First Since May, 1944
The last previous no-hitter in the majors was pitched by Clyde Shoun for Cincinnati against Boston May 15, 1944. Bobby Feller of Cleveland was the last American Leaguer to accomplish the feat, against the Chicago White Sox on the opening day in 1940.

The hectic American League flag race entered the final three weeks of the season with the first place Detroit Tigers only one game ahead of the persistent Washington Senators following Sunday's double triumph by the Nats and a victory and tie by the Bengals.

Mickey Haefner, sturdy little southpaw, had little trouble annexing his sixteenth victory in a 4-2 opening game triumph for Washington over the White Sox. But Santiago Ulrich had to come to the rescue of his fellow Latin elbower, Alex Carrasquel in the nightcap to eke out a 5-4 decision for Ossie Bluege's men.

The Tigers also were forced to stage late inning rallies to vanquish the Boston Red Sox 6-3 in the first and obtain a 3-3 11-inning tie in the second. Catcher Paul Richards was the whole show for the Bengals in the opener. His three doubles socked in five of the six runs including three in the ninth, and he scored the other himself.

Cubs Retain Lead Marginal
The feverish National League title chase remained at a stalemate when the top-perched Chicago Cubs and the second rung St. Louis Cards each swept their twin bill leaving the Bruins still three and a half games in front.

The Cubs made short work of the Braves as Ray Prim and Claude Passeau, in rare form, prostrated the Hubmen 9-1 and 4-0.

The Redbirds had to win theirs the hard way. After coming from behind to sneak in with the opener 3-4, they made it two successive one-run decisions over the New York Giants by winning the second 3-2.

The season's record crowd of 72,152, saw ex-Gob Bob Feller outpitch ex-GI Spud Chandler to pave the way for a Cleveland 10-3 and 4-3 double win over the New York Yankees at the Yankee Stadium, and practically eliminate the Bronxites from any flag consideration.

In the other twin bills, Cincinnati came from behind twice to win both contests from Brooklyn 6-5 and 6-4, needing 10 innings to take the first. Al Lakeman drove in the winning runs in both contests. The Phils and Pirates split. After Walter (Boom Boom) Beck gained his sixth straight triumph for Pittsburgh 4-3 in the opener, Philadelphia jumped on three Buc hurlers for 24 hits and a 14-3 decision in the nightcap.

PHILADELPHIA—(P)—Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, says Dick Fowler's 1-0 victory over the St. Louis Browns was the first no-hitter in Shibe Park in 22 years.

What are the FACTS about the Men's Clothing Situation?

Reports imply that because large stocks of raw wool are available, men's clothing will be plentiful again almost immediately.

It is true that there are large stocks of wool in warehouses. However, the making of fine clothing is unlike most manufacturing processes in that no mechanical substitute has yet been found for deft human fingers. Tailors must serve long years as apprentices before they are equipped to take their places beside the old-time skilled craftsmen of Hart Schaffner & Marx.

For the present our selection of Hart Schaffner & Marx clothing will necessarily be somewhat limited. If you don't find just what you want in our stocks on your first call, won't you please be patient with us and come back later?

The quality of these good clothes is better than ever before in the long history of this foremost maker of the world's most widely preferred clothing. Believe us, they are truly worth waiting for.

A Small Thing to Look For A Big Thing to Find

THE WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The Big Five Council of Foreign Ministers, meeting in London Tuesday, will in effect constitute a clinic which will give Europe a drastic overhauling and determine the real state of peace's health.

This council was established at the Potsdam meeting of the Big Three. The nucleus, of course, is America, Russia and Britain—to which France and China were added. The task assigned the council was "to continue the necessary work for the peace settlement." It was specified that the treaty with Italy would be first on the list.

Now the very nature of this assignment means that the foreign ministers are bound to uncover any weaknesses in the relations of the Big Five. Of special moment will be the status of the relationship among the Big Three, upon which so largely depends the maintenance of world peace. We shall learn whether the divergence of views—which certainly exists in some particulars among this mighty trio—is serious.

This is to say, the affairs of Italy are so complicated that other problems likely will have to be solved before a treaty can be drawn up. The way things look now, the badly tangled skein of Balkan politics will have to be straightened out, and that is one of the hot-spots where Russia, on the one hand, and the Anglo-American Allies, on the other, don't see eye to eye.

This whole argument revolves about the spread of Communism in Eastern and Southeastern Europe. It will have to be ironed out, and so far as one can see it will fall to the Council of Foreign Ministers to do it, for their clinic not only will diagnose but prescribe.

Cotton Prospect In Texas Remains At 2,100,000 Bales

AUSTIN—(P)—Cotton prospects shifted in some districts, but the statewide outlook for production of 2,100,000 bales for 1945 remained generally unchanged as of Sept. 1, the United States Department of Agriculture reported Monday.

There was some improvement in prospects in the Northwest districts and the blacklands, but offsetting losses occurred in East Texas and the coastal area, where the crop was damaged by the hurricane.

The prospective production of 2,100,000 bales compares with 2,545,000 last year, and the 10-year (1934-43) average of 3,112,000.

Yield per acre will average out of approximately 162 pounds which is slightly better than the 10-year average, the USDA said.

Lt. Gen. Thomas Holcomb is the seventeenth commandant of the Marine Corps and first to hold rank above major general.

Livestock

FORT WORTH—(P)—Trade in cattle and calves was slow here Monday, with the few early sales on killing classes weak to 25 lower. Cattle 3.00; calves 3.00; yearlings active, steady; practically no early sales on good and choice steers and yearlings; a few medium steers and yearlings at 11.50-13.00; medium and good beef cows 9.00-12.00; 4000 and choice fat calves 11.75-13.00.

Hogs 100; steady and unchanged at 6.00; good and choice hogs 150 lb. and up 14.55; sows 13.80; pigs were scarce.

Sheep 9.50; steady to 25 higher; medium to good spring lambs sold at 11.00-12.50 and good shorn spring lambs with No. 2 pelts brought 10.50; cull and common springers sold at 7.00-10.00; good aged 90 lb. spring lambs cashed at 10.50; good aged sheep sold at 5.00-5.50, with common and medium kinds at 4.00-7.50; culls brought mostly 3.75.

The first Marines, recruited in Philadelphia in 1775, were paid $6 a month and given a daily ration of rum.
