NUMBER SEVENTEEN

THIS IS ALL that is left of a 40x200 foot chicken house on the Willie Peiser farm, about 12 miles east of Haskell on the Throckmorton highway. The chicken house was hit by a tornado late Thursday afternoon, it was scattered across the pasture for 100 to 150 yards. Peiser was using the house for storage and a camp trailer was inside, but did not have a mark on it after the building was lifted up and scattered over the pasture. Haskell had 1.22 of rain in the cloud that crossed over Thursday afternoon. (Photo by Don Comedy)

Isbell Makes Statement To Voters

May 1st, is election day in Texas and each voter will be charged with the responsibility of selecting those individuals who will best represent them in government for the next four years.

Voters in Precinct 3, Haskell County, will choose the man they think will best represent them in county business for the next four years.

I have lived in the Precinct since 1933 except for the time during World War II while I was in the Armed Forces, and am familiar with our needs. I feel that I am qualified to help fulfill these needs.

If elected Commissioner of Precinct 3, I will do all I can to fulfill the following promises: honesty and integrity in all decisions; equal treatment for all individuals and organizations; to represent all people of Precinct 3 and Haskell County to the best of my ability; to be fair in all my dealings; to use my best judgement at all times and seek advice from those who are better informed; have a cooperative spirit toward the other three commissioners and County officials. The building and maintaining of roads will have my undivided attention. Minimum taxation and economy in spending tax money.

If elected as your Commissioner, my ambition is to make you one of the best commissioners you have had. I solicit your vote and your influence in this endeavor and will do everything possible to maintain honesty, integrity and trust in County government and equal treatment for everyone so far as in my power to do so.

Thank you,
Allen (Jiggs) Isbell

Garrett Makes Statement To County Voters

With the first primary only a few days away, I would like to take this opportunity to solicit your consideration and vote May 1.

I firmly believe in the old adage. . . "one good term deserves another."

The good people of Haskell County know my record of service and I believe that with my experience and also the experience of my certified deputies will enable the Sheriff's Department of Haskell County to give even better service for another term. I will deal fairly and impartially with all who come under my jurisdiction.

During the time I have served as your sheriff, I have always done my best to handle the duties of the office in a fair and impartial manner.

I would like to point out to Haskell Countians that the duties of Sheriff has more than doubled since I first took office. I have tried to see as many of the voters as possible but, due to stressing business of the office has kept me from contacting everyone in person, so please take this message as a personal solicitation of your vote and influence.

Again let me say that I appreciate the wonderful cooperation from the people of Haskell County in the past and I want each of you to know that I will appreciate your continued support.

This was two more accidents, two less killed, and 44 more injured in 1976 at the same period of time.

The 15 traffic deaths for the month of March, 1976, occurred in the following counties: Two each in Childress and Parmer; and one each in Baylor, Hockley, Lubbock, Lynn, Wise, Hansford, Hardeman, Hutchinson, Potter, Swisher, Wilbarger.

Newton Makes Statement To County Voters

For the past three months, I have contacted most of you, but to those I have missed please accept this as a personal solicitation for your support in the May first primary.

It was after long and serious thought about the duties of the sheriff's office that I decided to ask for the job. I have lived in Haskell County all my life, reared my family here, served twelve years as county commissioner of precinct two, and attended schools at Weinert, Haskell, and Mattson. After high school, I attended North Texas State at Denton where after one semester I received my call to my country. I served approximately three and one half years, most of it in the Pacific. While doing my part in helping defend our wonderful country so that you as a citizen could have a choice in elections, I had the misfortune of receiving the purple heart. After my discharge from the Army in 1946, I married Wanda Mapes. The Lord took her home in 1971. We had three daughters all married. Mrs. Ronnie Adams teaches in Haskell schools; Mrs. Kay Graham has a beauty shop in Stephenville; Mrs. Lanny Ivy is a homemaker and mother in Anson. Three years ago I married Letha Carter, daughter of Coyt and Lottie Hix. Teresa our daughter is a junior in high school. I belong to First Baptist Church in Haskell, having served on year as president of the Men's Bible Class. Letha and Teresa belong to the Church of Christ. We all worship the same Lord.

If you feel it is time for a change in the Sheriff's department, I ask you for your vote on May first. Striving always to make our communities of Haskell County a better place for our young people to live and grow, I promise if elected to carry out the duties of the office in a fair, impartial, and honorable way at all times.

VA News

Richard L. Roudebush, Administrator of Veterans Affairs, announced today he had selected a 624-acre tract of land at the Quantico Marine Corps Base, Va., as the site for a new National Cemetery.

Actual establishment of the cemetery is contingent upon transfer of the site to Veterans Administration jurisdiction, and Roudebush said he will formally request the Department of the Navy to make the land available.

The planned new cemetery at Quantico, which is located 35 miles south of Washington, D.C., was chosen by the VA Administrator after officials in VA's National Cemetery System had inspected 13 possible sites in a quest to provide an alternative to the rapidly-filling Arlington National Cemetery.

The National Cemetery System was transferred to VA from the Department of the Army in 1973, and VA has since announced plans to establish new cemeteries near Riverside, Calif., and Falmouth, Mass., in addition to the Quantico site. These are the first National Cemeteries to be established since 1950.

Roudebush approved a VA Site Board Report recommending the Quantico location after making an on-site inspection at Quantico this past weekend in the company of Odell W. Vaughn, VA's Deputy Administrator.

Roudebush said that the Marine Corps has permitted a right of entry to the land at Quantico to permit preliminary surveying by the VA.

"An architect-engineer firm has been selected and when the transfer of the land has been completed we will be in a position to negotiate for a master plan design."

The VA included $600,000 in its fiscal year 1976 budget for establishment of a national cemetery in the Washington area.

Slimming Down the Irish Potato

Although almost every country has developed a potato dish which has become a specialty, to Americans Ireland always seems the home of hearty potato cookery.

The Irish enjoy potatoes as much as Limerick ham or a drop of fine Irish whiskey. They have created from the basic tuber (which originated in Peru) both plain and fancy dishes, such as Champ and Colcannon.

If you have a few pounds of potatoes you want to incorporate into a meal you might start with a highball of Paddy Irish Whiskey, one of the finest quality spirits from the Emerald Isle. Much lighter than years ago, fine Irish like Paddy has a lively, non-smokey flavor that suits a pre-dinner drink, especially if it's a hearty menu. Then offer a platter of grilled shoulder chops with green salad, and a heap of Irish potato cakes.

It's important to note that it's not the potato that is fattening, only the rich fixings that go with it. For sour cream substitute plain yogurt, only 3 calories per tablespoon. For butter, a tablespoon of diet margarine gives you only half the calories. Butter-flavored salt has almost no calories, as well as imitation bacon bits. Diet salad dressing, especially blue cheese, tastes great mixed into a baked potato and so does canned beef broth thickened with a little flour to make imitation gravy.

Potatoes ClanWilliam, with cheddar cheese melted over the top, or potato cakes too, can be reduced in calories by using certain ingredients. But the flavor of these Irish favorites remains, a good follow-up to a Paddy Irish Whiskey relaxer.

Potatoes ClanWilliam

Scoop flesh from baked potatoes, mash with a little milk. Stir in grated sharp cheddar to taste, fresh minced onion and imitation bacon bits. Put mixture back into empty shells, dot with diet margarine, rebake in preheated, very hot oven for 10 minutes until tops are golden brown.

Irish Potato Cakes

Mix 2 cups flour with 2 1/2 tbsps diet margarine and pinch of salt. Mix in 1 1/2 cups mashed potato and 1/2 cup milk to make a soft dough. Roll out on floured board, cut into rounds, sprinkle each with a few caraway seeds. Bake in hot oven for 20-30 minutes. Serve hot, each cake split across middle and spread with margarine. Makes about 9 cakes.

Pratie Oaten

Mix 2 cups warm mashed potatoes with 1 cup fine oatmeal to form a soft dough with 1/2 cup diet margarine to bind the mixture. Roll out on oatmeal-scattered board, cut into shapes, saute in a little corn oil and serve hot. Makes about 15.

Mental Retardation

Editor—This is one of a series of articles about Mental Retardation prepared by Mrs. Eugene Cochran and the Public Education Committee of the Texas Association for Retarded Citizens.

"DON MILLER SCHOLARSHIP FUND"

Don Miller was a 21 year old college student at Angelo State University when he died quietly in his sleep in May 1974. You would ask just what was so special about that?

Don was a TAR, (Teens Aid the Retarded) as are several thousand young Texans, and spent many volunteer hours making life a bit brighter for retarded persons in and around the San Angelo area. He assisted with establishing new TARS units in Abilene and Brownwood, and held offices at the local and state levels in the organization. Don seldom missed a Saturday morning at the bowling alley giving assistance in technique and keeping scores and later in the same day could be found at the ARC Activity Center playing checkers with a retarded friend or making one of many phone calls necessary as an officer of the TARS.

Don served the retarded as a TAR for nearly 7 years—which made him one of the "oldest" TARS in the organization. He rarely missed a meeting or an activity. Don was every inch a dedicated TAR for each day of those 7 years and his purpose was giving, his goal was helping, his motto was "love and concern" for all retarded persons.

During the time that Don was so completely involved in TARS, he continued his great thirst for education and was determined to achieve the ultimate... a college degree!

What made this TAR so very special? Don was the victim of muscular dystrophy—the dread crippler of young people. Dystrophy handicaps its victims, but Don was not destined to be an embittered invalid whiling away his hours in worthless self-pity though confined to a wheel-chair for many years and totally dependent on others to assist him in assisting others. Don, assisted by a retarded boy, and fellow TARS completed a 20 mile Hike-Bike on 2 different occasions to raise money for programs for the retarded.

Don Miller with his determination, humor, conviction and above all his willingness to place the welfare of others always before himself has set himself apart from all others. He gave when he could have been given to... laughed when he could have cried and fought for the happiness of others when he might well have despaired for himself. His name was Don... a very big person.

Little wonder that with his passing, those of us who knew and loved him felt there could be no more fitting tribute to this fine young man than an

If LACIE is the answer, then what is the question? Well... it might end up as the answer to "How can the government spend a lot of money?", or it could be the answer to "How can we accurately predict crop results without on-sight inspection?". Scientists are hoping it answers the second question since, if so, planning for U.S. farmers could be greatly simplified. LACIE is the fast way of saying Large Area Crop Inventory Experiment. Purpose of the experiment is to determine better ways of obtaining information on growing crops by satellite surveillance. Specifically, the tests involve a special kind of "photography"... using instruments which measure the amounts and intensities of heat or light reflected from the land. Researchers say there is a good chance the new devices can become sophisticated enough to accurately report crop conditions not only in the United States, but from any place in the world.

The fund will be maintained through contributions from individuals and organizations throughout Texas. Fish Farming in the South Can Increase Our Meat Supply

By Robert L. Haney

TAES Science Writer

Freshwater fish, produced on "fish farms," are expected to become a major U.S. meat product in the next few years.

Present annual production of less than 100 million pounds of fish could be increased tenfold if current research efforts are successful in solving industry problems.

The climate and topography of the Southern Region of the United States is ideally suited to aquacultural production (fish farming in ponds.)

This intensive type of fish production has two main advantages: it permits control of fish quality and produces a dependable, predictable supply of fish.

Fish are ideal food for the diet-conscious consumer because they are low in fat and carbohydrates and have generous amounts of vitamins, minerals and proteins.

They're also extremely efficient converters of feed into food. With a conversion ratio of 1 pound of flesh for each 1.5 pounds of food received (1:1.5), catfish are much more efficient meat producers than cattle (1:9) or poultry (1:2.5).

But aquaculture is an infant industry, and many problems remain to be solved. One of the problems, for example, is that the intensive, efficient culture of fish requires maintaining them under abnormally crowded conditions. Like all other animals, fish are subject to a variety of diseases, and under crowded conditions diseases of little significance in nature can be devastating to the fish farmer.

In response to the need to develop answers to such problems and provide diagnostic assistance to the developing aquaculture industry, the College of Veterinary Medicine at Texas A&M University—through the auspices of the National Sea Grant Program and the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station—developed a research program on diseases of marine and freshwater aquatic animals.

The most significant disease problems of both marine and freshwater species are those related to bacterial infections, according to Dr. Don Lewis of the Department of Veterinary Microbiology.

The Aquaculture Center of TAES offers an ideal research area for Lewis' interest in bacteriology. "It should be emphasized," Lewis says, "that those agents that cause disease problems in fish do not ordinarily pose health problems to man or other warm-blooded animals."

"In the past year, much of our research effort on freshwater fish has been directed toward catfish diseases caused by a bacterium known as Aeromonas hydrophila."

The disease it causes, known as bacterial hemorrhagic septicemia, affects all ages of fish and most species of warm water fish (including pet fish).

In many cases the disease development is triggered by warm temperatures, transport or handling of fish, spawning, etc. In other cases the disease is due to the introduction of a highly virulent strain of the bacterium.

"We have been working on research aimed at developing vaccines that would control fish diseases. We found that when killed bacteria were injected into the fish, they, like other animals developed antibodies, proving that vaccinating fish is feasible."

"However, it's not practical to vaccinate fish by injection, so we've been looking for alternatives. One possibility, the oral route, used food containing killed bacteria. Preliminary data suggest that this is one possible way to immunize fish.

"Other means are being considered such as bathing fish in solutions containing the immunizing agent. A vaccine for bacteria hemorrhagic septicemia of fish may be possible in the not so distant future. Similar principles are applicable to other bacterial and virus diseases of fish."

"In marine fish, a similar group of bacteria known as vibrios affect marine fish and shrimp. Our research on marine species is similar to that of freshwater fish. We are analyzing the bacteria, attempting to refine detection methods and determine the response to bacteria."

"But the concept of mariculture is even more recent than freshwater fish culture, so much of our research is concerned with identifying causes of disease problems."

"Information generated from such research activities has been useful in developing two courses on fish diseases, a course on aquatic microbiology, and a course on marine mammal medicine. Currently, the College of Veterinary Medicine at Texas A&M University is one of only two or three veterinary colleges in the United States where research and training is being conducted in the area of aquatic animal medicine," concluded Lewis.

Such research on aquaculture and mariculture can radically increase fish production, so it becomes an increasingly important source of food in the future.

Your Favorite Chicken Recipe Could Be Contest Winner

It's National Chicken Cooking Contest time again. Each year this oldest of the major cooking competitions (the first one was held in 1949) inspires enthusiastic interest among creative people who like to cook and eat chicken.

Over the years there have been hundreds of lucky cooks who have brought home top prize money and many more who won expense paid trips to interesting American cities where the national cook-offs were held. In The National Chicken Cooking Contest there are 51 finalists - one from each state and the District of Columbia. In most areas preliminary cook-offs will determine the state finalists.

This year, historic Philadelphia is the site of the national cook-off. Here, on July 14, finalists will cook for one of the five major prizes - the $10,000 top prize and another $10,000 to be divided among 4 runners up.

Rules of the contest are simple. Each recipe (more than one may be submitted) must feature broiler-fryer chicken, at least 1/4 cup Mazola corn oil and 1 teaspoon Ac'cent flavor enhancer. Include name, address, telephone number and birth date (entrants must be at least 18) on each recipe. Entries must be postmarked by April 1. Mail to: National Chicken Cooking Contest, P.O. Box 2200, Westbury, New York 11591. For a complete set of rules and official entry form, write to: National Chicken Cooking Contest, 614 Madison Building, 1155 Fifteenth Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20005.

Judges will evaluate recipes on four points: Simple enough to appeal to most people; different enough to be interesting; flavor and appearance; and adapted from the 1973 North Carolina finalist's recipe, meets all contest requirements.

Mandarin Spiced Chicken

 1/4 cup corn oil
 1 can (10 1/2 oz.) chicken broth
 2 tablespoons brown sugar
 1 tablespoon minced onion
 1 teaspoon flavor enhancer
 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
 1/2 teaspoon ground ginger
 1/4 teaspoon ground nutmeg

1/2 teaspoon ground cloves
 1/4 teaspoon pepper
 1 can (11 oz.) mandarin orange segments
 2 tablespoons corn starch
 1 tablespoon cider vinegar
 Heat corn oil in fry pan over medium heat. Add chicken and brown on all sides. Stir together chicken broth, sugar, onion, flavor enhancer, salt, ginger, nutmeg, cloves and pepper. Pour over chicken. Cover and simmer 30 minutes or until fork can be inserted with ease. Remove chicken and keep warm. Drain oranges, reserving syrup. Mix syrup and corn starch. Stir into pan juices. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens, comes to a boil and boils 1 minute. Add orange segments and vinegar. Pour over chicken. Makes 4 servings.

CALLING ALL DEMOCRATS!

Be sure to vote in Primary Election Saturday, May 1

I am very appreciative of the fact that I have no opponent for the Democratic nomination for Representative from the 101st District.

For this pleasant situation I give credit to the influence of friends I have made in the 22 years I have served in the Texas House of Representatives.

I strongly urge all my friends to participate in this year's Democratic Primaries. There are a number of contested races for important offices and a good turnout is desirable.

Keep up the voting habit. It is the way to promote the cause of good government.

This is a very important year in the affairs of Texas and the nation. Celebrate this 200th anniversary of our country's existence as a nation by voting in both primaries and the general election in November.

Burleson-Curtis Bill Backed By Farm Bureau

J. W. Aycock of Haskell, president of the Haskell County Farm Bureau called special attention to the Board of Directors at their monthly meeting, April 5, to the Burleson-Curtis Bill.

"We are making passage of the estate tax reform bill our number one goal in Congress this year," Mr. Aycock said. "We feel this is the best opportunity we've ever had to get this needed legislation passed."

Aycock said that the Burleson-Curtis Bill would help in all estate tax problems, not just agriculture. He said the bill would provide for increased exemptions that take into consideration a part of the tremendous inflation since the current law was passed in 1942.

He pointed out that the current exemptions are not large enough to prevent estates having to be sold to pay estate taxes.

Mr. Aycock said that H. R. 1793 by Rep. Omar Burleson is expected to be voted on by the House some time after Easter recess.

Estate Tax reform has some powerful backing in addition to the many sponsors in Congress. President Gerald Ford, in his State of the Union message, had the following to say: "I will propose estate tax changes so that family businesses and family farms can be handed down from generation to generation without having to be sold to pay taxes." The Ford proposal, however, does not go as far toward solving the problem as the Burleson-Curtis Bill.

Aycock and the Board of Directors have written Rep. Burleson and commended him on being a sponsor of this bill. They have written to their Senators, also, asking them to support his bill. They are urging all interested parties to do the same.

BICENTENNIAL PARTY—A Bicentennial Party was held at Rice Springs Care Home last week. Shown are Ruth Ann Klose, administrator and Lucille Martin, activity director (standing) tying red, white and blue bibs on Mrs. Pinkie Robertson and Miss Cleo Mondy.

Bicentennial Party Held At Rice Springs

Our Bicentennial Year reflects all of us as we celebrate 200 years as a nation. Our forefathers planted well the seed of America, using tools of wisdom, courage, hope, faith, brotherhood and religion, enduring hardships in order that we might enjoy and experience freedom. Some of our residents have experienced some hardships along the way that we can not imagine in our day of prosperity. It is very appropriate that we reflect our heritage here in our home.

Last week we had a Bicentennial Party. Our home was decorated in red, white, and blue streamers, balloons and a banner saying "Happy Birthday U.S.A." displayed across the dining room. Mrs. Lucille Martin was in charge of the event and opened the program with a bit of history and a challenge to each individual to help make our country a better one. Roberta High, Delight Jones and Nelda Lane provided the program with their wonderful singing and music. Each resident was presented a long stem flower.

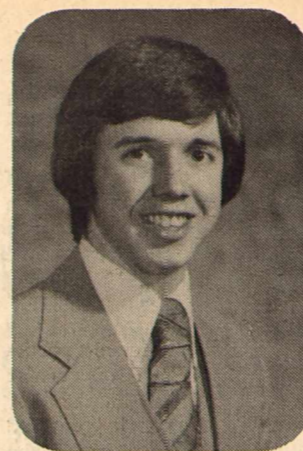

Several weeks ago several projects were started and completed in time for this Bicentennial event. Bicentennial bibs were made of red, white, and blue bicentennial print and were given to all 82 residents on the day of the party. Some of the other bicentennial projects are a 42 piece rhythm band, a record cabinet with flags displayed, a pretty bicentennial picture painted by Yvonne Howard and a beautiful crewel embroidery done by Mrs. Nora Macon. Also a much needed speaker's stand was presented by Mr. and Mrs. Vergil Smith.

The highlight of the afternoon's event was all the beautiful and delicious cakes and punch that were served to everyone. The table was covered in decorative tablecloth with bicentennial cakes and a large punch bowl.

We want to sincerely thank everyone that had a part in this wonderful event for our residents. To those who helped financially for the material for the bibs and other things, for the ladies who helped make the bibs, for all the lovely cakes, for the ones who provided the flowers, the program, and to everyone who helped in anyway we are most grateful because it was because of you that we all had a smile on our faces.

Craig is enrolled in Hardin-Simmons University for the coming fall semester and will major in music.

Josselet Family Holds Reunion

A Bicentennial Celebration by the descendants of the U. J. Josselet family was enjoyed by 160 members this past weekend at the Haskell Country Club.

Following the picnic supper on Saturday night the 1976 edition of the family year book was distributed. The book is a continuing account of each family member.

Patriotic songs and memorable family events provided the program for Sunday afternoon. Bailey Toliver, President, presided, Rod Roof, song leader and Patricia Roof, pianist, had charge of the music. Grandchildren relating memorable events were: Alma Terrell, Melvin Josselet, Weldon Turnbow, Adell Thomas, John Thomas, Eloise Perrin, Bertamae Carroll, Olen King, Marion Josselet, Homer Josselet, Jewel Gilleland, Lucille Pickering and Ruth Ferguson.

Special recognition was extended to Mrs. Esther King the only surviving member of the original family. All 15 members of her immediate family were present, including a son, Olen, and her daughter, Sybil Cousins. In-laws of the original family recognized were: Mrs. Paul Josselet, Mrs. Felix Josselet and Mr. Luther Toliver, husband of the recently deceased Ardonia Josselet Toliver.

Plans were made to meet again next year and the following officers were elected: Alfred Turnbow-President; Doris Reeves-Sec. Treas.; Eloise Perrin-Reporter; Alma Terrell-Historian.

GROW YOUR OWN GROCERIES

Home vegetable gardens are highly susceptible to high winds, heavy rains and hail contained in spring thunderstorms in Texas.

Damage is often widespread, and if it occurs, decisions must be made as to whether to leave the damaged plants in the garden or to start over and replant.

Some plants such as squash, cucumbers and beans are often heavily damaged. They generally recover slowly, if at all, so it is often best to replant, says Max Stapleton, County Extension Agent. If there is sufficient room, the less damaged plants can be left while the remainder of the crop is replanted.

Most vegetable seed will germinate rapidly once the soil has warmed, so replanting is often the best alternative. Of course, if transplants can be obtained, you can gain several weeks of valuable growing time.

Whether gardeners leave damaged plants to recuperate or whether they decide to replant, the overall delay in home vegetable production will usually mean closer attention to care and maintenance of the growing plants in the coming months. Insects will become more active as the growing season progresses, so plants must be checked more closely and control measures taken as the situation warrants. Also, watering will become more critical as the growing season enters the hot summer months.

Adversity such as that resulting from weather damage tests the "true grit" of the home gardener. It makes gardeners realize that vegetable production isn't at all "peaches and cream" and that all the fresh produce at the supermarket doesn't just happen. Hopefully, however, spart that you'll enjoy. It's not hard to find a set of tracks in the sand and follow them to the owner. But don't be surprised at what the tracks lead you to. You could be hot on the trail of a twig blowing across the sand.

If your parents are hesitant about going, point out that picture-taking is a delight on the dunes and its awfully hard to take a poor picture—if you don't overexpose the film on the bright sand.

A warning: Take along plenty of sandwiches. The old tummy gets mighty hungry when you play in the dunes. On the scenic drive you'll find picnic tables, fireplaces and comfort facilities.

Have a SUPER slide down the biggest dune you can find for me. And Safely, Use, Preserve and Enjoy the Resources.

A Weekly Report Of Agri-Business News

Compiled From Sources Of The TEXAS DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE
John C. White, Commissioner

Not Quite Yet... Going Strong... Going, Going, Gone?

In about a month, wheat harvest will get underway in South Texas, and it's a foregone conclusion that this year's crop will be only about half as large as last year.

The Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service estimates Texas wheat will be 66.3 million bushels. Nationwide, the wheat production for Texas, Kansas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, and Colorado will be about 48 million bushels below the estimate made in December.

Drought last year and this year is the reason for the downturn in wheat production.

Farmers are busy throughout the state with a variety of spring planting chores. Cotton, corn, sorghum, peanut, and rice planting continue and progress is generally on schedule.

The eastern areas and Central Texas are probably in the best shape for spring planting over any other section because of recent rains. Wheat yields, however, are expected to be about half of normal due to dry weather during the early part of the season.

Cotton planting is underway in the Blacklands and for the state seeding is about 15 per cent complete compared to around 10 per cent a year ago. Sorghum planting is more than half finished which compares with about a third completion rate for the past three-year average.

THE POULTRY INDUSTRY IN TEXAS continues to make progress. Gross income to producers from the production of broilers, eggs, and chickens this past year totaled $289 million. This is 14 per cent above the 1974 marketing year. Cash receipts from broilers, eggs, and chickens totaled $286 million compared to $251 million in 1974.

Broiler production during 1975 was down six per cent, but gross income was 19 per cent above 1974.

Egg production during 1975 was up three per cent from 1974, and cash receipts from sales of eggs was 10 per cent more than a year earlier.

Texas poultry industry increase in gross income was six per cent higher than for the average throughout the nation.

WOOL PRODUCTION IN THE STATE, however, turned out to be another story during 1975. The 1975 production was the smallest since 1923. Wool clipped in Texas during 1975 totaled only 23.6 million pounds.

The number of sheep and lambs shorn was estimated at 3,090,000 head, down nine per cent from 1974.

Mohair production did show an increase in 1975, which is the first time an upturn in mohair has occurred since 1965.

The mohair clip in 1975 totaled 8,600,000 pounds. This is two per cent above 1974. Prices showed a big jump during 1975; mohair averaged $1.85 per pound in 1974 compared to $1.37 in 1974. Total value of the 1975 clip was almost $16 million, up 38 per cent from 1974.

Texas accounts for most of the mohair produced throughout the nation.

TV Set Can Be Used As Tornado Radar

Although the human eye is still the best method for locating tornadoes, most homes are equipped with a built-in tornado radar: the home television set.

If properly tuned, it is believed that a television set will detect a twister within a 15-20 mile radius.

Known as the Weller Method, the phenomenon is named for the Iowa scientist (Newton Weller) who first perfected the procedure.

The method is not foolproof and therefore should not be the sole source of information during bad weather. The National Weather Service recommends that anyone who lives in an area for which a "tornado watch" or "tornado warning" has been issued should keep an ear on up-to-date weather bulletins broadcast over local radio and television stations.

Weather bulletins are based on information from both radar and the phalanx of trained spotters deployed around a community whenever dangerous weather threatens.

As a supplement to this kind of protection, anyone can apply the Weller Method by following a few simple instructions:

First, warm up your television set as if you were going to watch it. The contrast control should be tuned to the maximum position.

Turn to Channel 13 and adjust the brightness control until the screen is just on the threshold of black. Then turn to Channel 2 without making any new adjustments to the picture settings. The audio (sound) settings may be adjusted as desired. If Channel 2 is not an operating channel in your area, be sure to have a radio or second television tuned in for weather reports.

Monitor the screen as continuously as possible. Lightning will appear on the screen as horizontal flashes or streaks. On a color set the streaks will be in color.

A tornado within a 15-20 mile radius will cause the screen to glow brightly or cause the darkened picture to become visible and remain continuously visible.

Should this happen, it is important to take immediate safety precautions. Turn your television set off and open windows a crack to reduce the potential damage from pressure if a tornado passes nearby.

Take cover in a safe place, preferably near the center on the bottom floor of the building. A closet or small, windowless room offers best protection.

If you have a transistor radio, take it with you to the shelter area and continue to monitor weather broadcasts.

During particularly bad storms, when the electric power is off, the transistor radio can be used to augment the television warning system. To do this, set the radio alongside the TV and turn the radio knob to the lowest end of the dial (about 550 kilocycles).

At this setting the radio will pick up storm signals, emitting intermittent static when lightning is near and continuous static when a tornado is moving toward the signal.

Advance warning, from whatever source, is of no use if it is ignored. Anytime a tornado watch is issued persons living in the watch area should take precautions to protect their lives and property.

Loose items in the yard should be tied down during severe weather to prevent wind damage. Cars should be moved inside the garage, if possible, to prevent damage from hail or wind-blown projectiles.

1975 Very Good Year For Texas

AUSTIN—Statewide participants in the Texas visitor industry are whistling a happy tune these days. It's entitled "1975 Was a Very Good Year!"

By all previous standards, last year's sun, fun and vacation business went through the ceiling, shattering all previous records for total visitors, length of stay and most important, expenditures by travelers from out of state.

The cheerful details are contained in the state's annual Texas Visitor Industry Report released today by the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation. Their tallies, which they've been conducting since 1947, show an all-time high of 21,819,000 out-of-state visitors in 1975 who spent $3.5 billion in Texas.

The Department points out that the number of such visitors is actually some 80 percent greater than the number of Texas residents and represents the largest numerical increase in visitors in a single year since they started counting out-of-state license plates almost 30 years ago.

Rebounding from uncertainties of the oil embargo that cast a pall of gloom over the tourist industry, highway travelers surged back into Texas in unprecedented numbers, topping their previous year's volume by 14.2 percent.

Driving station wagons, pickup campers and herds of recreational vehicles, over 18 million visitors, two million more than in 1974, fanned out over the Lone Star State.

The average auto traveler drove 1,213 miles while in Texas, somewhat more than during the previous year but still fewer miles than the free-wheeling pre-embargo travelers of 1973.

Twenty percent, exercising their freedom of mobility prerogative, cited no single destination for 1975 vacations. Rather, they rambled on flexible schedules sampling lakes, beaches, historic sites, scenic drives and hosts of campgrounds.

Among Texas Cities, Dallas was 1975's most popular destination, followed closely by Houston, San Antonio, El Paso, Brownsville, Austin and Fort Worth.

Reflecting cost-consciousness (most tourists to Texas are family travelers, not the jet set), daily spending per person among auto visitors was $18.78, a thrifty $1.22 less than in 1974. However, those visitors stayed longer, 7.6 days compared to slightly less than 7 days in 1974. The net result was more out-of-state dollars left in Texas when they returned home.

Perhaps substantiating the airlines' much publicized woes during 1975, common carrier traffic to Texas registered a modest decline of 2.4 percent. Airline, bus and train passengers were all below 1974 levels, but still brought 3,722,000 out-of-staters to Texas.

Mexican visitors surged to all-time records highs, and new data about their rate of spending classify them as the state's most valuable individual tourists. Whereas the average U. S. tourist spent $143 in Texas on his trip, the average Mexican visitor left a generous $453.

1975's Texas visitor industry data may be obtained in a free, 12-page booklet from the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation, Travel and Information Division, P. O. Box 5064, Austin 78763.

released in the open waters of Lake Stamford on Monday, April 12, by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Lake Stamford, a 4,500 acre impoundment located in the southeast part of Haskell County, earned the reputation years ago of being an outstanding "yellow cat lake".

Roy Bamberg, fisheries biologist in charge of the project, said this was the first year in a three-year walleye stocking program. The walleye fry were transported to the lake by truck in plastic water-filled bags and carried in styrofoam boxes from the department's Dundee Hatchery.

According to Bamberg, this is an experimental program to determine if walleye are suitable for these waters. If they are, they will serve as a natural control of the troublesome gizzard shad and some minnows. They will also provide another food and sports fish for the growing population of Texas anglers.

Haskell Bicentennial Happenings

By Roxie Parker

The Bill Lane Home, 401 North Avenue H, is undergoing renovation, but we're confident there will be plenty to see by those who visit this house Sunday.

The land was deeded to the heirs of Peter Allen, a black man killed at the Battle of the Republic in 1866.

Henry Johnson built the house in 1915; other owners have included the Roy Weavers (parents, of Opal Adkins, Veta Furrh, Clara Biard, and Artie Burkett), Clara White, and S. A. Norris.

In 1939 Mrs. Elma Guest, mother of Mrs. Buford Cox, bought the house. She installed central air and heat and added closets, the house only having one closet under the stairs and a tiny corner closet in one room downstairs.

The Lanes bought the house in 1969. Originally there were five rooms; Mrs. Weaver finished the upstairs into a large bedroom, and the Lanes added an upstairs bath when they bought the house.

The current construction includes addition of a den, bath, breakfast room, closet, and patio off the den. The kitchen ceiling is being lowered to nine feet.

It was said that the first owner's wife checked carefully every piece of wood that was brought from Louisiana to build the house, and rejected any she found unsuitable to her standards!

Original woodwork has been kept throughout the house. Mildred's pride in the two massive mantels is understandable; the one in the living room is one of the most beautiful I have ever seen.

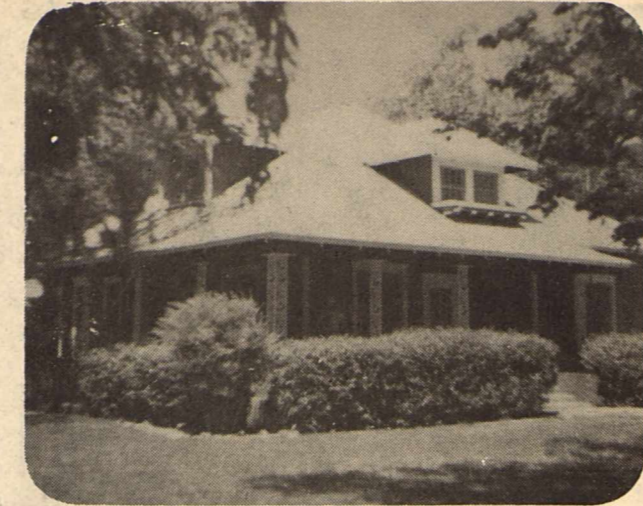

The two fireplaces, constructed for coke and coal, are being opened up for burning wood. The original green ceramic tile on the living room fireplace is being reworked; it is an unusual color and matches the lighting fixture of green glass and brass, with hanging bead fringe.

The cover and hood for the living room fireplace is beautifully embossed brass. The cover for the bedroom fireplace is painted black. Perhaps these metal covers were painted black in the early days with the idea that it would either save polishing or else for preservation purposes.

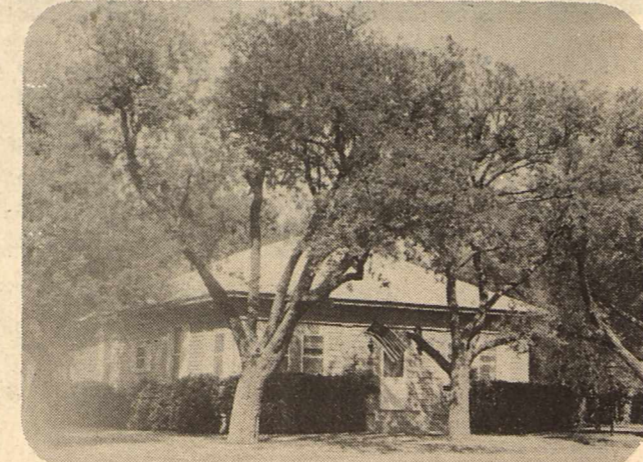

Between the living room and dining room is a heavy sliding door with five horizontal panels and the original metal plating. One swinging door has metal plating as yet unidentified; it is too shiny to be pewter and really looks like silver.

An exquisite pink satin glass and brass lighting fixture in petal design hangs in the dining room ceiling.

One heirloom in the dining room was rescued by Mildred in poor condition; it is a 1900 kitchen cabinet that belonged to her grandmother, Mrs. E. O. Chapman, and has been restored, even to the original doors with lovely etched glass panels.

The Bill Lane Home—Sixth on The Tour of Homes

The Wallace Cox Jr. Home—last of Tour of Homes

Several years ago the Lanes bought the ornate and heavy oak dining table which seats twelve.

A "fainting couch" in the front bedroom has intricately carved wood; Mildred said it was in a "gillion" pieces when she bought it.

In the master bedroom is a chifferobe owned by Grandmother Chapman. Blue velvet was placed behind a cut out design on the door to match bedspread and accessories in the room.

There are three unusual windows in the house; they are very large and have twelve panes in the upper section and one large lower pane. Also visitors will note the very excellent woodwork in the pantry off the kitchen and the built-in closet downstairs in the hall.

Those in Haskell who are familiar with this home are going to enjoy seeing what the Lanes are doing to make it more livable "for the grandchildren", while retaining so much of the history and charm of the house.

It seems fitting that our Tour of Homes will end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Cox, Jr., 701 North Avenue K. For this house has stood in quiet grandeur for sixty-six years, almost continuously in its original state, having been changed very little structurally since first built.

Once it was the only house in that part of town, surrounded by the wide open spaces, and Haskell kids passed it on the way to "The Willows".

In 1910 R. V. Robertson bought the whole of Block R from his father, S. L. Robertson, and built the house. Iron Pearsey did the papering and painting.

It was bought in 1920 by Mr. and Mrs. Bailey Post. They sold the house in June, 1940 to Dr. and Mrs. Gordon Phillips. Dr. Phillips established the Haskell Clinic with Dr. Ernest Kimbrough.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Oates rented the house from 1942-1945. They fenced in the block and raised chickens and had a garden. Those were war years and Helen said they burned wood in the fireplaces, which were constructed for coal and coke. There were plenty of trees in that end of town for firewood!

In 1949 the house was sold to Mr. and Mrs. Bud Herren. Their three sons have happy memories of growing up here, Buddy and Bob always managing to have a crowd for ballgames and horseback riding. The youngest son, Ray, was born while the Herrens owned the house.

They tore down the barn and sold lots to Mr. and Mrs. Bob Herren, Mr. and Mrs. Buford Cox, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jircik and Newt Cole.

Wallace and Jo Cox bought the house in November, 1962, having rented it in March of that year. Haskellites will remember the tornado that hit in May and so by November there were no carpenters to be had for work other than that necessitated by the storm.

The house originally had screened-in front and back porches; the Herrens enclosed the front one, the Coxes the back.

The space used for the front porch was made into two mini-bedrooms for Emily and Sarah and are quite adequate; what once were outside windows have been covered with bulletin boards in each room.

Also a hallway which led from the living room has been enclosed to house the cooling and heating system.

Leon Pearsey, son of the man who did the painting and papering when the house was new, repapered and painted the house, for the Coxes. Woodwork is painted white in the living and dining rooms and in light shades throughout the other rooms.

Back-to-back fireplaces in the living and dining rooms have black embossed metal covers, which Jo suspects may be brass or copper.

On the living room mantel is a beautiful bowl once owned by Wallace's maternal Grandmother Chambers of Abilene.

The dining room is a little more ornate and has its original bevelled mirror. An extra shelf above the mirror holds colored glassware.

Large crowds for Sunday dinner were the rule in Jo's family home in Bellflower, Illinois, and she and Wallace enjoy having family and friends at mealtime. A sideboard designed by Wallace and constructed by Guy Kennedy matches the massive pieces of furniture and is used for buffet meals.

Also in this room is a lovely rosewood upright piano dated 1905 which came from the home of Cox relatives. Placed on it is an elaborately carved pre-Civil War clock found in an attic in Illinois, having belonged to Jo's grandfather's aunt.

Family heirloom pieces of china, silver and glassware from the Cox and Copenhaver families fill the china closet.

Prized highly by Jo are six cups hanging on the wall; they were hand-painted by Anita Herren.

The large kitchen is painted yellow as is the cheery sunroom created when the back porch was enclosed. Originally in this space were a cistern, a tool shed, and a closet from the back bedroom.

The three boys, John, Elliott, and Paul share the spacious bedroom; the closet door off the back porch was made into a built-in bookcase, an idea contributed by Mary Holden. The facings and molding make a perfect frame.

The big bathroom still has an old-fashioned footed bathtub. Jo noted that Kohler, a company which makes bathroom fixtures, has come out with a modern reproduction of this old-time look!

One of the pieces of furniture in the master bedroom is a chair from the Haskell Magazine Club given them by Mrs. Wallace Cox, Sr.

Hospitality abounds here, as it does in all our tour homes.

We hope many of you who have commented on our write-ups will be on hand for the tour Sunday. Enjoy, enjoy!

Approximately 15,000 infants are born with cerebral palsy each year and today 750,000 Americans have one or more of its effects. The difficulty in control of movements which is the basic characteristic of a CP condition may affect legs, arms, speech, hearing, sight, learning or cause convulsions. Persons with CP were among the 48,000 with neurological disorders served by the Easter Seal Society Nationwide in 1972.
