Just A Thought

by Carter

Just received a news release from the Beef Industry Council giving all sorts of interesting information on the history of beef eating (as opposed to Beef Eaters) in America. For example, I didn't know that the first cattle came to the American Southwest with the Spanish in the 1500's.

The purpose for the release aside from its "educational value" was to promote a book they have just published called "The Bicentennial Beef Cook Book", featuring one hundred of the best recipes from America's first two hundred years. If you're interested in getting a copy of this 128 page book, send $2.00 (check or money order) to Bicentennial Beef Cook Book, Beef Industry Council, Dept. 76, 444 North Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill. 60611.

Can you believe someone actually wants their industry federally regulated? Well according to Mr. Lee R. Sollenberger, Chairman of the American Trucking Assoc. (ATA), who stated in a recent press release that they were coming out in favor of continued federal regulation of the trucking industry.

In sighting reasons for their stand they mentioned a few things that I thought might be of interest to some of us here in Haskell, particularly the cancelling of small town truck service, sky rocketing shipping cost, forced price increases in goods and services to small towns and forcing small truck operators into bankruptcy, something to think about.

The Commissioners Court minutes from their last session indicated that the road hands in Precincts 1, 2, 3, and 4 were voted a pay raise, well deserved I'm sure, increasing their monthly pay to $600.00 per month. Some of our elected officials are some what concerned however that now the road hands are making more than they do.

In Honolulu, around the Waikiki area very few people wear anything except swim suits and then only the bare limit (and that doesn't mean fish). Now to the point, it seems that Hawaii Kai in Arlington is developing another attraction in their newly opened recreation center. They just announced that they are opening the lagoon to swimmers (at a small charge of course), and swimsuited guests are encouraged to make the rounds of the park to view the shows.

That's realism in detail. Aloha!

Just a thought! I looked back over our coverage of the Bicentennial and compared the total number of column inches devoted to it, and the total number of column inches devoted to other single major news stories (the Bicentennial is of course a major news story) and it figures out to more than four to one in favor of the Bicentennial.

Got a call the other day from an irate reader, it seems that we didn't get a story about her particular project into the paper when she thought it should be. We were given the impression in no uncertain terms that she knew what people wanted to read and had no doubts about it, I envy her as does every newspaper man I've ever known I'm sure. It has been my experience that you get five news editors in a conversation you're not likely to get any two of them to agree on what people want to read, but we continue to do our best to give our readers a well rounded paper editorially hoping to satisfy as many people as possible.

Her project was covered but it took place after our deadline therefore it is appearing in this issue rather than last weeks. We did get a free lecture on how to run a newspaper so all's not lost.

Quick thinking on the part of night watchman Freddy Draper averted what could have developed into a very serious fire involving a whole block of business establishments. The fire was discovered at 2:15 a.m. Tuesday, June 29, as Mr. Draper was making his rounds.

Due to his quick action and the rapid response of the Haskell Volunteer Fire Department the fire was confined on the most part to smoke damage in the First Federal Savings and Loan office with fire and smoke damage in Bob's Shoe Repair where it started.

Test Your Water Well

Haskell County Extension Agents, Max Stapleton and Barbara Elliott would like to remind everyone who has tested their water well and received a notice from the Health Department that the well contains a coliform bacterial should treat the well before using it for drinking purposes.

Below is listed the recommended procedure for sanitizing a well.

1. Make sure there are no unsafe connections (improper submerged water outlets as in water tanks, etc.)

2. Chlorinate the well—1½ pints of liquid chlorine mixed with 5 (five) gallons of water is sufficient to shock treat 100 gallons of well water. Solution should be poured into the well allowing the solution to run down the casing walls.

3. Open all outlets and allow them to run until chlorine can be detected by smell.

4. All needed drinking water should be stored in advance. (treated water will not hurt livestock, except they probably will not drink it.)

5. Allow sanitizing solution to stay in the water system for 24 hours.

6. After 24 hours, open all outlets until the chlorine odor can no longer be detected.

7. Water wells should be sealed after being properly sanitized.

After treating another sample may be taken to insure safety for drinking purposes.

All home wells should be treated with the chlorine process every four to six months.

Test bottle and information may be obtained from the Haskell County Extension Office or from one of the members of the Haskell County Program Building Committee.

REACH FOR IT...this young lady is assisting the Young Homemakers in drawing the name of a guest during Friday and Saturday Arts and Crafts Show. The winner of this particular drawing was Mrs. Joe Cortez, she won a potted plant. The two quilts in the background were given away as grand prizes on Saturday night.

The Bicentennial Party Is Over

Haskell residents wound up their part in one of America's biggest birthday parties ever Sunday night in Rice Spring Park with a crowd estimated by Mrs. McAdoo, Chairwoman of the Bicentennial Committee, to be in excess of one thousand.

Sunday was the climax of months of work and preparation by groups in Haskell and throughout the United States as well as overseas. The count down toward the 4th actually began for Haskell County on June 25 with the Wild West Show, produced by the Chamber of Commerce and the Jaycees, the event was chaired by Rex Felker and Bo Owens.

The first Wild West Show to be presented in Haskell County was enthusiastically

Rule Students Attend TSU Festival

Students from Rule Junior and Senior High School competed along with approximately 156 junior high and high school students attended the Texas Twirling Festival and Drum Major Clinic last week on the campus of Tarleton State University.

The Drum Major Clinic was directed by Mike Proctor, drum major of the Tarleton Texan Marching Band. Students were instructed in leadership training, precision routines, squad drill, conducting and marching fundamentals.

Pat Hooker, internationally known majorette and twirling teacher and the TSU Camp Coordinator, was director of the Majorette Ensemble. Students learned dance and twirl routines, strutting routines and showmanship.

The Twirling Festival was directed by Bobby Courtright, winner of nine national open championships. Classes included instruction in aerials, original tricks, contest routines and solo competition.

received by area residents and a great deal of fun was apparently had by all. Starting off with unscheduled bucking action, on opening night it kept everyone's interest through the last event.

No community celebration is complete however without a parade to get things livened up with expectation of things to come. It was to this end that Mrs. Bettye McBroom and Mrs. Billie McKeever worked so hard, but for one reason or another participation did not turn out as they had hoped, never the less those who did join in gave it a show they can be proud of.

Probably one of the early highlights of the week was the "America's Birthday Pageant" chaired by Mrs. Beth Middleton and Mrs. Nancy Toliver. This county wide event represented talented groups from all over Haskell County who came to lend their talent and energy to the festivities. The pageant was made up of readings, songs and dances several of which were composed by the performers themselves. The Young Homemakers were very popular serving refreshments, in particularly the homemade ice cream.

Arts and Crafts of all types, shapes, and sizes filled the Corral Building at the Fair Grounds, Friday and Saturday for the sale and show. People were coming and going from the time they opened the doors (at 10 on the nose) Friday until they closed on Saturday.

Drawings were held for door prizes, with two beautiful quilts given away as grand prizes, the two lucky winners were Mr. Bub Adams of Weinert and Mrs. Ida Pack of Haskell. In charge of this event were Eunice Helwig, Paula Everett, and Alice Yates.

The Flea Market got started right along with the Arts and Crafts show, located in the show arena. They had a small problem with the heat. Not to be discouraged buyers and sellers were bartering right and left for merchandise of all sorts. Organizers of the Flea Market were Alvin Sherman, Rubye Turner, Gayla Nanny, Durene Boone and the Cecil Lackeys.

The Family picnic Saturday afternoon fell victim to other events scheduled during the same time but in spite of this set back, those who attended had a good time and joined the fun and games. In charge of this event were Ruby and Jack Medford, the McBroom's, Sonny Reynolds and Royce Adkins.

The finale came Sunday with the Nation wide bell ringing at one o'clock which lasted for two minutes, followed by the music Festival at 8:45. Appearing in the Festi-

SINGING ALL THE WAY

By Roxie Parker

To those of you who thought I expired Friday at the Flea Market—Surprise! There seemed to be a real possibility about 2 p.m. that day but I managed to survive and make it back for the Saturday session, too.

I didn't want to die; I wanted to stick around to hear the tales Mr. Lackey, Slover Bledsoe and Alvin Sherman told each other and their unsuspecting customers! I also learned the secret to Alvin's success—buy an item from your competitor, raise the price on it, and sit back and wait for a buyer while your competitor stews.

I want to write a series and call it "The Life and Times of the Flea Marketer", but that must wait.

The title for my column has no significance to anyone except me. It is no way is reflective of what I plan to write every week; it's just a bit of personal philosophy connected to some very important milestones in my life. Long ago God gave me a song and He adds to it now and then; I never cease to be amazed and I'm always grateful.

Now, thanks to Bill Comedy, I'll get to visit with Free Press readers every week and I'm looking forward to it.

A United States Congressional delegation who went to England recently returned with a copy of the Magna Carta. When Susie Gilliam went she returned with a nameplate (Briercliffe) for the Gilliam home at 1101 North Avenue E, plus a white lambskin rug, a copper flask, an old brass tavern bell, and a number of other mementos. Meanwhile, still enroute are expected to take 8 weeks to get here; somewhere in one of them are nine rolls of exposed slide film that she hopes will make it to Haskell in good shape.

Susie and daughter Kelli joined Susie's mother, in Lubbock where they went by plane April 29 to Chicago, by way of Dallas. Larry and the Gilliam son, Shane, were left home to fend for themselves. In Chicago the three boarded a jumbo jet that carries 459 passengers, "looked like a hotel," flew to London, and on to Manchester where they were met by relatives.

Susie's mother, the former Mildred Watts, was born and raised in Brierfield, a small village in Lancashire County, England. When the Yankee Air Force moved into the British Isles in such great numbers during World War II, James Perkins was among those stationed there. James and Mildred had one of those wartime romances and were married; later a son, James was born in Brierfield. They came to the United States in 1947, followed shortly by Mrs. Perkins' mother and father, as well as another daughter and her husband and a son and his wife. James and Mildred Perkins, Susie's parents, made their home in Plainview and the other relatives moved to Illinois as they were foundry workers.

After the family came to the United States they gradually lost contact for about 20 years with the relatives in England. In 1969 Susie began trying to get a correspondence going and eventually was able to find 3 great aunts and 2 great uncles still living. This was enough to make Mildred Watts Perkins decide to visit her native land after 24 years' absence, so she went for a six week's stay.

Susie's children were small and she couldn't accompany her mother but ever since then she has wanted to go to England. "It's so strange—I actually had something akin to a feeling of homesickness for England," Susie said. "I decided 1976 was the year to go!"

Arriving in Manchester Susie, Kelli and Mrs. Perkins were met by a cousin, Bernard Rothwell, Justice of the Peace of Lancashire County. It seems a county in England corresponds more to our states here in the United States, with several districts within the county, each district made up of all the villages within a certain area. Brierfield is in Pendle District in Lancashire County. The cousin is the head of the Tory party in Pendle District.

As a Texan accustomed to "bigness", Susie was impressed with the compact size of the houses in the English villages. Except for some large estates most houses are small and are joined to neighboring houses so there are no yards; thatched roofs and cobblestone streets add to the unusual appearance presented to the eyes of a Texan.

Bernard Rothwell and his wife Florence made it possible for the American cousins to get the most out of their trip. First they covered the county, which is noted for its witches. That's right—witches! A number of books have been written about one of the places called Witches Valley.

Newchurch, a meeting place for Church of Englanders for centuries, has witches buried in its churchyard. One of the pictures Susie showed me is of the final resting place of the Nutter Sisters, famous witches who practiced their art in that area when witchcraft was all the rage!

Pendle Hill in the district of that name lacks 12 feet being tall enough to be termed a mountain. So native-born and visitor alike climb to the top carrying a stone since tradition has it that if enough stones are carried up, the hill will finally be called a mountain!

Also in Pendle District the cousins toured Skipton Castle which dates from the 12th century. It was restored in 1657-58 and contains no furnishings, though all the buildings are preserved. Susie and Kelli touched for luck a 300-year-old yew tree on the Skipton Castle grounds.

They also visited the village of Haworth and toured the small, very old home of the Bronte sisters of literary fame. In Trawden they traveled over the bridge supposed to have been crossed by the fabled headless horseman.

Lancashire County is noted for its textile mills. The soil there is coal black and Susie brought a sample home to her husband. Another thing that impressed her were the leaded glass windows that open out in the homes; there are no screens on the windows. Also the flowers grow profusely everywhere and are used decoratively and for sale as plants or cut flowers all over the villages.

Two days in London were spent seeing Big Ben, the Tower of London, and viewing the Crown Jewels—Susie said she stood within a foot of the 550-carat Star of Africa, which was quite awesome! They also made Parliament Square, Trafalgar Square, and Westminster Abbey. When I asked about their London hotel accommodations she said they were nice but she was amazed to find there were no face cloths furnished; in England everyone travels with his own washcloth of sponge!

A whole day was devoted to Buckingham Palace, where they felt a stroke of extremely good fortune was theirs. Twice a year the Coldstream Guards practice the Trooping of the Colors, a ceremony which is performed only on the Queen's birthday. As luck would have it, the day the Texans visited was one of the two practice days!

"But absolutely the most thrilling thing for me was getting to judge the 'Miss Personality' contest at the Nelson Show," Susie said. She has a newspaper clipping which pictures her with mayors, mayoresses, and other dignitaries at the show which is a yearly event similar to a fair. Percheron horses in ornate trappings, babies, rabbits, poultry—lots of things are judged.

The president of the show, who just happened this year to be the cousin, Bernard Rothwell, steered Susie to the front where it was announced that a Texan, Susie Gilliam, would judge the contest in the place of Lena Martel, a Scottish singer and TV personality who couldn't make it. Susie was surprised but recovered her composure in time to do her duty!

After six weeks spent enjoying the home of her maternal forebears Susie, Kelli and Mrs. Perkins returned home, accompanied by Mrs. Perkins' first cousin, Mrs. Mary Dewhirst of Nelson the village adjoining Brierfield.

Mrs. Dewhirst started working at the age of fourteen in the weaving mills and retired the week before her Texas relatives arrived in England. She decided to celebrate her retirement with a trip to the United States to see the relatives in Illinois and to visit in Texas.

A delightful lady, Mrs. Dewhirst was enjoying a trip to Haskell this past weekend and we met her while she was touring the Arts and Crafts Show and Flea Market. She had attended the Stamford Rodeo Thursday night, her first time to see a rodeo; another first for her was getting on a horse, which she did during a visit in Littlefield. "I thought I might ride in the rodeo, but I didn't," she said as she laughed about the experience. The Perkins' have taken her to Red River and Carlsbad, and a trip to Ruidoso is planned. "I love everything about Texas except the heat! We have watched television in England and thought the wide open spaces and the size of everything in Texas was staged, but now I believe it, I can't believe we can drive for miles and never make a turn," she marveled. She also finds it hard to believe the size of U. S. automobiles, comparing them to English buses.

At the beginning of her journey to the United States Mrs. Dewhirst started a travel diary, and then began adding details and impressions and now has decided to write a book. We're glad her visit in Haskell will be included.

NOTICE

There will be a meeting July 13 in the Community Building for the purpose of forming a Pleasant Valley Cemetery Association. The meeting will start at 8:00 and all interested parties are invited to attend and take part.

IF YOU THINK water witching is a hoax, you may change your mind at the Texas Folklife Festival Aug. 5-8 when Chester Burrier of Stockdale makes his divining stick magic. If he finds a vein of water on the grounds of the Institute of Texan Cultures, he'll sink a narrow gauge well to prove his skill. And that's not all. If you've got a corn, wart, or similar ailment, he might cure it by stuffing a certain scrap of paper in his pocket.

The Lost Art Of Water Witching

SAN ANTONIO, TX.—Amid the jeers of skeptics, Chester and Lester will perform their skill—water witching.

But disbelievers will change their tune at the Texas Folklife Festival Aug. 5-8 in San Antonio when Stockdale water witchers Lester Hastings and Chester Burrier prove their ability at finding ground water sources using only a stick.

"I don't know how it works," Burrier said. "I can find the vein and tell if the water is good or bad. Lester can tell how deep the vein is." The two use only green

State Surplus Of $827 Million

AUSTIN—Comptroller Bob Bullock said Thursday that the Railroad Commission's utilization of the Yates oil field in West Texas could add the icing to the $827 million surplus his office has projected will be available at the end of this biennium Aug. 31, 1977.

In his monthly financial statement, Bullock said the Commission's order, effective today, could add $7-$10 million to the surplus in increased oil production taxes, assuming the field is produced at authorized levels.

On May 25, the Commission ordered the unitization of the 26,400 acre field, located in Pecos and Crockett Counties, and allowed Marathon Oil Co. to double the field's production from 50,000 to 100,000 barrels per day.

The Comptroller also noted that the U. S. Department of Commerce has reported that Texas had the largest increase in sales tax collections from April, 1975, through March, 1976 of any big state. Texas collected $1.37 billion during that period, he said, which was 14.5 percent greater than the amount collected in the previous twelve months.

Bullock reported that state expenditures during May totaled $518.6 million, but that May revenues totaled $668.4 million.

Expenditures have totaled $4.9 billion for the first nine months of fiscal year 1976, he said, while revenues have totaled $4.7 billion.

Sagerton News

Some of our local residents have been taking trips the last weeks because the field work is about caught up until it rains. We have not received any rain here in our community up until Sunday, except for about four-tenths south of Sagerton.

Mr. and Mrs. Delbert LeFevre and Jill and Brenda Stegemoeller of Rochester made a trip North to St. Paul where they visited the Harvey Stegemoellers and to Sioux Falls, South Dakota where they visited Molly and Clare Aalbue, Pastor Joe was out of town with a group of youth at camp in the Black Hills. Molly sent her best wishes to everyone in our area. Delbert LeFevre was stationed with the Air Force in Sioux Falls, so they visited spots that they remember from World War II, and then came back through the Black Hills and Colorado.

The L.O.C. Home Demonstration Club members had fun rearranging the furniture in their homes the easy way, with styrofoam pieces on paper, at their meeting in the home of Mrs. Jimmy New last week Thursday. Mrs. Barbara Elliott brought the program on "Furniture Arrangement."

Mrs. J. B. Toney, resigned as president and Mrs. Jimmy New was elected to take her place in September. Mrs. Lorene Huggins was elected as the club's nominee to be a delegate at the T.H.D.A. State Convention at A&M in College Station in September. Mrs. New, Mrs. E. A. Lowack and Mrs. Johnny Tichelman will be hostesses for the July Golden Age Birthday party. Several of the members are planning to attend a special tour of Phillips Carriage House in Abilene July 20.

TPUC Asks Cong. To Nix FEA Intrusion

The Texas Public Utility Commission has asked the Texas Congressional delegation to vote against a Senate amendment to the FEA Extension Act which would allow intervention by the Federal Energy Administration in rate matters pending before state utility commissions.

The provision, found in Title II of the act, sets up a $10 million fund for FEA to use for grants to state utility commissions to design innovative rate structures aimed at energy conservation. At the same time, however, the provision gives FEA the authority to intervene in rate proceedings before state commissions if, in FEA's judgment, those commission decisions are not in compliance with conservation goals set by FEA.

The legislation is presently in conference committee and, in a letter to Texas members of the committee, PUC commissioners urged opposition to inclusion of the provision in the conference committee report. All members of the Texas delegation have been sent a copy of that letter.

PUC Chairman Garrett Morris said, "I am aware of the role the Federal Energy Administration has played in the past. However, I do not feel that a federal agency should involve itself in the ratemaking policies of a state regulatory body. I would hope this amendment will be deleted."

Mental Retardation

Editor—This is one of a series of articles about Mental Retardation prepared by Mrs. Eugene Cochran and the Public Education Committee of the Texas Association for Retarded Citizens.

Declaration of General and Special Rights of the Mentally Retarded

In 1776 the people of these United States declared their independence and later passed a Bill of Rights outlining the freedoms of all Americans. These freedoms have been slow in becoming reality for many Americans. Liberty and Justice for all has not always been true for many Americans disenfranchised by the attitudes of their fellow countrymen.

In October, 1968, the International League of Societies for the Mentally Handicapped adopted the following Declaration of General and Special Rights of the Mentally Retarded. The document was published nationally in the "MR 69" report of the President's Committee on Mental Retardation. The content of the "Rights" has had great effect on many of the litigation decisions and rulings that pertain to the mentally retarded, their care, education, services and training. In the Declaration of Independence, Thomas Jefferson listed only three examples of inalienable rights: Life, Liberty and the Pursuit of Happiness. If these inalienable human rights are given by God, and as the Bicentennial year official birthday approaches, let us acquaint ourselves with the "Special Rights" as we review and renew our knowledge of the Declaration of Independence written with the expressed intent that it would effect ALL the people.

*Whereas the universal declaration of human rights, adopted by the United Nations proclaims that all of the human family, without distinction of any kind, have equal and inalienable rights of human dignity and freedom;

*Whereas the declaration of the rights of the child, adopted by the United Nations, proclaims the rights of the physically, mentally or socially handicapped child to special treatment, education and care required by his particular condition;

NOW THEREFORE—
The International League of Societies for the Mentally Handicapped expresses the general and special rights of the mentally retarded as follows:

ARTICLE I—The mentally retarded person has the same basic rights as other citizens of the same country and same age.

Some folks are saying the most amazing thing about the Beafalo may be that it's the only breed on record more than one-half bull. Most cattlemen agree the new breed may hold a lot of promise for the industry but many of them are hedging their predictions with a wait-and-see attitude. Founder of the breed, Bud Basolo, got everybody's attention last year by announcing the sale of a Beafalo bull for two and a half million dollars. And a lot of those first in line to begin raising the California-spawned breed are quick to praise the animals for rapid gain on basically forage rations, hardy adaptation to sparse land and nutritious meat. One of the problems is an extensive study done in Canada on an earlier beef-buffalo cross which showed poor results. Promoters of the American breed say those problems were all solved with today's Beafalo which is one-quarter Hereford, three-eighths Charolais and three-eighths Buffalo.

From Your Co. Agent

The honey dew, sticky moist droplets, that falls from pecan trees is not normal. Honey dew is not produced by the trees, but is excreted by yellow pecan aphids which feed on the underside of the leaves. Heavy numbers of these bright yellow aphids, which are about 1/16 inch long when full grown, can cause the leaves to curl and turn brown. This may result in defoliation during late summer, reducing the pecan crop in the current and succeeding year.

The honeydew which is high in sugar content will coat the leaves on heavily infested trees giving them a glossy appearance. It will also coat the car, patio furniture or anything else below the tree. A sooty mold fungus will grow on the honeydew if it is allowed to collect.

Black pecan aphids which are also about 1/16 inch long when full grown are also found on the underside of pecan leaves. These greenish black aphids cause bright yellow spots to appear on leaves around feeding punctures. The black pecan aphids produce very little honeydew if any and do not feed in crowded colonies as do the yellow pecan aphids.

Aphids generally do not reach damaging numbers until mid or late summer. But the honey dew produced by the yellow pecan aphids may be a nuisance during early summer.

To prevent excessive leaf damage and eliminate honey dew, dimethoate (Cygon or De-fend) or Malathion might be used by the homeowner to control aphid populations. Season long control can be obtained when disulfoton (Di-Syston); is applied to the soil around the dripline of trees. Sufficient water must be available for this systemic material to be taken up by the root and transported to the leaves. Disulfoton must be applied by a professional pest control operator.

When applying any insecticide the directions given on the label should be carefully followed to obtain desired results and for safe use of the material.

Further information on pecan control is available at your County Extension Agent's office.
