Rule School Receives Title I Funds

The Elementary Secondary Education act was enacted by the federal government in 1965. This is the thirteenth year for the Rule School System to receive funds for the Title one Program.

The Rule School program this year provides for our teachers and three aids in the Rule School System.

The program is designed to strengthen the students who need help in the areas of reading and mathematics in grades Kindergarten thru the 5th grade. Also an aide is employed to check on attendance and make contact with the homes when information is needed about the students. Materials are also purchased to aid the students in supplemental help in these areas.

An advisory committee is appointed by the Rule's School Board to help plan what programs should be initiated as well as to evaluate the programs at the end of the year and suggest what programs should be planned for the coming year.

inspection of construction projects in Jones, Haskell and Stonewall Counties.

Smart is married to the former Elouise Penny. The Smarts have four children and presently reside in Aspermont. They plan to move to Haskell County in the near future. Assuming Smart's positon in Aspermont is Earl Meador, presently maintenance supervisor of Shackelford County. Replacing Meador is Paul Wheeler, Jr. of Baird, Texas.

With only two games to go, the Haskell Indians remain in the top position in district 7-A following a 41-15 victory over the Hamlin Pied Pipers last Friday.

The Indians got off to a slow start but seemed to get better as the game progressed. The Tribe offense managed 25 first downs and 370 yards of total offense. The defense allowed Hamlin 9 first downs and 192 yards total offense.

Vonnie Hise carried the ball 21 times for a total of 184 yards and Jimmy Browning carried 23 times for 114 yards to lead the offensive attack. Monnie Hise carried 19 times for 49 vards. Hamlin got on the board first early in the game on a 17 yard pass. The PAT was good giving them a 7-0 lead.

Later in the first quarter, Browning put 6 points on the board for Haskell on a 23 yard run. The PAT failed. Indians fans saw a new play in the second quarter when

Monnie Hise passed 5 yards to

Robert Rodriquez for another

the 2 point conversion giving Haskell a 15-7 halftime lead.

Browning scored twice in the Third period, once on a four yard run and once on a 27 yard run. Rodriquez kicked both PAT's to make the third period score 28-7.

Haskell's fourth quarter scoring came on a run by Vonnie Hise and a Rex Pittman to Bruce Enriquez 29 yard pass. One PAT was good finalizing the Tribe scoring at 41 points.

Hamlin scored once in the final period on a 29 yard run. The two-point conversion was

After a 17-13 win over the Munday Monguls, the Indians apparently couldn't get firedup about Hamlin with a 1-6 record and the result was obvious. Hamlin moved the ball better than any team in the district has been able to except Munday. The Pied Pipers ran a draw play four times, the first three of which were all good for over twenty yards each. The final attempt of the draw in the fourth quarter was stopped at the line of scrimmage.

Browning hurt his knee during the game and did not see much action during the last quarter. The knee is apparently in good shape now and Browning should be back against Knox City this Friday.

The Indians have two more district games and both will be played in Huskell.

Knox City has a 5-3 season record and a 2-3 district record. They have defeated Rochester, 42-0; Rule, 18-2; Archer City, 20-12; Aspermont, 21-0 and Hamlin 15-12. They have lost their last three to Crowell

Rotan, 7-0; and Munday, 21-0. The team has good size with one tackle listed on the program at 290, and a 180 back. They run offensively from the Houston veer and have a basic split six on defense. The team has more individual talent than they have shown in the last few weeks and this match up should prove to be a good game.

In district 7-A with two weeks left Haskell has the only undefeated record at 5-0. Other district teams and their records are: Munday and Crowell, 4-1; Knox City and

Two research doctors, studying the effect of smoking on body reflexes found the reflexes reduced by as much as two-thirds within four minutes after healthy young men began smoking high-nicotine cigarettes. The reflexes usually were not back to normal until 20 mintues after smoking ceased. The obvious conclusion from these U of Michigan tests is that mental and physical reactions are hampered by cigarette smoking. It is good to note that teenage smoking has greatly reduced during recent years.

COMPUTER MONEY?

Proposition 6 is a proposed constitutional amendment we will be called on to vote yea or nay November 8, 1977.

Many factors may govern your decision on how you vote. It would open an entire unproven way of consumers handling their money from the present cash and written check method. Below are some thoughts by Congressional Quarterly, Washington, D.C.

Consumer groups claim the systems have enormous potential for error, fraud, frustration and invasion of privacy. They say EFT dangers are much greater than the computer foul-ups that sometimes occur with routine billing and credit

These are some of the EFT problems that consumer groups worry about:

UNAUTHORIZED WITHDRAWALS

If a debit card were lost or stolen and the consumer's code number revealed, unauthorized persons could empty a bank account in seconds without being detected.

LOSS OF CONTROL

Once automatic payments are begun, consumers lose control over the timing and amount of money removed by third parties.

Federal law limits a consumer's liability to $50 if his credit card is lost or stolen. But there is no liability protection for debit cards, and many banks say they are not responsible for unsolicited debit cards, others offer promotional gifts, and few have consumer contracts. Given the high volume of EFT transactions, consumers worry about mistaken deduction, Banks are promoting EFT without explaining its responsibilities and risks. Some send missed payments, unrecorded deposits and erasures of entire accounts. Who can be held responsible for computer foul-ups? Computers have opened a new branch of crime, permitting elaborate theft and fraud. Criminal opportunities and temptations are multiplied many times by EFT.

INVASION OF PRIVACY Consumers have no control over confidential financial information stored on EFT computer tapes. The tapes could be used by merchants, advertisers, government and political organizations.

Automated tellers and some other EFT systems record bank deposits and withdrawals, but point-of-sale terminals might not provide receipts. Since consumers write no checks with EFT they may have no record of purchases and payments.

LACK OF CHOICE Since complete EFT systems are expensive and require high volume to be profitable, smaller banks and businesses that prefer checking accounts might not be able to compete. Consumers find the paper work of checks cumbersome but reassuring.

I feel that it would be best for Consumers and banks not to have "Computer Money". I therefore recommend that you

USDA Soil Conservation Service Assisting

Haskell Soil and Water Conservation District

During October, SCS personnel assisted the Haskell Soil and Water Conservation District with four sub-division director, elections and the formation of the Board of Directors announced earlier last month.

49 landowners and operators were assisted with 24 planning services and 80 application services. 19 cooperators applied one or more conservation practices. 3 inventories and evaluations were made for individual landowners not cooperating with the District.

Leon Jones and Larry Blackwell developed a group plan for constructing a joint waterway between them on their farms in the Mattson Community. Both of their district conservation plans were revised. The waterway was been constructed using ACP assistance.

the A.C. Knipling farm in the Sagerton area was completed under the ACP program. A waterway was also constructed on Leon and David Burson's farm south of Haskell with ACP assistance. Waterway construction is underway on the Moore farm, operated by Patrick Henry of Haskell, along with waterways on the W.F. Hertel and Phil Coleman farms.

Construction will start soon on a group waterway involving A.D. May, Mrs. W.R. Mason, E.L. Elmore, and Hubert Hunt all of the Rule area with assistance under the ACP. Dale Middlebrook of Paint Creek, working with the Great Plains Conservation Program is now constructing a waterway and farm pond.

Parallel terraces work has been completed on Duard Campbell's farm, the Pierson-Isbell farm, Johnny Wheatley's farm, and M.C. Josselet's farm with GPCP assistance. Work is underway on parallel terraces on the W.L. Mullins farm with GPCP assistance.

October has been a very busy month. November promises to be just as busy if it doesn't rain. But we sure could use a good rain. Small grain farmers and ranchers are in dire need of moisture.

COTTON CLASSING

Cotton prices dropped slightly with mixed lots of grade 42 and higher bringing from 42 to 44 cents per pound, according to Sidney Ferrell, in charge of the Munday Classing Office. Market activity is very slow and demand is poor.

Grades in the Light Spotted category increased from 15 last week to 38 percent this week. Grade 32 accounted for 34 percent of the cotton classed. Grade 31 accounted for 46 percent and grade 40 was 8 percent. Four percent of the cotton classed was reduced in grade because of bark or grass. Staples 31 and 32 accounted for 50 percent and 43 percent, respectively. Micronaire readings continued unchanged with 95 percent miking in the 3.5 to 4.9 range. Pressley fiber strength readings averaged 91,000 pounds per square inch for both the week and the

More than 14,700 samples were classed during the week ending Friday, October 28. This brings our season total to 52,800. At the same time last year this office had classed only 1,000 samples.

CONTEMPLATING AN INVESTMENT?

I am sure that most of your readers read the page ad in the Oct. 27, Abilene Reporter News concerning the Panama Canal Treaty. If not, I urge that they find one and read it. If one does not wish to contribute to the sponsor of the ad "Citizens For The Republic", headed by Ronald Reagan, I would ask that letters be written to Congressmen urging they vote against ratification of the Treaty.

Mr. Carter stated last week that the Panama Canal was not something that had been bought. I should like to disagree. How about the United States brains that conceived the plan, the $387 million U.S. dollars spent to build the Canal, and last but certainly not least, the many U.S. lives lost in accidents and fever during the building? I think the Panama Canal has been bought and paid for-

Having been in Panama last spring, and seen how General Torrijos and his elite group operate, I would like to give you one small example. For years, the American Red Cross and a united group of churches operated soup kitchens in Panama City, (incidentally, for many Panamanians, this was their only meal of the day). One morning, the General notified both groups that they were to cease, no more soup kitchens, we do not want your charity, etc. effective now. That night, he went on Panamanian TV and announced that the U.S. had ceased to operate the soup kitchens for no apparent reason, he couldn't understand why, it wasn't fair for the wealthy U.S. to treat those less fortunate in this manner and so on. Naturally, as he had planned, near riots and incidents happened. He shrewdly and carefully leads his people along these lines.

Torrijos and his government officials live in beautiful homes and new high rise apartments. Just across the street is utter poverty. I cannot find the words to describe the conditions in which most Panamanians live. Young children fight over scraps dug from garbage cans. Panama produces a small amount of sugar cane, a very few articles from bamboo and there are a few fishing and shrimp boats. Some cattle is raised, but the beef is tough stringy. However, Torrijos has these masses of people believing that once the Treaty is ratified, Panama's economy will immediately bloom from now on.

As for the U.S. gaining the good will of other countries, I say we will lose face, be thoughtof as a push over, and that these other Latin American countries will take advantage of us.

As most people do not know the history, geography or how the Canal is operated, I have asked the Free Press to print a resume of same.

Again, let me ask each of you, whatever your party affiliation, to write your Senators to vote against ratification of the Treaty. It is, at best, degrading to the U.S. in it's working.

Don, thank you for printing this. Needless to say, I am concerned about my children in the Canal Zone, but I am also concerned about my country.

Sincerely, Lois Redwine 1100 N. 8th St. Haskell, Texas

New Business In Haskell To Open

Jack and Kathleen Lane announce the opening of a new business in Haskell, the Haskell Trade Mart. The business is to be an area trade market, often called a flea market. The purpose of the mart is to furnish facilities for Hold State buyers, sellers, and traders to

They have been selling at the Traders Village market in Grand Pairie for several years and have been intrigued by its open air fun atmosphere. It seems to be profitable to all.

Since their plans were to return to Haskell, they sold their businsss and property in the Ft. Worth area and chose to contribute this business venture to the Haskell area. They have tried to build the best facility of this type in the West Texas area. They hope to make it a desirable place for buyers and traders from a wide area and thus create an interest for out of town visitors to come to Haskell.

They offer covered selling spaces, enclosed spaces for dealers who want to leave their inventory and lock it up from one selling date to the next, and open spaces to rent, all at reasonable rates. There will also be concessions for food and drink, parking and bathroom facilities on the

The Panama Canal

In 1524, Charles V of Spain ordered the first survey of a proposed canal route through the Isthmus of Panama. More than three centuries passed before the first construction was started. The French labored 20 years, beginning in 1880, but disease and financial problems defeated them.

In 1903, Panama gained its independence from Colombia. Shortly thereafter, Panama and the United States signed a treaty in which the United States guaranteed Panama's independence and paid her $10 million. On May 4, 1904, the United States purchased the French Canal Company rights and properties for $40 million and began construction. The hugh project was completed in 10 years at a cost of about $387 million.

The SS Ancon made the first official ocean-to-ocean transit on August 15, 1914. In fiscal year 1976 there were 13,201 transits, of which 12,280 were oceangoing vessels of more than 300 Panama Canal net tons. During the year, transiting ships carried 117,402,325 long tons of cargo and paid $134,987,867 in tolls and toll credits. The pre-World War II years traffic peak was 7,479 vessles in 1939.

The highest Canal tolls is $50,216.75, paid by the German container ship Tokio Express on May 16, 1976. Highest passenger ship toll is $42,077.88, paid by the Queen Elizabeth 2 on her first transit March 25, 1975. Lowest toll is 36 cents, paid by Richard Halliburton for swimming the Canal in 1928.

The longest ship to transit is the San Juan Prospector, an ore-bulk-oil carrier. The vessle, which is 973 feet long with a beam of 106 feet, transited in April 1973.

The largest passenger vessel to transit the Canal is the British flag vessel Queen Elizabeth 2. Her gross tonnage is 65,683 with a length of 963 feet and a beam of 105 feet. Record cargo carried through the Canal was aboard the bulk carrier Melodic, which transited November 29, 1973, with 61,078 long tons of coal. The widest ships to transit are the U.S.S. New Jersey and her sister ships (880 feet in length and 108 feet in beam). Deepest draft authorized through the Canal is 40 feet.

Tolls are levied on a net tonnage basis, Panama Canal measurement. Effective November 18, 1976, they were increased to $1.29 a ton for laden ships and $1.03 a ton for ships in ballast. A ship which would otherwise have to sail around "The Horn" can save about 10 times the amount of her toll by using the Canal. The average toll is $11,039.

The Canal cost the United States $387 million to build. Of the gross investment of $2.8 billion in the Canal enterprise over the years, some $927 million has not been recovered. The Canal operation is self-sustaining. It covers the cost of its operations, pays the U.S. Treasury interest of the investment and finances its improvement

The Canal is approximately 50 miles long, deep water to deep water, and follows a northwesterly to southeasterly direction. The Canal Zone occupies a strip of land 10 miles wide-5 miles on each side from the center of the waterway. The Atlantic entrance is entrance. A ship entering the Canal from the Atlantic sails at sea level from Cristobal Harbor to Gatun Locks, a distance of 7 miles. It is then lifted 85 feet to Gatun Lake in three lockages, of "steps." From Gatun it sails, 85 feet above sea level, to Pedro Miguel, a distance of 31 miles. A single lockage at Pedro Miguel lowers the ship 31 feet to Miraflores Lake. A mile further south the vessel enters Miraflores Locks and, in two lockages, is lowered 54 feet to the Pacific Ocean level. A ship sails 4 miles to the Balboa port area before entering the outer harbor.

The average time for a ship in Canal waters (including time spent at the anchorage awaiting transit) is about 16-20 hours. The average time spent in transit from port to port is about 9 hours. The fastest transit, 3 hours and 53 minutes, was made by the German vessel Bronskappel on December 30, 1968.

The deepest excavations for the Canal were made through the section called Gaillard Cut (formerly Culebra), where the waterway passes through the Continental Divide between banks exceeding 300 feet in height in some areas. The "Cut" extends from Pedro Miguel Locks north to Gamboa and the edge of Gatun Lake. It is about 9 miles long and from this section alone excavations totaled more than 230 million cubic yards, a volume equivalent to a 12-foot-square shaft cut through the center of the earth.

The usable width of Gaillard Cut, originally 300 feet, has been widened to 500 feet. This involved the removal of an additional 50 million cubic yards of rock and earth, a volume equivalent to an 11-foot square shaft cut through the center of the moon.

It was in Gaillard Cut that the massive slides occurred which delayed the original Canal-project and later closed the waterway five times. The greatest of these, the east and west Culebra slides, resulted in the removal of 35 million cubic yards of material. In 1915 the channel in this area was completely blocked by earth masses from either side which piled mud and rock debais to a height of 65 feet above water level across the Canal. It took 7 months to clear the waterway.

In Gaillard Cut one finds the spectacular view often seen in classic photographs of the Panama Canal. Gold Hill, on the east side, rises to an elevation of 662 feet above sea level or 577 feet above Canal water, while Contractor's Hill, on the opposite side, stands at 350 feet above sea level.

The saddle which originally connected these two hills, although selected for the Canal location as the lowest point on the Continental Divide, rose to the formidable elevation of 312 feet above sea level. From this height excavation was carried down to the present channel bottom of 40 feet above the sea.

In 1954 a crack appeared in the massive igneous rock forming Contractor's Hill and widened to threatening proportions. To safeguard the Canal against serious rockfall, 2.5 million cubic yards of rock were blasted and removed. This reduced the hill from its original elevation of 415.5 feet above sea level to its present elevation of 350 feet and eliminated the unstable rock mass adjacent to Caillard Cut is named after Col. David Gaillard, who was in charge of this part of the Canal excavation until his death in 1913. In 1928 the impressive bronze plaque, now seen high on the rock face of Contractor's Hill, was erected in Colonel Gaillard's honor. This plaque measures 8 by 10 feet and weighs 1,200 pounds.

The engineers who made the original studies for a canal through the Isthmus of Panama at first favored a sea-level canal, but the tremendous amount of excavation required to dig Gaillard Cut through the Continental Divide, and the problems posed by such unprecedented depths of excavation. were largely responsible for their eventual decision to build a lock canal instead. However, the possibility of building a sea-level waterway, either in Panama or elsewhere, has been explored in recent years.

A commission authorized by the Congress of the United States studied the possibility of building a new interoceanic canal at one of several possible locations. The possibilities considered included conversion of the present Canal to a sea-level waterway. Also considered were routes through the Darien regions of Panama and across the northern coast of Colombia. The commission reported to the President and made recommendations on the matter in December 1970, but no decision has been made. Meanwhile, though traffic is increasing and the number of large ships is ever greater, the present Panama Canal is meeting the demands of world commerce with greater efficiency than ever.

The town of Gamboa, located at the junction of the Chagres River and the Canal, is the headquarters of the Dredging Division. All types of floating equipment are operated for channel maintenance and improvement work. The large floating crane Hercules, also moored at Gamboa, is capable of lifting 250 long tons. It was built in Germany under contract prior to World War I and was towed across the Atlantic Ocean during World War I.

The lock chambers are 110 feet wide and 1,000 feet long. There are more than 1,000 ships in the world too large to enter the locks.

Water enters the locks through a system of main culverts which are the same size as the Hudson River tubes of the Penn Central railroad. From these main culverts, 10 sets of lateral culverts extend under the lock chambers from the side walls and 10 sets from the center wall. Each lateral culvert has a set of 5 holes, each measuring 41/2 feet in diameter. As the water is released into the main culverts, it is diverted into the 20 lateral culverts and distributed through 100 holes in the floor of the chamber. For each ship transiting the Canal, about 52 million gallons of fresh water are used-fed by a gravity flow system through the locks and spilled into the Gatun Dam was the largest earth dam in the world until the construciton of Fort Peck Dam. Until Lake Mead was formed by the construction of Hoover Dam, Gatun Lake was the largest artifical body of water in the world.

Druggists Attend Meeting

Doyle High, R.Ph., and Kenneth Jones R.Ph. both of Haskell, attended a continuing education seminar on Sunday, October 23, 1977 in Lubbock entitled "Biopharmaceutics and the Pharmacist's Role in Product Selection in Patient Care". The seminar was held at the Lubbock Hilton and was sponsored by the Texas Pharmaceutical Education and Research Foundation and the Texas Tripartite Committee on Continuing Pharmacy Educa-

Lectures were designed to provide the pharmacist with the necessary expertise in evaluating bioequivalence/ bioavailability data provided by drug manufacturers. This information would enable the pharmacist to make proper decisions in selecting equivalent drug products for brand interchange. A discussion of the liability of drug product selection was included in the program.

Five hours (0.5 CEUs) of continuing education credit was earned for participation in the seminar.

Firefighters Need Physical Conditioning

Hartford, Conn.—(PWS)— Statistics show that every year 37 percent of the nation's firefighters are injured on the job, often because of poor physical condition-

In fact, the statistics also show that firefighters have the highest on-the-job death rate of any occupational group and are among the prime candidates for cardiovascular disease and heart attack.

The International Association of Fire Chiefs, alarmed over the casualty rate among the nation's 186,000 firefighters, asked the President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports for help. Working with The Travelers Insurance Companies, the Coun-
