Former Governor Campaigns In Haskell

Former Governor Preston Smith brought his 1978 campaign for re-election to the state's highest office to Haskell last Thursday. His enthusiastic campaign tactics have him on a county to county, state-wide blitz. In taking his campaign to the people of Texas, he is meeting with as many grass roots voters as is physically possible. His tireless energies assure the people he meets that he is not only a viable candidate for Governor of Texas but that he will indeed win the post.

Running on his remarkable record of having been the man who established more new state universities and medical and dental training facilities than any other governor, he is emphasizing the need for economical educational funding. He established more vocational and technical schools than any other governor in history and emphasizes that it is essential for a student to be qualified to do something upon graduation from high school.

Preston Smith readily voices his concern for the economic status of the state. Having successfully defeated attempts to levy a personal income tax on Texas citizens, he finds fault with the present administration because taxes have indeed gone up. "Although it is true that there have been no new state taxes in the past several years, what Texan can say, due to inflation, that his taxes have not gone up?" Smith proposes that taxes be cut to save the pocketbook of the average Texan.

Governor Preston Smith has

City Council

Holds Meeting

The regular meeting of the Haskell City Council was held Tuesday night in the City Hall with all members present.

Following the call to order by Mayor Belton Duncan, the invocation was given by Councilman Loraine Johnson. Mayor Duncan reported on the receipt of a sales tax check in the amount of $4,884.62.

Members of the Council passed a City Ordinance setting a 15 mph speed limit on S. Av. G and H between south 3rd and south 5th streets. The ordinance will go into effect after publication of the ordinance and the posting of signs.

Councilmen voted to advertise for bids for a new garbage truck. The bids will be opened March 14, at the next regular Council meeting.

It was reported during the meeting that Wednesday, March 1, was the last day to file for the City Election. Wednesday morning Royce Williams was the only announced candidate for Mayor. There were five announced candidates to fill two places on the Council. They are: Earl Proctor, (re-election), Ralph Merchant, Charles Reed, Joe Cortez, and W.D. Larned.

A complete list of City and school candidates will be published next week.

worked hard to produce results not rhetoric, products not promises, issues not images, leadership not laxity and growth not gimmicks. An acre of performance is worth a whole world of promises.

Accomplishments of Governor Preston Smith

New Minister At Christian Church

Tom Jones of Kiowa, Kansas, arrived in Haskell this week to become the minister-evangelist of the Haskell Christian Church. Mr. and Mrs. Jones and their four children, two sons, one fourteen; one ten; and two daughters, one eight, and a baby girl 1 month, are living at 607 North 9th Street and the telephone number is 864-2445.

Mr. Jones comes to Haskell highly recommended as a preacher and evangelist. He has had many years experience, after completing his education at Ozark Bible College, Joplin, Missouri. He will preach his first sermon next Sunday March 5th, at 10:45 a.m. and the members of the congregation extend a cordial invitation to the people of Haskell to hear him.

Fought to open the State Democratic Party to all Texans regardless of age or ethnic background.

Initiated the first state-wide airport system plan.

Promulgated the first Texas Minimum Wage Law.

Initiated the Early Childhood Development Program.

Established the Texas Urban Development Commission.

Proposed Law Would Place Wildlife Under Fed. Govt.

A federal aid program which provides major support for many Texas Parks and Wildlife Department programs would be abolished if a bill currently in Congress becomes law.

The proposed legislation, H.R. 9615, is named "National Conservation Policy Act of 1977," and it proposes to usurp the states' sovereignty and declare all wildlife as being the property of the federal government.

The act would repeal the Pittman-Robertson Act, the federal program which partially reimburses the department for a variety of programs including preservation and restoration of both game and non-game species of animals and birds.

The P-R program is funded by sportsmen through excise taxes on guns, ammunition and certain archery equipment.

Ted Clark, director of wildlife for the department, said the proposed bill would de-emphasize hunting and shift the emphasis to non-game rather than game animals. "What this bill fails to acknowledge is that the P-R program supports restoration of all wildlife, not just game animals and birds," Clark said.

some of the goals he had outlined. Equally surprising is the fact that when AAM began they did not know of Congressman Litton's speech.

Reports were given by several people who were in Washington last week talking to Congressmen, aides, and others interested in the future of the family farmer and rancher. Those in Washington were Larry Smith of Munday, Donald Griffis of Weinert, JoAnn and Ross Oliver of Knox City, and Ken Lane, Rick Perry, Bettie and Mac McBroom, all of Haskell.

Each year $9 billion is available in financial aid to help students meet post-secondary education costs. Some of the financial aid opportunities offered are based on need, some are athletic in nature, some are for academic excellence regardless of need, some are highly specialized, such as those offered to music majors, while others are general in nature and available to all, regardless of curriculum.

Parents are rarely in a position to be fully informed on all available financial aid. Due to the continued rise in college and higher education costs, financing the needs becomes more and more difficult and the need for information increases. Therefore, parents of junior and senior students are urged to attend the workshop with their children.

For more information, contact Mrs. Betty Davis, Counselor of Haskell Schools.

Commissioners Hold Meeting

The Commissioners Court of Haskell County met Tuesday and faced a short agenda.

Commissioners agreed to advertise for bids for a used dozer for Prec. 4. The bids will be opened at the March 13 meeting.

Members of the court discussed the grant application for improvements at Scott Memorial Park. It was announced that the application has been sent to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department and that a TP&W representative has made an on site study. This is a 50-50 grant program.

It was also announced that another section of TP&W sometimes makes 70-30 to 100% grants for boat ramp construction. Members of the court also submitted this application. Funding percentage depends on available State funds.

Members of the Court discussed appointment of Hospital Board Members. The terms of board members from Rule, Prec. 4, and Haskell County at large will expire. They will be appointed at the next meeting of the court.

Commissioners agreed to allow $500.00 of Revenue Sharing funds to be used to pay a bill at Haskell County Museum.

A lengthy discussion was held concerning jail standards and it was announced that the County jail is now very close to complying with all standards. Members of the court voted to purchase a communications system required by the Jail Standards Act. The system was purchased from Owens Radio and Electric at a cost of $564.25.

Christie Campaigns In Haskell

Joe Christie, Democratic candidate for United States Senator, brought his campaign to Haskell County Thursday when he made a late afternoon handshaking tour of the county courthouse in Haskell.

The "media event" remark by Earl Butz concerning the farm strike is "precisely the kind of insensitivity by government officials that has worsened the farmer's plight," Joe Christie said.

"It was the Republican farm program espoused by Earl Butz that got the farmer in trouble in the first place," the Democratic senatorial candidate added.

Butz, former secretary of agriculture, spoke Feb. 13 to the Golf Course Superintendents of America. He said, "If you'd taken the TV cameras away, it would have dried up a long time ago."

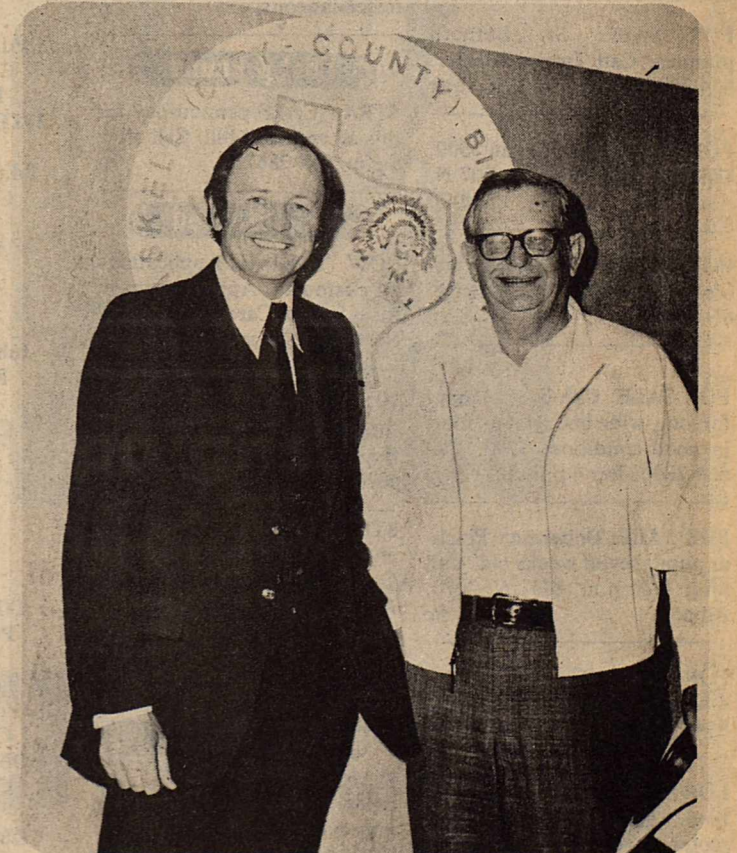

"How typical that is of Butz and those of his political persuasion," Christie said. "The racial demonstrations in the 1950s and 1960s, and the anti-war demonstrations of more recent years would have gone away, too, I suppose, if there had been no cameras."

"Butz is known for stupid remarks. His little 'joke' about blacks when he was in office will shadow him to his grave. "All it takes to make Butz happy is a warm place to play golf, a loose mouth and a tight belly."

"The farmers in this country face extinction. I know. I have visited with them all over this state. Some of them already have been forced to sell their land. And others will follow if we don't give them a profit in the marketplace for their work, just as city workers get at least a minimum wage for their work. "And if they are replaced by corporate farming, our grocery bills are not going to go up 10 or 20 percent, they're going to go up 60 to 70 percent."

Bride Elect

Teresa Hodges bride-elect of Ronny Denson was honored with a gift shower by the residents and employees of Rice Springs Care Home.

The gift table with red cloth and white lace over-lay was placed in the north activity room of the care home. A festive cloth of red and white covered the refreshment table which was in the dining area. Sparkling red punch was served from a crystal punch bowl and assorted cookies were served with tiny candies on red napkins to carry out the red and white colors chosen by the bride-elect. The centerpiece was of red roses.

The residents were able to be a part of Teresa's wedding festivities by planning this surprise, and excitement was high as the hour approached for the shower. The residents also participated by tying rice bags for the wedding.

Door Prizes were won by Louise Thornhill and Tim Everett. Approximately sixty persons attended the meeting.

BIRTHS

4-H Adult Leaders from Rule, Weinert and Haskell attended a 4-H Adult Leader Training meeting on Thursday, February 23rd at 4:00 p.m. in the meeting room of the County Extension Office.

The purpose of the 4-H Clothing Project is to help 4-H'ers develop skills in planning, buying and constructing clothing. Develop ability to select suitable and becoming accessories. Develop understanding of "self" in order that the individual may select and make clothing which is becoming and expressive of personality. Develop grace, good posture and habits of good grooming. Learn to work and share with others.

In the training, the four levels of the clothing project was explained. Each level contains lessons on the social role of clothing, textiles, economics, and creation and design. Leaders saw examples of garments and hand work that could be done in construction.

Training was given on how to conduct a Clothing Project Meeting. Junior Leaders, Kay Campbell, Tauniya White, Lynn Weatherly, and Joanne Cloud helped to conduct the training.

Each of the leaders participated in a Clothing Project Lesson on Fibers. Information was presented on how fibers are made into yarn then into fabric. The group studied about natural and man made fibers and burned swatches in order to learn to identify the fiber content. Carolyn Schur gave a demonstration on construction.

Each of the leaders will conduct two project meetings per month during March, April and May. The County 4-H Dress Revue will be Saturday, June 10, 1978 at Paint Creek.

Those attending the meeting were Mrs. Lowell McGuire Weinert; Mrs. John Greeson, Mrs. Larry Dennis, Tauniya White and Joanne Cloud of Rule; Kay and Kim Campbell, and Lynn Weatherly of Haskell. The meeting was conducted by Barbara Elliott, County Extension Agent.

Letters To The Editor

(EDITORS NOTE: The Haskell Free Press will publish letters to the Editor dealing with any subject. All letters must be signed but names will be withheld by request. All letters are subject to editing for length and liability.)

Dear Editor:

I been on this farm now on 40 years. I have lived through droughts, floods, hail storms and the BOLE WEAVIL. Now them there bole weavils nearly wiped me out, but with the help of God I survived. But I ain't never seen nothing yet like this "Political Mess" we are in.

Now us FARMERS have always lived for a BUMPER CROP and NEXT YEAR to pay off all our BACK DEBTS. Well this year we made that BUMPER CROP, and when we sold it we didn't have DIME left what with cotton 42c a pound, wheat $2.00 a bushel, and milo $3.00 a bushel. Now Mr. President, see if you can make this scale balance. This is the price we go for our crops 10 years ago, everything we buy has DOUBLED and TRIPLED in price. Now even a dummy like me can figure that. Now the more I think about this the madder I gets.

Me and mama worked hard on this ole farm, taught our kids to work too! We always took them to church, sent them to school, yeah we even sent them to college to get them there DEGREES. We had to mortgage the farm to EDUCATE THEM, but we ain't sorry of it though. We didn't want them to have to work for nothing like we had to.

I ain't never figured out yet why the FARMERS who feed this world can't have nice things jest like other HUMANS. I guess this world thinks we owe them something. We work hard all year for nothing. Reckon them wage workers would work all year and tell their bosses, "You jest owe me enough to pay my bills and buy my groceries?" Bet your bottom dollar they wouldn't.

Now my son has a Master's Degree and a good job, but I guess he took after his ole man. He has a love for the land. He wants me and mama to retire and let him take over the farm. I said, "Son, there ain't no way you can make a living for your family on the farm these days." He was so disappointed and I got madder than ever. God put man on this earth and told him he would earn his living off this land. Sometimes I sure wish Adam had stayed in that garden.

Now me being a God fearing man and loving my neighbor, I decided it was time me and the Lord had a long talk about this farm. I went out to feed ole Betsy, that's my milk cow, can't afford that bottled milk. I got my stool and set down besides Betsy and said, "While you eat me and the Lord are going to have a talk." Well, it seemed me and the Lord jest wasn't getting nowhere, then all of a sudden me and that stool was up in the air, I landed on my feet. I looked at Betsy, she was calmly eating her hay. I said, "Lord, you trying to tell me something?" Then I knew I had to help myself.

I went to the house and told mama, "I am going to strike." She said, "You can't do that." I said, "Jest watch me!" I called my neighbors and told them, they laughed and said, "Did you ever hear of a FARMER ON STRIKE?" I said, "Nope, but I am." They asked why. I told them I made the best crop I ever made in my life and I ain't got a dime left. I went to the bank and the banker took a mortgage on my farm and said, "We can't go on like this much longer." My neighbors said, "We are all jest like you, jest hated to admit it." We quit lying to each other. We were all in the same boat.

We decided to take our tractors to town and make us some signs like them fellers do on TV when they want something. I started my ole John Deere. Sure hoped it didn't break down before I got back. Now, I ain't got me a cab like some fellers.

We started down that road to town and by the time we got to town we was having so much fun we decided to go on to the next town, the farther we went the more FARMERS joined us. Why you couldn't see nothing but tractors and pickups for miles. Even them RICH FARMERS with them ROLLS ROYCE tractors joined us. Seems they was jest like us. I parked my ole J.D. beside one of them ROLLS ROYCE tractors and we looked like an ant and a giraffe. Man they were sky scrapers. Fellers like me wouldn't know how to drive one of them. But you know the only difference between me and that rich one, he jest had further to fall.

Boy we was having a ball! Nobody ever looked at us this way before. We got started down that highway and we went plumb to Abilene. We were jest like them bole weavils except we had signs on our backs. Them city people didn't know there was that many FARMERS IN TEXAS. They cussed us, honked at us, tried to run over us, called out their laws, but we wasn't doing no wrong, jest driving down the highway that we pay taxes on jest like they do.

We set us up a strike office. Yeah, a real office jest like them city folks with a telephone in it so we could call Washington, D.C. everyday. Always wondered what it would be like to set in one of them offices out of all this sun and dirt.

Well, we got the attention of them city folks then we decided to go to Washington, D.C., after all, one of them Congressmen invited us to come. We ordered us some signs to put on our caps and jackets and we called Washington, D.C. and told them we WAS coming. We chartered us one of them aeroplanes to go in. We wanted to FLY not CRAWL to the CAPITOL. By this time our wives decided to go along. They jest couldn't trust us in a big city like that, seeing all them dolled up women on TV.

When all us FARMERS landed in Washington, D.C. it pert near scared them people to death. They called out their laws and police dogs. We looked like a bunch of crows in a peanut patch. But we let them know we wasn't there for PEANUTS.

Now most of them folks were real nice to us, they all sympathized with us. But we told them right then and there, we did not want sympathy, we wanted a profit on what we growed. You know, we converted a lot of them fellers, when we left they were wearing our signs and caps.

Now that Mrs. Bergman was something else. Why he don't know beans from corn bread, and I jest stood right up and told him so.

Most of them house fellers was willing to listen to us. But Mr. President wouldn't listen to us except when he come to the capital to make his speech. Man it was cold and snowing like everything. But when Mr. Carter got out of his TOURING CAR and started up them steps to the capitol we started yelling 100% parity so loud it nearly scared the pants off him. Why it took him 30 minutes longer to make his speech. But we did get honorable mention.

We stayed a few more days and shook a few more trees. By that time they decided we wasn't there to do no harm. So they called off their police dogs. But before we left we let them know we would be back. I told them I was going back and get my EDUCATED SON so he could understand all that double talk they was putting out.

Now my son is as smart as a whip. And that ain't no joke. He is not jest EDUCATED, he's DOUBLE EDUCATED. Me and mama we taught our kids to love God's creation, the birth of new borns, the reproduction of all God's Creatures, the land and all the things it grows, when to plow, when to plant, when to reap and when to sow, and jest plain ole down to earth horse sense. Then we helped them get all them there college DEGREES. So you see that makes him DOUBLE EDUCATED.

Now when we go back to Washington, D.C., while my DOUBLE EDUCATED son is in there DOUBLE TALKING them Congressmen, I am going to do like that ole hound dog. I am going to walk up and down them halls and howl until they listen to us. "Now ain't that right Son?"

I ain't had so much fun in all my life. Still ain't figured out if that was the Good Lord or ole Betsy gave me that kick. But, I am mighty thankful for which ever it was.

Inspired by the plight of family farmer and written by Mrs. Julius Perryman, Old Glory, Texas.

State Farm Announces Dividend

Haskell's State Farm Insurance Agent, Brian Burgess, announced good news for all of Haskell's drivers, and especially for State Farm's policyholders, Monday.

Burgess has announced that State Farm Mutual, the World's Largest Auto Insurance Company, will return a 13.2 per cent dividend to its Texas policyholders, beginning April 15.

The Texas dividends will total $13 million and will be a part of a $126 million nationwide dividend paid by the company.

State Farm, which insures a million vehicles in Texas, declared a 7.8 per cent dividend last August. That announcement was a major reason cited by former State Insurance Board Chairman, Joe Christie, for recessing that November auto insurance rate hearing considering a motion for a 17.4 per cent increase in Texas private passenger auto rates.

Subsequently, the hearing has never reconvened, and rates remain the same as they were in 1976, and that's good news for everyone.

Burgess, with his wife, Jennifer, office at 111 N. Ave. E., here in Haskell, just south of Pogue's Grocery.

There is a myth that if women build up muscles in sports, it will cause complications later during pregnancy. Exactly the opposite is true. Obstetricians now prescribe exercises for expectant mothers to improve their muscles. A woman with good muscle tone may experience fewer labor problems. If she has maintained good physical condition all her life thru sports and exercise, it will bring many benefits during motherhood.

Learn Or Burn Is Navy Firefighting School Motto

From the ancient mariner to today's able-bodied seaman, the rugged sailor has weathered many storms. But through all the universal experiences that have faced the determined seafarer from typhoon to tidal wave-few sensations have surpassed the frightening drama of fire at sea. Although ironically surrounded on all sides by unlimited amounts of water, the ship ablaze can quickly become a floating inferno.

And at that point, the vessel is only as safe as the men who possess the timely skills necessary to bring the fire under control. One man who is largely responsible for ensuring that those firefighting skills are learned by men entering the U.S. Pacific Fleet is Leslie D. Wittenborn, a Navy petty officer first class from Haskell, Tex.

As one of 45 instructors at the Navy's Fleet Training Center Firefighting School here, Wittenborn is putting his nine years of naval experience to work helping others learn how to save their own lives as well as those of their shipmates.

"A fire on shore is much different than a fire at sea," explained Wittenborn, the 28-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Wittenborn of Haskell. "On land all you have to do is call the fire department and they'll come and put out the fire for you. But at sea you can't do that. The ship happens to be your home when you're out there and the only way you can put out the fire is to do it yourself."

As one of the largest military firefighting training facilities in the nation, the Fleet Firefighting School with men like Wittenborn, trains more than 56,000 people each year.

The students, who range in rank from basic recruit to full commander, are required to fight nine realistic, situational fires, including fires in engine rooms, boiler rooms, berthing and food service spaces.

"On a ship you just can't start a fire and go around spraying water to put it out as part of a training exercise," said Wittenborn, a 1967 graduate of Mattson High School in Haskell. "Whereas here, we can light fires inside our various structures and have the students put them out by using different methods. Ours is a controlled situation. We know what is going to happen, but the students don't."

About 60 per cent of the two-day course is spent actually fighting the uncontrolled fires. The rest of the time is spent in class where students learn the basic theory of firefighting and equipment operation.

Three different courses are open to sailors in the fleet and are taught by career designated petty officers in the job ratings of hull technician, machinist mate and aviation boatswain's mate.

As a Navy hull technician--the Navy's main damage control rating--Wittenborn teaches recruits entering the fleet. He says he took the assignment as a challenge and because he feels his experience can help someone else.

"I want to emphasize to the recruits to remember what they've learned when they get out to the fleet and to try to pick up as much additional training as they can while in the fleet," he said. Usually it's six months to one year before they come back here for more intensified training."

Two special classes are offered to people in the aviation community, who fight blazes in a specially constructed giant "astrodome." The structure, which is unique among firefighting schools, is designed to provide realistic simulation of a major gas and oil fire in an aircraft carrier hangar bay.

The Navy's other major firefighting schools are located in Norfolk, Va., Philadelphia, Pa., Treasure Island, Calif., and Pearl Harbor, Hawaii.

Although fire is a constant threat aboard ship due to a necessary concentration of equipment in limited space, there have been few serious fires aboard Navy vessels in recent years. And, a lot of credit has to go to men like Leslie Wittenborn whose professional philosophy has become one and the same with the Fleet Firefighting School's official motto: "Learn or Burn."

GO BACK TO CLASS WITH CLASS. Shop for your school supplies at the Haskell Free Press. Pens, pencils, notebooks, dictionaries, high intensity lamps, file boxes, pencil sharpeners, rulers protractors, you name it, we have it.

Dr. Martin Luther King was the youngest man to win the Nobel Peace Prize. He was only 35 when he was awarded it in 1964.

Just how significant is the wheat producer in terms of world trade? Statistics provide a pretty solid answer. Although U.S. wheat production still ranks behind Russia and Western Europe in terms of total output, it has been the American wheat producer who has most successfully responded to meeting the growth in world demand. Only five years ago our wheat exports totaled just over 17 million tons... about 30 percent of the world trade. This marketing year United States exports of wheat will top 37 million tons and account for nearly one-half the world wheat trade. In just five years that represents an increase of more than 115 percent in volume and nearly a 70 percent increase in the share of the market. Well done wheat growers!

The Senior Citizens Club met in the Community Building of the Haskell National Bank Feb. 22, for a covered dish luncheon. 23 members and one guest attended the meeting. The program was on arts and crafts. The next meeting will be at 2 p.m. March 8, in the Community Building.

Godfrey To Campaign In Knox City

Fike Godfrey of Abilene, a conservative rancher, businessman and engineer, will bring his campaign for Congress to Knox City Monday, March 6th.

Godfrey will speak at the Knox City Community Center at 10:00 a.m. In seeking the 17th District congressional seat being vacated by U.S. Rep. Omar Burleson, Godfrey said he believes this area should continue conservative, common-sense type of representation which reflects the thinking of most people living in the district.

"This is the viewpoint I have represented for the past seven years as executive vice president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce," said Godfrey who resigned from that post last November to run for Congress. "In that capacity, I worked almost daily with the members of the Texas delegation in Congress and learned my way around Congress. My election would mean that effective representation could continue without interruption, because I would not need any on-the-job training."

Godfrey will discuss in detail a plan aimed at insuring that this nation keeps its self-sufficiency to produce our domestic needs of food and fiber. "I believe a nation which can put men on the moon and bring them back safely can put farmers in the field and bring them back with a reasonable profit to show for their labor investments."

Godfrey favors a balanced federal budget, to restore the nation's fiscal stability and stopping constantly rising prices and taxes, and wants to minimize government interference in the business and personal affairs of the people. Most problems can best be solved by local people, he believes, and the federal government's role should be restricted generally to matters which cannot be handled on the local and state levels.

Farmers Union Reps. Lobby In Washington

Ken Lane, Rick Perry, Mr. and Mrs. W.H. McBroom, and Donald Griffis, of Haskell County were five of 210 Farmers Union members who recently lobbied members of Congress and key officials of the Carter Administration for better farm prices.

Farmers Union members from Ohio, Indiana, Texas, South Dakota and Colorado participated in the Parity Campaign Feb. 20-24. Some 80 farmers from Texas took part.

One of the highlights of the week was an appearance by Ambassador Robert Strauss, former chairman of the Democratic National Committee who is now the President's Special Representative for Trade Negotiations.

Ambassador Strauss projected that an agricultural package would be negotiated by July or August and would be brought back for review. He appeared, like other Carter Administration officials, to be more interested in access to markets than in the price at which U.S. commodities sell in world trade. "We may not get anything for you," Strauss said. "But if we don't get a deal that's fair, we're not going to have a deal."

The National Farmers Union has long been the leading advocate of international commodity agreements as a first step towards farm prosperity and has expressed its keen disappointment at the direction Strauss and the Carter Administration are taking.

Another speaker was Kathleen O'Reilly, executive director of the Consumer Federation of America, a post held by Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Carol Tucker Foreman. She spoke of the common interests of farmers and consumers in a sound food policy that can keep family farmers on the land.

The farm parity campaigners carried the story of the needs for major increases in farm price support levels for 1978 to virtually every House and Senate members office. They asserted that higher support levels were needed to sustain farmers in production and that the higher farm prices and income would help bring about economic recovery and spur employment in the nation. As for retail food costs, the Farmers Union participants maintained that parity prices for farmers should mean only a "scarcely noticeable" increase in food prices if only the increase in farm prices was passed through to the consumer.

Besides their visits to the Congressional offices, the Fly-In members held sessions with USDA officials. At USDA, the group met with Bobby Smith, assistant secretary-designate for marketing services; William Wright, Office of Congressional Affairs, and Charles Riley from ASCS.

The farmers also took their message to a dozen local radio and TV stations while they were in their Nation's Capitol.

BUS-BARN BAZAAR market) March 4, beginning at 7 a.m. Funds raised will be used to help finance a trip to the Solar Dome in San Angelo.

IRS News

In a laundry list account of what to do if you wish to get any refund due you back as soon as possible, the Internal Revenue Service offers these suggestions:

- *Use the pre-addressed, peel-off label on your return. The label, which appears on the cover of the tax package mailed to taxpayers, lists name, address, and social security number. If any of this information is incorrect, you should make corrections right on the label.
- *Married taxpayers filing a joint return should insure that two social security numbers appear on the label. If only one number is shown, the other spouse's number should be entered on the appropriate line.
- *Taxpayers who have moved since filing their tax returns should inform both the U.S. Postal Service and the IRS Service Center where they filed their return, of the new address. Otherwise, any refund due might not reach its destination.
- *Double check your return before filing. Some of the most common taxpayer mistakes include arithmetic errors, use of the wrong filing status, failure to sign the return and especially to provide two signatures in the case of a joint return, and failure to attach all necessary documents.
- *Mail your return in the coded envelope also included with the tax package and make sure you have attached all W-2 forms and required schedules and forms.

HASKELL, TEXAS

WASHINGTON "As It Looks From Here" Omar Burleson Congressman — 17th District

WASHINGTON, D.C. — ON A SATURDAY AT HIGH NOON in late February of 1838, the last legal duel was fought in Maryland, just over the city limits of Washington, D.C. The place is referred to in a book by John Proctor about the early days of Washington as "the dark and bloody grounds."

AS A MATTER OF FACT, THE AREA IS VERY PRETTY with ankle-deep grass and tall trees lining a glade. Despite the hum and roar of traffic, it is a quite a pleasant place where history hovers. A historical marker tells us that more than fifty duels were fought there in the first half of the 19th century. The marker notes that "here gentlemen of Washington settled their political and personal differences." Stephen Decatur was one of the best known duelers on these grounds.

ON THIS FEBRUARY DAY IN 1838, two Members of Congress met to settle insults occurring on the floor of the House of Representatives. Jonathan Cilley had been in Congress less than three months when he made complimentary remarks about Congressman William J. Graves from Kentucky. Graves made the challenge but Cilley at first declined to receive it. Graves considered the refusal as a further affront and required of Mr. Cilley "that satisfaction which is recognized among gentlemen."

THE DUEL WAS ARRANGED WITH RIFLES AT EIGHTY YARDS. The dress was to be "ordinary winter clothing." Mr. Graves acquired the use of a 44-caliber rifle which Davy Crockett had used for target practice and "its accuracy vouched for." Mr. Cilley chose a 32-caliber weapon.

THE ACCOUNT OF THE DUEL SAYS THAT BOTH MEN MISSED on the first exchange. Friends of both men attempted a settlement but failed.

BOTH MEN FIRED A SECOND TIME and both again missed, and, again, reconciliation was attempted. On the third exchange, Jonathan Cilley went down with a bullet through his body and died in minutes.

WITHIN THE YEAR, CONGRESS OUTLAWED DUELING in the United States but, up until the Civil War, a number of aggrieved gentlemen availed themselves of this method of settling challenges to what was considered their personal honor.

OF COURSE, NO ONE WOULD SUGGEST THAT WE RETURN to the practice of dueling to settle personal disputes but at least it was one man against another, it being arranged by the rules that each had an equal chance in every respect. It was not organized crime for material gain nor was it a gang action perpetrated against the unsuspecting. Certainly, it could not come under the heading of "good clean fun" because of its deadly nature but it was out in the open and acted out according to the gentlemen's understanding.

UNLIKE THE GRAVES-CILLEY DUEL, history indicates that a number of challenges were resolved after failure of one dueler to drop on the first shot. In organized crime or gang actions, there is no mediation but only mob action uncontrolled.

IN ORGANIZED CRIME THE UNDERLINGS do what the boss tells them and, in some instances, in group action the fellow who can talk the loudest and throw the straightest egg attempts to become the leader.

Godfrey Opposes Firearm Control

Criminal laws should be designed to control criminals and not firearms. Congressional Candidate Fike Godfrey, a conservative Abilene businessman, rancher and engineer, declared today.

He said he strongly opposes gun control legislation because it would penalize law-abiding citizens, instead of criminals.

"Anyone who would use a gun in committing a crime certainly is not going to be deterred by a law prohibiting him from owning a gun," said Godfrey. "Making it against the law to own a gun is not going to keep anyone from committing armed robbery or murder; it is against the law now to commit armed robbery and murder but that does not prevent such crimes."

"What does prevent crime is speedy apprehension of those who commit them and swift, sure, effective punishment. It does not do any good to merely slap someone on the wrist for committing a serious crime. As a matter of fact, the token penalties with which some criminals are being left off these days simply demoralizes our peace officers who are trying to protect law-abiding citizens.

"Many of our courts have been much too lenient on convicted criminals," said Godfrey. "We must improve our system of justice to make sure that those who commit crimes are apprehended and punished. But there is no excuse for making the ownership of a firearm a criminal offense. We must maintain our long-established, constitutional right of the people to keep and bear arms."

Shipping tomatoes at low temperature does not keep them longer, but makes them ripen prematurely.

The Sagerton "Hee-Haw" was a great success. It and the carnival put around a $1000.00 in the Community Bank Account. The community officers, Delbert LeFevre, Charles Clark and J.B. Toney expressed their thanks to all who donated their time and help of any kind to make it a success. Our number is small here in Sagerton and it takes everyone to make such a project a success.

Kraig Kupatt was a member of the Rule FFA team that placed first at the National Southwestern Hampshire Type Conference at Sweet-

Mr. and Mrs. T.C. Rice and family of Carrollton visited with Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Boedeker.

Mr. and Mrs. Reece Clark, Mrs. Cliff LeFevre and Mrs. John Clark visited Jack Quade at West Texas Medical Center in Abilene Sunday. Jack will probably be moving to the Veteran's Hospital in Big Spring this week. He has been in intensive care at Abilene for about two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Clark were called to Victoria Sunday when they were told that their son, Ray, was in a car accident. His wife and son were also in the car, but were taken to the hospital and released. The family were in route to their home in Karnes City, when the accident occurred.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hertel and family of Hamlin, Dewayne Hertel and his friends from Dallas were guests in the J.A. Hertel home Sunday.

Get well wishes to Mrs. Vela Meier, who was a patient at the Stamford Memorial Hospital last weekend. She is a former resident of Sagerton, now living at Teakwood Manor in Stamford.

Conservation Viewpoints

USDA Soil Conservation Service
Assisting
Haskell Soil and Water Conservation District

The conservation plan after years of showing the way to control erosion and water pollution - is finding its place in energy conservation efforts on farms and ranches.

Farmers and ranchers searching for ways to cut energy costs should take a close look at some of the most popular soil and water conservation management systems. Conservation practices that make up these systems not only conserve soil and water, they also conserve fuel.

Energy costs have nearly doubled in the last 10 years. The price of fuel-gasoline, diesel, natural and LP gas will continue to rise and local or regional shortages are likely.

Several conservation practices have the potential to save more than 1 billion gallons of fuel a year - or 1 of every 7 gallons needed for agricultural production. Minimum tillage offers the greatest potential for energy savings in Haskell county. This practice has grown in use in the U.S. from 3.8 million acres in 1963 to about 40 million acres today.

Although the practice varies considerably, it reduces the total number of tillage trips across the field. Roughly tilled land with large amounts of crop residue left on the surface is effective in controlling soil erosion and conserving moisture. Studies show a reduction of 50% or more in soil loss over conventionally tilled fields.

In addition to the conservation advantages, farmers have significantly reduced both fuel and labor inputs by shifting from conventional to minimum tillage. A USDA Extension Service study shows that in 1974, per-acre fuel and labor costs for conventional tillage averaged $6.11 compared with $3.43 for minimum tillage. Fuel costs were reduced almost 54 percent.

Now is the time for you to initiate a sound minimum tillage plan on your farm or ranch.
