Cleanup Project Scheduled

City and County officials are joining hands May 19 through 31 during the annual spring beautification and cleanup. Various civic and social organizations will also be helping out to make this one of the most "sweeping" cleanups ever in Haskell.

All residents are urged to begin today to cleanup all rubbish and garbage, to trim trees and shrubs, and clean vacant lots. These unsightly menaces to health and safety should be removed to control rats and mice, insects, skunks, and other creatures.

City and County trucks and equipment will be available for FREE hauling of trash, garbage and trees during the 2 week cleanup. The City dump will be open everyday during the 2 week period till dark and on Sunday May 25 for the "weekend warrior" who wants to haul his own trash.

Various civic and social organizations will also be involved in specific areas of the cleanup and more detailed report will be made next week concerning these special areas.

We received information this week concerning an incident in the southeast part of the County which is similar to reports of the early and mid 1960's.

Few Haskell natives will miss the similarities to reports attributed to the THANG in past years.

For almost fifteen years sightings of the THANG have been non-existent, but the Free Press occasionally receives inquiries about the varmit.

The rancher who reported the latest incident, is apparently unknown to the residents we've contacted, but the account is similar to those received in the past.

For newcomers to Haskell, a brief history of the activities of the THANG will be provided.

It seems that during the early 1960's there were almost constant sightings of a strange looking creature and even the descriptions of the varmit varied with each report.

Porter Oakes, Editor of the Free Press, apparently named the varmit the THANG and many residents also referred to the creature as the HASKELLE RASCAL.

While most of the stories concerning the varmit centered around livestock most of the sightings were by motorists.

During one period of almost nightly sightings and reportings, the local varmit received some competition from another part of the state when the "Caddo Critture" began making headlines.

During about a five year period, daily newspaper columnists across the state quoted Oakes and his tales of the varmit.

During that time it was virtually impossible for a native of Haskell to remain in the confines of Texas without being questioned about the THANG.

We're not sure why the varmit has been dormant for the past 15 years, but after reading Mr. Pyle's report (reprinted exactly as received) on page ten, it's likely that more reports will be received.

Incumbents Receive County Voter Approval

Incumbents in Haskell County offices received the approval of local voters in last Saturday's Democratic Primary.

In six contested local races, there were five incumbents and all were elected.

55.8 percent (2634) of the registered voters in the County participated in the election.

In local races, Garth Garrett defeated Truman Therwhanger and Ricki Russell without a runoff and Chunky Tidwell, Thelma Edwards, Ray Perry, and Jack Speer all defeated opponents to retain their positions.

Bobby Collins defeated Charlene Brothers to win the Democratic nomination for the office of Tax Assessor-Collector. Mrs. Collins received 1665 votes and Mrs. Brothers received 858.

In the Sheriffs race, Garrett received 1375, Therwhanger, 944, and Russell, 294.

Tidwell received 1037 votes and Frankie SoRelle received 440 in the Commissioner Precinct 1 contest.

In the Commissioner Precinct 2 race, Thelma Edwards received 307 votes and Melba Howard received 180.

Ray Perry received 187 votes to remain as Commissioner Precinct 3 over Vernay Howard who received 115 votes.

Constable Precinct 1, Jack Speer received the nod from local voters receiving 1088 votes compared to Bill Hendrix with 672.

In the Presidential preference, Jimmy Carter received 64.4 percent of the votes cast. President Carter received 1559 votes; Edward M. Kennedy received 210; and Jerry Brown received 51. 599 voters were uncommitted.

Total results of Saturday's election are printed on page six.

1980 Fair Dates Set

September 18, 19, and 20 were selected as the dates for the 15th annual Haskell County Fair when the board of directors of the association met Tuesday night.

President Dale Burris presided at the meeting, which was attended by about thirty directors.

The group agreed to set admission fees at $2.00 for adults and $1.00 for children.

Directors discussed the appointment of new directors to the board.

Billie Jack Ray was elected president, Joyce Hager, vice president, and Charlene Therwhanger, sec., treas.

Burris suggested that the board consider having a horse show in conjunction with the 1981 fair and added that plans should start now for the event. Directors agreed to look at the possibilities of adding the feature to the fair.

Board members also discussed the general operation and organization of the fair.

Following the election and installation of officers, Ray appointed committee chairmen and the directors discussed the appointment of committee members.

Joyce Hager was appointed catalog chairman and her committee agreed to begin work on the catalog immediately.

Begin Pecan Tree Spraying

Beautiful pecan trees and regular harvests of high quality pecans begin each spring, according to Haskell County Agent Max Stapleton, with frequent zinc sprays.

Good foliage is the secret to optimum growth, healthy trees and regular production. Mature pecan trees can have double the amount of foliage with three or four zinc sprays from bud break through May.

Leaves on mature trees are full grown by June, so spray early and frequently. Young pecan trees can grow six feet instead of six inches in one year if zinc is sprayed onto the foliage every two to three weeks from bud break through May. This is of course in combination with a good management program.

There are two types of zinc which can be used in Texas, zinc sulfate or NZN. Each is effective. Commercial pecan producers have used zinc sulfate with good results for over 40 years. Caution will need to be used however because zinc sulfate can kill many types of plants, so spray it only onto pecan foliage. NZN is a new type of zinc which is a liquid. It was developed by Dr. J. Benton Storey of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. NZN is highly soluble, less toxic to other vegetation and readily available at many garden centers.

The commercial rates of zinc for spraying pecan foliage in Texas are 2 pounds of zinc sulfate or 1/4 quarts of NZN per 100 gallons water.

Selected as Drum Major for the High School Band was Sharla Drinnon, drum major this past year.

Twirlers for the High School will be: Kim Griffith, head; Tonya Roberts, Vickie Wallace and Rochie Reddell.

Others who tried out include: Marilyn Moore, Diana Jarred, Jill Jennings, and Pam Weise in Junior High and Melissa Brown, Leann Turnbow and Julie John Wallace in High School.

Library Receives Heartbook

The Haskell County Division of the American Heart Association has presented a complimentary copy of the AHA's new "Heartbook" to the Haskell County Library.

"Heartbook," a cardiovascular reference book written in non-technical language, is promoted as a guide to the prevention and treatment of cardiovascular disease.

"It's basically an easy-to-read encyclopedia about the heart and how to protect it," Abe Turner, local AHA president, explained.

He stated that the 370-page illustrated book, written by 32 cardiovascular experts, is the most comprehensive book of its kind and the only one authorized by the AHA.

"We hope the public will take full advantage of the information presented in "Heartbook," Turner added, "because public knowledge is our strongest weapon against heart attack, stroke and other forms of cardiovascular disease."

Elise McGee, Haskell County Librarian accepted the book which was presented to her Friday at the Haskell County Library.

Published by E.P. Dutton Company, New York, the book will soon be available in bookstores throughout the nation. Royalties from the sale of "Heartbook" will support the AHA's research, education and community service programs.

Conservation Viewpoints

USDA Soil Conservation Service

The Haskell Soil and Water Conservation District will join in the nationwide celebration of Soil Stewardship Week to take place on May 11-18, according to R.V. Earles, Chairman, Board of Directors.

The theme of this year's celebration is "The Judgement of Nature." Its focus is especially appropriate as the United States considers the current condition of its soil, water and related resources.

Through nature, we are linked with the past and committed to the future. Nature is defined in the field of conservation as the continuing system of life created by God.

Nature is neither fixed nor static; it is a continuing process and inherently dynamic...it rewards care and constructive attention, even as it penalizes negligence and deliberate damage.

The loss of some 3 million acres of productive agricultural land each year through urbanization and other uses, the decline in productivity of the topsoil as the result of destructive erosion, and continuing pollution of the nation's waters is serious cause for everyone's concern. Participation in Soil Stewardship Week by the churches of the Haskell Soil and Water Conservation District offers an opportunity to reflect on the nation's natural resource problems and to consider actions to resolve them or reduce their impact.

The National Association of Conservation Districts has sponsored Soil Stewardship Week in the United States since 1955, in cooperation with the nation's nearly 3,000 soil and water conservation districts.

As your District Conservationist, and representative of the Board of Directors of the Haskell Soil and Water Conservation District, I am urging each pastor of each church in Haskell County to at least recognize before the congregation the fact of Soil Stewardship Week. Some limited material is available from the Haskell SWCD.

Local Rider To Be In Vegas Rodeo

Terry Chapman of Haskell is one of 20 nationally ranked saddle bronc riders invited for a share of $125,000 in the Black Velvet Tournament of Champions Pro Rodeo May 10-11 in Las Vegas.

As one of the top rodeo competitors in the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association, he has been asked to compete for the $10,000 first prize in his event.

The rodeo, limited to the country's best rodeo competitors in four basic events, is sponsored by Black Velvet Canadian Whisky. It kicks off the 46th annual Las Vegas Hellorado Days, the largest Western festival in the United States.

Proceeds from the tournament will benefit the PRCA's Hall of Rodeo Champions, a museum dedicated to the early American cowboy as well as to the modern rodeo performer.

The saddle bronc riding, bull riding and bareback bronc riding competitions each offer $22,000 purses and first place awards of $10,000. The fourth event, the bullfighter contest, features a $9,000 purse with a $4,000 first prize.

The Black Velvet rodeo format calls for cowboys to compete in matched, head-to-head pairs under PRCA rules. Top scorers from each pair will advance to additional rounds until the last two finalists in each riding event face off for the top prize.

In addition to the $75,000 purse to be split among the cowboys, Black Velvet also is offering $50,000 in awards to rodeo stock contractors, the ranchers that breed rodeo horses and bulls.

Soil Stewardship Week May 11-18

Focusing attention on the care of our natural resources—that's the purpose of Soil Stewardship Week sponsored annually by the National Association of Conservation Districts in cooperation with the nation's nearly 3,000 soil and water conservation districts.

This year's observance will be May 11-18 and the theme will be "The Judgment of Nature," points out Dr. B.L. Harris, land and water use specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

"We must consider the role of nature as we consider the current condition of our soil, water and related resources," points out Harris. "Through nature, we are linked with the past and committed to the future."

"Nature is a continuing process that rewards care and constructive attention, but at the same time it penalizes negligence and deliberate damage," Harris adds.

Some three million acres of productive agricultural land are lost each year through urbanization and other uses, notes the specialist. In addition, the productivity of topsoil continues to decline due to destructive erosion, and pollution of our nation's waters is a threat to everyone.

"Today, the continued productivity of our soil remains our nation's most precious natural resource," contends Harris. "We depend on it for the food we eat as well as to provide food for export abroad."

"Our nation has abundant natural resources that have been entrusted to our care," emphasizes Harris. "What we do with them is up to us and our God-given talents. Nature will be the one to make the final judgment."

THANK YOU

Thank you, thank you to the wonderful people who gave us so much support in so many ways and a special thank you to the ones who gave your money, time, energy and vote. Mae and I love you, you are the best people in the world.

To those of you who voted for the other fellow (I can't remember his name right now) we like you too. The vote belongs to you, and no one has a right to dislike you for the way you use your vote.

Congratulations to Ray on his fourth win as Commissioner Precinct 3. We feel sure he will give you four more years of good service, and we sure hope he does something about those blind corners. The life he saves may be a bus load of children and one of them yours.

Thank you again and you all come to see us and we do mean all of you. Be sure and bring something to eat.

Vernay and Eula Mae Howard

P. S. If you ever get stuck in a mud hole, be sure and call me and I will tell ole what's his name to come pull you out.

Dietary Guidelines Improve Eating Habits

Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland and Surgeon General Julius B. Richmond of the U.S. Public Health Service today announced dietary guidelines which, they said, if followed, could improve American eating habits and maintain health.

Officials from USDA and HEW released seven dietary recommendations with supporting details which represent a nutritional consensus by scientists in the government's food and health agencies.

- The recommendations are:
- Eat a variety of foods.
  - Maintain ideal weight.
  - Avoid too much fat, saturated fat and cholesterol.
  - Eat foods with adequate starch and fiber.
  - Avoid too much sugar.
  - Avoid too much sodium.
  - If you drink alcohol, do so in moderation.

The guidelines booklet, "Nutrition and Your Health; Dietary Guidelines for Americans," contains details and explanations of what is known about the relationships of specific dietary components, such as fat, sugar, sodium and cholesterol, to specific diseases and physical conditions.

Secretary Bergland said, "People constantly ask me, 'is eating this or that bad for me? Will I be healthier if I eat more of something or less of something else?' Americans are clearly interested in good nutrition and concerned about how what they eat will affect their health. For a long time we had nothing but conflicting statements from a variety of sources. Now the scientists of USDA and HEW are making recommendations based on an emerging consensus within the scientific community.

"We're not telling people that there is one ideal diet or a nutritional insurance policy that will keep them healthy," Bergland said. "These are general recommendations and within them individuals make their own choices from a variety of foods."

"In an affluent society such as ours, more is not always better," Richmond said. "The problems of our nutrition relate to our abundance. There are still people in our society who do not have enough to eat, yet the greatest problem for all of us is to make intelligent and informed choices about what foods we should eat to promote our own health and prevent disease, regardless of our income.

"The problems of heart and blood vessel diseases, tooth decay and obesity can be traced to our diets," Richmond said. "And recent evidence indicates that even some cancers may be related to diet. Improved nutrition will not eliminate these diseases; however, the nutrition information in the guidelines which are based on the best scientific judgement we are able to get now may prevent further public disregard of the importance of a good diet as a first line of defense against disease."

Esther Peterson, special assistant to the President for consumer affairs, also participated in making the announcement. She said: "Although we cannot say for sure that if you don't eat some particular thing you won't get this or that disease, we can say that following these guidelines can keep you healthy or even improve your health."

The dietary recommendations were developed after scientists reviewed the present knowledge of nutrition and recent scientific findings on the diet-disease relationship.

"The guidelines developed by scientists at USDA and HEW give the public consistent and substantiated nutrition information," Bergland said. "With them, people can make reasonable and confident decisions in selecting the best of foods to fit their nutrition needs."

Copies of the guidelines may be obtained free from: Office of Governmental and Public Affairs, USDA, Washington, D.C., 20250; state cooperative extension nutrition specialists at land grant universities; or public health nutrition directors in state departments of health. You may also pick up a copy at the County Extension Office or call the Extension Office at 864-2546 and have a copy mailed to you.

Hastey, Wright Repeat Vows

Lizette Camille Wright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Coleman Wright and Sammy Wayne Hastey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hastey of Lubbock, were married Saturday, May 3rd, at 2:00 p.m. in the First Baptist Church of Rochester. Rev. Kathryn Byrd officiated in the double ring ceremony.

The altar for the ceremony was decorated with an arch covered in greenery, yellow and white daisies. Large yellow ribbons accented the bride's chosen colors of yellow and white. Large floral baskets of corresponding flowers were arranged to each side of the arch.

Maid of honor was Tammy Campbell of Lake Dallas, cousin of the groom. She was attired in a formal length yellow crepe gown with a short shoulder length cape of yellow flowered muslin mist and wore a yellow wide brimmed picture hat. She carried a nosegay of yellow and white daisies surrounded with baby's breath trimmed with long yellow and white ribbon.

Best man was Kelly Hastey of Lubbock, brother of the groom. He wore a beige suit with coordinating vest and wore a yellow daisy boutonniere.

Robert Wright of Haskell, brother of the bride, and Tommy Howell, brother-in-law of the groom were ushers.

The organist was Susan Turner of Rochester. The music was provided by Mr. and Mrs. Bobby O'Neal of Rochester. The music chosen was the Wedding Song and Sunrise, Sunset.

Estalynn Liles of Haskell, aunt of the bride, greeted and registered guests. The registration table was draped in a white linen cloth with fringed edge. Accessories to accent the table were a yellow and white daisy and picture of the bride.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal length gown of white chantilly lace over taffeta and net fashioned with a Renaissance bonded neckline of rows of scalloped chantilly lace encrusted with seed pearls. The long bishop sleeves of silk organza and chantilly lace were cuffed at the wrist with a wide band of chantilly lace encrusted with seed pearls. The empire moulded bodice held the full skirt of chantilly lace that swept into a chapel train. The front of the skirt was styled with A-line panel of accordin pleated silk organza. The waistline crossing the back was belted with a wide inset of applique chantilly lace coordinating with the neckline. The bride chose to wear a coordinating wide brim picture hat of white nylon covered with accordin pleated silk organza fluted at the edge. The crown was applied with chantilly lace and accented with clusters of seed pearls. The chapel length train of silk illusion was attached to the back of the hat with a white silk rose.

The bride carried a bouquet of yellow and white roses with intermingled baby's breath and entwined with a lace handkerchief belonging to her great, great grandmother.

Something old was her great grandmother's gold droplet earrings, something new, her wedding dress, something borrowed was her great great grandmother's lace handkerchief, and something blue, the traditional blue garter. She also had a six pence in her shoe.

The groom was attired in a beige suit with coordinating vest. He wore a yellow rose boutonniere.

The mother of the bride wore a pale peach knit dress designed with a small stand up collar. The V-neckline opened to the waist with small peach tinted shell buttons. The sleeves were of full rag-line cut, gathered at the wrist in a small cuff and buttoned with the small shell buttons. The full skirt was belted at the waistline with a miniature roped belt. Her accessories were beige. She wore a corsage of yellow daisies with white ribbon. The mother of the groom chose to wear a champagne knit dress with the neckline gathered into a V and full sleeves elbow length. The full skirt was gathered at the waistline with a soft woven belt. Her accessories were white and gold. She wore a corsage of yellow daisies with yellow ribbon.

The bride's table was covered with a floor length white knit cloth edged with a band of wide lace. Crystal and silver appointments adorned the table. Yellow napkins imprinted with a gold rose and "Happiness is Sammy and Lizette" graced the arrangement. The centerpiece was an arrangement of yellow and white daisies and baby's breath. The bride's cake was a three-tier white cake accented with yellow roses topped with a miniature bride and groom surrounded by white doves. The punch nectar was tinted yellow and especially prepared by Louise Chambers, close friend of the bride. Yellow mints and mixed nuts were served.

Serving the bride's table was Gwen Wright, sister-in-law of the bride, and Estalynn Liles, aunt of the bride, both of Haskell.

The groom's table was covered with a yellow cloth overlaid with an ivory lace knit cloth edged in ivory lace. The centerpiece was a basket of yellow and white daisies and a silver candelabrum holding yellow candles. The groom's cake was a large chocolate. Sterling silver appointments were used to serve yellow mints, spiced pecans, hot coffee and tea. Serving at the groom's table was Mary Beth Howell of Lubbock, sister of the groom, and Mrs. Bud Campbell, aunt of the groom of Dallas.

White rice bags with yellow ribbon were passed among the guests by Blake Liles, cousin of the bride from Haskell, and Missy Wilkerson, cousin of the groom.

The bride chose an apricot colored knit pant suit with a floral pattern blouse and white accessories for her going away trip. Her corsage was of yellow and white roses. The groom was attired in beige and tan.

The rehearsal dinner was hosted by the groom's parents at the Cliff House Restaurant in Stamford. The bride's chosen colors of yellow and white daisies were arranged as a centerpiece. Accenting each table were arrangements of lanterns with yellow candles and yellow place cards.

The bride is a graduate of Rochester High School and is currently a Junior at Texas Tech University where she is majoring in Elementary Education. The groom attended Rochester High School and is presently employed by Mac Acoustical Corp. of Lubbock.

After a short wedding trip the couple will reside at 2410 Ave. T in Lubbock.

WOO Members Attend Abilene Movie

Twenty-three members of the WOO's (Senior Adult organization of First Baptist Church) assembled in the parking lot of the church at five o'clock Friday. Leaving with their "snack sacks" for Abilene in two mini-buses accompanied by Charles and Leatrice Swinson, the group went to see the inspiring film "Joni" showing at the Westwood Theatre in Abilene.

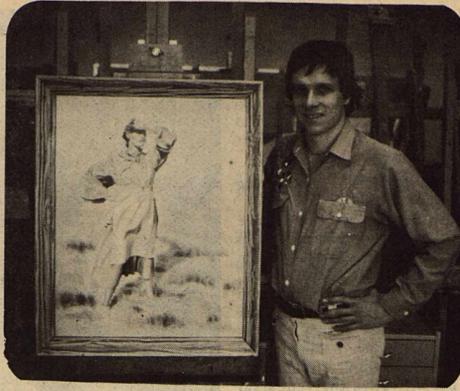

"Joni" is the story of a girl who becomes a quadriplegic as the result of a diving accident and her struggle to understand before accepting her fate and Christ. Joni Eareckson plays the role herself and in addition to making this movie she is involved in numerous other activities. She has written two books, "Joni" and "A Step Further," her art has been reproduced on prints and greeting cards. She participates in television talk shows and most recently she has moved to Los Angeles and is involved in a non-profit ministry for the physically handicapped.

The WOO's enjoyed the evening and will long remember Joni's remark that she would rather be in the wheel chair with Jesus than walking without.

May Is Mental Health Month

BY LOU GILLY
County Extension Agent

The beautiful month of May is National Mental-Health Month. In a national survey of families, 73 percent of the family members (parents and teenagers) felt that mental health would be improved if people were more concerned about others and less concerned about their own problems.

Dr. Karl Menniger, the famous psychiatrist, once gave a lecture on mental health and was answering questions from the audience. "What would you advise a person to do," asked one man, "if that person felt a nervous breakdown coming on?" Most people expected him to reply, "consult your psychiatrist." To their astonishment he replied, "Lock up your house, go across the railway tracks, find someone in need and do something to help that person."

Although few, if any, of us may be on the verge of a nervous breakdown and still fewer can even find railway tracks to cross, Menniger's advice still rings true.

Much human energy is being spent worrying about how inflation or the energy crisis or the rising food prices are affecting families. When worry engulfs a person, it is easy to forget about the human concerns of those in the family. Children, regardless of the country's economics, still need parents. They need parents who somehow can find the time and energy to be concerned about them.

Children need their parents to help them understand life, the changes that are occurring within their bodies and among their friends. Children, at least most of them, need a parent who can listen to their concerns and help them interpret what is happening. As we worry about what this summer will bring or what the next paycheck won't bring, maybe we can remember Menniger's advice.

Lock up the worry and go find your child and do something to help him or her.

A Mother's Day Tribute

By Gina Jennings

As I think back on my childhood, I can remember my mother best when she was in the kitchen. Although she was and is an excellent cook, the sense of amazement that fills me when I think of all her hours of preparation stems primarily from her ability to survive them. I will always be startled by the fact that my father could come through World War II without a scratch while my mother could hardly open a can of green beans without being badly mangled.

She is an extremely intelligent and capable woman otherwise; able to master delicate tricks like filing a perfectly legal income tax return for an oil company without a hitch. However, give her a cereal box that reads "press in her and tear back" and you will find her in tears a half hour later holding a box that looks like it has been used for target practice by a samurai swordsman.

In talking with my mother, one could come to believe that General Mills and Del Monte had put a contract on her head and were out to get her at any price. Indeed, she has suffered a great deal of physical harm from the packagings of their products over the years. Yet in all honesty I cannot place the responsibility for her mishaps wholly in the lap of the manufacturers.

I got a clue about this early on when she purchased a can of strawberries so she could make a cherry pie. She was irate when I pointed out that the can read "Strawberries" very clearly on the label. Maintaining that the picture on the can (which looked to her exactly like cherries) had been placed there to trick her into buying the wrong thing, she just added the incident into her list of proofs of the manufacturer's vendetta.

Even as a child, it was alarming to me to discover my tall, slender and usually dignified mother, standing in the kitchen, a bag of Fritos in her teeth, shaking them with the ferocity of a bulldog.

I must admit that for some mystical reason, packages never cooperated with my mother. She began nearly every day frustrated by an obnoxiously stubborn can of frozen orange juice. Every day she peeled off the little white strip which, once removed, was supposed to allow the top of the can to be easily lifted off. Every day the little white strip came off and left the can perfectly intact. Every day I sat at the breakfast table and watched my mother beat the dickens out of an orange juice can with a table knife.

I don't know what my mother would have done without table knives. Never a jar passed through her house without having its lid badly battered by one. Mayonnaise, mustard, jelly...none of them would let my mother have their lids without one whale of a fight. In the end though, she always got her lid but not without mashed thumbs, cuts and innumerable bruises.

The greatest threat to the dear lady's safety has always been the incorrigible tin can. She has been wounded by them so badly for so many years that she now approaches them as though she were about to grapple with a live rattlesnake. Setting it on the counter, she circles it several times, eyeing it warily. Coming in slowly on its blind side, she reaches out for it suddenly with lightning speed and clamps it into the waiting jaws of the electric opener.

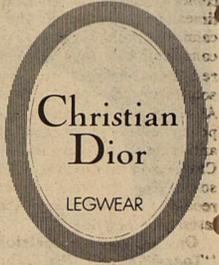

It would be a mistake to believe at this point that she has triumphed and she knows it. Watching anxiously as the opener grumbles and chews its way around the top of the can, she gasps as the shiny silver lever on the opener flies up suddenly and drops the can on the counter—half opened.

The battle which inevitably ensues will leave at least one more scar on those brave hands.

With Mother's Day approaching, I felt it would be a good time to honor this deserving lady and all those like her who risk life and limb, tangling daily with hostile boxes, cans and jars. I know there are others like her. Before anyone enters my own kitchen my husband insists on equipping them with a hardhat and points out the red letters "Warning! Enter at Your Own Risk" posted above the door. Certainly, you can't be that dangerous, one may argue. Oh yes, I was taught by one of the all-time greats.

This article then is my Mother's Day gift to that one. Perhaps it is less than elegant, but a newspaper is one of the only things I can give her that she can open without getting hurt.

TEA Seeks Handicapped

Child Find/Child Serve, sponsored by the Texas Education Agency and coordinated by Regions IX and XIV Education Service Centers, seek to locate and serve handicapped persons throughout the area.

In the Haskell-Knox Consortium, the local school districts of Knox City-O'Brien, Benjamin, Goree, Haskell, Munday, Paint Creek, Rochester, Rule, and Weinert staff members share the responsibility for identifying handicapped persons who are of school-age and are currently not receiving educational programs and/or those students in school whose educational programs are not appropriate for their needs.

Just as institutions of higher learning state, "a mind is a terrible thing to waste." Special educators maintain "a person is a terrible thing to waste." Based on this theme, children are served regardless of their handicapping conditions.

Once located and determined to be handicapped, through assessment, the child's individual educational plan is written. Regular education teachers, special education teachers, parents, and support staff from the school district cooperatively write the plan based on the child's abilities and needs.

After the educational plan has been written, and if additional services are required, a team of specialists (occupational and speech therapists, consultants for the visually handicapped and psychologists from Regions IX and/or XIV), along with the teacher, provide educational services for the child.

Often times special materials, adaptive equipment, or other community resources may be needed. These can be obtained through the resource component of the Child Find/Child Serve program.

"Anything from obtaining wheelchairs to locating special service facilities can be identified through this component," stated one Resource Specialist.

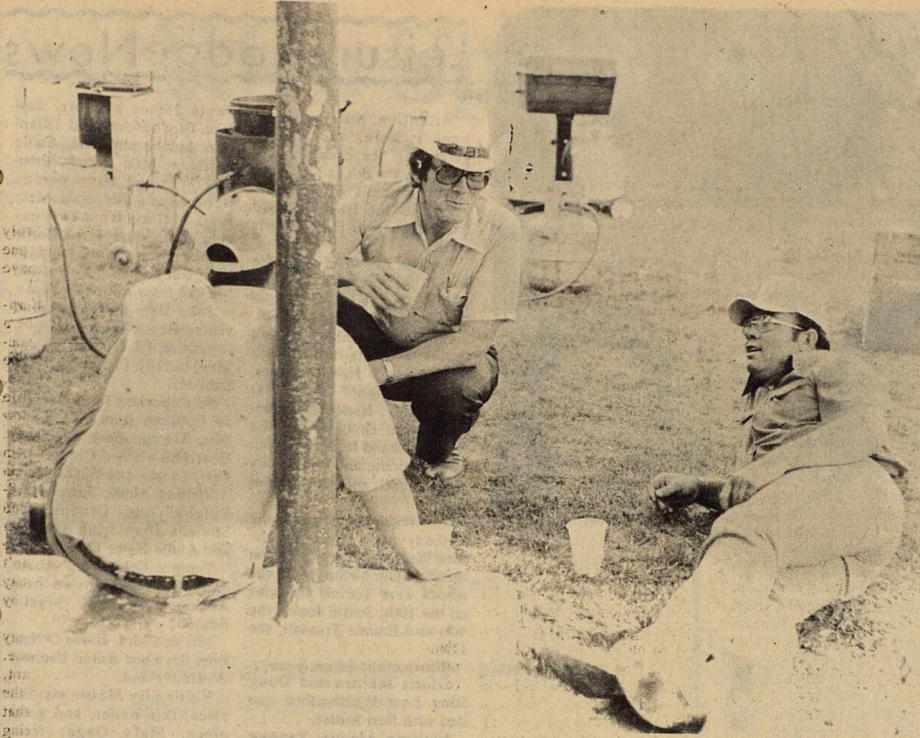

A variety of methods, including house-to-house canvasses, booths at community functions, newspaper articles, posters, newsletters, television, and radio spots have been used to inform the public of the search for handicapped children between the ages of 3 to 21 or children with a visual or hearing loss who range in age from birth to 22.

Awareness of the needs of others improves the quality of life for all. Evidence of this in one case was reflected by the smile of a boy when his non-ambulatory brother received a wheelchair. Now his handicapped brother can join him in his adventures outside the house.

Somewhere in your family, neighborhood or community is a handicapped person...that person may need our help.

A confidential call to your local school district, or the Haskell-Knox Consortium, Bobby Hudson, Director (817) 658-3851 could make the difference and prevent a terrible waste of human potential.

The goal of education is to make these handicapped persons into productive adults who can provide for themselves.

SOMETHING FISHY

Duane Gilly, Bob Baker and James Davis (l to r) found time to relax after helping other Kiwanis Club members fry fish for the club's family cookout at the park May 29th. It was impossible to determine whether the "cooks" were exhausted from frying all those fish or from eating them.

During Inflation

Beef Is Better Buy

There seems one thing prominent political figures have in common when it comes to passing out advice in times of inflated prices. They cannot resist the suggestion to consumers that they eat less red meat or beef and try something "cheaper." When Alfred Kahn, the man supposed to be in charge of anti-inflation programs for the Carter administration, said something to this effect recently, he was merely the latest in a long line.

On an NBC television "Today Show," Mr. Kahn said that to combat inflation, Americans could "cut out beef and go to chicken, poultry and pork."

Were those in the beef industry not now experiencing serious losses, the remark might have been tolerated without reaction. But it is risky anytime to single out some element of the food industry for consumers to shun in the name of achieving household economies. Food prices are, for the most part, the result of forces far beyond any direct and immediate control of producers as "price setters."

Drought and disasters intervene often, just as the wrong decision on when to raise more animals, when to produce less, are a factor.

Whenever it is suggested that Americans at large buy less of one commodity or another, the adviser risks lasting damage to an entire element of the food industry. Mr. Kahn quickly admitted the error of his ways, after protests from beef industry spokesmen. He took time to point out that his advice was "unfortunate," and that he should have pointed out that the "retail price of beef has risen only 3.3 percent since last April, and that beef is, therefore, a much better buy than it was a year ago."

With enough publicity to the apology, some gains might be produced. Anything with that sort of price stability in the past year represents a product to be purchased readily and in greater quantity. Perhaps Mr. Kahn has inadvertently called consumer attention to the relative bargains meat (and food generally) provides in contrast to other necessities of life. # 5 Times To Contact SS

There are 5 times a person should get in touch with a social security office, Glyn Hammons social security district manager in Abilene, said recently.

Knowing the 5 times for action is too important to take for granted, Hammons said. It can mean greater security for a worker and his or her family.

The 5 times are:

- Before obtaining the first job to apply for a social security number. This number is needed to get proper social security credit for earnings.
- After a death in the family to learn if survivors benefits or a lump-sum death payment are payable.
- When someone become disabled to find out if disability benefits are payable.
- At retirement age. Full cash benefits are payable at 65 and reduced benefits can be paid as early as 62. People should sign up for Medicare 2 or 3 months before 65 even if they don't plan to retire.

To get the answer to any question about social security. The people at the Abilene social security office can answer such questions as: How much credit for work is needed to be insured? Who can qualify for benefits? How to replace a lost social security or Medicare card? How to get a free statement of your earnings record? What documents are needed when applying for benefits or a social security number?

For more information, get in touch with the Abilene social security office, located at 142 S. Pioneer. The telephone number is 698-1360.

With the proper clothing, a man can stand the extreme cold as low as 50 degrees below zero Fahrenheit.

Thank You!

I wish to express my sincere appreciation to the voters of Precinct 2, and the people of Haskell County for your influence and support in helping me to be your commissioner.

Also, I would like to say "Thank You" to the men who work for this precinct for the fine job they do—and for the interest taken in their job.

We have to realize that one does not stand alone—it is through unity and faith we achieve what we seek.

Anson Farmer Addresses Meeting

National Cotton Council president Herman Propst today described the cotton dust problem and attempts to limit farm size as the two key challenges now facing the industry.

Speaking at the Cotton Warehouse Association's annual meeting here, the Anson producer said the threat of unjustified workmen's compensation claims stemming from cotton dust exposure may have serious implications for all segments of the industry.

Propst pointed out the near-possibility of medically distinguishing byssinosis from non-dust related respiratory ailments like emphysema, bronchitis, asthma, or other lung diseases.

"The situation's even more grim when you consider that 20 percent of the whole population by retirement age has some kind of lung dysfunction—and that's without ever having been exposed to cotton dust at all."

The Council president noted that Congress already has before it several bills that would "presume" byssinosis in any former cotton worker who develops lung problems.

"These are just a few examples of what we're up against in fighting the cotton dust problem and all its ramifications," he said, "and I think they underscore the absolute necessity of redoubling our research efforts to find a practical and lasting solution."

Propst outlines efforts currently under way to obtain funding for a $9 million crash research plan, and reported that the recently expanded Industrywide Committee on Cotton Dust is giving the project top priority.

Regarding limits on farm size, Propst said the issue threatens cotton as well as all of agriculture.

"Those who preach the gospel that 'big is bad' have turned their attention on the American farm," he stated, "and unfortunately, their message seems to be falling on receptive ears in Washington."

The Council president cited moves on in Congress to put an arbitrary limit on the amount of land a farmer receiving water from a federal reclamation project can not only own but also lease. Propst said this would amount to a limit on farm size in the West since irrigation is essential to agriculture there.

In addition to reclamation bills, he pointed to the recent hearings held by Agriculture Secretary Bergland on farm structure and size.

"The Secretary says that, based on these hearings, he expects to make recommendations for changes in basic farm legislation when it comes up for renewal," Propst said, adding that the farm size issue will apparently continue to be raised for some time.

The Council president praised warehousemen for their role this season in handling "the biggest crop in 15 years and the biggest export order in 50 years."

"You've done a tremendous job...and you've done it with fewer facilities and less manpower than you had two decades ago," he said. Propst also commended warehousemen for their efforts to improve bale conditions, reduce contamination, and shape bales that better conform to equipment requirements in textile mill's automated opening rooms.

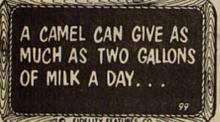

He called for continued efforts, reminding warehousemen that market opportunities for cotton are the "brightest in decades" with the prospect for another big crop and another big year in exports this coming season.

'THANG' Reappears In Haskell County

Monday morning a prominent Haskell County rancher, B.S. Pyle, who lives in the southeast corner of the county, made a grim discovery. Mr. Pyle reported that his 1800 lb. Hereford bull was found dead and only one half his carcass remained.

Pyle had a double loss in that his two shepherd stock dogs were found dead near the body of his bull, which was kept in a small pasture near his house. Apparently some large animal or animals killed the bull and then the dogs when they heard the commotion and went to the bull's aid. "Both dogs were ripped open as if a huge claw had struck them," explained the rancher.

Mr. Pyle reported seeing the bull and his dogs late Sunday afternoon. No tracks were found due to the rocky ground and the strong winds. The only evidence of what killed his animals were several huge scratches in the bark of a hackberry tree. The killer was large, as the scratches were 8' 9" above the ground.

Pyle admits that he is a "little scared" about the incident. "I've lived here 63 years and have lost calves to coyotes but never a grown animal and it be half eaten in one night. "No doubt about it, one or more big Varmits killed my bull and dogs," explained Pyle. Pressed to speculate what kind of varmit could kill such a large bull, Pyle said, "Anything is possible, maybe a renegade old bear or even a Mexican tiger. Those animals go crazy and travel hundreds of miles from their natural range.

"One thing is for sure, something big is out there."

When I insured my store, I was Mr. Creamy. When I had a claim, I was Mr. 873-54269.

When you buy insurance, there are two types of agents you can deal with. A one-company agent who works directly for one insurance company. Or an Independent Insurance Agent who represents several companies. What's the difference? There are quite a few. First of all, if you buy insurance from a one-company agent, he's probably not the person you talk to when you have a claim. Most one-company agents have nothing to do with the claims process. If you have a claim, it's between you and the adjuster.

Your Independent Insurance Agent doesn't do business that way. He's right there ready to serve you when you have a claim... helping you reach a fair settlement as quickly as possible. Personal involvement is not the only advantage your Independent Insurance Agent offers you. Since he doesn't represent only one insurance company, he can offer you policies from several companies. So he can help you choose the policy that's right for you—at the right price. Whether you need homeowners, auto, life or business insurance.

Here we are beginning another new month and we can hardly realize where the old one went to. The weather is still so unsettled, you really can't tell what time of the year that it is really supposed to be. I think that the weather first being hot then back cold is what is making some of our residents take so many colds at this time of the year. We hope all our people are soon well and able to enjoy the spring and summer weather if it ever truly gets here.

and able to come back to the home.

Three of the residents celebrated their birthdays this past week. They were Mary Schonertedt, celebrating her 91st on April 27th, Elmer Ragsdale, celebrating his 91st on April 29th, and Minnie Stuart, celebrating her 75th on May 1st. We hope all these had enjoyable birthdays.

Mae Ray has left Rice Springs to move back to her own home in Rule. We will all miss her, but we know she will be back often to visit her husband, Joe Ray, who is still a resident of the home.

Our bingo champion for the month of April was Alvena Holle. This makes several months that she has won, but we're so proud of all our residents who come each week to play the games and seem to have such a good time in doing so.

We once again thank all the volunteer people for the past week. Our weeks would sure be dull without all you wonderful people out there who are so willing to give of yourself and your time. We have certainly enjoyed the people of the Haskell First Baptist who have provided our Sunday morning services for the month of April. We will be looking forward to their coming again next year.

We hope everyone remembers that Mother's Day is just around the corner. In fact, it is May the 11th. We hope everyone will remember their mother in some special little way whether it be a card, gift, phone call, or maybe a short visit with her. We will be having our Mother's Day party on Friday afternoon, May 9th. At that time we will give special recognition to our oldest mother, youngest mother, and mother with the most children. I hope everyone that has a mother in the nursing home will make a special effort to go to see them on this special day.

Our residents were treated to a couple of films, shown to them on Monday afternoon, April 28th. All that attended seemed to enjoy them. The only thing that was missing was the popcorn. We have plans to have films at least once a month from now on. If anyone has films or slides that you think that the residents would enjoy, we welcome you to bring them out.

The visitors for the past week were a little scarce, but we do appreciate everyone who did come to the home. Our out-of-county visitors were:

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kiser of Comanche, Oklahoma came to see John Sparkman.

Visiting Joe and Mae Ray were Elizabeth, Vickie, and Justin Foil, all of Fort Worth.

Coming to visit Dovie Gregory were her children, Marie Hobbs and Giggy Gregory, both of Stamford.

Mr. and Mrs. J.F. Stephenson of Bonham visited Manley and Hazel Branch.

Visiting L.C. Williams were Danny, Denna, Ricki, and Dorothy Williams, all of Lubbock.

May Bell Turnbow was visited by her daughter, Nita Leggett, and grandson, Shawn, both of Abilene.

Geneva Goolsby and daughter, Gail, and Genevieve Bull and her son, all of Lubbock, visited their mother and grandmother, Annie Howard.

Visiting Maggie Martin and Mae Brock were Mr. and Mrs. J.L. Brock of Lubbock.

Joe Teague was taken to the funeral of his nephew, Eugene Collier, by his sister and brother-in-law, Ona Mae and Milton Reeves of Knox City.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:
I disagree with previous Letters to the Editor on you track meet versus literary meet coverage (April 17th issue). You reported both subjects properly, giving the District Track Meet front page and the Literary Meet secondary page coverage.

There is no doubt that getting a good education is the most important reason for going to High School, but news coverage of sporting events is certainly more interesting to the majority of your readers than a literary meet. There are without a doubt more Haskell High graduates (and residents of the Haskell area) interested in Haskell High's sporting events than literary events.

I have lived in California for the past 18 years, but still enjoy receiving my hometown's paper every week and reading about its activities. During football season, I can't wait to see if Haskell High won or lost on their way to District, Bi-District, Regional, and possible state championship.

It now makes me proud that the track team is doing so well and deserves appropriate coverage.

I may be a little prejudice on this issue since I participated in sports at Haskell High and was fortunate enough to get a track scholarship at McMurry College. Without the Athletic scholarship, I may not have gotten a college education.

Keep up the good work on reporting Haskell High's sporting events.

Sincerely,

P.S. I attended college with Jim (Led the Toe) Baldwin, Don Flippin and Tommy McAdams at McMurry. You should have printed the heights, distances and times of the winners. I'd like to see how they compare to 24/25 years ago!

Edna Collins went to Knox City to spend two days and nights with her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ophus Posey and Nita. She stated that she enjoyed her visit very much.

Floyd Stewart of Seymour came to see his mother, Eunice Stewart.

Coming to see Trudie Bush and Flora Smith was their grandson, Earl Ray Smith of Abilene.

Roland and Peggy Rose visited his mother, Ethel Rose, aunt, Charity Bradley, and brother-in-law, L.C. Williams.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Zuck of Collinsville came to see her mother, Ida Phemister.

Visiting Alvena Holle was Cecil Klump of Old Glory.

Visiting Jonnye Pumphrey were her son and his family, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Pumphrey, Peggy, and Jeff, all of Fort Worth.

Nannie McCaul was visited by Lillian and Happy Powell.

Visiting Emma Lammert, Lillie Spitzer, and Mary Schonertedt were Mrs. John Wendeborn, Essie Anderson Barnett, and Alma Dippel, all of Stamford.

Mary Schonertedt was given a small birthday party in the dining room on Sunday afternoon, April 27th. Those attending were her daughters, Ella Nauert and Lena Boedeker, both of Stamford, Evelyn and Anton Teichelman, of Sagerton, also Emma Lammert and Alvena Holle.

We again urge all our visitors to please register in the visitors' book at the south nurse's station in Rice Springs. This is the only way that we can be sure who all visits our residents. Many of the residents cannot remember who came to see them, so it would be a great help to me in writing up the visitors, if you would just stop a second and register.

I also need some more help in getting the histories of all our residents. This week I was not able to get anyone's, so there will not be a "Meet Our Residents" portion in our column. If you have someone living in Rice Springs and their life history has not appeared in our column in the past, please get all the information about their life that you know to me as soon as possible, or if you would like, just write their life history the way you want it and I will be glad to put it in our column. I sure need the life of all our residents so that I can complete the Scrap Book on the home that I have started. Your help will greatly be appreciated.

Until next time, keep smiling!
