American voters face the awesome responsibility of sorting through the masses of political rhetoric and attempting to make intelligent selections between the candidates next Tuesday.

On a national level, voters have heard everything from one-line cure-alls to vicious attacks on opponents.

What we need to realize is that there is much more involved in the presidential race than a contest between two men with different styles.

Two drastically different views of the country and its future are offered by the two candidates.

President Carter's public philosophy has deep roots in the New Deal of the 1930's and in the tradition of state intervention in economic development under President Truman's Fair Deal, President Kennedy's New Frontier, and President Johnson's Great Society.

This tradition holds that the best solution to public problems lies with massive federal spending and equally massive federal direction of the nation's energies through ever-expanding government departments.

Gov. Reagan's public philosophy

Stenholm To Address Issues

Charles W. Stenholm, Congressman, Texas 17th District, will speak on the issues that affect the November 4 election and the future of this country at a Public Affairs Program, scheduled at St. Ann's Catholic Church Parish Hall, South Swenson Street, Stamford, on October 30 at 7:30 P.M. The public is urged to attend this event. The meeting will be open for questions and discussion from the audience.

The Pieran Club of Stamford is sponsoring the event according to Mrs. Euclid Appling, President. Chairman of the affair will be Mrs. Dave Walker with Co-chairman Mrs. Ophelia Reed. The club has invited the congressman to speak in order to give voters a last minute chance to clear up any questions they may have.

is the classic American philosophy that the best government is the least government.

His record, as Governor of California, clearly shows that he believes in limited government, not only in expenditures but in regard to bureaucratic controls.

The public philosophy which suits the majority of the American voters will, next Tuesday, point the direction of this country for the next four years.

While my own personal political philosophy is partisan, my request at this time is completely non-partisan: Please Vote, the choice is yours.

Halloween Celebration Scheduled

Out of the graves, attics and cellars they come, cackling, shrieking and howling.

Halloween is here and the ghouls are gathering to celebrate. You are invited to join them in the Haunted Forest and Halloween Carnival at the Corral Building, Saturday, November 1, 7:30 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. There will be games, prizes and scares for everyone, alive or otherwise.

The event is sponsored by the Haskell Jaycees, Jaycee-ettes, Chamber of Commerce, Young Homemakers, Owl Club and Girls' Athletic Association.

Reagan Volunteer Campaigns In Haskell

Marvin Meek of Plainview, National Chairman of the American Agriculture Movement and a delegate to the Democratic National Convention in New York City this year, was in Haskell Monday to reaffirm his support of Republican presidential candidate Ronald Reagan and blasted President Carter for his "Betrayal of the American farmer".

Saying that he was convinced that the rural voters of Texas would play

Fruit-Turkeys On Sale By FFA Members

Members of the Haskell High School FFA classes are currently taking orders for smoked turkeys, oranges and grapefruit.

The turkeys will weigh between 10 and 12 pounds and sell for $1.79 per pound. They will be delivered November 25.

The fruit will be sold in 20 and 40 pound boxes. 20 pound boxes are $6.00 each and 40 pound boxes are $10.00 each. The fruit will be delivered December 10.

Members of the FFA classes will go door-to-door until November 7.

Proceeds from the project will be used to defray expenses of the parent-member banquet and for judging contests expenses.

Stenholm, Cotton Inc. Officials Address Area Cotton Growers

BY GINA JENNINGS

Congressman Charles Stenholm urged cotton farmers to unite and "get behind us all diversities and problems" Friday during the annual meeting of the Rolling Plains Cotton Growers Inc. at the Stamford Country Club.

In support of Cotton Incorporated (a research and promotional organization funded by cotton farmers), Stenholm told the group of over 100 they had received a fair return on their investments in the organization.

Although the congressman admitted some errors had been made, he pictured the future work of Cotton Inc. as a bright hope for cotton farmers.

Bob Boslet, Vice President of Cotton Incorporated, and Rick Shaw charted the progress of their organization for the group. They focused on the need for research and promotion in the industry to keep the market strong.

Synthetics manufacturers are far outpacing cotton producers for promotion of their products, however Cotton Inc. has made some important gains in the market, according to Boslet.

Cotton Inc. is credited with the invention of the module builder in cooperation with the Texas A&M University System. It has also been actively working to solve the problem of cotton dust in textile mills, as well as discovering new ways to make cotton an "easy care" product.

As a result, said Boslet, cotton is regaining its place in apparel and household markets.

Later in the meeting, Congressman Stenholm attacked the low rate of return cotton farmers are getting on their investments. He quoted a 16.7% return in other areas of agriculture as opposed to the cotton farmer's 11.5%.

"How ironic when we look at inflation and the decline in productivity...that we sell below cost of production because we do too good a job of production," blasted Stenholm.

Farmers face a challenge, according to the congressman, in figuring out how to avoid selling below the cost of production both in foreign and domestic markets.

To meet this challenge, he

supported the curtailment of all sales below the cost of production except to clean out warehouses at the end of the year.

Cotton farmers must also practice effective supply management, said Stenholm. "Nobody else can avoid this and neither can farmers."

Markets must be expanded—but at a profit. He urged the continuation of the farmer-held reserve system, pointing to its success in improving the grain market.

During a question and answer session concluding the meeting, the congressman strongly urged the group toward political participation.

The strength of the environmentalists "should shake us off our political tails," he said, assuring the group that there are enough votes in agriculture to turn any issue around.

Indians Down Crowell To Even Dist. Record

The Haskell Indians defeated the Crowell Wildcats, 21-8, last Friday night at Indian Stadium.

The win was the first of the 1980 season for the Tribe and brought their season record to 1-6.

The Tribe amassed a total of 316 yards rushing and 26 first downs in the contest. The Indian defense held Crowell to only four first downs and 108 yards rushing.

Indian Joe Benavides led the Indian attack with 157 yards rushing followed by Albert Enriquez with 64.

The Tribe received the opening kickoff and moved the ball 55 yards in 10 plays before Benavides carried in from the two.

Crowell tied the score midway in the second period with their only TD of the night.

The Tribe went ahead with 10 seconds left in the half when Benavides carried in from the two. The score came following a 77 yard drive in 10 plays.

Johnnie Hise scored for the Tribe midway in the third quarter on a five yard run. The score capped an 11 play drive that covered 42 yards.

The win Friday brings the Tribe's district record to 1-1.

The Indians will travel to Munday this Friday for their third district game of the season. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

Commissioners Court Issues Voter Suggestions

Members of the Haskell County Commissioners court have issued several suggestions to voters to prevent problems during Tuesday's

Council Members Discuss Grant Programs

Discussion dominated the regular meeting of the Haskell City Council Tuesday night.

Members of the Council discussed proceeding on three year comprehensive grant of $3,250,000.00 and agreed to submit a preapplication.

The grant includes such items as housing rehabilitation, code enforcement, demolition and clearance and improvements to water, sewer, streets and drainage.

Other discussion centered around a $30,000.00 grant to resurface runways and taxiways at the Haskell airport. The grant will be an 80% matching grant and council members agreed to seek further information on the project.

Council members appointed Stanley Furrh to another two year term on the Housing authority. Others appointed to serve two year terms were Raja Hassen and Bill Lane Jr.

The suggestions include bringing voter registration cards to the polls. Persons without cards will be required to complete an affidavit and presentation of the card will greatly reduce time required in voting.

Voters are also reminded that socializing inside the polls and bringing printed election material inside the polls are both illegal.

Voters are also asked to keep their ballot secret and to refrain from talking at voting tables.

The names of all certified write-in candidates will be posted in the polling places.

AN EDITORIAL

BY DON COMEDY
Free Press Editor

Local politics is a touchy subject in weekly newspapers, and a topic many small newspapers noticeably avoid.

During almost twenty years of working for newspapers, both large and small, it was a policy which I could agree with until recently.

During the course of reporting and covering as many local happenings as possible, it became apparent that most voters know less about local political races and candidates than they do about state and national races.

By intentionally sidestepping potentially controversial issues, community newspapers have contributed to this lack of knowledge.

In May, I asked local voters to consider a change in the sheriff's office. There was public comment that the request was issued on personal grounds and had little to do with the functions of the office.

This was not the reason at that time and is not the reason at the present time that we urge voters to write-in Jack Whorton for Haskell County Sheriff.

The need for change is apparent when the attitudes, policies, and procedures of the current sheriff are studied.

The refusal of the sheriff to cooperate with other law enforcement officers and elected officials creates a severe problem in the law enforcement community.

Refusal to accept assistance of other officers increases the possibility of improperly conducted investigations.

Failure to comply with the jail standards act and other laws regarding reports and procedures increases the chance of State and Federal intervention into County business.

Practices such as collecting fine money and failing to turn the money over to proper officers for over two years would be understandable if it only happened once. Several times is unexcusable.

Finally, on the positive side, Jack Whorton is a native of Haskell County. He has worked for the Haskell Police Department and the Haskell Sheriff's Office which will enable him to fill the local office with local experience.

He also worked for the Taylor County Sheriff's Office and received valuable experience and training in up-to-date methods of law enforcement.

His background and experience provide the potential to embark on a new era of progressive law enforcement in Haskell County.

a decisive role in determining who would be the next president of the United States, Meek said that most of them would wind up supporting Governor Reagan as a result of the "disastrous policies of the Carter Administration, which have led to the worst three years in the history of American agriculture in terms of net return per dollar invested."

Meek was also highly critical of the Democratic Party, which he said "spent more time, at both the national and state conventions, talking about gay rights than about serious agricultural issues."

"The total debt load borne by American farmers has tripled since Jimmy Carter took office in 1977 and this has led to the destruction of the agricultural producer's ability to stay in business," Meek said. "Commodity prices are now at the lowest point in relation to purchasing power since the heat of the Great Depression in 1932. In short, Mr. Carter has presided over the crippling of our nation's largest industry—agriculture—and this, if allowed to continue, will cause an economic depression for the entire country."

"I want to remind American farmers that it was during a Republican Administration in 1973 and 1974 that we received the highest prices in history for our agricultural products. During this period, farmers and other businessmen in America prospered more than at any other time in our recent history."

"I am supporting Ronald Reagan because he has surrounded himself with outstanding agricultural advisors—people who understand farming; who understand parity—and people who have fought hard on behalf of America's agricultural producers. I'm talking about people like Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas, Sen. Roger Jepsen of Iowa, and Congressman Tom Hagedorn of Minnesota. These men have great experience as well as a proven record of support for producers, particularly by their work in Congress."

"In addition, I believe Governor Reagan will provide the kind of strong new leadership we need in Washington to restore the overall health of the American economy through sound monetary, fiscal, and tax policies," said Meek.

Plan Nutritious Snacks For Halloween Paint Creek 4-H Elects New Officers

BY LOU GILLY
County Extension Agent
 Dental caries, known more commonly as cavities, affect over 95 percent of the population and are the leading chronic disease of children. A disease of such dimensions, the National Institute of Dental Research says, can only be controlled through prevention. Research had shown that cutting down on sugar and sweets, especially in between-meal snacks and particularly in foods that stick to the teeth, is the most effective means consumers have of preventing this disease.

Caries result from three factors: bacteria commonly found in the mouth, tooth enamel not as resistant to damage by bacterial acids as it might be, and consumption of certain carbohydrates—mainly sugars—from which the bacteria form acids. Unless all three factors are present, caries do not occur. As a practical matter, the factor that consumers can control is sugar consumption. If you're a nutrition-conscious consumer, you should be aware of how much sweets you and your family are eating, when you're eating it, and whether it's the sticky sort.

What has this all to do with Halloween? According to the candy industry, more candy is sold during this holiday than at any other time during the year.

"Halloween does come only once a year," the children will remind you. And, kids not only enjoy candy on October 31, they expect it. Still, the food children eat (and don't eat) not only directly affects their growth and development, it also helps shape their lifelong attitudes about nutrition. So, this Halloween, try a new tactic at Halloween parties. Show your children and their guests that there is nothing really special about eating large quantities of candies by treating them to some equally appealing nutritious homemade snacks.

The alternative treats below are suggested by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and are tasty and attractive. Some are even a little sugary—but the important difference is, you control the amounts of added sugar. (Remember, even though the fruit is natural it's still sugar.) And you can make these snacks even more fun for a Halloween party if you wrap them in colorful paper or cellophane, and tie the packages with bright ribbons.

* Mix two or more of the following: shelled nuts, or sunflower seeds, plain popcorn, and raisins or other dried fruits. Beware: don't give nuts, seeds, or popcorn to children under four—they can cause choking.

* Mix peanut butter with chopped fresh or dried fruits and spread between two graham crackers.

* Bake some whole wheat, oatmeal, gingerbread, or molasses spice cookies.

Molasses Spice Cookies
 (Makes about 5 dozen cookies)
 Margarine—½ cup
 Brown sugar, packed—½ cup
 Egg—1
 Light molasses—¼ cup
 Flour—2 cups
 Baking soda—1 teaspoon
 Ground ginger—½ teaspoon
 Ground cinnamon—½ teaspoon
 Ground cloves—¼ teaspoon
 Salt—¼ teaspoon

1. Preheat oven to 375. (moderate)
2. Lightly grease baking sheet.
3. Beat margarine and sugar together until light and fluffy.
4. Beat in egg and molasses.
5. Mix remaining ingredients thoroughly; stir into molasses mixture and mix well.
6. Drop dough by teaspoonfuls onto baking sheet; place cookies about 2 inches apart. Flatten each cookie with a fork.
7. Bake until set but not hard—about 7 minutes.
8. Remove from baking sheet while warm. Cool on rack.

Paint Creek 4-H Elects New Officers

The Paint Creek 4-H Club met on October 15, 1980, for an organizational meeting. Officers elected were: president, Keith Medford; Vice President, Sandra Patterson; Sec.-Treas., James McPhail; reporter, Gina Calk; Council delegate, Kay Fischer.

The Foods Project at Paint Creek also met on October 15. They discussed "Why we need to eat a good breakfast," and "Why we need to eat nutritious snacks." The group prepared snack pizza.

Those present for this meeting were: Threccia McPhail, Gina Calk, Kay Fischer, Sandra Patterson, James McPhail, Ty Williams, Dale Houston, Keith Medford, Tommy Howard and Leon McPhail and Mrs. Jo Fischer.

The Paint Creek 4-H Club "Foods Project" met on October 21 in the homelike room of Paint Creek High School. They discussed the four food groups. They concentrated on the meat group and the nutrients found in the foods that are in the meat group. Mrs. Lou Gilly met with this group and gave a program on "Nutrition."

Members present for this meeting were: Gina Calk, Kay Fischer, Threccia McPhail, Tammy Scott, Temple Scott, Sandra Patterson, James McPhail, Ty Williams, Kelly Williams, Dale Houston, Tommy Howard, Keith Medford, Leon McPhail, Mrs. Jackie McPhail and Mrs. Jo Fischer.

Writer Foiled By Mechanical Monstrosity

BY GINA JENNINGS

They say that Lewis Carroll plied himself with opium to facilitate the writing of "Alice in Wonderland." And it is rumored that Ernest Hemingway 'macho-ed' his way through his volumes only with sufficient quantities of alcohol.

With all that talent and genius they still had to rely on such things to get their story on paper.

And they probably even had typewriters that worked right!

No wonder I'm a nervous wreck.

I have not yet turned to hard liquor. I do, however, require about 60 gallons of caffeinated substances to get me through a story.

Believe me, I am not coming paring my abilities with Carroll or Hemingway. I realize that everyone can't have that kind of intellect. It does seem though that with my other limitations, I ought to have a typewriter with a more agreeable temperament. I mean, I need all the help I can get.

What do you do with a typewriter with a "k" complex? Not that I object to "k's." I just like them to appear on the paper when I put them there.

Maybe I have a tendency toward nervousness, but when my typewriter starts returning at will every 4 seconds, it definitely disrupts my train of thought. Depending on the weather, my particular typewriter may or may not refuse to insert spaces between words. And in West Texas, how much can you depend on the weather?

The situation here is not totally hopeless, I must admit. All I have to do to force the machine to space is to lift it at least six inches and hurl it back onto the desk.

This is definitely no way to write the great American Novel. It is an excellent way however, to get one heck of a hernia.

Somehow I can't quite believe that F. Scott Fitzgerald had to bounce his typewriter around his desk while trying to write "The Great Gatsby."

Of course, as much as I may squawk about the idiosyncrasies of this machine, I have become dependent on it. My mind does not rise from its normally comatose condition until I flip the switch of the blasted machine and hear the uneven metallic grumbling (of the machine, not my mind).

I have, once or twice in frustration, rejected my wilful electric monster for a manual typewriter. The silence nearly drove me mad!

This escape also took the urgency out of the business. The rumbling and grinding of my eccentric electric was always warning me that if I did not hurry, it would start typing without me.

Occasionally when I get hot on an idea my typewriter gets downright aggressive.

I thunder away at the keys, oblivious to all but the creative urge. Suddenly I find the device machine has crawled furtively to the edge of the desk and is poised...ready at any moment to leap into my lap.

Letting go with a scream of shock, I shove the lumbering thing to the back of the desk and flip the switch to "Off", halting the attack.

I then find myself sheepishly holding the green "Off/On" switch which the typewriter has spit vengefully into my shaking hand.

Surely this kind of thing never happens to Truman Capote.

In fact, Truman Capote may one day write of the gruesome death of a small town writer who lost the last argument with her typewriter and was found brutally clubbed to death by a space bar.

If his typewriter works right he might get a pretty good story out of it.

Until then, wouldanybody like tok joinme for a drink?

Parents Urged To Accompany Children

Don't let Halloween haunt your children this year — use some health and safety precautions to prevent their trick or treating from turning into tragedy.

"Put a lot of youngsters on the streets in dark neighborhood areas and accidents can happen," says Harold R. Ray, Director of the Product Safety Division of the Texas Department of Health.

"But planning the Halloween excursion can resolve some of the pitfalls which may befall children. The best idea is for parents to go with their children. And parents, or the children themselves, will be spotted easier if they carry flashlights."

In addition, Ray says, flashlights provide better vision and perhaps save falls which could happen on uneven ground or while going down curbs. Lights are also helpful in spotting and keeping unfriendly dogs at bay.

For most children, Halloween is a time for dressing up in a costume or mask in order to put fear into the homes they visit. The mask and costume can cause trouble.

For one thing, says Ray, a mask will limit vision considerably unless the eye holes are large. Many of the costumes are dark, which may hamper motorists or other revelers from seeing the wearers in the dark.

"It's not too impractical to sew reflector strips onto arms and legs of costumes," Ray says. "This adds to the probability of a child being seen by a motorist or others on the street. Also, bags shouldn't be so large as to block the child's vision and clothing shouldn't be loose." Many children borrow their mother's wigs and care should be taken to see that these are fireproof. "Many of the costumes made at home are not fireproof, and this can be dangerous," Ray said.

Steve Garza, a senior patrol officer with the Austin Police Department, also had some advice for Halloween merry makers. "It's better to eat the traditional treats that are individually wrapped by the manufacturer. Unwrapped items, or those in torn wrappings should be inspected very carefully. Also, fruits should be washed and then cut into small portions," he advised.

Garza said children and parents should cross streets at cross walks, watch for turning at intersections, stay on the sidewalks, walk facing the traffic, and shouldn't cross the street between parked cars.

"Stay away from houses where the lights are off, and children should be warned not to accept rides from strangers," he warned.

A good plan may be to have a neighborhood party for children in the same age groups, or perhaps church or school parties. This way the children will be able to dress appropriately in costume and have a well-chaperoned event in safe surroundings.

Halloween comes on the eve of All Saints Day, which is celebrated on November 1, and was known as Hallow even (evening). Robert Burns in "Hallowe'en", presented an imaginative and humorous version of the ceremonies as practiced in the rural Scottish districts of his day.

Halloween has been associated in the popular imagination with the prevalence of supernatural influences; hence, the carry-over of witches, skeletons and other frightening things in costumes and decorations.

Abilene policeman, James N. Berry, son of Mr. and Mrs. H.B. Berry of Haskell, has been promoted to Sergeant by Abilene Police Chief Warren Dodson.

Berry, 29, has been a member of the Abilene Police Department since March, 1973 and has worked as an undercover narcotics agent, patrol officer, and with the Safety Cruiser. He is a member of the Abilene Police Association, of which he is executive vice president and previously served as director and treasurer.

Berry is a 1969 graduate of Haskell High School. He received an Associate of Applied Arts degree from Cisco Junior College and in 1972 received a Bachelor of Science in Law Enforcement and Police Science from Sam Houston State University. He and his wife Kay, live in Abilene and he is a member of the Experimental Aircraft Association.

"I shall make electric light so cheap that only the rich will be able to burn candles"

That's what Thomas Edison promised over 100 years ago.

And he did it!

For the same amount of light produced by ten 100-watt bulbs during their average lifetime, you'd have to buy $59,937.50 worth of 35¢ candles. (That's a conservative estimate supplied by a reputable bulb manufacturer.)

Yes, electric lighting has come a long way, since Edison invented the incandescent bulb. And through most of those years the price of electricity has gone down steadily. Even now, when inflation is forcing power companies to increase their rates, electricity is still America's best bargain.

MOBILE WEIGHT STATION

Colonel Jim Adams, director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, announced today that 12 new vans with trailers containing semi-portable scales will be used by State Troopers to weigh trucks and other heavy vehicles. The mobile scales will provide more flexibility in administering the License and Weight Laws and will result in a higher percentage of compliance with the statute while preventing additional damage to the state highways from overweight trucks. State License and Weight Sergeants Wesley Johnson of Pecos, left, Harold Kornegay of Garland, center and Bill Summerlin of Abilene check out one of the new items of equipment. The new equipment, which was funded through a Federal grant by the Department of Highways and Public Transportation, will make the weight-enforcement program more effective.

USDA Soil Conservation Service

Conservation Viewpoints

Gary W. Mathis, Assistant Manager, Swenson Land and Cattle Co. of Stamford, has been awarded the Excellent Grazing Management Award, annually presented by the Texas Section, Society of Range Management. The award will be presented at the Society's annual meeting on December 5 and 6 at Kerville.

Mathis was nominated for the award by the Haskell Field Office of the Soil Conservation Service. The nomination for the award was based on the excellent grazing management programs efficiently planned and expertly established by Mathis, Eugene C. Swenson and Carl E. Swenson, Co-Managers of SMS Ranch, on the ranch units known hereabouts as the Flat Top Ranch, the Throckmorton Ranch, and the Tongue River Ranch.

Considerable work has been done on the three units of SMS Ranch in regards to the planning and putting into operation, several 3 herd-4 pasture planned grazing systems encompassing approximately 17,500 acres on the Flat Top unit. Over 400 acres of kleingrass has been established on the Flat Top, converting old cropland to pastureland, to equip the ranch to better supply its livestock grazing needs.

The Texas Section, Society for Range Management is devoted to foster advancement in the Science and Art of Grazing Land Management in America.

Even though SMS Ranch is considered by many as a large ranching operation, the same principles of grazing management can be planned and established on smaller ranch units. Such grazing management programs have been successfully initiated on several smaller ranch units in the Haskell Soil and Water Conservation District. SCS personnel are trained to assist the rancher with planning such grazing systems.

A planned grazing system is simply a grazing program in which two or more grazing units or pastures are rested from grazing in a planned sequence throughout the year or during the growing season of the key plants growing in each pasture.

The purpose of such grazing systems is (1) to maintain or speed up improvement in plant cover while properly using the forage on all grazing units; (2) to improve efficiency of grazing by uniformly using all parts of each grazing unit; (3) to insure a supply of forage throughout the grazing season; and (4) to improve or maintain the habitat for wildlife.

Planned grazing systems can be initiated on all native rangeland and grazed wildland and recreationland.

District Conservationist

FACTS & FIGURES

Last year, Americans consumed over 3.7 billion cases of soft drinks; this year is due to set another record. Men, women and children enjoy the refreshing, pleasant taste of soft drinks.

Recently, the Food and Drug Administration advised pregnant women to avoid caffeine-containing foods, beverages and drugs, or to use them sparingly. This was based on a recent study that found caffeine, when fed to pregnant rats, caused birth defects and delayed skeletal development in their offspring.

Most soft drinks contain caffeine, but recently one manufacturer introduced a soft drink without caffeine or sugar. Called RC 100, the unique new product from Royal Crown Cola has the good, clean, refreshing cola taste but is 100 percent caffeine and sugar free.

One Vote Does Count

Senator
Lloyd Bentsen
Watching
Washington

How important is your vote on Tuesday, November 4? It could make all the difference! On numerous occasions throughout history the course of the world has been changed by the margin of a single vote.

But for one vote, what we know today as the United States of America might be merely part of the fading British Empire.

On September 28, 1774 the First Continental Congress, meeting in Philadelphia, debated the "Galloway Plan."

The effect of the Galloway Plan would have been to transform the American colonies into a British dominion ruled by an English type of Parliament and a British governor.

Delegate Patrick Henry of Virginia made an impassioned speech against the plan before it came to a vote that day.

The Galloway Plan was defeated by one vote.

With millions of votes being cast this year, it might be easy to assume that your lone vote would be lost in the shuffle, that it makes no difference whether you vote or not. That would be a mistake.

John F. Kennedy was elected President by less than one vote per precinct across the nation. One-half of one percent of the votes cast in Illinois and New Jersey swung 43 electoral votes to Kennedy. Had that tiny percentage of the votes in those two states been reversed it would have been enough to throw that election into the House of Representatives for a decision.

In 1800 Thomas Jefferson was elected President over Aaron Burr by one vote in the House of Representatives, following a tie in the electoral college.

In 1824 John Quincy Adams gained the Presidency by one vote when that contest was decided in the House of Representatives.

And in 1876 Rutherford B. Hayes was elected President over

Samuel J. Tilden when a special Electoral Commission voted 8-7 in his favor.

Repeatedly, throughout history, a single vote has changed the course of our civilization:

- the U.S. Senate in 1845 agreed to annex Texas by a one-vote margin;

- one vote cost King Charles I of England his head in 1649;

- Elizabeth II is Queen of England today because some 250 years ago the British House of Commons voted in favor of the House of Hanover, 96-95;

- in 1863 the U.S. Senate twice failed to convict President Andrew Johnson in his impeachment trial by a single vote.

In 1963 a candidate for council in a Cincinnati suburb was hospitalized for an emergency appendectomy and so unable to go to the polls.

He lost by one vote.

There is another story of a one-vote heartbreak that is repeated often in our nation's capital.

A Member of Congress from California, the story goes, was seeking renomination and when all the votes were counted he and his opponent each had exactly 10,429 votes.

In accordance with the California state constitution the contenders drew lots in the presence of the California Secretary of State. The incumbent Congressman lost the draw and the right to his party's nomination.

He sank into political oblivion and all because, the story ends, his secretary was too busy working at campaign headquarters to cast her vote on election day.

Make it a point to not find yourself too busy this election day. Your vote will make a difference. It might make all the difference in the world.

Texas drivers are learning to live with 55 mph limit

COLLEGE STATION — Some Texas drivers are slowly learning to live with the 55 mph speed limit, perhaps in time to save the state some federal highway money, says a Texas A&M University researcher.

Many drivers still exceed 55 mph "but overall we are getting closer to the 55 mph mark," said Dr. Quinn Brackett, research specialist with the Texas Transportation Institute at Texas A&M.

"Several factors contribute to the better showing," explained Brackett. He cited the price of gasoline; smaller, more energy-efficient cars which people tend to drive more conservatively, and public awareness of the effect of high-speed driving on fuel conservation and safety.

"Increased emphasis by enforcement agencies is also important," Brackett said.

A former 4 term member of the Texas House of Representatives, Buddy Temple worked diligently for sound fiscal management of state government, equitable funding of our public schools and sponsored the 1977 Highway bill that insured upkeep of our state's vital transportation system. During the 66th Legislative Session, Buddy Temple won the acclaim of Texas Monthly as the "hardest-working committee member."

In his primary victory, Buddy Temple received more than 56 percent of the vote which was the highest percentage earned by a statewide candidate on the May primary ballot. He received upwards to 80 percent of the vote in his home counties in East Texas.

Buddy Temple believes that the Railroad Commission must restore Texas to a position of leadership and look forward to the energy needs of tomorrow. "I welcome the opportunity to demonstrate that a state regulatory body can perform its duties effectively and efficiently with minimal intrusion into the lives of the people that it serves."

Vote to Keep Judge Will Garwood on the Texas Supreme Court

Judge Will Garwood has widespread support from Democrats, Republicans, Independents, three former governors, four former attorneys general, 11 former Supreme Court justices, 15 Texas Bar presidents.

Texas lawyers endorsed Judge Garwood by 82%. He won local judicial preference polls by 86% in Dallas, 86% in Houston and 80% in Fort Worth.

Judge Garwood is the choice of so many because he's fair-minded, non-partisan and better suited to the job through personal qualifications and superior training.

He has over twenty years experience in private civil law practice. He served with the Judge Advocate General's Corps, U.S. Army, and was first in his class every year at The University of Texas School of Law, receiving his LLB with honors.

"The appointment of Will Garwood to the Texas Supreme Court sounds like a chapter of Texas history repeating itself. The Garwoods have a long record in the judiciary. Will Garwood's grandfather, Hiram Garwood, was county judge of Bastrop County in 1888 and at one time president of the Texas Bar Association. W. St. John Garwood, son of the county judge and father of the new associate justice, was the first Houstonian to be named to the Texas Supreme Court in 80 years. . . . This three-generation record of public service is in the finest Texas tradition"

— HOUSTON POST

"Garwood's legal credentials are, to put it modestly, magnificent."

Engineers Offer 122 Scholarships And Grants

The National Society of Professional Engineers is making available 122 grants and scholarships to aid high school seniors interested in pursuing engineering careers. Joe Emberger, local chairman of the nation-wide scholarship program announced.

The head of the scholarship effort of NSPE's Abilene

Chapter said students will be selected for the awards on the basis of academic standing, participating in extra-curricular activities, evidence of leadership, character and self-reliance, comments of teachers and administrators, and financial need. NSPE scholarships are provided with the cooperation of 35 leading companies and educational institutions; recipients will receive awards of $1,000 to $4,000 with some full scholarships.

To be eligible for the awards, a student must be a high school senior ranking in the top quarter of his or her graduating class, plan to enroll in a college or university with an engineering curriculum approved by the Accreditation Board of Engineering and Technology (the profession's accreditation body), and be a U.S. citizen or plan to become a naturalized citizen.

Students must submit scholarship application to the local chapter by December 1, 1980; national winners will be selected by March 13, 1981.

For applications and more information on the NSPE scholarship program, contact scholarship chairman Joe Emberger at (915) 672-3251, Ext. 513 or a high school guidance counselor.

The time is now.

Carter's broken promises.

In 1976 Carter promised to reduce inflation and not raise taxes. Balance the budget. Hold down interest rates. Never to have a grain embargo.

Carter broke those promises. With inflation that hit 18% a year. Interest rates the highest in a century.

Promises broken. That resulted in the largest peacetime tax increase in history. A grain embargo. Budget deficits every year.

And inept policies and poor leadership for America at home and abroad.

Falling prices-rising debt.

Farmers and ranchers have suffered much because of Carter's incompetence.

Farm and ranch income is down 40% in the last year alone. Average farm debt is up from $42,000 before Carter to $62,135 now.

Over 100,000 farms and ranches have gone under during Carter's presidency.

A working farm and ranch policy.

The time is now. For a change in Washington. For strong, new leadership that will work with, and not against, agriculture.

Leadership that understands. Leadership that will listen. Ronald Reagan and George Bush will provide that leadership.

Leadership that means a Secretary of Agriculture who understands agriculture.

Leadership to lift the grain embargo. Expand markets at home and abroad. Remove excessive estate and gift taxes. Oppose federal land use planning. Promote a dynamic water policy for Texas. A strong economy and a strong America.

The time is now.

For common sense answers to inflation, Taxes, government spending.

For strong leadership that will restore our national defenses and stand up for America's interest abroad.

For the leadership that Ronald Reagan and George Bush will provide our country.

For the new influence Texas will have in Washington with Ronald Reagan as President and Texan George Bush as Vice President.

Citrus Harvest Estimated Up Over Last Year

AUSTIN—Despite some damage by Hurricane Allen, the grapefruit and orange production for the 1980-81 season will be up considerably over last year, reports Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown.

Estimates released by the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service anticipate 5,600,000 boxes of oranges and 7,900,000 boxes of grapefruit for the season that began about two weeks ago.

Early and mid-season oranges are forecast at 3,500,000 boxes, up from 2,300,000 in 1979-80. Around 2,100,000 boxes of Valencias, an increase of 370,000, are expected to be picked. Grapefruit production should increase by more than 1,000,000 boxes.

Brown said damage from the hurricane that hit the Texas coast in August ran around 15 percent. There was also minor fruit scarring and a little root rot to trees. "The heavy rains from the hurricane actually were quite beneficial," said Brown. "We expect a high quality crop this year."

Last year Lower Rio Grande Valley growers picked 60 percent of their normal crop as groves recuperated from the effects of two major freezes in the winter of 1978-79. The crop was expected to be nearly normal this year before the hurricane hit.

DA Urges Awareness Of Election Laws

District Attorney, Joseph Thigpen, announced today that he has received a list of common violations of the Elections Code from the Office of the Secretary of State in cooperation with the Texas Prosecutors Coordinating Council. These violations are:

- (1) electioneering within 100 feet of the polling place;
- (2) improper voter assistance;
- (3) improperly influencing a voter;

- (4) voting in more than one precinct;
 - (5) voting when not legally entitled to do so;
 - (6) vote buying; and
 - (7) closing the polls early.
- More detailed information regarding these violations may be obtained from the District Attorney's office or the Office of the Secretary of State.

Thigpen emphasized that people should be aware of the election laws so that they do not violate them inadvertently. Violation of these laws can result in the imposition of criminal penalties.

"I hope every American exercises his right to vote. This is one right that protects all the rest of our rights. My office is here to assist each citizen in exercising this right," said Thigpen.

He also said that the Secretary of State's office will closely scrutinize the process on November 4 to ensure a procedurally fair election. Any problems that citizens witness in the election process should be called to the attention of the election judge, and, if necessary, to the District Attorney and the Office of the Secretary of State.

Finally, Thigpen said, "Be sure to vote on November 4th."

Japanese Trade Offers Potential Super Sales

AUSTIN—"When a Texas Honeydew melon sells in Japan for $20, Texas producers have a great potential in widening the range of Texas agricultural products now exported to that country," Commissioner Reagan V. Brown announced recently.

Texas Department of Agriculture (TDA) marketing personnel recently visited the Orient on a promotional tour, and reported Texas food product sales in Japan have a tremendous opportunity, Brown said.

"(In Japan) A typical person will spend one month's salary on gift items. A tradition in that country, gift exchanges are often food items. It can be a fancy pack of cookies or grapefruit. With nice elaborate packaging, a melon can go for as much as $20," Brown explained.

"We need to work on efficient packaging techniques and iron out any transportation and quarantine problems to get in on the export sales race," Brown said.

Japan is already our largest single-country market for agricultural exports. That country also buys more grain from us than any other and is one of the top three markets for Texas cotton, Brown continued.

A three-day food exhibition in Tokyo allowed the introduction of Texas products such as fruits, candies and nuts as possible gift packs and an opportunity to explain the diversity of Texas agricultural products, Brown said.

Brown emphasized TDA personnel do not act as salesmen for private companies but refer product information requests to the proper producers. This type of promotion definitely helps future sales."

No More Fancy Names For Fleamk

When R.W. Reynolds opened a flea market in an old oil tank at Putnam he was not long finding out there was a great deal of importance in a name. His place, which he called "The Putnam Flea Market" soon came to be known as the "FLEAMK" due to a mistake of the amateur sign painters, his son and a friend, who spelled flea market "FLEAMK."

Reynolds had planned to erase back to the "FLEA" and add "MKT." but before he got around to it, a reporter from the New York Times wrote up a story about the operation and put special emphasis on the name, "Fleamk." He was the one that gave the pronunciation that stuck, "flemmick."

Anyway, with the exposure given in the New York Times and subsequently, other media, the FLEAMK became to be known from coast to coast.

Up until last year, the merchandise in the FLEAMK was always referred to as "antiques" or "junk" and it sold well. Reynolds, upon learning that the Smithsonian Institute had announced that items previously termed "junk" would henceforth be labeled "quaint artifacts," decided that was a good idea, (it would give more prestige to his business) so began to advertise "quaint artifacts."

At his new place just east of Abilene the wording on the sign out front says, "Quaint Artifacts and Antiques." Well it has not worked. People are not attracted by it so he is scrapping this sign and will post one that simply says, "Antiques and Junk". No more new fangled names for him, he says.

Incidentally, the FLEAMK at Putnam, the store in the old oil tank, will be open Nov. 15 from 9 until 5 and Nov. 16 from 1 to 5, after having been closed most of the summer. He says that all he has for sale is antiques and junk, no fancy stuff at all.

ATPE Memberships Increase By Over 50 Percent

The Association of Texas Professional Educators (ATPE) has experienced a membership increase of more than 50 percent according to Executive Director Mike Morrow, who believes that Texas educators are leading a nationwide trend of teachers who are leaving the unionized National Education Association.

Morrow added that according to NEA's own membership figures, teachers from other states are "waking up, too." In 1979 NEA showed a loss of membership in 16 states including Texas where the decline reported was 9,704 despite the fact that nearly 5,000 new teaching positions were added in the state that year.

ATPE, a group of educators led by state president Alafair Hammett, a classroom teacher with 30 years experience, favors grassroots control of education. ATPE does not support collective bargaining for public school teachers and has not endorsed political candidates.

"Many Texas educators do not subscribe to the philosophy that any education association should make across-the-board statements or assume that a few leaders speak for the entire profession," Morrow said.

"On more than one occasion the Texas State Teachers Association has indicated that it speaks for the entire Texas teaching profession. While this might have been the case in the early 70's, it is no longer true," Hammett said.

"Having had their credibility questioned and their pocketbooks penalized, Texas teachers are becoming more professionally active. They are no longer joining, sheeplike, one organization which may or may not reflect their philosophies," Morrow said.

"Most education associations share many goals, including better salaries and benefits for teachers; however, where we differ, we differ strongly. ATPE represents professionals who are dedicated to the task of providing an education for Texas children, and our members will not stand on the backs of these children to further their own personal gain," Morrow, who has been both a classroom teacher and an administrator, stated.

The Association of Texas Professional Educators opened its state offices in Austin in May, 1980 as a result of the consolidation of two groups of educators who had organized in 1975 as a protest to TSTA's affiliation with the National Education Association.

As Halloween Approaches—The Witches Call

BY JERRY JENNINGS

Out of the darkness from the depths of madness, it came at me. In an instant, it was on my back, shrieking and ripping like an enraged animal.

The stench of the unwashed body was as overwhelming as the blows. It was the scent of a wild thing, untouched by civilization.

I had no chance to gain my balance. The weight of my attacker knocked me forward. My head struck the tombstone with a nauseating crunch.

As I slipped into unconsciousness, I felt the long hair sweep over my face. Freed from the constraints of reality, my whirling mind screamed out the terrifying truth.

I had fallen victim to the notorious Witch of Ft. Phantom Hill. My battered brain conceded and released my fate to her terrible claws.

No one knows where the unconscious mind goes or what it may find in its wanderings. I floated in blackness where sporadic perceptions flickered like scenes from an old movie.

I was cold, very cold. Before me was an enormous plateau, shrouded in darkness and blinding sleet. Even in the night and violent ice storm, I recognized the Ft. Phantom Hill Dam.

Headlights appeared and began to move across the top of the treacherous plane. The car was traveling too fast for safety on the dam's narrow icy road. A single guard rail stood between the swerving vehicle and the inky depths of the lake below.

In a flash, I saw the inside of the car. The expensive instruments and furnishing looked new but strangely out of date.

A young richly dressed woman peered anxiously over the steering wheel into the veil of ice in front of her. Beneath her mask of fear, she was strikingly beautiful. I had never seen her before but I felt I knew her.

On the seat beside her lay a full length mink coat. Snuggled under the fur was a sleeping dark-haired infant. His soft breathing and calm expression belied the danger around him.

The child stirred. Instinctively, his mother reached out to touch him. That gentle maternal gesture jerked the steering wheel just enough.

The tragedy unfolded in slow motion as I watched from the perspective of the impersonal storm.

The car went into a spin. I turned once, twice, building up momentum with each revolution.

The taillights smashed through the guard rail. The final spin was completed in mid air forty feet over the surface of the lake.

The headlights swept the sky in a last plea for mercy before turning downward. The car glanced off the rocks at the base of the dam and splashed into the lake.

For a few moments, the car resisted the grasping waves. Then in a final swirl it was engulfed by the watery darkness.

I struggled forward to rescue the woman and child from certain death. But, as in a nightmare, my movements were painfully sluggish.

As I labored, the vision began to fade. The pain became a throbbing reality in my head. I realized I was gaining consciousness.

I lay face up on a grave, the rocks beneath me dug into my spine. What I saw when I opened my eyes almost sent me back into unconsciousness.

She was kneeling beside me, staring intently at my face. Her anger had been replaced by a look of bewildered concern. It was as if she saw someone she recognized.

She was haggard, ragged and in need of a bath. Her face was older but still hauntingly beautiful. She was the Witch of Ft. Phantom Hill but she was also the woman in the car.

My reeling mind tried to connect my vision and the stories I had heard about her.

She had been the wife of a young wealthy oilman from Dallas. On an icy October night five years before, she was returning home with her ten month old son after visiting friends in a small West Texas town.

She had become lost while taking a shortcut through the countryside. When she attempted to cross the Ft. Phantom Hill Dam, her car skidded on the ice and went over the side.

When the car was recovered from the lake, neither she nor the infant was inside. A thorough but unsuccessful search was made of the entire area.

Some members of the search party suggested that the bodies had been devoured by monstrous catfish which divers had reported near the dam. A grief-stricken young husband returned to Dallas to piece together his shattered life.

A few weeks later, residents at the lake began to report nocturnal sightings of a wild-eyed young woman. There were rumors that she had actually attacked lone fishermen and campers. Another search was made, but nothing was found.

Since then, she had become part of the folklore of the lake; the Witch of Ft. Phantom Hill, an insane wandering ghost who searched endlessly for her dead child.

As I stared at her, I was certain she was insane. I also knew she was no ghost. My vision had revealed that I was called to the cemetery to rescue her from the tragedy but had provided no clues as to how I was to accomplish that.

I had no chance to find out. She reached over and gently touched my face. Then, in an instant, she was gone.

When I returned to the car, I was able to start the engine immediately. I never told my friends what had happened. I drove home in silence while they babbled about the apparition they had seen near the gate.

Except for a few minor scratches and the knot on my head, I came through the episode rather well. I was briefly irritated that I lost my billfold in the graveyard scuffle.

In the days that followed, I returned to the cemetery several times. I found no trace of the witch or my billfold. In time, I pushed the experience to the back of my mind and resumed my normal activities.

Two years later, I was a sophomore in college and lived in the dormitory. One October evening, I dropped by my parents' house to visit for awhile and pick up my mail.

The envelope lay on the coffee table among the usual selective service notices and student loan reminders. It was postmarked Dallas but there was no return address.

The light blue textured paper looked expensive. The lovely handwriting and perfumed scent suggested it was from a girl.

I opened the envelope with that small twinge of excitement a young man feels when he suspects he has received a letter from a female admirer.

Inside, I found a standard birth announcement. Beneath the usual picture of a baby and a stork were the words, "It's A Boy!"

On the inside of the card, the mysterious handwriting had recorded a date and a time, but no name. The anonymous baby had been born a week before.

The two items which fell out of the announcement answered all of my questions. The first was the copy of my driver's license which I had carried in my long lost billfold.

The second was a miniature studio portrait of a prosperous looking man in a Stetson hat. What astonished me was that, minus the hat and a few years, the face that smiled at me was my own.

Occasionally, when the October wind turns cold and the mesquites begin to undress for Halloween, I return to the Ft. Phantom Hill Cemetery. I go, not to pay my respects to the dead, but to remember the living.

Don't forget the Haunted Forest and Halloween Carni-

Lest Farmers & Ranchers Forget How They Fared Under the Republicans

• The Russian Grain Steal.

The Nixon Administration kept the sale secret as long as possible enabling international grain companies to buy wheat from American farmers at cheap prices. Even after the deal was made, our agriculture department advised that "there is little chance of the price of wheat rising much above the loan."

• After the market advanced, the Nixon Administration used every tool to drive prices down.

President Nixon personally ordered all C.C.C. wheat dumped the following spring to break the market. Only a strong holding action by farmers caused grain prices to recover. Also, the administration embargoed soybean exports to break the market. This forced the Japanese to start huge bean farms in Brazil which today compete with American farmers. Also, Secretary Kissinger personally ordered an embargo on grain shipments to Poland and other Iron Curtain countries to gain diplomatic concessions. This "killed" the American grain farmer and we haven't recovered yet! Mr. Butz ordered full production and there was no way we could sell this much at good prices!

• Mr. Nixon put price controls on beef and other meats in the summer of 1973.

This caused a buildup and a mess up which broke many cattlemen and the industry has never recovered.

• How does Mr. Reagan plan to improve on the Republican Record?

• Parity. On March 23, asked in Wichita, Kan., if he would support 100 per cent of parity, Reagan replied, "...I have to confess to you that, uh, I am not as familiar with some things as that..." A week later, he told a reporter, "I didn't want to say a flat no, and I certainly wasn't going to say a flat yes." (Washington Post, March 30, 1980)

• In an October 12 article in the Dallas Morning News Mr. Lyng, who is co-director of Reagan's Farm & Food division, was quoted as saying that the dwindling numbers of family farms are no reason for alarm, and that in fact the reductions have been necessary for the good of the country. Mr. Lyng showed further disdain for the hard-working Texas farmer by stating that "we couldn't have the education, health care or communications we've got (in the United States) if we hadn't relieved an awful lot of people from the drudgery of food and fiber production." Also Mr. Reagan says "you subsidize the inefficient when you put a floor under the price."

• "He intended to put the farmers on notice 'in the sense that they know my philosophy' that they should start planning for an end to government assistance in production and in the marketplace." (Los Angeles Times, March 9, 1976)

• Jimmy Carter took office in January 1977, faced with one of the most serious drops in farm income in American history. Three years of "fence to fence" production actively boosted by Earl Butz, (who Reagan says was probably the best Secretary of Agriculture we ever had) had grain prices dropping to their lowest levels in years. Livestock producers and feeders were suffering the fourth year of heavy losses, made worse by unlimited beef imports and Nixon price controls. Dairy farmers were recovering from a flood of imported cheese ordered by Nixon and Butz.

• The Carter-Mondale Administration set about to restore American agriculture through steady, sustainable growth and Federal programs that emphasized self-help and market price profit.

• A farmer-owned, farmer controlled grain reserve is the centerpiece of the Carter-Mondale policy. It allows farmers themselves to increase the price of wheat, feed grains and rice and to keep control and ownership of the commodity—thus realizing for themselves the profit when prices increased.

• Export promotion programs were given new emphasis. Through farmer-controlled market development organizations assisted by the Department of Agriculture, existing export markets were expanded and new markets developed. American farm exports grew from $22 billion in 1976 to an expected $40 billion this year. The Administration concluded a difficult round of Multilateral Trade Negotiations highly favorable to agriculture.

• Livestock and dairy producers worked their way back into a profitable position; the Democratic Administration kept its promise not to interfere with price controls or unlimited imports. With the Democratic Congress, we concluded a countercyclical meat import bill strongly supported by producers and consumers alike.

• Alcohol fuel production received strong support and emphasis by this Administration, after years of neglect, with more than $2 billion in financial assistance made possible by new legislation requested by the Administration.

• Farm credit was tripled by the Carter-Mondale Administration, rural electrification and rural telephone credit programs (which the Republicans tried to eliminate in 1973) were expanded and given vigorous support, the Nation's first comprehensive rural development policy was enacted, long-dormant forestry and wilderness problems were brought to solutions.

• The record is one of achievement—one of facing up to the hard realities, such as energy cost increases caused by OPEC and the security risks posed by the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan. When President Carter made the statesmanlike choice of a partial embargo on grain sales to the Soviet Union, he coupled it with programs to alleviate the impact on the American farmer—something Republican presidents did not do.

• Reagan asks us to compare the economic situation when Mr. Carter took office compared to the present.

Well...

Cattle are bringing twice as much.
Cotton is bringing almost twice as much.
Wheat is bringing almost twice as much.

It looks like Texas Farmers are better off under the Democrats!

(Pd. Pol. Adv. Pd. for by Texas Farmers & Ranchers for Carter-Mondale, Bob Pogue State Chairman, George Mullino County Coordinator.)

New Postal Program Aimed At Schemes

Postal Inspector in Charge W.R. Newsome announced today the Postal Inspection Service has initiated a program which is intended to eliminate, or drastically reduce, the effect work-at-home schemes have on postal customers.

Mr. Newsome stated work-at-home schemes are generally aimed at the unemployed, elderly, and housewives who want to supplement their income. The most common work-at-home schemes involve advertisements offering a large amount of income for "stuffing envelopes." The promoter will require you to invest your money before you are sent any instructions.

Mr. Newsome declined to state all work-at-home promotions were illegal, but stated he knew of no work-at-home promotions which would guarantee regular salaried employment.

Advertisements which claim you can earn unusually high income with little or no effort should be viewed with suspicion. A new pamphlet describing work-at-home schemes is available at local post offices.

Mr. Newsome stated he had appointed Postal Inspector J.G. Horton to serve as the work-at-home specialist for the Fort Worth Division of the Postal Inspection Service, which encompasses the State of Texas. He said anyone who felt they had been a victim of one of these schemes should contact Inspector Horton at P.O. Box 1230, Fort Worth, Tx. 76101, or telephone (817) 334-2029.

If a President doesn't even know what parity means, how's he going to protect the family farmer?

Mr. Reagan, where do you stand on parity?

"I wish I could... I wish I could answer the question for you that I know is a technical question... 100 per cent of parity, ah, I have to confess to you that, ah, I am not as familiar with some things as that..."

Response to a question during a March 23, 1980 campaign appearance in Wichita, Kansas.

You can expect that, when a candidate's knowledge on a subject is so weak, he'll turn to his advisors.

Whom does Ronald Reagan listen to?

Over half of his farm policy advisors were Nixon appointees.

They're among the ones who stopped grain exports to deflate prices and put price controls on meat. (In contrast, President Carter moved aggressively this year to cushion farmers from the effects of the Russian grain embargo imposed in response to the Afghanistan invasion.) The Republicans opened the floodgates on beef, dairy, and sugar imports and nearly decimated our beef industry. (The Carter Administration has worked closely with the cattle industry to protect it from unfair imports.)

Superintendent's Views

BY JAMES LANIER
Superintendent, Haskell ISD

The Debt Service category of the budget is strictly paid from local sources. Five cents of our 85c rate is dedicated to debt service. Our bonds payable for this year is $21,000, interest payable is $5320 and fees $30 for a total debt service of $26,350.

Our debt service includes only one series voted in 1954. The total amount of the issue was for $350,000. It included construction of the High School gymnasium, an extension on the elementary school, the center portion of the secondary building and some miscellaneous smaller projects. The last year for paying off the bonded indebtedness is 1987.

Payment Schedule

- 1981—$26,687.50
- 1982—$25,952.50
- 1983—$26,200.00
- 1984—$26,412.50
- 1985—$26,590.00
- 1986—$27,715.00
- 1987—$27,787.50
- 1987—$9,157.50

(two payments in 1987)

The plant maintenance and operation includes payroll costs for custodians, contracted services for equipment repair, vehicle repairs, building repairs, grounds, other (such as mop service, pest control, etc.), and utilities (water, telephone, electricity, gas.) The payroll costs are estimated at $56,355 with contracted services estimated at $59,800.

The utilities, especially electricity and gas, have undergone a drastic increase in recent years. We estimate electricity costs at $16,000 for this year and natural gas at $20,000.

The supplies and materials in this category are chiefly custodial supplies (waxes, finishes, etc.) We estimated a cost of $14,700.

Other operating costs consist primarily of insurance, estimated at $13,650. Capital outlay includes purchase of a new school car and furniture and equipment ($8,500). This item brings the total estimated costs of the plant maintenance and operation to $153,005.

We have estimated a cost of $19,000, for the replacement of the last of the wooden frame windows in the secondary schools.

We estimate the total expenditures of all the budget for 1980-81 will come to $1,197,930.

This concludes the expenditure part of our report to the public concerning the budget. Next week, we will try to explain the revenue part of the budget.

The Consumer Alert

by Mark White
Attorney General

AUSTIN—Here is something that may be of interest to those of you who have experienced or will experience the heart sinking feeling of returning to the space where your car was parked only to discover an empty spot. You will be happy to know that the Legislature of Texas has recognized this as a problem area and passed legislation governing under what circumstances you may be towed legally at your own expense, as well as when you may recover expenses incurred due to an illegal tow.

Article 6701g-2 of the Texas Revised Civil Statutes addresses the removal of unauthorized vehicles from parking facilities or public highways. The statute gives the parking facility owner or towing company the right to remove and store any unauthorized vehicle without the consent and at the expense of the owner or operator of the vehicle, if a sign or signs are prominently displayed specifying who may park in the facilities and stating that all others are prohibited. The sign(s) must be readable from all entrances to the parking facility; however, they need not be illuminated. The parking facility owner or towing company also has the right to remove and store an illegally parked vehicle at the owner's expense and without his consent if the vehicle is obstructing an entrance, exit, fire lane or aisle of the parking facility. If you as the operator or owner of an unauthorized vehicle have received actual notice from the facility owner that you will be towed away if the vehicle is not voluntarily moved, the law gives you no recourse. Here again the act of the facility owner towing your car away is legal and will be at your expense. The towing company is also insulated from liability in this situation so long as it receives written verification from the parking facility owner that the owner/operator of the unauthorized vehicle actually has been notified of the intent to tow if the vehicle is not removed. In all other instances a parking facility owner or towing company may not remove any unauthorized vehicle unless it is done under the direction of a peace officer or the owner/operator of the vehicle.

Any parking facility owner who removes an unauthorized vehicle under the conditions set out above will not be liable for any damages arising out of the removal or storage of the vehicle, as long as the removal is accomplished by an insured towing company.

It is important to note that this statute also is violated if the parking facility owner has a pecuniary interest in the towing company or if the towing company has a pecuniary interest in the parking facility. That is, no consideration may pass between these entities in connection with the removal of a vehicle from a parking facility.

The statute further disallows a towing company to remove a vehicle from a public highway unless it is done under the direction of a peace officer or the owner/operator of the vehicle.

Any violation of this Act is a Class B misdemeanor, which places liability on the facility owner or towing company for damages arising from the removal or storage of the vehicle, including any towing or storage fees assessed in connection therewith, plus reasonable attorney fees. Violators of this Act may be enjoined pursuant to provisions of the Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act.

If you have been the victim of a questionable tow feel free to file a complaint with the Attorney General's Consumer Protection and Antitrust Division. It is only through your complaints and our subsequent investigations of the alleged illegal practices that we can thwart such activities.

FBC To Hold Halloween Festivities

A double dose of Halloween festivities will be offered by the young people of the First Baptist Church on Thursday and Friday nights upstairs at the Potpourri Hair Fashions 400 1/2 N. 1st.

Beginning at 6:30 Thursday night, children through the 6th grade are invited to attend their special "Spook House." On Friday night from 10:30 to 12:00, a second spooky evening will be geared toward youth and adults.

Admission to the eerie event is free although donations will be accepted and used for the church's new family recreation center.

CAPITOL UPDATE

John Tower
U.S. SENATOR for TEXAS
142 RUSSELL OFFICE BUILDING
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20510

Providing information and assistance to Texans is one of my primary responsibilities as a senator. These services are available from four offices in Texas, as well as my Washington office.

Let me take a moment to tell you some of the things my staff and I can do for you.

We can provide copies of bills or committee reports, and tell you the status of a piece of legislation. In addition, we often are able to provide other information about the federal government. I also welcome your suggestions concerning legislation that might be introduced.

The state offices — located in Dallas, Austin, Houston and Lubbock — also offer assistance in any matter relating to a federal agency. Considering the size and scope of the federal government, that covers a lot of territory.

We work with an individual having trouble getting his Social Security check; a community that wants to keep its post office open; a student who wants to go to a service academy; a business seeking a Small Business Administration loan, and a host of others with other concerns.

Unfortunately, I do not have the power to change an agency's decision, nor can I dictate what the agency's decision will be. But I can make sure that your situation is receiving proper consideration, and that all relevant information is being considered -- and often I can help cut through the masses of red tape that seem to abound in federal agencies.

So that these problems can be handled most efficiently, each of my staff members has a different area of responsibility, and different functions are performed in each office. But if you will get in touch with your nearest state office, the staff there will make sure the right person gives you assistance.

In addition, each state office provides general services for its area of the state. For instance, staff members attend public hearings involving federal matters. They also keep me informed about area problems and concerns, and the views that citizens express to them. These offices can even provide speakers for area groups.

I would encourage all of my fellow Texans to call upon me, through any of my offices, for any information and assistance that I am able to give.

Calling Social Security Office Could Save Time and Problems

It is a good idea for people in the Haskell area to call social security before making a visit to the office. This is because most social security business can now be conducted over the telephone. Glyn Hammons social security district manager in Abilene, said recently.

"Unless a person's business is urgent, it is best to call after the middle of the month.

Inquiries can be handled more efficiently in that period," Hammons said.

Examples of the things that can be handled by telephone include:

- Applying for social security benefits. A claim can be started over the phone and completed by mail.

- Applying for Medicare.
- Changing name or address in social security records.

- Reporting a change in marital status.
- Reporting stopping or starting work or to report any event that may affect checks.
- Reporting a lost or stolen check or delayed payment.
- Getting help in filling out a Medicare form.
- Arranging for direct check deposit.
- Getting an estimate of benefit amount.

- Requesting a statement of earnings record.
- Getting help in requesting that claims decision be reviewed.
- To ask any question about social security or to request free publications.

Halloween Carnival Set At Leisure Lodge

Residents and employees at Leisure Lodge have invited young and old to join them at their annual Halloween Carnival Friday night.

The carnival which will begin at the Lodge at 6:30 will feature a wide variety of booths, games and (for the very brave) a spook house.

For those most enjoyable moments, carnival goers will even be able to enjoy an "instant replay" on video tape.

Leisure Lodge folks invite everyone to join them in the Halloween fun.

Vote for Greater Banking Convenience

Passage of Proposition 1 on the November 4th ballot will open the door to even greater banking convenience. This simple change in the law will allow Texas banks to place unmanned teller machines at convenient locations for faster service, night or day. These teller machines are becoming a convenient option for handling routine banking business.

"Round-the-clock banking at unmanned tellers is convenient, safe and a positive step toward avoiding unnecessary credit card use. . . moreover, it is an energy saver — instead of traveling across town to a bank, an unmanned teller can be built in your neighborhood."

— San Angelo Standard-Times

Proposition 1 "will make life easier for bank customers. . . (it) will eliminate many, if not all, of the tortuous lines seen clogging drive-in bank lanes."

— Houston Chronicle

Proposition 1 "has gained widespread support as the amendment faces voters Nov. 4."

— Orange Leader

"Off-premises unmanned teller machines should be approved by Texas voters."

— San Antonio Light

People in forty other states already have this convenient banking choice. It's time Texans did, too.

Vote for Proposition 1 November 4th.

D-DAY FOR DEMOCRATS

Nov. 4

Voters of the 101st
Legislative District:

You have seen many times the following test sentence for the beginning typist: "Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their party."

Tuesday, November 4 is it for this year, though it should be amended by substituting "Democrats" for "Men" because everybody 18 years of age and older, regardless of sex, is eligible to vote.

I Have Two Suggestions:

1. Be sure to vote. In case you plan to be away from home on election day, go to your County Clerk's Office and cast an absentee ballot in the period prior to election day prescribed by law.

2. Vote a straight Democratic ticket. The citizen's of Texas and The United States have prospered more under Democratic administrations.

I appreciate your support in the past and solicit your vote in the general election. Call on me when I can be of service. I can be reached at my office in Paducah, except during sessions of the Legislature when I can be reached at my Austin office.

NEWS OF HEALTH

Approximately five percent of the world's population, including over 17 million Americans, suffers from varying degrees of hearing loss.

One out of every 20 people has a hearing problem—fortunately most can be helped.

People who find themselves straining to hear in conversation or often asking others to repeat things may be experiencing the early signs of hearing loss.

A hearing impairment is especially important to children, whose symptoms include a short attention span, limited vocabulary and difficulty in learning to speak. Frequently, however, hearing loss takes place so gradually the individual doesn't sense the problem.

Experts say the sooner hearing problems are diagnosed, the easier the remedy. According to statistics, the majority of people who suffer from uncorrected hearing loss can be helped either medically, surgically, through amplification or therapy.

If you suspect you or someone you know has a hearing problem, see your physician or hearing aid specialist promptly.

For free information on hearing loss and its solutions, write to Siemens Hearing Instruments, 685 Liberty Ave., Union, N.J. 07083.

Title I Parents Form Advisory Council

On Tuesday, October 14, at 7:30 parents of Title I elementary and junior high students convened in the Haskell Elementary School Library for the purpose of electing a Parent Advisory Council.

Approximately forty parents attended the meeting and the following members of PAC were elected: Mrs. Jimmy Bynum, Mrs. Diane Ownes, Mrs. Eva Jimenez, Mrs. Billie Reynolds, Mrs. Clyde Reynolds, Mrs. Wayne Stout, Mrs. Emma Serna, Mrs. Lucy Anguiano, Mrs. Julio Seguro and Mr. Andres Anguiano. The members will act in a combined function serving as the Title I Parent Council for the elementary school and junior high school and also in a district wide capacity.

The purpose of the meeting was to explain to the members of the council and the parents the purposes and functions various Title I programs now in use in the Haskell schools and to organize the PAC for the current year.

The programs covered were Remedial Reading, Remedial Math, Reading Readiness (Kindergarten) and attendance services.

An explanation of eligibility, budgeting and funding was given by Bill Blakley, Elementary Principal. He also introduced all of the teachers and aides who work with the Title I program in elementary school and junior high.

After the general meeting the new members of the Parents advisory council elected Mrs. Jimmy Bynum as Chairperson.

The meeting concluded with refreshments and a tour of the Title I reading and math facilities.
