

City and school elections will be held this Saturday and local voters will have an opportunity to select the individuals who will lead our city and school during the next few years.

Your vote is your representation on the school board or city council. Use it wisely, study the issues, visit with the candidates and then select the persons who best agree with your viewpoints.

At the same time, decide now to visit at least one meeting or our elected officials during the coming year. The visit will give you a chance to better understand some of the problems facing our elected officials. At the same time you will be better qualified to vote intelligently in the next election.

All too often, local elected officials are criticized for decisions by individuals who don't understand the problem and are not qualified to criticize the solution.

Serving as volunteers on the city council and school board takes dedication and concern. These individuals certainly deserve our support and thanks and if after becoming familiar with the issue, if we still disagree, then they deserve our polite, constructive criticism.

But above all else, we owe it to ourselves and our children to vote.

Fair Board Elects Officers

Members of the Board of Directors of the Haskell County Fair Association met last week and elected Brian Burgess President, for the 1982 Fair.

Snelling Wins State Award

Jerry Snelling, Haskell High School Junior, placed third in photo competition among AA schools throughout Texas recently.

In the spot news category, Snelling's picture of Homecoming activities won a bronze Individual Achievement Award from the Interscholastic League Press Conference, the State UIL journalism agency.

Snelling is a photographer for The War Whoop, the school paper, and the award winning photo appeared on the front page of the October 23, 1981 issue.

"This is a prestigious state award and most difficult to win. Because of the popularity of photography among high school students, the competition is very keen," said Mrs. Jill Druessedow, newspaper adviser.

Members of the Haskell School Board and members of the coaching staff met in a special meeting last week.

The meeting was requested by coaches following a decision by the Board to hire an Athletic Director.

Board members told the coaches that whoever is hired as Athletic Director would be instructed to work closely with coaches in making individual coaching assignments.

Board members will meet this Thursday, April 1, in a called meeting to interview an employee and Athletic Director.

Brush and Palette

Have you ever painted a self portrait? You can be your most available, patient and cooperative model. Rembrandt painted his self portrait more than fifty times. You might think "How can I look at myself and paint at the same time?" That's easy. First look, analyze and compare your structure, then start painting. It is easier to try a life size first. Have a good light set up, then look at the values in your face, studying the lights and darks. Here are a few suggestions that might help you get started:

1. Decide on the pose. Set a large mirror on an easel about five or six feet away, about the distance of a model.
2. Starting with the head, measure and sketch that actual size on the canvas.
3. Indicate the location of the eyes, nose, mouth and ears. Determine the hairline proportionately above the eye brows.

4. Work in the background around the head at this point, which secures the position on the canvas. Start the clothing with an outline and then fill in with the basic color.
5. Determine the shape of the facial shadow by squinting. There will be the eye sockets, shape of the upper and lower lips, shape of the nose and chin. The shadow will continue down the neck area.

Once you have the basic shapes, the darks and lights determined, you can start the process of finishing. Try more than once to do a self portrait, change positions and light source variations.

Q. What colors should be used on the face of a portrait?
A. Mix Ivory Black and White with a little Yellow Ochre for the shadow areas. The flesh color is White, Yellow Ochre and Cad Red Light. Where the light strikes the face, use a bit more White in the mixture.

Q. How many students do you prefer in a class?
A. Ten makes a good class but no more than 12 to 14.
Q. What colors are used for caliche, black soil and granite?
A. Yellow Ochre and White or Raw Sienna and White can be used for caliche. The shadows tend to be purplish.
Black land soil is usually a purplish gray. Use Ultramarine Blue and Cad Red Light or Viridian Green and Alizarin mixed with a bit of White. Don't paint the soil too dark and be sure to let sunshine come into the painting somewhere.
Terra Rosa is a favorite color of mine and I use it or Indian Red mixed with a bit of Yellow Ochre for granite. A darker red is Burnt Sienna where the sun is not direct. For the shadows, make a purplish color as for the above. Some painters use Mars Orange for granite with Cad Orange for the highlights.

HINT: The sun is always in the sky, even above clouds and direction of this light is always discernable.

Write your questions and hints to me, Faye Schnuriger, P.O. Box 134, Haskell, Texas 79521. I will not use your name but do want you to sign your letters.

Bess and Harry Is Study Club Topic

"Bess and Harry is a great book for Valentine's Day because they were truly lovers all their lives," said Mrs. Vester Schultz as she began her book review for members and guests of the Progressive Study Club, March 18.

Jo Cox introduced the guest speaker, who lives in Abilene with her husband, a retired military man. Mrs. Schultz reviewed the book Bess and Harry written by Jhan Robbins, a personal friend of the Trumans.

Mrs. Schultz went on to say that Bess Truman was a most influential First Lady and a great asset to her husband. Harry first saw Bess in Sunday school when she was six years old and admired her from then on, although they did not marry until both were in their mid-30's.

After their marriage, Harry went into the men's clothing business with an old army buddy. The business proved unsuccessful. Thomas J. Pendergast is credited with urging Harry to enter politics - first, as county judge and later, as U.S. Senator. Although his ambitions did not exceed the Senate, Harry was asked to run with Franklin Roosevelt as Vice-President. He accepted a decision which thrust him into the Presidency when Roosevelt died in April. On his 61st birthday, May 8, Harry Truman moved into the White House.

Mrs. Schultz related many personal glimpses of the Trumans from the book. Harry was devoted to his family, and Mrs. Schultz remarked that one of the Truman's greatest contributions was that they "made families count again."

Mrs. Schultz concluded her review by saying, "You will find a new respect for both Harry and Bess Truman if you read this book."

In the business meeting which preceded the book review, Peggy Payne was elected 2nd vice-president for next year to replace Patsy Sams, who resigned.

Refreshments were served by hostesses Mildred Mancill, Sharon Alves, Sherry Adams, Kay Graham, and Nelda Lane.

The ability to wait a while to have a need or a wish satisfied, to be good humored about delays, is one of the most attractive and endearing traits in an adult or a child.

Growing Child, the monthly child development newsletter, points out that this quality of personality doesn't just suddenly happen when an individual reaches adulthood. It develops slowly from a beginning in early infancy. And, strange as it may seem, it develops in young children whose needs are satisfied. That is, the baby who is not frustrated learns to endure frustration.

A study sponsored originally by the National Institute of Mental Health indicated that there is a close relationship between the degree of pleasure a baby experiences during his feedings and the gradual development of his ability to wait. Feeding is important, because hunger is the strongest physical drive of a baby.

The study found that, as a baby learns to look forward to pleasurable relief from the tension caused by hunger, he gradually begins to put up with necessary periods of waiting-provided, of course, that in the beginning the delay is brief and bearable.

At the end of their first year, children who had had their physical and emotional needs adequately met showed increasing ability to pay attention to tasks and to handle test objects well. Introduced to activities such as fitting pegs in holes or dropping blocks into a container these children showed interest in the tasks and pleasure when they succeeded. Further, they were not too frustrated by failure.

In contrast, those children whose feeding experiences had been less pleasurable showed less interest, less patience and less concentration. Many showed anxiety about what was expected of them.

The study is careful to point out that it is the repeated good or unhappy experiences that matter-not the occasional interference of teething, fatigue, illness or family stress.

As a child moves out of infancy and into early childhood, his ability to tolerate frustrations will continue to develop as his changing needs continue to be met.

Wise parents learn to recognize early signs of frustration in their child, and to relieve the child's tension before increasing frustration leads to loss of control, disorganized behavior or temper tantrums.

This avoidance of frustration does not imply over-permissiveness. Rather, it results in setting realistic limits on behavior, and maintaining them consistently. A child can feel secure when he knows what to expect of his parents and what they expect of him.

Further, avoiding frustration includes recognizing the effects of over-fatigue or over-stimulation and protecting the child from these stresses when possible; providing pleasurable distracting substitutes for undesirable activities; and allowing the child freedom to grow into independence.

The emotional security provided by continued meeting of his physical and emotional needs frees the child from anxiety and uncertainty. Thus freed, he can concentrate on a task, wait his turn when necessary to meet the demands of cooperative play, and accept with reasonably good humor the inevitable disappointments of life.

The gradual maturing of these elements of the ability to wait prepares the child to meet successfully the social, behavioral and learning requirements of the schoolroom.

The Growing Child newsletter follows a child's development month-by-month. For more information on the social and physical development of children from birth to six years old, write to Growing Child, PO Box 620N, Lafayette, IN 47902. Include child's birthdate when writing. A year's subscription to the newsletter costs $11.95.

Women's Aglow Fellowship To Meet In Aspermont

The Aspermont Women's Aglow Fellowship will meet Thursday, April 8, at 7:30 p.m., in The New Place, Aspermont. Husbands and families are invited to join the WAF in a special family night of fellowship and ministry. A nursery will be provided at the Living Church for 3 to 5 year old children.

Speakers for this special family night will be husband and wife team, Harry and Jo Fischer of Wichita Falls. Harry & Jo have been married 29 years, have five children and four grandchildren.

The Fishers have been in public ministry for over twenty years. An ordained Baptist minister, Harry spent the first few years pastoring Baptist churches. The Fishers received the indwelling of the Holy Spirit in 1969, and ministered as full time evangelists for the Assemblies of God Church from 1974 through 1977; Harry as ordained minister and Jo as licensed minister. After much prayer, they were then led by the Holy Spirit to leave the Assemblies of God and "go to any of God's people, totally led by the Holy Spirit," at which time they formed their own evangelistic association.

The Fishers have a "Prison Ministry" and are known as traveling missionaries. Believing that the gifts of the Holy Spirit should be in operation by the Body of Christ today, they are gifted by God with such gifts and have seen many saved, healed, and delivered by these "gifts".

The Aspermont WAF chapter issues an open invitation to come and join in the fellowship and blessings of the ministry of Jo and Harry Fisher.

The monthly meetings of Women's Aglow Fellowship have been changed from 9:30 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. the second Thursday of each month. The change to evening meetings is expected to give opportunity for working women and those with small children to attend.

Letters To The Editor

(EDITORS NOTE: The Haskell Free Press will publish letters to the Editor dealing with any subject. All letters must be signed but names will be withheld by request. All letters are subject to editing for length and liability.)

Dear Editor:
Last night I had an experience that brought me face-to-face with the reality that anything can happen at anytime.
I was out riding around with one of our Emergency Medical Technicians last night. He had just picked me up and we were together no longer than 10 min. when his pager exploded in the night. He called the hospital and was informed that there was an unconscious heart attack victim between here and Stamford. Since we were to meet the ambulance at the Steak House he didn't have time to take me home so I was bundled into the ambulance with them. That is a trip I do not wish on my worst enemy. We flat flew to the victim's side and they placed him in the ambulance. The return trip was made double time with an EMT working on him all the way to the hospital and a police officer held traffic at the light so we could proceed to the hospital to the awaiting staff. Sensing I was in the way I left the hospital and returned home.

The point I'm trying to make is how fortunate we are to have an EMT service a police force and a hospital staff that work so well together. Of course this is a job they are paid for but still it is an invaluable service they perform and I would like to express my appreciation of the forementioned group and the many others who also perform such services paid or volunteer for this community. We are indeed fortunate to have such a terrific group of people at our service.
Very truly yours,
Julie John Wallace

Volunteers Sought For Exchange Program

What is a 17-year-old student from Osaka, Japan doing in a typical American community? "We wanted a family education about the world," says Betty Townsend. She and her husband Earl are one of nearly 5,000 American families across the country who are hosting an overseas student this year under a program administered by Youth for Understanding (YFU), one of the world's larger secondary school student exchange organizations. "After we signed up and knew Noriko would be our daughter for a year, we started thinking about everything that could go wrong," recalls Earl Townsend, "and we wondered if we'd be able to handle it." The Townsends' fears had been anticipated long ago, however. According to YFU Vice President Susan Greene, "most prospective host families don't know how to prepare for their overseas son or daughter. But through the years we've become specialists in cross-cultural exchange and have devised many techniques to make the experience joyful and rewarding."

That Noriko would show up at the airport and then everything would be perfect," says Betty Townsend. Before the arrival, a YFU Area Representative contacted the Townsends and invited them to the first of several program orientation workshops. Here they met others who had hosted international teenagers. "They got us thinking about what to anticipate and how to deal with it," Earl Townsend says. "For example, they questioned our expectations about Noriko. We expected a rose garden, I think, but we learned about homesickness, language problems, and unexpected cultural differences. Then we learned what we could do about them."

"Culture shock is a very real phenomenon," Greene points out. "After the initial excitement wears off, a student often feels overwhelmed by the frustrations he or she encounters in a different culture." Without realizing it, the student may become withdrawn or depressed, and in response the host family may feel guilty, baffled, or resentful. "It's very easy for parents to overreact when this happens," comments one YFU Area Representative. "But if they are sympathetic and caring—and if they have some strategies in mind—they can give the student the emotional support he or she needs to get through difficult moments."

With YFU's guidance, the Townsends discussed Noriko's arrival with their own children. They took an inventory of their family's habits and rules, and then imagined how the presence of a new family member might change them. They studied about Japan, boned up on American culture, and because their own children are still in elementary school, did some reading about what teenagers are like. "YFU supplied us with a wealth of resources," Earl Townsend remarks. "We're very impressed with their procedures and their thoroughness. It's been a first-rate educational experience for all of us."

"YFU volunteers had other suggestions, too," Betty Townsend comments, "such as making sure that Noriko writes her parents regularly. They also suggested that we correspond with them, and now we're good friends even though we've never met."

YFU also arranged for the Townsends to talk with American youngsters who had lived abroad under YFU programs so they could better appreciate what Noriko is going through. When Betty and Earl Townsend have questions about dating, language problems, or Noriko's social adjustment, YFU's trained counselors are available to help, either at the local level or at the organization's Washington, D.C., headquarters.

When it is time for Noriko to go home next summer, YFU will be there to help her and the Townsend family adjust to the separation.

"It's really tremendous,"

Betty Townsend exclaims. "We'll probably do it all over again next year." At the very least, husbands adds, they will serve as YFU volunteers to share their knowledge and experience with other new host families.

Each year YFU enables more than 7,000 students from the U.S.A. and 24 nations in Europe, Latin America, and Asia and the Pacific to discover life in another land. YFU is now accepting applications from families to host students who will arrive in August. Information about the host family program, and overseas programs for American students, is available from Youth for Understanding's Regional Office at 1438 Campbell Road, Suite 208, Houston, Texas 77055, or by calling collect (713)932-0066.

H & R BLOCK DOES ALL TYPES OF INCOME TAX RETURNS

Skilled preparers conduct personal interviews to be certain that every legal deduction to which the customer is entitled will be uncovered. Often taxpayers are short changed when they simply file the form they received in the mail from the government.

All type of tax returns are done by H & R Block. This included the Federal 1040A, 1040, state returns, complex corporations, and foreign tax income and preparation.

If audited, an H & R BLOCK representative will accompany their clients to the Internal Revenue Service and explain how the return was prepared even though H & R Block will not act as a legal representative. There is no extra cost for this service.

H & R BLOCK assures quality, with the world wide guarantee that states, "If H & R BLOCK makes any error in the preparation of your tax return that costs you any penalty or interest on additional taxes due, while Block does not assume the liability for additional taxes, they will pay that penalty and interest."

NEW EQUIPMENT

New Respirator Therapy Department Now In Full Operation At Hospital

Beginning February 1, a completely new department of Respiratory Therapy was started at Haskell Memorial Hospital.

The department has four employees and greatly expands the treatment of respiratory patients in this area. Prior to Feb. 1, most patients needing respiratory care were transferred to another hospital.

Bill Nemir, certified registered Nurse-Anesthetist, is in charge of the new department.

The patient's doctor prescribes all respiratory treatment and Nemir and his staff work closely with the doctors to see that the patients receive the best possible care.

Nemir has purchased the necessary equipment and contracts on a percentage basis with the hospital. According to Nemir, the agreement saves taxpayers money because the hospital is not required to purchase the equipment. At the same time the cost to the patient is lower since the service is provided locally instead of in Abilene or another distant hospital.

According to Nemir, equipment is available to provide a complete range of respiratory services and all treatment is medicare approved.

Other employees in the respiratory department include: Janeita Oswald, of Graham, a certified respiratory technician; Jacquie Nemir and Kim Nemir. Present plans call for both Jacquie and Kim to be certified respiratory therapy technicians by summer.

The personnel work with patients in the operating room, emergency room, delivery room and patient rooms as well as providing respiratory treatment to individuals in their home in some cases.

A least one of the employees is at the hospital from about 6:30 a.m. to 9:00 p.m. seven days per week and two others are on call 24 hours per day.

Lung Association To Change Name

The North Texas Lung Association's Board of Directors announced this week that the name of the Association is being changed to the American Lung Association of North Texas to better identify the Association's programs and purpose through local, state and national name recognition.

The Lung Assoc. has a long history. It began in 1904, almost 79 years ago, and was the first nationwide voluntary organization aimed at conquering a specific disease - tuberculosis. (Tuberculosis was then called the "white plague" and it ravaged the nation as the number one cause of death.) The new agency was called the National Assoc. for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, which was shortened to the National Tuberculosis Assoc. in 1918.

While fighting TB, medical men and research scientists began to recognize and take more interest in other lung diseases - especially emphysema and chronic bronchitis. They were also concerned about the effects of cigarette smoking and air pollution on the breathing system. Realizing that all of these factors must be considered together, and hoping to project this broadened scope to the public, the Assoc. officially became the National Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Assoc. in 1968, later changing to the American Lung Assoc. - to better reflect its goal - the Prevention and Control of Lung Disease. At that time,

April 15 Is IRA Deadline

Eligible workers have until April 15, 1982, to make contributions to their Individual Retirement Savings Arrangements (IRA's) and still claim them as deductions on their 1981 Federal tax return.

If they request an extension to file their returns, they have until June 15, 1982, to make their contributions, the Internal Revenue Service says.

Eligible employees claiming IRA's on 1981 returns are allowed up to $1,500 in contributions to an IRA. Since penalties are assessed for excessive contributions, taxpayers should calculate the amount of the contribution carefully.

IRA eligibility requirements and dollar limitations have been liberalized significantly by the new tax law, but the changes affect only IRA's that will be reported on 1982 tax returns. Taxpayers are cautioned to avoid penalties by taking premature advantage of 1982 IRA provisions on their 1981 tax returns.

Banks, insurance companies, credit unions, and other financial institutions can provide assistance in establishing and maintaining new IRA's and in calculating maximum contributions allowable on 1981 tax returns.

Detailed information on IRA's is contained in IRS Publication 590, "Tax Information on Individual Retirement Arrangements," available by mail by using the order form in the tax package.

"The Committee told me that all of the applicants were outstanding, and I am very pleased with the response we have had from the students and teachers in the 17th District. I know it was very difficult to make the selections from the 44 applications received."

Camp Booth Oaks Ready For Spring

Each spring, Camp Booth Oaks renews its flow of GREEN blood—which all Girl Scouts have in ample supply.

Raising canvas and tent-flies for twenty-two platform tents is a spring ritual of the West Texas Girl Scout Camping Services Committee. Chairman Ray Alexander set a committee workday for all day Saturday, March 20th to get ready for a deluge of camping activities. His camp committee members are family teams of Girl Scout volunteers from Big Spring, Snyder, Roby, Sweetwater, and Abilene who help maintain the facilities of the camp.

Camp Booth Oaks is a cherished and favored campsite; that is evident in the full schedule of "CBO" from the first day of spring: JUNIOR EVENT #1, March 26th - 28th, has 78 girls from seven troops participating in a workshop offered by consultants for ECOLOGY, TROOP CAMPING, WILDLIFE, FINDING YOUR WAY, and OUTDOOR COOK badges. JUNIOR EVENT #2 has 134 girls of sixteen troops registered for April 16th - 18th.

Day Camp Director Training for the Six Council Exchange (Caprock, Lubbock; El Camino, San Angelo; Nor-Cen-Tex, Wichita Falls; Permian Basin, Odessa; Zia, Artesia, New Mexico; and West Texas, Abilene) will be conducted at Booth Oaks March 31 - April 1.

RECEIVES AWARD

Joe Montgomery of Abilene (left), president, Association of Texas Soil and Water Conservation Districts, presents entertainer Mac Davis an award for outstanding public service for his voluntary efforts to promote the conservation of Texas' soil, water and related renewable natural resources.

"I'm for environmentalism as the term might apply to judicious responsible uses of our natural resources to meet today's and tomorrow's needs of our society. People have to be fed, they have to be clothed and we all have to have a place to live," says popular country-western singer-songwriter Mac Davis.

"As far as my involvement goes, I just wanted to have a part in helping people to become more aware of and interested in the conservation of soil, water and renewable natural resources as close to home as possible. All of us can sleep a little better at night if we know that we're not just taking from the land without giving a little consideration for tomorrow," said Davis.

Davis serves as a spokesman for Texas Soil and Water Conservation Districts by urging Texans to become aware of an active participants in the State's Soil and Water Conservation efforts.

Mac was presented with an award for outstanding public service by Joe Montgomery of Abilene, president of the Association of Texas Soil and Water Conservation Districts.

Five Texas Lakes Produce 12 Pound Bass In 1982

Time was a five-pound bass was a real lunker and an eight-pounder was more pipe dream than reality for most Texas anglers. But in 1982, five Texas reservoirs already have produced 12-pound-plus largemouths, and several other lakes are about due to shatter the 12-pound barrier.

The five which have made it in 1982 are Lakes Monticello, Welsh, Calaveras, Fayette Power Project and Livingston, according to Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials.

The stocking of Florida-strain largemouths is believed to be the main reason more huge bass are being caught, and an examination of stocking records appears to back up this theory. It's more than coincidental that Monticello, which has produced a staggering number of trophy largemouths, was one of the earliest stocked with Florida bass. It received its first batch in 1973.

Calaveras Lake near San Antonio was first stocked in 1974. Welch, which is located near Mount Pleasant and just a pistol-shot from Lake Monticello, received its first Floridas in 1975, as did Livingston.

Inland Fisheries Coordinator Bob Bounds said that calculating the time Floridas have been residing in a lake it is possible to estimate when wall-hanging size largemouths will start being caught. "After its second year of life a Florida bass or first-generation hybrid will grow at about two pounds per year, so you can almost predict when 12- or 13-pounders will appear," said Bounds.

With this as a guide, Bounds said there are a number of lakes around the state which are ready to blossom. Possum Kingdom Reservoir near Mineral Wells was stocked with Florida bass in 1973. In 1974, Lakes Mexia, Houston County, Benbrook, Halbert and Sam Rayburn were stocked. In 1975, Lakes Amistad, Brownwood, Fairfield, Jacksonville, Leon, Texoma, Twin Buttes and Worth got their first Floridas.

Bounds said that these lakes vary widely in habitat, forage and other important factors affecting fish growth, but all have been stocked long enough to produce at least some 10-pound-plus largemouths.

Fayette Power Project Lake near LaGrange was the most recent to crack the 12-pound barrier, with a 12-4 caught last week. The 2,400-acre lake already had produced at least two bass in the 11-pound range during 1982. "You can see that since Fayette was stocked in 1977, it has to be somewhat behind Monticello in growth of trophy bass, but with the outstanding growth rate bass have there I don't think the gap between the two lakes is too large," Bounds said.

Bounds said he would be interested in hearing from anglers who catch 12-pound largemouths, particularly from lakes which have not produced them before. Any bass, in fact, over seven pounds will earn its captor a "Big Fish Award" certificate from the department. To obtain an application, write the Parks and Wildlife Department, 4200 Smith School Road, Austin, TX 78744, or call toll-free 1-800-792-1112.

NOTICE OF TAX RELIEF AVAILABLE TO CERTAIN HOMEOWNERS OVER 65

Homeowners who were 65 years of age or older on January 1, 1979, and failed to receive their school district homestead exemptions in 1979 have until April 1 of this year to do so. In this way, elderly homeowners will be able to take advantage of the school tax freeze associated with the $10,000 homestead exemption.

According to a law passed by the 67th Legislature, over-65 homeowners who were qualified for the school homestead "tax freeze" in 1979, but who did not apply for or receive their homestead exemption, may file an application with the chief appraiser of the county appraisal district in which the homestead is located.

Eligible over-65 homeowners in Haskell County must make application to the Haskell County Appraisal District, 604 N. 1st, Haskell, Texas before April 1, 1982.

To qualify for this tax relief, a homeowner must have satisfied these requirements on January 1, 1979.:

- *Been 65 years of age or older
- *Owned his home
- *Used that home as his residence homestead

The chief appraiser of the Haskell County Appraisal District will consider all applications and notify each applicant before April 15, 1982. If the application is approved, the chief appraiser will make an entry on the appropriate school district's 1982 appraisal records.

This entry will indicate the amount of school tax the over-65 taxpayer should have paid in 1979, had he applied for and been granted the $5,000 general homestead exemption and the $10,000 over-65 homestead exemption. No refunds of taxes paid may be given for 1979, 1980 or 1981.

For 1982, the taxpayer's school taxes on his homestead may not exceed the amount of taxes the school district would have imposed on the homestead for 1979, had the taxpayer received his homestead exemptions. This frozen tax amount will remain the same as long as the homestead remains the same.

For applications contact the Haskell County Appraisal District, 604 N. 1st, Haskell, Texas or call 864-3805.

Superintendent's Views

BY JAMES LANIER
Superintendent, Haskell ISD

Immediately following Spring Break each year, spring extra-curricular activities burst upon the scene. Track teams are going every direction. The golf teams are playing in tournaments. The tennis teams play in tournaments and practice until dark each day. In fact, they often times turn on the lights and continue to practice. But, the group I would like to feature this week is the UIL Literary contestants. These students and their teacher coaches often times do not receive the publicity and notoriety of the classmates indulging in sports activities; yet what they do clearly reflects their classroom activities. Believe me, some of these contests require great effort and knowledge. Our students fared rather well at the district contest this year. Seven of the qualified to advance to the regional level. Even those who didn't advance to the regional level. Even those who didn't advance competed hard and represented our school and community well.

The students who qualified for regional include David Wheatley in journalism feature writing and science. He was 1st in both contests. David also competes in football and track. He is an honor student. Jay Druedow placed 1st in journalism editorial writing. Jay is also an honor student. He was 1st team All-District in football. James Whitehead placed 3rd in journalism headline writing. James is very active in the band and often is on the honor roll. Sharla Drinnon won 1st place in shorthand. Sharla is also on the honor roll often. She is the drum major of the Indian Band. Rochie Roddell was 2nd in shorthand. Rochie is a twirler for the Indian Band. Doug Lanier placed 2nd in typing. Doug also plays football and basketball.

Good luck to all these participants at Regional. I know they will represent us well.

PLEASE, DO NOT FORGET TO VOTE SATURDAY, APRIL 3rd for the candidates of your choice.

Candidates for trustee are: David Davis, Pat Henry, Jerry Hanns, Joe Alves and Jerry Harris.

Jehovah's Witnesses To Hold Observance

The local congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses will join nearly 44,000 other congregations around the world in their annual observance of commemorating the death of our Lord Jesus Christ.

"Jesus himself instituted and memorial of his death on the night before he died. At that time Jesus told his disciples: 'Keep doing this in remembrance of me.' (Luke 22:19). This denotes a regular, annual observance. It is the most important day of the year to all of Jehovah's Witnesses worldwide. The annual attendance to this special memorial far exceeds the total number of all of Jehovah's Witnesses. Last year 2,247,486 actively shared in the worldwide work of preaching and teaching God's Word to others. But the attendance at last year's memorial of Christ's death we had a worldwide attendance of 5,987,893. This is almost three times the number of Jehovah's Witnesses around the globe. So many interested persons of all walks of life and from various churches of Christendom attend with us on this most important night", stated Mr. R. Hoisington, local elder of the Haskell congregation.

"Jehovah's Witnesses invite any interested persons to join us in memorializing this important event on Thursday evening, April 8th, at 7:30 p.m. It will be held in our Kingdom Hall at N. 16th and N. Ave. J in Haskell. There will be an uplifting Bible talk about the meaning and purpose of this observance and the benefits to be derived from it. Please call 864-3705 if you need transportation", concluded Mr. Hoisington.

Throckmorton Ranch Featured In April 8 Field Day

Several years of research on mineral supplementation of normally low quality winter range forage will be reported in Throckmorton Thursday, April 8, at the field day of the Texas Experimental Ranch.

Also to be featured in the morning program will be reports and exhibits of research on a short duration grazing system, control of pricklypear cactus, and response of livestock and vegetation to grazing management.

The program begins at 8:30 a.m. and concludes with a barbecue lunch at noon, said Dr. Earl C. Gilmore, resident director of research with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station (TAES) at Vernon. Tours begin at 9:30 a.m.

The experimental ranch is on U.S. Hwys. 183 and 283 between Throckmorton and Seymour. It is 11 sections on the Throckmorton Ranch of Swenson Cattle Co.

Low quality forage constitutes a major portion of the diet of a range animal during winter in the Rolling Plains of Texas, noted Dr. Rod Heitschmidt, TAES associate professor of range ecology. During winter, dormant forages alone are often deficient in protein, calcium, phosphorus and potassium needed to meet the nutrient requirements of a beef cow.

For the past two years, the ranch has conducted research with potassium supplements for one of two herds on heavily stocked, continuously grazed land, and one of three herds in the deferred rotation system, explained Dr. Bruce Johnson, TAES assistant professor of animal nutrition at the ranch. Tests also were started last fall to investigate the effects of phosphorous supplementation.

Results of this work and continuation of research to obtain a better understanding of the nutrient status of heifers and cows and to refine range management procedures will be reported by Johnson.

Another feature of the tours will be a visit to the cell-designed short duration grazing system (SDG) at the ranch. The Texas Experimental Ranch began research on a 14-pasture, one-herd SDG system in March 1982, Heitschmidt said.

Since its inception in 1957, the Texas Experimental Ranch has conducted research on livestock responses to rates of stocking, type of grazing system and level of winter supplementation of feed; long-term vegetation response to grazing treatments; effects of stocking and grazing systems on rate of water infiltration and sediment, production and calf growth and development. The Texas Experimental Ranch is a cooperative venture of ranchers, businessmen and the Texas Agriculture Experiment Station, part of the Texas A&M University System. Pasture and livestock are provided by the Swenson Land and Cattle Co., TAES provides personnel and funds for research, and citizens formed the Texas Experimental Ranch Committee to raise private funds for construction of facilities. The committee also serves as a lay advisory board.

Gavels, Grit & Glory, The Bill Clayton Story

House Speaker Billy Clayton's decision not to seek political office this year apparently has increased the demand for Jimmy Bank's new biography of him, according to Publisher Ed Eakin.

The 379-page book, 'Gavels, Grit and Glory,' came out shortly before Christmas and the first copies sold so quickly that we immediately went into a second printing," said Eakin. "Now, it looks as though we will be going into a third printing shortly."

The book has drawn many favorable reviews despite the suspicions of some Clayton foes that, since it was published while the Speaker was contemplating a race for State Land Commissioner, it might be a "campaign biography."

Banks, author of an earlier highly successful book on Texas politics, "Money, Marbles and Chalk," said the completion of his book had nothing to do with Clayton's political plans.

"Clayton is a fascinating person and the first one ever elected to four consecutive terms as Speaker of the Texas House of Representatives," said Banks. "In this book, I have tried to tell his story objectively, including his dramatic, traumatic experience in being accused, and then acquitted by a jury, of bribery charges in the Brilab affair."

"I was especially pleased that so many of his friends, and even his political enemies, cooperated in giving me not only their views of Clayton but in sharing many revealing and humorous experiences involving the Speaker," he declared.

Felton West, Houston Post capitol correspondent, noted in a review of the book that Banks "had produced more interesting reading—because Clayton, regardless of one's opinion of him, is a fascinating character and one given to doing things one would not expect...."

"In one hilarious revelation," said West, "Banks reports that Clayton was once an undercover man himself—shades of the FBI!—when he disguised himself with hair dye, a fake mustache and an affected, stuttering voice to help a young woman investigate a religious cult's assembly house in cloak-and-dagger fashion."

"There are these and more highly entertaining stories in 'Gavels, Grits & Glory.'"

"There are also interspersed excerpts from a poignant diary kept since 1923 by Clayton's mother—a good writer herself—that help tell the story of Clayton and his family," said West.

Banks said he expects Clayton to remain active in politics, even though he is not running for office this year. He noted that he had asked the Speaker's wife, Delma, last year if she would like for her husband to get out of politics and quoted her response in the book:

"Sure," she replied, "In a way I would. It's a lot harder than most people realize for the families of people in public office. The criticism is the worst part, and of course, Brilab was the greatest blow of all. But I don't think Bill would ever be happy out of politics, despite all the hardships and abuse that goes with it."

"And if he wasn't happy, I wouldn't be happy."
