HARVEST UNDERWAY

After record rainfall in May, local farmers are in the midst of harvesting wheat and preparing for cotton planting. The area wheat harvest is well underway and at present is hampered only by wet areas in the fields. Continued dry weather will provide ample time for the harvest and cotton planting.

Clean-Up Week Set In Rule

In a joint announcement Rule Mayor Leroy Denton and Chamber of Commerce President Patrick Pace officially designated June 7-12 as "Clean-up Week" in Rule. Members of the Rule City Council have adopted a resolution officially designating the week and have agreed to provide at least two special services during the week.

Persons who have large amounts of debris may call the City Hall and a city truck will pick-up and dispose of the material. In addition, the city has a tractor and shredder and for a minimal fee, will mow weeds on private property.

City officials request that all residents cooperate in the Clean-up Project by stacking all debris together and removing debris, wire, and trash from all areas to be mowed.

The "Clean-up Week" is an annual project of the Rule Chamber of Commerce and according to Pace, "Chamber members hope this will be the best ever".

Gymnastics Classes

Gymnastics classes will be offered in two sessions this summer at the high school gymnasium. The first session will begin June 15, and will continue June 22, 29, and July 6. The second session will be held July 13, 20, 27 and August 3.

The classes will be sponsored by the Haskell Young Homemakers. Information concerning the classes is available from Susan Cox or Janet Jacobsen.

I must have misunderstood. What I thought I heard couldn't have been what he actually said. Or could it?

One million dollars is somewhat beyond my usual grasp of comprehension, but my $4.95 pocket calculator can easily digest such sums.

To spend one million dollars per day (what a fun thought) is still further beyond my imagination, but according to the electronic box that would amount to approximately $695.00 per minute.

I don't think I even know any women who could maintain that pace for 24 hours, much less for twelve days.

He couldn't have said one million dollars per day.

My television must have stuttered when the newscaster announced in a calm voice that President Reagan's trip to England and Europe was costing U.S. taxpayers (if you're not dead, on welfare, or less than five years old, that means you!) one million dollars per day.

Don't misunderstand, everyone needs a vacation occasionally and if you can mix in a little business then the trip would be tax deductible, if it wasn't a vacation paid for with tax money.

How would it be to spend a few days in the Bahamas, return for a week or so at the office, spend some time in California and then go to Europe?

Keep in mind that at every opportunity, you must speak out against waste and inefficiency and at the same time convince everyone in Congress that we must cut spending in order to balance the budget.

To really cut costs, according to the folks with General Telephone, a daytime, person to person call from Washington D.C. to London England would cost $10.10 for the first three minutes and $1.26 for each additional minute. As an example, a 20 minute call would cost about $32.00 and according to the advertising would be "The Next Best Thing to Being There".

Still more conservative would be a airmail letter which according to local Postmaster Joe Alves would cost .40 per half ounce. As an example, you could mail a 24 page letter (thin paper) from Washington D.C. to London for about $1.60.

Perhaps we're cutting costs in the wrong places.

Citizens Urged To Participate In Beautification Project

"Cultivate Haskell"... that's the slogan of the beautification project that is underway here.

The new bumper stickers bearing the words are evident throughout the town and the bluebonnets gracing the signs are further evidence of the locale. They were designed by Mrs. Coyt Hix.

The signs are lovely to look at. Now let's look at their meaning.

CULTIVATE: to till, as the soil; to improve by care, labor or study; to devote oneself to. The words come from the dictionary-their meaning from the hearts and minds of citizens who care.

To till is to prepare for seed. What is done today is not only for the present, but a definite development toward the future. Even more important are the seeds that are planted in the memory of children who are tomorrow's caretakers of our town. Such a community project is their heritage and the example set before them will bloom for generations yet to come.

To improve by care is a step beyond caring. It isn't enough just to care that something be done; it's up to every one of us to do our share, converting our concern to action. As strong as the Beautification Committee is, it cannot do the job alone...nor should it have to. To improve by labor often means blistered noses and calloused hands, but the fruits of such labor find a balm in the results that follow. To improve by study is exactly what the Committee has done. Nothing is a spur-of-the-moment action, but a master plan which they have worked out, with a time schedule and some definite goals. This required much thought and much research before instigation.

To devote oneself to-now that's the real key. Such a major undertaking requires dedication and perseverance. It has to be a priority.

The Board of Directors of the Haskell Chamber of Commerce at its last regular meeting voted to publicly commend the Committee for its efforts and to pledge its support and help throughout this, our Centennial year.

What better, more constructive, way to celebrate our 100 years than to culminate a century of growth with an embellishment such as this?

Our forefathers did not have lush lawns, but they had flowers. They swept their dirt paths whereas we may but have to hose off a modern sidewalk. They nurtured the sapling and braced it until the flexible young tree could stand on its own and weather the storms. Consider the tender care that gave us the beautiful stately trees that abound our city.

Since last August, the Beautification Committee has met the first Tuesday of every month. They meet, they study, they evaluate, they plan, they accept responsibility, they act.

Let's review how it all came about. When she was then a Councilwoman, Mayor Franciene Johnson was chairman of the Parks Committee. Wanting to learn what other cities were doing, she attended a State meeting held in Grand Prairie concerning the Beautification Committee in Haskell. She believed that if we all work together and if everyone will do something that we would have

Members of the council agreed to rotate the purchase of fuel between local wholesalers on a per load basis.

Council members also discussed and agreed to implement a new job description program which will designate responsibilities for all city employees.

Bonnie enjoys the occupation now of housewife and mother of 3 1/2 year old son, Lyle. Her hobbies include; needlepoint, painting and gardening, and she is a member of the First Baptist Church.

asked the citizens and the County Commissioners to work together to landscape the creek area.

Mayor Johnson reported that the County has pledged their cooperation and as soon as the weather permits, the Committee and the town look forward to the forthcoming improvements the Commissioners plan to make.

Bud Turnbow is to be commended for the work he has already done and is praised by a grateful community for his efforts on this project.

"The Beautification Committee is doing a fine job", commended Councilman Bill Lane, Jr., who is Parks Director. Lane said that plans are also underway for a Youth Program in the Park in July.

Tom Watson is in charge of the Project of the Month which is to remove old abandoned automobiles from people's property. Persons who would like to have this service are asked to call the Fire Department or the Ervin Unger Salvage Company. They will be picked up at no charge.

Another Committee member, Dr. Eddie Harris, has contacted Perry Turnbow, with the City of Abilene Park Department, to develop plans for landscaping the areas. A former resident, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Turnbow. After the Committee approached Clayton Neal, Junior High School Principal to request his leadership in beautifying the school grounds, Neal suggested that the students in the first grade and in Junior High pick out a project to maintain and to finish in their six remaining years.

The Committee presented him a print of the now famous picture of the Indian with tears streaming down his cheeks, lamenting the neglect of the land, feeling that Haskell Indians would be reminded of their tasks as students.

Members of the Beautification Committee are: Mrs. Elbert Johnson, Tom Watson, Mrs. Archie Jones, Dr. Eddie Harris, Mrs. Cliff Dunnam, Gary Druesedow and Juanita Rae.

Individuals who would like to be a part of the Beautify Haskell program may pay $2.50 for a year's membership, with $5.00 per year dues for a place of business. Sustaining lifetime memberships are $25.00. Mrs. Archie (Virginia) Jones at the Haskell National Bank is the project treasurer and donations should be taken to her.

Fort Griffin Fandangle To Begin Next Week

For more than forty years the people of Albany have been entertaining West Texans with song and dance, depicting the lives of early Texas settlers through the production of the Fort Griffin Fandangle.

The two hour outdoor musical is scheduled to run for six performances June 17-19 and June 24-26 at the prairie theatre just outside the Albany city limits.

A cast of over two hundred local citizens begin rehearsing as early as February each year to make the historical narrative possible. With the exception of the directors and technicians, the cast and crew of the show volunteer their many hours of rehearsal and performance.

The Fandangle was created 44 years ago by Albany playwright and author Robert Nail as a senior class play. The production was such a success that local citizens encouraged Nail to expand the endeavor to include the townspeople.

Over the years scripts for the show were carefully constructed to tell the story of the old west and how it was settled. Following Nail's death in 1968, the town drew from within itself for continued leadership and guidance.

For two generations the Fandangle has pulled from Albany talents that otherwise would have gone undeveloped. All music and lyrics for the production are the products of Albany citizens as are the props and scenery.

The large outdoor stage is the setting for scenes that include a herd of longhorns, buffalo, a stage coach, countless cowboys and a replica of the Texas Central locomotive. Also used is a large street set that transforms the two acre stage into the wild and reckless Main Street of Fort Griffin, a cattle trail town and home of a military fort by the same name. Albany celebrates the annual production with a parade scheduled this year to begin at 6:00 p.m. on Thursday, June 25. The sixty or more entries in the parade represent local organizations as well as several of the moving props from the show such as the steam powered calliope.

Fandangle visitors are encouraged to come early enough to view Albany's many historical buildings, including the courthouse which was constructed in 1883. Organ concerts are held each evening of performances on the hand-crafted pipe organ in the Matthews Memorial Presbyterian Church located one block off the square. Calliope concerts are held before each show at the theatre.

Albany's latest achievement is the founding of the Old Jail Foundation Art Museum which was a recipient of one of four cultural achievement awards given by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce this year. The prestigious award has been bestowed on Albany twice in the past, once to Robert Nail and then again to the people of Albany for the production of the Fandangle.

The art museum will be featuring an exhibit entitled

"Taos Today" during the Fandangle dates.

Barbeque and all the trimmings are available on the court house lawn beginning at 5:00 p.m. each night of the performance.

Tickets for the outdoor extravaganza range in price from $3.00 to $7.00 and are available after June 1. For reservations contact the Fandangle Association office at 915/762-2525 or write to: Fandangle, Box 185, Albany Texas 76430. Group discounts are available.

Two Years Old And On The Move

Two years old— what an active time!

A toddler rarely stops. He touches, explores, and investigates everything and everywhere. His inquisitive nature and interests are limitless. Every obstacle, crumb, crack, or crevice is his business. He is a professional loiterer.

A two-year-old needs games and toys as well as adult stimulation to satisfy his enormous curiosity. He doesn't need too many toys, though, and certainly not expensive ones. Growing Child, the monthly child development newsletter, suggests these make-at-home playthings that are fun and educational, too.

*Old pocketbooks (for pretend).

Fill an old purse with a key chain, a pocket flashlight (the kind that is sealed and requires no battery), an old compact with glass mirror removed, empty lipstick tubes, hairbrush, comb. This will be good for countless hours of make-believe and role-playing.

*Boxes (for form perception).

Cut out simple shapes (ball, cube, cylinder) from the lid of a small but sturdy box. Show the child how to push the right shapes through the right holes. As he drops the object into the box, he watches it disappear. He hears it land in the bottom of the box, and then he removes the lid to observe where it went. He is also learning that the ball will go into the round hole but that the cube will not.

*Tin cans (for building, nesting, and stacking skills).

Remove the lids from fruit, vegetable, and juice cans and check the edges for smoothness. Collect a variety of sizes and cover the exteriors with colorful adhesive paper.

These cans are great for building towers to demolish, hiding small cans inside larger ones, and discovering the mysteries of space: "near" and "far," "up" and "down," "this" and "that." They help a child learn basic concepts of gravity and geometry, too.

*Water and Sand (for expressing feelings).

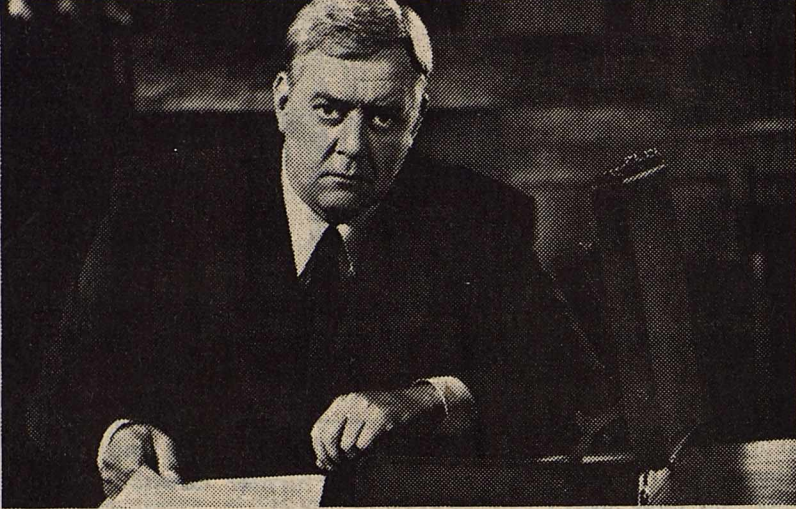

A big basin of water and a pit of sand is all that a child needs. Most of a child's experience with water comes from water confined to fountains, bathrooms, or pools. Water, sand, and mud are great tools for safely expressing aggression and hostility by pounding, banging, pummeling, moulding, pouring, and squeezing.

*Jars and lids (for the development of size matching and discrimination).

Collect an assortment of different sized containers, preferably made of non-breakable plastic. Screw the lid securely to a board. Then when the child attempts to place and rotate the container on the appropriate lid, he will be able to concentrate exclusively on that task and not on holding both still. For variety and complication of the task, change the placement of the board—on a table, attached to the wall, on its side.

The Growing Child newsletter follows a child's development month-by-month. For more information on the social and physical development of children from birth to six years old, write to Growing Child, PO Box 620N, Lafayette, IN 47902. Include child's birthdate when writing. A year's subscription to the newsletter costs $11.95.

White Grub Control Vital In Maintaining Good Lawn

White grub worms that hatch from eggs laid by May or June beetles will soon be feeding on roots of bermuda grass and St. Augustine grass in home lawns. Once grubs begin feeding, control measures should be taken, says an entomologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

and ranges from early July in South Texas to mid-August in the Panhandle, notes Dr. Charles Cole.

White grubs in excessive numbers can heavily damage lawns, says Cole. Check for white grubs by cutting a square foot section of sod with a shovel and examining the roots and soil to a depth of 4 inches. Examine at least one square foot of sod for 1,000 square feet of lawn area. Chemical treatment is needed if there are more than four grubs per square foot of sod.

Diazinon provides adequate control and should be used at recommended rates given on the chemical container label, advises Cole. The granular form is easier to apply and to wash into the soil than liquid or spray formulations. After using granules, drag the grass with a tow sack or water hose to knock them down to the soil. Then apply enough water to soak the granules into the soil.

Apply diazinon sprays at the rate of 25 gallons of water, including the insecticide, per 1,000 square feet to wash the insecticide into the soil. Wetting the lawn before spraying also helps. Always keep children and pets off the treated lawn until the grass is dry.

The key to white grub control in home lawns is proper timing of chemical applications and getting the insecticide through the grass to the root zone where the grubs are feeding, emphasizes Cole.

Computer Uses For Agriculture Producers

Farming and ranching is a tough ball game, especially in today's complex environment. Making the right decisions isn't easy, so farmers and ranchers need all the management information they can get their hands on.

Enter the microcomputer.

This home or office-sized computer can put a wealth of information at the fingertips of agricultural producers so that they can manage their operations more efficiently and effectively, says an economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

"Many farmers and ranchers currently do not have all the management information and decision-making tools they need, such as enterprise budgets, various production records, market analyses aids and cash flow statements, to do the best job in controlling and managing their operations," points out Dr. James McGrann. "Therefore, the greatest area of potential innovation in agriculture in the '80s is farm and ranch management, and the microcomputer can be an important tool in improving this management."

An increasing number of farmers and ranchers are turning to computers due to advancements in hardware (computer and related equipment) technology and increased availability of agricultural software (instructions or programs for computers), notes the economist. And more producers will be able to profitably use microcomputers in the future.

"With a tax deductible investment of $6,000 to $10,000, a producer can put together a fairly complete management information system," points out McGrann. "Used effectively, such a system can pay for itself in a few years by improving management decisions. It also can increase the motivation of the decision-maker to more adequately evaluate production, marketing and financing alternatives."

Of course, with the many selections of microcomputer software and hardware now available, choosing the right system for a particular farming or ranching operation can be a difficult task, says the economist. So getting a good handle on computer terminology is the first major step.

"Once a producer understands some of the basics about computers, the first and most critical consideration is selecting software," emphasizes McGrann. "Computers have no use if software is not available, and software costs will exceed hardware costs over the useful life of the system."

The economist recommends "hands on" experience to give producers a "feel" for various computer systems and to become familiar with their capabilities. Software support, including a good user's manual and overall dealer service is critical to the general feasibility of the system.

"The Extension Service has conducted workshops on computer applications that have provided hands on experience from many farmers and ranchers," notes McGrann. "Such workshops and training sessions will continue in the future. These have provided valuable information to help producers more effectively use the computer in managing their operations."

County Extension agents and Extension economists located at district Extension offices over the state can provide further information on microcomputer applications, notes McGrann.

After identifying software that will best fit a producer's needs, the next step is to select the hardware (computer, printer, storage devices, keyboard and related items).

"It's important to actually run the desired software on the system before buying it to make sure there are no incompatibility problems," advises McGrann. "Again, dealer support is extremely important."

The economist suggests that a farm or ranch business computer system meet at least these requirements: 64K-central processing units (CPU) with the ability to go to 128K, dual disk drive and capability of running the Digital Research CP/M or a CP/M 86 operating system.

Since the amount of disk storage is a problem with a large record system, McGrann advises producers to allow for sufficient storage capacity to meet anticipated needs and to purchase a system with storage growth potential.

Playnight Set Saturday At Haskell Arena

The Haskell Horse Club will sponsor a play nite Saturday, June 12 at 7:30 at the Haskell Rodeo Arena.

There will be three age groups: 8 and under, 9-14, 15-18, with a novice in 8 and under and 9-14.

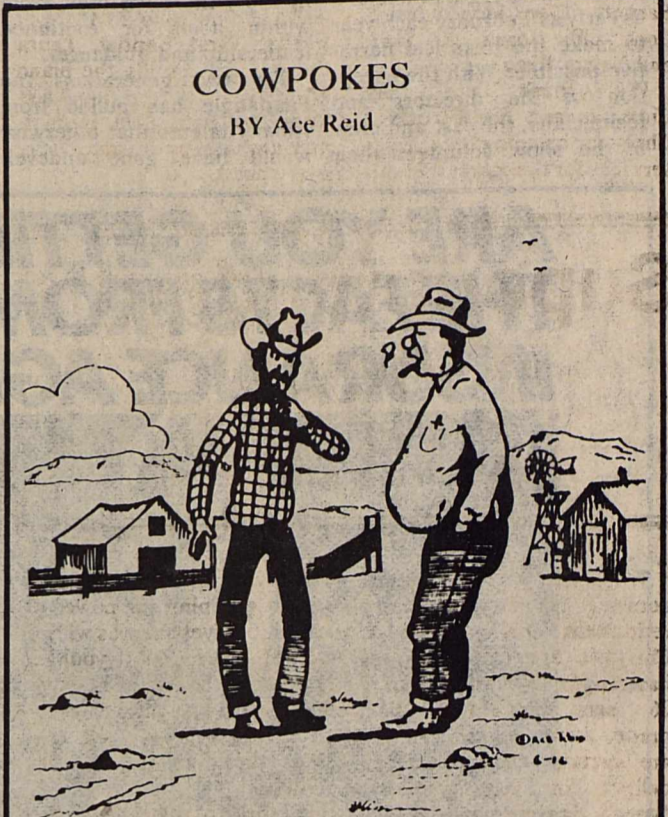

Events will include barrels, flags and poles.

Trophies will be given to 3rd place will ribbons for all other places.

There will be open events for 18 and over age groups. Concession stand will be available.

Jackpot roping for 14 and under, 15-19, and 20 and over will also be included.

He says that any micro-computer should be able to run standard word processing, mailing list and electronic worksheet type software. "As with any new technology, an initial learning period is necessary to effectively use a microcomputer in farm and ranch management," points out McGrann. "The microcomputer and software are only management tools that provide the decision-maker with better information. "Many farmers and ranchers over the country are finding profitable ways to use microcomputer technology," he contends. "Microcomputers will be one of the important tools in bringing about innovations in farm and ranch management in the years ahead."

"Oh, I've still got my 34 waist except it's further down."

Freaky Texas weather detailed in new book

COLLEGE STATION — A century of Texas weather-watching proves that if you wait long enough, you'll see everything — a 15-inch snowfall in Beaumont, a 38-inch drenching of Thrall, and a day in the Panhandle when the high temperature was two degrees below zero.

Such freaks of weather have been brought together for the first time by researchers with the State Climatologist's Office at Texas A&M University who distilled 100 years of state meteorology records into a new publication now available to the public.

John Griffiths, Texas' official State Climatologist and professor of meteorology, and former graduate student Greg Ainsworth assembled information for the $7.95 booklet — "One Hundred Years of Texas Weather" — last year. Many people are probably not aware of all the weather extremes since the 1880s now compiled in one document with tables and maps, Griffiths says.

Since you can't tell what's inside...

Treat all your seed with Vitavax-200

Farmers throughout our growing area are reporting an outbreak of true loose smut in their fields this spring. Research shows there is a direct correlation between the percentage of infection and the loss in yield. A 5% infection, for instance, results in a 5% yield reduction. A 10% loose smut infection results in a 10% yield loss.

Since even a small loss due to smut is more than you can afford, you should have Bronco Seed Company treat your wheat seed with powerful Vitavax-200 systemic fungicide. Vitavax-200 protects your wheat against disease losses from true loose smut, common bunt, seed rots and seedling diseases. Vitavax is patented as a growth stimulant.

Under field stress conditions, like drought or cool, wet weather, Vitavax-200 treated plants normally emerge faster, develop more extensive root systems and larger crowns, and produce healthier stands that contribute to higher yields.

With today's fluctuating grain prices and profit margins, you have to make the most out of every acre you plant. Now, more than ever, you should be planting top quality seed treated with the best fungicide available.

Bronco's custom conditioning plant always assures you of pure quality wheat seed, and we treat with Vitavax-200, the leading seed treatment in the United States today.

Superintendent's Views

BY JAMES LANIER

Superintendent, Haskell ISD

We lost a very special person to our school system by retirement this year, Mrs. Christine Speer. Mrs. Speer has taught in Haskell county 26 years. She taught fifth grade. As an educator, there are certain classrooms you delight in visiting. Mrs. Speer's classroom was always one of these. She was extremely well organized and devoted to children and their learning; yet there was always a pleasant atmosphere and feeling in the room. Her room was always colorful and tastefully decorated, her bulletin boards were always attractive and she had a pleasant smile on her face. As an observer, you could just feel the learning as it occurred.

Mrs. Speer was always looking for new ideas and techniques to improve her teaching methods. When the results of the first state wide TABS test became available, I was amazed at Mrs. Speer as to how quickly she grasped the results and identified areas needing improvement. There was no defensive attitude. She did not blame the students, parents, textbooks, materials, etc. She simply stated that we should attack these weaker areas and began to plan to do so.

Mrs. Speer was a leader on our Elementary faculty. She was a teacher to whom other teachers turned for guidance and advice. She is not a pushy person grasping for power or leadership, yet she was willing to help especially younger teachers in her quiet manner. Mrs. Speer was always a firm disciplinarian; yet she was kind and loving to her students.

All three of my children had Mrs. Speer in the fifth grade and they are certainly better students and citizens because of that fact. I believe she had helped many students down through the years.

As Mrs. Speer leaves the ranks of active teachers, I cannot help but reflect back on other recent retirees that she is joining; Mrs. Martin, Mrs. Diggs, Mrs. O'Neal, Mrs. Spain. These are people who have devoted much time and energy to student learning. They are sorely missed. I hope and pray younger teachers will accept the legacy left by these wonderful people and continue their dedication to students and learning.

So I will conclude by a personal note: Good luck, Christine and Buck in your retirement. We, as professional teachers, appreciate you and your devotion. We will miss you. However, your example will offer us a challenge to continue the level of devotion you gave to Haskell ISD and the community of Haskell.

Around The Ballpark

Last week the Hawks maintained their lead in the Major League by defeating the Tigers 26-2 and the Eagles 7-0. Chalking up their first victory, the Cubs downed the Tigers, 8-2. The Rams scored in double figures twice: over the Eagles, 14-8 and over the Cubs, 15-9. Eddie Newsome, Rams short-stop, initiated an exciting double play when he scooped up the grounder and tossed it to Klose at second who fired it to Ozuna at first.

The Cats won both games last week as did the Red Horses. In Monday's game the Cats beat the Bears, 9-4; in Thursday's match, they executed several outs at home plate, with Jeter catching, to stop the Crows 4-1. Fine hitting by the Red Horses helped them to stomp the Crows 18-1; they also defeated the Bears, 7-3.

THE BEST IN MEAT, CUT THE WAY YOU WANT IT

YOU can control your use of electricity and your bill by using energy wisely.

Higher fuel prices and inflation have pushed electric costs higher in recent years.

But YOU still are a key factor in determining the size of your electric bill. Because only you can control the amount of electricity you use, a large part of the control over your bill is in your hands.

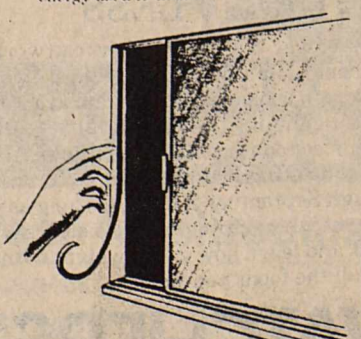

We offer these wise-use suggestions as a guide for getting the most out of every dollar you spend for electricity:

- Make sure your house has insulation equal to at least an R-19 rating in the ceiling and R-11 in the walls. Insulation pays for itself within a few years in reduced heating and cooling costs.
- Weatherstrip windows and doors, then keep them closed.
- Eliminate excess heat with draperies, storm windows, reflective films, window shades and overhangs.
- Set air conditioning thermostat at the highest comfortable setting, around 78 degrees.
- Clean or replace air conditioner filters every month or—even better—every two weeks.
- Have leaky hot water faucets repaired immediately; they waste both water and the energy used to heat it.

- Check the temperature control on your water heater. For most needs, the correct setting is 135 degrees; water heaters used for baths only may be set at 110 to 120 degrees.

By following these tips, you should be able to control your use of electricity—and the size of your bill.

Remember REDDY Supplies the energy—but only YOU can use it wisely!

Texas Cowboy Reunion Set June 30-July 3

Eugene C. Swenson, President of Texas Cowboy Reunion, Inc., announced that the Otwell twins, Merle Travis and Dawn Glass, and a special Bob Willis revue will highlight the entertainment portion of the 52nd Annual Texas Cowboy Reunion in Stamford, June 30-July 3, 1982.

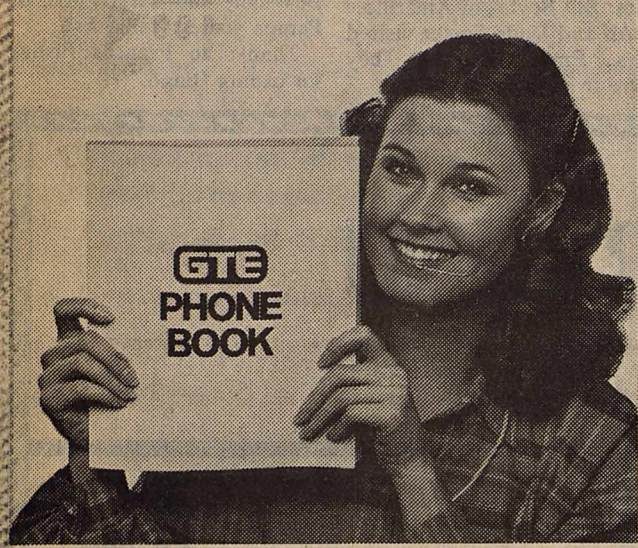

July 1st arena entertainment will be a special Bob Willis salute featuring Leon Rausch and Bill Mounce and the popular Texas Panthers. Rausch and Mounce were longtime members of the original Bob Willis' Texas Playboys and have carefully preserved the traditional Bob Willis sound that delighted the nation for decades.

The Otwell twins, from Tulia, have been seen by more than 50 million viewers each week as regulars for the past five years on the Lawrence Welk show. The Otwells have also been featured on the annual Rehab telecast for the West Texas Rehabilitation Center for the past three years. The Otwells will perform during the rodeo performance Friday, July 2.

The final night of the Rodeo, July 3, will team Country Music Hall of Famer Merle Travis with fast-rising recording artist Dawn Glass.

Merle Travis is known around the world for the clever, lilting lyrics he has put to over three thousand of his compositions such as "Divorce Me C.O.D.", "So Round, So Firm, So Fully Packed", "Fat Gal", "Double Talking Baby", and the block busting "Smoke, Smoke, Smoke that Cigarette" and "Sixteen Tons". Dawn Glass works Las Vegas three times a year, but spends much of her time playing dates in Texas and Louisiana. Her latest album "Sunshine and Lollypops" on RCA records showcases her considerable talent with music.

District Attorney Comments

BY JOSEPH THIGPEN
District Attorney, 39th Judicial District

The following article is a public service by the Haskell Free Press through the cooperation of Joseph Thigpen, District Attorney and The Prosecutor Council. Its purpose is to make you aware of a prosecutor's role, of your responsibility as a resident of this area and how we can work together to alleviate some of society's problems.

HELPING THE STUDENT DRUG ABUSER

The problems of identifying drug abuse and what to do if drug involvement is suspected should be of special interest to parents and teachers. Early detection of a drug problem is vital to preventing serious damage to the emotional well-being of the abuser and those close to him. Drug abuse is often a symptom of a deeper problem.

Chronic abusers often exhibit three traits. First, they have low self-esteem. They don't feel good about themselves and are dependent on others for their self-worth. Second, they lack emotional control. They allow negative feelings to drag them along and feel chronically miserable. Third, they have difficulty establishing close relationships.

Some common physical symptoms of student abusers are: changes in school attendance, discipline and grades; change in character of homework turned in; unusual flare-ups or outbreaks of temper; poor physical appearance; secretive behavior regarding possessions; wearing sunglasses at inappropriate times; long-sleeved shirts worn constantly to hide needle marks; association with known drug abusers; borrowing money from students to purchase drugs; stealing small items; finding the student in odd places, such as closets and storage rooms.

If you discover a child is using drugs, calling the police usually isn't the answer. You may be relinquishing responsibility when the child needs your support the most. Also remember that some young people experiment with drugs in response to peer pressure without developing a serious problem. But don't ignore the situation. Get outside help quickly.

Check with your local mental health and mental retardation center or family service center for drug problems. For problems with alcohol, Al-Anon Family Groups are listed in most telephone directories.

toll-free number of the Drug Abuse Prevention Division of the Texas Department of Community Affairs if you don't know the location of a drug treatment service in your area. In addition to directing you to help in your area they publish over 200 informative pamphlets, booklets and posters suitable for Junior and High School students and parents, in addition to highly technical research on drug abuse. They also have films available for free loan to groups and individuals. You may write the Drug Abuse Prevention Division at: P.O. Box 13155, Capitol Station - Austin, TX 78711.

Booklet Available To Explain Medicare Program

Medicare is a federal health insurance program available to anyone 65 or over who is eligible for social security benefits, even if the person is still working; or who is 65 or over, does not have enough social security credits, but is willing to pay for the insurance; or to anyone at any age who has been on social security disability payments for 24 months or who needs kidney dialysis or a kidney transplant.

Medicare is made up of two parts: hospital insurance and medical insurance. The Social Security Administration has a pamphlet that describes the two parts of the program, what benefits are available, what is not covered, and the requirements for participation in this insurance program. For your free copy of "A Brief Explanation of Medicare," send a postcard with your name and address to the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 539K, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

The cost of Medicare hospital insurance is financed as part of your contributions to social security. The insurance covers up to 90 days of in-patient care in any participating hospital during each benefit period. A benefit period begins when you enter the hospital, and ends when you have been out of the hospital, or any other facility giving skilled nursing or physical rehabilitation services, for 60 consecutive days. There is no limit to the number of benefit periods you can have.

Under certain conditions, hospital insurance also covers an unlimited number of visits from a home health agency such as the Visiting Nurse, and up to 100 days in a skilled nursing facility—one that provides skilled nursing, skilled rehabilitation, and many other related health services. But hospital insurance does not cover a nursing home that is primarily residential.

Medicare medical insurance helps to pay for doctor's fees. Unlike hospital insurance, it costs $11.00 a month ($12.20 as of July 1982). If you are receiving social security benefits, you will automatically be enrolled in the medical insurance at the time you turn 65, unless you specifically withdraw. If you are eligible for social security when you turn 65 but are still working, or if you have not worked under social security long enough to be eligible, you will have to apply specifically for the medical insurance. This is also true if you have been on disability payments or live in Puerto Rico or abroad.

Medical insurance generally pays 80 percent of the approved charges for treatment, after you meet the annual deductible. It also covers certain necessary medical supplies and therapy.

Medicare does not cover routine checkups and tests nor supplies or services that are not necessary for diagnosis or treatment of an injury or illness.

It is wise to check with your social security office two or three months before you turn 65 to find out if there is anything you need to do to enroll in Medicare. And of course, they will be happy to help with any other questions about social security programs.

You can also send for a copy of "A Brief Explanation of Medicare" (free). You will also receive a copy of the free "Consumer Information Catalog" that lists more than 200 other booklets of interest to consumers. The "Catalog" is published quarterly by the Consumer Information Center of the General Services Administration.
