

Tribe Falls To Cisco

The Haskell Indians fell 7-0 to the Cisco Lobos last Friday night at Indian Stadium.

The loss evens the Tribe record at 1-1 in non-conference play.

The offense got off to a slow start with only one yard rushing during the first quarter. Cisco held the Tribe to only six offensive plays during the quarter.

Cisco scored with 3:05 left in the first quarter for the only TD of the game.

The Tribe ended the game with a total offense of 142 yards and 9 first downs compared to 184 yards offense and 12 first downs for Cisco.

Roger Dever led the Tribe rushing attack with 50 yards followed by Keith Reed with 37 and Toby Villa with 26.

The Tribe moved the ball to within 20 yards of a TD early in the second quarter, but a pass interception halted the drive.

During the third quarter, the Tribe offense controlled the ball allowing Cisco only six offensive plays.

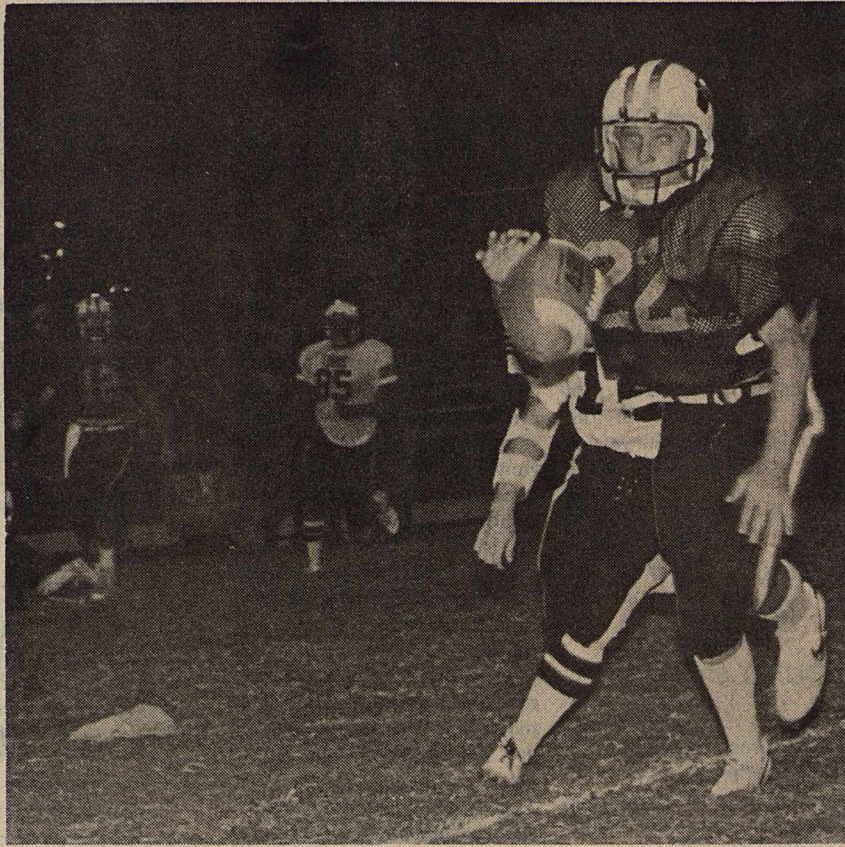

On their first possession of the quarter, the Tribe moved the ball to the six yard line and later in the quarter, moved to the 11. Both drives were stopped when the Tribe failed to make a first down on a fourth and short situation.

Statistically the game was very close with each team completing two passes, intercepting one, losing one fumble and punting four times.

The Tribe will travel to Anson this Friday night to face the Anson Tigers. Game time is 8 p.m. and all Indian fans are urged to attend.

Haskell Indian Doug Lanier watches in frustration as a Mark Bailey pass goes by just out of reach in the Haskell-Cisco game last Friday night. The Tribe lost the contest 7-0 to even even their season record at 1-1. They will travel to Anson this Friday night. Game time is 8 p.m.

Brazos West To Sponsor Art Sale

The Brazos West Art Association will sponsor a Starving Artist Sale on the square from 9 a.m. - 5 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 25.

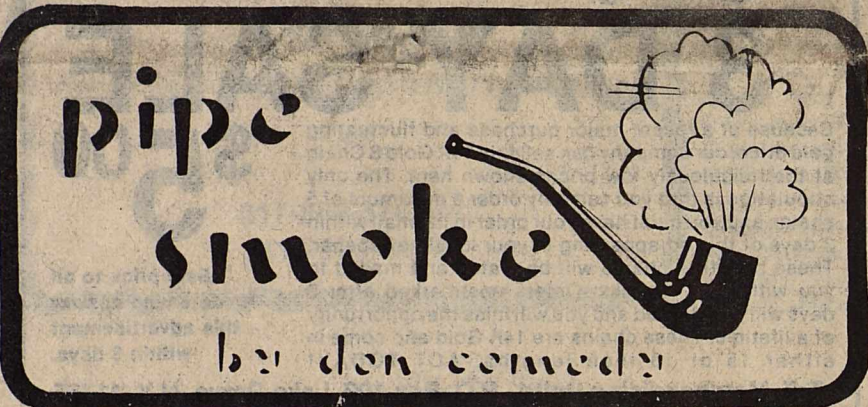

Arts and crafts items for sale cannot exceed $25.

The $5 entry fee will be donated to the West Texas Rehabilitation Center.

The sale will coincide with the last day of the Haskell County Fair.

For more information persons can contact Mrs. Eunice Helwig, publicity chairman, at 817-864-3041 or the Chamber of Commerce office, 817-864-2477.

Entry fees should be mailed as soon as possible to Mrs. Roy Amonett, 414 N. 1st Street, Haskell, Texas 79521, Mrs. Helwig said.

This is the second in a series concerning dove hunting and dove hunters.

Why? Why do doves always fly in the same place, just out of range, and when you move to that particular place, they suddenly start flying right where you left.

Why is it that on the only day in the past two years that you kill 12 birds with as many shells, you are hunting alone and have no witnesses?

Why is it that after bragging for three days about the 12 for 12 days and you go hunting with a friendly group, you suddenly become so spastic that the first box of shells nets only one bird?

Why is it that a dead bird always falls directly into the center of the only cactus in 50 yards or just out of reach across a new five strand barbed wire fence? Or better yet, sail 100 yards and suddenly die in the exact center of a small tank on the stillest day of the year?

Why is it that a week before season opens, there are birds in abundance and then the first four days are spent sitting on a stool fighting mosquitos and wondering where the birds are?

Why is it that it always rains on the day you plan a big hunt or when you finally locate a tank where large groups of birds water?

Why is it that you can spend months reading and thinking about selecting one bird and shooting at it and then when 38 birds in one bunch fly directly over, you shoot between all of them?

Why is it that bird hunters repeatedly suffer these frustrations and still go back?

First FTA Meeting Held

Recruiting members, introduction of special guests and officer workshop information highlighted the Future Teachers of America's first meeting at the high school library.

Any student in ninth through twelfth grades is eligible to join, Mrs. Cathy Jones, Haskell FTA adviser, told the students in attendance.

"You don't have to plan on becoming a teacher to join the club, just be willing to work," she said.

Projects for last year included purchasing books for the library, observation at the elementary school and collecting Campbell's Soup labels to purchase organ models for the elementary science program.

Special guests were FTA District President Billy Allen, District Vice-President Rusty Davidson and Jaryl Young, Adviser. Allen and Davidson are students at Abilene

High School, and Mr. Young is a history teacher there.

Officers from the local chapter will attend an officers' workshop Sept. 20 at Abilene High School.

Haskell FTA officers are Mike Iley, president; Anthony Garland, vice-president; Connie Amaro, secretary; Lynn Dewey, treasurer; Mickey Dewey, parliamentarian; and Judy Iley, historian.

Garland is also District 14 parliamentarian.

Cadets To Hold First Meeting

The Haskell Girl Scout Cadet Troop will have their first meeting Tuesday, September 21, at the fellowship hall of Trinity Baptist Church beginning at 7:00 p.m.

All 7th & 8th grade girls are invited to attend.

Charles Swinson Is Booster Of Week

Charles Swinson was selected as "Booster of the Week" at the Indian Booster Club meeting Tuesday night. Mr. Swinson has been a loyal Indian fan and Booster member for many years. After serving in World War II, the Rochester High School graduate moved to Haskell and quickly was caught up in Indian spirit. He was the first person to start filming the varsity football games in the late 1940's and filmed them until 1971. He and his wife, Leatrice are charter members of the Booster Club. In 1967, he was presented a life time membership, but continues to pay his annual dues. Only this year, he presented a check for 2 years of dues, because he forgot to pay dues last year. Mr. Swinson has made generous donations to Booster Club projects through out the years. He drives many miles each year to back the team and you can always find Charles and Leatrice on the top row in Indian Stadium at every home game cheering for their favorite Indians.

In other business, a Fish Fry was set for Tuesday, Sept. 28th, in the High School lunchroom. Tickets will go on sale Monday, Sept. 20th at $3.50.

Projects for this year will include purchasing traveling bags for the boys basketball team and possibly golf bags for the golf team.

Coach Mickler gave a run down of the Anson football team prior to the conclusion of the film of the Cisco game by Coach Holt. Coach Holt reported work outs this week have been extremely good and if the team plays like they have been working out Anson will be in for a very long night.

At next week's meeting, Tuesday, Sept. 21st, 7:00 p.m. in the high school lunchroom, the 7th grade football team will be introduced.

In selecting Booster of the Week, the Booster Club will also be looking at businesses for Indian displays of team colors, spirit signs and other team boostings.

WTU Request Rate Increase

West Texas Utilities Company has filed for a general increase in its rates for retail customers.

The official application was filed Monday in Haskell by Local Manager Sue Pate.

The manager said the application is a systemwide request for higher rates. Simultaneous filings were made in other incorporated towns for retail customers within their jurisdiction and with the Public Utility Commission of Texas for an increase in rural areas, unincorporated towns and in 13 incorporated towns which have ceded jurisdiction over electric rates.

The principal reasons cited for the request were the cost of WTU's construction program, high interest rates and the effects of general inflation on the cost of providing service.

The proposed rates would produce an increase in total retail revenue of $20,404,166. This amounts to 9.4 per cent.

No major changes in rate structure are proposed except for some adjustments of allocations among customer classes. For residential customers, the average electric bill, including fuel costs, would go up by about 10 per cent, although the actual increase would vary with the amount of usage.

WTU's last rate case was filed in

City Council Sets 1982 Tax Rate

Members of the Haskell City Council approved the 1982-83 budget and set the 1982 tax rate during their regular council meeting Tuesday night.

The 1982-83 budget calls for expenditures of $784,584.73. The 1982 tax rate was set at .1585 per $100 valuation. The total 1982 tax levy will be $77,617.44 an increase of $2,259.02 over 1981. The 1982 tax rate reflects an increase of 3% over the 1981 rate.

In other action council members postponed action for 120 days on a rate increase requested by Lone Star Gas Co. and agreed to lease 20 acres of land at the City airport for a 3/16 interest for $30.00 per acre.

Council members also agreed to move the Haskell Training Center from the East side of the square to an unused portion of the County Extension Agents office building.

Following a discussion of salaries, council members went into a 45 minute executive session to discuss personnel.

the fall of 1981 and settled early in 1982 without a hearing and for an amount considerably less than had been requested. WTU had asked for 15.2 per cent but received 8.3 per cent. Company officials said at that time that another increase probably would be necessary within the year.

WTU built its last power plant in 1977 and since then has been able to lag behind most other utility companies in new construction and in rate increases. A recent survey by the Public Utility Commission of Texas shows that WTU's customer bills are lower than the state and national averages.

Brush and Palette

This is the time of year when all minds turn to painting again. School has begun, more workshops and clubs are starting their new year. There was excellent demonstrations at the Brazos West Art Group opening meeting. Each artist has his own approach and ideas, using various media for different effects. This is as it should be, for the serious artist must paint the thing as he sees it and feels about it. You will see a demonstrator paint a sky (for example) his way this month and next time the guest artist will do it altogether another way - different palette, brushes, strokes, mood - the whole bit. Which one is right? Well, probably they both are - each is just being honest with himself and expressing it in his own way. You can not agree with everything each one says, not change your style each time. There will always be something in a demonstration that will appeal to you and you may want to add to your bag of tricks. Always, remember your basics - good composition, perspective, value, color coordination, atmospheric perspective, simplicity - these do not change much. Develop your own style, utilizing the little innovations these fine artists use.

Q. How do you make trees in the distant middle ground look far away?

A. This is a common problem and one that needs discussing frequently. Be sure the drawing is correct - hope you draw or outline before you start a tree. The farther away a tree is, the smaller it is, so draw distant trees quite small. You may put some closer, drawing them slightly lower down and a bit larger. This will push the distant ones back. The distant trees should be greyed by using Burnt Sienna, Blue or even a little Red in the green mixture. Avoid monotony! All trees have some earth color in them. No trees are alike in size and shape. Use several values of grey-green. Masses of trees in the distance need some high-lighting, but do not use bright yellow. (Warm colors are used in the foreground). Use cooler greens by adding yellow ochre, Raw Sienna and blues to the green mixture.

Q. Which reds do you prefer?

A. In oils, I usually use Cad Red Light, Grumbacher Red and Alizarin Crimson. For earth reds, I use Terra Rosa, Venetian Red or Indian Red. You can cool the reds with Burnt Sienna, Ochre or a bit of yellow. I particularly like Grumbacher Red as it does not go chalky in mixtures. There are lovely scarlets, Vermillion and rose tones but why buy these when you can mix them by using one of the basic reds first mentioned.

HINT: "I am not interested in color for color's sake and light for light's sake. I am interested in them as means of expression."

Garden Club Hears Program On Arranging

"Listen to Our Garden Sing," is the theme of the Haskell Garden Club Yearbook for 1982-1983. "Over The Rainbow" was the theme of the salad luncheon for the members and guests, Thursday, Sept. 9, in the Community Room.

Mrs. H.L. Bosse, a National Flower Show Judge, of Stamford conducted an informative as well as an interesting program on flower arranging.

She emphasized that colors must harmonize. She explained the different types or shapes being an open line or silhouette, mass is characterized by a large quality of material, and mass line, same as line but a little more material but not as much as a mass line.

The geometric designs includes vertical, horizontal, crescent, circle, and oval. Conventional or contemporary are the most traditional designs today.

The principles of design are the balance, dominance, contrast, rhythm, proportion, and scale.

Mrs. Rhea explained the importance of the flower show at the Haskell County Fair Sept. 23-25. Everyone is invited to take part, bringing in the dried material and pot plants on Wednesday afternoon and horticulture and fresh flower arrangements, Thursday morning 8-10:30 a.m.

The club officers were the hostesses and we were glad to have Mrs. Dorothy Cox, Haskell and Mrs. Ardella McCown of Chickasha, OK., as our guests.

INSTALLMENT SALE
(Yes or No?)

The elimination of the 29% rule on installment sales was long overdue. Under present law, sellers of property are able to solve their cash needs without concern for being taxed on money they don't receive.

You can receive whatever cash you wish in the year of sale and pay income taxes only to that extend. The tax on money received in future years will be paid as that money is received.

All installment sales will be automatically treated as such under present law unless you specifically elect to be taxed all in the year of sale. There are good reasons, both from a tax standpoint and from good economics, for paying all of the taxes in the year of sale even though you qualify for the deferred tax treatment.

You are entitled to use "income averaging," a five year "back-spread." If you have four prior years of relatively low income and anticipate future years to be substantially higher, you could pay an overall lower tax by electing to pay on all gain on the property in the year of sale.

A straight "economic" consideration is whether to sell your property on the installment basis or require a full cash payout. You may be able to reinvest your proceeds at a higher rate of interest than is proposed in the installment sale.

These changes in installment sale rules as well as current changes in the tax rates require tax planning. You could be dollars ahead by consulting your tax adviser before you sale.

Accident Leads To Beginning Of WTRC 4-H Offers Several Benefits To Texas Boys and Girls

The two-year-old colt, frisky and skitterish, didn't care that the teenager riding him was the only son of a famous West Texas rancher.

All the horse knew was that it was about to trip over a steer that had stepped into its nervous path, and its first impulse was to save itself by rolling over.

The horse rolled over on the rider.

That's life. Accidents have little regard for rank or status.

But that injured back, strained in that freak accident in the early 1950's, was to spawn one of the most successful long-term relationships between families in this part of the country.

Young Alexander, the son of Minor Alexander, one of the most respected ranchers in West Texas with over 100 sections north of Abilene, was treated by physical therapist Shelley Smith who came to the Alexander Ranch to treat the boy.

Smith helped the teenager. And a friendship between

Smith and the Alexander family grew. The family later helped Smith in his dream to create a family of his own, a center for the handicapped, a center supported almost entirely by public donations, a center called the West Texas Rehabilitation Center.

Now, 22 years later, Alexander, 48, still has the bad lower back, but the injury has led to two decades of cooperation between his family and the Rehab Center. Smith's dream has grown to a three-campus diagnostic and treatment facility for those with handicaps. Patients can receive treatment at no cost.

Alexander himself has served as the Round-Up Chairman for the Cattlemen's Round-Up for Crippled Children for the past three years, succeeding Charlie Morris, and he will serve again for this year's Round-Up which culminates with a Sept. 27 cattle auction.

Minor Alexander called his young son "Tim".

No one knows for sure why. It may have been because young Jim, even as a teenager, was short or tiny as in Tiny Tim.

But Tim was also a term of endearment, and you can imagine the father's chagrin when his only son was nearly crushed in the ranch accident.

65 Attend Davis Family Reunion

The descendants of the late Ben and Maggie Davis gathered at Crosbyton at the Senior Citizen Building for their annual reunion Sunday Sept. 5th. 65 persons were in attendance, coming from Lubbock, Morton, Lorenzo, Ralls, Petersburg, Floydada, Goodland, Crosbyton, Albany, Hawley, Stamford, and Haskell.

A bountiful meal was served at the noon hour. Much visiting, and some singing was enjoyed by all.

A son, Raymond Davis and a daughter, Bell Kuenstler, both of Haskell, were unable to attend.

Earl Bishop of Floydada was 96 years old, and they sang "Happy Birthday" to him.

Haskell Horse Club Sets Play Day

The Haskell Horse Club will host a Playday Sept. 18 at 7:30 p.m. at the Rodeo Arena.

There will be three age groups: 8 and under; 9-13; 14-18 with novice classes in 8 and under and 9-13.

Trophies will be awarded in places 1st through 3rd and ribbons will be awarded thereafter.

A concession stand will be available.

Jim Alexander, no longer known as Tim now that Minor has died, is now the polished head of the Alexander Ranch.

He wears white shirts with his initials monogrammed (J.M.A.) over the pockets (M for Minor). His eyes are sharp and intense; eyes that got that way from a combination of sun, wind and a youth spent at New Mexico Military Institute where he was schooled.

"Toughest thing I ever did," Alexander said. "We marched to dinner, marched to class and got hazed with sabres. It gave me discipline I never knew I had."

You sense the discipline and self-confidence in his soft laugh and soft speech, and the way he never takes his eyes off you as he listens, like someone staring down a coiling rattler in the desert.

His office, in the First State Bank building in Abilene, blends the modern with the old West. A huge Texas Longhorn skull with frighteningly large horns, leans from the wall behind his desk.

Fixed to the back wall is a branding iron (Half-Circle A), spurs, and other western artifacts including a G. Harvey reproduction.

Also on the back wall is the old 'grandfather' clock that actually belonged to Jim's physician grandfather, J.M. Alexander, who built the first hospital between Ft. Worth and El Paso.

At one side of this office, under glass, is a stuffed sparrow hawk, orange and grey and beautifully crafted. The hawk is perched on a wooden branch. The hawk, though dead, has dignity.

Alexander sits in a leather chair, uncomfortable to be inside when there is work to be done in the fields, and he ponders the question of why his ranching family has stuck so long with the West Texas Rehabilitation Center.

"Once, when I was a small boy, we had a bad grass fire," said Alexander. "The first thing I remember is how our neighbors helped us. Neighbor helping neighbor. That's what this Cattlemen's Round-Up is all about. The patients need help, so we chip in. Just like I needed help when I hurt my back, and Shelley was there."

Alexander's job is to write letters and phone other cattlemen, reminding them that the Rehab is reaching out, needing help, a neighbor in distress.

"Neighbor helping neighbor," repeated Alexander.

"There is your connection, there's your symbol. That's why my family, and other ranch and oil families have been involved so long. It's that caring creed."

There is a Wall Street Journal newspaper on a corner of Alexander's desk. He stares at the headlines. More economic morass. His own family has been secure through economic troubles.

But if it had needed help, his neighbors would have been there.

"Times are tough," Alexander said, staring almost through the listener and into the hearts of his fellow ranchers. "But the people always have come through. The economy is like a grass fire, threatening the Rehab."

Somehow, staring at those eyes, you get the feeling that Alexander will make sure help is on the way.

United States Losing High Technology War

COLLEGE STATION — The United States is losing the economic equivalent of World War II and the battle over consumer electronics has been the Pearl Harbor of the conflict, an American industry executive said recently.

Steve Spence, a vice president with the Dallas-based division of Rockwell International, made the comparison during the 90th American Society for Engineering Education conference at Texas A&M University.

The enemies, said Spence, are Japan and West Germany, which are beginning to outstrip the United States in many key industrial areas.

"Japan can build a car and ship it to the U.S. for $1700 less than it can be manufactured in the United States," he said. "The enemy's focus is on high technology goods and their weapons are cooperation between labor, industry and government."

4-H'ers Participate In Variety Of Topics

How would you like to join 4-H? You can, you know, if you really want to, and we'd be glad to have you.

4-H is a national youth program for all youth between the ages of 9 and 19 regardless of race, color, ethnic background, economic status or cultural differences. The Texas 4-H program is administered by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, a part of the Texas A&M University System.

The purpose of 4-H is to develop leadership and character in young people. 4-H'ers learn by doing through actively working on projects and participating in club meetings and 4-H activities, say Lou Gilly and Max Stapleton, County Extension Agents.

4-H clubs are organized in such places as rural, suburban and urban neighborhoods. Groups may be organized among neighborhood families in one or two city blocks, housing complexes or anywhere they are needed.

Youth can participate in a variety of projects in 4-H, such as foods, clothing, animal projects, electricity, photography, arts and crafts, and many, many others. In fact, almost anything you want can be a project, point out the agents.

For instance, the 4-H shooting sports project attracts numerous youngsters each year who are interested in learning to shoot and observe gun safety.

Livestock projects give youngsters a chance to be responsible for an animal and enter stock shows where they learn competitiveness and sportsmanship.

4-H'ers can even learn to make their own clothes through clothing projects.

Besides projects, other activities such as the share-the-fun give youngsters a chance to participate in organized recreation, the agents say. County 4-H Fun Day, Day Camp or Rally Day is the time for playing games and making new friends. Members in 4-H can go on trips, take tours of interesting and educational places, and help finance their college education with scholarships awarded through 4-H.

Boosting the 4-H program is the private sector which provided great resources of money, personnel and materials for the advancement of 4-H. The many business and industrial leaders who support 4-H give significant testimony that 4-H is a valuable educational program for America's youth.

Remember, you are what you want to be in 4-H. It is educational, interesting, challenging and lots of fun.

VA Suggests Protection Of Important Documents

The Veterans Administration is reminding veterans and their families to safeguard important documents relating to their military service, marriage, life insurance and VA correspondence.

Discharge papers, marriage certificates or child custody evidence should be secured from fire, theft or loss, as well as government and commercial life insurance policies, any VA correspondence with identifying claim numbers, social security numbers, wills and -- where applicable -- naturalization papers.

The VA reminds potential beneficiaries that they should be aware of survivors' benefits which may include VA pensions, dependency and indemnity compensation for service-connected death, burial benefits and interment in a national cemetery for the veteran and his or her dependents.

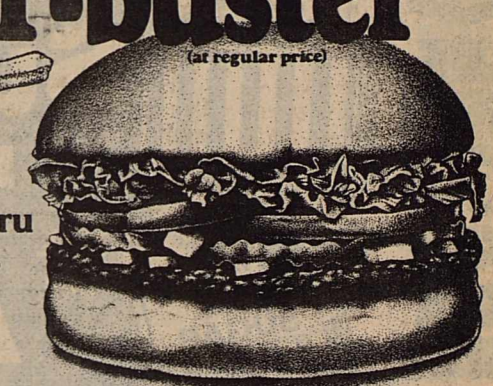

The few minutes spent by the veteran in organizing and protecting his or her documents -- and informing the family of their whereabouts -- can do much to avoid needless anguish during times of emotional stress.

Veterans should also alert their families through veterans' service organizations or by calling the Waco VA Regional Office toll-free number listed in your telephone directory.

Parents Influence Children's Eating Habits

Farm & Ranch Safety

Week Is Sept. 19-25

It is easy to blame television and other advertising for children's junk food diets, but a Baylor College of Medicine children's nutrition specialist says that just isn't the case.

Cutberto Garza, M.D., assistant professor of pediatrics and physiology and associate scientific director of the Children's Nutrition Research Center, said parents are still the most powerful influence on the eating habits their children develop.

Children learn by imitating others, Garza said, and they won't buy the "do as I say, not as I do" approach. If parents overeat or eat too much junk food, kids will adopt that lifestyle.

"If both parents are overweight, the chances are very good - like 80 percent - that their children will be obese," Garza said. "If only one parent is obese, that risk is cut to 40 percent. And, if neither parent is overweight, there's only a seven percent chance their children will be obese."

If both parents have weight control problems, Garza said, they need to adopt an active lifestyle and encourage physical activity by their children.

Parents also need to know what their child eats and avoid using food as either a reward or punishment.

There is no magic formula to help parents develop good eating habits in their children. The best approach is common sense, following some old axioms and disregarding others. "We don't really eat to satisfy our need for iron or other nutrients," Garza said. "We eat to satisfy our need for energy or calories. Once that need is met, we aren't hungry. Kids need a much higher ratio of nutrients to calories consumed than adults. The problem then, is how to get them to eat foods that will provide the amounts of nutrients they need without providing too many calories."

He said that perhaps the hardest thing for a parent to do is to enforce the "no-snacks-between-meals" rule. The child who snacks an hour or so before a meal probably won't be hungry at the dinner table. Yet, after a couple of hours pass, he will be. Then, there is a temptation to satisfy the child's need for energy with some convenience food, low in nutrients but high in calories.

If a child has breakfast, for example, and nothing for the next four hours, at 11 or 12 o'clock the child will be hungry. It is often a matter of how hungry you are that takes care of mealtime problems.

"It's amazing how good such things as meat and vegetables will taste if you are truly hungry," Garza said. The occasional snack is okay, provided the child has had a well-balanced meal earlier, he said.

Many parents have false expectations about the amount of food a child wants or needs, Garza said. Parents need to avoid the clean-your-plate syndrome. Instead of making the child feel guilty about the "poor starving children in China" and forcing him to eat more than he wants, it is best to let the child become his own monitor for how much he needs to eat.

"Children become extremely good at gauging how much they need to eat," Garza said. Parents also tend to underestimate a youngster's ability to understand the need to eat certain foods. No child wants to feel bad, Garza said. The key is explaining the need in terms the child can relate to his own life.

"Maybe they would rather have some pie, but they're going to need beans because they have iron in it," Garza said. "Iron is needed to build blood and strong muscles. If a kid wants to be a better soccer player, he or she needs stronger muscles."

Garza conceded that it is not always easy to set good examples and serve well-balanced meals, especially when both parents work. Parents who do make the effort, however, will usually find that youngsters who are exposed early to a variety of fresh foods served in interesting ways will naturally develop good eating habits.

4-H and FFA youth will have the opportunity to become accident investigators starting the week of Sept. 19-25. That's the week proclaimed by Governor Clements as Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Week.

During the week, youth will take part in the 1982 self-help accident report program being conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service of the Texas A&M University System.

Dr. Gary Nelson, Extension safety engineer and coordinator of the study, said that 4-H and FFA youth will be given an accident report form through their 4-H leaders or school advisors. Their job will be to recall any serious accident that may have occurred to a family member or close friend in the past 12 months.

Nelson explained that if an accident has occurred, a full description of the incident will be prepared. Key questions also will lead the investigator to discover causes of the accident and how to prevent future occurrences.

Completed reports will be sent to Texas A&M University for study to get a statewide picture of the types of accidents occurring in homes and on farms and ranches.

Nelson said that results of the study will be used to develop accident prevention educational programs for Texas families and agricultural producers.

Acupuncture In Texas Regulated By TMA

Texas law includes acupuncture under the definition of the practice of medicine. This means only a licensed physician or a trained acupuncturist under the physician's supervision can legally perform this ancient Chinese therapeutic technique.

The non-physician acupuncturist must obtain permission to practice from the Texas State Board of Medical Examiners, the agency that primarily regulates physicians. The board's guidelines stipulate that an acupuncturist must have at least two years of acupuncture training from a board-approved institute.

A physician also must seek board approval to be a specific acupuncturist's supervising doctor. If approved he can allow the acupuncturist to perform certain tasks so long as the physician retains supervision and control over the acupuncturist. The physician also retains responsibility for the care and treatment of acupuncture patients.

Dating back to before 2500 B.C., acupuncture involves piercing certain parts of the body with thin needles ranging from about one to nine inches in length. Although the technique is used to treat diseases, Texas newspaper ads for acupuncture clinics generally emphasize it as a means of losing weight and quitting smoking and drinking.

How acupuncture works revolves around Chinese medical theory: "Chi," the basic energy of living things, is a pressurized air stream that flows through 12 primary channels of the body. Six are called "yin," and the other six "yang." When yin and yang are out of balance, the theory contends, the body is susceptible to illness and pain. Inserting and manipulating needles at the proper locations restores the balance, acupuncturists say.

The Texas Medical Association encourages further research into acupuncture - but only by or directly supervised by a licensed physician. The doctor must be "adequately skilled" in this field. "These safeguards are necessary to protect the public from exploitation and indiscriminate application by those untrained or unqualified in acupuncture," TMA says.

Texas Roads And Bridges Outdated By Year 2000

Texas roads and bridges will not be able to handle a projected 55 percent increase in traffic by the year 2000 if current construction schedules are maintained, according to a study released today.

The state will need to triple its highway funding in the next 20 years in order to keep abreast of the projected traffic trends, says a study by The Road Information Program (TRIP), a Washington, D.C. research and information agency.

In the next 18 years, the population of Texas will increase also by an estimated 50 percent to 22 million people, according to the Governor's Texas 2000 Commission. But the roads and bridges in and around the growing metropolitan areas are being maintained at 1970s traffic levels, under existing budget restrictions.

TRIP recommends the state spend $51.06 billion, or $2.55 billion a year, over the next 20 years to catch up on a growing backlog of highway needs and to improve the system to meet future demands.

The total $51.06 billion includes $6.22 billion for road and bridge rehabilitation, $30.33 billion for reconstruction, $6.73 billion to construct needed new routes and $7.78 billion for necessary maintenance. Much of this money could come from the federal Highway Trust Fund.

By comparison, the Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation (DHPT) spent an estimated $751.3 million for all contract construction in fiscal year 1982. The recommended $2.55 billion annual spending level is more than three times what the state is now able to spend.

"Texas is experiencing a phenomenal growth rate in population and traffic, yet our state road system isn't keeping pace," said Eugene W. Robbins, president of the Texas Good Roads and Transportation Association, which requested the TRIP study.

"To catch up on today's needs and to keep up with traffic growth, Texas must begin upgrading these heavily traveled roads now," said Robbins.

TRIP found:

Texas is becoming more urbanized: In 1980, 80 percent of the state's population lived in the 53 counties that make up the 25 (census-designated) standard metropolitan statistical areas, compared to 73.5 percent in 1970. (Texas has a total of 254 counties.)

By the year 2000, the number of licensed drivers in Texas will have grown by 47 percent and the number of registered vehicles by 37 percent.

Traffic volume on the state's highways and streets will jump by 54.6 percent in the next 18 years, from 125.4 billion to 193.8 billion vehicle miles a year.

The state DHPT estimates that about 14,000 lane miles, or 8 percent of the state highway system, need to be rehabilitated each year and 3,900 lane miles, or 2.2

percent, need to be reconstructed each year for the next 20 years to catch up with existing and growing deficiencies. In addition, a total of 11,322 lane miles will need to be built to handle increasing traffic. A lane mile is described as a mile of single traffic lane.

Bridge needs in the next 20 years include 49.1 million square feet of bridge decks that need to be replaced and 499 bridge projects (more than one bridge per project) that need to be completed.

The TRIP study includes only roads and bridges on the state highway system because, although the system makes up just 26 percent of all roads in Texas, it carries more than 70 percent of the total state traffic.

Texas' roads and bridges would be in even worse condition were it not for the continuing efforts of the state Department of Highways and Public Transportation to achieve maximum possible improvements in recent years under limited budgets.

TRIP's sources for this study include the Texas DHPT, the Texas 2000 Commission of the Office of the Governor, the Texas Department of Water Resources and Public Safety, the U.S. Census Bureau, the Federal Highway Administration and other public and private agencies.

Dr. J. Frank Cadenhead, Jr., and Mrs. Ramon Liles are two of 95 members of the Hardin-Simmons University Board of Development who have been invited to attend a joint session with the Board of Trustees on Sept. 17 here.

Both boards will hold separate sessions also and will be updated on the university's $15 million "Forging the Future" campaign which will raise funds for the endowment and building needs of HSU.

The Board of Trustees in the spring of 1982 approved long-range plans and priorities for the university and authorized a capital and endowment campaign.
