

Tribe Falls 12-7 To Anson

The Haskell Indians fell 12-7 last Friday to the Anson Tigers to bring the Tribe's season record 1-2.

Indians Toby Villa and Roger Dever led the Tribe rushing attack with 42 and 41 yards, respectively. James Davis caught two Tribe passes for a total of 35 yards. One of the passes, a five yard catch, resulted in the only Tribe TD of the game with 12 seconds left.

Defensively, the Tribe forced three turnovers, two fumbles and a pass interception. Indians Shane Welch and Patrick McCoy recovered fumbles for the Tribe and Doug Richardson intercepted a pass.

Welch also returned a Tiger punt 83 yards for Tribe TD early in the first quarter, but a penalty nullified the score.

Anson scored first in the game with 2:12 left in the first quarter and then scored again on their next possession with 9:38 left in the half. Both PAT's failed.

The Tribe threatened late in the first quarter, moving the ball to the 37. The offense managed only one first down until early in the fourth quarter when the Tribe moved the ball 52 yards in 15 plays. The drive died on the 25 yard line on a fourth and 15 situation. Villa carried six times during the drive for 21 yards, Albert Sherman carried five times for 15 yards and Davis carried once for 22 yards.

Late in the fourth quarter the Tribe moved the ball 40 yards in five plays for their only score of the night. Davis caught two passes during the drive for 35 yards.

The Tribe will host Stamford this Friday night at Indian Field. Game time is 8 p.m. and all local football fans are encouraged to attend.

Watson Keeps Tribe Ticking

Mary Watson has attended Haskell Indian home football games by herself for 31 years, because her husband, Tom has been running the clock for the Indians 31 years. Tom Watson, this week's "Booster of the Week" is probably the best and definitely the most experienced time keeper in this territory. Tom first ran the clock for the Indians in 1951 when it was installed. During the years, Tom has missed only 4 or 5 games. In 1961, Tom missed an out of town game, because of a dislocated elbow. When Haskell was in non-conference play in the 1950's, the Watson's missed a game that was played near the Louisiana border. He has followed the Indians through the good and not so good years. He has given them praise when deserved and encouragement when needed.

If more Indian fans were like Tom, how could we ever have a team with a bad attitude or an empty seat in the stadium.

Tom is a 1938 graduate of Rule High School, World War II veteran and the father of two former Indians, two former Maidens, and one present Junior High Warrior.

The Booster Club would also like to give recognition to the Sonic Drive-In for their continuing support of team boosting.

In other business, final plans were made for the Fish Fry Tuesday night. Booster Club members through out town have tickets available. Funds raised will be used to purchase basketball travel bags and golf bags.

Coach Jim Dan Raughton introduced the 7th grade football team. He explained what the coaches try to accomplish and look for with these beginning players. He also reported the coaches are well pleased with this year's 7th graders.

Coach Holt told the club what the fans can expect from Stamford, Friday night and reported the only Indian on the injured list is Keith Reed.

Conclusion of the meeting was the Anson film.

Rule Methodist To Celebrate

The Rule United Methodist Church would like to extend an invitation to all persons of the community and especially their former members to their 80th Anniversary celebration this coming Sunday September 26. The activities will start at 9:30 a.m. with the Sunday School activities and last until 3:00 p.m. Sunday afternoon.

The activities include: an all church Sunday School class at 9:30 a.m. in the Fellowship Hall with former pastors, 10:30 a.m. until 11:00 a.m. will be an informal coffee for an opportunity to visit with former pastors, 11:00 a.m. will be a special worship service where all former pastors will be involved; a covered dish luncheon will follow the worship service, and there will be a sing-song and a time of sharing.

We are asking all persons to come dressed with the fashion dress of any kind between the years of 1902-1950 and there will prize given to the best dressed.

Open House, Ladies Night Set At Lodge

All members of Haskell Masonic Lodge #682 AF & AM and their wives are invited to attend a special meeting Thursday, September 30 at 8 p.m. in the Lodge building.

Special guest at the meeting will be Right Worshipful J. D. Wilson of Seymour, 91st District Deputy Grand Master. He will present 25 and 50 year pins to local lodge members.

Receiving 50 year pins will be Ben C. Chapman and Manse W. Robertson. Receiving 25 year pins will be Dr. J.F. Cadenhead, Roy T. (Buck) Everett, Oris Gibson, Dr. W.J. Kemp, David Smart and Dennis Young, all of Haskell and Tracy Grimes of Victoria, H. L. Guess of Weinert, Doyle Johnson of San Antonio, Jess Stiles of Lubbock and L.B. Wittington of Arlington.

As promised for the past two weeks...#1. How to remove shot from shag carpet and #2. How to get a new gun in the house without catching old billy from the wife.

Actually, with a small amount of planning and forethought, both problems can be solved together.

As anyone who has ever attempted removing shot from shag carpet knows, it is an impossible task. So forget about removing the shot and address the problem from another angle.

Simply purchase about 15 square yards of new shag carpet and roll it around the new shotgun of your choice.

Wives have a thing about new carpet and will be so thrilled when it arrives that the new gun will be kicked to one side and never noticed.

Another sure fire method of keeping a constant stream of new guns coming without protest is to inform the wife of your intentions to do minor gun repairs for friends.

Now, any true hunting friend should be more than willing to assist in the project which consists simply of borrowing several guns from several friends for a few days each.

After several days of carrying two or three guns into the house each afternoon and one or two out each morning, it should be simple to arrive with a new gun, place it in the gun cabinet and look forward to quail season.

You must realize though, that some wives are more observant than others and can tell at fifty yards that the Model 37 is new and has never been fired. To alleviate this problem, simply remove all the grease and coat the entire gun with a light coat of oil. Next apply a liberal amount of dust followed by the application of at least two full rolls of friction tape. In just minutes a $300.00 brand new shotgun has taken-on the appearance of a classic troutline weight.

Another sure fire method is to start collecting used gun cases. They are available at most garage sales and can be purchased at nominal prices. A collection of about 30 should be sufficient.

If the cases are stacked neatly in the bedroom for several months and later moved to the utility room, the wife will be so pleased that she no longer trips over them on the way to the bathroom that she will never look at them again and will certainly not notice that two or three contain guns.

Another available option has the potential of solving the new gun dilemma but at the same time may pose new difficulties.

The option is getting the wife interested in hunting in which instance she can be given your old guns to learn with and you can purchase new ones for yourself.

The disastrous effects of this plan come to life when she starts out shooting you and at the same time decides that she needs a new over and under quail gun worse than you.

The humiliation of having one deer head mounted and hanging over the fireplace and being forced to repeatedly admit that the wife killed it is almost too much to cope with.

The only consolation is that when she graphically (and also truthfully) describes the hunt which resulted in the mount, the other hunters only believe a small portion of the story knowing that if she has hunted enough to collect such an animal, then surely she has also learned how to exaggerate hunting stories.

PROOFREADERS NOTE: This proofreader knows that the editor of "Pipe Smoke" really knows how to rid his shag carpet of shot. He promises his wife a new house, he then talks his hired help into purchasing his house. Therefore, the problem is alleviated (for him). Moral to this story is—never buy a house belonging to a reloader without first inspecting the floors for shot.

Tertia Elaine McVay and Gary Carl Cobb were united in marriage in the Chapel of the First Baptist Church in Midland, on Saturday, Sept. 11th, at 7:30 p.m. Officiating for the double ring, candlelight ceremony was Reverend Roy A. Carley.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William McVay of Van Horn, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Cobb of Haskell.

Vows, composed by the bride and groom, were exchanged before an altar decorated with two spiral candelabrum centered with an archway candelabrum entwined with lily of the valley and garlands of greenery. Arrangements of "Forever Yours" silk roses and "Enchantment Lilies" were on the organ and piano.

Wedding selections were played on the piano by Mrs. Ralph Zamarripa of Fort Stockton. She also accompanied sisters of the bride, Darice McVay of Austin and Mrs. James Cost of Midland as they sang Greig's "Ich Lieblich" and read, "A Poem" by Grace Nell Crowell. It featured a Queen Ann neckline, long fitted sleeves and an A line skirt which had scallops of lace and crystal pleats that draped to the hemline of lace. The chapel length train ended with lace and crystal pleats. Her fingertip candlelight veil fell from a chantilly lace covered hat which was adorned with tiny roses encrusted with seed pearls and satin ribbons.

The bridal bouquet was a cascade of "Forever Yours" silk roses accented with eucalyptus and gypsophylla.

For something borrowed and blue, the bride carried a silk handkerchief which was carried by her mother and sister in their weddings. Something old was her pearl necklace and hat pin which belonged to her maternal grandmother, Mrs. T.M. Naron. Something new was her cerise garter, made and given to her by her sister, Darice. Mother of the bride wore a floor length mauve chiffon dress. Mother of the groom wore pink mauve chiffon. Both wore corsages of purple vanda orchids and purple alstermerias.

A reception was held following the ceremony in the church parlor. The bride's table, covered with a mauve cloth overlaid with candlelight lace, was centered with the bride's bouquet. An arrangement of silk roses was reflected in the mirror of the buffet behind the bride's table. The wedding cake was a three tiered strawberry, iced in candlelight and decorated with cascades of cerise roses. Punch was served from a silver bowl. Other appointments were silver and crystal.

The groom's table was covered with candlelight linen edged with lace. The coffee service and other appointments were silver. Finger foods were served.

Mrs. H.T. Gleason of Abilene registered guests. Other members of the house-party were: Penny Moser of Cleburne, Mrs. Joe Crueger of Lubbock, Mrs. Roy Hendley of Lubbock, Mrs. James Cost and Miss Darice McVay.

For a wedding trip to Hot Springs, Ark., the bride chose a cerise chiffon dress with matching rose corsage.

A graduate of Van Horn High School, the bride attended Tarleton State University and Texas A&M University and will graduate in December from Texas Tech University with a B.S. degree in psychology.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Haskell High School, received a bachelor's degree from Texas Tech University and a master's degree in agriculture from Texas A&M University. He is employed by Plains Coop Oil Mill in Lubbock.

Brush and Palette

Physicians often advise patients to take up painting or crafts for therapy. This, in the hope the patient will become so engrossed with the process of creating that his thoughts and emotions will be turned from introspective to outgoing. There seems to be the inherent desire in most of us to be creative. It may range from satisfaction in plowing a straight furrow to the most intricate handwork or the designing of great bridges and architectural wonders. The finished work tells how well we see and think, what imagination we have and how much we put ourselves into our work. There is more to art than just putting paint on the canvas. The real sense of the word is when you begin to become an artist - when you are literally recording your feelings about the subject through the medium of drawing and painting. No wonder one can lose himself in ART!

Q. I heard a professional artist say when asked about his palette, "I use red, yellow and blue". Explain this please.

A. A truer statement was never made, but it is oversimplified. All colors stem from the primaries, red, yellow and blue. When mixed together, give us the secondaries, tertiaries and complementary colors. Keep in mind, however, how many different blues, reds and yellows there are, and you begin to see that the possible combinations of these three hues are virtually endless. In this fact lies the complete fascination of color theory.

Q. Why do I get mud when I mix colors?

A. It is not necessary and usually not desirable to mix the colors down to a smooth flat tone. Mud is made by mixing more than three colors, by stirring too much, like stirring a cake mixture and by mixing over and over with a brush on a canvas. Harold Gore, our recent visiting artist from San Antonio, always says, "Make a statement and leave it." When you see you have the correct value, leave it streaky-let the colors work. Don't beat it to death! Try pulling the brush through the color already on the canvas once. Not too bad, is it? The second time worse; the third time, nothingness.

Q. You often refer to Flake White, some other writers object to it. Explain why, please.

A. Any acceptancy or rejection in matters pertaining to art have absolutely nothing to do with personal idiosyncrasies or affinities. Superiority or inferiority of materials can be measured accurately and objectively. Suffice it to say that white lead (Flake White) was the only white oil of the old masters and it proved to be the toughest of all colors - old and new. Zinc White and Titanium came later as have some others. I suggest you use the one that works best for you.

TAX PLANNING
Written by

TAX BRACKET MISCONCEPTIONS

An individual in the 50% tax bracket does not pay 50% to the government out of each dollar he earns. Nor is it possible for $1,000 of additional income to cause your taxes to go up by $2,000.

Taxpayers pay at various percentages up to their "top bracket." The minimum tax bracket is 12% starting at $3,400 of taxable income and the maximum bracket is 50% on taxable income over $85,600. The taxable income is arrived at by deducting from adjusted gross income your itemized deductions and family exemptions.

A typical tax return with adjusted gross income of $31,000 might pay income taxes of $5,300. This taxpayer is "in the 29% bracket; however, his total income tax bill is 17% of his adjusted gross income. Remember the adjusted gross income is first reduced for various deductions and exemptions. Then income tax is paid at 12% on the first $2,100, 14% on the next $2,100, 16% on the next $4,300 and so on through the various brackets up to 50%.

An individual's top tax bracket represents the percentage at which the last dollar was taxed. Additional income could cause you to slide into the next higher bracket, however, this will not cause the income in any of the prior brackets to change in any manner whatsoever. The 29% bracket runs from $24,600 of taxable income to $29,900. If a 29% bracket taxpayer is at the very top of this bracket and earns an additional $1,000, it will be taxed at the next higher bracket which is 33%. The prior $29,900 would still be taxed in its respective brackets.

I have often heard the statement, "I'm doing it because it's tax deductible." The 29% bracket taxpayer is only saving 29% out of each dollar spent, therefore, the decision should be made on the economics of the transaction, or the personal pleasure derived on the 71% or actual cost to the taxpayer.

Mrs. W.A. King Attends GFWC Leadership Seminar

A British author, economist, and futurist told a General Federation of Women's Clubs Leadership Seminar that America is on the verge of a new vision of itself which includes people doing things for each other, not for money but because they care.

Robert Theobald was the keynote speaker Sept. 11 when more than 250 GFWC leaders met in Raleigh, N.C. to attend the Seminar cosponsored by the GFWC and Chevron U.S.A. Inc. On Sept. 13, nationally known humorist Jeanne Robertson of Burlington, N.C., stressed the therapy of laughter.

The GFWC is the oldest and largest nondenominational, nonpartisan, international service organization of volunteer women in the world with a half million members in the United States and 10 million worldwide, said Juanita M. Bryant of Boonville, N.C. and Washington, D.C., the International President.

Those attending the Sept. 11-14 meeting included the GFWC Board of Directors and GFWC Leadership/Personal Development Chairmen from the 50 states.

Mrs. W.A. King of Munday, member of the Weinert Matrons Club, attended this seminar. Mrs. King is the Federation of Women's Clubs Leadership/Personal Development Chairman of Texas.

Workshops dealt with such topics as Finances for Women, Networking Skills, and Grantsmanship, said Jean Cutler of South Pasadena, Cal., GFWC National Leadership/Personal Development Chairman.

From 1980 to 1982, GFWC members in America donated 22 1/2 million volunteer hours and gave more than $67,000,000 to community projects.

Seelig, Abell Repeat Vows In Afternoon Ceremony

Miss Deborah Ann Abell became the bride of Mark Charles Seelig at three o'clock in the afternoon Saturday Sept. 18 at Our Lady of Sorrows Catholic Church of Jacksonville.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Abell of Jacksonville and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie A. Seelig of Haskell.

The Rev. Michael J. Hartwig of Tyler officiated for the double ring ceremony at the altar which was flanked by candelabras with burning tapers. Boston fern, lavender gladiolas, pink roses, white and pink carnations and daisies accented the altar. Lavender and candlelight satin bows marked the family pews. Votive lights entwined with fern and lavender daisies enhanced the windows.

Guests registered at a table in the foyer which was covered with white satin overlaid with antique lace. The lace covered bride's book was accented by brass candlesticks with lavender candles.

Soloist was Miss Kathy Fries, who sang the "Wedding Song", "Wedding Prayer", and "The Lord's Prayer". Mr. Larry Cigainero was the organist. Mrs. James H. Rounsaville was director of the wedding.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a formal gown of ivory organza and re-embroidered lace. It featured a sweetheart neckline and a lace bodice enhanced with seed pearls. Also long sheer Bishop sleeves with lace cuffs accented the dress. The full skirt was decorated with lace medallions throughout and bedecked with sequins and seed pearls. It was bordered at the hemline with lace. It swept to a cathedral length flare. To compliment the bride's attire, a long illusion veil outlined in matching lace with a double blusher was held by a lace Baudeau.

The bride carried a bouquet of pink miniature roses, stephanotos, and miniature lavender carnations accented with baby's breath, streamers and love knots and English Ivy.

Matron of Honor was Mrs. Lucy Farmer of Jacksonville. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Becky Howard of Abilene, and Miss Mary Helen Abell, bride's sister, of Jacksonville.

The attendants wore A-line formal of lavender crepe with chiffon neckline capes, accented with waistline tie bows. Lavender hats were styled with lavender lace and ribbon, matching the dresses. A nosegay of baby's breath, lavender daisies and white and pink carnations, entwined with ribbon was carried by each attendant.

Flower girl was Kristen Farmer of Jacksonville. Ringbearer was Mark McCown also of Jacksonville.

The bride's mother chose a georgette gown in soft pink with a V neck cape bodice. It was accented with self flowers and gathered into an A-line flowing skirt. The groom's mother wore a formal gown of deep rose in quiana and self ruffle. It featured a V-neckline, long full sleeves with cuffs and full flowing skirt. The mothers wore wristlets of baby pink roses.

Winford Seelig, groom's brother, of Argyle, was best man. Groomsmen were Wade Howard, Abilene, and David Abell, bride's brother, of Jacksonville.

Serving as ushers were Charlie Russell, Tyler, Stephen Hester, cousin of bride, Irving, and Kenny Bond of Lufkin.

A reception was held in the fellowship hall immediately following the ceremony. The bride and groom and their parents welcomed the guests.

The bride's table was centered with floral arrangements in brass. A three-tiered wedding cake was served with punch, nuts and chestnuts.

The groom's table was covered with an ivory satin cloth. The groom's chocolate cake was decorated with a miniature truck with his initials on the side. Coffee was served from brass appointments. An arrangement of summer flowers and ferns highlighted the table and throughout the hall. Champagne was served from a flowing fountain.

Rice held in candlelight net and tied with lavender ribbon was distributed by Cindy Hester, cousin of bride, of Irving, and Laci Seelig, niece of groom, of Argyle.

The bride is a graduate of Jacksonville High School, attended Lon Morris College, graduated from Tyler Junior College and Texas Eastern School of Nursing, Tyler, and attended the University of Texas at Tyler. The bride works as a registered nurse in Tyler's Medical Center Intensive Care Unit.

The groom is a graduate of Paint Creek High School, Haskell, and attended Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene. He is an active member of the National Guard. He is employed by Winston Ranch-Red's Trucking Company of Lufkin.

Following a honeymoon in Wagoner, Okla., the couple will reside in Lufkin.

The rehearsal dinner honoring members of the Abell-Seelig wedding party was Sept. 17. Places were laid for 32 guests at the dinner which was in the garden at Huntington's in Jacksonville.

Date: Tuesday, September 28th
Time: 7:00 p.m.
Place: American Legion, Haskell

Now that the amounts you may annually tax defer have been substantially increased -- up to $2,000 for IRA, $15,000 for Keogh and SEP (Simplified Employee Pension Plan) -- it makes more sense than ever to take advantage of these retirement plans.

- How the various Keogh, SEP or IRA Plans differ from one another.
- How you enjoy investment flexibility with a Merrill Lynch Plan (instead of

- How to choose a Plan that lets you shift investments as your goals change, or new opportunities arise.
- How to get a Plan that lets you invest in stocks, bonds, money market funds, government securities, certificates of deposit, or a combination of these.

Getting the right tax-deferred Keogh, SEP or IRA Plan now could make a distinct difference in your standard of living during retirement. Get the facts you need -- by attending this FREE Seminar.

Tips Offered To Help Motivate Volunteers

More than 65 million Americans said in a recent survey that they would volunteer to assist with projects they considered to be "worthwhile" if they were asked to do so.

"These willing workers should be made aware of the need for their help and the satisfaction which follows as a by-product of volunteerism," says June Cline, organization specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Cline notes that "enthusiasm is the all-essential human jet propeller which elevates workers and creates endless energy, the source of accomplishment." It can help motivate volunteers and also carry over into their orientation to do their jobs to the best of their abilities and skills, she says.

"Pressure volunteerism" is still the most used method for recruiting volunteers. Instead of that method, Cline suggests that people seeking help from volunteers might want to try the "Ten Commandments of Human Relations" for motiva-tional purposes. Put simply, the 10 principles include: speaking to people, calling people by name, smiling at people, being friendly, being cordial, being interested in people, being thoughtful of the feelings of others, being generous with praise, being thoughtful of opinions of others, and being alert to give service.

"Some of the most capable and successful supervisors of volunteers keep charts to show increased knowledge and skills and to challenge performance and influence attitudes. Make the job an interesting one, and the volunteer will like it and derive satisfaction. In this instance, satisfaction is the pay check," Cline reminds.

She suggests that supervisors of volunteers should help build a sense of security. This can be achieved by radiating confidence; being honest and sincere; being fair, impartial and generous; showing sympathy and understanding; and explaining carefully the volunteer job.

"Not only should a supervisor of volunteers explain 'what' the job is, but also 'why' it is important. This should help provided some common goals," Cline says.

FFA Preparing For Fair

FFA students have been busy preparing their ag projects for the Haskell County Fair this weekend. Each student enrolled in the Future Farmers of America is required to own a project to meet the requirements of his or her agriculture degree. Among the projects are club calves, chickens, hogs, rabbits and sheep. All of these projects need constant care and attention. FFA members spend most of their spare time working with or on their projects. Crops are also shown in the county fair by ag members.

Cattlemen's Round-Up Set Saturday In Abilene

As next Monday's benefit cattle sale approaches, Jim Alexander of Abilene, general Chairman of the Cattlemen's Round-Up for Crippled Children, expressed cautious optimism.

this year will provide services, without charge, to more than 10,000 handicapped children and adults through its campuses in Abilene, San Angelo, and Snyder. Those wishing to donate livestock or cash to this year's Round-Up should contact their area chairman or the West Texas Rehabilitation Center central offices at (915) 692-1633. The cattle sale, the first in a series of sales to benefit the Center, is set for 1:00 p.m., Monday, Sept. 27 at the Abilene Auction in Abilene.

About 100 head of cattle have been pledged for the sale thus far, which is about one fourth the number needed to make the sale a success. But Alexander hastened to say, "Traditionally, most pledges come in the week prior to the sale, so now is the time for the rest of our friends to make their commitments."

Cattle have been pledged and are being picked up from as far away as Hereford, Alpine, Kingsville, The Houston area, and the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

The Cattlemen's Round-Up for Crippled Children is the oldest major fund-raising event for the West Texas Rehabilitation Center which

Study Floodplain Before Building House

Most people wouldn't dream of investing in a house constructed by a fly-by-night builder, yet some will put their life-savings in a house built on a floodplain.

Jim Hudson, district conservationist for the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Soil Conservation Service (SCS) at Haskell said building in floodplains is costly. Billions of dollars are lost each year to floods.

"This costly error affects all of us," Hudson said. "All of us pay with higher insurance, higher building costs, and relief programs to help flood victims. This adverse publicity can also give any community a bad image."

"Worse still, is the loss of human lives," Hudson continued. "Since 1925, floods in the U.S. have killed over 4,000 people."

Most of the loss and damage could have been avoided had citizens, land use planners, and America's real estate community heeded the advice and warnings of several public institutions.

For half a century, conservationists and planners have urged leaving floodplains (fairly level lands that border rivers, creeks, and coastal waters) to less intensive uses than houses and shopping centers.

Hudson said several agencies and organizations have floodplain information available for the asking. SCS has people in every county in Texas. They provide assistance through local soil and water conservation districts on a number of conservation problems including information about floodplains free of charge. The Corp of Engineers also has floodplain data available. Local planning agencies, regional governmental bodies and zoning officials may also have useful material. Some have maps and flood-prone areas clearly delineated.

All floodplains vary in size, shape, origin, and description, but they share one simple characteristic—from time to time they are covered by water.

Homesites are purchased every year with flooding being the last possible thing on the minds of the buyers. The problem is, there are no guarantees when the flood will come. It could come tomorrow, next week, or maybe 100 years from now, but it will come. Flooding can also be repetitive. Damaging storms often occur back-to-back during the same season.

Another contributing factor is changing conditions on the land. Upstream construction of houses, supermarkets, streets, and parking lots can drastically alter natural drainage patterns. The sealed surfaces absorb no rainfall, so runoff is greater and takes place faster. If the drainage system of a downstream subdivision is not adequate, a torrent of runoff water can create a flood, sometimes after only moderately heavy rains. Community leaders often fear that denying intense development on a convenient floodplain will give their locality a reputation of slowing down normal economic growth and discouraging new industry and business.

But undeveloped floodplains are not lost to the community. They can provide long-term natural functions in water management and land use that cannot be duplicated by man. For example, agriculture is a basic use of floodplains. Most farmers have long known the value and limitations of floodplains for pastures or growing crops. Parks, field sports areas, hiking paths, and other recreational facilities necessary to an all-round attractive community are acceptable on flood-prone land.

Floodplains also provide greenbelts, open space, and natural areas. In urban areas, they are often all that remain of the natural world. Undeveloped floodplains also benefit wildlife by offering refuge to various species of wildlife. Using floodplains for parks and greenbelts adds to the attractiveness of a community and actually helps contribute to a stable tax base.

Local Quail Limit Set At 20

Hunters in several regions in Texas again will be allowed to take 20 quail per day during the 1982-83 hunting seasons.

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission, meeting in Austin last week, approved quail bag limits for regulatory authority counties after reviewing results of statewide quail production surveys conducted in August. These bag limits do not apply to counties regulated by general or special law enacted by the Legislature. The 20 per day bag limit will apply in two regions which include most of South Texas, the Rolling Plains area of West Texas and the Eastern Panhandle. Possession limits are twice the daily bag limit. Most of East Texas remained at the 12 bird per day limit, and this year the coastal prairies of southeast Texas were reduced from 16 quail per day to 12 because of lower quail populations.

The Edwards Plateau quail count was up, and the commission increased the limit from last year's 12 per day to 16. The Western Panhandle area remains at 12 per day, while the Trans-Pecos region has a 16 per day limit. The quail season varies by county, and hunters are advised to consult the department's 1982-83 Hunting Guide, available at department offices and hunting license outlets, to determine laws in the county to be hunted. Quail Program Leader Don Wilson said quail counts in South Texas this year were the second best since statewide surveys were initiated in 1976. "Our crews counted an average of 37 quail per route this year, which rivals the outstanding counts of 1979 when 39 birds per route were observed," Wilson said. He added that good weather conditions over much of West Texas, the Eastern Panhandle and the Edwards Plateau during the spring and summer allowed good quail production and survival.

Farmers Union Urging Support Of Farm Crisis Day

Texas Farmers Union President Mike Moeller has announced plans for activities to be held on National Farm Crisis Day, Oct. 2, 1982. There will be a tractorcade covering 4 blocks in downtown Austin and terminating at the State Capitol. Immediately following the tractorcade there will be a rally on the Capitol building steps.

The TFU head said that it was certainly not the intent of the group to cause any problems to Saturday shoppers or businesses. "We will be stopping at all traffic lights and obeying all traffic laws as a courtesy to the citizens and downtown businesses of Austin," Moeller stated. "We just want to bring to the attention of all people in Texas and throughout the nation the disastrous conditions that are pervasive in agriculture, small business and labor sectors. In fact, we invite downtown motorists, business people and laborers to join us in a show of mutual support. We all need each other," Moeller commented.

Moeller said the Oct. 2 tractorcade will begin at 10 a.m. from the parking lots on 15th and Congress on the north side of the Capitol. The tractorcade will proceed in a circular route of 4 or 5 blocks and culminate at the Capitol with the subsequent rally which will last about 2 hours. Anyone who would like to participate should be at the parking lots by 9:30 a.m. Saturday morning. "I strongly encourage everyone who possibly can to join us," Moeller concluded.

FFA Members Present Programs

Recently the Haskell FFA officers presented two programs, one for the Haskell VFD Auxiliary and the Experienced Citizen Center.

The purpose of these meetings was to demonstrate the correct methods to handle parliamentary procedure. The problem conducted by the FFA officers was made-up of a main motion, amendment, point of order and previous question.

FFA president Lee Lane conducted the ceremony and Duane Gilly and James Bevel.

Mare-Foal Clinic Set In Throckmorton

Horse producers across the Rolling and South Plains will hear the latest information from a faculty of experts at the Rolling Plains Mare-Foal Clinic, Thursday, Sept. 30, at the R.A. (Rob) Brown Ranch west of Throckmorton.

The program will focus upon economical breeding and reproduction programs and health care, and should be of interest to anyone involved in horse production, Dr. William W. Smith, livestock specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said.

The clinic is being sponsored by the Rolling Plains Economic Program, a regional economic development effort under guidance of the Extension Service. Registration begins at 9 a.m. with sessions starting at 9:30 a.m. and concluding at 4 p.m. A registration fee of $10 includes a lunch and printed proceedings.

Advance registration by Sept. 24 is requested in order to plan the luncheon. To register, send your name and address with a check for $10 to Dr. William W. Smith, TAEX, Box 2159, Vernon, TX 76384-2159. Checks should be made payable to Rolling Plains Economic Program.

Following a welcome from host rancher R.A. Brown, Dr. Doug Householder, Extension horse specialist from College Station, will discuss economical programs for feeding broodmares in ranching situations. Factors affecting reproduction in mares under extensive management conditions will be examined by Dr. Jack Kreider, associate professor of animal science at Texas A&M University, College Station.

A panel of Rolling Plains horse producers will discuss ranch pasture breeding programs. Panel members will be Wes O'Neal of the Waggoner Estate, Vernon; Brown; Bob Moorehouse, Pitchfork Ranch, Guthrie, and John Gaither, 6666 Ranch, Guthrie. B.F. Yeates, Extension horse specialist, College Station, will moderate.

Body condition scoring of broodmares will be discussed by Yeates. Live animals will be used, and during the lunch break participants will have an opportunity to score a group of broodmares. Official scores will be given by a panel at the beginning of the afternoon session.

Health programs for broodmares and foals will be presented by Dr. Mike Ward, Bowie veterinarian. Practical supplemental (creep) feeding and weaning systems for foals will be presented by Dr. Gary Potter, professor of animal science at A&M.

Dr. Jim Heird, associate professor at Texas Tech University, Lubbock, will discuss the importance of early life experiences on foals and will demonstrate handling techniques.

A demonstration of foal trimming and a discussion of the care of feet and legs of mares and foals will be presented by Burney Chapman of Lubbock, professional farrier. Smith will summarize the sessions.

Superintendent's Views

BY JAMES LANIER

Superintendent, Haskell ISD

How often do you know a teacher moving to a location to finish out a year and staying 25 years? Bill Blakley, our elementary principal is just such a person. Mr. Blakley was raised in Fairfield where he played on a regional champion football team. After graduation, he farmed for a couple of years, but, with the outbreak of the Korean conflict, he responded to the call of Uncle Sam and volunteered for four years of duty. Upon discharge, he enrolled in Sam Houston State where he received a B.S. degree in math. He came to Haskell in October to replace a teacher who had resigned.

After the first year, he was asked to coach as well as teach math. He taught this load for six years, then returned strictly to the classroom. He, then, became high school principal and served nine years in that capacity. Three years ago, he requested and was granted reassignment as elementary principal.

Bill brings two very important attributes to our administrative team. First, he is a super efficient person who can handle detail work splendidly. Second, his years as a tremendously successful classroom teacher allowed him to develop and recognize expertise in classroom management.

He also brings a third aspect to our administrative team that is important to me. Mr. Neal and I have been in other schools in other areas, tend to move a little quicker. Mr. Blakley recognizes the interests and attitudes of the community. He can offer wise council to us as we move forward with the educational program of Haskell school concerning acceptance and correct approaches.

The thing that is best about Bill, is the fact that he is a likable person. He and his wife, Patsy, have one daughter, Melinda, who is a senior in high school. Bill keeps saying that he is going to get back to his favorite hobby of playing golf, but the complexities of school administration does create a time void. It is rather difficult to hit a golf ball after dark. We enjoy working with Mr. Blakley.

He is attacking our reading priority with vigor and I am certain we will see much improvement in this area this year. Bill is also a valuable part of our administrative team.

They detect speeding cars, provide warnings against burglars, send telephone and television communications, and provide deep heat for treating sore muscles. But the most familiar use of microwaves is to cook food.

Despite their widespread use, research on whether low levels of radiation from microwaves pose any health hazard is inconclusive, says the Texas Medical Association. But microwave ovens are considered safe if approved by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration and used properly.

Three characteristics allow microwaves to be used in cooking: They pass through glass, paper, plastic and similar materials; foods absorb them; and metals reflect them.

Inside the oven, an electron tube called a magnetron produces microwaves. They bounce off the oven's metal walls until absorbed by the food. The microwaves cause the water molecules in the food to vibrate, producing heat that cooks the food. For this reason, foods with a high water content, like fresh vegetables, cook more quickly than others.

These ovens cannot make food radioactive because microwave energy is converted to heat as soon as the food absorbs the waves. The concern is over radiation measurements are taken two inches from the oven's surface, and the level of leaking radiation that might reach a person decreased dramatically as he moves away from the oven.

Here are some tips for operating a microwave oven safely:

Follow the manufacturer's instruction manual.

Don't operate the oven if the door closes improperly.

Never operate the oven if you have reason to believe it will continue to operate with the door open.

Don't stand directly against the oven for long periods while it is on.

As the fall school term progresses, both parents and teachers will begin planning for joint conferences which can be mutually rewarding.

The skills of effective parent-teacher teams can build a quality finished product — an inquisitive, well-adjusted growing child. Parent-teacher conferences can be a vital, constructive, learning situation for parents as well as teachers. The conferences should be planned for a specific time in a quiet, comfortable atmosphere. Serious pre-planning can help both parents and teachers make better use of their time.

Parents and teachers should agree on fair, reasonable goals that benefit the child and bring pleasure and learning to the youngster.

Helpful dialogue about what parents want for and expect from their child - as well as the teacher's expectations and professional responsibilities to the child and class as a whole - can be a vital step.

Other positive approaches to parent-teacher conferences may include: Parents can provide two important tools — personal support and interest — that the teacher can use to help a child grow and develop while in school.

Together parents and teacher can figure out the strengths of a child. When you know what's right with a child and not what's wrong with him/her, school and home provide a complementary support system that tends to accelerate the talents a child possesses and play down poor school habits.

Plotting together in hopes of bringing about changed behaviors in a child is not fair to a child. Parents and teachers can identify necessary changes sought, but involve the child in choices, decisions and changes to be made for his own benefit.

Closing a parent-teacher conference is important, too. When a conference is treated like any other professional appointment, it begins and ends on time. Care must be taken not to spoil a good conference at the last minute by sudden and abrupt eviction.

A competent educator and an effective parent are like an accomplished musician ... they devote years and effort to acquiring skills and techniques. Once acquired, they are unseen. Good communication skills between parents and teachers are the "silent force" behind good students.

The ancient Egyptians used shadow clocks to tell the number of hours before or after noon. The clock had to be turned around each day at noon.

Dental Health Is Care Home In Service

"Dental Health Problems" was the topic discussed for this month's In-Service education at Rice Springs Care Home.

Nursing personnel were fortunate to have as their guest speaker Dr. Ed Harris, a graduate of Texas Dental Branch at Houston. He gave a very interesting and informative program on techniques of better dental care.

A film was shown listing five points to cut down on tooth decay.

Dr. Harris, who opened his office to practice dentistry in his hometown of Haskell early this year will return in November to conduct another program on Dental Health.

1983 Farm Picture Bleak But Hope Remains

Texas farmers are suffering from a siege of economic setbacks that are the most serious since the depression of the '30s. But despite the catastrophic situation, there is some glimmer of hope as farmers forge ahead and plan for 1983.

"Both weather and the marketplace have devastated the hopes of many producers this year," said Dr. Carl Anderson, economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. "It's been a year filled with widespread crop losses due to hail, wind, floods and drought, and now at harvest time, huge stockpiles of most crops coupled with a sagging demand are driving prices below production costs."

And delinquent loans are running rampant, with almost half of the 25,000 Texas farmers with Farmers Home Administration loans behind their payments. To make matters worse, most have nowhere else to turn for financial backing, said Anderson.

Many farm prices have been driven through the floor by huge crops the past two years, noted the economist. During the first half of 1982, prices for cotton, cottonseed, rice and hay dropped more than 30 percent below the same period last year and grain sorghum averaged about 20 percent less.

Texas livestock producers are faring a little better than crop growers. Hog prices are up 21 percent and beef cattle prices are holding even compared to the first half of 1981 while milk prices are off slightly. Prices for calves, sheep, turkeys and eggs are averaging 5 to 10 percent less while wool prices are off 20 percent.

Along with poor prices, farmers continue to face high interest rates when compared to returns to investments generated from their operations, and high exchange rates have destroyed growth in the export market, Anderson said.

With this overall dismal situation, how can there be hope for farmers?

"Economic health can return from either lower supplies or increased demand that will boost market prices or through more favorable farm program prices," said Anderson. "Either adjustment may take up to three years to develop fully."

"Currently, Texas farmers are looking to Commodity Credit Corporation loan rates, farmer-held reserve loan rates and target prices as their main hope for surviving the most severe financial pressure in half a century," he said. "Unfortunately, earlier this year many of them did not recognize the benefits of support prices and the looming financial dangers."

According to Anderson, failure of more than half of the sorghum farmers to take part in the farm program has caused grain prices to fall sharply below the CCC loan rate. This resulted because nonparticipants were ineligible to put their grain into the target price and CCC loan rate) that farmers could expect are 65 cents per bu. for wheat, 21 cents per bu. for corn, 41 cents per cwt. for grain sorghum, 21 cents a lb. for cotton and $2.85 per cwt. for rice.

"Since reduced production will be a major goal of next year's farm program, it will likely call for laying out 15 to 25 percent of the base acreage for each eligible crop," said Anderson. "Farmers should take this into consideration as they begin land preparation and fertilizer and herbicide applications for next year's crops." 1983 farm income could improve some with increased participation in the farm program since reduced production would help the supply situation and allow loan rates to be more effective in setting price floors. On the demand side, lower interest rates should give a boost to the marketplace. And an improved economic climate could spur the demand for farm products, said the economist. Meanwhile, farmers will be looking at controlling or minimizing operating expenses, evaluating alternative crops for highest returns while taking as little price risk as possible, foregoing capital purchases and taking a hard look at full participation in the government farm program, Anderson said.

Railroad Commission Grants Motion On Gas Increase

Railroad Commission Hearings Examiner Michael George granted a joint motion by Lone Star Gas Company and the Texas Municipal League for a two week continuance in the Commission hearing to consider Lone Star's request to increase natural gas rates charge to municipal distribution systems.

Attorneys for Lone Star and TML said they were close to reaching a settlement agreement on the proposed rates and said the recess would allow them to finalize details and have them approved by affected city governments.

Any agreement reached between the parties must still be approved by the Commission.

In granting the continuance, George directed the parties to file documents associated with the settlement not later than Sept. 27 and scheduled the hearing to reopen Sept. 29 at 2 p.m. at the Railroad Commission headquarters building in Austin.

Lone Star filed a statement of intent with the Railroad Commission June 25 asking for an increase in its city gate rate. The city gate is the delivery point at which a city distribution system receives gas from its supplier. The proposed $90 million increase would affect more than 400 Texas cities and outlying areas and more than 1.1 million bill-paying customers.

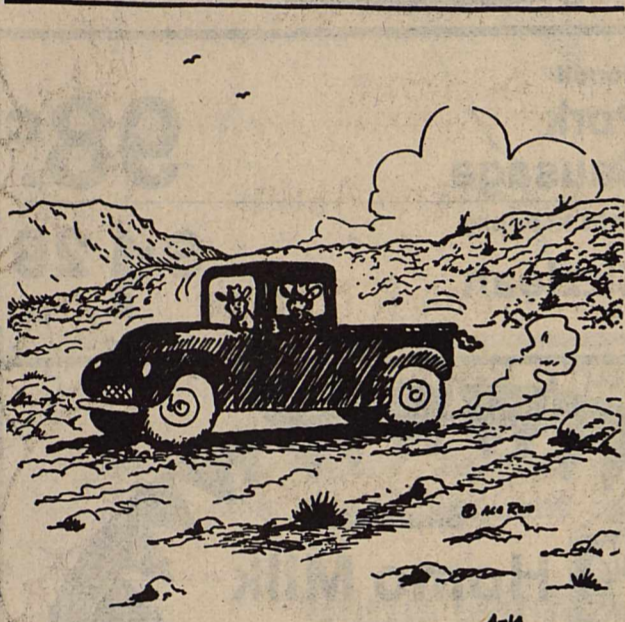

The Lone Star application has been opposed by the Texas Municipal League who is representing more than 100 of the affected cities.

Using these anticipated figures, maximum deficiency payments (difference between
