

Mishap Occurs To Tour Group Bus

BY GENE LONG

Another peril has been added to vehicle safety as of July 19th at 9:30 a.m. near Laramie, Wyoming. Thirty-four people from the Haskell Church of Christ were surprised when a truck tire separated from an oncoming truck and crashed into the front of their bus. The runaway tire and wheel hit first the left side of the front of the bus, then bounced out and up and hit again shattering the right windshield. Scott Burris sustained an ankle injury and Scott Shaake had broken glass in his eyes. Everyone received a shower of glass. The bus was declared unserviceable so a chartered bus was arranged to carry the group on to their destination, St. Anthony, Idaho. A school bus from Laramie was sent to the scene of the accident to transport the group to the Holiday Inn where they were treated to reduced rates on meals until their charter arrived. At the time of this story a bus was leased for their use in St. Anthony and subsequent return to Haskell.

The Church of Christ in Haskell as well as the group themselves offered prayers of thanksgiving that the accident was not worse and injuries more serious. The driver, Max McMeans, was praised for keeping a cool head and bringing the crippled bus to a safe stop. This mission trip is conducted every summer at the Church of Christ in St. Anthony for the purpose of holding a meeting, a vacation Bible School, and Bible studies. This is the first mishap, in 7 years, but the group continued on their mission journey and work with hardly a pause. There are no plans to discontinue the annual mission work because of the accident.

Gae young lady said, "I saw the truck tire coming and just covered my face with my pillow." A young man remarked, "The first thing I knew, our front windshield just exploded and glass was flying everywhere." One of the ministers ran across the highway after they stopped and the truck driver had tears in his eyes as he asked, "Are all of you alright?" "The only hardship we have is we have to walk across town for meals but that's only temporary," said one of the group. He was right, a bus was leased Friday for the group's use and return home this week. So when vehicle safety manuals are rewritten, add "watch out for flying truck tires" to the script. And no doubt this group will add something like, "Lord, protect us from runaway truck tires," in their prayers as well, from now on.

Weinert Girls Attend Farm Bureau Citizenship Seminar

More than 400 high school juniors and seniors participated in the 21st annual Texas Farm Bureau Citizenship Seminar, July 18-22, on the campus of Angelo State University at San Angelo.

Attending the seminar from Haskell County were Donna Griffiths, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Griffith; Darlene Carroll, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Carroll; and Kelly McGuire, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Budge McGuire all of Weinert.

Purpose of the seminar is to give students a better understanding of the various forms of government and their responsibilities as citizens, according to Tom Catchings, TFB director of special activities and coordinator for the seminar. Students are sponsored through county Farm Bureaus.

FRENCH VISITOR

Vincent Peters of Vaucresson, France takes an adventure on a tractor recently while visiting in Texas. Vincent has been visiting in the home of Steven and Karen Lehrmann of Sagerton the past month. He will leave on August 3.

Visitor From France Enjoys Rodeo And "Texas" Musical

A West Texas Rodeo and the musical "Texas" have been the highlights of a month long visit to Texas by Vincent Peters, 17, of Vaucresson, France.

Vincent arrived in Lubbock on July 6 and will leave August 3. During his stay, he has been visiting in the home of Steven and Karen Lehrmann of Sagerton.

In addition to the rodeo and "Texas", Vincent has enjoyed several other firsts including driving a tractor, driving a pick-up, riding horses and water skiing.

During the remainder of his stay, the Lehrmanns plan to take Vincent to Six Flags and several other places of interest.

The Lehrmanns read an article in the Stamford American last year and applied for a foreign visitor and were accepted.

Vincent has visited in the U.S. for the past two years staying in California and Wyoming.

His father is the owner of a factory which makes hospital equipment and his mother is an artist who is preparing for an exhibit in October.

His hobbies include tennis, reading, swimming, snow skiing and wind surfing.

One of the major differences between France and the U.S. is the educational system. Schools in France do not participate in competitive sports nor do they have competition in other UIL type events such as prose, poetry, number sense, typing, etc.

Another major difference is that students are required to pass exit exams prior to graduation. The normal school day begins at 8:30 a.m. and continues until 5 p.m. with no study hall.

Another difference which Vincent discussed concerned young people and driving. In France, you must be 18 to receive a driver's license and even then, not many 18 year olds have their own cars. Instead, most drive motorcycles which may be operated by licensed 14 year olds.

Foods were another different item and while okra and squash were somewhat different to Vincent, the Lehrmanns did not quite know what to expect when he volunteered to fry bananas.

Both the visitor and the hosts agreed that thus far the visit has been very educational and enjoyable and all are looking forward to the possibility of another visit in the future.

Railroad Commission Approves Agency Closing

The Railroad Commission has approved the request of the Burlington Northern Railroad Company to close its agency station in Haskell and serve the shippers there through its base freight agency at Stamford.

Railroad officials indicated that a computer system in use in the Stamford center would mean 24-hour toll-free telephone access to Haskell shippers. They also agreed to designate one employee in the center to be primarily responsible for handling calls from Haskell.

Mo Pac said the depot building in Haskell would be closed to the public but would continue to be used by railroad employees.

Before a rail company is allowed to close one of its agency stations, it must prove to the Railroad Commission that rail service to the public will not be adversely affected by such an action.

Sayles-Centerpoint School Reunion Scheduled Aug. 7

The 16th annual homecoming of the Sayles and Centerpoint Schools will be held Sunday, August 7 in the Haskell National Bank Community Room.

A catered lunch will be served at the noon hour.

All local ex-students, teachers and former residents of the two communities are urged to accept this invitation and attend. Cards are not mailed locally. Please call Clyde Bland or Bill Pennington if you would like tickets for the luncheon.

A get together is planned for Saturday night.

ATTENDS SCOUT RANCH

Seth Pace, top row center, recently returned from the July 9-23 session at Philmont Scout Ranch near Cimarron, New Mexico. Of all the adventures available on the 80 mile hike, Seth enjoyed the rock climbing and repelling most. Charlie Ross of Midland, bottom row, second from right, headed the troop composed of Scouts from several West Texas towns. This trek marked Charlie's 26th expedition, and he said that it was the most difficult he had attempted. Many Haskell Scouts have been fortunate to attend Philmont under his leadership. While at Philmont, Seth met both Don and Steve Horton, Haskell Eagle Scouts who work summers as Philmont Rangers and who also participated in several expeditions with Charlie Ross.

Brush and Palette

The background of a picture is one of the most determining elements in the construction of a painting. It sets the scene and its success is the picture's success. The background is not painted as a separate part but is used to unify all the factors of the picture. One of my teachers stressed that more time should be taken on the sky or background area than all of the other part of the picture. Perhaps it is not noticed as much and will not get the comments but it is an important accessory.

The tone and color of the background area are initial considerations. It should be Painted early in the painting process, then the subject can be developed in its proper setting. The background represents the atmosphere that surrounds the subject. The background can be a drape or wall or fence but the space given to it should be of utmost consideration. So many backgrounds look like solid paint rather than space. Does yours? If paint is used to substitute for the effect of light, the background area is not a mystery. Lighting causes color and contrast so both of the elements should be employed forcefully.

Color vibration can stimulate atmosphere. One color is said to be flat and when another color is used in juxtaposition it creates the feeling of depth. Try working the complementary color close to the flat area, it could be just what it needs.

Q. What colors should be used for the background of a portrait?

A. Determine the light source, the colors of the clothing, the color of the hair and eyes, then use the complementary colors in the background, remembering the light source. White used in a portrait background makes 'butter milk' - so be careful!

Q. What paint and brushes work best when painting on velvet?

A. Using blotting paper, remove the excess oil from a tube of paint (oil). Some tubes have an extra amount of oil that comes to the end of the tube and this is what needs to be removed. You can use either sable, sabeline or bristle brushes and they must be used in a dry-brush technique. Practice before you start to determine the control of the paint.

Q. What is encaustic painting?

A. Encaustic painting utilizes pigments in a molten white beeswax-damar resin medium. The colors are electrically heated on the palette by means of a heat lamp or other device. Ralph Mayer's 'The Artist's Handbook' has a good explanation of this.

Tips Given For Purchase Of Contact Lenses

From Lou Gilly
COUNTY EXTENSION AGENT

With several types of contact lenses now available, more people than ever are able to wear them successfully. Before buying, however, shop around to find an eyecare specialist who best fits your needs and your budget. Only ophthalmologists and optometrists may prescribe contact lenses. Ophthalmologists have medical degrees (M.D.) and specialize in eye diseases and eye surgery. They can also prescribe and sell eyewear. Optometrists, or doctors of optometry (O.D.) are trained to detect eye diseases. They also prescribe and sell eyewear.

A third type of eye specialist, the optician, can fill eyewear prescriptions, but can not examine eyes or prescribe lenses.

Under the "Eyeglass Rule" set by the Federal Trade Commission, an eye doctor must provide you with a copy of your eyeglass prescription after an exam. This gives you the choice of where to have the prescription filled.

Eye doctors are not required to provide you with a copy of your contact lens prescription. So you may have to pay for another lens fitting exam if you wish to buy your lenses from a different specialist.

Before you decide on an eyecare specialist, you should ask him or her the following questions.

1. "What do you charge for lenses, fitting, adjustments, a lens care kit, and follow-up visits?"

These services may be priced individually or sold as part of a special package. In some cases, the individual charges may add up to less than the "bargain package."

Make sure you know if the actual eye exam is included in the charge.

If later visits are necessary, you may want to select a reasonably-priced package which includes an unlimited number of visits.

2. "What is your refund policy?"

Not everyone can adapt to wearing contact lenses. With a good refund policy, you won't lose your entire investment if you are unable to wear them.

3. "How many types and brands of contacts do you sell?"

A large selection of contact lenses can increase the chances of finding the kind of contact lens that fits and is best for you.

4. "How much do you charge for replacement lenses?"

Contact lenses are easily lost or damaged. Find out how much you will be charged and how long you will have to wait if you need a lens replaced.

Ask about replacement insurance, which will cut the cost of a replacement lens considerably.

5. "Will you give me a copy of my complete prescription for eyeglasses and contact lenses?"

Comparison shopping is extremely difficult without a copy of your complete prescription. If you plan on shopping elsewhere for initial or replacement lenses, ask about the doctor's policy in advance.

Investigate thoroughly to find the eye care specialist who offers the products, services, and policies that are best for you. This will require some time, but may save you money and eliminate difficulties.

For more information contact the Federal Trade Commission, 6th and Pennsylvania, N.W., Washington, D.C., 20580, or call 202-523-3428.

5 Octoberfests Set For Older Texans Enjoyment

Older Texans looking for a fun-filled fall "getaway" that will stretch their dollars and their minds, need not look any further than Brownwood.

Each fall and spring the Texas Agricultural Extension Service sponsors camps for Texans over 55 at the State 4-H Center in Brownwood.

"It's the best learning bargain around," says Judith Warren, family life education specialist with the Extension Service. For $68.50, older Texans can enjoy three days and nights of fun-filled activities and learning experiences in natural surroundings, but with all the modern conveniences.

This fall, five Extension

"Octoberfests" are scheduled for October 4-7, 11-14, 18-21, and November 1-4.

According to Warren, the Octoberfest will include feature presentations on nutrition needs and weight control, bird watching, quilting by the square and arm-chair travel.

Each Octoberfest session will also offer a variety of "how-to" learning experiences. Some of the offerings include fishing lures that work, leathercrafting, candle-wicking, cake decorating, painting and chair-caning.

Unlimited recreation including cards and table games, tennis, canoeing, horseshoes and volleyball, and boat rides will be available to campers.

Social activities such as sing alongs, dances and even a talent show are also scheduled.

Since each Octoberfest session is limited to about 100 participants, Warren suggests that Older Texans contact their county Extension agent for details now.

The lodges are located in 140 cities and towns across the state.

On July 17 more than 800 lodge leaders from around Texas met in San Antonio, home office site of the fraternal society, in a rally for the campaign. This rally followed a seminar attended by some 135 local lodge membership representatives.

Hermann Sons in Texas dates back to 1860 when Harmonia Lodge No. 1 was being organized in San Antonio. The lodge was officially chartered July 6, 1861.

Originally part of a national society founded in New York in 1840, Hermann Sons in Texas became autonomous in 1921. Headquarters are located in San Antonio where the Grand Lodge was established in 1890.

The order in Texas operates a youth summer camp and a retirement home for aged members near Comfort and sponsors 24 dancing schools for junior members. Local lodges sponsor both social and benevolent activities. As required by law, the fraternal benefit society also provides life insurance for the benefit of adult and junior members.

Lodge membership representatives in the Haskell area are: Harry Koehler and Alton Middleton, Haskell Lodge No. 241.

Reagan presents Texas A&M scientist medal of science

COLLEGE STATION—A Texas A&M University scientist who once said researchers have more bad days than good had a good day to remember when President Reagan presented him the National Medal of Science in a recent White House ceremony.

Dr. F. Albert Cotton, Welch Distinguished Professor of Chemistry and the second most-published scientist in the world, is the first Texas A&M University researcher to receive a National medal of Science while serving as a faculty member.

Diversified Experience Benefits Haskell Native

Start at the bottom in doodlebugging and learn it all. Work on land crews, on boats, in processing centers, and in interpretation. And don't be too hasty to move up the ladder till you know the business.

"It can really be an asset to your business to understand all aspects of it," advises Ken Howard, GSI vice president and manager of Eastern Hemisphere Marine Exploration. Ken's own career is a good example of growth through diversified experience in oil patches all over the world.

A native of Haskell, Ken majored in geology and math at Texas Christian University in Ft. Worth where he was a member of the Army Reserve Officers Training Corps (ROTC).

Upon graduation in 1958, he was commissioned as a second lieutenant and attended Army intelligence school at Ft. Holabird, MD. Subsequently, he spent 13 months in Korea, where he met his wife, Gayle. She was a civilian employee of the Department of the Army and was managing an enlisted men's service club.

After returning from Korea, Ken was stationed in Dallas with the Counterintelligence Corps, and the Howards were married here in July 1960.

When Ken got off active duty with the Army, geologists were "a dime a dozen," and it took him 6 months to find a job. After a short hitch as a cost estimator outside his field, Ken joined a geophysical exploration company in Dallas. Later, he worked for Chevron Geophysical in Louisiana.

Ken joined GSI May 14, 1965, after being interviewed by Chuck Brede in New Orleans. "I came to work for Bob Dundon on Lemmon Avenue in Dallas and tried to become a digital seismologist. This was back when the industry was changing over from analog to digital recording systems," he says.

In 1967, when GSI opened a digital seismic data processing center in Sydney, Ken went to Australia, where he "did a little bit of everything." Starting as a seismologist, he stayed there six years and became both data processing manager and site manager.

Transferring to Singapore in 1973, he became Far East data processing manager and was elected a GSI vice president. Then in 1975 he moved to the Europe-Africa-Middle East theater as data processing manager and site manager in Croydon, England.

Ken moved to Bedford when GSI consolidated its offices with TI at the Bedford site. Ultimately, he became area manager responsible for all EAME land and marine operations.

In 1977 Ken returned to the U.S. as land exploration manager for "Operation C" - Western U.S. and EAME. He held that responsibility till he was transferred to his current job in May 1980.

Two career experiences Ken does not readily forget are the "adventures" associated with the change from processing on TIAC* equipment to the ASC* system and dealing with the problems of keeping a marine vessel working in Australia.

"The changeover from TIAC to ASC processing was very traumatic," he says. "I guess you would say it was character building. It either built your character or tore it down."

Ken feels his family has benefited from the experience of moving around and living in different countries. His five children are well rounded in their education, having attended schools in Australia, Singapore and England as well as the U.S. "This gives them a broader outlook than most children," he points out.

They include two Texans, Teresa, 22, and David, 20; one Cajun, Kathryn, 19; and two Aussies, Rebecca, 15, and Gregory, 11. The three oldest are now in college - Teresa at Texas Woman's University, David at the University of Texas at Arlington, and Kathryn at the University of Dallas - and the two girls are on scholarship.

The Howards live on 13 acres at Wylie, where Ken has two horses, raises sudan for hay and is working at making pecan trees grow.

Ken is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Howard of Haskell.

Cost Of WTU Oklaunion Power Station Reduced $127 Million

The estimated cost of West Texas Utilities Co.'s Oklaunion Power Station, now under construction in North Texas, has been reduced by $127 million.

The announcement was made Friday by Durwood Chalker of Dallas, chairman and chief executive officer of Central and South West Corp., WTU's parent company, at a presentation before the Utility and Telecommunications Securities Club of Chicago.

The reduced cost estimate results primarily from being able to negotiate better contracts in today's market with manufacturers and suppliers for practically all of the equipment needed for Oklaunion, Chalker said. The cost had been estimated at $525 million a year ago, but now is estimated at $398 million.

The Oklaunion Power Station will have a net generating capacity of 640 megawatts and will be the first power plant in WTU's system to burn coal as a boiler fuel. The plant is scheduled for completion in December 1986 and will be in full operation before the summer of 1987.

It will be owned jointly by WTU and two other CSW subsidiaries, Public Service Co. of Oklahoma and Central Power and Light Co. WTU will own 55 per cent of the plant and will be the operating partner.

In presenting the financial report, Jerry Phillips, vice president of financial affairs, stated that the Center was $155,000 behind its anticipated budget for the first six months of the year in operation. The largest deficit was in anticipated revenue from special fund raising activities. Phillips pointed out that the month of June was the first time in the last few months that the Center had not operated at a deficit, taking in $5,000 more than was expended. Although the financial situation is still extremely tight, it is slowly improving.

Bill Snowden, vice president of treatment services, reported 2,887 new admissions for the first six months of the year. Approximately 71,937 treatments have been administered during this period.

Bright, blue eyes, with a concerned expression and a soothing voice make the 13th Air Force Junior Officer of the Quarter easy to talk to and exceptional at her job.

Working as a mental health staff nurse at the USAF Regional Medical center inpatient unit is a rewarding and challenging job, according to 1st Lt. Lela M. Holden. Talking with her for just a few minutes makes one realize, she's a natural in this field.

She claims that she works with good people and "really likes" her job. "Crisis is a real opportunity to grow and change. It's rewarding for me to see people grow and change," says the lieutenant. "It requires involvement, but objectivity."

She's a 1977 graduate from the University of Texas with a Bachelor's Degree in nursing and has nearly completed her Master's Degree work.

She does volunteer work with the Family Advisory Council Endemic, primarily focusing her attention on teaching communications skills. She also gives lectures on mental health issues at the Department of Defense

Touring Pros Enter LaJet Classic

Touring pros Bob Eastwood, Payne Stewart and George Cadle have agreed to play in the $350,000 LaJet Coors Classic, September 22-25, 1983 at the Fairway Oaks Golf and Racquet Club Tournament Director Steve Threlkeld said.

This year Eastwood has won $135,625, Stewart $76,815 and Cadle $37,041.

A familiar sight on the PGA tour scoreboards, Bob Eastwood had a fine year in 1982 with $91,633 in winnings. Eastwood's famous fast starts helped him tie for 5th Colonial Invitation, 7th Kemper Open and 9th USF&G Classic.

On the tour since 1981; last year Southern Methodist University grad Payne Stewart won the Quad Cities Open and Magnolia Classic, tied for 3rd at the Buick Open and 9th at the Danny Thomas Memphis Open to bring his winnings to $98,686 for the year.

Kentucky native George Cadle has been on the tour since 1974 and won $28,050 in 1982 after tying for 12th Georgia-Pacific Atlanta, 18th Pensacola and 22nd Hawaiian.

All proceeds from the LaJet Coors Classic benefit the West Texas Rehabilitation Center; a non-profit diagnostic and treatment facility for the handicapped. With the way the field for the 1983 Classic is already shaping up, the Rehab Center will benefit more than ever from the Classic with early commitments including Gil Morgan, Hal Sutton, Bobby Clampett, Larry Mize, Jim Simmons and Bobby Wadkins.

ATTENDS SEMINAR

Attending the Texas Farm Bureau Citizenship Seminar held July 18-22 on the campus of Angelo State University in San Angelo were (l to r) Donna Griffiths, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Griffiths; Darlene Carroll, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Carroll and Kelly McGuire, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Budge McGuire all of Welnet.

Texas Brucellosis Program To Change

Changes in the Texas brucellosis program which will allow for more freedom of movement of cattle were approved by Commissioners of the Texas Animal Health Commission. Commissioners also approved a change in procedure for establishing a certified free herd.

Three new Commissioners were present at a recent meeting of the Commission. They are Mrs. Mary Nan West, Batesville; Laurence Bostick, Brookshire; and Robert Bartlett, Canton.

As a result of the recently passed legislation relating to the Texas brucellosis program, Commissioners instructed TAHC staff to draw up proposals that could possibly apply to movement of cattle to slaughter only from a quarantined herd without testing of that herd. This regulation must conform to federal rules; at present, federal rules require that all cattle from a quarantined herd be tested.

One of the changes relating to movement of cattle is in a consignment in which there is a vaccinated animal that is a suspect on the brucellosis test. In such a situation, negative cattle in a consignment in which there is a vaccinated card test positive but rivanol or complement fixation negative suspect, may move.

In a non-infected herd of cattle which has been adult vaccinated those animals that are card test negative at the time of movement may move without restriction.

A change was also made relating to testing requirements from a C state or area or within the Texas C area. This change would allow movement of non-vaccinated cattle as follows: cattle be tested negative within 30 days prior to movement and either:

1. be from a herd in which all test eligible cattle have been together for at least 120 days and have been subjected to one negative test as a herd within the previous 365 days; or
2. be from a non-quarantined herd and have been subjected to a negative test not less than 60 nor more than 365 days before the test for movement.

In regard to certified free herds, Commissioners made this change for dairy herds; a minimum of four consecutive, negative milk ring tests conducted at not less than 90 day intervals will now be required; previously, this provision provided for three negative tests.

Regulations were also changed to make it easier to establish a certified free herd of cattle coming from a certified herd as follows: "All or part of a certified free herd purchased and moved directly to premises without other cattle may qualify without a test."

Secret of Stradivari discovered by Texas A&M chemist

COLLEGE STATION—The secret of quality violin making—lost since the time of Stradivari and his Italian colleagues—may have been rediscovered by a Texas A&M University chemist.

Dr. Joseph Nagyvary has developed a wood preservation process that he believes duplicates the effects of formulas Stradivari, Guarneri and others used in making their violins in the 17th and 18th centuries. Although less well known, Guarneri's instruments are even more remarkable than Stradivari for their tone quality, he said.

Nagyvary, professor of biophysics and biochemistry, formulated his process after analyzing a piece of a Guarneri cello under an electron microscope.

He has an agreement with master craftsmen in China and Cremona, Italy, to craft violins from wood treated with his preservation process. Nagyvary carves the inside of the instruments himself.

The instruments have been played by and received high praise from members of the Cleveland String Quartet, he said. Equally as important as their tone quality, Nagyvary's violins are affordably priced at $2,000-$5,000. A Stradivarius can cost $1 million.

Ranchers Roundup Set In San Angelo

Ranchers from throughout the nation will gather at the Convention Center in San Angelo for the 3rd Annual International Ranchers Roundup (IRR) which begins August 1 for five days of educational sessions and ranch tours.

Over 100 internationally renowned speakers from 25 states and South Africa will be on hand to share their expertise.

Headline speakers who will address the opening day general session at 1 p.m. August 1 are Dub Waldrip, National Cattleman's Association president; U.S. Representative Tom Loeffler (D-Texas); Dr. Cas Maree, animal science department chairman, University of Pretoria, South Africa; Dr. Fee Busby, range science department chairman, University of Wyoming; and Dr. Arthur Hansen, chancellor of the Texas A&M University System.

Participants have their choice of any or all of seven different concurrent sessions beginning at 8:45 a.m. August 2 continuing thru 5 p.m. August 5 in beef cattle, sheep and goats, ranch family business management, wildlife, grazing management, marketing and computerized ranching. Ranchers can attend talks in any of the sessions. Special registration rates favor ranchers and spouses. Several sessions will be repeated.

Perhaps the most important news to ranchers who have not yet made plans to attend is that IRR registration will be available in the Convention Center lobby throughout the week. The four ranch tours, however, are closed except for a few scattered seats which coordinators expect to fill early in the week. Registration information is available thru the San Angelo Convention Bureau (915/653-1206).

A special feature of the IRR will be panel and individual discussions concerning the much talked-about Savory Grazing Method, a grazing system that has attracted widespread attention throughout the Southwest.

The IRR's basic purpose is to offer the most practical comprehensive training available in all areas of ranch operation, according to coordinators Dr. LeRoy Hoermann and Dr. Larry White with the Texas A&M Agricultural Research and Extension Center in Uvalde and Robert H. Kensing, farm management specialist with the San Angelo A&M Center. All are affiliated with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the main IRR sponsor.

"Our objective is to bring together the finest minds in the ranching industry so that everyone can benefit from the assembled expertise and interchange of ideas," the coordinators explain.

"Ranchers are urged to bring their wives, ranch managers or foremen because there's just too much information generated here for one person to absorb."

Many past participants have compared the two previous conferences with Texas A&M's animal science curriculum, which is recognized as one of the nation's best, for its superb instruction, versatile program, and outstanding speakers.

This year a special "discussion session" was created to allow participating ranchers to visit informally one-on-one with certain speakers for more in-depth discussions of specific problems.

Aggie Architect Designing House With Cheap Utility Bills

Texas A&M University architect is designing a house that will be cool in summer and warm in winter with the goal of using less than $30 a month for energy.

Raymond Reed, professor of architecture and a member of the American Institute of Architects' Task Force on Energy Conservation, is drawing up plans for the house which will eventually be built in Port Arthur as part of a project sponsored by Gulf States Utilities.

Although Reed has not completed the designs, he said the house will have a double roof that will be a shading device in the summer and a heating device in the winter.

When completed, Reed's design will be made available to the public.

Know When To Contact Social Security Office

People in the Big Country area should be aware of when they should get in touch with Social Security. Glyn Hammons, Social Security district manager in Abilene, said recently.

The first time most people contact Social Security is to apply for a Social Security number. A person should remember to allow at least 2 weeks to get a number. Everyone must present evidence of his or her age, identity, and citizenship or immigrant status. A person 18 or older must apply in person.

After getting a Social Security number, most people probably will not think of Social Security until they, or someone they know, may be eligible for benefits, Hammons said. A person should contact Social Security:

*If someone in the family dies, to see if survivor benefits can be paid.

*If a worker become disabled to see if disability benefits can be paid.

*At retirement, if the person is 62 or older.

*Two or 3 months before reaching 65, to arrange for Medicare health insurance protection.

*Whenever a person has any questions about Social Security.

There is a variety of free publications available at the Abilene Social Security office. They describe the various kind of Social Security benefits and when they can be paid.

The people at the Abilene Social Security office will be glad to answer any questions about Social Security. The office is located at 142 S. Pioneer and the telephone number is 698-1360.

Jerry Snelling Named Recipient Of Allison Journalism Grant

Sixteen students have been named recipients of Allison Journalism grants to attend Midland College for the 1983-84 academic year. Four of the students are sophomores returning to Midland College, while the other 12 are incoming freshmen.

"These scholarship recipients have been chosen because of their interest in some aspect of journalism, plus recommendations from their high school journalism teachers," pointed out Ralph Sellmeyer, Allison Professor of Journalism at Midland College.

The scholarships provide tuition, fees, and books for two semesters and may be renewed for a second year. In addition, several of the students may be selected for paid staff positions with one of the Midland College student publications.

"I am excited about this freshman group and their potential," Sellmeyer said. "They have a wide variety of experiences in high school publications to contribute to our program. And our sophomores demonstrated their capabilities last year in producing outstanding publications. With a larger group this fall, we anticipate publication of the student newspaper on a more frequent basis than has been possible in the past."

Freshmen students who have accepted the Allison Journalism Scholarships include:

Patty Cooper of Midland, who has been working this summer on a special edition of the college newspaper which greets students at the start of the fall term.

"Patty has been out of school a number of years, but has been active in writing for clubs and organizations in Midland. She now has decided to pursue a journalism career," said Sellmeyer.

Trini Rodriguez of Kermit also has accepted an Allison Journalism Scholarship. She is a graduate of Kermit High School, where she was on the school's newspaper staff three years, including being its editor when she was a senior.

Tips To Help Children Understand Death

All children are faced with death sometime.

It might be a bug or a bird on the sidewalk, a family pet, or a loved person. In any case, it is important to help children understand about death and deal with the feelings of loss it brings, according to Growing Child, the monthly child development newsletter.

Most children want to talk about death. Parents should recognize this as healthy.

All too often parents tend to ignore, dismiss or fail to respond adequately to their children's questions regarding death. Inadequate or faulty answers may create emotional confusion and future problems. For example, if a child is told that God took away a loved one because that person was so precious, the child may wish to die himself. Or the child may feel unloved because God did not choose to take him. Here are some guidelines for telling children about death.

*Tell the truth by explaining at a level the child will understand. This allows children to cope with their feelings, fears, emotions.

*Answer a question with a question when you aren't quite sure what the child wants to know. For example, when you get a question like "What will happen to me if you die?" you can counter with, "What do you think will happen?" This permits children to amplify their concerns and express whatever anxieties are present.

*Use your knowledge of nature to talk about the cycle involving life and death. Gardening and animal care both offer opportunities to observe and discuss quite naturally the issues of growth, sickness, aging, accidents, death.

*Allow children to openly mourn the loss of a pet, and don't attempt to ease the loss by quickly replacing the pet. Such a gesture suggests that life is cheap and pets or people can be replaced easily and casually.

In the case of a child who loses a parent or grandparent, there are other guidelines:

*The remaining parent or close relatives must provide an atmosphere where it is permissible for the child to mourn openly. The suppression of feelings is not healthy.

*Do not exclude children from the funeral ceremony or visit to the cemetery. Because children are not well-informed about death, they are unable to accept the finality of their loss unless they have concrete experiences. However painful it is to the child and remaining parent, it is essential that the child realize that the dead parent is not going to return. Explaining beforehand what will happen at the funeral and cemetery will make the experience less frightening.

*Keep the memories of the dead parent alive with pictures and other mementos. They serve as a source of comfort to the child.

*Explain the cause of death to the child at the level he will understand. It is possible that children who are deprived of this information may believe that they were responsible, that when they were angry or naughty, they brought about the parent's death.

For more information on the physical and social development of children up to the age of six, write to Growing Child, P.O. Box 620N, Lafayette, IN 47902. When writing, include child's birthdate. A year's subscription to the Growing Child newsletter is $11.95.

Older Homeowners Have Opportunity To Turn Home Equity Into Income

If you are one of the 12.5 million Americans over the age of 65 who owns a house, that house is probably your largest asset. After putting a lot of time and money into it over the years, you could be in a financial situation where it would be nice to get some of that investment back.

To assist elderly homeowners who want to convert the value of their house into a monthly income, the U.S. Senate Special Committee on Aging has published a booklet called Turning Home Equity Into Income For Older Homeowners. For your copy, send $3.00 to the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 235L, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

There are financing methods currently available that allow older homeowners to unlock the value, or equity, in their homes without having to move or repay loans right away. One method of financing allows you to sell your house, but still stay in it. It is an arrangement called sale/leaseback. With this plan you sell your house and receive a lump sum payment or a monthly income. The important point is that as part of the contract you are allowed to live in the house for the rest of your life by paying a monthly rent. The only difference is that now you have the extra cash to improve your standard of living or to pay for fixtures, such as handrails, that you may need to remain self-sufficient. And, after your death the property is taken over by the owner.

If you don't want to sell because you want to keep your house in the family, there is no need for worry. Sale/leaseback arrangements make it possible for a family member to be the buyer. That way, you are taken care of financially and your house is secure for your descendants.

One advantage of a sale/leaseback is that all the terms and agreements are specified in the beginning. You are able to plan your future with more certainty, by budgeting for major expenses and saving for those unexpected ones.

There are two types of loans for older homeowners who want to cash in on the equity in their home and still retain property ownership. One, called the deferred payment loan, allows the borrower to receive a lump sum of money, but to hold off on repayment of all interest and principal until a specified future date or until the house is sold.

The second type of loan is called a reverse annuity mortgage. It is like a conventional mortgage loan, but in reverse. Homeowners receive monthly payments based on the value of the house. At a specified future date, the loan must be repaid. Usually homeowners plan to repay reverse annuity mortgages when they sell their home.

Older homeowners can use loans for any use they like. For example, they can convert extra space into a rental room. Or, the added income can also be used to supplement monthly living expenses.

While there are a variety of methods available to older homeowners for turning home equity into cash, they are not right for everyone. There are both risks and costs involved. Before deciding to participate in any of these plans, it is important to seek legal and financial advice.

For more information send for a copy of Turning Home Equity Into Income For Older Homeowners ($3.00). At the same time, you will also receive a copy of the free Consumer Information Catalog. Published quarterly by the Consumer Information Center of the General Service Administration, the Catalog lists over 200 selected free and moderately priced useful federal consumer booklets.

Money Matters

A Series Of Informative "Plain Talk" Thoughts Regarding Your Money Matters

You Taught Us A Lot About Farming

Over the years you've taught us a lot about farming. We've made the loans necessary for you to try the new methods and new equipment that have come along. You've made the deposits which have helped us to grow. It's a good relationship.

Recently you may have been hearing a lot of advertising about Mutual Money Market Funds. We feel it is our responsibility to let you know that these funds are uninsured investments. Their rates may fluctuate. An investment in a mutual fund goes out of the community and in many cases is re-invested in volatile foreign markets where guarantees are virtually impossible.

The Money Market certificates that we offer are insured by FDIC. The rate of return is guaranteed. Your investment with us is made available to our area farmers in ag loans.

You've taught us everything we know about farming. We hope to return the favor with sound financial advice. There is a substantial penalty for early withdrawal on Money Market Certificates.
