Roberson was also nominated by the members of the Haskell County Democratic Committee for a position on the ballot. Roberson served as Haskell County Judge from 1967 to 1979. He was the only person submitting an application for the position to either the Commissioners Court or the Democratic Committee.

Haskell City Sales Tax Receipts Down 1 Percent

State Comptroller Bob Bullock today sent checks totaling $98.3 million in local sales tax payments to 988 cities that levy the one percent sales tax.

Although bookkeeping changes that were part of last year's tax deadline speedups made the August 1984 payment smaller than the previous August payment, Bullock said year-to-date comparisons can be made accurately.

"This 12 and a half percent increase is honest growth over last year because both this August payment and last August's are based on all sales reported during the first half of both years," Bullock said.

Houston received the largest check, $17.1 million, bringing Houston's yearly total to $99.3 million. Dallas' check was for $11.7 million. Dallas has received $66.9 million so far this year.

San Antonio's check was for $6.1 million, a 6.1 percent increase over the July 1983 payment. Austin received $4.3 million, boosting that city's total for the year to $24.1 million. The Fort Worth payment was $3.5 million.

Midland received $911,000, bringing the yearly total to $5.3 million, ahead of last year's total through August by 10.7 percent.

Bullock also sent checks to the four Metropolitan Transit Authorities. Houston MTA received $19.5 million, bringing the total for 1984 to $114.6 million. DART's check was for $15.9 million. San Antonio's VIA payment was $3.3 million, and the Fort Worth Transit Authority received $799,000.

The August checks were for taxes collected on sales made in June and the second quarter and reported to the Comptroller by July 20.

Rule ISD To Lose Funds Under H.B. 72

BY DON COMEDY
Free Press Editor

(Editor's Note: This is the fourth in a series of articles intended to discuss the impact of H.B. 72 on the local school districts in Haskell County. This week we will look at the impact on Rule ISD.)

With the adoption of H.B. 72, the people of Texas were told we would have a "world class school system". Taxpayers in the state were also told that for the first time in 13 years, state taxes would be raised to pay the costs of the new education reform bill.

Whether or not the new bill will create a "world class school system" remains to be seen, but you don't have to look at the bill long to determine that the raise in state taxes will not come close to funding the program.

Under the new law, Rule ISD will receive about $37,000.00 more state funds this year than they received last year.

Current estimates indicate that implementation of H.B. 72 in Rule ISD will mandate about $130,000.00 more than last year. This indicates that the new law will require about $94,000.00 in new funds to be raised locally.

The new costs in H.B. 72 include about $50,000 in mandated teacher pay raises; $47,500.00 loss in special education funds; $11,500.00 reduction in vocational education funding; $12,000.00 loss for nurse, librarian and counselor; $4,500.00 for after school tutorial program; and $6,000.00 for first year career ladder funding.

Based on current values in Rule ISD, it appears that the additional costs of H.B. 72 over the increase in state funds will require a local tax increase of .24¢. A budget for the 1984-85 school year has not been adopted and a tax rate has not been set. Administrators and board members are currently looking closely at a proposed budget which includes major cuts in supply budgets, maintenance and capital expenditures. It will not be until after a final budget is approved that board members will be able to determine how much of a tax increase will be necessary for the school to operate under H.B. 72.

Another problem facing the district this year resulted in a loss of about $6 million in property values due to a decline in mineral values. The district is currently faced with raising taxes from .63¢ last year to .74¢ this year in order to raise the same amount of money. Ironically, that boost in the tax rate would not be reported as an increase in taxes since under the truth in taxation law it would raise the same amount of money as the previous year.

It appears that all school districts in this area are faced with the same problem as agriculture production has fallen so drastically during the past several years. Current estimates are that as much as 20% of the ag use values may be lost in Haskell County due to the loss in agricultural production. Ag use values are calculated on a five year period and following the end of this year 1979 production amounts will be dropped.

The loss in value and not enough additional state funding to pay for mandated program changes has created a budgeting nightmare.

With a total projected budget of about $670,000.00 not including federal funds, extra curricular activities and lunchroom funds, the impact of H.B. 72 on Rule ISD appears to mandate an increase of about 20% of the total budget.

In addition to the planned budget cuts in supplies, maintenance and capital outlay, several other changes are planned for this school year.

One new planned change is cutting vocational homemaking to a one-half day program. It appears that vocational agriculture may have to be changed drastically if vocational funding is not changed in the next session of the legislature.

Other changes will probably have to be made in teacher schedules to comply with requirements mandating a special tutorial program during the regular school year.

A problem with the new law is now being observed with state funding. A spokesman with the Texas Education Agency told the Free Press Tuesday that equalization transition aid will cost more than originally projected. Because of the shortage in funding the districts will only receive 75% of the amount originally projected for equalization transition aid.

The impact of H.B. 72 on Rule ISD has created serious problems both in funding and in necessary program changes. At the present time implementation of the bill is a primary concern and the long range effects of the bill can not even be considered.

Next week we will look at the impact of H.B. 72 on Paint Creek and Weinert Districts.

Ag Census Reports Decrease In Farms

Preliminary reports of the 1982 Census of Agriculture show that the number of farms in Haskell county decreased from 740 to 670 since the 1978 census. All land in farms totaled 453,623 acres in 1982, and average of 677 acres per farm. The Census Bureau defines a farm as any place from which $1,000 or more of agricultural products were sold or normally would have been sold.

Land from which crops were harvested increased to 203,912 acres since 1978.

The county's farmers sold $22.1 million in agricultural products according to preliminary reports from the 1982 Census of Agriculture. The 1982 sales figure represents an average of $33,005 for each of the county's farms.

The census reports that $18.7 million or 84 percent of total sales were for crops, while $3.4 million or 16 percent of the total came from the sale of livestock, poultry, and their products.

Preliminary data indicate that expenditures for feed for livestock and poultry were $363,000; total farm energy costs were $3.9 million; fertilizer costs were $631,000; and seed costs were $1.1 million.

Of the total farms in the county, 176 had gross sales of $40,000 or more; 218 reported sales of less than $10,000. Farms operated as sole proprietorships represented 89 percent of the total. In 1982, the average age of farm operators was 51.0 years. The proportion of operators reporting farming as their principal occupation remained essentially unchanged at 74 percent since 1978.

Data in the report for 1978 and 1982 are directly comparable for acreages and inventories. Dollar values have not been adjusted for changes in price levels.

Preliminary reports can be obtained from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402.

The center of the altar area held a 45-branch brass candelabra accented with Lily of the Valley. A basket of exquisite carnations, daisies, leatris, stock, gladiolas, killion and springrei accented each side of the candelabra. Pew markers of mini carnations, daisies, smilax and greenery completed the setting.

The bride's Matron of Honor was Tina Morris, of Haskell. Bridesmaids were Sharon Bird, Tamala Drinnon and Gina Turnbow, all of Haskell.

Best man was Tyrus Gross of Austin. Groomsman were Robert Brown, of Albany, brother-in-law of the groom, Kevin Whittemore of Stamford, and Kerry Whittemore of Albany, both brothers of the groom. Ushers were Steven Bird of Haskell and Murry Davis of Hawley.

The groom's second cousin

Caleb Brown of Haskell was ring-bearer and Marci Elmore of Haskell, was flower girl. The ring-bearer wore a black classic tux and the flower girl wore a white eyelet knee-length dress accented with a headpiece and lilac entwining ribbon.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and mother of Haskell. She was escorted down the aisle by her father. She wore an original gown designed by Phyllis for Bianchi of embroidered silk organza in white. The fitted bodice with crown collar and long traditional sleeves were embroidered in patterns of flowers. An extra band of embroidery and silk flowers were added at the neckline and the same repeated on the sleeves.

The full trumpet skirt that was in tiers in the back was enhanced with extra embroidery at the hemline that was in dainty scallops.

She wore a picture hat of matching embroidered organza with a long veil of imported English illusion. She carried an arm bouquet of purple asters, gladiolas, lavender carnations, purple statice, purple iris, lavender roses and baby's breath trimmed with French lavender ribbon.

In keeping with tradition, the bride wore matching pearl earrings belonging to her grandmother, Mrs. Fannie Bivins of Abilene as something old. Her wedding dress was something new. Something borrowed was a gold bracelet that belonged to her cousin. She wore a blue garter and a sixpence on her shoe. The bride also presented a La Vanta rose to her mother and the groom's mother.

Her maids wore identical T-length lilac taffeta dresses covered in lace. The fitted bodice had a high neckline and puffed short sleeves. A lilac bow sash accented the waistline. Lilac woven hats with bustle veils and lilac matching gloves along with white lace shoes complimented their attire. They each carried an arm bouquet of purple asters, gladiolus, exquisite mini purple carnations, purple iris, lavender roses, baby's breath and purple statice with picot ribbons.

The groom wore a white Saratoga tux with tails, a white wing tip pleated shirt, with a white bow tie and white pleated cummerbund. He wore a La Vanta lilac rose with baby's breath as a boutonniere. The best man and groomsman wore black classic tuxes with white wing-tip shirts, lilac bow ties, and lilac pleated cummerbunds. The bride's and groom's fathers both wore black classic tuxes with black bow ties. The each wore a purple rose with baby's breath for boutonnières.

The bride's mother chose a mauve T-length dress of satin with an overlay of matching sheer chiffon enhanced with sequin edging, matching pearl accessories. The groom's mother wore a deep mauve chiffon dress with a top overlay and pleated shirt. The waist was accented by a small belt. Her dress was enhanced by long sleeves, a V-line neckline and accessories. Their ensembles were complimented with corsages of La Vanta roses accented with baby's breath and greenery.

Christy Davis of Hawley registered guests at the wedding.

The bride's mother hosted the reception in the fellowship hall of the church. Karla Gust of Wichita Falls, Patty Durham of Wichita Falls, and Rochie Spraberry of Anson served at the bride's table. April Turner of Haskell, Melissa Brown of Clyde and Gina Whitaker of Snyder served at the groom's table.

The bride's bouquet marked the table, covered with a lilac table cloth with a baby lace skirt. The 4-tier wedding cake was ornamented by real flowers of mini carnations, roses, daisies, baby's breath, statics, and springrei all of blending lilac colors. Punch was served from a crystal punch bowl. A centerpiece of stock roses, mini carnations, daisies and baby's breath accented the scene and other crystal appointments carried out the decor of the table.

A chocolate cake topped with a brass cricket box surrounded by grapes was served from the groom's table where silver appointments were used. Coffee was served from a crystal coffee urn. A basket of mini carnations, stock roses, daisies and baby's breath formed the centerpiece. The table was covered by a floor length lilac table cloth covered with a white lace skirt.

The groom's second cousin Eathan Brown and the bride's nephew, Damon Drinnon passed out rice bags at the reception.

Encourage Self-Concept In Young Children

Self-concept is the way we think about ourselves and the feelings we have about ourselves. These thoughts and feelings can be positive or they can be negative. The person who has positive thoughts and feelings is said to have a healthy self-concept.

As adults, we can control and influence our feelings about ourselves. We can accept or reject others' opinions. We can monitor the events in our lives that cause us to feel one way or the other about ourselves.

A young child's self-concept, though, is determined mostly by the "messages" he receives from others, particularly his mother and father, according to Growing Child, the monthly child development newsletter. These messages can be deliberate or unconscious, verbal or non-verbal.

Sometimes the message the child receives is not what the parents really intend. For example, a parent may insist on doing everything for the child, even the most simple things the child could do for himself. The parent thinks he or she is sending the message: "I'm doing all these things for you because I love you."

But really, the unconscious, non-verbal message the child may be getting is: "Always rely on Mom and Dad to do everything for you because you're dumb and helpless."

To understand a child's self-concept you have to try to see the world from his perspective. Even very young children are very occupied with developing competence—that is, learning to do things themselves. It is this continued striving for competence that pushes children to try new challenges and lead them from one stage of development to the next.

Parents can watch for the things a child can do for himself and encourage him to do them, even if he cannot do them perfectly. The more he learns to do for himself, the more positive his self-concept will be.

One of the most important factors in the development of self-concept is the parent's attitudes towards the child's successes and failures. If the most important people in his life view him as "dumb" or "helpless," it will be almost impossible for him to develop positive feelings of self-worth. Mockery and sarcasm are like the hot sun that causes a flower to wither. But praise is like the nurturing food that helps the self-concept develop and blossom.

The Growing Child newsletter follows a child's development month-by-month, from birth to six years old. For more information and a free sample newsletter, write to Growing Child, P.O. Box 620N, Lafayette, Indiana 47902. Include child's birthdate when writing.

Tips For Conserving Water In The Bathroom

Do you like to take long, hot showers? How about long, luxurious bubblebaths in a tub full of water? Well, those relaxing moments may make you a water hog and are probably costing you money as well, both in water and energy costs, cautions a family resource management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The bathroom may be the smallest room in the house, but that's where most of a family's water use takes place—about 75 percent actually, notes Mary Clayton

Nance, the Extension specialist. "Nearly half of a family's water use flushes the toilet, but another 30 percent is used in bathing."

There are several ways to save water in the bathroom, and because much of the water used in the bathroom is hot water, it is one place where conserving water can also help you save energy, she said.

"A typical shower without a water-saving shower head uses five to 10 gallons of water each minute, so try to keep the length of your showers to around five minutes. A kitchen timer can be used to remind you and other members of your family when it's time to turn the water off," she advised.

Turning the water off while you soap up or shampoo also saves water and energy. Some shower heads have a cut-off button so that you can shut off the water temporarily without turning off the water faucets. This allows you to maintain the preferred water temperature without keeping the water running while you shampoo. If your shower head does not have a cut-off button, you can purchase a flow cut-off valve which can easily be installed onto most shower heads, Mrs. Nance said.

Some shower heads have water-saving flow restrictors built into them which limit the amount of water which can flow through the shower head. However, you can install a flow restrictor into any shower head easily and inexpensively. A faucet washer can be installed in place of a flow restrictor and will do the job for about a two-cent investment.

"If you prefer tub baths, don't fill the bathtub too full—one-fourth of a tub should be enough. Every inch of water in the tub represents about 4½ gallons of water, so a half-filled tub uses about 25 gallons of water." Put the stopper in the drain before turning on the water, the Extension specialist advised. Waiting for the water to warm up before stopping the drain wastes water, she noted.

"And don't forget about saving water when you give your teeth a bath, either. Don't let the water run the entire time you brush your teeth because each minute that the water is on, four or five gallons of water are running down the drain," she said.

Keep Backyard Pools Safe For Swimmers

Backyard pools are very inviting on hot, summer days, but the cool water can be a fatal enticement for small children or young, inexperienced swimmers. Even adults perish because of carelessness or bad decisions.

Small children should never be left unattended or unsupervised by a responsible adult when near a swimming pool, advises the Texas Department of Health. Toddlers and small children may be unaware of the dangerous aspects of swimming pools, and a drowning can occur in a matter of minutes—even in very shallow water. A person who leaves a child alone in or near a pool for just a brief moment, even while answering the telephone or checking food on a cookstove, may return to find that a drowning has occurred. One of the best things a parent can do for a child is to give the child swimming lessons at an early age. Pool owners can help prevent accidents and keep the summer safe and enjoyable by putting these tips into practice:

1. Secure your pool with an adequate enclosure at least four feet high.
2. Provide responsible supervision for children at all times.
3. Enforce pool rules that prohibit roughhousing.
4. Mark the depth of the water on the pool deck and walls to show swimmers where they can dive and jump safely. Above-ground pools generally are too shallow to allow diving.
5. Keep rescue equipment—reaching (poles) and throwing aids—on both sides of the pool. Instruct swimmers in their use.
6. Make sure floating toys and mattresses are treated as toys—not lifejackets.
7. Empty all water from wading pools and turn them upside down when you are finished with them.
8. Never allow anyone to swim alone.

Following these tips can produce a safe atmosphere in which to enjoy your pool during the hot summer ahead.

17th Annual Sayles-Centerpoint School Reunion Held Recently

Ex-students traveled from as far away as East Longmeadow, Mass. and Winnemucca, Nevada; Oklahoma and several cities in Texas, to attend the 17th annual Sayles-Centerpoint School Homecoming held in the Community Room of the Haskell National Bank.

The group assembled at 9:30 a.m. on Sunday, August 5, and were registered by Dessa Jeter and Bill Pennington.

Coffee and a variety of cakes was enjoyed as the ex-students and families of the two communities greeted old friends and classmates.

In the good ole days some students had to walk three miles to school, rain or shine, snow or dust. We always arrived a few minutes early so we could practice basketball. There was strong rivalry between the two schools at that time on the basketball court. The two schools are just one big family now.

The invocation was given by Mr. W.R. Barrington. The delicious lunch was served to 65 by the Haskell Steak House.

Several ex-students and friends came by after lunch to enjoy the program presented by the Robert Elmore family of Breckenridge.

A variety of songs, comical readings and skits was presented by the group including precious memories.

A memorial service was held for seven ex-students whose names were added in our book of memories. Mr. Myrt Martin of San Angel gave the memorial prayer.

The Wiseman family of the Sayles school had the largest number present and the Bland family had the largest number from Centerpoint School.

Woodrow Wiseman, ex-student of Sayles traveled the longest distance from East Longmeadow, Mass.

Clyde Bland ex-student of Sayles was the oldest student present.

Officers elected for the 1984 reunion were Clyde Bland president; Doris (Felker) Hannsz, secretary; and Claudia Mae Bland, chairman.

The reunion will be held the first Sunday in August 1985.

'Texas' Musical Is Different In Many Ways

There is no other place like it, and there is no other show as spectacular, as moving, and as entertaining. There is no other "out-of-the-way" attraction that is so appealing.

The name of the show is "Texas," and it plays nightly, except Sunday, in Palo Duro Canyon State Park. It is different from the ordinary in many ways.

First, the backdrop is a 600 foot cliff. Not many theatres can boast hugh boulders, living juniper trees, covered wagons and trains as props.

And the cast...Not only are the eighty performers swalloved by the vast expanse of stage area, but there is also plenty of room for horses, cows, and an Indian tribe.

The special effects do indeed make "Texas" unique. Nowhere else on Earth is struck by lightning six nights a week at 9:47 P.M. No place else is beset by prairie fire each evening. There are other places that have fireworks, but rarely do those explosions raise the "goose bumps" like the pyrotechnics at "Texas."

"Texas" is a most special place. Visitors in 1984 have discovered it to be the ideal place to celebrate anniversaries, birthdays, holidays, and family reunions. Senior citizens, girl scouts, conventioners, and foreign exchange students have all thrilled to the show's excitement.

There is still time to see "Texas" in 1984. The show plays until August 25 near Amarillo and Canyon. Tickets are reasonably priced and can be reserved by calling 806-655-2181 or writing P.O. Box 268, Canyon, Texas 79015.

PUBLIC NOTICE

AT&T Communications has filed with the Public Utility Commission (PUC) of Texas to introduce a new intrastate, optional long distance service to begin August 1, 1984, the same date "Reach Out® America" plan will be available for interstate calls.*

A new service designed to give customers the opportunity to reduce the cost of long distance in Texas has been filed with the state PUC by AT&T Communications of the Southwest, Inc.

"Reach Out® Texas" is an optional calling plan which will provide additional discounts on long distance rates for Texas customers who frequently place calls in the evening, weekend, and night time calling periods.

The new "Reach Out® Texas" plan for the first time extends the benefits of competition to many Texas consumers who previously have not had any discounted long distance service available to them.

AT&T Communications customers who choose this new optional service will pay a monthly charge of $14 which entitles them to one hour of intrastate "Direct Dialed" (1+) calling during the weekend and night rate period.

An additional customer savings for those participating in the plan will be that any Direct Dialed calls placed during the weekend and night rate period that exceeds the one hour period will be charged at an hourly rate of $12, or $.20 per minute.

Customers selecting this option also receive an additional 15 percent discount for intrastate Direct Dialed calls during the evening discount rate period for a total savings of approximately 38 percent.

A one-time charge of $6 is billed when a customer orders the "Reach Out® Texas" plan. The $6 is collected by AT&T Communications and paid to the local telephone company to establish the service. This charge will be waived during the first 90 days that the offering is available.

AT&T Communications is proud to offer this optional service for its Texas long distance customers and will in the future continue to introduce cost cutting programs to help Texans reduce their long distance bills.

A complete copy of the "Reach Out® Texas" tariff and rate schedule is on file with the Texas Public Utility Commission at Austin, Texas.

AT&T Communications estimates that the revenue impact of this new service would be significantly less than 2.5 percent of annual gross revenues.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene or participate or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information also may be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Consumer Affairs Division at (512) 458-0223 or (512) 458-0227, or (512) 458-0221, teletypewriter for the deaf.

*Customer billing for the optional calling plan will be provided for AT&T Communications through billing contracts with the local telephone companies. Therefore, the introduction of these rate plans into a specific area is contingent upon local company billing capabilities. Southwestern Bell Telephone Company has agreed to handle the billing in its service areas effective August 1, 1984.

Low Water Levels Harbor Disease-Causing Amebas

A case of primary amebic meningoencephalitis has occurred in a twelve-year-old Uvalde boy who, reportedly, swam in the Frio River at Garner State Park, Uvalde County. This form of meningitis is caused by free-living Naegleria or Acanthameba amebas, normally found in many fresh-water ponds, lakes, and rivers. They multiply rapidly in stagnant waters at temperatures between 85 and 100°F.

Human illness may result within seven to ten days after exposure to the amebas. Infections may be acquired when infested water gets into the nasal passages. Primary amebic meningoencephalitis is characterized by sudden onset of headache, fever, nausea, vomiting, and stiff neck; almost always, death occurs within ten days.

In Texas, two cases of this disease were reported in 1980 (Travis and Polk Counties) and one case in 1983 (Bexar County resident). The disease is extremely rare. In one study, the risk of acquiring the disease by swimming in infested lakes was estimated to be less than one in 2.5 million exposures.

Cases are most likely to occur when temperatures are high and water levels low, conditions which lead to stagnation and multiplication of the amebas. Even under these conditions, clinical infection is rare. Any body of water which is or becomes stagnant can support rapid growth of these amebas. This includes lakes, ponds, rivers, and even swimming pools which are improperly or inadequately treated.

Why only one swimmer in over two million is infected is unknown. It may be pure chance or some anatomical or immunological abnormality which allows the ameba access. There is no way to predict who might become infected. It is not practical to attempt to place all potential sites of exposure off-limits for swimming. The actual risk is lower than many risks the public accepts every day. Therefore, the Texas Department of Health can only warn of the possibility and request that local health departments and the news media join it to inform the public regarding the conditions of local bodies of water used for swimming. Each individual and, in the case of children, parents must make the decision as to whether swimming in stagnant water under present conditions is worth the risk involved.

Weevils and other woes associated with cotton production have been a major concern to the scientists at the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Lubbock. While the station celebrates its 75th birthday on the High Plains this year, Lubbock researchers note the progress made in boll weevil suppression.

"For a long time, there was not a boll weevil threat to the High Plains area," said Dr. D.R. Rummel, entomologist at the Lubbock station.

The first boll weevil was found above the Caprock in 1959 and it was not until the 1963 growing season that severe weevil damage occurred in fields along the eastern margins of the High Plains.

A cooperative boll weevil suppression program was initiated in 1964 by the Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, the USDA, the Texas Department of Agriculture and Texas Tech University. Rummel said the basis for the program was to prevent the western spread of the boll weevil into the High Plains.

The program has had total cooperation from federal agencies and farmers throughout the area, Rummel said. "It is the largest cooperative insect control program in relation to a row crop and has continued longer than any other program."

Now titled the Diapause Boll Weevil Suppression Program, it is designed to destroy potential overwintering weevils before they enter overwintering habitat in the fall. The diapause control technique is based on the theory that insecticide application just before and during the harvest period will reduce the overwintering boll weevil population.

Now in its 21st year, the program is continuing, Rummel said. "From an economic standpoint as well as an environmental standpoint, the program has been a success." Money has been saved through the reduction of insecticide use. Insecticides are used in a manner to have least impact on beneficial insects, and their populations rebound each season, he said. "We haven't seen any detrimental effects to wildlife as a result of this program."

Rummel said the boll weevil suppression program is unique in the cooperation of those directly and indirectly involved. The effort is financed by producers paying a small price per bale of cotton they produce and the USDA matching that amount.

"Farmers are paying into the program although many of them have never seen a boll weevil. They pay to prevent the insect," Rummel said. "Many support the program as a form of inexpensive insurance to keep the boll weevil off their farms."

Research conducted at the TAES at Lubbock has allowed for improvement of the program through the years, Rummel said. "We are now treating a much smaller acreage."

Changes made in the program are based on a better understanding of the insect, he said. Scientists have found that the insecticide applications once applied in August and September may be postponed until late September or early October. "There is a need to start treating early. Under average temperatures, few weevils leave the cotton for overwintering sites prior to late September," Rummel said.

As the boll weevil suppression program and research continue, more recent work concerned with the bollworm Rummel said. "Three to four years ago we knew little about the behavior of the bollworm in the High Plains. We're working now to get a better understanding of the ecology of this pest."

A&M researcher working on system to assess injury

COLLEGE STATION — A Texas A&M University researcher is laying groundwork to create a detection system to determine an unconscious soldier's condition during a chemical attack without removing his protective garments.

Dr. Charles Lessard, an associate professor of bioengineering and retired Air Force lieutenant colonel, says "state-of-the-art" instruments might be adapted to help assess a soldier's condition in a battlefield situation. Lessard now hopes to develop such a detection system for the Air Force.

The research indicates that there is an area at the neck of the suits under which a small medical instrument could be placed on skin at the throat area.

"Now we're trying to determine what information we can get at the throat area," Lessard said.
