Stenholm Won't Seek Speakership

Congressman Charles W. Stenholm, recognizing that the votes were just not there and that the game plan for Democrats in the 99th Congress will be changed. decided Monday not to challenge Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill for Speaker of the House.

Stenholm said, "After much discussion this weekend, I realized the coach of the Democratic team would not be changed at this time. However the speaker has agreed to support changes in the legislative process. In light of that fact and the Speaker's announced retirement in two years, a challenge would not be helpful. It could be destructive and certainly would not be constructive. And my hope all along has been to make a productive contribution that will allow us a place at the table.

At a Monday press conference, the Stamford Democrat said the Speaker had made some assurances. He said O'Neill had promised to give conservative Democrats a bigger part in the legislative and leadership process. This includes the formation of a yet-unnamed advisory panel.

The Speaker admitted that the views of many congressmen, including members of the Conservative Democratic Forum which Stenholm had founded, had not been listened to adequately in the past. The Speaker also challenged the congressmen to make recommendations and contributions to the party's success, which Stenholm said they would be

The decision was not an easy one for the recently re-elected congressman. He received calls in support this weekend. However, he said when the votes were added, the numbers needed to unseat O'Neill, were not there. After a constructive meeting Monday of the Conservative Democratic Forum, Stenholm said he called the Speaker and informed him of his decision.

"I still believe that the coach should have stepped down," Stenholm said. "When a team loses, the coach has to take some of the blame. They have to take credit for the fumbles as well as the touchdowns. But this was not to be so I look forward to helping with a better game plan in the 99th

The following was written by a Denton High School student.

What Happened To Santa?

'Twas the night before Christmas And all through the school, Not a teacher was stirring Not a kid was breaking a rule. The sweatsocks were hung By the office with care In the hopes that Saint Nick Soon would appear, The students were home All nestled in bed With visions of finals Far from their heads. I had finished my shopping And was well out of cash So into the Denton High office I decided to crash. When all of sudden There arose such a clatter I sprang from Ivan's desk

To see what was the matter. Away to the window I flew like a shot Tore open the blind and peeked at the lot. The moon on the breast Of the freshly cut lawn Made me realize "Hey, it ain't dawn!" When what to my wondering eyes should appear But something that made me Lose all Christmas cheer. I thought it was Saint Nick But saw to my woe Instead in his place Was H. Ross Perot! I looked at his sleigh team And with shock I saw The "Horseshoe" staff It left me in awe.

Now Nancy, now Sharon, Now Karen and Rae, On Mike, on Chris On Paul and Andre. To the top of the gym To the top of the school

To ponder a new regulation Perhaps a new rule. So up to the school top The staff, they flew With a sleigh full of changes And Ross Perot, too.

And then in a flash I heard up on top, Obviously, the sleigh Had come to a stop. As I turned my head And was looking about From the elevator doors

Perot popped out. There was a man in a three-piece With six small computers attached to each boot. "Greetings from me and greetings to you,'

"Six courses in algebra and trig should do! A bundle of policies

He had flung on his back And looked rather odd With a half-filled sack. And then I realized What was at stake, He was going to leave somethings

But more he would take. The things he was to leave Did not have great mass The first thing I saw Was a 70 to pass! Then he took the pep rally Apathy will grow strong. The students will be bored. The days will drag long. From his sack he pulled Another thing to fear, Perot was now trying To lengthen the school year. He scooped up the band And sank the swim team Let the air out of fooball. I wanted to scream. Out went the basketball And vocations, too. Would there be anything left For the students to do? A wink of his eye And a twist of his head Soon gave me to know I had something to dread. He spoke not a word But went straight to his task

He jumped to his sleigh. To his staff gave a whistle, Away they all flew Like an MX missle.

Cut out the fun things

And pushing a button

On the elevator door,

I realized to my despair

School fun was no more.

What else?, you might ask.

And I heard to my horror The expression he made, "Extracurricular activities are All that's left is your grade!"

According to Darold Roberson, the chief Goodfellow, the entire project was a great success, and he stated at the end of the project that he was "very pleased" about the outcome. Sixty families were given toys, food, and coats. This is an increase of twelve families from last year's number of 48.

In addition to all of the personal contributions which the many citizens of Haskell made to the Goodfellows, the Lions Club also wishes to thank Mrs. Baird's Bread, courtesy of Mr. and Mrs. Mike New, for the bread which was donated for the food boxes; the several Sunday School classes from the various churches in town who donated food, toys, and clothing, and also thanks goes to the Trinity Lutheran Church, who donated a large amount food and toys to the Goodfellows drive this year. Also assisting in the food drive for the Goodfellows was the Porthole Restaurant, who gave away a free drink for each can of food donated to them, with all of the donated items going to the Goodfellows.

Donations given to the Goodfellows for the past week include the following: McGee's Lumber Yard . . . $100.00

Safe Holiday Urged By DPS

Major Vernon Cawthon, Regional Commander of the Department of Public Safety said today, "Based on past holiday experience, we know that numerous persons will lose their lives and hundreds will be injured on Texas streets and highways during the 1985 New Year's Holiday. The Department requests the help and support of the motoring public in reducing this needless waste of human life by observing all traffic laws, especially those regarding speed and alcohol."

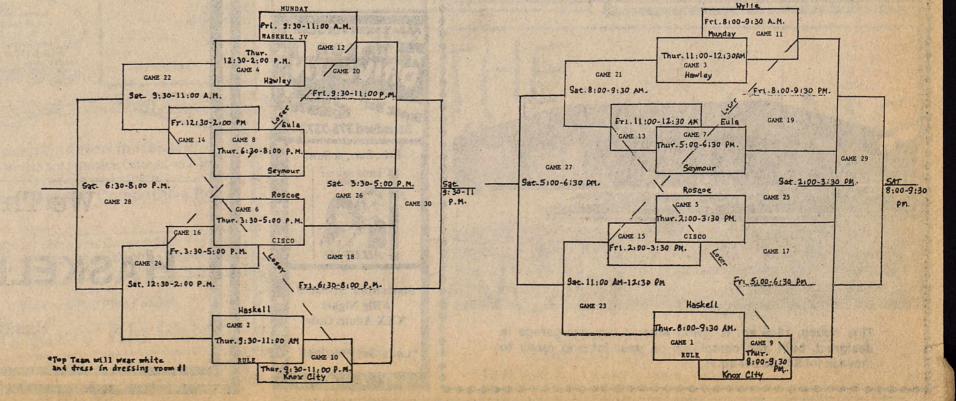

Major Cawthon said, "All available DPS Troopers will be on patrol throughout the holiday period in an effort to reduce, both by their presence and actions, violations that could lead to accidents. But it is only through the help and cooperation of the motoring public by their self-compliance that the needed reduction can be realized."

Major Cawthon stated, "Possibly the most prevelant accidents occurring this period will be the one run-off-the-roadway type accident which is directly attributed to the driver inattention and/or intoxication.'

The Major suggested that adequate travel time be budgeted in holiday plans, stop frequently and rest, reduce speed for road conditions, and above all, don't mix alcohol and driving. If you drink at a party, let a sober friend drive you home.

"Feel free to request needed assistance from any DPS Trooper during your holiday travels. Let's do all our part to reduce to zero all holiday traffic deaths," Major Cawthon added.

BY JANET WILKE Good kids don't just "happen".

They are the results of years of attention, love, concern,

They come from families who still value love, respect, honesty, and have faith in God.

Good kids are not the product of this society...they are the hope for a better one!

Because most of you living here have never been around kids who hold to any other value system, you really don't know what other kids, outside of Haskell, are really like. Let me tell you, you have much to be thankful for.

It is refreshing to be around kids who aren't too "cool"

I thought that line of thinking went out with my

In the past, I have seen kids who rarely saw their parents (who could care less), and who thought that the only value system that mattered was who could drive the "bossest" car or wear the trendiest clothes.

It is wonderful to be around kids who have their feet on the ground and are in touch with reality.

Someone very wise once said to me: "Kids will either live up to — or down to — your expectations".

Apparently, the expectations here must run pretty high, as Haskell's young people are exceptional, unique! They are a cut above the BEST!

Let me give you some examples to think about.

There have been very few kids who have consistently iven the teachers here a hard time. However, in other places, it is the accepted social behavior among the teenagers to cause trouble in class, be obnoxious whenever and wherever possible. Not one student here has ever made an attempt on the life of a public school teacher or administrator, however, in a town much smaller than Haskell, a few years ago, a high school principal was gunned down while the students watched, horrified!

All of the kids I have been around have been respectful, and even friendly.

There are many places where an adult would have to allbut knock a kid down to get them to speak, let alone be

Don't get me wrong. I am not trying to make you think that these kids are about to start sprouting wings and halos, but they are really a good bunch of young people, crowd during the holidays. who need to have that part of their personalities appreciated, enhanced, admired.

Perhaps, the real heroes are the parents of these kids. They have been the ones who have stuck by these kids through winning and losing, thick and thin, laughter and tragedy.

Why have the parents acted in such a manner? Because projects. They flow much of that was the way they were raised. So, good breeding begets good breeding. The main point I am trying to get all of you to see it that these kids could so easily have been like a world of others...with bad attitudes, no desire to succeed, and on the road to a life of failure.

The Christmas holidays program are over. The turkey is half finished (left over time). The presents are opened. Old Saint Nick is back at the North Pole recuperating, and it is time for the Haskell Kiwanis Invitational Basketball Tournament. I have been asked the question several times why is the tournament over the holidays. We have several reasons for this. One, we had anticipated some of the changes mandated by the legislature; hence, we needed a tournament when we would miss no school time. Two, the Indians are oftentimes in the state football playoffs (5 times in the past 11 years); so this could be a problem for an earlier tournament. Also we would have to be in competition with older, established more tournaments. Three, it saves the coaching staff from having to hustle games over the holidays. Four, it saves the student athletes from having to workout. Speaking from experience, it is a lot more fun to play than to workout. Five, we draw a good The Kiwan's Club spon-

Both the Indians and Maidens should be in the thick of the fight. Other teams will come from Rule, Munday, Knox City, Hawley, Eula, Roscoe, Seymour, Cisco and Wylie. The Maidens will open the December 27 followed by the Indians against Rule at 9:30 a.m. On behalf of the Indians and Maidens, the school system, and the Kiwanis Club, we hope each of you can come out and enjoy some good basketball. Money Market Savings

As a result of recent legislation we are now able to offer an insured money market investment account.

In the past, this type of investment was offered only by brokerage firms, insurance companies, and others who live outside of our area.

In the past five years over 200 billion dollars were invested in these uninsured mutual money market funds. A lot of this money was re-invested in foreign countries in investments such as Euro-dollars.

With our new money market investment account, you can earn the same high rate of return as the money funds on an insured investment that keeps your money working right here at home where it belongs.

* Desire. A child must want to be trained, whether the reason is a desire to be clean, to be like his friends, or to please his parents.

In toilet training, the concept of "readiness" is central. Too-early training can cause frustration for the parent and unnecessary pressure for the toddler.

It is very important that parents be rational and realistic about toilet training. A parent who has an intense desire that the child be trained and who uses several measures to bring this about is asking for trouble. Indeed, toilet training can become a parent and child because the parent wants the child to do something which the child often will not or cannot do.

A battle in the area of toilet training is a losing battle. Two factors are in direct opposition here. The child is entering a developmental stage where he wants and needs to be independent. At the same time, the parent insists that the child control the "when" and "where" of bowel and bladder movement to the parent's satisfaction. One study showed that the average age for learning to use the toilet reliably is 28 and most experienced parents can expect daytime control between the ages of two and three. Nighttime control occurs at approximately the same time or may be slightly delayed.

Observation and experience suggest that certain parental attitudes and

Words or actions that show the child is ready

These words and actions show that a child is ready to begin toilet training:

*Pausing and making sounds or grimaces while having a bowel movement; telling you when he has had or is having a movement.

*Being regular in bowel movements.

*Staying dry for an hour or two in the daytime; waking up dry from naps.

*Complaining when wet or soiled; generally likes being clean and tidy. *Being aware that urine and feces come from his body. *Wanting to imitate adults or be grown up. Preparing for training As a way of preparing for toilet training, you can begin to comment when you know your child is having a bowel movement or when he tells you so. This will help him writing.

begin to associate the physical feelings and the result. Tell him that when he feels those feelings, he should tell you so you can help him get to the toilet. Then introduce him to the potty chair or booster seat. At first your child may let you know he needs to go to the toilet after he has wet. This is not an act of defiance. It is a sign that he recognizes what is happening, a necessary step to being able to "go potty" by himself.

Wait until the child is ready and he will learn without battles. As one wise pediatrician said, "Don't worry. He won't want to go to kindergarten in diapers.'

Farm Bureau Adopts Farm Program Recommendations

Voting delegates at the Texas Farm Bureau's 51st annual meeting Wednesday (Nov. 28) approved recommendation for a marketoriented national farm program that includes the supply-management concept.

S.M. True, a cotton and grain farmer from Plainview, was re-elected to a third. one-year term as president of TFB which membership reach an all-time high with 317,575 member True defeated TFB State Director Henry Burton of Lufkin to win re-election.

Following adjournment of the annual meeting, the Board re-elected A. Wayne Cranfill, a Hooks dairy farmer, vice president, and Roy Johnson, a Desdemona peanut farmer, secretary-treasurer.

Gerald M. Clark of Edna, who raises rice, grain sorghum, corn and cattle, was state director, succeeding George O. White of Harwood, who leaves the TFB Board after reaching the six-year limitation.

Five state directors were re-elected to a two-year term. They are Neal Burnett, Plainview; Royce Magness, Telephone; Billy Huddleston, Snyder; John Baker, Temple, and John Earl Smith, Ouemado.

The delegates said a farm program should include the maximum participation. acreage controls preferred to pound quotas or allotments. (5) Loan rates and target prices to be basic features of any farm program. In other actions, the delegates: -Recommended mandating an area-wide fire ant eradication program.

-Said a balanced budget should not be achieved by new or increased taxes, but by cutting federal spending.

-Defeated a resolution which would have put the TFB in opposition to a flat income

-Favored a self-help program in Latin America to illegal control immigration to the U.S.

-Recommended that the federal estate tax exemption continue to the maximum level of $900,000.

The national recommendations will be forwarded to the American Farm Bureau Federation for possible consideration at the AFBF annual meeting, Jan. 7-10, in Honolulu, Hawaii.

Some of the state policies adopted (and which become policy for the TFB members to follow in 1985) included the following:

-A proposal (unanimously adopted) in which the delegates opposed the pesticide application standards proposed by the Department Agriculture.

-A resolution calling for legislation to assure that industrial users could not infringe on agricultural water proposal favoring construction of small dams (1) Carry-over supplies that rather than larger reservoirs which destroy large areas of farm and ranch land.

-A proposal which calls for a removal of the authority from the Texas Agriculture Commissioner to producers, arbitrary decisions about agricultural chemicals.

The delegates also rejected a proposal which favored (4) Because of simplicity, pari-mutuel betting on a local option basis, with tax revenues from such betting

Party Honors Mrs. Headstream

A large number of wellwishers were on hand to show their appreciation to Mrs. Marjorie Headstream, of the Headstream Memorial Center, who is retiring at the end of the

A retirement party was held in her honor on Tuesday, December 18, at the Center, and among those on hand to honor her were Mayor Abe Turner and County Judge B. O. Roberson.

Mayor Turner proclaimed Tuesday, December 18, Margie Headstream and in his proclamation, he outlined the many contributions Marjorie had made to the center, and to mental health in general.

In his remarks, Judge Roberson said when the program was started it was decided that someone would have to be hired who would see to it that the center would keep on

"Aubrey (Marjorie's late husband) and Margie were naturals", commented the judge at the party.

'I have never heard anyone criticize anything here. I have heard nothing but praise about the center. and about Margie. Any organization is as good as the people who hold it together, and I happen to think that this is the best outreach center in the state of Texas," concluded the Roberson also added, 'They make my job a lot easier." Two of Headstream's co-workers commented on their years under Marjorie Headstream.

Jim Smith: "Margie Headstream raised me professionally. It is a blessing to have worked with Margie. She has enriched our lives. I wish I could just share with you what she does everyday to help others.'

David Smith had this to say: "So many things come to mind. I guess the best way to describe Margie is that she kept me straight. She kept telling me that we are here to help others."

'She was here when I came, and everyday, she has reminded me why I am here," Smith said.

He continued, "She gets so excited when something good happens. When we got a new desk, she stayed here until midnight, just rearranging the furniture."

"I am glad you are here today for Margie. This woman will never retire. She has learned the secrets of life and she lives them, and will share them with you if you ask her," concluded David Smith.

Mrs. Headstream had a chance to say a few words and commented that the party being held in her honor was promoting good mental health.

"We all need one another, and vou've never let me down. You are the greatest bunch of people in the world. I don't like the "retirement". because I'll just be in another perspective. I just love all of you," said Mrs. Headstream to all of her many friends, co-workers, and associates who she'd helped through the years.

Margie Headstream had been involved in counseling at the Headstream Center for the past 14 She will be retiring from her position there at the end of this month, but all of her friends and associates are invited to come by for a cup of coffee.

As Bob Stutsman said of Marjorie Headstream after the ceremonies, "She'll never know how much we appreciate her."

Neither will this county, nor the many people she has been a special friend to, when they needed one

TAX PLANNING

Written by James E. Rodgers, CPA

TAX BRIEFS

The tax laws, the administration of those laws, and the filing of tax returns get more complicated each year. If you are "just aware" as opposed to being "fully educated" on a given tax item, that may be sufficient. Your tax advisor can fill in all the little "niceties." With that in mind, here are a few "awares."

· Households where both spouses work may find themselves shelling out additional taxes at filing time unless they make adjustments to their withholdings. Consider reducing your claimed exemptions to 0, and if that doesn't produce enough withholding, give your employer a letter of approval to withhold additional amounts.

· The IRS has discovered that a great many individuals are having accountants prepare their tax returns and, therefore, are using only the mailing labels from the forms and instructions mailed to them each year. Henceforth, certain individuals will be receiving only a mailing label from the IRS.

· If you are a "responsible person" in a corporation, you can be held liable for 100% of the FICA and federal income taxes which are withheld from employees but not deposited with the government.

· Some tax exempt bond holders may be denied interest expense deductions. If the IRS feels that you have borrowed money to purchase another investment rather than cashing in tax-free bonds, you may be denied an interest expense deduction.

· If you have borrowed money and the note is coming due, do not "pay" the interest by renewing the loan and adding on the interest. You will lose your deduction for the interest expense. Instead, if you don't have the money to repay the loan and the interest, borrow from another source and repay the original source. Your interest paid will then be fully deductible.

Texas Land Commissioner

With these vast biological resources, it is important that we identify and ventory this great reserve. So, we here at the Texas General Land Office have fashioned a tool for the protection of this natural heritage.

Here at the Texas General Land Office, we are forging a tool for the protection of our state's diverse land and natural resources.

The tool, microchip technology, will be honed for full use by Texas After citizens and businesses by August, 1985. Over 5,000 species of plants, 2,000 types of wildflowers and 600 species of birds, marshlands, rolling prairies, dense forests, arid plateaus and mountains will make up the data base for the Texas Natural Heritage Program, a Texas-sized undertaking.

The sum of this data will be a computerized reference "book" of our state's natural resources--a cost effective, economical development system that will be available to government, business, industry and all the people of Texas. Modeled after similar programs launched by the Nature Conservancy Glyn Quade, Mrs. Carl Cook in Three Rivers. in 30 other states, the Texas Natural Heritage Program will provide a valuable planning and management tool which, once enacted, will help protect sensitive areas and create new jobs through economic development.

We hear too often the criticism that government relies on out-of-date or meaningless information. We have too many government agencies which require overlapping permits or duplicate work. By creating this single data base to provide up-to-date information, we will be able to save tax dollars by eliminating duplication and unnecessary paper work by the government.

Private business and industry will have the opportunity to use the system as a planning and management aid in economic development. Citizens and developers can check their development plans against data in the Texas Natural Heritage Program to prevent a costly program from being delayed or Herren, Service Officer for canceled because of potential harm to endangered species of plant or wildlifethey will know beforehand if it would be safe to proceed.

Already, data gathered in the early stages of the program was used to help avert environmental damage during the oil spill by the British tanker Alvenus last August--pinpointing areas that could be endangered when the spill came

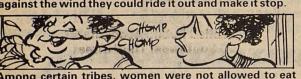

With the Texas Natural Heritage Program, a developer can look for problems that may exist with endangered plants or animals before he actually the annual income accountnvests sizable amounts of money on a project which he may later have to ing, the VA payments will scrap. Or, a citizen can be sure when he builds a house that he protects those terminate. plant or animal resources on his land that he enjoys. This is good for the business climate, but most importantly, it is the essence of protection of our Texas natural heritage that we are so proud of.

This is all made possible through cooperation of the Texas Nature cards were sent to all Conservancy, universities, state agencies (especially the Texas Parks and veterans, widows and Wildlife Department), private scientists, knowledgeable amateurs and the children in receipt of VA GLO staff. The Texas Nature Conservancy has raised $290,000 this year in pension benefits. The cards private contributions to pay for this study.

Working together, we can have the best of both worlds--protecting the dependent parents in environmentally sensitive areas of our state while providing new jobs for Texans by encouraging economic development.

Lone Star started the program in the 1982-83 heating season to help persons living in the company's service area who were having difficulty paying their heating bills. During the two years it has been operating, Project HAP'N has channeled nearly $354,000 to help pay all types of heating bills for the needy.

Locally, the West Central Texas Council of Governments in Abilene will provide assistance in Haskell and Throckmorton counties. The coordinating agency is Community Council of Greater Dallas, will which oversee assistance provided, based case-by-case a determination of need. Project HAP'N assistance funds can be used for any type of heating bill.

An estimated 18,400 people-4,600 families with an average size of four-were helped during the program's first two winters. Public awareness and support of the program have increased during the time it has been in operation, with private donations growing from 35

7th Grade Maidens Beat Stamford 25-4

BY TINA LACEY

The seventh grade Maidens stampeded Stamford, 25-4. Missy Davis was high point with 12 while Julie Martinez was second Velma Castillo and Cassie McGhee helped by adding 2 each.

The seventh participated in the Paint Creek Junior High Tournament last weekend and came home with the consolation trophy.

In the first round, Haskell played Lueders-Avoca with the Raiders edging Haskell 19-18. Davis again was high point with 11 followed by Langhofer, Martinez and Reed each having 2.

Haskell slipped by the Rochester Steers in the second round 30-21. Davis was high point with 12. Holly Reed was WE HAVE pencil cups, second with 8, and Tonya Isbell added 6.

In the final round,

Haskell narrowly escaped defeat over the Weinert Bulldogs 22-20.

Davis was his point with 14 and reed had 4. Hays and Isbell added 2 points each.

"After the loss by one point in the first game to Lueders, the seventh graders came back and played well for the next two games thereby winning a trophy in their first tournament.

"The defense looked good all the way through and when the offense coagulated, they started winning. All in all they can play well, and I feel they have a chance to go undefeated the rest of the year," Coach Jim Bob Mickler said.

The seventh grade Maidens will play Anson there on Jan. 7 at 5 p.m.

Researchers Study Genetic Change In Domestic Plants

COLLEGE STATION -Texas A&M University biologists are looking at the genetic differences between wild and domesticated plants to determine the amount of genetic erosion - or valuable traits that may be lost - as new hybrids are produced.

"There's been a lot of talk about preserving wild relatives of domesticated plants to preserve a broader range of genetic variation, but no one has ever really looked to see if wild plants are more variable or less variable than domesticated plants," said Dr. Hugh Wilson, associate professor of biology and project leader.

The research is funded by the USDA Competitive Grants Program and Texas A&M.

The researchers are studying wild species and closely related domesticated plant forms, comparing hereditary differences in the plants by looking at the genetic makeup of their protein (allozymes) structures.
