HOT AND COLD

Haskell firemen battled two structure fires last Wednesday, Jan. 30. Pictured is a two story apartment building on North Third Street which received extensive damage. About thirty firemen assisted by several volunteers battled the blaze for about two hours before it was extinguished. Two trucks and over 1,000 feet of hose was used.

Apartment House Receives Extensive Fire Damage

A fire last Wednesday gutted a house located at 305 North Third and the members of the Haskell Fire Department were called to extinguish the blaze at the apartment house twice, after having left the first time on another call.

According to Fire Chief Tom Watson, the fire department was called to the blaze at 11:43 a.m. and found that the fire was in one of the rear west rooms. It was extinguished, and while the firefighters were finishing that call, a second one came in on North Tenth. The firefighters left the North Third location to answer the other call.

Approximately at 12:45 p.m., a second call came in from the North Third location, and firemen were called back to the apartment house to extinguish the fire once again, which residents of the rooming house said had apparently began after the firemen left.

Heavy smoke and water damage was sustained to the large, wooden two story house.

Twenty to twenty four firemen were on hand to fight the fire, and two pumper trucks were used in the blaze.

According to Watson, this was one of the worst house fires the firemen have had to fight in quite a while.

About 15 people were living at the apartment house at the time of the fire, but there were no injuries to the residents, nor to any of the firemen.

The property was owned by Pat McManamon, who recently bought it from the J.W. Wallaces.

School Board To Set Hearing For Supt.

School board members will consider principals contracts and schedule a public hearing on the non-renewal of superintendent James Lanier's contract during their regular February meeting this Thursday, Feb. 7, meeting.

According to Jay Brim of Austin, Lanier's attorney, the public hearing was being requested because the board had listed six reasons for not renewing Lanier's contract. Brim told the Free Press Monday that none of the six reasons listed in the letter address any of the over 40 reasons listed in the school board policy manual as reasons for not renewing a contract. Brim has requested further information from the board concerning the reasons.

Other items on the agenda include: action on the resignations of three board members; re-organization of the board; set meeting date for the March meeting; and amending the election order.

Well folks, it appears that we just thought things were bad in the school business after last summers special session of the Legislature.

It now appears that the 69th session may be the granddaddy of all times for creating problems for West Texas schools in general and small West Texas schools in particular.

A stack of bills almost as tall as my four year old daughter have already been introduced to "fine tune" H.B. 72.

Some of the bills seem to be good ones, but they are scarce.

A recent bill by State Senator Hector Uribe of Brownsville, would force the consolidation of all schools with an average daily attendance of less than 250 students. Apparently, the State (either State Board of Education or the Texas Education Agency) would tell the small schools when and with whom they would consolidate leaving no voice whatsoever to the local folks.

At first indication the bill appeared to be just something to get attention but it now seems that some of the powers that be in Austin are giving the bill serious consideration. Simply from a money saving aspect if nothing else. The consolidation would save the State several million dollars a year and with the tight budget in Austin, any savings of more than $11.89 will be looked at closely.

To address this and other education related issues, a group of citizens from Haskell, Knox and Baylor counties have chartered a bus from Abilene to Austin next Monday afternoon. The group will visit with as many Representatives and Senators as possible Tuesday and return home Tuesday afternoon. Seats are still available and further information is available at the Free Press or by calling Monday. (Names and phone numbers are printed in a letter to the editor on page 4.)

It gets more obvious that the men who wrote the State Constitution didn't get on paper just exactly what they meant to.

Surely in their infinite wisdom they intended for the document to call for the legislature to meet two days every 140 years instead of 140 days every two years.

After six to eight inches of powdery snow fell on Haskell last week there was a shortage of snowmen. The snow was so dry it wouldn't stick together enough to build a snowman. One of the only artforms to come from the snow was a giant igloo at the Jerry Klose residence.

Babies Learn By Exploring The World Around Them

Have you ever watched a baby absorbed in exploring his own hands? What he's doing is learning to separate himself from the world around him. At first, a baby will spend long periods of time simply looking at his outstretched hand—the most stable and dependable object in his world right now. It is exactly the distance away that he can see—eight inches. (A month-old baby is very near-sighted. Like a camera which is focused only for close-ups, a baby's eyes see clearly only those things that are about eight inches from his nose.)

By studying his hand, a baby learns to focus first one eye and then both eyes on a single point or object. Later he learns eye movement, two-eyed vision, and depth perception.

A baby is also fascinated with faces, when they are within the eight-inch range, and with bright, shiny, colorful things. He will also grasp small objects that you give him. At about four months old, a baby will succeed in bringing his two hands together. Then he will begin exploring the fingers of one hand with those of the other.

The joining of hands is an important milestone in an infant's development. As he grasps one hand with the other, he feels the squeezing. This sensation tells him that what he has seen and grasped is part of him.

Discovering himself as something distinct from other objects around him is very interesting and exciting to a baby, and he will spend hours exploring his two hands and finding out what they will do.

This begins the process of finding out what is self and what is not self. The baby will pay careful attention to everything he touches to see if feelings come from the touched object as well as the hand that does the touching. In this way, he begins to distinguish fully where his own body stops and the outside world begins.

At this age, give the baby objects to hold. Vary shapes, sizes, textures, weights. Household objects are the best: the variety is endless.

WELCOME VALENTINE'S DAY WITH POP CORN SWEETS

The custom of celebrating Valentine's Day with the exchange of sweets and other tokens of affection began during an ancient Roman festival. The first Valentine's greeting card, made of raised paper, dates back to the 1790's.

To continue this loving tradition, celebrate February 14 with family and friends by exchanging special cards and sharing sweets made from pop corn.

A folder featuring a variety of pop corn recipes plus a "how-to" holiday and party crafts section may be obtained by sending the pennant from any JOLLY TIME product or 25¢ along with your name, address and zip to JOLLY TIME, P.O. Box 178, Sioux City, Iowa 51102.

A pop corn ball maker, made of durable molded plastic, also is available by sending $1.00 to the JOLLY TIME address.

POP CORN HEART

- 2 quarts popped Jolly Time Pop Corn
- 4 tablespoons butter
- 6 cups miniature marshmallows (1-pkg.)
- red cherries for decoration

Preheat oven to 250 degrees. Place popped corn in a large, 4-inch deep buttered baking pan. Keep warm in oven. Butter a 6-cup heart-shaped cake pan. In a double boiler or large saucepan, melt butter over low heat. Stir in and melt marshmallows. Remove pop corn from oven. Pour butter mixture over pop corn, stirring to coat evenly. Pack the pop corn mixture into the heart-shaped pan. Chill. To remove the cake from the pan, place the pan in a shallow dish of warm water and loosen edges with a spatula. Decorate with cherries.

POP CORN BALLS

- 2 quarts popped Jolly Time Pop Corn
- 1 cup granulated sugar or firmly packed brown sugar
- 1/2 cup light or dark corn syrup
- 1/3 cup water
- 1/4 cup (1/2 stick) butter or margarine
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Keep popped corn warm in a 250 degree oven. In a 2-quart saucepan, stir together sugar, corn syrup, water, butter and salt. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly until mixture comes to a boil. Attach candy thermometer to pan. Continue without stirring until mixture reaches 270 degrees F. or until a small amount dropped into very cold water separates into hard, but not brittle, threads. Remove from heat. Add vanilla and stir only enough to mix it through hot syrup. Pour syrup slowly over popped corn, mixing with a fork. Shape into balls with pop corn ball maker. Makes about 8.

Printing was introduced to what is now the United States in Cambridge, Massachusetts.

Potatoes Are Good Buy, Plus Excellent In Nutrition

Potatoes are America's favorite vegetable—and for good reason. Not only are they delicious, versatile and a great economy value, but now potatoes have a better nutrition story than ever before. New studies show that a medium potato (1/2 pound) provides 50 percent of the U.S. RDA of vitamin B6 and iodine, 10 percent of niacin, and 8 percent of thiamin, iron, folacin, phosphorus, magnesium and copper. The potato also has the most potassium, 750 mg., of any commonly eaten food and provides 2,710 mg. of dietary fiber. And all that nutrition is packed into only 110 calories, with little sodium and no fat.

There's no better time to celebrate the potato's important nutritional contribution than now, because February is Potato Lover's Month. You'll find good prices and potatoes are always a family favorite. Here are recipes to show just how versatile the potato can be, but don't forget the all-time favorite "plain" potato - baked, mashed, boiled and French fried.

TO BAKE: Scrub, pat dry and prick the potato in several places with a fork. This allows steam to escape, preventing the potato from bursting. In a conventional oven: A medium potato (three per pound) will bake in 40-45 minutes at 400 degrees F. But if you're cooking other foods at the same time, the potato easily adapts. Just adjust the time according to the temperature. Bake directly on oven rack or on a cookie sheet. Potatoes are done when they are soft when gently squeezed with a mittened hand. Don't wrap potatoes in foil as it steams, not bakes, the potato. In a microwave oven: Use uniformly-sized potatoes. On a double layer of paper toweling or paper plate, place potatoes in a spoke fashion with smaller ends toward center. "Baking" time is usually four minutes for a medium to large potato (six ounces), plus one to two minutes for each additional potato. Turn potatoes halfway through baking and allow five minutes "standing time," since potatoes will continue to cook after removal from oven.

TO MASH: Prepare boiled or steamed potatoes

(see below); drain, peel. Using a potato masher, electric mixer or ricer, mash potatoes. Gradually add milk, salt and pepper to taste, and if you like a bit of butter or margarine. (Use skim milk if you're counting calories.) The texture of the potatoes will depend on the amount of milk used. The more milk, the creamier and thinner the potatoes will be.

TO BOIL OR STEAM: In a heavy saucepan with tight-fitting lid, cook potatoes in about one-inch of boiling salted water until fork-tender. To steam, place potatoes on wire rack in pan and add water to just below level of rack. Whole, 30 to 40 minutes; cut-up, 20 to 25 minutes.

TO FRENCH FRY: Cut raw potatoes into strips about 1/4-inch thick. Toss strips into a bowl of ice and water to keep crisp and white while cutting the remainder. Don't soak. Pat the strips dry with paper towels. Heat about four inches of salad oil to 390 degrees F. in a deep fat fryer or heavy saucepan. Place a layer of potato strips in a wire basket and immerse basket in hot fat; or place strips, a few at a time, directly into the hot oil. Cook about five minutes or until golden brown and tender. Drain well on paper towels.

As good as the basic potato is, it's just as great in a variety of dishes. Try these potato recipes during February and throughout the year.

Winter Whites Go Bright!

Let it snow... Let it snow... Let it snow! This winter, bright colors are all you need to look smashing when you go dashing through the snow.

The cold weather forecast for the winter holidays calls for bright, bold, and beautiful colors. Whether you'll be swooshing down the slopes, gliding across a pond, or walking through a winter wonderland, you're sure to stand out against the snow. This year it's easier than ever to update your winter wardrobe and add some bright new accessories. With a few packages or bottles of Rit Dye, inexpensive or last year's winter garments, and a little ingenuity, you can create this winter's brightest fashions quickly and economically.

* Pullover: Turn a thermal shirt into a cozy pullover. Take a cream colored cotton quilted thermal undershirt (available at any department store). Rit Dye and you're all set. Dye it vibrant Rit Tangerine, Golden Yellow, or Royal Blue according to package directions.

* Ski Goggles: Update your white plastic goggles by dyeing them a bright new color. Simply dye them Rit Scarlet by preparing a hot concentrated dye solution dissolving 1 package powder dye in a pint of very hot water, or use 1/2 cup liquid dye dissolved in a quart of hot water.

* Turtlenecks: Revitalize white cotton turtlenecks with a splash of color. Splatter-dye them with 3 of the 37 Rit Dye colors available. Prepare dye-baths mixing 1/2 package of powder dye in one cup of hot water or 1/4 cup liquid dye in one cup of hot water. Simply place shirt flat, out on protective covering, then using small paint brushes, dip and with a flick of the wrist, splatter-dye the fabric. When the pattern is finished, allow the shirt to dry... then rinse under fast running cool water. Hang to dry and press with a steam iron.

As you are on (or off) the slopes this winter, watch for an avalanche of clothes like these in bright, bold colors! For further information on dyeing techniques write for free literature to: RIT/4DH3, P.O. Box 307, Coventry, CT 06238.

Aspirin With Caffeine More Effective

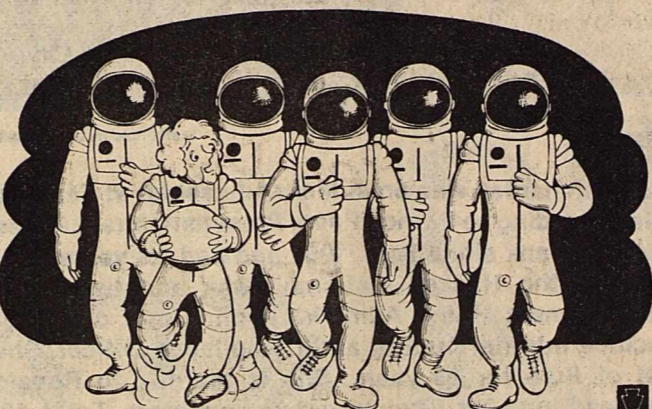

by the American Chemical Society
For over 20 years, drug companies have been adding caffeine to some over-the-counter pain relievers, but many scientists believed that aspirin alone did just as good a job of killing pain. However, researchers at Rockland Research Institute, Orangeburg, N.Y., have found that caffeine increases the pain relief effectiveness of analgesics by an average of 40 percent. Dr. Eugene M. Laska, a pharmaceutical chemist, analyzed the results of 30 clinical studies, involving more than 10,000 patients, that had been conducted over the last 20 years. Not only was he able to show that adding 65 milligrams of caffeine to each aspirin tablet increased pain relief, but also improved patients' mood. "For many, this could be of considerable clinical importance," he said.

Astronauts And Aging Women Share Similar Skeletal Problem

The inner mysteries of the human skeleton may turn out to be a bigger challenge for astronauts than the mysteries of outer space.

The United States and the Soviet Union already have the necessary sophisticated technology to conduct very long space missions. What remains unresolved, however, is the ability to protect the human body from the effects of weightlessness.

Under the weightless conditions encountered beyond the atmosphere of Earth, there are marked changes in the way major organ systems behave. The heart, muscles and skeleton are especially sensitive to long periods of weightlessness. As a result, young healthy astronauts share a health problem normally endured by aging women: bones turning brittle from loss of calcium and becoming increasingly susceptible to fracture—a condition known as osteoporosis.

It is estimated that up to 15 million Americans, mostly women over age 60, currently suffer from this crippling bone disease. It is more common in older women than rheumatoid arthritis, diabetes, heart attack or breast cancer. Normally, a significant factor in the development of osteoporosis is a deficiency in dietary calcium throughout life. The U.S. recommended daily allowance (RDA) for calcium is 1,000 mg for adult men and women; and 1,500 mg a day for lactating women. Many experts feel that this RDA is too low. If a person's diet is deficient in calcium, the body will take what it needs from the skeleton to maintain vital body functions. Over a period of years, this can lead to excessive bone loss. Twenty-five years of insufficient calcium intake may produce a loss of one-third of the body's skeletal reserves. Therefore, doctors recommend that women past the age of 25 take at least 1,000 mg of calcium in the form of a dietary supplement, such as Os-Cal® 500, a product made from calcium carbonate, a source of calcium that is easily absorbed and provides more elemental calcium per tablet than other available forms of the mineral.

For the astronauts, the problem is more complex and does not seem to be preventable through calcium supplementation. NASA officials are investigating the use of a diuretic that is known to produce extra calcium as a side effect. Other experiments involve special exercises designed to compensate for weightlessness.

Because of the importance of this problem to future space projects, it is likely that much better insights into the mechanism of bone disease and muscle wasting will soon be gained. The benefits of these findings may eventually spare our elderly the pain and disability that comes with osteoporosis. In the meantime, if you want to make sure you have the right stuff as you enter middle age, calcium supplements may be the best protection available today against the ravages of bone loss tomorrow.

WINTER Skin Care Tips

Cold weather is not the time to give the cold shoulder to skin care. Winds and cold outside, overheated rooms inside can mean hands get sandpaper rough. Always protect your hands by wearing gloves when going outdoors.

Unlike the rest of your face, your lips have no glands or pores to provide them with natural oil and moisture. This lack of a protective layer makes them particularly vulnerable to damage from the environment. Lip Nourishing Treatment in stick form from Shiseido is designed to create a protective layer of oils and draw moisture from the air to keep lips moist and smooth. Shiseido's Facial Nourishing Stick uses a patented formula to moisturize the parts of the face that are particularly prone to dryness.

How do you protect your legs from icy chill without wearing pants all the time? Leg warmers can be two beautiful answers. They are available in a host of popular colors and patterns to help you fight Jack Frost in style.

FRENCH FLAG OVER SPANISH FORT ... On the Red River, in Montague County, is the present-day community of Spanish Fort. It is misnamed. It was actually a fortified Indian village. Spanish Colonel Diego Ortiz Parrilla, in command of a 400-soldier army, attacked the fort on October 7, 1759. To the surprise of the Spaniards the Indians were flying the French flag and were armed with rifles. The Spaniards retreated.

There are many things to be said about working for a newspaper...some of them cannot be printed, however!

No, seriously. Sometimes the days are weeks long, and the hours cannot pass fast enough.

Then other times there are too many long nights, and too many early mornings.

It is trying to make fair decisions on tough issues. It is sweltering football games, sand-blasted track meets, and blizzardous basketball tournaments.

Newspapering takes place in cotton fields and air fields in the oil patch and the vegetable patch, at stock shows and fashion shows.

Newspaper work knows no color, race, age or time. It is now, it is tomorrow, it is yesterday.

Newspapering has survived radio's commercialism and television's hype.

It brought printing out of the back shops into the front offices.

Outside of the town crier, newspapering is the oldest form of Mass Communications—it was the first...the original.

For those of us who've been around newspaper work a while, it has become more than an 8-5, Monday through Friday job. It is 7 days a week, 24 hours a day 365 days a year.

It is a love, a hobby, a way of life. Most folks have not been able to run fast enough to get out of it...but then most folks haven't tried to very hard!

There are times you'd like to curse; there are times you'd like to cheer; there are times you'd like to cry!

Newspapering takes reporters away from their own families only to be initiated into another family...the benevolent order of journalists.

It means breakfasts at McDonalds, lunches at Pizza Huts, and dinners at Dairy Queens.

It is the never ending struggle of trying to fill up empty spaces with interesting materials, while trying, at the same time, to convince your banker that it is a good investment to buy a new computer for the typesetters to use.

But, the greatest joy comes when we see people reading our finished product.

Whether you agree with what has been said or not, or whether you appreciate all of the effort that goes forth into printing the news each week, we, in the newspaper community, realize that our greatest concern and most important challenge is to provide you, the newspaper reading public, with the highest quality of newspaper we can possibly provide, while at the same time remaining credible, and keeping your trust. It means that we can never compromise our integrity over a matter of a few bucks or a more prominent place in society.

This is a trust that the people have had in the newspaper since newspapering began. And, we intend on keeping that trust.

TAX PLANNING

Written By
James E. Rodgers, CPA

OWNERS OF DIESEL VEHICLES

The '84 Tax Act increases the tax on diesel fuel for use in a highway vehicle from 9 cents per gallon to 15 cents per gallon, effective August 1, 1984. However, Congress did not want the 6 cents per gallon increase to be borne by purchasers of diesel fuel used in vehicles of 10,000 pounds or less. To offset the 6 cent increase, purchasers and current owners of light weight diesel vehicles will receive one-time payments generally in the form of income tax credits.

The credit is available only to the following:

1. The original purchaser of a qualified vehicle purchased after January 1, 1985 and before January 1, 1988.

2. The holder as of January 1, 1985 of such a vehicle purchased before that date.

The amount of the payment depends upon the model year of the vehicle, and on the vehicle type i.e., truck or car.

A qualified vehicle is any diesel-powered highway vehicle which-

- (A) has at least 4 wheels
- (B) has a gross vehicle weight rating of 10,000 pounds or less
- (C) and is registered for highway use under the laws of any State.

Existing owners of qualified vehicles, as well as others who purchase their vehicles this year, are treated as if they purchased the vehicle on December 31, 1984 and will claim the credit on the return covering that date.

If you have a light weight diesel vehicle be sure and notify your tax preparer. He will need this information in the preparation of your 1984 Tax Return.

Is there a strong tie between the pursuit of excellence in athletics and success in life?

In the case of former University of Colorado football great Joe Romig, the answer is a resounding yes.

As a college senior, Joe was named national lineman of the year. He then pursued a master's degree in plasma physics under a coveted Rhodes Scholarship at Oxford University in England. A PhD in astro-geophysics (the study of physics as it applies to astronomy) followed back at Colorado, where he taught a number of classes in physics and astronomy.

QUICK QUIZ

Most people know children need calcium to help build strong teeth and bones. But how much of this need carries over into the adult years? Take this quiz and see if you know enough about your body's calcium requirements.

- Adults do not need as much calcium as do children. (True or False)
- The average adult takes in more calcium than needed. (True or False)
- Adult women need a calcium intake equivalent to a quart of milk a day. (True or False)
- A high intake of calcium may protect the body against bone disease and even high blood pressure. (True or False)
- Calcium deficiency is not a serious problem. (True or False)

The human body contains 206 bones, all of which constantly need calcium to stay strong and healthy. Health authorities now recognize the fact that too many adult diets are calcium deficient.

Studies show that American women consume approximately 450-550 milligrams of calcium a day, only about half of the amount needed daily to slow age-related bone loss and help reduce the incidence of bone diseases like osteoporosis. Men, who have larger bones than women, generally take in more calcium and do not appear to have problems like osteoporosis until much later in life.

Calcium deficiencies can result in bones being weakened to the point of fracturing easily, a common problem in women over 45 years old and elderly men.

Studies have shown that women with high intakes of calcium have stronger bones and less hip fractures.

For that reason, health officials now recommend that women take 1000-1500 mg. of calcium daily, either through diet or supplementation. Increased calcium intake may prevent bone problems in men as well.

The best food sources of calcium are milk and dairy products. Each eight ounce glass of milk contains 275-300 mg. of calcium. But tablets like Lederle Laboratories new CALTRATE 600 high potency calcium supplement, are a simple way of ensuring a proper daily intake of calcium.

To keep bones strong and healthy throughout life, women and men should make sure they get enough calcium and plenty of exercise.

For a free CALTRATE calcium counter, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to: Lederle Consumer Relations, One Cyanamid Plaza, Wayne, N.J. 07470

Do you need the tax deduction of an Individual Retirement Account but don't want to tie up your available cash?

First National has the answer in a 3% loan for your retirement. We'll make a loan up to the full amount of your I.R.A. deduction at 3% annual percentage rate over 12 monthly payments.

It may sound unbelievable, but if you're credit worthy, we'll make you the loan. We'll deposit that amount into a non-interest bearing First National I.R.A. for the first year. At that time it will be renewed into an I.R.A. which earns at the prevailing First National interest rate.

This plan includes spousal I.R.A.s and any larger tax deductions which may be allowed under Individual Retirement Account regulations in the future. Sure, we admit you won't earn interest your first year. But you will get full advantage of the tax deduction from your I.R.A. That's probably hundreds more than you would earn in interest. And you don't have to tie up your available cash.

Take a look at the following example to see the kind of tax savings you could realize:
$2,000 IRA deposit by an individual in the 25% tax bracket:

Movement Underway To Create Smoke-Free America

The movement aimed at establishing a smoke-free environment for all Americans has increased in size and momentum in recent years.

According to the American Heart Association, non-smokers now claim a majority position in this movement and are more likely to say, "Yes, I do mind if you smoke."

James M. Atkins, M.D., President of the American Heart Association in Texas, recently stated that "non-smokers no longer view smoking simply as an annoyance. They choose not to smoke or tolerate smoke around them." Atkins continues, "The fact is that smoking causes heart disease. And heart disease took the lives of over 51,000 Texans last year. Eleven thousand of those people died before reaching age 65."

The non-smoking movement embraces the mission of the American Heart Association—the prevention of death and disability caused by heart and blood vessel disease. Smoking is recognized as the largest preventable cause of death in America. Therefore the battle focuses on prevention, and it is waged on two fronts; the general public and the lawmakers.

In Austin, at least five smoking measures have been introduced in recently-convened Texas House of Representatives. Two of these would increase the tax rates paid on cigarettes, thus raising the cost of cigarettes and providing a disincentive for smokers or potential smokers. One of the tax-related measures would specifically dedicate the income from this tax to a state-operated cancer program for research, education and patient assistance.

Another proposal would create an offense for smoking in a public or work place. It would require that non-smoking areas be designated in most enclosed areas, excluding non-governmental offices occupied exclusively by smokers.

A House bill has been filed which would make it an offense to sell or give a tobacco product to persons under 21 years of age. Currently, anyone 16 years and older can purchase cigarettes and other tobacco products.

A concurrent resolution has been introduced which supports the goal of a smokeless teenage society by the year 2000. The American Heart Association, Cancer Society, Lung Association, Public Health Association, Medical Association, and Association of State and Territorial Health Officers have all endorsed this goal, which provides the basis for health promotion planning in America today.

In October of this year, a law will go into effect that will replace current warning labels on cigarettes with four new, strong warnings. The Coalition on Smoking or Health, composed of representatives of the American Heart Association, the American Cancer Society, and the American Lung Association, was instrumental in soliciting support for this new law. The organized effort to push this bill through Congress in 1984 is considered a great victory for smokers and non-smokers alike.

This current surge of activism on the part of non-smokers is affecting the tobacco industry. A tobacco trade publication, The Tobacco Observer, called the movement "the most dangerous development to the viability of the tobacco industry that has yet occurred." But despite lagging sales and increased social rejection of smoking, the tobacco industry lobbies are still one of the strongest in Washington today. Manufacturers are still not required to include a complete list of all additives on their cigarette labels, although they are now required to submit a list of additives to the Food and Drug Administration. Imports of tobacco from Third World countries are still free from inspection for harmful pesticides.

The American Heart Association has intensified its own effort to inform the public of the risks associated with smoking and heart disease. Much of this effort is targeted toward youth, based on the belief that if children understand the dangers of smoking, they will not only remain a non-smoker, but will encourage their friends not to smoke as well.

Back in 1956, the American Heart Association issued a statement that "much greater knowledge is needed before conclusions can be drawn concerning the relationship between tobacco smoking and increased death rates from coronary heart disease." Almost ten years later, after reviewing data accumulated through medical research, the Association states that "evidence incriminating smoking in heart and blood vessel diseases is substantial and unequivocal."

The American Heart Association and the non-smoking movement have both "come a long way..." but there is still much more to be done. With increased organization and activism, non-smokers will go much further to protect their rights to a safe environment.

For more information on smoking and how to quit, contact your local office of the American Heart Association.

Microcomputers Are Being Used In Farming Operations

Microcomputers are becoming more commonplace in farming, ranching and agribusiness operations, escalating the need for in-depth training.

To enhance the profitability of microcomputers as management tools, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service in cooperation with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station is offering a number of seminars and short courses in the coming months for farmers, ranchers, agribusinessmen and others interested in such training.

Three-day short courses are being offered at the Stiles Farm Computer Center, Thrall. The Stiles Farm is about 6 miles east of Taylor on U.S. 79. Dates and topics of these short courses are as follows: Feb. 12-14, "Spreadsheets and Their Application in Agriculture;" April 16-18, "Performance Records and Decision Aids for Beef Cattle;" April 24-26, "Spreadsheets and Their Application in Agriculture;" and May 2-9, "Farm and Ranch Accounting."

The short courses and seminars will provide detailed information on various phases of micro-computer applications in farm and ranch management as well as updates on computer software and hardware," notes Dr. Jim McGrann, economist with the Extension Service and Experiment Station.

According to McGrann, the short courses are designed to provide participants with in-depth subject matter training and hands-on microcomputer use of software available in the private sector and that developed by Texas A&M University.

On the other hand, the seminars are aimed at providing participants an opportunity to learn how microcomputers are being used in farm and ranch management and their potential capabilities. Some hands-on opportunities with computers also will be featured. In addition, there will be commercial exhibits by private software and hardware vendors.

Information regarding registration and cost of each training session is available from any county Extension office of from Rosemary Pivonka, Department of Agricultural Economics, Texas A&M University, College Station, TX 77843-2124, or by calling 409-845-8792.

Maidens Still Hoping To Stay In District Race

By Janet Wilke

Despite their Saturday night loss to Hawley, the Haskell Maidens may still be in the running for a playoff spot, according to Coach George Martin.

In the Hawley game, which was reset from Friday to Saturday due to inclement weather, the Maidens were nipped by 6, 56-50 by the Lady Bearcats.

Tamala Randle was the high point of the night with 19, followed by Denice Young's 13, Jennifer Davis' 8, and Julie Roewe's 6 points, respectively.

Kiker of Hawley had 24 points, and Schoemer had 16.

Haskell shot 6 of 13 from the free throw line for 46 percent, while Hawley hit on 10 of 17 occasions for 58 percent.

From the field, the Maidens outshot their opponents hitting 6 of 12 for 50 percent the first period, then the same margin the second period.

In the third period, the Haskell varsity girls made 4 of 12 for 33 percent, and scored on 6 of 17 occasions for 35 percent, in the fourth quarter.

By quarters, the Maidens never led in the game, having a deficit of 16-12 in the first period, and then trailing 29-24 at the half.

In the third period, the Haskell girls were down 43-32, and lost by a mere 6 in the end, 56-50.

Haskell had 14 total rebounds, leading this was Tamala Randle, who had 5, and there were 20 assists in the game, with Holly McBroom, Julie Roewe and Denice Young each with 5 a piece, respectively.

Hawley's girls shot 8 of 16 from the field the first period, then shot 6 of 13 from the field second period, 6 of 12 from the field in the third period, and hit 2 of 8 in the final period to win.

Although the last game of the regular season was Tuesday against Stamford, the Maidens may still have a shot at a playoff berth, depending upon who won in the Hawley-Rotan game, and the Hamlin-Anson game, which were all played Tuesday night, with the results not in at press time.

Coach Jim Raughton said of the Hawley win, and the year in general, "I am very pleased. In the playoffs, we will be working on running the ball better, working on transition, and will concentrate on our defense."

The coach is hoping to be able to set up some scrimmages with other teams in the near future.

A&M Researcher Finds Resting Crucial In Improving Moods

COLLEGE STATION — Lying down and resting may be as beneficial as sleeping in the case of the afternoon nap, according to a recent study from the Psychology Department's Sleep Laboratory at Texas A&M University.

Both habitual nappers and habitual non-nappers who participated in the study reported about the same amount of mood improvement from napping and from resting without falling asleep, said Suzanne Dais, who conducted the research for her master's thesis in clinical psychology under the direction of Dr. Ludy T. Benjamin Jr., professor of psychology.

Delinquent Taxpayers Owe $810 Million

Delinquent taxpayers owe counties, cities, school districts and other taxing units across Texas at least $810 million, according to a report to the legislature made this week by the State Property Tax Board (SPTB).

About three-fourths of the state's 3,119 taxing units responded to a survey which the legislature directed SPTB to conduct. SPTB estimates that if all taxing units were able to report all their delinquent taxes, penalties and interest, the total would pass the $1 billion mark.

The $810 million in reported delinquencies equals almost 14 percent of the 1983 property taxes levied statewide. These delinquent taxes are contained in 12.1 million accounts, which represents a very large recordkeeping burden for local taxing units.

The $810 million figure may not be completely reliable. Throughout the survey, many taxing units indicated their delinquent tax records were in such poor shape that they could not answer many of the survey questions with confidence.

The report concludes that the condition of tax records is perhaps the most significant obstacle to delinquent tax collections. Only in recent years have some taxing units engaged in a serious effort to organize and automate tax records.

Almost a third of the unpaid taxes reported—$255 million—involve personal property such as business inventories, business equipment, mobile homes, boats and automobiles.

The delinquency rate on personal property is far higher than on real property. School districts, for example, reported that personal property taxes represent 29 percent of all their delinquencies, but only 11 percent of their 1983 tax levies.

Personal property taxes are inherently difficult to collect. Since both the property and its owners are highly mobile, tax collectors find it hard either to seize the property or to sue the owners. Personal property also depreciates in value much faster than real property. Thus, if a taxing unit were to seize personal property for tax delinquency, it might not be able to sell the property for the amount of taxes due.

The survey indicates that a quarter of all delinquent taxes reported are owed in accounts of less than $100 each. There are at least 5.6 million of these small accounts with an average amount of under $20. Suits and seizure actions against these accounts could cost more in effort than they would produce in tax revenue.

However, the 20,000 delinquent accounts which each contain $5,000 or more represent one-eighth of all delinquent taxes reported.

Taxing units reported $46 million in delinquent taxes over 20 years old. The statute of limitations on tax suits, which is 20 years for real property and four years for personal property, can hinder collection of these old taxes if the taxpayer claims it as a defense. It's not known how much of the $255 million in unpaid personal property taxes may also be affected by the statute of limitations.

At least 338,000 tax suits are pending on $112 million in delinquent taxes, according to SPTB's survey. Thus, only a fifth of all delinquent taxes and only three percent of the delinquent accounts are involved in pending litigation.

Rep. Finnell Is Concerned With Issues Facing Elderly

Rep. Charles Finnell, D-Holliday, joined Lady Bird Johnson and Lt. Governor William Hobby today in addressing issues concerning the elderly at a legislative forum titled "Aging, Everyone's Concern." Finnell discussed his views on housing for the elderly, a priority issue. "The 60-and-over age group is the fastest growing population in Texas today, with the demand for suitable housing also on the rise," Finnell said.

He explained legislation that has as its goal, the construction and rehabilitation of affordable housing for the elderly at no additional cost to the state. He also outlined legislation to encourage increased construction of personal care homes, facilities where residents can be provided personal care services.

The program was sponsored by the Texas Coalition for Elders, the Long Term Care Coordinating Council for the Elderly, and the Southwest Gerontology Center.

Also, in an earlier meeting with State Board of Education member Mrs. Katherine Raines, Rep. Finnell blasted SB 263 by State Senator Hector Uribe which would force consolidation of the state's smaller school districts. "I am opposed to any legislation which forces Texas school districts to consolidate," he said. "In my view this is a local decision to be made by local citizens, not by the state Legislature."

Beware Of Computer Stress And Strain

People who work with computers commonly complain of eye strain. But those who have home computers are not immune from this problem either. In both cases, the cause of eyestrain is probably the lighting rather than the computer itself.

When looking at an object by reflected light, it's easy to look away at other things around you. But when you're watching light emitted from a display, such as a computer monitor, looking away means a sudden switch from light to dark.

This switching of the average intensity of the light to which your eyes are exposed, results in fatigue and eye strain.

Ideal lighting for a computer work station illuminates the area surrounding the monitor, but still permits a high contrast in the light coming from the video display.

Avoid placing the monitor under, behind or in front of a window or other light source. Keep all possible glare from the screen, but be sure that the keyboard and copy stand or desk are adequately lighted.

Computer Stress

Computers may be a wonder, but they can also be a stress factor at work, school and home. Too much time interacting with a computer can create problems. Research now indicates that continuous computer interaction changes the user's time sense. Computers are fast and efficient in responding. So individuals who interact constantly with computers, tend to expect all things to occur with the same speed and efficiency—including their dealings with other people. As a result they may experience more frustration and stress than those spend less time interacting with the machines.

Lions Club Make Upcoming Plans

Mark down on your calendars now the date of April 12, which will be the date of the Lion's Club annual mop and broom sale. This will be held on the parking lot of the Haskell County Courthouse, so make plans now to purchase your new cleaning tools from the Lion's.

In other Lions Club news, President Ed Harris recently attended the mid-winter conference of the Lion's Clubs for this area, in Abilene.

At this meeting, Harris accepted a Century Award from the West Texas Rehab Center, which was given to the Lion's Club in appreciation for their assistance.

The Haskell Lion's Club also recently made a contribution to the Haskell County Junior Livestock Show Association.

The Lions Club members are still waiting on the new playground equipment to be delivered to the Elementary School. This piece was bought in conjunction with the Haskell Young Homemakers, and is scheduled to arrive sometime this month, according to Jim Crain of the Lion's Club.

METER TAMPERING NOW A FELONY

The State of Texas has recently adopted an amendment to the State Penal Code making meter tampering a third degree felony. A third degree felony comes with a punishment of confinement in the Texas Department of Corrections for a term of not more than 10 or less than 2 years. In addition to imprisonment, an individual adjudged guilty of a third degree felony may be punished by a fine not to exceed $5,000.

Before the amendment of the new law, it was a class A misdemeanor for meter tampering unless the loss of service was more than $200. Under the new law, any meter tampering regardless of the amount of loss is now a felony of the third degree.

Meter tampering consists of, but is not limited to:

- (1) Diverting electricity from passing through the meter device.
- (2) Preventing electric service from being correctly registered by a meter device.
- (3) Unauthorized activation of electric service.

As a special note to our members, it will also be considered meter tampering if a meter is reset and electrical service is restored by anyone other than a Cooperative employee.

All Cooperative meters are sealed. This seal should not be cut or broken without special authorization. In cases where the seal must be cut for emergencies the Cooperative should be notified as soon as possible so that the meter can be resealed.

NOTES FROM AGENT BRIAN BURGESS

If you want to get back the buck you've been passing to Uncle Sam, there is no reason on earth, except poverty, not to have an IRA. Your entire contribution is deductible from your gross income. If you contribute $2,000, you save $1,000 in taxes, if you're in the 50% bracket, $800 in the 40% bracket, $600 in the 30% bracket and so on.

The usual objection, "what if I have to get to my money?"—suggests you have poor savings habits. Every person needs a balanced program of liquid assets for emergencies and non-liquid long term savings for retirement that you don't touch no matter what. Your IRA falls into this second category.

Can't afford to contribute $2,000 to your IRA? With State Farm you can contribute monthly by bankdraft as little as $20 or as much as $166.67. The most important step in any financial plan is to start! Haven't you wasted enough time and paid Uncle Sam enough money? Come see me right away and start letting Uncle Sam pay you.
