Jury Deliberating In Local Murder Trial

In the murder trial of Billy Neely, the eight woman, four man jury was sequestered in an Aspermont motel for the night, Tuesday, after not having been able to come to a decision on the trial.

Deliberations began earlier Tuesday evening, but at 10 p.m. the jurors re-entered the courtroom, only to tell presiding judge, Wayland Holt, that in four votes, they had not yet come to a decision.

Holt informed the jurors that at this point in the trial, he felt that they had not been together long enough to declare it a mistrial.

Foreman Burl Medford told the judge that there had been two 6-6 votes on the case, and two 9-3 votes.

The trial was to have resumed Wednesday morning, in 39th District court, at 10 a.m.

The man being tried was charged with the murder of his brother-in-law, Clarence Harold "Son" Webb, on Sept. 24, 1984, after the two apparently had a disagreement concerning a family matter.

Webb was shot three times on a rural road about ten miles west of Rochester.

In testimony given by Neely about the shooting, the defendant said that he acted in self-defense, and that shooting his brother-in-law was "the hardest thing I have ever done."

The dispute between the two men arose as a result of problems between Neely's wife and Webb. They had had disputes over their mother's estate.

Neely's wife also testified on Monday that the offer that Webb had extended to her for the estate was not acceptable.

The defendant also told jurors that he had sought the help of law officers on the night he shot Webb, because Webb had made threats on he and his family.

Neely testified that after a nearby house and junked cars had been burned near their home, he suspected that Webb had been trying to harm them.

Webb was shot twice in the abdomen, and once in the head.

District Attorney John Fouts challenged Neely's testimony, asking if he did not stalk his brother-in-law and stay around the community to kill him.

Fouts also questioned Neely that: "If it was self defense, wouldn't a responsible person get help as quickly as possible?"

Neely is being represented by Lubbock attorney Travis Shelton.

Council Decides On New Option

In a called meeting of the Haskell City Council, the Councilmen heard David Todd, engineer with the airport project explain that there would be a need for some other work to be done on the base for the new runways.

Todd explained to the Council that there were only two options available for the consideration on the situation -- lime stabilization or adding five inches to the existing base on the runway.

It was the council's decision, after opening the chambers following a closed session that they would go with the lower costing five inch base decision. This will cost an additional $21,000, but was recommended by the Texas Aeronautical Commission.

G & S Electric
Quality Service for the Entire Haskell Area
Guy Callicoatte
817-989-2204
997-2715 2122p

Dear Don:
This is a personal plea for all able bodied Haskell citizens to make a sincere effort to donate a pint of blood when the American Red Cross Blood Services, Red River Division, bloodmobile comes to our town this month.
We rarely meet our estimated quota and yet some of our citizens do benefit from this service quite frequently.

As a past recipient of several pints of this life saving liquid, I can speak "first hand" of the desperate need for all types of blood.
The Bloodmobile will be in Haskell at the First Baptist Church on May 29, 1985, from 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. This will include the lunch hour.
Please give. The life you save may very well be your own or someone very dear to you.

Thank you,
Bobbie Williams, R.N.

Did You Know?

America is in love with chocolate!
We spend $4 billion a year on two billion pounds of chocolate. That's ten pounds of chocolate per person!
The chocolate craze includes special chocolate-making classes, chocolate binge weekends at hotels and even chocolate theme cruises aboard luxury liners.
Brownie Bonanza
Whether it's chocolate bars, chocolate ice cream and truffles to chocolate chip cookies, chocolate lovers have become very sophisticated in their tastes.
To satisfy this delicious craving, one national bakery has come up with a new line of brownies: chocolate fudge brownies and chocolate chip brownies in a butterscotch batter with walnuts, both from Sara Lee. Going further to tap the interest of the chocolate lover, the Company improved its original version—more nuts, more butter, and of course, more chocolate.
Chocolate History
Chocolate is made from the beans of the tropical cacao tree. In 1528, Hernando Cortes, the conqueror of Mexico, took some cacao beans to Spain. By 1707, cocoa had become a favorite beverage in London. Milk chocolate, first introduced in Switzerland in 1876, became the dominant form of chocolate, soon popular in the United States.
With chocolate consumption up 20 percent in the 1980's, no wonder chocoholics now have their own magazines, cereals, boutique shops. What's next—chocolate forks to eat after the chocolate cake? Chocolate pencil erasers to chew on?
Sweethearts used to have to wait until Valentine's Day for their chocolates. No more! Now everyday is an occasion for a chocolate treat to your sweet or to yourself.

Discovery World Presents End Of Year Program

Discovery World pre-school held its end of the year program Saturday, at the sanctuary of the First Methodist Church.

Fifty-three students from ages 3-5 participated in the program, with 28 graduating to Kindergarten, next fall.

The 3 and 4 year olds had the first part of the program and they did some finger play, and sang two songs.

Then the five year olds conducted their program, which was centered around seven nursery rhymes. Each student acted out a part, while the rest sang.

Diplomas were given out as the finale of the program. Teachers Rhonda Lises and Judi Burson were also given presents from the students.

Those who took part in the graduation ceremonies were: Shannon Jordan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Jordan, of Haskell; Stephanie Cheyne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Cheyne; Crystal Watson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Watson; Jennifer Andress, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Andress; Nicklaus Goss, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Goss; Stephanie Soloman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Soloman; Brandon Rodela, son of

Also graduating were Anna Reiger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donnie Rieger of Haskell; Kaki Stapleton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Stapleton; Amy Burson, daughter of

Eat more, if you exercise

It's possible to eat more but weigh less, if you exercise. That's what Dr. Peter Wood, professor of medicine (research) at Stanford University, said at a recent American Heart Association symposium. "Physically active people tend to eat more, maybe several hundred calories more per day than sedentary people, and yet they weigh less in the process, he said.

Dr. Wood and his colleagues have studied Stanford faculty wives who play at least 10 hours of singles tennis per week, and compared them with sedentary faculty wives of similar ages. "The sedentary women were considerably more overweight than the tennis players," he said. "When we had both groups record what they were eating, there was a large difference in the recorded intake of calories. The tennis players were definitely not dieting but were lean, while the sedentary women were eating very modestly yet were relatively overweight."

are doing studies right now that should show which of these two effects is most beneficial." Dr. Wood said his findings help explain a surprising but little known fact: people who eat more tend to have less coronary heart disease. At least four studies have measured calorie intake and followed individuals over a period of years to see if relationship eating has with development of heart disease. He said: "In all four studies, those people who developed heart disease had reported many years earlier a significantly lower calorie intake than those who did not get heart disease. I think the explanation is that people who eat more are often more physically active."

Dr. Wood emphasizes that he is not recommending an increased calorie intake for individuals who are overweight and don't plan to exercise. But for the millions of Americans who have joined the "exercise explosion" that began in the 1960s, eating more calories, especially in the form of carbohydrates, won't stop them from staying lean, he concludes.

YOUR LAWN

Helpful Hints From Experts

Watering—When & How Much?

Each watering should be enough to moisten the soil to a depth of about six inches.

These sensible tips on watering your lawn may help quench your thirst for the answers to two important questions: when and how much?

- When? Evening hours are probably best simply because there will be less evaporation of water: A lawn can be watered at any time, night or day.
- How much? Each watering should be enough to moisten the soil to a depth of about six inches. The frequency of irrigation will depend on temperature and soil type. Sandy soils require a little less water more often than do loams and clays. Between waterings, experts say, it's a good idea to use a fertilizer such as Vigoro Deep Green Lawn Food, which, as its name implies, promotes deep green lawns with long-lasting color. Remember, inadequate waterings at short intervals encourages shallow rooting.

Which Home Will Have Lower Energy Bills?

E.S.P. AWARD (Energy Saving Plan)

THE E.S.P. HOME, OF COURSE.

An E.S.P. Home can save you money in home energy bills for years to come. Some homes on the market may seem energy efficient, but you can be confident an E.S.P. Home really is. WTU has carefully inspected and qualified each E.S.P. Home to meet energy efficiency requirements.

- Electric heat pump with a Seasonal Energy Efficiency Ratio (SEER) of 8.0 or above.
- Air conditioning with a SEER of 8.5 or above.
- Air infiltration control.

COMPARE HOW MUCH YOU CAN SAVE with an E.S.P. Home over a one-year period:

An average 1800 square foot home will cost you approximately $775 a year to heat and cool. An E.S.P. Home of 1800 square feet will cost approximately $570 a year to heat and cool, which results in an annual savings on electricity of 26 percent or more. (Energy savings may vary according to the type of home, family size and individual energy usage habits.)

E.S.P. REQUIREMENTS include some of the most important energy saving features, such as:

- Ceiling insulation of R-30 and wall insulation of R-16.
- Storm windows or insulated glass.
- Weatherstripping and caulking around all doors and windows.

The View From Here

by Janet Wilke

As you have probably read, or at least heard, there is a new track association which has been formed here, whose purpose it is to build a track for the students and citizens of Haskell.

Under the capable leadership of Sammy Larned the association has gotten off the ground. They have been holding their meetings at the High School cafeteria, (not the Elementary cafeteria as I once reported), and these have been held on Tuesday nights, around 8 p.m.

Apparently, there has been much interest generated by the idea of building a track here.

This is a great plan, and I feel that Haskell does need a facility such as this.

There are many up-and-coming young track participants who would well benefit from having a track. Look at it this way, those great runners from Hamlin did not get that way by running on a football field.

Of course any plan, no matter how great it is will always have some opposition. One of the most common heard is: "Well, when I was in school we never had a track to run on, and we did alright."

While that statement might be true, we also won't ever know how many youngsters might have won the state title in some track event had Haskell had the right facilities, right?

I also know that the financing of the Civic Center is a major priority, and it well should be. But, it has always been my firm belief that anything Haskell wants, Haskell can have, because the people of Haskell will see that what ever it takes, the job will be done.

Whether it is building a Civic Center, or a track for the school and community to enjoy and use, Haskell can do it...and WE are Haskell. So, let's get the job done.

Letters To The Editor

(EDITORS NOTE: The Haskell Free Press will publish letters to the Editor dealing with any subject. All letters must be signed but names will be withheld by request. All letters are subject to editing for length and liability.)

Dear Editor:

It would be impossible to name every person who helped to make the Frontier Days Rodeo and Parade a success, although everyone is deserving of individual recognition. Therefore, we would like to take this opportunity to express a general thanks made possible by the Haskell Free Press along with the other promotion and publicity which they and KVRP Radio provided.

The directors and their wives of the Haskell Horse club have worked diligently for months aided by the Haskell Chamber of Commerce, Retail Merchants Assn., Fire Department, Kiwanis Club, W.T.U., the City of Haskell and countless individuals.

We would like to offer a special thanks to Vickie Henshaw and Grace Womack, along with all the entries for putting together an outstanding parade, Mike and Julia Harrell, along with the Queen contestants and their sponsors for our beautiful Queen's Contest. Runt Sloan for bringing exceptionally good and even stock.

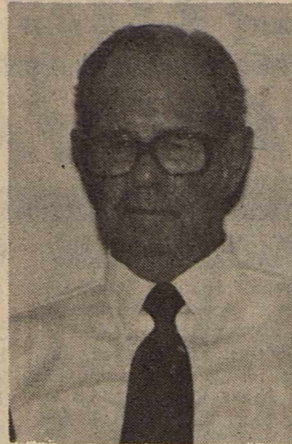

Thornhill as always an exceptional job of announcing. All the merchants for decorating their store windows, the contestants for traveling to Haskell and riding in our rodeo, and a super thanks to all the merchants, principal and coaches who entered our calf tying, along with the kids who entered the calf scramble.

Most of all we want to thank the spectators who honored us with their presence at the rodeo. So much interest from participants, contributors and spectators is evidence of the continued success of our Haskell Frontier Days Rodeo.

On August 1st, 2nd, and 3rd The Horse Club will sponsor an American Junior Rodeo Association rodeo, in which the contestants will be teenagers or younger. We are anticipating a large crowd of both youth and adults.

None of these things would be possible without the backing of the hundreds of people who support the rodeo in this town.

Bob Brandon
President
Haskell Horse Club

Grass planting in the Haskell area has been hampered by weather for two years. In 1984 we could not establish Kleingrass or bermudagrass due to extreme dry conditions. Just the opposite is true for 1985. With 450 acres of waterway remaining to be planted, many producers are running short on time. Seeding deadlines and cotton planting are at hand. Extensions can be granted in many instances, if producers are unable to complete necessary work.

A local contractor for sprigging bermudagrass is available and the Haskell SWCD has a cultipacker drill available for seeding Kleingrass.

Time for aerial spraying of mesquite and prickly pear is now.

Producers interested in management and control of these species should make effort to have this work carried out within the next 4-6 days for best control and prevention of damage to other areas and crops.

TAKING THE HEAT
Plant this pair from Pioneer for a superior grain sorghum crop in hot, dry weather.

8680
This hybrid is especially adapted to the lighter and mixed soils of North Texas and the Rolling Plains. Excellent yield record under a wide range of conditions—but most impressive is its ability to produce a dependable yield when hot and dry conditions cause many to fail. Semi-open heads produce dark red, hard-textured grain with high bushel weight. Grows fast and matures early. Excellent root and stalk strength keep it standing for maximum harvest.

The tougher the conditions, the better you'll like 8493. A new hybrid, especially developed to withstand the heat, drought, and insect problems of this region. Superior yield and standability, excellent resistance to greenbugs, and much improved grain quality. Strong stalk and roots, too. Medium height plants produce semi-compact heads of harder textured, heavy test-weight grain. Plant this one with 8680 to spread weather risks, genetic risks, and harvest load.

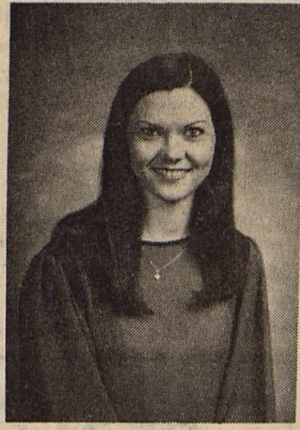

Depend on these two for both yield potential and drought tolerance. Come on in let's talk.

Connie Turnbow Attends TDHA Meeting May 1-5

Connie Turnbow R.D.H., President of the Abilene District Dental Hygienists Society, attended as a voting delegate, the Texas Dental Hygienist Association Annual Session May 1-5, at the Hilton Palacio Del Rio in San Antonio. Annual Session is a retrospective review of the year, and gives the opportunity to participate in the governing body of the Texas Dental Hygienist Association. "Share the Commitment" was the slogan for the 1985 TDHA Annual Session. San Antonio's Mayor Henry Cisneros, was the key-note speaker of the opening ceremonies for the House of Delegates. Representatives from all components across the state determine the policies and procedures of the Texas Dental Hygienist Association.

Connie was one of a panel of three judges who judged the Table Clinics. Dentists, dental hygienist, and dental assistants from throughout the state shared new techniques and ideas. Linda May R.D.H., Abilene District Dental Hygienists Society Component Trustee, and Jackie Woods R.D.H., of Houston, were the other two judges. Linda is the daughter-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. A.D. May of Rule.

Connie was put on the Public Relations Committee, which educates the public to the awareness of the duties of a Registered Dental Hygienist.

An after five, TDHA Reception was held at the Marriott Hotel Pool Area, hosted by the Bay Area and Houston Components. A get acquainted social was held and followed by an elegant, sit-down dinner with crystal, linen, and twinkling lights in the trees. Piano music entertained all those attending.

Connie is the daughter of Jean Turnbow of Haskell. Want the memory of a loved one to live on? Give to the Haskell Co. Ambulance Memorial Fund. Let their memory live on in the lives of others who may be helped by the Service. Your contributions are appreciated.

Bad Luck Hampers Gymnast Chad Lundy

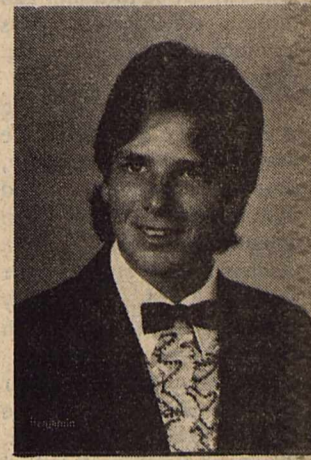

Rotten timing and season ending can both describe the injuries of Odessa High gymnast Chad Lundy.

Lundy, son of Suzy and James Lundy, tore a ligament in his right ankle while practicing his floor exercise before the district meet. He now wears a cast from his knee down. He still attends workouts each day and watches with frustration. He also helps on the floor when Odessa High hosts meets.

Lundy will attend college but is uncertain about gymnastics. His injury will take a full year to heal and there is a possibility of it never healing properly.

His coach named him captain of the team after he finished first in 10 meets this season. He also had high praise for him, saying his natural ability and the desire to improve. He said Lundy never let him down. Lundy is the grandson of Charley Redwine and the great grandson of Mrs. Ella Andrews all of Haskell.

Local Hospital Receives $1000 Gift

Mrs. Richard C. Wohnus, widow of the late Richard Wohnus, has given the Haskell Memorial Hospital a $1,000 gift, to be used to help purchase a new heart monitor.

According to Mrs. Audrey Comedy, administrator of the hospital, Mrs. Wohnus gave the contribution in memory of her late husband, Richard, who had been a heart patient in the hospital in the past. Mr. Wohnus, a 26 year career Navy man, died of cancer last Thursday, May 16, at his residence.

"I saw that the hospital was trying to raise money for a heart monitor, and thought that I would give them this money. I did not want to throw my money away on something that was not necessary, so I decided to give the money to the hospital. I just wish everyone would help out a little so that the hospital could go ahead and get the equipment," said Mrs. Wohnus.

Mrs. Wohnus had told her family doctor, Dr. Joe Thigpen, of her desire to give the hospital the money and it was Thigpen who contacted Mrs. Comedy for the donation to take place.

"The new monitor which we are trying to purchase will be a portable one, and will be used on our crash cart. We have received $1200 from our fund-raising events, and with this $1000 gift, we will only need some $4300 more to purchase the monitor," said Mrs. Comedy.

There are presently monitors in surgery and in the emergency room, with a monitor also directly "patched" into the nurses station from two rooms. The new device will also provide the operator with a tape of the heart beat, as well as monitor pulse and blood pressure.

Check Air Conditioners Now

Few things are worse than a broken air conditioner on a hot, humid day -- except the bill to get it fixed.

Preventative maintenance can help avoid a possible breakdown during the summer months and make an air conditioner run more efficiently, says housing specialist Dr. Peggy Owens.

"Since air conditioning is one of the largest single users of home energy, proper service and maintenance can help consumers hold down electric bills," remarks the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service home economist.

Checking the system for warning signs is a simple matter, Owens maintains. Put your hand in front of the air supply vents. If the air feels lukewarm, it could indicate a problem with the ductwork, compressor, evaporator or refrigerant.

You should also feel air movement from the vent. If you don't, it may indicate a fan problem, a dirty filter, dirty evaporator coils or ductwork leaks.

Then check the condenser unit outside. It's normal for the air being discharged from the unit to be hot. If it isn't, there could be a problem with the compressor.

"Fixing or maintaining a central air conditioning unit is usually not a job for a do-it-yourselfer," Owens cautions. But because a service call can be costly, homeowners should know what to expect for their money," Owens advises.

The specialist suggests that a maintenance service call should include the following:

- Lubricate the condenser fan bearings, if not permanently sealed.
- Clean the air intake side of condenser coil.

•Tighten the electrical connections on the condenser, and check the operating current and supply voltage with volt amp meter.

•Check the refrigerant levels and pressures.

•Inspect the compressor start and run capacitors.

•Clean or replace the blower filter.

•Lubricate an unsealed blower fan motor and blower bearings. Check and adjust the belt tension and inspect the belt if the fan is belt-driven. Clean the blower wheel.

•Clean the evaporator coil and check the fin condition on blower unit.

•Clean and inspect the drain lines and pan in the blower unit.

•Check for excessive attic air leakage into the return air chamber of the blower unit.

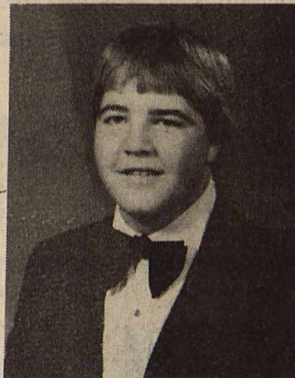

Ask the service technician to provide a checklist of the maintenance provided for your unit, to insure that you're getting the most for your service dollar, recommends the home economist.

This Land Is Your Land

Garry Mauro

Texas Land Commissioner

We recently made available state-owned gas to the City of Corpus Christi on a short-term contract with the General Land Office, saving the utility customers in that city $1.7 million over the next nine months.

Using a little-known legal option that allows the state to take its royalties in gas on state leases for oil and gas, the state is making that gas available to Central Power and Light of Corpus Christi at a price of $2.80 per mcf (thousand cubic feet). Customers in that city currently pay $3.448 per mcf from the other suppliers.

This common sense method of receiving payment of oil and gas leases by the state will also put $7.2 million in cash into the Permanent School Fund, instead of $5.6 million under the private contract. And, we will receive an additional $2.9 million for the general revenue fund in cash--a total of $4.5 million in nine months for the state.

With our current fiscal crisis in state government, the Land Office is getting the most out of our assets through sound management.

Through these aggressive management tactics we have achieved other savings in the past. In 1983, most state agencies were buying gas on the retail market at $5 per mcf, while gas produced on state land was being sold for $2.75 per mcf.

So, when I pointed this out to the Legislature, they included in an appropriations rider a directive that state agencies determine whether there was state gas available at a price lower than their respective contracts called for on the retail market.

The results include the following:

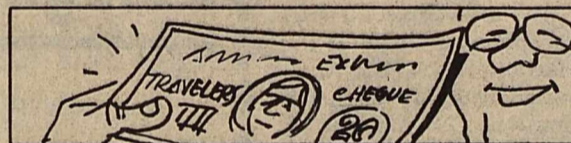

-- Southwest Texas State University was buying gas at $4.95 per mcf, but when the General Land Office offered them gas at $3.54 per mcf, Entex, the university's commercial supplier, matched this offer, resulting in a savings of $1.1 million over a sixteen-month period.

-- The University of Texas at Austin renegotiated its gas contract with Valero earlier this year after a similar offer of state gas was made, thus achieving a one-year savings of $6 million.

-- In 1983, the state signed a long-term contract with the City of San Antonio that increased state revenues by $11,132,500 the first year. Over the next four years the contract will bring in $12 million for the state and save San Antonio consumers $25 million.

The General Land Office is also negotiating with the University of Houston for a contract that could save the university about $1.4 million a year if the offer is accepted. Other entities we are negotiating with for the sale of state gas include Texas A&M University, the Texas Department of Corrections and the Capitol area complex, as well as other state agencies located in Austin.

This is the kind of common sense resource management by the General Land Office that can serve as a partial solution to the state's fiscal problems--this revenue comes at a time when the state is hard pressed to meet the demands of the state government's day to day operating expenses.

Travelers' checks were invented by Robert Herries to take the place of letters of credit. The original checks could only be used on a pre-planned route where they were expected.

Good Nutrition Important For All Family Members

Pets, some people say, eat better than children. If so, it's probably because their all-in-one-dish meals give them no choice.

Pet food is a five billion dollar industry today. Some 48 million dogs and 27 million cats live in about half the nation's households and consume about 10 billion pounds of food a year. The number of cat owners is growing twice as fast as the number of dog owners. One reason appears to be the growth in the number of single person households; cats can be left alone when the owner is away at work or play.

The food choice for the pet owner includes canned, dry, moist and soft-dry as well as table scraps. Special foods for various life stages are available as are wide range of snacks. Now in test is a special food for female dogs which contains a birth control pill. A new pet beverage containing milk is being marketed in some areas. And several recipe books for pet meals and snacks have been published. There may even be one for the vegetarian pet.

Taste is the major emphasis in advertising for all pet foods, but nutrition is a major importance. Snacks are a treat, especially for the owners, who like to see their pets respond.

For humans in the family, taste and nutrition are also major considerations.

The nutrition formula 2/2/4/4 is easy to follow. It refers to daily servings—two from the Milk Group, two from the Meat Group, four from the Grain Group and four servings of Fruits and Vegetables. Each group includes a number of choices so that menus can vary in flavor and appetite appeal while providing the nutrients needed daily.

Milk drinkers will prefer two eight-ounce glasses for their daily dairy requirement; others may choose cheese, cottage cheese, yogurt, ice cream or buttermilk. Meat choices include poultry, red meat, fish, beans and peas, peanut butter and eggs. In the grain group are breakfast cereal, breads, rolls, crackers, pasta, rice and grits. Fresh fruits and vegetables choices vary with the season, but frozen and canned vegetables and fruit are available throughout the year.

The body of each family member, human or animal, needs about fifty nutrients to stay healthy, and no single food or food group can supply them all. For pets, nearly all the foods available are aimed at meeting a day's needs in one or two servings. For humans, plan the day's eating around two servings from the Milk Group, two servings from the Meat Group, four from the Grain Group and four from the Fruit and Vegetable Group. Then all the family members will be fed well.

The European corn borer is a major enemy of the American farmer. It's reducing yields and killing profits.

First brood borers begin to appear when the corn is about knee high. They bore into the stalk, causing cavities that interfere with movement of moisture and nutrients within the plant. The USDA Corn Borer Laboratory estimates that one egg mass per plant from first generation corn borers can cause a loss of six to nine bushels per acre.

Many farmers are cutting their losses with a planting application of Furadan 15G, from FMC Corporation. It is the only insecticide labeled for control of soil insects such as corn rootworm as well as for reduction of first generation European corn borer.

Its active ingredient is picked up by the roots, then moves to the leaves. When the corn borer eats the leaves, it is killed. This systemic action lasts for several weeks.

Corn borer infestation is a problem in continuous as well as first-year corn fields. The experts say it is getting worse.

Reduced tillage allows the insect to over winter in the stalks. The moths do migrate, spreading their eggs over considerable distances. A planting application provides control of major soil pests in addition to reducing first generation corn borer.

Mary Pickersgill — A Lady To Remember On Flag Day, June 14

The huge flag of stars and stripes which inspired Francis Scott Key to write our national anthem at Ft. McHenry in 1814 was made by a little-known Baltimore widow, Mary Pickersgill. She was 38 years of age at the time the Star-Spangled Banner was completed. Living in a small house, now known as the Star-Spangled Banner Flag House, Mary made the flag for the sum of $405.50. The original flag, which measured 30 by 42 feet, is now on display in the Smithsonian's Museum of American History. Made from 400 yards of wool bunting and the largest American flag of its time, this national symbol had 15 five-pointed stars and 15 instead of 13 stripes, each almost two feet wide. The flag was so big it was sewn on the malt floor of Claggett's Brewery. On Friday, June 14, National Flag Day, all Americans will have another opportunity to pay tribute to the symbol of our anthem and the patriotic woman who was its creator.

Senator Lloyd Bentsen Watching Washington

Birdwatchers by the Laguna Madre, shrimpers along the Texas coastline, and duck hunters on the Panhandle playa lakes all appreciate the value of Texas' wetlands. But this valuable resource is threatened.

The worth of our wetlands lies not only in the vital feeding, spawning, breeding and resting habitat they provide fish, fowl and other wildlife, but in other ecologic and economic benefits as well.

The playa lakes of the Panhandle rank second only to our Gulf Coast in importance as wintering places for waterfowl in the Central Flyway. In a good year, 100,000 ducks escape the northern cold at Muleshoe National Park. Our Gulf Coast plays winter host to half a million geese and hundreds of thousands of shorebirds, with estimated total ranging from two to seven million waterfowl. Many rest there temporarily on the way to South America.

These birds form the base of a multi-million dollar industry that includes hunters, birdwatchers and people who enjoy recreation in natural settings.

Fish that spawn and feed in our wetlands can provide more than a million of our states' recreational fishermen with more than five million tall tales during a year. The Texas commercial fishing harvest in 1981, worth nearly $175 million, totaled 113,108,000 pounds of fish and shellfish, most of which had depended on coastal marshes and estuaries for part of their life cycle.

Our wetlands also support many endangered species of wildlife, as well as the nutria and muskrat valued by trappers for their pelts.

In addition to the wildlife they support, wetlands are also vitally important to the control and maintenance of our water supply. They act as a buffer between salt and fresh water, naturally purify polluted water and recharge ground water. They also help control erosion, floods and hurricane damage. In the Panhandle, the playa lakes collect up to three million acre feet of water a year for irrigation and livestock.

But wetlands are disappearing at a rapid clip in our state and our nation.

Across the U.S., we are losing wetlands at the rate of 458,000 acres a year to dredge and fill activities, and almost half of our nation's wetlands are now gone.

Texas already has lost more than 600,000 acres of its original coastal wetlands.

I am sponsoring legislation that will help save more of our marshes, swamps and tidelands by purchasing the land and placing it under state and federal protection.

Funds would be provided by new entrance fees at wildlife refuges and by increasing the cost over a four-year period of Migratory Bird Hunting and Conservation Stamps. Holders of these "Duck Stamps" would be exempt from the entrance fees.

Hunters favor the increased cost of Duck Stamps for buying wetlands when a fair share of the purchasing monies come from non-hunters, such as birdwatchers and nature photographers, through the entrance fees.

Texas, like the rest of our nation, is blessed with a rich variety of wetlands that provide a multitude of benefits. We must take action to protect them, before this valuable resource disappears forever.

Oliver Is New Youth Minister

Mark Oliver, a native of Dallas, has assumed the position of minister of youth at the Haskell Church of Christ.

A 1983 graduate of Oklahoma Christian College, Oliver has a degree in youth ministry work. This is his first position as a youth minister.

He will be serving as minister for the Haskell church through the summer, and then will be making a decision on continuing in the position for the fall.

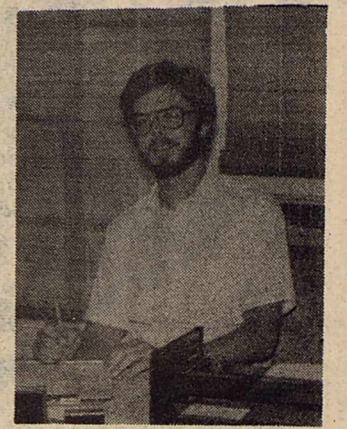

Oliver is an acquaintance of Minister Jim Crain of the local church.

Some of the activities Oliver has already planned for the young people of the Haskell church will include a rafting trip in the Big Bend May 25-29. Up to 40 will be taken on the trip, and transportation will be provided.

Oliver will also be helping with the Church of Christ Singing School, set for June 8-13 here, and will additionally be assisting in Vacation Bible School, set for June 3-7.

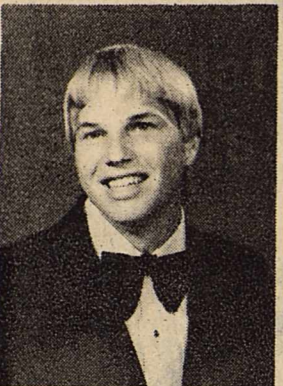

The youth director will be working with young people from fourth grade age through high school.

He is already living here in Haskell, and will be taking on the responsibility of his youth ministry full time in the near future.

COLLEGE STATION — The principal — the individual believed to be the key to a quality school — is the focus of a new center established at Texas A&M University. The Principals' Center is designed to provide training and preparation for prospective principals as well as provide skills development and technical assistance to practicing principals, said Dr. David Hinojosa, director of the center. The self-supporting center will also sponsor research in the area of principalship, he said. "Most studies in the last 10 to 15 years say the key to a quality, effective school and high student achievement is a strong principal," said Hinojosa, an associate professor of educational administration. In an effort to provide quality leadership for Texas' schools, Texas A&M has already put into operation several programs designed to prepare better principals and to provide a "renewal" experience for active principals, he said. Support has also been given directly to area schools through Texas A&M faculty who have traveled to nearby districts to help with in-service training for principals, he said.

Free Enterprise Best, Mexico Finds

Businessmen at large are finding support for a view they have long cherished... government works better when private businesses are run by private investors. That view is supported by the government of Mexico, which is putting up for sale 236 government-owned businesses. Some 136 of these will be put on the market this year. The government feels that the result of this sale will be an improved economy. To private investors, some of whom will be American businessmen themselves, it could not only be a chance to help improve Mexico's economy, but their own finances as well. The businesses being put up for sale include hotels, restaurants, textile companies.

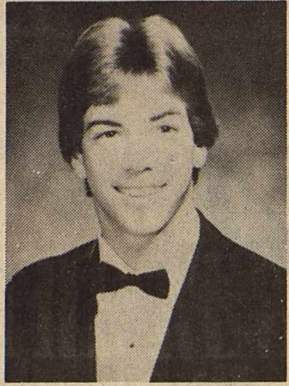

Mexico's economy expected to improve as a result of its sale of government owned businesses to private investors. petrochemical plants, and electric motor factories. The Mexican government, in effect, will no longer be acting as a private business and will be selling enterprises not involved in priority areas of the economy.
