Primary schools are re-hired

Re-hiring of the secondary and elementary principals and the assistant principal/athletic director highlighted the Feb. 13 meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Haskell Independent School District. The board also approved some amendments in the superintendent's contract.

Rehired were Clayton Neal, secondary principal; Bill Blakley, elementary principal; and Harold Hill, assistant secondary principal and athletic director.

Amendments to the contract of superintendent Dr. James Kemp, originally presented in January, were approved.

The board also approved some technical amendments in the job description of the athletic director and assistant principal to better reflect his present duties.

The resignation of Jim Bob Mickler was accepted with regret. Mickler had requested to be released from his contract, effective March 14. He is a high school physical education and science teacher and coach.

Plans to replace the concession stand at the stadium were discussed and a resolution was passed honoring the high school students who made the "all-A" honor roll during the third six weeks.

Revival continues till Friday

The Round Robin Revival which began Sunday will continue through Friday.

Thursday's service will be at the Assembly of God Church with Jimmy Hopper of the First Presbyterian Church bringing the sermon.

Friday's service will be at Trinity Lutheran Church with James Densman, pastor of the First Baptist Church.

Services begin at 7 p.m.

The annual revival is sponsored by the Haskell Ministerial Alliance. Offerings benefit the two local assistance funds of the Alliance, the Transient Fund and the Crisis Center.

Flashback

When the Haskell post office was established in 1884, Mrs. R. A. Standefer was appointed the first postmistress, and for a while, till better equipped, kept the mail in her dresser drawers till it was delivered, wrote R. E. Sherrill in his "Haskell County History," published in 1965.

The mail came twice a week, arriving usually about sundown, and was quite an event when it came.

TV cable rates to be increased

Basic TV cable rates for Haskell subscribers to Harmon Cable Communications will be increased from $9.99 to $11.05 a month, effective with the March billing.

A company spokesman said this week that new coupon books reflecting the new rates are being sent to subscribers this week.

COLLECT GLASSES

Tommy Butler, left, Chad Roberts and Marty Mitchell, along with other Royal Ambassadors of East Side Baptist Church, are calling on Haskell residents to contribute their old eyeglasses to their project. They have set a goal of 275 pairs.

Youth group collects eyeglasses as project

Hey! Does anyone have any old eye glasses around the house?

It doesn't matter if they are meant for nearsightedness, farsightedness, crossed eyes or cataracts. They can be bifocals, photogray, hornrims or grannies.

If they're not being used, the Royal Ambassadors of East Side Baptist Church would like to have them. They know someone who would cherish them.

The RAs, boys in grades one through six, have decided to be a collecting organization for used eyeglasses. They feel that nearly every family has one or several pairs of discarded glasses around the home.

The Royal Ambassadors' motto is "Help Others in Jesus' Name." This project allows them to do just that.

They have set a goal of 275 pairs of glasses. After collecting these from the people of Haskell, the glasses will be shipped to Florida, read with a lensometer, computer labeled and then distributed to needy people around the world.

The boys point out that many of these people cannot even thread a needle or see the leaves on the trees due to poor eyesight. Eyeglasses will open possibilities of beauty, job opportunities and enjoyment of life for these people. The RA boys say.

Glasses may be deposited in collection boxes set up at MSystem, Haskell National Bank and the Haskell Clinic in Haskell and at the Optical Clinic on US 277 South, Stamford.

Those unable to bring their glasses to one of these locations may call Gary Thomas, RA director, at 864-8026.

Blood donors needed for Haskell woman

A plea went out this week for blood donors to replace blood used for transfusions for Haskell nurse Dimple Nehring.

Miss Nehring has undergone a second knee operation at Hendrick Medical Center in Abilene, resulting in the need for about 20 pints of blood.

Bertie May Dumas, who is coordinating local efforts for donors, says replacement of the blood will significantly reduce Miss Nehring's hospital expenses.

Blood may be donated at Meeks Blood Bank in Abilene, just south of Hendrick. Donors should specify that the blood is to be credited to Miss Nehring.

City agrees to request to help lighting project

The City Council Tuesday night approved a request from the Haskell Chamber of Commerce to take over the responsibility of installing and removing Christmas decorations.

The Chamber will continue to be responsible for the storing and maintenance of the decorations.

Action came during the regular meeting of the Council. The matter had been discussed at a meeting two weeks ago, but no action was taken at that time.

City Administrator Robert Baker informed the Council that Royce Dean, holder of the taxi franchise in the city, had notified him that he would discontinue taxi service as of the first of March. Councilmen expressed the hope that someone else will be interested in resuming the service.

Copies of a proposed plumbing code were distributed to Council members for their review. Discussion of a new code has taken place at several previous meetings. It will be discussed again at the next meeting after councilmen have had the opportunity to study the proposal.

Also discussed was a program to codify all city ordinances. This will require the review of city ordinances, the elimination of antiquated ordinances, possibly new ordinances and the compilation of all ordinances into a simplified record.

Baker told councilmen the call for bids scheduled to go out on the water improvement project in the southwest part of the city was being held up until a wage determination report is received from the state.

Councilmen instructed Baker to

Only one has filed for School Board

With the filing deadline only a week away, only one person had filed for the School Board as of Wednesday morning.

Incumbant Mike Guess has filed for re-election to a three-year term. Pat Henry, the other board member whose term is up for election, had not yet filed for re-election.

Deadline for filing is next Wednesday, March 5. The school election will be April 5.

Retail Committee meets Wednesday

The monthly meeting of the Retail Trade Assn. of the Haskell Chamber of Commerce will be held at 7 a.m. Wednesday, March 5, at the Pizza Barn.

Mrs. Elbert Johnson of Johnson Pharmacy will speak briefly on customer relations. The new chairman of the association will be announced during the meeting.

The administrator also told the Council that work has begun on a new waterway to combat drainage problems on the runway and taxi way at the airport.

TRAILER DESTROYED

This trailer home at South 1st and Ave. G was destroyed by fire last Tuesday afternoon. Firemen extinguished the blaze, but the rapidly spreading fire had already destroyed the home.

Search underway for homemaker honor

The search is underway for the Haskell County "Conservation Homemaker of the Year."

An annual project of the Haskell Soil and Water Conservation District, the honor will be bestowed upon a county homemaker during the district's annual awards banquet in the spring.

Nominations for the award are now being accepted by the Soil and Water Conservation District.

Those wishing to make nominations are reminded that the nominee must be a resident of Haskell County and must not have been previously honored as "Conservation Homemaker."

A written biography and a list of conservation practices in the home and/or farming practices must accompany the nomination.

The biography must include the name, address, marital status, children and their accomplishments, church, club and other civic activities and hobbies.

Entries should be submitted to the Haskell Soil and Water Conservation District, 510 South 2nd St., Haskell, TX 79521.

Last year's winner was Mrs. Gus Rueffer of Weinert.

Farmers to discuss conversion program

Area farmers will have an opportunity tonight (Thursday) to discuss the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) and decide if they are interested in participating.

They will meet at the Community Building of Haskell National Bank at 7 o'clock. The CRP will be outlined by Jim Hudson of the Soil Conservation Service.

Purpose of the CRP is to retire highly erodible cropland from the production of annual crops to less extensive uses such as permanent grass or wildlife cover. Basic requirements are that the land must have been cropped or considered cropped during two of the past five years and it must be highly erodible.

Highly erodible cropland is

Who?

Three seek Council seats

There will be a contested race in the city election after all. Tony Burson filed last Wednesday as a candidate for City Council, bringing to three the number of candidates who will be seeking election to the two positions to be decided in the April 5 election.

Early, incumbant Kenny Watson had filed for re-election to a second term, and Claude Payne had filed as a candidate for the Council.

Mayor Abe Turner, a candidate for a second term, did not draw opposition during the filing period which closed Feb. 19.

City Council members are elected at-large. The two top vote-getters in the April 5 election will be the winners.

When?

Voters face deadline

Unregistered voters have until March 6 (Thursday of next week) to register to be eligible for the city and school elections scheduled for April 5.

Law requires that a voter be registered 30 days prior to an election before the voter is eligible to vote.

A mayor and two Council members will be elected in the city election, and two board members will be elected in the school election.

What?

Seniors to get tax help

Help is available to Haskell County senior citizens in preparing their income tax reports.

Through a program sponsored by the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP), a consultant will be available each Monday from 9 a.m. to noon at the Experienced Citizens Center in Haskell to assist senior citizens in preparing their returns.

This service will be available each Monday until April 15. There is no charge.

Those desiring to take advantage of the service are requested to bring all necessary information, including a copy of their 1984 tax return.

THE BLINDFOLDED BUYER!

Imagine yourself ready to purchase your first home. You've saved your money, and are ready to make the big decision. Then, as you leave on your househunting trip, you blindfold yourself and prepare to begin inspecting homes.

WAIT A MINUTE! Can you imagine going on a househunting trip, planning to make the biggest purchase decision of your adult life, wearing a blindfold? Of course not! Yet, many homebuyers make their first purchase decision without having all the facts.

Perhaps the wisest decision you could make, initially, is to choose a reputable real estate agent to help locate homes for you. And, while you're at it, choose someone who is willing to spend time answering your real estate questions, all of them.

Avoid anyone who shies away from your questions, or tells you they're not important.

And don't be afraid to ask your agent for documentation of the answers provided to your questions. An agent who demonstrates a complete understanding of your questions, and who provides direct, logical, documented answers is extremely valuable to you when decision time arrives.

Make your choice of an agent carefully, then contribute your full cooperation to that one individual. You'll be glad you did!

If you need information to help you solve a real estate puzzle, call us at 864-2665. We'll be happy to share our knowledge with you at no cost or obligation.

Membership in 4-H affects lives of students

Does participation in 4-H make a difference in the lives of individuals?
A nationwide poll last fall of 1,761 individuals showed that 4-H does, indeed, have a positive effect on the lives of individuals who were involved in the program as youths.

Four-H is an informal educational program for youth between the ages of 9 and 19 that is conducted by the Extension Service, U. S. Dept. of Agriculture and state Extension Services. Its objective is to provide help in the development of knowledge and leadership as well as in problem-solving and personal skills.

"Major purpose of the poll was to determine the impact of the 4-H experience on the lives of former 4-H members," said Dr. Howard Ladewig, program evaluation specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and leader of the study. Working with Ladewig was Dr. John Thomas, rural sociologist with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. The study was funded by a grant from ES, USDA.

The randomly selected sample of individuals in the study included 710 former 4-H members and 743 members of other youth organizations. The remainder had not been involved in organized groups during their youth.

A key finding of the survey, Ladewig said, is that former 4-H members today are more active in community activities, particularly in leadership roles, than non-members.

When comparing both former 4-H members and those participating in other youth organizations with non-participants in youth groups, the community involvement aspect is particularly significant. "Those who did not take part in organizations as youth are currently much less involved in adult community activities," Ladewig noted.

Four-H also tends to have family ties, Ladewig pointed out. Former 4-H members indicated that their children are participating in 4-H to a large degree (by 50 percent more than children with non-4-H parents). They themselves also take part in Extension educational programs and activities to a significantly greater degree than former members of other youth groups as well as former non-participants in youth groups.

"One reason for the greater involvement by former 4-H'ers relates to the types of experiences they had as youths. Without question, the study showed that former 4-H members gave higher rankings to personal development, knowledge, leadership and coping skills experiences than did former members of other organizations," Ladewig noted.

"Four-H participants also felt that their overall experiences were more valuable to them than did participants of other youth organizations," he said.

The study also found that characteristics of 4-H members, as youths, are no different from other youths across the nation who are involved in such groups as Scouts, Boys and Girls Clubs, YMCA and YWCA, church organizations and FFA and FHA, the specialist noted. Their backgrounds, educational attainments and incomes are generally similar.

Further study of the survey data will focus on reasons why particular activities have led to greater involvement of former youth group members in community affairs. Areas to be addressed include leadership development, opportunities for responsibility, communications skills and the development of self worth.

Foard County plans celebration in April

Residents of Foard County are planning a big Sesquicentennial observance and 95th birthday for the county the week end of April 25-27 and are inviting all residents of this section of North Texas to join in the festivities.

At a recent meeting of the Sesquicentennial Committee, a tentative schedule of activities was set with the activities set to begin Friday, April 25. A catered fish fry will be served from 6 to 8 p.m. Entertainment will include local and family bands "pickin and grinnin'" with visiting and a street dance. A softball tournament will get underway that night at 7 o'clock, and the ASA sanctioned tourney will continue through the weekend.

Saturday morning, April 26, a chuck wagon breakfast of eggs, bacon, sour dough biscuits, gravy, etc. will be served from 6 to 8 a.m. south of the square where a huge tent will be erected.

A parade will begin at 10 a.m. Saturday and other activities for the day include an antique car show, quilt show, rodeo events, horseshoes, games in the park for kids, flea market, arts and craft show and tour of homes.

A number of classes of Crowell High School will be holding reunions from 3 to 5 p.m. Saturday.

Supper Saturday night will be a pit barbecue dinner. The day's activities will close with a dance at the ag pavilion.

Area residents are invited and urged to participate. Anyone wishing an entry in the parade should contact Walter Ramsey, Rt. 1, Crowell, TX 79227, phone 684-1239. Those wishing to participate in the arts and crafts show should contact Pat Wishon, Box 430, Crowell, TX 79227, phone 684-1819, and those interested in making the tour of homes are invited to contact Dossie Kincaid, 684-1984.

Breakfast Saturday will be $4 and the other meals with be $5 per plate.

Texas Baptists show increases in all areas

Texas Baptists increased their total number of churches, memberships, baptisms and other major categories during the 1984-85 church year, according to figures released in Dallas by the 2.3-million member Baptist General Convention of Texas.

Baptisms increased from 62,581 to 64,486. Texas Baptists have a goal to baptize a record-breaking 100,000 people in 1986, the year of Good News America simultaneous revivals. More than 80 percent of Texas Baptist churches have committed themselves to participate in the revivals this spring, said BGCT Evangelism Director Carlos McLeod.

The total number of churches in the Baptist General Convention of Texas increased by 100, from 4,861 to 4,961.

Food bills often include other items

Just adding up your grocery store receipts won't give you a complete picture of your weekly or monthly food costs.

Now that supermarkets sell everything from cosmetics to barbecue grills, the figure on a cash register tape may represent much more than food expenses, says consumer economics specialist Bonnie Piernot.

According to the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service specialist, industry analysts estimate that up to one fourth of the money consumers spend in supermarkets goes for non-food items.

Once you subtract the non-food items from your weekly grocery bill, your cost will be lower. But it will go right back up when you add in the expense of eating out in restaurants or fast food stores.

Meals eaten away from home can cost two or three times as much as the same food prepared at home, Piernot says.

When you eat restaurant meals and charge them on a credit card, the cost of that credit also becomes part of your food costs. If you pay the credit card bill within 30 days, interest will not be charged.

But if your restaurant meals become part of a debt on which you continue to pay interest over time, you are paying extra for the privilege of having charged them, notes the specialist.

Piernot explains that costs for food away from home also include lunches at school or work, snacks and beverages from a vending machine, shopping mall or movie theater snack bar.

These minor costs can add up. For example, if you spend 50 cents each workday for a soft drink out of a vending machine, that amounts to about $120 a year.

If you take a self-prescribed vitamin, this expenditure should be added into your food costs too.

Vitamin supplements are often many times more expensive than the foods that would supply those same nutrients. So buying vitamins instead of eating a balanced diet could be a significant part of your food budget, says Piernot.

Your physician can determine if you are vitamin-deficient and need to be taking a supplement for medical reasons, she adds.

When you need to cut back on the "food budget," the specialist suggests starting with your spending for food away from home, self-prescribed vitamins and non-food items you buy at the grocery store.

State revenue predictions drop

State Comptroller Bob Bullock has announced he has cut $1.3 billion from what he says is available for the state to meet its present two-year budget.

Bullock said he revised the state's revenue outlook because of tumbling oil prices and federal budget cuts. Reductions in tax revenue from oil, natural gas and sales taxes made up the majority of the cuts.

Meat label depends on individual butcher

The meat in your supermarket may carry names like "extra lean," "gourmet lean" and "super trim", on the label. But what these terms mean depends on the butcher.

"Because there's no mandatory system for naming beef once it reaches the market, extra lean might mean 85 percent lean to one butcher and 75 percent lean to another," says nutritionist Mary K. Sweeten.

But the beef industry does have a voluntary standard limiting lean ground beef to 24 percent fat and extra lean to 15 percent fat, she adds.

According to the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service specialist, the only time you can be certain about the names of beef steaks and roasts is when they're called "prime," "choice," or "good."

Only meat graded at the packinghouse using U.S. Department of Agriculture guidelines can be labeled with these words. Government graders assign these designations on specific criteria, such as age and the degree of fat marbling.

The beef with the most fat marbling tends to be the most tender and is the most likely to be called "prime."

Recent USDA figures show that about half the markets in the country do not use the federal grading terminology exclusively.

"If your supermarket doesn't use the federal terminology, become familiar with the labeling terms they do use by asking the butcher what they mean," Sweeten advises.

Consumers can also get nutrition information on labels or at the meat case in many Texas stores, says the specialist.

Many supermarkets are using "Meat Nutri-Facts," a program supported by the red meat industry to inform consumers about the nutritional composition of meat.

Large Nutri-Fact cards displayed in the meat case show the amount of calories, total fat, cholesterol, sodium, protein, iron, zinc, thiamin, niacin and vitamin B-12 contained in a cooked, trimmed, three-ounce serving of a particular cut of meat.

"This information can help consumers select meat cuts according to nutrient needs, and may be of great use to shoppers on special diets," notes Sweeten.

Consumers who pay attention to both the grading of meat and its nutrient content can make better decisions about getting the most for their meat dollar, says the specialist.

Welfare Board hears program on children

The Haskell County Child Welfare Board met in regular session in the Jury Room of the courthouse at 6:30 p.m. Feb. 18.

Nancy Norman of the Texas Dept. of Human Services, Abilene, met with the group and explained the purpose of the board, which is to act as an educational body, as an advisory support to the County Dept. of Human Services, and to aid in making the public aware of the need for foster home care for abused and neglected children and to extend this awareness through school programs.

The orientation for new members on Feb. 11 was cancelled because of extreme weather. The next date will be March 6 at the Baylor County Courthouse in Seymour. New members are Debbie Earles, who was present, and Christie Stapleton.

The Board plans to place a copy of the Spider Man comic paper, which emphasizes the child's right to tell of abuse, in the hands of every Haskell County school child as the April Child Abuse Prevention Project. The administrators of the schools have consented to this. The Board is grateful for their cooperation.

David Smith reported that an organizational meeting for Toughlove, a self-help program for parents troubled by teenage behavior, would be held in the Community Room Feb. 25. He also reported that since the abortion laws had gone into effect, child abuse has increased 500 percent.

Donna Spikes came to inquire about foster home qualifications.

Meetings are held on the third Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. The Board desires to increase the membership.

Party honors Mrs. Mapes on birthday

Floy Atchison Mapes was the honoree at a surprise 85th birthday party on Saturday, Feb. 22.

Born in 1901 in Comanche County, she came with her parents to Haskell County when she was nine months old.

She said that this was the first surprise birthday party she had ever had and was thoroughly pleased with every minute of it.

Chocolate cake and punch were served by Mrs. Mapes' son and his family, Gene, Ann, Jodi and Brad Mapes of Lubbock.

A highlight of the party was a long distance call from Mrs. Mapes' other son, Bob, from Haskell, Okla. Everyone enjoyed talking to Bob and his wife Sally.

Others present at the party included Frieda and M. C. Piland, Mrs. Mapes' daughter and son-in-law from Abilene, granddaughters Kay Looney from Truscott and Sherry Adams and her husband Ronnie from Haskell.

Also Leon and Letha Newton, Judy Washburn, Isa Fielding, Audry McCormick, John and Marie Bartley, Jesse and Olivia Leonard, Nellie and Rody Sorenson and Bo and Pete Mercer.

17 members attend meeting of Hobby Club

On Feb. 17, seventeen members of the Rochester Hobby Club enjoyed another day of visiting, quilting and eating with Tennie Mae Short, a gracious hostess. There were 10 guests for lunch and several other visitors during the day.

The club, in deep appreciation of many years of faithful service as club reporter, presented a gift to Olga Alvis. She and her mother, Mary Ada Bowman, served as club reporters for many, many years.

A silk flower arrangement was presented to out-going president, Odessa Erwin.

Mattie Lou Cole did the artistic decorations of the windows. In one area she has placed an interesting historical display. In the other section, a beautiful "Around the World Quilt" is hung. Plans were discussed concerning the Texas Wagon Train's scheduled visit to Rochester in early June. Mae Speck is to be hostess for the March 4 meeting.

Willie wrangles Texas

"This is Willie Nelson—and this is Texas."

So ended each of the 45 30-second TV Sesquicentennial tributes, "Willie Nelson's True Tales of Texas," taped in Austin Feb. 14-15.

"I took on this project because of the stories," said Nelson. "They're all about the heart and soul of Texas."

Topics reflect familiar Texas images—but with a twist. "We're telling the surprising, the funny and unusual stories," said Producer David Horwitz of Horwitz and Shoup, who developed the "True Tales" scripts with Paul Burka, editor of Texas Monthly's special Sesquicentennial issue. "We want folks to smile, laugh or simply say, 'I didn't know that.'"

"Willie Nelson's True Tales" are bits of little-known Texana: from Texas' first barbed wire salesman to Amon Carter's brown bag boycott of Dallas, a shootout over beans in the chili to Leadbelly's singin' prison pardon, the 45 highly entertaining vignettes capture the cultural cadence of the Lone Star State.

"True Tales" was a project of Fort Worth's Media Drop-In Productions, Inc. and was underwritten by Wrangler. "Wrangler is proud to underwrite a project which celebrates Texas and the enterprising nature of her people," said Wrangler's director of special projects, David Allen. "After all, without cowboys, we wouldn't have jeans!"

Production value was sky-high. Dozens of Texas museums, archives and private collectors donated authentic props, which were shot on an elaborate set designed by artist Daniel Miller.

The series will be offered on an exclusive basis in each Texas television market. "It's first come, first serve," comments Steve Saferin of Media Drop-In Productions. "We're also expecting international distribution."

Homemakers enjoy insomnia program

The Weinert Extension Homemakers Club met in the home of Mrs. J. E. Jetton for its February meeting. Eight members and one guest answered roll call on "What relaxes me." The agent, Lou Gilly, brought a program on "Laying Insomnia to Sleep."

The insomnia history can help identify the nature and possible causes of sleep problems, and once causes are identified, actions to correct them can be taken. Some causes she listed were: a noisy bedroom, or a restless bed partner, or possibly a room too warm or too cold. Another cause could be stress, or physical illness, over-exertion, or tobacco or alcohol can sometimes disturb sleep.

Some self-help tips to better sleep are: Have a regular sleep schedule, set up a restful environment, avoid heavy or spicy late meals, avoid caffeine after lunch time, avoid strenuous exercise and excessive mental stimulation an hour prior to sleep.

She said sleeping pills are used by four to six million people, but urged all to avoid them. They work for three to four weeks, then more medication is required. They are the third most common cause of suicide in the United States.

Mrs. Yates reported that the quilt the club donated to the West Texas Rehab Center brought $600 at the auction. She gave the council report, and announced a blood drive for "Mary Meeks Center" in Abilene will be at the Weinert School on March 11.

Mrs. Phemister gave a brief history of the Sesquicentennial Wagon Train and reported that one may still join the train for $15 (a couple for $25).

Mrs. Jetton served a delicious Valentine refreshment buffet. It was Mrs. Sanders' birthday and the club sang "Happy Birthday" to her.

Next meeting will be hosted by Mrs. J. A. Mayfield. Program will be "200 Years of Authentic Fashions."

Thought for the day: Fun is the cheapest medicine that has been discovered, and is the easiest to take.

Garden Club hears program on planting

The theme "Spring Fever" was featured Thursday when the Haskell Garden Club held its February meeting in the Haskell National Bank Community Building.

A very interesting program, entitled "From Seed to Blossom On a Shoestring" was given by the guest speaker, Victor Hobbs, a Haskell resident who has become an expert flower grower through the pursuit of a hobby he adopted after his retirement from farming in the Weinert area.

After showing proof of his expertise, beautiful pictures of his last year's yard, he then told the club that the three things most helpful to having success with flowering plants are proper preparation of soil in relation to the particular needs of the plant, using quality seeds and accepting the challenge to spend the necessary time and energy it takes.

After elaborating on these three he explained how plants can be started indoors without having a greenhouse. Using good starter soil, he said, seeds can be germinated in such readily available and inexpensive containers as loaf and cake pans, margarine bowls and egg cartons, using heat from pilot lights or winter sun through southern exposure windows. He then demonstrated how to make milk carton greenhouses for outside plant seedlings, and also how to cut and use tin cans and plastic sheets for best heat radiation.

"Wings Over My Garden," an informative program about local birds, prepared by Miss Nettie McCollum, was given by Mrs. Linda King.

"Growing Plants for Dried Arrangements" was given by Mrs. Juanita Rhea, who also told how to dry them. Using dried cattails, iris leaf, dock, dusty miller, holly, umbrella plant, lily pod, garlic, coxcomb and yarrow, she demonstrated their use in an arrangement as she spoke.

Horticultural exhibits were brought by Mrs. J. O. Blankenship and Mrs. Edith James. These included African violets rooted from cuttings, ornamental kale and philodendron and Joseph's coat growing in water. Two arrangements of dried pasture weeds and grasses were brought for the club's critique by Mrs. Mary Kaigler.

Mrs. John Robinson presided at a business meeting during which plans were discussed for using an available fund of $300 to help beautify the grounds of the Civic Center. A report was heard of the February meeting in Stamford, and preliminary planning was started for the local club's participation in the District VIII meeting Nov. 7-8.

Hostesses for the day were Mrs. Blankenship and Mrs. Ira Davis. Next meeting of the club will be March 13 with a program on "Volunteers in Action at the Experienced Citizens Center." Guests and interested persons are always welcome at each meeting.

Morton puts end to Haskell season

In case there was any doubt beforehand, the Haskell Indians know why Morton was rated the top Class AA basketball team in Texas.

In a bi-district game in Lamesa Thursday night, the Indians lost 89-53 to the South Plains powerhouse.

The Indians made a game of it during the first half, trailing by 4 points, 19-15, after the first period and by 8 points, 35-27, at halftime.

But Morton blew the game open in the second half with a 54-point outburst, 27 points in each of the two periods, one more point than Haskell got in both.

Sammy Baker ended his high school career with a game-high 17 points. Mark Young was right behind with 15.

With the loss, Haskell finished the year with a 20-8 record, its fourth consecutive 20-win season.

Girls' all-district team announced

Champion Haskell and runnerup Hawley each placed three players on the girls' all-district basketball team announced last week by the coaches. Haskell also had two members on the second team.

Making the first team from Haskell were Tamala Randle, Julie Rowe and Denice Young. Lori McGee and Patricia Henry were on the second team.

Most valuable player was Cynthia Titus of Hamlin.

Other first-team members were Lisa Schoemer of Hawley, Christa Cooley of Hawley, Gina Bond of Hamlin, Lisa Kicker of Hawley and Vera Strickland of Stamford.

Other second-team members were Sherity Newman of Anson, Evette Gruben of Rotan, Kelley Thompson of Stamford, Charlotte Bolden of Hamlin, Vikki Wright of Rotan and Terri Thomas of Anson.

Mickler resigns

Jim Bob Mickler, Haskell teacher and coach, has resigned his position to enter business.

Mickler has purchased a distributorship of Tom's Foods, Inc., for Haskell and Knox counties. His resignation is effective March 14.

New faces dot Haskell grid schedule

Three new faces appear on the 1986 football schedule of the Haskell Indians.

New opponents include Holliday, Knox City and Albany. Dropped from the schedule were Seymour, Iowa Park and Rotan.

Although it probably won't be as tough a schedule as last year when the Indians faced five playoff teams, it's still a formidable slate. It includes defending state AA champion Electra and AA semifinalist Hamlin, as well as Class A semifinalist Munday.

The Indians will open the 1986 season at home Sept. 5 against Munday. The next week, Sept. 12, they will play in Holliday and on Sept. 19 will play at Electra.

Quanah will be here Sept. 26 and then the Indians will close out their non-district schedule by playing in Knox City Oct. 3.

First district game will be here Oct. 10 against champion Hamlin. On Oct. 17, the Indians travel to Albany to meet the team which has replaced Rotan in the district. Haskell will be at Stamford Oct. 24 and will then close out the district season with games here against Hawley and Anson on Oct. 31 and Nov 7, respectively.

Snacks play bigger role in diets

Recent research shows that snacks are making a greater nutritional contribution to the diets of women and children, says a Texas A&M extension service nutritionist.

Dr. Alice Hunt compared data on the food intake of women and children in 1977 to new data collected in 1985.

The 1985 data showed that more women and children reported eating four times a day than three times a day. In 1977, three meals a day was reported most frequently.

Seventy-six percent of the women and 83 percent of the children in the current study identified one or more of their eating occasions as a "snack." These figures were much lower—60 percent for women and 62 percent for children—in 1977.

What a year!

All Haskell teams post winning records

Ten basketball teams represented Haskell during the 1985-86 season and everyone of them posted a winning record.

Including both boys' and girls' teams of the seventh and eighth grades, freshmen, junior varsity and senior varsity, Haskell teams posted 126 victories, against only 41 losses for the year.

Boys' teams won 67 games and lost 24, while girls' teams won 59 and lost only 17.

Against district 6-AA schools, all Haskell teams won 44 games and lost only 6.

The varsity girls, champions of district 6-AA, were 21-5 for the year. They won their bi-district playoff before being eliminated in the area contest.

The varsity boys, 20-8, were second-half champions of district 6-AA, but lost out in the bi-district. Best record of any Haskell team was that of the freshman boys who were perfect 11-0 for the season. Both the seventh-and eighth-grade girls were 10-1. The freshman girls were 8-2.

The seventh-grade boys posted a 14-3 mark and the eighth-grade boys were 11-5.

The junior varsity boys were 11-8 and the junior varsity girls were 10-8, but both these teams played several varsity teams. Three of the JV boys' losses, for instance, were at the hands of varsity teams.

Baker, Young selected for district honors

Sammy Baker and Mark Young have been named to the all-district basketball team.

Baker, a senior, and Young, a sophomore, were the two leading scorers for the Haskell Indians during the season just completed.

Another Indian, Tim Johnson, received honorable mention in the balloting by district coaches.

Stamford's Delce signs with ETSU

Stamford's Tim Delce, star running back for the Bulldog football team last fall, has signed a national letter of intent with East Texas State University at Commerce.

ETSU coaches say they will probably try the gifted runner at wide receiver and as a kickoff and punt return specialist, as well as a running back.

Weinert plans volleyball meet

The Weinert senior class will sponsor a mixed round robin volleyball tournament Saturday in Weinert.

To enter, contact the school by Thursday (today) at 673-2401 or call Linda Stewart, 673-2181.

Track teams prep for season openers

With the basketball season over, the Haskell Indian track teams began preparations this week for the 1986 season.

Boys' coach Jimmy Lisle and girls' coach George Martin are preparing their teams for their first round of competition. For the girls, that will come Saturday in an invitational meet at Stamford. For the boys, the season opens a week later when they participate in an invitational at Anson.

On the eve of the opener, Lisle is awaiting grading reports, due Friday, before assessing his team's possibilities. Several team members could become casualties of the no-pass/no play rule.

Team schedules are:

AT BANQUET

Cooked foods can lose some of its vitamins

Cooking ahead and the heating and reheating of foods in a microwave has become a way of life in many busy families. But the saving in cooking time can be at the expense of nutrients.

According to a Texas A&M University agricultural extension service nutritionist, storing fresh vegetables and then heating or reheating them causes loss of vitamin C.

Vegetables have about three-fourths as much vitamin C after one day in the refrigerator as when freshly cooked and about two-thirds as much after two days, says Dr. Dymple Cooksey.

Cooked vegetables reheated after two or three days in the refrigerator will supply only one-third to one-half as much vitamin C as when freshly prepared.

"Eating heated and reheated vegetables shouldn't cause concern if your meals include other, more dependable sources of vitamin C each day, such as citrus fruits and juices," she notes.

Freshly squeezed, canned or reconstituted frozen orange juice can be held in the refrigerator for several days before any vitamin C is lost, Cooksey explains.

The nutritionist adds that even a few hours outside the refrigerator won't cause any serious loss in vitamin C from orange juice, although it may impair the flavor.

It is not necessary to take vitamin C tablets if you're eating a balanced diet that includes vegetables and citrus fruits, Cooksey maintains.

Two from here on ACU honor roll

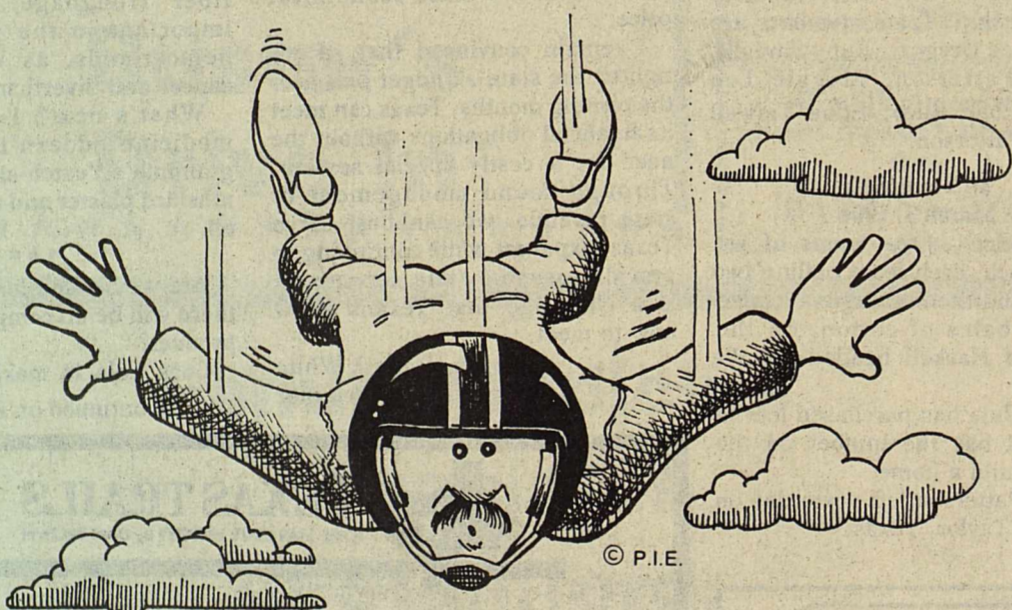

Two students from the Haskell area are among 648 Abilene Christian University students listed on the Dean's Honor Roll for the 1985 fall semester.

The list includes Miss Becky Jo Medford, daughter of Burl Medford, and John Eric Wilson, grandson of Syble Riney.

To be listed on the honor roll, a student must be enrolled for a grade in at least 12 semester hours, and earn a 3.45 grade point average or higher.

Special session speculation grows

AUSTIN—Governor Mark White last week unveiled the first step of his plan to solve the state's $1.3 billion budget crisis, but speculation grows about a summer special session.

White says a special session isn't necessary at this time and issued his executive order urging the heads of each state agency and state university to cut 13 percent of their budgets.

Two questions are apparent in this strategy: can the agencies find 13 percent worth of cuts, and will they?

Agency heads responded in the spirit of cooperation, even though White's executive order is not legally binding.

Nevertheless, these agencies don't want to face wrathful House and Senate budget committees next session, and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and Speaker Gib Lewis praised White's move.

Nor do they want to risk crossing Comptroller Bob Bullock, who, if history repeats itself, will quietly come up with the answer the Legislature needs to solve the crisis.

Special Session

One group representing public employees has already called on White to bring lawmakers back into a special session, but neither White nor a major achievement. They also planned for a partial oil price collapse and built that consideration into the state budget.

What really upsets the applecart for Texas are the recent federal cuts of $600 million. Lawmakers hadn't foreseen that.

Still to come, perhaps, is another drop in the price of oil. When it does, Bullock will signal the leadership.

The Prince Visits

Prince Charles of Great Britain visited the Capitol last week to participate in sesquicentennial events, stopping to chat with students on The University of Texas campus and cutting a super large celebration cake.

Naturally, students taught him the "Hook 'em Horns" sign, which he quipped he should not use in Italy. The sign stands for something else in that country.

Onlookers described the prince as very friendly, but the model of decorum.

Temple Resigns

Railroad Commissioner Buddy Temple resigned last week, saying he owns an interest in a company which recently bought a railroad interest.

Temple, who had already said he would not seek reelection, voluntarily stepped down explaining state law forbids such a conflict of interest.

Political Heat

The governor's race heightened in both camps last week after Republican candidates began exchanging swipes and White's Democratic campaign showed signs of leaking.

Republican-convert Kent Hance asked former GOP Gov. Bill Clements to apologize for calling him ignorant and attacked Clements' record on trimming state employees.

Clements buckled to neither tactic, but later urged that some experienced teachers should be exempt from the new state competency test. Even though Clements treated teachers shabbily, by their standards, in his term, they are so angered with White that Clements could make inroads.

Meanwhile, West Texas teachers posted a list of grievances on the governor's door, but he never saw them there. His staff tore them down, saying if teachers want to say something to White, they should have handed the list to someone in his reception room.

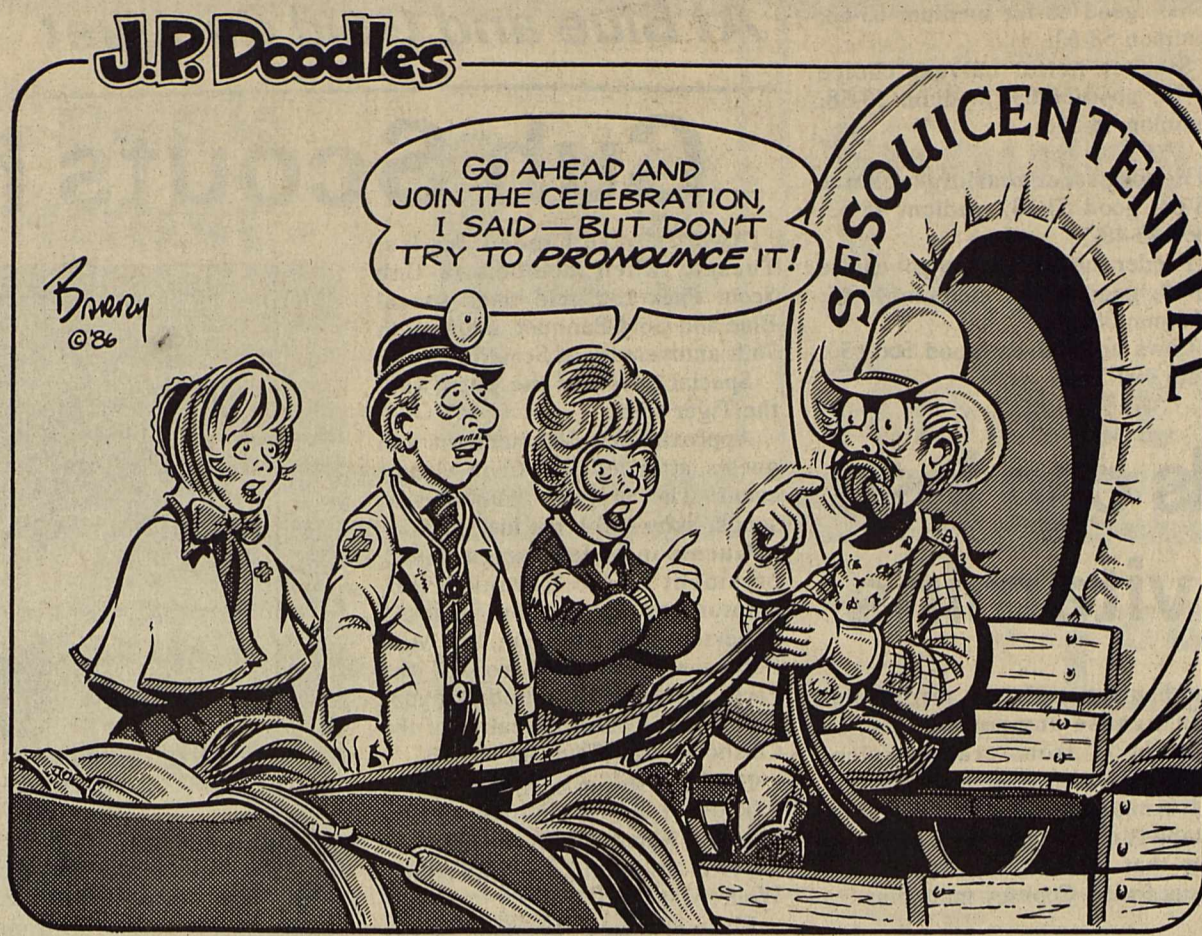

Yeah, that's the trouble, Democrats are saying. White won't communicate with anyone, nor will his campaign. Unmistakably, the Democratic disenchantment with White is growing, but who would have believed it?

Election school to be in Abilene

Staff members from the office of the Secretary of State will be in Abilene March 6 to conduct an election judges' school for persons who will be involved in conducting upcoming local elections.

The school will cover all aspects of the election process which fall under the administrative jurisdiction of election judges.

The session, to run from 10 a.m. to noon, will be at 1025 East North 10th St. There is no charge for the school.

Letters to the Editor

Governor calls for spending cuts

Editor: State government already is feeling the impact of an unprecedented 50 percent drop in the spot price of oil in recent weeks, and I want to take this opportunity to inform you of what we are doing to immediately curtail state spending.

I have issued an Executive Order directing all state agencies and universities to reduce spending by 13 percent for the current two-year budget period to prevent the $1.3 billion shortfall predicted by state Comptroller Bob Bullock. Not every university and agency program will experience a 13 percent reduction. The Governor's office has supplied agency and university administrators with some specific directives to aid them in this difficult task of trimming already lean budgets, but they have the expertise and the flexibility to cut, defer or eliminate where most feasible to save state revenue.

My Executive Order calls for a hiring freeze except where new hires are needed to continue critical programs or to comply with court orders. No promotions, merit pay increases, new consulting contracts, or out-of-state travel plans can be authorized unless the agency's top executive gives prior written justification and approval. I am directing agencies and universities to defer construction and renovation of buildings unless they are needed to comply with court orders, to house individuals in the custody of state agencies, or to continue the most essential programs. State institutions are directed not to purchase non-essential supplies, motor vehicles or capital equipment, and they are to look for innovative ways to cut utility bills.

For many years, Texas has relied on a financial cushion supplied by a booming oil industry, but now that cushion is gone and we are facing tough economic challenges. The current budget is one of the tightest in memory. In my two sessions as Governor, we faced a $7.2 billion revenue shortfall from earlier projections. Still, we achieved a balanced budget and kept budget increases over the four-year period to 38.2 percent compared to my predecessor, who in his two sessions increased state spending by 56.9 percent. By working together, we can live within our means and still supply quality state services at the most economical price.

I remain convinced that, if we tighten the state's budget belt over the coming months, Texas can meet its financial obligations without the need for a costly special session. Through sound management of state revenue, we can best serve Texas taxpayers while continuing to provide essential state services. It is a challenge that Texans know how to meet.

the lawmakers want that to happen anytime before Election Day.

White tried it the summer before election '84 and was weakened when voters defeated several of the legislators who voted for his tax hike.

It's no secret that many Democrats are disgruntled with White, to say the least, and are trying to distance themselves from him politically.

Still, a scenario that some are starting to pass around has White calling a special session this summer to cut spending without a tax hike. Some contend he might limit the call to include the prohibition of a personal state income tax.

This maneuver would allow Democrats to establish themselves as fiscal conservatives, which many of them are, in spite of White.

Where's the Fat?

One problem is there may not be $1.3 billion worth of "fat" to trim from the state budget without serious limitations on services.

After all, lawmakers trimmed almost $1 billion last session—

Lucky Vanna White

By Wendell Faught

I think it was Arnold Palmer—or maybe Jack Nicklaus or somebody else—who first said something about success being "when opportunity meets preparation."

Everyone knows of someone who never seems to get a break in life. I've known a fellow for years who was an excellent student, a hard worker and an outstanding individual. He's a lot smarter and much more capable than a lot of successful people I know. But, for some reason, he never seemed to be in the right place at the right time. So, despite his credentials, he always winds up on the bottom of the heap every time he tries something.

I was reminded of this the other day when I read a story about Vanna White.

Who's Vanna White?

She happens to be a gal who happened to be at the right place at the right time. As a result, the producer of "Wheel of Fortune," television's most popular game show, decided she was just the right person to unveil the letters which spell the words on his game board.

Without using talent, brains or even character, Vanna White was propelled into a prestigious position on a daily television show where she is seen by millions every day. And she makes a bundle of money.

I don't intend to imply that Vanna has no talent, brains or character. She may be overloaded in each of these categories. But the point is, it didn't take any of them to land her this glamorous position.

There's a lesson here somewhere. Maybe this is what Arnold Palmer—or Jack Nicklaus or somebody—was talking about.

It was about 25 years ago that a doctor told me that milk is "for babies and calves." People would be a lot better off if they didn't drink milk after they're three years old, he said.

The other day I read that calcium is the mineral most likely to be lacking in our diet. Women, particularly, need a lot more of it than was once thought.

Some years ago, a friend suffering from hemorrhoids was told by his doctor to switch to a bland diet with a minimum of roughage. Now, we're told that fiber (roughage) is critically important in the prevention of hemorrhoids, as well as colon cancer and diverticulitis.

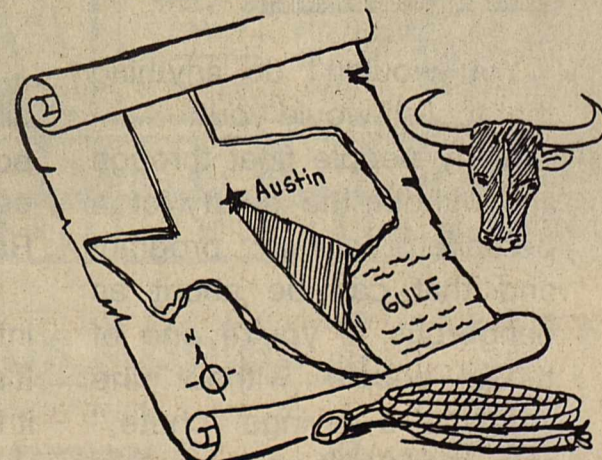

What's next? I hope modern medicine doesn't re-discover grandma's "catch-all" remedy—a mustard plaster and a dose of castor oil.

Are we headed for the day when there will be no competition for any product?

When "Cattle Baron" is mentioned many think of men such as Goodnight Loving, Waggoner. These men made their fortune in Texas Longhorn Gold after the Civil War, but there was at least one earlier Texas Cattle Baron. Joseph H. “The most practical means of disrupting KGB operations in America is to require parity in the number of Soviet diplomats in the United States and American diplomats in the Soviet Union....”

So said Stanislav Levchenko, a KGB major who defected to the United States, according to news reports last year.

Levchenko makes sense, especially in light of FBI estimates that 30 to 40 percent of all Soviets in the United States are professional intelligence officers who collect information, act as couriers and attempt to seduce Americans into spying on their country.

Congress followed Levchenko's advice by passing legislation last year, which I co-sponsored.

Official U.S. policy now places a limit on the number of embassy and consular officials the USSR—or any other country engaged in hostile intelligence gathering activities—will be allowed to send to the United States. The limit for each country equals the number of American diplomats allowed to work in that country.

Currently, 300 Soviet diplomats are assigned to the United States, while only 200 Americans work at our embassy and consulate in Russia.

That imbalance will soon be corrected, but it's just the tip of the iceberg for Soviet espionage activities here.

The largest Soviet presence in the United States is at the United Nations, which includes a 260-member Soviet mission. In contrast, the United States has a 130-member U.N. mission.

Also at the U.N. are the separate missions for the so-called Ukrainian and Byelorussian Soviet Socialist Republics—each having its own vote—with a total of 35 members. There are 300 Soviet employees of the United Nations Secretariat, numerous Soviet employees of U.N. agencies and many family members.

Arkady Shevchenko—former U.N. Under-Secretary General for Political and Security Council Affairs and one of the highest ranking Soviet defectors—says 21 of the 28 Soviet Bloc employees in his U.N. office spent some or all of their time spying, in New York and elsewhere.

Tracking the activities of so many Soviet agents is a virtually impossible task for the American intelligence community.

In addition to urging that we seek parity in the number of diplomats sent to the U.S. and the USSR, former KGB major Levchenko said we should also “limit drastically the size and operations of the huge Soviet mission to the United Nations.”

We ought to heed his warning.

I have joined with other members of the Senate Intelligence Committee in sponsoring legislation requiring that the United Nations missions of the United States and the USSR have the same number of members.

This is the next logical step on the difficult and complicated road to deterring Soviet espionage activities in the United States.

Recent spy cases—including the Walker family case, involving Navy secrets sold to the Soviets over many years—are evidence enough that we must improve efforts to protect our nation's security.

We have the right, as well as the need, to do so.

Dr. Pepper. This comes just a few weeks after Pepsico bought out 7-Up, which followed on the heels of an announcement that two of the tire-making giants are merging.

And these big companies aren't satisfied with just staying within their realm of expertise. Phillip Morris owns Miller Brewing Co., Mobil owns Montgomery Ward and K-Mart has Furr's Cafeterias.

I like the Governor's approach to the inevitable shortage of state money.

He lists a host of things which will be cut out, and then qualifies each suggestion with “except when necessary” or words to that effect.

All this time we have been led to believe that state tax money was only being spent on necessities in the first place.

Blackie Sherrod of The Dallas Morning News tells a little story about how all big league baseball managers are optimistic before the new season begins. When Pete Rose of Cincinnati expressed his pleasure at the 4-1 odds Las Vegas is giving on the Reds winning their division, he pointed out that last year the odds were 30-1.

Dodger Manager Tommy Lasorda reportedly replied:

“I'll tell you about odds, Mr. Rose. A friend of mine had to fly to Egypt and he had never been on an airplane before and he had been reading about all these terrorists and he was scared to death. Finally, he called up an oddsmaker at a sports book in Las Vegas and asked him the odds of a bomb being carried on a plane.

“Well, that's a new one,” said the oddsmaker. “We never have been asked that one before. Wait, let me see what the computer says.” After a little while, he came back and said, “Just about 300,000-to-one.”

“My friend worried some more and then he called again. ‘What's the odds on two bombs being carried on a plane?’ The guy ran it through the computer and came back with 600,000,000-to-one. So my friend went out and bought himself a bomb to take along and better his chances.”

More adult children living with parents

Unemployment, divorce or simple economics is leading more adult children—and their children—back to the parents' home.

Since there are pros and cons for both adult children and their parents, the decision to return to the parents' home shouldn't be taken lightly by either, says family relations expert Dorothy Taylor.

She says that by moving in with parents, the adult child's housing costs are usually reduced or eliminated. Yet the older parents' costs increase.

A parent may also be expected to provide free child care while the adult child works or looks for a job, if that parent is not also employed outside the home.

In addition, the family home can provide a familiar environment and a strong support system for the adult child and his or her children.

Taylor, who is a specialist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service home economics program, also cautions that returning to the family home can be a source of problems. For some adult children it will increase feelings of resentment, failure or lack of independence.

"If parents disapprove of the adult child's social life and sexual behavior or have different ideas of appropriate values and behavior for their grandchildren, it will be a stressful living situation for all," she remarks.

To reduce some of the problems in a two- or three-generation living situation, the specialist recommends a thorough discussion and agreement between parents and adult children about the roles and responsibilities of each.

Because adult children often move in with parents at a time of crisis in their lives, it may be difficult for them to effectively communicate about these matters at first, Taylor observes.

The older parents may also be upset about the imposition on their time, finances, lifestyle or privacy.

But to avoid conflict later, it is important for adult children and older parents to eventually work out an agreement about sharing household duties, telephone and utility costs, child care and discipline of the grandchildren.

The specialist says they may also need to discuss parking space for automobiles, personal space and privacy, kitchen privileges and meal preparation, laundry and general expectations about evening hours, use and volume of television and stereo music.

Since their home is being used to accommodate the adult child, older parents should not feel reluctant to insist on the final say in setting house rules, she advises.

Taylor points out that when either the adult child or parents consider the living arrangement to be temporary or transitional, it will be helpful to establish a tentative date for departure.

Charities gain more from bingo

Bingo contributions to charities doubled in the last three months of 1985 in the wake of a new rule issued last year setting a floor on charitable donations by licensed bingo operations, according to State Comptroller Bob Bullock.

Bullock said charitable organizations received $10,135,725 in the last three months of 1985 as bingo operators met or exceeded the comptroller's new requirement that at least 35 percent of gross receipts go to charity.

Bullock issued the 35 percent rule after the legislature failed to adopt bingo reform legislation last year.

"One reason the legislature legalized bingo in Texas was to benefit charities," Bullock said. "I'm going to see that this happens."

More fiber not always necessary

It is necessary to buy special high-fiber foods for health? Not if you're eating a well-balanced diet that includes about 15 grams of dietary fiber for every 1,000 calories, say nutrition experts.

Marketers have capitalized on medical scientists' call for more dietary fiber as a possible cancer preventative, by introducing a number of high fiber products. For example, several cereals with 9-12 grams of fiber per one-ounce serving are now on the market shelves.

But according to Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service nutritionist Dr. Alice Hunt, more fiber isn't always necessary.

She says nutrition research over the years has identified several useful properties of dietary fibers. Reduction of cholesterol absorbed by the intestine, alteration of the ratio of types of fats absorbed or changes in the transit time of digested food through the intestine have all been reported.

However, the researchers also point out that high bulk diets may cause a loss in the absorption of essential vitamins or minerals, says Hunt. Reduced absorption of proteins, fats, minerals and vitamins can result from 35 grams of dietary fiber per 1,000 calories per day.

Research is continuing to determine both the best types and amounts of fiber for a healthful diet.

In the meantime, the person who eats a balanced diet containing the recommended four servings of vegetables and fruit each day, as well as four servings of whole grain breads and cereals, should be able to get enough fiber from regular foods, says the nutritionist.

Vegetables, fruits and whole grains are the most common food sources of fiber, she adds. Some of the foods highest in fiber include broccoli, raw cabbage and carrots, dried beans and peas, wheat bran, oatmeal, dried prunes, unpeeled apples and other fruits with skins.

Miss Upshaw is Sweetwater queen

Senior Stephanie Upshaw was named Yucca Gloriosa queen at the annual coronation and program at Sweetwater High School Saturday night, Feb. 8.

Miss Upshaw is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Upshaw of Sweetwater and the granddaughter of Mrs. Estelle Burson and the late Raymond Burson of Haskell.

She was escorted by Michael Welch, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Welch.

A senior princess, Miss Upshaw is president of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. She attended FCA summer conference one year and participated in concert choir two years.

Miss Upshaw heads up the entire student body at Sweetwater High School as Student Council president.

She was named most valuable player in the Hardin-Simmons University Basketball Tournament this year and was honorable mention all-district her sophomore year. She is a member of the 1986 District 2-4-A girls' basketball team.

She is listed in Who's Who Among American High School Students, and American Names and Faces and was named to the Society of Distinguished American High School Students.

Miss Upshaw was a nominee for New Year Girl and has been a representative in the Yucca Coronation for three years. She has also served as freshman class president and freshman class favorite nominee.

Soil temperatures important in getting good stand of cotton

Soil temperature plays a key role in getting an early, uniform stand of cotton, so farmers need to keep a close check on this situation.

On the High Plains, early research has shown that a 10-day average minimum soil temperature of 60 degrees F. at the eight-inch depth is a recommended time to start planting cotton. Although this may appear conservative, using soil temperature as a guide has resulted in earlier plantings and established stands more often than when optimum dates are used, points out Dr. Bob Metzger, cotton specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

In other production areas, farmers have used an average soil temperature of 60-65 degrees F. at the four-inch depth, Metzger points out.

To avoid wide daily fluctuations, take daily readings at 7 to 8 a.m. for a period of one week to 10 days, suggests the specialist. Use this soil temperature planting guide only to establish the earliest possible planting date. Soil temperature becomes less of a determining factor for late-season planting when soil becomes warmer.

Unless highly vigorous seed are used, poor seedling survival can be expected if seed remain in soil with an average temperature below 60 degrees F. over a prolonged period, notes Metzger. Only high quality, vigorous seed have the ability to remain in cold soil over a prolonged period and germinate once a favorable soil temperature is reached.

Unfavorable soil conditions plus weak, low quality seed can result in decayed seed, slow emergence and poor, erratic stands. Matters become even worse if weak seed have broken seed coats or gin cuts that allow oil borne organisms to enter.

The lower the soil temperature, the greater the number of days necessary for seedlings to emerge, says Metzger. If soil temperature averages 55 degrees F. during the planting period, 15 to 20 days may be needed for seedling emergence.

However, with soil temperature at 70 degrees F., seedlings will likely emerge in only six days.

Planting early in cold soil at temperatures below 60 degrees F. does not necessarily insure earlier fruiting, adds the specialist. First bloom may be delayed as long as 65 to 85 days after planting in soils that average lower than 60 degrees F. But when the soil temperature at planting goes above 60 degrees, the first bloom may appear as soon as 45 to 55 days. This indicates that more rapid plant development occurs in warmer soil.

So, as planting season looms ahead, cotton farmers should keep tabs on soil temperature as well as the five-day weather forecast. "Jumping the gun" on planting could mean a poor stand of cotton and the added expense of replanting, cautions Metzger.
