Swink gets two more sentences

Roy Glenn Swink, convicted in 1978 for the murder of his brother in Aspermont, entered pleas of guilty in 39th District Court here last Thursday to the murders of his father and step-mother.

Judge Wayland Holt of Snyder sentenced him to two 45-year terms in prison. Swink has been serving a 45-year term on his first conviction since a jury in Haskell found him guilty in December 1978. The trial was moved from Aspermont to Haskell.

In his guilty pleas last week, Swink also admitted the use of a deadly weapon in the commission of the crimes.

The murders took place in Aspermont on Jan. 24, 1978. Since his conviction, Swink has been confined at Huntsville.

School looks at budget

Haskell School Board members looked at the second cut of the 1986-87 school budget when they met in regular session last Tuesday.

Dr. James Kemp, superintendent, explained that the budget is within about 4 percent of last year's budget. He said he expected the final budget to be approximately the same as a year ago, even with the addition of some $55,000 in teacher salary raises.

In other action, the Board accepted a bid from Borden Inc., for the school milk contract for next year, and accepted a bid from Sherman Carpets of Haskell for approximately 725 yards of carpet for the primary wing of the elementary school.

Council studies water rates

City councilmen discussed the City's contractual obligations under its contract with the North Central Texas Municipal Water Authority during its meeting last Tuesday.

City Administrator Robert Baker presented figures which he said he felt justified a request that the City's minimum quota be reduced.

The City is being charged for a minimum of 16 million gallons of water per month, or 49 percent of the total minimum quota of the four cities making up the authority. Baker pointed out that the percentage of the minimum quota should be based on the previous year's consumption.

A recommendation from the Cemetery Association that the City pass a resolution agreeing the maintain a ditch on the north side of the cemetery and recognize the association's ownership of the property was considered by the Council. Councilmen recommended that representatives of the association get with the city attorney to work out the wording of the resolution.

Also discussed was the status of property the city has acquired through delinquent taxes. It was agreed to seek legal advice on procedures to follow in order to sell the property and get it back on the tax rolls.

Councilmen approved a Zoning Board recommendation that property belonging to Minnie May Whitmore at 107 N. 1st E. be re-zoned to allow the placement of a mobile home.

Board stands firm on property values

By Wendell Faught

Protests were heard last Wednesday, but the 10-percent reduction in the appraised value of all property in Haskell County remains unchanged.

The Haskell County Appraisal District Review Board voted to stick with its earlier decision, which the chairman said was made as a result of the falling economy and lower oil prices.

The decision to stand pat was made following a public hearing during which superintendents of schools in Haskell, Rule and Paint Creek voiced their opposition to the reduction. The public meeting was called after the schools had appealed the Board's decision.

Complaints by the schools were that decreased appraisals will result in higher tax rates, that school districts will inch higher toward the maximum $1.50 tax rate allowed by law, and that the 10-percent blanket reduction was granted without individual assessment.

Haskell superintendent, Dr. James Kemp, told the Board that "general economic decisions are not admissible." He also questioned the Board's authority to make "appraisal decisions."

The Haskell superintendent commended the Board for its sensitivity to local economic conditions, but he called on the members to reverse their earlier decision.

Kemp suggested that the Board might obtain the same relief by having the appraiser reassess categories which are more sensitive, such as minerals.

Lavon Beakley, Rule superintendent, said he felt the appeal was the best way to meet with the Board and explain what the 10-percent reduction "has done and will do to our school."

He said last year's evaluation of property in the Rule school district was approximately $38.6 million. This year's appraisal reduced this to approximately $34.5 million, and then the 10-percent reduction from this figure would cut the evaluation to about $30 million.

"We all know that oil values will drop more," said the Rule superintendent. Pointing out that oil this year was appraised at $22 a barrel, before the 10-percent reduction, he said that if oil values decrease by half next year, "most of us will be bumping the $1.50 maximum."

He explained that House Bill 72 implementation already had forced the Rule school to raise its tax rate from 63 cents to 83 cents in the last two years. Even if the 10-percent devaluation is rescinded, Beakley said, the school would have to go to 95 cents. With the devaluation remaining, he said the tax rate probably will be around $1.08. "And we'd be looking at a 20-cent increase next year."

Beakley reminded the Board that the reduction in values would be values lost until there is a re-appraisal. There are no provisions for automatic recovery when economic conditions improve, he said.

Asked if there is anything the school can do to reduce its budget, Beakley replied that everything possible had already been cut. "No line item in the budget exceeds last year's, except salaries which we are required by law to increase." In response to another question, the Rule superintendent said that the school district will have to give each of its approximately 20 teachers a raise of $1,140.

Board Chairman J. B. Gipson thanked Beakley for his presentation and told him, "We didn't just pull this out of the sky. We did it because of economic conditions."

Jerry Morgan, Paint Creek superintendent, echoed the statements of the other two superintendents.

He explained that Paint Creek School District values had already decreased from $52 million to $49 million. The 10-percent reduction would bring this figure down to about $45 million. When salaries, established by law, take 85 to 90 percent of the budget, it leaves the school little control over what it spends, said Morgan.

As visitor this time

Young Dane returns

By Wendell Faught

Klavs Nielsen leaves Haskell today (Thursday) for his home in Sorring, Denmark.

He's been visiting the past month with Mr. and Mrs. Duward Campbell, in whose home he lived as a foreign exchange student during the 1983-84 school term.

Nielsen, who will be 20 next month, said he really enjoyed his visit to Haskell where he got to see many of his classmates and other friends. He said there are a lot of things he likes about America, but if he had to select the most important thing, it would be "the people."

Although he had completed the Danish equivalent of high school when he arrived in Haskell in 1983, he enrolled as a senior at Haskell High School. He graduated with the seniors of 1984 and received his HHS diploma.

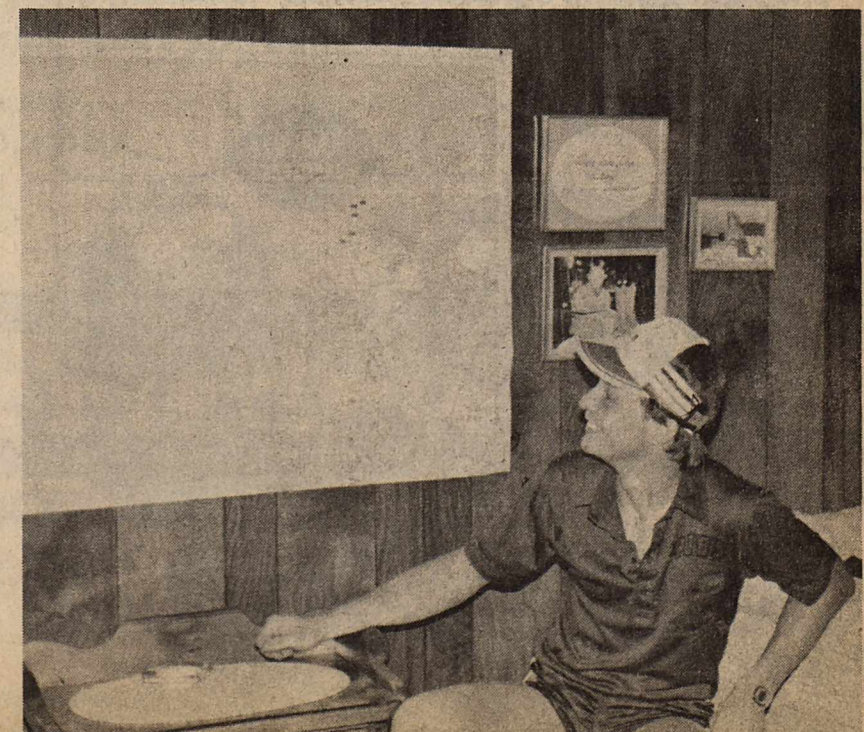

Recalling that year in Haskell, Nielsen said discipline is stricter in this country than it is in the schools of Denmark. He also remarked that American students don't have as many required subjects.

Five years of English, beginning in his fifth year of school, plus the year living in Haskell, have given the young Dane an excellent command of the language here.

Since returning to Denmark in 1984, Nielsen has been enrolled in a preparatory school, known in Denmark as a "gymnasium." He has completed two years there, and

Mrs. Ricky Lyn Moeller

Moeller, Wyrick vows repeated

Miss Kristi Aline Wyrick and Ricky Lyn Moeller were united in marriage at 4 p.m. Saturday, July 5, in a traditional double-ring ceremony at the First Baptist Church of Coahoma with the Rev. J. C. Amburn of First Assembly of God Church in Haskell officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Wyrick and the granddaughter of Mrs. Aline Griffith of Coahoma.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Moeller and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Solomon Sr., all of Haskell.

The couple stood before an altar decorated with pink flowers and greenery with a spiral candleabra on each side.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a formal length gown enhanced with chantilly lace, a wedding ring neckline and bishop sleeves. The bodice featured a sheer yoke with a ruffle, lace and bridal pearls. The skirt and chapel-length train were finished in a deep lace flounce and bordered with chantilly lace. Ringbearers were Andrea Calloway and Rusty Howeth, cousins of the groom. Andrea wore a dress identical to that of the flower girl and Rusty's tuxedo was identical to that of the best man.

The groom wore a long-tail white tuxedo and his boutonniere was a pink carnation with a gray rosebud in the center.

Best man was Frankie Moeller, brother of the groom, of Hurst.

Groomsmen were Greg Brister of Haskell; David Wyrick of Big Spring, brother of the bride; John Howell of Pecos; and Dusty Johnston of Big Spring. Groomsmen wore gray tuxedos with wide cummerbunds accented with pink ruffled shirts. They wore pink carnation boutonnieres.

Guests were registered in the foyer by Rhonda Moeller, sister-in-law of the groom, of Hurst.

Following the wedding, a reception was held at the church fellowship hall. The bride's table, draped with white lace overlay, featured a three-tiered cake decorated with pink roses and gray leaves topped with a bride and groom. The table was completed with a copper punch bowl and service. Serving at the bride's table were Cheri Wyrick, cousin of the bride, of Big Spring, Jamie Brasher of Pecos and Sue Sanders of Coahoma.

The groom's table was draped with an off-white cloth, and carried a western theme. The table was decorated with a copper windmill, miniature bales of cotton and hay, and featured a horseshoe shaped chocolate cake. It was finished with a copper coffee service.

TAX PLANNING

Written By Gerald Rodgers, CPA

IRS AUDITS (Don't Lose Sleep)

The IRS has three levels of examination (audits) of income tax returns. All are intended to review the facts and see that your return is properly filed. The agent is not to harass or belittle you. If you have filed your return with the correct numbers, don't lose sleep over an upcoming audit.

The simplest of the audits is a "direct correspondence." You may be asked to send photo copies of a few specific checks or documents.

An "office audit" will often be more detailed and may require you to take certain records to your nearest IRS office. A call to the examining officer for more information on what to bring could save you an extra trip.

The "filed audit" is held at your home or place of business. It usually involves a full review of all major income and expense items. If you have income from a partnership or small corporation, they may also be brought in to the audit.

The IRS has had excellent results by letting their computer select which returns are to be audited and most likely to produce added revenue for the government. The computer checks for certain "norms" in your return depending on the nature of your business, income level, etc. If you have abnormal figures such as excessive interest expense, high medical bills, etc., you should attach a photocopy of the document supporting the deductions. Such documentation may keep the IRS from contacting you.

If you receive correspondence from the taxing authorities, respond timely. Ignoring their first few notices will not gain you favor when you finally meet, and you will.

San Antonio scene of '60 class reunion

Haskell High School's class of 1960 met for its annual reunion and celebrated the Texas Sesquicentennial over the weekend of June 20 in San Antonio's La Mansion Hotel.

Classmates began arriving at mid-day on Friday and enjoyed dinner at Las Canarias, and afterwards a late evening stroll and sing-along in one of the bistros of the festive Riverwalk.

Saturday morning, some of the members caught a trolley to San Antonio's renowned market while a few others relaxed and arranged for the entire group to gather later for dinner at Casa del Rio along the Riverwalk.

Sunday morning, class members met in the foreyard of the Alamo for photographs and a short business meeting. They decided to schedule future reunions on alternate years of Haskell High's homecoming with sites for the each subsequent reunion to be selected by members of the class at those times. The soaring heat and humidity inspired some suggestions of Denver, Ruidoso and Las Vegas, but further discussions were tabled as members rushed to adjourn to the cool interior of the historic Mission Alamo for a renewal of their Texas patriotism and heritage.

Returning to the hotel, the classmates bade their farewells and prepared to depart for their homes: Class members, spouses and friends in attendance were Gary Anthony of Wichita Falls, Julia Collins Cathey of Amarillo, Kay Wiseman Cheatham of Spring, Patsy Kenamer Driver of Lubbock, Loretta Turnbow Hatfield and her husband Don of Haskell, Lelia Jones Hix of Bowie, Gail Ratliff Jones and her husband Lewis (class of '59) of San Antonio, Carolyn Josselet Norman of Fort Worth, Shirley Atchison Reed of Arlington, Leah Ratliff Wheatley of Picayune, Miss., Betty Sue Larned Wolfe of Abilene, C. O. Holt Jr. of Sugarland, Vic Turner of Oklahoma City, Don Urban and his wife Ilean of Carrizo Springs, and Lin and Don Pennington (classes of '58 and '59) of San Antonio.

Budget deficit real nightmare

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—Some mighty good lawmakers are working day and night to resolve the state budget deficit, but it's not easy. In fact, it's a lawmaker's nightmare.

The comptroller has raised the official shortfall estimate to $3.1 billion, the governor has no plan to solve it, and the voters will be waiting in November to pass judgment at the ballot box.

To raise taxes or not to raise taxes?

The president and the lieutenant governor, even if they had orchestrated it, couldn't have provided a starker contrast of the two sides of the problem wrestling with Texas legislators.

President Reagan visited Dallas and blamed the Democrats' pro-tax mentality for the state's economic ills. That same day, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby accelerated his push for a tax hike to ease the state deficit.

Governor Criticized

Reagan was in Dallas for a $1 million GOP fundraiser for former Gov. Bill Clements, a $5,000-a-plate bash which fortified his anti-taxation campaign.

Hobby was prepping for a seven-city swing to promote his plan, a combination of budget cuts and tax raises. He is, in effect, filling the vacuum of leadership which many senators and representatives say exists.

Governor Mark White so far has not produced a plan for solving the budget crisis, and more and more he is being openly criticized for lack of leadership by members of both parties.

Voters Gut-Check

The Appropriations Committee has been working to slice the budget, but even some conservative members will confess their fears that they've cut too deep into services.

Last week they postponed a vote to cut $1.8 billion from the budget, mainly because they were waiting for the governor's plan. At this point, even Democratic lawmakers are not inclined to face the heat for White, now or on the campaign trail this fall.

So Hobby has stepped in, impatient with White's timidity and hardly content to wait for Reagan's trickle-down to reach the ravaged economy of the Lone Star State.

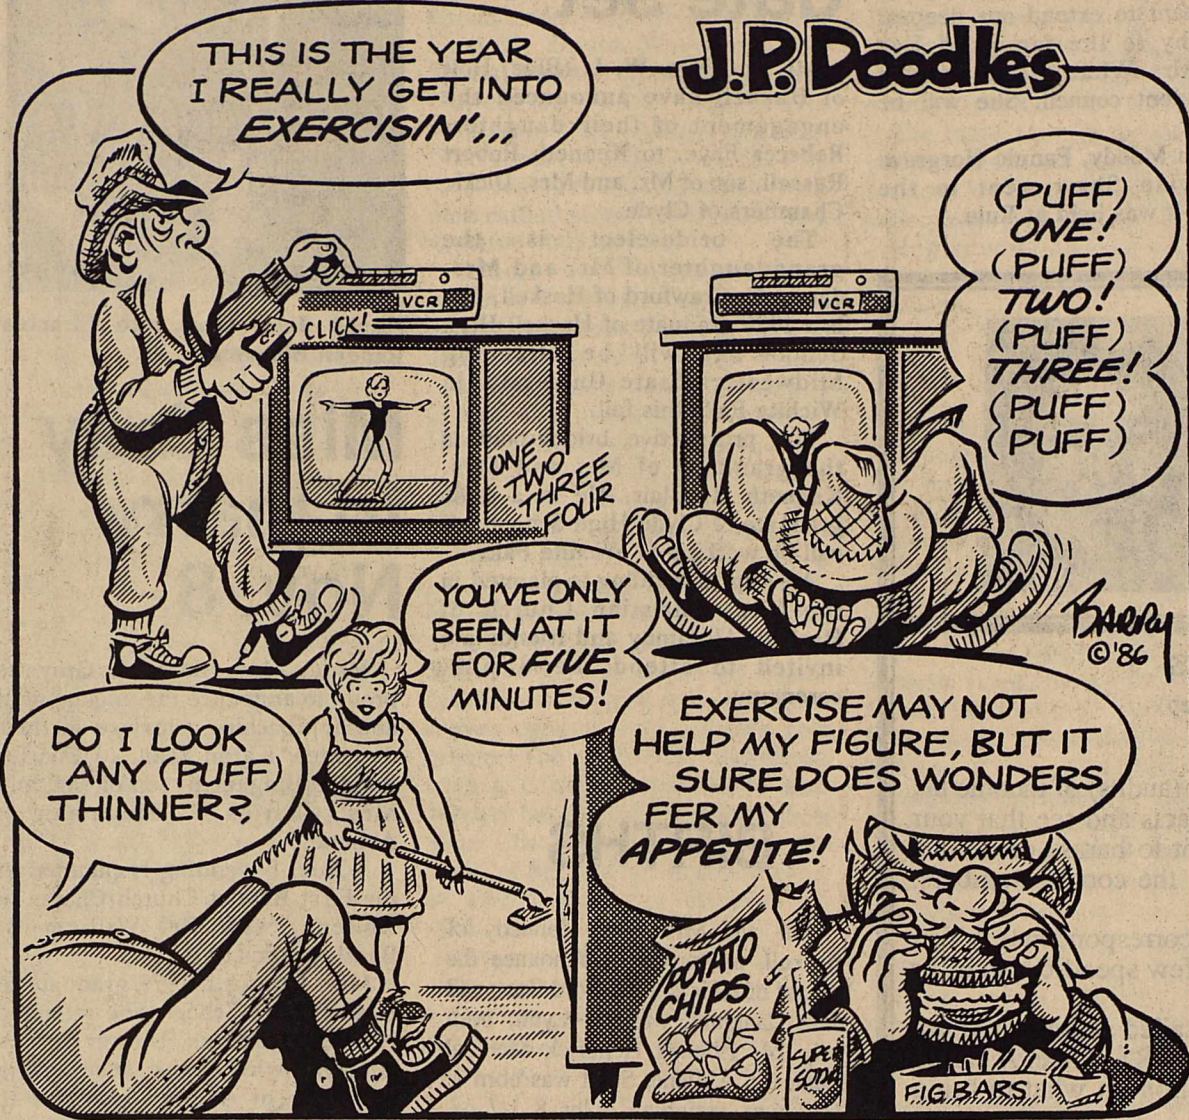

Hobby, like many others, believes voters will accept a tax hike, if they understand how badly it's needed. At the same time, Clements and the GOP ticket are waiting to use a tax bill like a club on the campaign trail. It's a gut-check for Texas voters.

Three-Act Play

Thus, the stage is set for the anticipated special session August 6, a drama of three parts.

On one side is the Clements-GOP bunch which doesn't want a tax hike, period. They'll use the issue on the campaign trail to defeat anyone who votes for higher taxes, if they can, particularly the governor.

On the other end is the Hobby crowd which has already made up its mind that a tax hike will be good for Texas. Generally, they have no strong GOP opposition, or have districts where services are needed.

BY WENDELL FAUGHT

Did Pat Garrett wrongfully claim the $500 bounty on Bonney?

A story out of Hico, Texas, says some people believe that a 91-year-old Billy the Kid died of a heart attack there in 1950.

Oh well, Jesse James was resurrected to die again several times, and Bobby Ewing sprang from Restlawn to South Fork while no one was looking.

Who was that guy who said "the brave die only once"?

In case you didn't notice, Wise Times won the Haskell Invitational Saturday.

And in case you didn't know, as I didn't until I read it in the Sunday paper, the Haskell Invitational is a $300,000 handicap at Mommouth Race Park in Oceanport, N.J.

The obscurity of the ideal of sex equality was brought home to me the other day when I noted the printed note on a restaurant menu to address requests to my "waitperson."

Someone was just playing around—or trying to fill up space—when that menu was designed. I can't imagine anyone sitting down in a restaurant and directing a request to anyone else.

Upon reflection, which I had ample time due to the inattention of the "waitpersons," it was obvious that deeper issues were at stake. Is this usage simply a particularly infelicitous extension of the normally defensible principle that language ought not arbitrarily link jobs to sex? Or is that principle inapplicable when such equivalent terms as "waiter" and "waitress" are available? Should sex blindness be accepted as a standard of sex equality, or as a principle required by considerations of morality and social justice?

If such philosophies are taken to the extreme and we are to de-sex every word containing the word "man," the "huperson" race is in for a lot of confusion.

American Fidelity Assurance Co., the firm which carries my health insurance, already has succumbed. After pages and pages of fine type telling what the company will and will not do in the event of such and such, there is this innocent disclaimer: "When the masculine gender is used it will mean feminine." That has to be a good case of over-reaction. I'm afraid they just wiped out all of my benefits.

To the surprise of few, a survey reveals that 45 percent of the people think Monday is the worst day of the week. But those who survive Monday go right into the "least worst day." Only three percent think Tuesday is the worst.

From Out of the Past

Haskell County voters polled 3,799 ballots Saturday in deciding all but two contested district, county and precinct races. The heavy balloting represented an almost 100 percent turnout of eligible voters in the county, exceeding the total number of poll taxes and exemptions issued by 15 percent. Re-elected were Sheriff Bill Pennington, seeking a second term; Mrs. Elizabeth Middleton Stewart for a full elective term as Tax Assessor-Collector; and Claude Ashley for a second term as Commissioner of Precinct 1. District Attorney Royce Adkins was re-elected.

Martin Rueffer, whose farm adjoins the east city limits of Haskell, brought in the county's first bale of cotton from the 1956 crop Tuesday. Last year's first bale was brought in Aug. 11 from the farm of Mrs. Lura Mayfield near Weinert.

Coaches Jess Stiles and Ray Overton Jr. of Hskell High School will go to Lubbock Saturday where they will attend the annual Football Coaching School.

Commissioners Court Monday, in a special meeting, voted unanimously to build an addition to the old jail building, located on the southeast corner of the square.

A total of 1,822 contracts had been signed in the Acreage Reserve program through Friday night, according to Loyd Feemster, secretary of the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office. The contracts represent approximately 66,000 acres of cropland allotted for cotton and wheat production in Haskell County.

Lee Pippin, 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Pippin is spending a few days in Estes Park, Colo., with Dr. R. L. Newsom of Munday.

Miss Madalin Hunt of Haskell has returned from attending an annual workshop of the National Classroom Teachers Association at Lewis and Clark College in Portland, Ore.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wyatt and children of Wichita Falls were recent visitors in the home of her mother, Mrs. Ione Menefee of Haskell. Letters to the Editor

Proud, but sorry

Editor: In July, 1986, 15 people are indicted and arrested for drug abuse charges. Four others are not yet arrested, but are indicted.

Such an overwhelming wash of mixed emotion: We are proud of the laws of America and we see them work because of the courage and dedication of people working in the process. We're glad that at least these are no longer contributing to the drug market. But we are sad at the same time, sad for the children of these who are jailed, sad for the parents of these who are jailed, and sad for these people who are jailed.

There is somewhere a son or daughter who expected and should have received more than these parents provided. There are tearful parents who expected more from their children. There are friends, teachers, employers, who are so disappointed; as well as brothers, sisters, wives, husbands.

We attended their graduations and weddings. We've given birthday, wedding, graduation and Christmas gifts to add to their joy of life. Yes, oh yes, we have prayed for them too. But we regret none of these things we did for them; it's just that we expected better results. Perhaps that is part of the problem, maybe we expected too much. And now we can only cry our tears for their failure.

It's sad, but there are other children here too—children who deserve at least a chance to do good, to have the real pursuit of happiness that comes from living and not from a bottle, needle or plastic bag. These other children deserve a chance too.

Those with the courage to say, "This must stop now" have, and rightly so, our applause, our assistance and our encouragement. Whatever it takes, no matter who it hurts, the battle with drugs must be won so that honest, decent young people can have at least the opportunity to be honest and decent young adults. We'll cry for those who don't make it, but we'll rejoice with those who do make it.

For those who took a stand against drugs in this latest action, thank you very, very much for a job well done. Keep it up!

Gene Long

In the 1880's the Panhandle counties of Collingsworth and Wheeler were cow country. The Rocking Chair Ranch, established in 1883, included acreage in both counties. Local residents tagged it "Nobility Ranch" because its English absentee owners were the Baron of Tweedmouth and the Earl of Aberdeen.

On Sunday night Cindy Guess was presented in a concert of special music. She is a very talented singer and pianist.

Justin and Reneau Gray of Albuquerque, New Mexico, returned to their home yesterday after spending a few days with their grandparents, Pete and Ima Brockett and great-grandparents Pud and Suzie Brockett.

Other visitors of the Brocketts are Steve and Mary Brockett, Kayla and Karla of Alamogordo, N. M. After spending a few days with relatives here, they are planning a tour of Texas with a stopover at Six Flags included.

Friends and family helped Diane Carroll celebrate her 18th birthday on July 27th.

The descendants of Virgil and Ida Plemister met in Abilene for 2 days of reunion activities. All nine of the children are living, but Alma Terrell was physically unable to attend. She had all three of her children present, with six of her grandchildren. Her children are Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Terrell of Abilene, Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Perry of San Antonio and Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Terrell of Austin.

Carlos and Ozell live in Sweetwater; their daughter Winnie Jensen is in Grapevine, and Mattie Lincoln is in Georgetown. Mattie's two children, Kristy and Donnie accompanied their mother to Abilene.

The largest family group present was that of Marvin and Myrtle of Weinert. Daughters Lola and F.D. Williams of Harlingen, with Mr. and Mrs. Gene Pollostrox and Emily of Austin, Bobby Tipton of Grapevine, Dee Anne Williams of Abilene. Their son Wayne and Linda Plemister of Austin, with Laura and Missy; and Randy and Lisa Plemister of Haskell, with Dacia, Deshea and Joseph. Edith and son Richard Davis of Haskell entertained her youngest sister Jenell Garrett of Wichita Falls, as none of Jenell's family could attend.

Hugh and Norma Plemister of Montague is the youngest child. Also unable to attend because of a recent heart by-pass surgery was Roy and Leta Plemister of Edinburg, Texas.

Special "drop-in guest" were Bob Kimbrough of Rolls, Tex., and Margaret and James Williams of San Angelo, cousins of the Plemister family.

Sue and Jimmy Hackney, with Todd and Talanda spent several days with her parents, the D.I. Whites, and attended the memorial services for her grandmother, Eva White held at Rule on July 25th.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Jetton, Mrs. Rene Vojkufka, and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Plemister leave Wednesday, July 30, on a 3 week tour of the Northwest, Canada and Alaska. They will be with the Novona Fun Tour group of Nocona, and will attend the 1986 Worlds Fair held at Vancouver, B.C. enroute to Alaska.

The Weinert Home Extension Club will meet August 5th at 2 p.m. in the home of Betty Sanders. Visitors are welcome to attend

Kenneth and Brenda Sanders, with Kent and Kole, left for Houston today to attend the State East-West ball tournaments to be held there this week.

Their son Kregg will be playing in the basketball tournament at the University of Houston on Wednesday, July 30th.

College classes open to high school seniors

Haskell High School students who have completed their junior year are invited to enroll for college credit courses under the Western Texas College Early Admissions Program.

Courses can be taken at WTC's Haskell extension center during the senior year in high school or during the summer following completion of the junior year. Upon graduation from high school the student furnishes a high school transcript to TWC and college credits earned are posted to a college transcript.

"Many students find this is a good way to begin their college work," said Dr. Duane Hood, dean of Student Services. "Most of our early admissions students take courses commonly required for any bachelor's degree at all Texas colleges and universities. The courses most often taken are American history, government and English." Students interested in the early admissions program should talk with their parents and high school counselor first. Permission from the high school principal is also required. A form signed by a parent and the principal must be presented at registration.

Enrollment in college courses does not affect the student's UIL eligibility unless the courses are directly related to a UIL contest. For example, a student taking a college journalism course cannot compete in UIL journalism events or Ready Writing. Enrollment in a college course cannot be substituted for the required number of high school classes in determining UIL eligibility.

Registration for fall classes at the Haskell extension center will be Aug. 28 in the elementary school cafeteria.

Paint Creek trio receives farm degrees

Five members of the Paint Creek FFA chapter attended the 58th annual Texas FFA convention in Amarillo July 15-18.

Voting delegates from Paint Creek were Kay Fischer, Danny Letterman, Blake Liles, Keith Medford and Kathy Simmons.

Also attending were chapter sponsor Jimmie Cearley and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Liles Jr.

More than 920 FFA chapters in Texas were represented at the convention, during which degrees, scholarships and other awards were presented.

One of the highlights of the convention was the awarding of 1,602 Lone Star Farmer degrees. Kay Fischer, Blake Liles and Keith Medford were among those who received the Lone Star Farmer awards.

Braly plays in all-star tilt

Paint Creek's Jamie Braly played in the 1986 High School Six Man All-Star basketball game in Stephenville July 19.

He scored four points in helping the West team defeat the East by a score of 97-94. At the conclusion of the game each player was awarded an all-star ring.

While at Paint Creek, Braly was named first-team all-district last year while average 18 points a game.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Braly. His high school coach was Randy Stone.

Young Dane returns...

one more year will qualify him to enroll in the university where he plans to study mechanical engineering.

Danish students go to regular school for nine years. They may elect to go a 10th year, as he had done before he came to Haskell in 1983. Then they may go to a gymnasium to prepare themselves for entry into a university, or to a business or trade school in their field of interest.

Those who choose to enter a profession after their ninth or 10th year of schooling have few avenues of progress open to them, Nielsen explains. He says they can usually find jobs, but there's little chance of them advancing. Professions such as mechanics, barbers, clerks and just about anything else, require some kind of schooling before one can advance very far up the ladder.

Nielsen said that after he gets his engineering degree, he hopes to go to night school and study business and economics.

"I know our educational system is one of the best in the world," Nielsen said. "There's a world-wide demand for Danish-educated professionals."

Presently, there is a shortage of engineers in Denmark, he said. He added that he doesn't know what the demand will be when he gets his degree, but he feels certain that there will be a place for him somewhere.

The Danish government takes a tremendous interest in the education of its young people. Schools are free, and housing assistance is available for those from families which meet the minimum income requirements. Nielsen said that because of his family's income (both his parents are teachers), he has not received any financial aid. But after he turns 21 next August, he will no longer be considered dependent on his family and he will qualify for $3,000 a year from the government while he is attending the university.

While attending the gymnasium, Nielsen has worked in a rest home. If he continues to work while attending the university, as he plans to do, his first $3,000 in income will be exempt from taxes. Thereafter, his income will be taxed at 48 percent.

He points out that taxes have to be high to finance the social programs of his country. He said his father pays 50 percent of his income in taxes, and his mother pays 55 percent. But Nielsen said he likes the system. In addition to government assistance in education, Danes receive free medical care (they pay no doctor or hospital bills). Medicine and dental charges are a fraction of what they normally would be.

Driving course

A drivers' defensive course will be conducted Aug. 25-26 at the Experienced Citizens Center, 1401 S. 1st St. Classes will be from 6 to 10 p.m. each day. For more information, call 864-3875.

Appraisals....

Haskell businessman Darold Roberson, one of several non-school people who spoke from the floor, recommended that the Board come to a compromise. He suggested that the 10-percent reduction be cut to 5 percent and that schools be asked to reduce their budgets by 6 percent.

Gipson replied that the Board has no authority to tell the schools what to do.

Jenny Brazell, business manager of Paint Creek ISD, pointed out the increasing delinquency problem with oil and gas taxpayers. "Some of them on this year's tax rolls are already out of business," she said. "In the past, we've counted on collecting 95 percent of the taxes. It's about 90 percent this year. Next year it may be as low as 80."

After hearing from the protesting schools, the Review Board voted to let its previous order stand. "It's a pro and con issue," said Gipson. He said a lot of property owners feel that their property values have decreased substantially in the current economic climate.

Neither Kemp nor Beakley predicted what, if anything, the schools will do in view of the Board's decision. Both mentioned that the next step, if there is to be a next step, would be to file suit in district court to have the 10-percent reduction order overturned.

Merkel 'challenge' set this weekend

UTOPIA! SWEET UTOPIA!

Have you ever heard of that mythical paradise called Utopia? It's a place where everything is perfect, isn't it? Mankind has conducted a search for it since the beginning of time, yet all in vain.

You may want to remember that next time you're ready to buy a home. Do you know why? Because there is also no perfect home.

When you decide to buy that next home, you'll need to make a list of all the features and amenities you would like to find in a home. List the number of rooms, baths, bedrooms, etc. Then add the extra touches you'd like such as a fireplace, trees, swimming pool, utility room, garage, large lot and others.

Write down the style home you desire, the size and the expected price range. And don't forget about schools and shopping nearby.

By now, you've probably described your very own Utopia. And, since it is highly unlikely that such a place exists, you now have one more task to accomplish. Go back through your list and decide on which features you are willing to compromise. That's right - COMPROMISE! Which items are you willing to give up in order to have the ones which are most important to you? Once you've separated the two, you're ready to begin house hunting in earnest. Good Luck!

If you need information to help you solve a real estate puzzle, call us at 864-2665. We'll be happy to share our knowledge with you at no cost or obligation.

Cotton growers: save bucks and beneficials.

TEST RESULTS ARE IN:

In an overwhelming majority of tests conducted in the Cotton Belt, in which Dipel biological insecticide was applied before conventional insecticides became necessary, increased yields and greater profits resulted.

In 5 of the Texas tests,* fields were sprayed twice and adjacent check fields remained untreated until it became necessary to go to a conventional schedule. Dipel treated fields yielded more cotton and greater profits than the fields that received only conventional treatment.

It makes sense because low cost Dipel gets to early cotton worms without harming helpful beneficials. Thus, applications of harsher chemicals can be delayed and reduced.

Dipel is a natural biological worm killer. One bite of treated foliage and worms stop feeding almost immediately and then die within a few days. Dipel has not shown worm resistance build-up, won't affect boll maturity, and is nonphytotoxic to cotton foliage. It's easy to use. In addition, Dipel has not shown harmful effects on man and his environment.

Dipel 4L and Cotton Seed Oil. The only microbial cotton insecticide that is compatible with cotton seed oil. Mix one pint Dipel 4L to one pint cotton seed oil and apply at one quart per acre total volume of spray.

*Rates, numbers of applications and methods of application varied. A grower's actual results may vary, depending on use and conditions.

One test in Rio Grande Valley and two in the Blacklands used Dipel alone at 1/2 lb. per acre. In a Rolling Plains test, applications of 1/2 lb. Dipel and 1/2 lb. chlordimeform per acre were made while 1/2 lb. of Dipel combined with 1/2 lb. chlordimeform per acre was applied in the Trans Pecos test. Aerial application was used for all tests except in the Rio Grande Valley.

100th ANNIVERSARY

The First Presbyterian Church of Haskell celebrated its 100th anniversary July 19-20. Members posed in front of the church immediately after Sunday morning services July 20.

Church celebrates "100" years

By Mrs. S. P. Herren
On July 20, the First Presbyterian Church celebrated its 100 years of existence in Haskell. It is fascinating to look back on the many changes that have taken place since 1886 when the Rev. Dickey gathered the first few settlers together in this small fronier town and started a Presbyterian church. The 100th anniversary celebration began Saturday, July 19, with an ice cream social, hymn singing, church history book reviewing, reminiscing by former pastors and plenty of time for visiting with members and friends.

Six former pastors, as well as present co-pastors Katie and Jimmy Hopper, participated.

Former pastors were Dr. David Stitt, Dr. Harry Sarles, Harvey Friedel, Douglas Finch, Clifford Williams and Martin Jacobson. Dr. Stitt, pastor in Haskell in 1936-38, preached the sermon. Five of these pastors came to this church right out of the seminary. Dr. Stitt said Haskell was the best place for a young minister just starting out his career.

Following worship, a fellowship dinner was held in the undercroft of the church, the original sanctuary of the present church building. This was a time for remembering and renewing past friendships.

People came from all over Texas and from some other states. Sara Currie, widow of Stuart Currie, pastor in 1945-47, also attended. Some members who had moved sent flowers and others sent telegrams of good wishes.

Church to present special program

"Marketplace—29 A.D.," a Bibletimes experience will be presented Aug. 4-7 at East Side Baptist Church.

The program is for children 13 years old through the sixth grade. They will meet from 6 to 8:45 each evening.

Parts in the program are still open, but registration is limited to the first 120.

To register a child, call 864-3659 or 864-2738.

Out-of-staters pay more Texas taxes

Out-of-state companies operating in Texas may end up paying more than half of the taxes collected in the near future, says State Comptroller Bob Bullock.

"Out of the top 2,000 taxpayers in 1985, firms headquartered outside of Texas paid 47.8 percent of the dollars collected and this was up 1.2 percent from the 1984 payments," Bullock said.

Fischer family reunion attracts 50

The Fischer family reunion was held Saturday, July 19, at the Haskell National Bank Community Building.

Almost 50 were in attendance with Karl Fischer, Elsie Gholson, Herbert Fischer and Walter Fischer as the surviving children of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Fischer.

Oldest family member represented at the gathering was Karl Fischer of Paint Creek, who is now 83 years old. Youngest family member was 23-months-old Craig Lowrance, son of Mr. and Mrs. Galen Lowrance of Colorado City. Mrs. Lowrance is the former Linda Fischer, daughter of Gene and Jo Fischer of Paint Creek.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Fischer's daughter, Carolyn Sagebiel and her two children, Tara and Faron, came the longest distance from their home Seguin.

The family enjoyed a pot luck lunch and a time to catch up on a lot of visiting.

A short business meeting was held and officers were elected. David Fischer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Fischer, was elected president. David and his family are in the process of moving to Plano. Sharon Stuart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Fischer, was voted to be secretary-treasurer. Sharon and her family live in Richardson.

Plans were made to hold the next Fischer reunion the third Saturday in July in 1988.
