Sales tax collection down 14.58 percent

Sales tax collections in Haskell continued downward during January, a fact which was reflected in this week's check from the state comptroller for its portion of the taxes collected by the state.

This week's check was for $7,944.51, compared to $11,648.20 for the same period last year. For the year to date, Haskell has received $38,846.23, down 14.58 percent from the 1986 figure of $45,478.04.

Checks received this week represented taxes collected on sales made in January and reported to the comptroller by Feb. 20.

While Haskell's percentage-point drop is significant, it represents a trend noted throughout the area and throughout most of the state. Jones County cities of Stamford, Anson and Hamlin all are down even more than Haskell.

Rule's check this week was for $990.34 and Rochester got $516.60.

Haskell success story

Industry salutes Lane-Felker

(The following article is re-printed from the March issue of Dallas Apparel News.)

By DeAnna Jarnagin

Camaraderie among two sisters, dedication to their collective goal and "uncommon faith in themselves and the future" have been the secrets to success for Frances Lane and Mattie Muriel Felker.

For more than 40 years, the sibling pair has operated a thriving better specialty store in rural West Texas. Once characterized as being to the Haskell area what Neiman-Marcus is to Dallas, Lane-Felker draws loyal customers hundreds of miles from the urban areas of Abilene, Lubbock, Wichita Falls and the Fort Worth/Dallas metropolis.

Lane and Felker are the latest recipients of the Golden Sun Award given by the Southwest Apparel Manufacturers Association, The Dallas Apparel Mart and The Dallas Apparel News. The award, which recognizes outstanding retailers for their contributions to the industry and the communities they serve, is given five times a year at the seasonal apparel markets in Dallas.

In 41 years, the two sisters have missed only one market in Dallas. Such admirable dedication is the hallmark of the partnership. Not only do the women attend each of the five markets, but "we open and close this market," quips Lane--their average stay in Dallas is still one week, an allotment that began when the two traveled the hotel circuit between Fort Worth and Dallas in the years before the Merchandise Mart and Apparel Mart.

The length of the stay allows them time to thoroughly shop the market, garnering not only the best merchandise, but also new retail strategies and innovations from the Apparel Mart and Dallas retail community.

Not Just a Job

The buying duties of Lane-Felker, as well as the day-to-day operations and the management of the store, are the way of life rather than the job of the sister-partners. Their differences and separation of responsibilities

Health care problems to be aired Saturday

Haskell will be well represented in Abilene Saturday at a public meeting on rural health care.

The meeting, which features an impressive panel of experts involved with health care, has been called by Congressman Charles Stenholm for the purpose of reviewing the problems facing rural communities. The session opens at 9:30 a.m. and continues until 4 p.m. at the Royal Inn. Registration and a sign-up for testifying, which is based on a first-come, first-served basis, will begin at 8:30 a.m.

Drs. Frank and Wayne Cadenhead, hospital administrator Bud Comedy and others from Haskell will be attending the sessions.

Stenholm arranged the meeting of doctors, administrators and state and federal agency representatives to discuss the issue together. "Rural hospitals are all facing the same problems," said the congressman. "Instead of tackling the issues individually, I felt it would be good to join our efforts and see if we could come up with answers to these problems."

"The key to the success of this gathering is to concentrate on solutions, and not complaints," Stenholm continued. "It won't do us any good to have a gripe session. We've all heard the complaints. Let us use the time and expertise of this panel to have constructive ideas."

Different medical and administrative topics will be considered during individual sessions. After Stenholm delivers opening remarks, the first area to be discussed for an hour will be hospital issues. After a 15-minute break, the meeting will continue with a look into nursing home and home health care.

When the meeting reconvenes after lunch at 1:30 p.m., the panel will study physicians' issues. An overview of rural health care will be the final topic. Each session will begin with brief statements by the relevant panelists, testimony by invited witnesses and then will be opened to the audience for five-minute testimonies, comments, questions and answers.

Among the group of panelists attending the Stenholm meeting will be J. D. Scone, administrator of the Regional Health Care Financing Administration in Dallas; Robert King, executive director of the Texas Medical Foundation; Marlin Johnston, commissioner of the Texas Department of Human Services; Dr.

Juanita Carrell and Dr. Robert MacLean of the Texas Department of Health; and representatives from the Inspector General's office and Blue Cross/Blue Shield.

FIRST PLACE

Crystal Watson placed first in ability 2A, 6-7 year old girls, at Plainview Saturday. The daughter of Bobby and Lynda Watson, she was one of 15 local tumblers who earned first-place medals.

Local tumblers take trophy at Plainview

Top of Texas Tumblers competed Saturday in their second district 4 acrobatics meet of the year and did such an outstanding job they came away with the team trophy.

The meet, held in Plainview, involved some 385 youngsters from across the Panhandle and South Plains areas.

Of the 21 local youngsters competing, 15 brought back first-place medals.

Gold-medal winners were Brittany Bartley, Mik Everett, Jason Hobgood, Megan Jones, Micca Jordan, Wesley Lefevre, Christy Mathis, Tenille Mathis, Brooke McGuire, Misty McMeans, Sherry Mueller, Heather Stewart, Latisha Trussell, Crystal Watson and Debbie Watson.

TOTT gymnasts placing second were Natonia Anderson, Brooke Griggs, Nacole Lefevre, Justin Stewart, Kalith Trussell and Denise Wilson.

One proud grandmother was heard saying, "I don't know...we just had more finesse, more grace, and it really showed up in their competition."

The next novice meet will be the state qualifying meet May 2 in Whiteface. The top six competitors in each age and ability group will advance to the state meet June 5-6 in Andrews.

The advance-level tumblers have fared equally as well in their competition. Four local youth recently competed in a USAF-sanctioned meet in Snyder with approximately 390 youth participating. Deanne Wallace, Sheree Dumas and Heather Hobgood all placed first in their age groups. Dusty Bradley of Knox City came in second in his division.

To advance to the national meet which will be held June 25-29 in Rockford, Ill., a competitor must make a qualifying score which is set nationwide. Dusty Bradley was one of only three boys to make the qualifying score. Heather Hobgood was the only girl in the competition to score high enough to advance to the national competition.

Broom-mop sale

Lions Club members have reminded local citizens that their annual Broom and Mop Sale will be April 2.

The projects, made by the blind, will be sold from a truck on the south side of the courthouse square.

Model airplane club plans open house

Members of the Texas Chiefs Model Airplane Club will have an open house Sunday, March 22, at the new model airport.

The new field is located at the old dump ground, three miles east of Haskell off the Throckmorton highway. With the cooperation of city and county officials, club members have paved a runway and are now making other site improvements.

Open house visitors will be able to view a display of many different types of radio controlled model airplanes and flying by modelers from Abilene, Wichita Falls, Weatherford and Plainview, as well as by local fliers.

The club is raffling off a model airplane kit, engine and radio to raise funds for additional field improvements. The drawing will be at 4 p.m. on the day of the open house.

The public is invited to come out and see the field and to view the displays and demonstrations.

Arthritis Management

By Lou Gilly
County Extension
Agent-Home Economics
(Third in a Series)

Here are some general rules to follow that will help you in carrying out the exercise program prescribed for you by your physician:

- Frequency. As a rule, you should do your set of exercises at least two times a day; and each time you do them, each exercise should be performed three to 10 times. Several short periods of exercise during each day are better than one long one. You will find that frequent exercising prevents stiffening of your joints.

- Start. It is best to start exercising very gently and slowly. The amount of exercise may be increased gradually each day.

- Gradual Improvement. The emphasis should be on gradual improvement of joint function, however long it takes, and not on the amount of exercise you can perform.

- Assistance. You may need help doing some of your exercises, especially at first. But you should perform as many of them as possible yourself. Your helper, when you have one, should not use force.

- When Joints Are Inflamed. If your joints are acutely inflamed and painful, your exercises must be gentle, with a minimum of motion of the involved points. A helper may be needed. The emphasis at these times is on keeping correct posture and position because this protects your joints and helps prevent deformity.

- When Arthritis Is Less Acute. If your arthritis is less acute and your joints are not too swollen or painful, your exercise program will concentrate on strengthening muscles and on maintaining, or regaining, your ability to perform usual daily activities.

- When Arthritis Is Mild. If your arthritis is at a stage where you have relatively little joint swelling and relatively mild pain, your exercise program will emphasize procedures for increasing strength, flexibility, and endurance for work activities.

- Rest. Remember that adequate rest must be part of your exercise program.

- A Word To the Wise. It is easier to prevent deformities in the first place than to correct them later. Even when your progress seems discouragingly slow, try to be patient and stick faithfully to your program.

Dieters need calories, too

A 140-pound woman will lose more weight and keep it off on 1,400 daily calories than she will on 700 to 1,000 calories according to a leading obesity expert.

Outlining a new concept in weight management at an American Dietetic Association news conference, C. Wayne Callaway, M. D., said the key is for women to consume no fewer than 10 calories per pound of body weight each day.

"While it's true the low calorie diets popular today will result in initially greater weight loss, much of it is water and in the long run that kind of severe regime predisposes you to bingeing. Most women end up going off the diet and gaining back more weight than they lost," said Callaway, who runs the obesity clinic at George Washington University Medical Center.

"Using the 10-calorie rule you will lose more gradually, about a half pound of fat per week, which is just about right," said the physician. "Exercise and a balanced diet without depriving yourself of the foods you like is the best way to keep weight at reasonable levels."

In following the 10-calorie rule, women should eat three meals a day, choosing from a wide variety of foods, including vegetables, fruits, breads, cereals, low at meat and meat alternatives.

They should also consume three to four servings a day of calcium-rich foods, such as milk, yogurt, lowfat cheeses and dark green leafy vegetables to reduce the risk for osteoporosis.

Extremely low calorie diets fail because they cause a person's metabolic rate to drop 10 to 30 percent, which in turn causes the body to burn calories more slowly, Callaway said. Studies in both humans and animals show the metabolic rate drop is an adaptive reaction that probably evolved as the body's innate way of surviving famine.

"There's more and more evidence that extremely low calorie diets lead to eating disorders such as anorexia nervosa and bulimia. They also appear to predispose women to further weight gain because the body becomes more efficient at adapting to low calorie intake each time you diet," Callaway said. "Every time you diet you lose less and gain back more."

Before beginning a weight reduction plan, women today should first determine if they even need to diet, said Callaway, noting that cultural expectations have put unrealistic pressure on women to be thin.

"Our cultural definitions of what is an appropriate weight for women are grossly distorted on the low side," he said. "If you look back 20 years ago, professional models and Miss America contestants were five to ten percent below average weight for women their height. Now they're twenty to twenty-five percent below average weight."

That has been reflected in the recommended weight tables, which over the years have dropped for women but remained fairly constant for men. The Metropolitan Life Insurance tables were revised upward slightly in 1983.

"Yet it's men, not women, who are dying in the greatest number from weight-related diseases," Callaway said.

Women whose weight is in their hips or thighs -- the location most females carry extra pounds -- do not run as much of a health risk as those who have excess weight around their abdomens.

Apply early for benefit

When a family member dies, one of the survivors should inquire to see if Social Security benefits may be payable on that person's record. Glyn Hammons, Social Security manager in Abilene, reminds.

It is important to apply promptly because, in some cases, benefits cannot be paid for months before the month of application. This pertains to widows and widowers who wish to start benefits before they reach 65.

If the worker has enough credit for work covered by Social Security, benefits can be paid to:

- Unmarried children under 18; 18-19 if full-time secondary students; over 18 if disabled before 22.
- A mother or father caring for a child under 16 or disabled.
- A widow or widower 60 or older.
- A disabled widow or widower 50-60.
- A dependent parent 62 or older.

A surviving divorced spouse can also receive benefits as an aged or disabled survivor if the marriage last 10 years or more. This time limit does not apply to a divorced spouse caring for an eligible child under 16 or who is disabled.

In addition, there is a $255 lump-sum death payment that can be made to an eligible widow or widower, or if none, to an entitled surviving child.

When applying, it is helpful for the person to have certain proofs available including the worker's Social Security card or a record of the number, proof of age for applicants, proof of marriage for widows and widowers, children's birth certificates; proof of the worker's death; Form's W-2 for the previous 2 years or self-employment tax returns; and proof of support for dependent parents.

Do not delay applying if all these proofs are not available. People at the Social Security office may be able to suggest substitutes.

For more information about Social Security survivor benefits, call the Abilene Social Security office, located at 142 S. Pioneer. The telephone number is 698-1360.

Labels pertain to fat

New guidelines established by the U.S. Department of Agriculture require processors to follow labeling regulations for claims about the fat and lean content of meat and poultry products by March 1987.

"Although some processors have already complied with the regulations, industry-wide labeling will mean that consumers can compare all products," says Dr. Alie Hunt, nutritionist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service.

According to the regulations, "lean" and "low fat" may be used only for products that contain no more than 10 percent fat. "Extra lean" is reserved for products that contain no more than 5 percent fat.

"Light," "lite," and "lightly" may be used on meat and poultry products that have a 25 percent reduction in fat, salt, sodium or breeding from similar products.

"Even more important for consumers is the fact that labels which carry these terms must also clarify the product claim," says Hunt. "The actual amount of fat, for example, must accompany the claim, or be noted with an asterisk and placed elsewhere on the package."

The nutritionist says that comparative expressions of the lean or fat content of products, such as "leaner ground beef" must also carry an explanation on the label.

The explanation must tell the fat content and the basis for comparison, such as "this product contains 20 percent fat, which is one-third less fat than allowed by the USDA standard for ground beef."

When buying lean or light meat or poultry products, especially those that are breaded, Hunt advises consumers to consider how they will cook the food as well. If you take "light" chicken patties home and then fry them, she says, "you just add back the fat you cut by buying the light product."

Sanitation standard for farm workers

The availability of toilets for both men and women, an adequate supply of clean water for drinking, for first aid, and for washing up, and a place to have lunch out of the sun are hardly luxuries to most working people. But to farm workers in some states, these basic amenities are sometimes nonexistent.

In Texas, though, the Texas Department of Health (TDH) has established minimum sanitation standards to protect farm workers from the spread of disease and infections. These comprehensive standards, much the same as federal regulations for industry and other businesses employing large work forces, are under consideration at the U.S. Department of Labor for application nationwide.

A federal court recently ruled that the U.S. Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) should guarantee farm workers sanitary protections similar to those for workers in other industries. The court cited OSHA's failure to extend such standards to farm workers nationwide as "a disgraceful chapter in legal neglect."

The Texas standards have been effective since 1983 and are enforced through onsite inspections of farm field facilities by local health departments and TDH regional personnel. Troy Lowry of DH's General Sanitation Division said inspectors investigate an average of six or seven complaints by workers each month, primarily in the Rio Grande Valley, where agriculture is concentrated.

Briefly, the regulations apply to employers of more than six persons at "temporary work places," such as fields or orchards. The employers must supply sanitary toilet facilities for both men and women within a quarter mile or five minutes' walking distance of the work area, for each 30 employees in the field. Besides toilet facilities there must be a clean water supply for washing hands and at least two quarts drinking water per person per day, kept at no higher than 80 degrees Fahrenheit. Also, if no natural shade is available, artificial shade must be provided for rest and lunch breaks.

"Employers who are uncertain whether they are in compliance with the minimum standards should contact their local health departments for information. Or, they can write to TDH for a copy of the regulations, giving information about a variety of sanitation alternatives," Lowry said. Inquiries should be addressed to: Texas Department of Health, General Sanitation Division, 1100 West 49th Street, Austin, Texas 78756.

Lowry added that nationwide guidelines, to be issued by OSHA, will supersede state regulations. "At TDH, however, we are fairly certain that OSHA's regulations will closely parallel ours, if in fact they are not actually copied from ours," he said.

Gopher control workshop

There will be a gopher control workshop conducted by Allen May, Wildlife Damage Control Specialist at 1 p.m., Monday, March 16. The workshop will start at Perdue Insurance offices located north of Knox City on Highway 6.

May will demonstrate different gopher control methods that will include trapping and using poisons. A tractor-drawn mechanical burrow builder, used to control gophers in large areas, will also be demonstrated.

County Judge David Perdue will be establishing a gopher control demonstration using the burrow builder in a field to be planted in coastal bermuda this spring.

All interested persons are invited out to the workshop.

Commentary

Clements walks alone in firestorm

AUSTIN—Gov. Bill Clements walked alone in a firestorm of controversy last week, while the Texas House quietly passed a $2.9 billion tax extension.

For whatever reason—or sense of timing, Clements chose last week to admit that he knew of illegal payments to SMU football players while the school was on NCAA probation.

Clements was chairman of the school's board of governors at the time, and his statement linked members of the board to the payment scheme for the first time, reopening the file in the public's awareness, as it were.

After his admission spread like wildfire, Clements stood firm behind it. Some board members denied it, but at least one other confirmed Clements' version. Now a panel of Methodist ministers is probing the affair.

The incident is either a political faux pas of the first magnitude, or . . . well, what is it?

Momentum To Democrats
In effect, Clements has cast a dark cloud over his own credibility, creates somewhat of a are setting the stage for more taxes, and Treasurer Ann Richards says the state is about $3 billion too short of meeting Clements' budget.

The favorite escape out of the mess still appears to be an overhaul of the sales tax base and rate, but Clements will have to give a green light to higher revenues.

Tort Reform

The real action is with the tort reform legislation, and the insurance companies and trial lawyers went after it.

Pro-insurance witnesses presented charts to back up their contention that high-dollar settlements of injury cases are driving up the cost of malpractice and liability insurance.

Two lawyers on the panel, Sen. Kent Caperton, D-Bryan, and Sen. Bob Glasgow, D-Stephenville, questioned the pro-insurance figures. Caperton wants to set up an insurance consumer advocate similar to the public utility advocate.

Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox asked the panel to postpone action on tort reform to give his office more time to collect information on liability insurance programs.

Mattox, with his trial lawyer background, has been probing the way insurance companies set rates, and says the real problem is with the companies, not the tort laws.

Other Highlights

- A North Texas lawmaker filed a bill to proclaim English the official language but Hispanic legislators said they killed the bill just minutes after it was introduced.
- The House advanced a plan to add about $515 million for higher education, mostly junior colleges, to the appropriations bill.
- Attorneys for mentally ill Texans last week asked a Texas judge to prepare to call the Legislature into a special session if it does not supply enough money to comply with court orders to improve mental hospitals and community services for the mentally ill.
- A senate committee approved a bill requiring county officials in the 20 largest counties to file financial disclosure statements the same as state officials.
- Federal regulators closed two Houston area banks for poor management and bad loans, bringing the '87 total of failed banks in Texas to 12.

Four couples get marriage licenses

Four couples were issued marriage licenses during the month of February by the office of County Clerk Woodrow Frazier.

They were:

Landon Bill Pannell and Tammi Renea Miller, both of Haskell; Jack Edwin Rueffer and Sharon Lanell Camp, both of Haskell; Allen Lee Baugh of Roanoke, Ala., and Melanie Denise Tidrow of Haskell; and Conrad Saucedo of Rochester and Silva Ann Abila of Haskell.

—Letters to the Editor—

To the Editor: A friend many years ago told me of men on the battlefield. Men who claimed there was no God, yet cried out to Him as they died. In small communities some may feel we do not need a doctor or hospital; that we can travel 20 miles or an hour away. Perhaps they have never had someone to have a heart attack or die at their feet. The helplessness is unbearable.

Some years ago in Rule a man did die at the feet of his wife, my son, my son-in-law, and at mine. We tried...but we could do nothing. The hospital was only 10 miles away. Last year a lady had a heart attack in the ECC Center. Dr. Frank Cadenhead and the paramedics came. They were able to keep her alive to get her to the hospital and on to Abilene. We lost her, but she could have died in the Center without any medical help. The hospital was only 200 yards away.

Lives cannot always be saved. God is still the Creator. He rules over life and death; but He has given dedicated men and women knowledge in medicines to serve their fellowman. Our doctors could have chosen to serve in large cities. They chose a place they loved and felt there was a need.

Our beautiful nation is losing its one-to-one fellowship. Everything is going into big corporations and into big cities. We are losing the privilege of living in small communities. Should our medical facilities close, so go the jobs of many people. Working people have families with children to feed and send to school. Rural schools are low in children because families must move to find jobs.

Most important goes a way of life that is simple and peaceful with the security of having doctors, hospitals, and medicine to care for our families, the young and the old.

Illness has a battlefield. People cannot always be near a large city or a large hospital. Some cannot afford the trip. This problem not only touches the doctors, but many ways and walks of life.

I wonder if there is still another battlefield and our American Life is slowly being taken away from us. By Who? Could it be those of us that know better, but allow it to happen? Hoping someone else will say something or maybe do something? Peter could walk on the water until he looked down. Perhaps it's time for us to look up and remember who delivered us into this land.
Marsha Whittemore

Amen!

Editor: I would like to say "Amen" to Dr. Wayne Cadenhead's letter in last week's paper.

No doubt Mr. King has not had very much sickness.

My brother has been in the care home eight years. Five years ago he had to have a leg amputated. Dr. Frank Cadenhead, Dr. Thigpen and Wayne did this. He is 91 years old and now he is facing the same problem again. He cannot go through amputation again. We just pray that they can keep him easy and comfortable. If we were 25 miles from a doctor this could not be done.

Our three doctors are Christians. They love the Lord and want to do all they can to make his life as comfortable as possible. We appreciate our doctors and all employees at the rest home.

Mr. King, I hope you don't ever have to need a doctor. And have to go 25 miles before getting help. We will remember you in our prayers.

Editor: I am enclosing a check for $12.75 for The Haskell Free Press. We came to Haskell County from Cook County in 1901. We lived on a ranch 25 miles from Haskell, near Weinert, in the Pleasant Valley community.

I was so pleased to get the special supplement to The Free Press, all about the rural schools, especially about Pleasant Valley. I will sense I am the oldest living person who attended the Pleasant Valley School, the years being 1904 and 1905. I only went two terms. My first teacher was Alvy Couch, my second teacher Miss Annie Ellis, who later married Dr. Westbrook from Rule.

I well remember the Frees, Mitchels, Courtneys, Airds, Riddells, Blairs and Cousins. The picture of the school house was not the one when I went there. It was a small square house.

My father, M. D. Kemp, moved to town in 1908 so we could go to school for nine months. Only three months was all I went at Pleasant Valley.

Oscar Martin was the publisher and owner and I have never since been without The Haskell Free Press. I don't know many any more, but still have some loved ones and dear friends out there and it is home to me. So keep it coming please.

TAX PLANNING

Written By
Richard E. Rodgers, CPA

REDUCE YOUR SELF-EMPLOYMENT TAX

A self-employed individual pays his/her Social Security contributions as "self-employment taxes." These are computed on a special self-employment schedule along with the Form 1040 for regular income taxes. But the quarterly tax estimates filed by a self-employed person must take self-employment taxes into consideration.

A self-employed individual may be able to reduce the self-employment tax by hiring his or her spouse, hiring minor children, lumping income into alternate years, or by incorporating and electing S status.

An unincorporated businessperson who hires a spouse will reduce the net profit subject to self-employment tax. The spouse receiving the compensation does not pay Social Security taxes under a special exemption for spousal wages. The same is true if you hire one of your children under the age of 21. Keep in mind that the amount paid must be reasonable compensation for the services performed.

The maximum net profit subject to self-employment tax for 1987 is $43,800. If your net profit is in the $43,000 range, consider shifting your income and deductions so that you pay the maximum Social Security in some years and substantially less than the maximum in alternate years.

If your sole proprietorship or husband-wife partnership is producing a net profit in excess of a reasonable compensation for your time, you could save money by incorporating and electing S status. You're required to take a reasonable wage but no more than that. If reasonable compensation for you or your spouse would be $10,000, for example, there is little point in paying 12.3% of $43,800 for 1987. If you incorporate, the salary you draw will also be subject to federal unemployment tax. This must be computed to determine what savings you would have under this technique.

To the extent you pay less than the maximum self-employment Social Security contribution, you will reduce your benefits. One should take the savings from the reduced taxes and invest them wisely.

The admitting clerk at Seton Hospital in Austin didn't ask me to repeat it or spell it when I told her we were from Haskell. Therefore, I just assumed she knew all about it.

Five days later a nurse asked me if I was from Haskell.

"It took me a while to figure it out," she said.

Then she showed me how our hometown was listed on Pat's medical charts. It was spelled "Highschool, Texas."

Mention here a couple of weeks ago that typewriters are disappearing from newspapers brought this response from Maxwell McCombs, chairman of the Department of Journalism at the University of Texas in Austin:

Two others use networked IBM personal computers to teach broadcast journalism, feature writing and magazine editing."

It's tempting to put $79 with the check and become the proud owner of the most expensive luggage I've ever had. But the pictures of the suitcases look strangely similar to the $39.95 suitcases I already have.

1st girl: "You know, I should be ashamed. I've lived in Austin four years and I don't even have an LBJ Library card."

Then the second girl whispered something in the first girl's ear.

Ask VA

Q. May I use my VA home loan guaranty to purchase a duplex?

A. Yes. A veteran's entitlement may be used to purchase up to a maximum of four family units, one of which must be occupied by the veteran.

Q. I would like to refinance my current VA home mortgage to get cash out of the refinance. Do I need entitlement under this procedure?

A. Yes. On a VA refinance, where the veteran is receiving cash from the transaction, the veteran must have sufficient entitlement remaining to guarantee the loan to the lender's satisfaction.

Q. Is it true that husbands of female veterans are eligible for the same VA benefits as wives and widows of male veterans?

A. Yes. A husband or widower has the same status as a wife or widow of a male veteran and is eligible to receive the same benefits if otherwise entitled.

What no one at the Capitol can figure out is, if he did it deliberately, then why?

The SMU thing was dying down, Reagan was grappling pretty well with the Tower Commission report, and the public had already accepted Clements' softened position on new taxes.

Donna Saffel has been appointed 1987 campaign chairman of the Lone Star Chapter of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation.

The campaign will be held to provide the community with pertinent information about Cystic Fibrosis, the No. 1 genetic killer of children and young adults, and to raise needed funds to support research, education and area programs.

Cystic Fibrosis is difficult to diagnose and impossible to cure. Each day, five babies are born with the disease which will clog and choke their lungs and inhibit their digestive process and their growth. It will eventually take their lives as it takes the lives of three young people every day.

been carried in the store since the opening. The accessory selection is diverse enough to complement individual wardrobe stories. The alterations department is a trusted service.

Responding to Economy

In the past year, the pair has succeeded in adjusting inventory to meet the results of the economic downturn in West Texas. "We continue to carry the couture merchandise," states Lane, "but we must be more selective in our buying. We do not sell each customer as much as we used to."

"We expect them to come back to it," adds Felker.

According to Lane, "While such depth and diversity of merchandise have played a significant role in developing Lane-Felker's reputation, service and ambiance have secured it. Lane-Felker is not a posh operation, but it is understatedly elegant."

The store has been systematically redecorated to entice the customer with fresh and hospitable surroundings. The coral and gray accoutrements outline the crisp white and mirrored fixtures for a Mediterranean warmth.

Another aspect of the Lane-Felker success is comfort. From the inviting nature of the staff to the services of seating and refreshment for customers and their spouses, Lane-Felker services the customer to the extent of travel accommodations.

The two sisters learned their craft as retailers when, as young women, both achieved the top salesperson honors at the local department store of Perkins Timberlake. The pair left, amid great teasing about the success of their venture, to open their own store. At that time retailing was a family project, with Lane-Felker Men's as the next-door brother store, operated by the Misters Lane and Felker for approximately 10 years.

Reputation by Recommendation
The sisters look to an extensive advertising campaign on television in the West Texas market as the initial boost to the success of Lane-Felker. Their continued reputation now most sung by customer recommendation instead of the media, is the backbone of the business they started on the heels of the Depression.

"This business has been our life and we absolutely love every day," states Lane. "We started with lots of enthusiasm and we still have it. The chemistry between us and our love for this business, which is shared by our sales staff, is what makes this place tick."

Rabies continues as threat

Some 10,500 animal specimens, from armadillos to zebras, were tested at the Texas Department of Health (TDH) for rabies last year. Of these, 470 were found to carry the disease.

Although no human cases of rabies were reported in Texas during 1986, Dr. Foy V. McCasland, chief of the TDH Bureau of Veterinary Public Health, said the disease is a continuing threat to people. He warned that anyone with pets, or who frequently works with domestic animals, should see that the animals are vaccinated annually, as the law prescribes.

He also warned against adopting wild animals as pets. Wild animals are the most frequent carriers of rabies, and there are no approved rabies vaccines for them, Dr. McCasland explained. He said that although a wild animal may be vaccinated with the same shots used for dogs and cats, the vaccine may or may not be effective. "A wild animal, sooner or later, is likely to bite or scratch its owner," he added.

Wild animals, chiefly skunks and bats, constitute about 90 percent of all rabies cases confirmed by TDH. Dr. McCasland said that most cases of domestic animal infection can be traced to contact with rabid wild animals.

Testing for rabies in Texas is conducted exclusively in health department laboratories in Austin, Houston, San Antonio, and El Paso. In 1986, these laboratories confirmed rabies in 275 skunks, 132 bats, 14 dogs, 14 cows, 13 cats, 11 foxes, three bobcats, three horses, two coyotes, a raccoon, a goat, and a sheep.

Rabbits, squirrels and some other rodents are not considered to be rabies threats to humans because of their characteristics. "Although they may not bite, they may carry the disease, and it is remotely possible for a person to be exposed to rabies by handling them," Dr. McCasland explained.

Most areas of Texas have effective animal control units to enforce vaccination laws for domestic animals. These units also care for or remove sick and dangerous wild animals. But some rural counties and those bordering Mexico, where vaccination laws are less stringent, are the most frequent areas for rabies outbreaks. In these areas, Dr. McCasland cautions all pet owners to keep vaccinations up-to-date and all persons to avoid any animals unlikely to have had shots.

He added that veterinarians usually take rabies immunizations every two years because of the likelihood of their exposure to the disease, and TDH further urges trappers, who may skin a variety of wild animals, and spelunkers, who may encounter bats in caves, to be immunized, also.

—Weinert News—

By Myrtle Phemister

We extend congratulations to Donnie and Debbie Crump as they celebrate their eighth wedding anniversary. Don is pastor of the First Baptist Church and they have just ended a week of special services with Bucky Faggard as visiting evangelist with a noon luncheon, as they said "good-bye" and he departed to his own home in High Point. Six people made new commitments for God.

Mildred Sanders and Doris Walker were cooks for the week-day breakfasts and approximately 30 people gathered each morning for food and fellowship.

Birthday people this week in Weinert include Jeannie Forehand, Teresa and Brandon Hummel, Michelle Johnson and Daniel and Felipe Castorena, twin brothers. Congratulations! And our congratulations go to Hugh Phemister, who came out from Montague with his wife, Norma, to celebrate his 55th birthday! Hugh has worked with Lone Star Gas Company since he returned from military service in Korea, 27 years ago. He says THAT will make a "Senior Citizen" out of anyone.

Mabel Derr had an exciting week entertaining a great-granddaughter, Lauren Therwhanger of Baltimore, Maryland, the 2 1/2 year old daughter of Bobby D. and Cindy Therwhanger. (Bobby D. is associated with the Cargile, Import Co. in Baltimore) Lauren had to be shared with Ann and Bobby of Munday and other relatives. She returned to her home on Sunday accompanied by Grandmother Ann and Aunt Teresa.

Those from Weinert attending the Houston livestock show reported a great time. Mandy and Mitch Mayfield with their parents, Tif and Erlinda; Ag teacher Russ Perry; Robin Raynes with his family, Bobby and Betty, parents and sister, Michelle.

Mandy was fortunate in that his animal was not sifted at Brehnam, but it lacked one slot getting into the sale. Mitch's pig was sifted, as were Robin's chickens. It was a learning experience for all the boys and we are proud of them. Better luck next year!

Mary Murphy and Alice Yates attended the wedding ceremony of Christi Underwood and Tim Exom at Throckmorton on Sunday afternoon. Christi is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Underwood, former residents of

Clean microwave for best results

Compared to cleaning a conventional oven, cleaning a microwave is easy--so easy that many people don't do it often enough.

According to a Texas A&M home economist, infrequent cleaning can impair the efficiency of a microwave oven.

"Microwaves are absorbed by food, whether that food is on the walls of the oven or in a dish," says Dr. Susan Quiring, "so a buildup of food particles on the oven surfaces can slow the cooking process."

She says that food soils around the door or the frame may also interfere with the door seal or even prevent the oven from starting properly. Ideally, the microwave should be cleaned after each use with a paper towel or sponge dipped in a mild detergent and warm water solution, Quiring says.

Wildlife park has its own baby boom

The annual spring 'baby boom' is underway, and little ones are arriving in all shapes, colors and sizes.

Black and white zebras, wobbly-legged elands, tiny Thompson's gazelles and muley-looking gnus are 'new' residents of the International Wildlife Park.

"We're making the stork work over-time," laughed Ray Sutton, wildlife manager of the popular tourist attraction. "When we officially open for the '87 season on March 7, there will be lots of new faces in the crowd."

The most significant birth is a baby bongo antelope, which is an extremely rare and endangered species.

"The female was born in mid-January, although we have not yet placed mother and baby on public display," said Sutton. "We hope to have them on exhibit by the end of March."

The little bongo, dubbed Bingo by the wildlife staff, is the third birth in the park's three-year-old breeding program.

A reclusive, 80-pound baby was recently born underwater in the park's largest lake, and wildlife officials are not certain if it is a male or female. The hippopotamus was born in early February, and it's mother is timid about sharing the little one with the rest of the world.

"It spends most of the time in the water, although we get enough glimpses to know it is thriving," said Sutton. "We'll just hold off on a name until we know the sex."

More new arrivals are anticipated throughout the spring, which will add to the park's ever-growing population of more than 2,000 exotic animals.

In the 360-acre preserve, zebra, rhinoceros and hippos look like they are at home in Africa. However, new babies quickly learn one big difference.

The automobiles which drive slowly along the preserve's paved roads all offer out-stretched buckets of easy meals.

"It's loads of fun to watch people feed the animals," said Sutton. "They make all kinds of animal sounds to coax an animal to their car window, and it's just fun to watch."

Besides the drive-through animal safari, a visit to the International Wildlife Park also includes an amusement area. The Entertainment Village, which is open on weekends during the spring, features a camel ride, Turtle Taxi, wild animal shows, a Wildlife Express train, baby animal nursery and other feature attractions.

The drive-through animal safari is open seven days per week at 9:30 a.m. with the last car of the day admitted at 4 p.m. on weekdays.

On weekends, when the Entertainment Village is open, the last car is admitted at 4:30 p.m., and the park closes at 6 p.m.

The International Wildlife Park is located in Grand Prairie just north of Belt Line Rd. and Interstate 30. For additional information on operating hours or to obtain group rates for 15 or more persons, call (214) 263-2201.

Workshop for small businesses

A workshop for current and prospective Small Business owners will be held from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. March 24 at the West Central Texas Council of Governments, 1025 E. N. 10th in Abilene.

The registration fee of $10 includes all materials and refreshments. Advance registration is recommended by calling SCORE office in Abilene, 915-677-1857.

Fina announces all-staters

Eleven high school football players who have demonstrated superior achievements in the classroom and leadership in school and community activities have been named to the Fina Academic All-State football team.

The 11 high school seniors each will receive a scholarship of $2,000 to the college or university of his choice.

Gridiron ability was not a factor in the judging. Any senior football letterman was eligible for consideration. To ensure that youths from all sections of the state would be considered, a geographic distribution formula was followed.

Five of the team members were class presidents and three others were class officers. Six were Student Council members, including four Student Council presidents. Ten of the 11 took honors courses. Two were Eagle Scouts and two attended Boys State. Most had heavy involvement in church work.

The team consists of: Martin Bowen of Arlington Heights, Derrick Boyd of Decatur, Robert English of Burleson, Neal Fisher of Comfort, Zachary Harmon of Austin, James Jones of Brownwood, Jason Klein of Houston, Chad May of Cleveland, Patrick Phelan of Beaumont, Joel Sharp of Richardson and Frederick Sunderman of El Paso.

Other voice

If you're not now a member of one of the City of Fort Stockton's various boards or commissions (which are manned by volunteer personnel), it may be because you haven't put your name on the list.

The list is called the "talent bank" by City Manager Chuy Garcia and City Secretary Aurora Gutierrez. When vacancies occur on the various city boards and commissions, the City Council takes a look at the list of citizens who have actually shown an interest in serving on them by putting their names on file at City Hall, Frank Baker, Fort Stockton Pioneer.

Ways to get tax relief

Taxpayers can learn how to get property tax relief from their local appraisal district offices, according to Ron Patterson, executive director of the State Property Tax Board (SPTB).

Patterson said the SPTB staff is working with appraisal districts and local news media to help make taxpayers aware of filing deadlines for property tax exemptions and other forms of property tax relief.

"Property owners must file rendition forms by March 31 and apply for exemptions and special productive valuation by April 30 this year," Patterson said. Taxpayers should file all exemption and productive value applications, as well as rendition forms, with the local appraisal district.

A rendition is a report a property owner makes listing taxable property owned or managed on January 1, 1987. On it, a taxpayer can record an opinion of the property's value. "If the owner renders a property's value, the appraisal district must notify the owner if it places a higher value on the property," Patterson explained.

Some property owners are required by law to render their property. "Anyone who owns or manages income-producing personal property on January 1 must file a rendition statement with the appraisal district," Patterson said.

The chief appraiser may also require other property owners or managers to render property; if so, the chief appraiser will send a notice and the appropriate rendition form. Property owners must file renditions by March 31.

Homeowners can usually get tax relief through residence homestead exemptions. "Homestead exemptions help homeowners because they allow a part of a home's value to be exempt from property taxes. This in turn reduces the amount of property taxes assessed on the house," Patterson explained.

Homestead exemptions are available for all qualified homeowners and additional tax relief is available for persons who are disabled and those who are 65 and older. Elderly homeowners who receive the over-65 homestead exemption also get a "freeze," or ceiling on school taxes.

Disabled veterans, survivors of deceased disabled veterans and survivors of those who died on active duty also receive tax exemptions from all taxing units.

"Farmers and ranchers can also lower their tax bills," Patterson said. "If their land qualifies for productivity valuation, the land will be taxed on its ability to produce, instead of its market value." Productivity valuation comes in two forms, often referred to by the section of the Texas Continuation that provides them: open-space or "1-d-1" valuation and agricultural or "1-d" valuation.

Property owners who last year received homestead exemptions, disabled veterans' exemptions and open-space land valuation do not need to reapply in 1987, unless the chief appraiser requests a new application to confirm the owner's current qualification.

Patterson pointed out, however, that property owners who have not previously received tax relief on their present homesteads or land must apply in 1987. Farmers and ranchers who receive agricultural-use valuation must apply for it annually.

People whose property is in more than one county appraisal district have an additional responsibility. They may have to file for exemptions and productivity valuation in each appraisal district in which the property is located. If they do not, taxing units may tax the property on its full market value.

Applications for exemptions and special valuation must be submitted to the appraisal office by April 30.

Complete information on tax exemptions and rendition requirements is in a pamphlet SPTB produces, "Taxpayers' Rights, Remedies, Responsibilities." The pamphlet also explains how taxpayers can challenge the values placed on their property by protesting to the appraisal review board. The free pamphlet is available from appraisal district offices or from SPTB in Austin.

"Local governments will generate nearly $9 billion this year," Patterson said. "It will help fund necessary services such as public schools, hospitals, fire and police protection, water, utilities and local colleges."

"I urge all property owners to learn about the property tax process, to file renditions and to take advantage of all forms of tax relief available to them," Patterson said.

Laboratory helps farmers

Helping farmers and ranchers increase the efficiency of their operations is a major goal of the Soil, Water and Forage Testing Laboratory operated by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service at Texas A&M. The extension service also operates a soil testing lab at Lubbock.

Costs of various tests are determined by the specific analyses requested. Information sheets on specific analyses and collection and mailing instructions are available at the county extension office.

Zumwalt book has local tie

A new book in the Haskell County Library has a close tie to Haskell residents.

The book My Father, My Son by Admiral Elmo Zumwalt Jr. and his son, Lieutenant Elmo Zumwalt III tells of their experiences in Vietnam and its aftermath. But it also makes reference to a former Haskell resident.

The younger Zumwalt, when he was a young boy, had open-heart surgery which was performed by Dr. Frank Spencer, who grew up in Haskell and whose mother, Mrs. Lillian Spencer, still resides here.

Spencer, who graduated from Haskell High School, started his career as a cardiac surgeon at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore. A few Haskell residents came to him for treatment of their heart problems. He did not, however, restrict his skills to Baltimore. On occasion he would visit Haskell where local doctors would ask him to check the heart patients here.

Today, Dr. Spencer continues in the field of cardiac surgery as chief of staff of the Medical Facility of New York University Medical School in New York City.

Bloodmobile due here March 25

Haskell area citizens again will be asked for blood donations when the bloodmobile makes a visit here March 25.

The mobile unit of the Red River Region will be at the Activity Center of the First Baptist Church from 1 to 5 p.m. on that day.

A special appeal for donations is being made to those who have received blood or have family members who have received blood.

FHA members hear program on drug problem

The Haskell Future Homemakers met March 2. Kim Nemir, Kip Nemir and Ronnie Bailey came and spoke to the group about the problems of drugs and alcohol.

The three began the Haskell chapter of the SADD organization a few years ago. They had fun meetings and collected money for the Rehab Association.

At the FHA meeting, Kim spoke about a program called "Project Graduation." A conference she attended in Abilene gave her the information. Project Graduation would be a party where the participants would sign a contract to be free of all chemical substances on graduation night.

The three also talked to the group about the SADD organization and Texas' War on Drugs. They gave the FHA members pamphlets with statistics about alcohol, marijuana, inhalants and other drugs.

FHA members presented Kim with a gift. Janie Villa won the door prize.

In a short business meeting afterward, the group discussed the upcoming Arlington meeting.

Hostesses were Jennifer Hays and LaKay Gibbs.

Hobby Club

Mattie Lou Cole was hostess for the March 3 meeting of the Rochester Hobby Club. Sixteen members and 13 visitors enjoyed a delicious covered-dish meal.

A club quilt, "Improved 9 Patch," is now in the frame ready to be quilted. Even though unable to attend club meetings, Zula Hanson recently made some very pretty and useful baby quilts or blankets for the club. We appreciate her loyalty.

We are saddened over the loss of a former club member, Lorean Pope.

Odessa Irwin is hostess for our next meeting March 17.

Visitors for the March 3 meeting were Isla Corley, Johnnie B. King, Venetia Strickland, Patsy and Lavern Rogers, Artis Hearn, Gayle and Jimmy Yearly, J. C. and Lois Yearly, Henry Irwin, Truett Kuenstler, Ferrell Bureson and Fay Wilson.

Weinert Extension Club

The Weinert Home Extension Club met Tuesday, March 3rd in the home of Agnes Winchester with six members present. Roll call was answered with "The most useful item in my purse."

Alice Yates served as secretary, in the absence of Cordie Cunningham, and also gave the Council report. She reported the Family Night program brought the highest attendance of any time, and the decorations of the Americanism theme were timely and attractive. The food was plentiful and delicious and the game time was enjoyable.

The Tri-County meet will be held March 16 at Knox City, from 10 AM to 2:30 PM. This is for club members in Haskell, Knox and Baylor.

The next council meeting will be March 18, at 2 PM and Weinert will be responsible for the devotional, decorations and refreshments for the meeting.

Academic program to be expanded

The national Close Up Foundation Citizen Bee academic competition will be expanded from a pilot Houston program to include high schools across Texas, according to an announcement Friday by Houston area U.S. Reps. Jack Fields and Tom DeLay and Mayor Kathy Whitmire.

The Bee will offer high school students the opportunity to compete on school, regional, state and national levels, testing their knowledge on American history, government, economics, geography and current affairs, based on a question book prepared by CLOSE UP.

The Bee is endorsed by the National Association of Secretaries of State, the American Federation of Teachers, the National Education Association, the National Association of Secondary School Principals, and other educational organizations. On the national level, the Bee is supported, in part, by grants from RJR Nabisco, Inc.; and Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co. On the local and state level, the Bee is sponsored by the Houston Chronicle, TranStar Airlines and Tenneco, Inc., in cooperation with the Houston Chamber of Commerce.

"Just as a spelling bee brings suspense and competitive verve to a fundamental discipline, the Citizen Bee will bring excitement to the teaching and learning of history, politics, economics and current events," said Rep. Fields, who urged schools from Texas to become involved in the project.

Extension offers vet assistance

Because the Texas A&M Extension Service has front-line contacts with livestock owners and others in the animal industry, it provides a linkage between animal health problems in the field and referrals to the Veterinary Teaching Hospital and the Texas Veterinary Medical Diagnostic Laboratory of the A&M system.

County extension agents and local veterinarians are contacts for producers and help with educational programs in health and disease prevention. The hospital and lab are learning centers that deal with many animal health cases.

Styes can be painful

A sty is a red, painful swelling like a boil that develops on the eyelid margin, around the base of the eyelash. The Texas Medical Association says applying heat to the sty can hasten relief of pain by making the sty burst early.

A sty is caused by an infection of one of the tiny oil-producing glands located at the base of each eyelash. Styes are quite common and may occur on either the upper or lower eyelid.

After a sty begins with a sensitivity to light, excessive tears in the eye, and the sensation of a foreign object in the eye. The affected lid swells and becomes red, and a white head of pus appears on the swelling.

Styes can be very painful, particularly when touched. Within a few days of a sty's formation, it bursts, which relieves the pain and causes the loss of the eyelash. The sty subsides about seven days after it first appears, and the eyelid returns to normal.

You can hasten the relief of pain by applying hot compresses to the sty frequently. When these applications draw the pus to a head, do not squeeze the sty, but pull out the eyelash. The pus will be released. Wash the eyelid carefully to remove all pus.

Styes often recur within a short period, and sometimes several develop on the lids at the same time. In either case, this is probably because the bacteria that caused the initial sty have spread and infected other eyelash follicles.

Smoking costs Texas $3 billion every year

The smoking habit costs Texans nearly $3 billion every year, according to a new report issued by the Texas Department of Health (TDH). That is equal to $1.55 in health care costs and lost income for every pack of cigarettes sold in the state.

Ron Todd, coordinator for the DH Office of Smoking and Health, said that direct health costs and indirect costs, such as lost income and productivity because of illness or death, average $907 for every Texas smoker age 18 or older each year.

"These estimates are the result of state-of-the-art research methods," Todd said. "We applied Texas statistics to a nationally accepted computer program developed by the Minnesota Department of Health. In doing so, we found that because of smoking, Texans pay more than $1.18 billion in direct health care costs. Likewise, we found that in terms of lost income and productivity, the cost is nearly $1.17 billion because of early deaths, and more than half a billion dollars because of illnesses."

The report also provides a breakdown of the number of deaths from diseases attributed to smoking each year in Texas. The estimated yearly death toll of smoking is 15,838, or about 13.6 percent of all deaths in the state. The majority (11,240) are among men.

Todd said the report is the first of its kind in Texas. "We now have reliable estimates of smoking-related costs by sex and disease category for the state," he said.

The report, Todd said, should be useful "to demonstrate the impact of smoking on public health, especially for local governments and private employers considering the creation of smoking ordinances and policies."

Copies of the 10-page report are being distributed to all local and regional health departments, as well as to the Heart Association, Lung Association, Cancer Society, and other agencies. For further information about the report or additional materials about smoking, the Office of Smoking and Health operates a toll-free information phone, at 1-800-345-8647.

Real estate math course to be offered

A 45-hour real estate math course will be offered by Western Texas College in weekend classes March 21-22 and April 4-5.

Classes will meet from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. each day. Attendance at all four sessions is mandatory.

Tuition for the course is $45 and students will purchase a textbook costing about $18. The book will be available after March 16. Persons enrolling are asked to pay fees and pick up the book during the week prior to the first class meeting. Pat Cornett will be instructor for the course.

Real Estate Math is a core course for persons seeking a license or will qualify as a 45-hour course for those needing hours to renew their licenses.

Information about the course can be obtained by calling the WTC Continuing Education office at 573-8511, extension 240.

Maritime College offers A & M degree

Students who wish to pursue careers in the maritime industry may apply for admission to the Texas Maritime College, a division of Texas A&M University at Galveston. Students in this program work toward a degree from Texas A&M while training to be licensed officers in the American Merchant Marine.

Students may major in marine transportation, marine engineering, marine biology or marine sciences. Additional course work in maritime sciences and attending the summer cruise of the Texas Clipper, the university's 473-foot training ship, are also part of the curricula.

Students who complete the program also enter the U.S. Navy

Reserves as officers, or may enter the active duty armed services. These students are eligible to apply for any officer program the Navy offers, including flight, surface warfare and nuclear power training.

According to a survey conducted by the American Association of State Colleges and Universities, Texas A&M at Galveston is the fourth least expensive public college in the nation.

Candidates must meet certain physical, age and academic requirements. For more information about this and other courses offered by Texas A&M University at Galveston, contact the Admissions Office, P.O. Box 1675, Galveston, TX 77553, or call 409-740-4415.

Track teams open season at Munday

Haskell track teams get their first taste of competition Saturday when they enter the Mogul Relays at Munday.

Both the Indian and the Maiden teams return most of the performers who led them to successful seasons last spring.

Coach George Martin said he looks for this year's Maiden team to be as competitive as it was a year ago when Haskell won the district championship.

Likely to see action at Munday in Saturday's opener are:

400 relay: Joy McKeever, Velma Castillo, Vicki Chavez, Sheree Dumas and Dala Harris (alternate).

800 run: Leiza Morales, Gloria Castillo, Donna Rowan.

100 low hurdles: Joy McKeever, Sheree Dumas, Missy Davis.

100 dash: Vicki Chavez, Jana Payne, Christina Comacho.

400 dash: Teresa Rodriguez.

800 relay: Velma Castillo, Leiza Morales, Dala Harris, Teresa Unger, Gloria Castillo (alternate).

200 dash: Teresa Unger, Velma Castillo, Jana Payne.

1600 run: Sylvia Castillo, Alicia Sherman, Emily Camacho.

1600 relay: Vicki Chavez, Leiza Morales, Teresa Rodriguez, Sheree Dumas, Gloria Castillo (alternate), Teresa Unger (alternate).

3200 run: Emily Camacho, Sylvia Castillo, Alicia Sherman.

Shot put: Donna Rowan, Missy Davis.

Discus: Donna Rowan, Missy Davis.

Long jump: Vicki Chavez, Teresa Unger, Leiza Morales.

High jump: Joy McKeever, Sheree Dumas.

Triple jump: Sheree Dumas, Joy McKeever.

Coach Jimmy Lisle's Indian team also is looking forward to a good season. The coach was not sure Monday just how his athletes would line up for the Mogul Relays.

He has high expectations for the sprint and mile relay teams which did real well last year. All members of last year's sprint relay team are back this year, Stephon Brockington, Fred Shaw, Derrick Billington and Mark Young.

Individually, there are high expectations for Brockington in the 100 and 200 and Young in the 400.

Retired teachers

The Haskell County Retired Teachers Association will meet at noon on Wednesday, March 18, at the Porthole.

Thanks!

A big "Thanks" to the public was issued this week by Coach Jimmy Lisle and members of the HHS Indian track team for the response to Saturday's donut sale.

Lisle said the sale went over real well and the money made by the boys will be very helpful in supporting the track program.
