Class of 1957 reunites

Members of the Haskell High School class of 1957 converged July 10 at the Ambassador Plaza Hotel for a 30-year class reunion.

After a catered noon meal the next day, they enjoyed an unrehearsed program which consisted of such topics as:

"Who actually participated in putting the mule in the school house one dark night?".

"Who chained Dangerous Dan (the loved?! science teacher) Morgan's car exhaust pipe to the post?",

"Why mud was put on the wrecked side of a car?",

And "How the sleeves of the dresses were glued on to pass Mrs. McCollum's inspection."

For two days the former classmates and guests enjoyed reminiscing and the laughs of the stories told. Pictures of the senior trip were on display. Many pictures of children and grandchildren were shared.

Attending were:

Jimmy and Mary McMillen Byrd, Alfon and Maurice Fouts Peiser, Peggy Love Jones, Janice Jones Lauderdale, Pat and Charley Henry, Oris and Shirley Rasco Gibson, Don Garrett and Marlis Morgan.

Dale and Vickie Medley Smith, Jim and Delorise Mullins McMillen, Tom and Geneva Franklin Alvis, Waymond and Bettye Hester McBroom, Dale and Carmen Pennington, Jerry and Mary Lee Carter Sorrells.

Doylene Hoover Llewellyn, Robert and Suzanne Starr, Aubrey and Ina Mae Adams Altum, Gail Kay Smith Johnson, Bobby Lusk, Doug and Connie Brown, Sam and Sandi Eubanks.

Walter and Joe Chamberlain Johnson, Al and Sandra Coburn Russell, Albert and Jeanette Turner Hoppe and Jerry and Myrna Cooper Matthews.

Welcomed "party crashers" from the class of 1958 were Squee and Susie Kimbrough and Jimmy and Janice Hester Browning.

It was the consensus of those attending that members of the 1957 class would meet again in the near future, and not wait another 30 years.

Stapleton to get national award

Max Stapleton, Haskell County extension agent for the past 21 years, has been named to receive the Distinguished Service award, the highest recognition given by the National Association of County Agricultural Agents.

The award is presented annually to county agents nationwide who have made outstanding contributions to agriculture and improved living, said Roger Corbin, Ellis County extension agent and president of the Texas County Agricultural Agents Association.

Stapleton will be one of seven county agents with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service to receive the award, which will be presented at the NACAA meeting Aug. 9-13, in Fargo, N.D. He also will be given special recognition at the TCAAA meeting Aug. 2-5 in Lubbock.

Stapleton has conducted diversified educational programs since his tenure in Haskell County, with major emphasis on peanuts, 4-H livestock projects and community development. His work with the youth of Haskell County has been a big influence in many of them entering into professional fields of agriculture.

His work with youth can be further distinguished by the many awards won on local, district and state levels, especially with livestock projects. Not only does the 4-H benefit from Stapleton's leadership, but all youth, as evidenced by him being named to receive the Honorary Lone Star Farmer Degree.

His first commitment is to the people of Haskell County. Under his leadership, peanuts have become a major cash crop in the area. His effective use of result demonstration work, tours, field days and other educational methods are used to keep producers informed of the latest production and marketing practices available. He has gained a reputation of helping people, both youth and producers of Haskell County, in keeping agriculture in the forefront.

Stapleton is a graduate of Texas Tech University with a B.S. degree in agricultural education. He has served as chairman of the State Animal Industry Committee, served on the State 4-H Record Book Judging Committee and as a member of the Advisory Committee for the TCAAA annual meeting in 1983.

City considering street program, salary hikes

By Wendell Faught

A tentalive City budget calling for $50,000 i.1 street improvements and $27,000 in salary raises for the City's 20 employees will be presented to the City Council next Tuesday (July 28). City administrator Robert Baker was instructed by the Council last week to include these items in his first budget draft. At their July 14 meeting, councilmen discussed the need for an on-going street improven ent program and a boost in salaries of employees who, for the most part, have not had raises in four years.

46 cents, Knox City 59.8, Munday 59.5, Anson 67, Hamlin 81.4 and Stamford 78.1.

He stressed that Haskell has no bonded indebtedness, while all other cities mentioned, except Munday, have either outstanding revenue or general obligation bonds. Stamford has both.

Baker said the public is invited to Tuesday's Council meeting at which the budget will be discussed. He also said he will be glad to discuss the City's position at his office with anyone having questions about it.

In addition, the law requires that two later public hearings be conducted if the City raises the tax rate. In explaining the street proposal, Baker said the city's streets are badly in need of re-surfacing. Only other way to solve the problem would be through a bond issue. He said this avenue wculd would involve legal, interest, engineering and bonding agent expenses and would be a oneshot approach rather than an on-going project as is being proposed. Councilmen went on record as being in favor of a resolution stipulating that the $50,000 will be spent on streets, and on nothing else. The administrator reported that the City is in good condition from a financial standpoint and has operated this year within its budget. The general fund took in $296,000 in the first nine months of the fiscal year (October through June) and has spent $242,000. The enterprise account (water, sewer and garbage) has received $390,000 and spent $388,000, Baker said.

$331,158 on hand, compared to $338,922 at the same time last year. But the City is owed $58,000 by the State Parks and Wildlife Commission as its balance on matching funds for the swimming pool renovation. Most of the cash on hand is invested in certificates of deposit.

This has been accomplished, Baker pointed out, in spite of a $14,000 decrease in sales tax receipts and lower revenues in other areas.

Except for the street project and the salary increases, the City expects to operate on the same 22.5-cent tax rate now in effect. Baker said this is made possible by having no budgeted expenses for major equipment purchases and a lower payroll made possible by having three fewer employees than a year ago.

Wheat, cattle seminar to be in Seymour

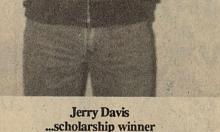

An area-wide Wheat-Stocker Cattle Eminar is scheduled for Aug. 11 at ne Baylor County Extension Building in Seymour. It begins at 9 a.m.

Copies of the programs and preregistration forms may be picked up at the Haskell County Extension Office, 101 S. Ave. D in Haskell.

Pre-registration forms should be returned to the county extension office by Aug. 4 so planners will know how many complimentary lunches to prepare.

County Agent Max Stapleton said wis will be a very interesting and worthwhile program aimed at meeting the needs of today's producers.

There is no charge for the seminar.

Jerry Davis gets FFA scholarship

Jerry Davis of the Haskell FFA was awarded the C. J. 'Red' Davidson scholarship at the 59th annual convention of the Texas FFA in Fort Worth.

The $2,000 scholarship will be used toward an agricultural college degree at Texas Tech University.

Several other Haskell FFA members competed and were awarded degrees. In the sate public speaking contest, Scott Burris placed fifth.

Lone Star Farmer degrees were awarded to Russell Flanary, Kirk High, Steven Klose and Shanna Mueller.

The Haskell FFA chapter also received a superior award for FFA activities participated in during the year.

The proposed street project calls for the seal-coating of all city streets on a rotating basis over a period of six or seven years.

Baker said that it is recommended that streets be seal-coated every seven years, but that Haskell streets have not had this treatment in many years. The goal of the City is to initiate a program whereby all streets will be re-surfaced each seven years.

To raise the $50,000 needed for the streets would result in an increase in taxes of 9.8 cents per $100 valuation. The pay raises would require another 5.2 cents per $100 valuation. The resulting 15-cent increase would raise the city tax rate from 22.5 cents to 37.5 cents.

Baker pointed out that city taxes on a house valued at $40,000 would be increased from $90 to $150 a year if the 15-cent increase becomes effective.

The administrator explained that the proposed 37.5-cent rate would compare favorably with other cities in the area. He said the rate at Roby is

City wants to sell lots

An inventory of vacant lots which have become property of the City through delinquent taxes shows about 100 such lots.

City administrator Robert Baker told the City Council last week that the inventory has been completed and that he is in the process of getting other taxing entities to forgive their taxes on the lots.

It is the hope of the City that taxes owed to other agencies (county, school, hospital, etc.) will be waived so the City can sell the lots and

Overton, Norville vows exchanged

Jana Overton became the bride of Dale Norville at 4 p.m. Saturday, July 5.

Vows were exchanged before an arch of everlasting tapers and greenery flanked on either side with everlasting candletree and baskets of white and peach flowers in the sanctuary of the First United Methodist Church of Haskell.

The Rev. Truett Kuenstler of Rochester performed the marriage ceremony.

The bride was escorted down the aisle by Jerry Don Klose and given in marriage by her mother. Genelle Overton.

Miss Overton wore a tea-length dress of ivory polyester satin, designed and fashioned by Amelia Perry. The dropped waist of the blouson bodice ended with a wide inset band adorned with a large bow on the left side.

The neckline was finished in a deep vee, framed by a wide collar overlaid with re-embroidered ivory nylon lace. The puffed sleeves ended with a fitted band just above the elbow.

In her hair she wore an arrangement of baby's breath, sonja roses and stephonotis. Her cascade bouquet was of phalaenapoisorchids, sonja roses, daisies, baby's breath and stephonotis. Behind her bouquet she carried a mother-of-pearl inlaid Bible belonging to Mrs. S. Hassen. For something new the bride chose her wedding attire. The something old was her mother's blue garter and a 40year-old six-pence in her shoe. Something old also included a gold bracelet which had belonged to her grandmother Bailey. Something borrowed were the diamond earrings belonging to Mrs. Flora Pace and a diamond drop belonging to her sister. She also had a new blue garter and a new six-pence which she wore for luck.

Jo Nell Hajek of Seymour was her sister's matron of honor. Her dress was fashioned of peach polyester satin, identical in style to that of the bride. She carried a nosegay of white and peach flowers matching the flowers in the altar arrangements.

The groom was attired in an ivory tux with ivory shirt, peach cummerbund and tie and ivory shoes. He wore a boutoniere of sonja roses and baby's breath.

Best man was the groom's father, M. B. Norville of Seymour. He was attired in identical dress as the groom.

The mother of the bride chose to wear a two-piece dress of peacock blue crepe. The mother of the groom chose a two-piece outfit with ivory skirt and aqua and ivory striped top. Both mothers wore shoulder corsages of sonja roses.

Candlelighters and ushers were Paul Cox and Steven Klose. During the lighting of the candles, Nelda Lane played an organ rendition of "Longer". Ushers seated the mothers as Mrs. Lane played "Tonight I Celebrate My Love."

A reading, "Grow in My Love," was done by Sheila Klose of Haskell. Brian Burgess of Haskell sang, "This is the Day" (a wedding song), and "Whither Thou Goest."

The processional, "Trumpet Voluntary", Purcell, and the recessional, "The Heavens Shall Declare Their Glory", Marcello, was-performed on the organ by Mrs. Lane. Immediately following the wedding ceremony, guests were invited to the home of the bride's mother at 405 N. Ave. F for a reception.

The reception table was laid with deep peach lace over peach taffeta. The three-tiered wedding cake was decorated with ivory icing roses and ropes. Completing the decorations on the cake were live flowers and petals of white, yellow and peach. Peach slush punch was served from a brass punch bowl. Other appointments were of crystal from which finger sandwiches and fresh vegetables and dip were served.

Throughout the reception area of the home, beautiful pots of greenery and baskets of white and peach flowers were displayed. Guests were entertained by the piano music of Paul Cox.

Members of the house party were Sheila Klose of Haskell, Denette Krueger of Hamilton, Holly McGroom of College Station, Fran Starr of Dallas and Tammy Cox of Dallas.

Dustin and Jonathan Hajek, nephews of the bride, passed rice bags as the newlyweds departed.

The bride is a student at Midwestern University in Wichita Falls and the groom is employed with his father in the home construction business in Seymour where the young couple will make their home.

Parties for the couple were held in Wichita Falls, Seymour, in the home of Sheila Klose in Haske" and in the First United Methodist Church Fellowship Hall in Haskell.

Dog ticks

Control measures given

Dog ticks have become an increasing problem for dog owners in Haskell County.

The brown dog tick is the tick most commonly found on dogs. The American dog tick may be found but is more abundant in the more humid parts of Texas and numbers peak in the spring.

Brown dog tick adults are oneeighth to three-sixteenths inch long and the engorged females are about a half-inch long. The tick leaves the host to molt near the end of the larval, puppal and adult stages. The entire life cycle requires from 63 to 97 days.

Brown dog ticks are not known to transmit disease to humans in Texas. The American dog tick and the Lone Star tick can transmit Rocky Mountain spotted fever and tularemia.

To control ticks, treat the home, yard and pet at the same time. Examine dogs and cats frequently for ticks. Insecticides for control are available from chain stores, pet shops and veterinarians. Treatment will be needed as long as pets remain infested. Heavy infestations should be treated by a veterinarian.

Spot treatment with an insecticide formulated for use in the home will control light infestations. Materials that may be used are chlorpyrifos, diazinon or propoxur. Treat around the baseboards, windows, doors, wall cracks and the pet's sleeping quarters. To control heavy infestations in the home, remove the pets from the house and repeat insecticidal applications at two- to four-week intervals.

To control ticks in the lawn, the same materials mentioned above formulated for use in the lawn might be used. Make sure the foundation of buildings and areas used heavily by dogs are well treated. Always read and follow carefully all instructions on the product label.

Legislature OKs record tax increase

The Texas Legislature late Tuesday approved a $5.7 billion tax increase to finance the state's $38.3 billion budget. Gov. Clements has indicated he will approve the tax increase.

AUSTIN-Like two cowboys fighting in a buckboard who realize they're about to go over the cliff, Gov. Bill Clements and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby opted to end their brinkmanship on the budget before the state goes over the edge.

And like an audience sitting on the edge of their seats, most Texans breathed a sigh of relief.

Along with House Speaker Gib Lewis, the trio last week met the press to outline a $38.3 billion spending compromise, and then turned to the task of getting the Legislature to approve it.

Everyone gave a little. Clements agreed to not veto the bill, and Hobby lowered his spending levels.

Their accord left the Legislature a scant eight days to rush the spending and tax bills through conference committee and both houses.

Speaker Lewis predicted a tough House battle, but if some strength must be mustered, a second special session could extend the time.

Clements Rips Treasurer

Earlier, as committee members huddled, Treasurer Ann Richards called a press conference to warn Aug. 7 was the deadline to make bouncing. When questioned later, Clements gow, D-Stephenville, took a flexible position and said the Senate would work with the House.

Rep. Paul Colbert, D-Houston, now known for his clever amendment which would wipe out many agencies and colleges if Clements vetoed the budget, said the lower spending level would cause local taxes to increase.

"Why the governor thinks you can save taxpayers money by not putting it (taxes) on them at the state level, but forcing it on them at the local level, I don't understand," Colbert said.

The burden is now on local officials to make cuts, and those local officials who pass along higher local taxes will try to blame the Legislature for not approving more.

Other Highlights

• Despite his loss of credibility in the polls, Clements last month raised $290,000 in campaign contributions.

• Sen. Ike Harris, R-Dallas, said he will seek re-election, which disappointed those who wanted to move up to that seat. Harris is thought to be in line to be executive director of the new racing commission, if the amendment is approved in the November election.

• Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, lost an amendment to apply the sales tax to aviation fuel, but Sen. Cyndi Krier, R-San Antonio, argued consumers would bear the $51 million cost. Parker suggested airlines instead do away with the free cocktails to passengers, and after defeat, conceded his error in trying to cut out free whiskey.

• House Appropriations chairman Jim Rudd, D-Brownfield, predicted too many special sessions are going to discourage many good lawmakers from seeking reelection because it takes away too much time from their businesses back home.

He estimated last year he spent 240 days in Austin on budget business instead of tending to his law practice, and that his three law partners departed for that reason.

• State Democratic Party chairman Bob Slagle joined the ranks of those sensing a "clean house" movement among voters tired of the Legislature's ineffectiveness on writing a budget, remarking, "The people want the Legislature to do something and go home." • Former House Speaker Jimmy Turman recalls the voter backlash in 1962 when lawmakers took a regular session and three specials to pass a sales tax. "As much as it was the sales tax, I think it was because we lingered so long."

Red Cross still helps Saragosa

Six weeks after the devastating May 22 tornado struck Saragosa, the American Red Cross is still on the scene aiding the victims.

Following the tornado which killed 30 people and destroyed 61 homes, causing major damage to 13 and minor damage to 16, the Red Cross housed 62 people for three days in an emergency shelter. The Red Cross gave emergency assistance to 131 families. Assistance included food, clothing, household items, medical supplies and replacement of occupational tools and supplies.

Altogether, Red Cross has worked with 150 people who have had disaster-caused injuries or illnesses. Volunteers have served 21,112 meals to disaster victims and workers. Red Cross personnel will remain

'Just friends'

Who says males and females can't be "just friends?"

Platonic friendships are quite common among African baboons. According to National Wildlife magazine, the male friends protect the females and their young from attacks by other members of the troop and often groom and cuddle the infants.

A male's reward is an increased chance of eventually mating with the female, although he may have to wait for as long as two years. icn.

Texans are leading the way as U.S. researchers work toward mind-boggling discoveries that could lead to such advances as ultrafast computers, hyperefficient power plants, trains that travel hundreds of miles per hour on a cushion of magnetism and scores of applications not yet imagined.

After 75 years of research and theorizing have come eight months in which one new discovery has followed another in the field of superconductivity—in which metals lose their electrical resistance and carry currents without losing energy.

Hardly a day goes by, in fact, without some breakthrough. Much of the attention has centered on the stunning achievements by Dr. Paul Chu and his team of scientists at the University of Houston, but other Texas schools and scientists are in the thick of things, too.

Our nation and state need to maintain our status as world leaders in this research, but there are a couple of hitches.

First, with so many people doing so much so quickly and with so little coordination, we may end up with a lot of duplication, confusion and chaos.

Second, we have some hefty competition.

Laboratories in China, Japan, Eastern Europe and Western Europe are charging ahead. In Japan, an estimated 600 university physicists and 100 researchers at private companies are making an all-out push. The Japanese are even talking about building a $130 million research center.

With these developments in mind, I am devising legislation to establish four or five centers to coordinate superconductivity research and development projects in the U.S. Certainly, I think Texas is a logical site for one of these centers because Texas scientists are already on the leading edge of this technology.

These centers would help focus our scientific talent on the task at hand. They should be large enough to perform the wide range of experimentation necessary. And they should be linked through matching funds to the private sector.

As a member of the Senate Commerce Committee, which has jurisdiction over federal civilian research and development, I plan to take an active role in helping our nation respond to these challenges and bridge the gap between innovations and practical applications.

Already, we in the Commerce Committee have been working to help strengthen U.S. research capabilities and to improve the opportunities for transferring technology from the laboratory to the marketplace.

In the weeks ahead, when the Commerce Committee takes up legislation authorizing the National Science Foundation to continue its work, I'll be seeking to attach my provision establishing superconductivity R&D centers. These will help us intensify and coordinate our efforts at home and confront the challenges and competition from abroad.

Without question, American researchers have achieved the greatest results so far.

It would be most unfortunate if American science makes a world-class discovery only to have other nations develop the products and reap the profits.

-Weinert News-

By Myrtle Phemister

All roads led to Stephenville on Saturday for the annual East-West, 6man football game. Weinert was placed in the East side category, but the West side was the victorious team this year.

Those from our area who attended the game included Coach Forehand and Kenny; Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Hester, Laurie and Stacy; Johnny, Ricky and Edward Perez; Shannon Forehand and Kelly Smith.

The Perez brothers were all High School graduates this year, and their presence on the football and basketball squads will be missed tremendously.

Mr. and Mrs. Gus Rueffer, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rueffer and Carl Rueffer were in Thorndale, Texas last week to attend memorial services for an aunt, 90 year old Meta Rueffer Niemtschk.

Mrs. Niemtschk was reared in our area, and moved away after her marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Carroll and Denise, and Mr. and Mrs. Kerry Therwhanger of Megargel were in Odessa for the weekend to visit relatives and to attend a wedding in which Kerry's good friend was the groom, and Kerry was a part of the wedding party.

Debbie Crump with David and Tabitha, were in Wichita Falls on Saturday to visit with an aunt, Eleanor Bell, who has just returned from Taiwan, where she served a year's tour of duty as a journey-man for the Baptist Missionary Board.

They were met be Debbie's mother-in-law from Blue Grove, and David and Tabitha returned home with her for a week's visit with "Grandma".

The Senior-Hi Baptist Youth are at Lueders this week for Bible Camp with Donnie Crump as counselor. Laurie Hester is in attendance.

Debbie Crump accompanied by the remaining Senior Youth people were at camp on Tuesday night for the activities and will remain for the rest of the week.

Out-of-town guests in the Toby Yates home this week are Mr. and Mrs. Bob Cypert of Odessa, a brother of Alice. They attended worship services with the Yates at the First Baptist Church on Sunday.

Congratulations go to 90 year old Golda Thorpe, cousin of Ed Murphy, who came to Weinert for a visit with relatives and friends. She was a passenger in a plane piloted by Todd Herricks, co-pilot was Mary Murphy. Because of the high winds, Golda was taken back to her home in Snyder by car.

Mrs. Narene Murphy has returned to here home after several weeks visit with her son and family, the Ed Murphy's.

Nearly everyone will contact SS

Chances are you or a family member will contact Social Security in the near future: A teenager needs a Social Security card; someone applies for monthly retirement, disability or survivor's checks; an older individual wants to discuss the effect of parttime work on his/her benefits.

Visiting any government office can be trying. There may be long waits and forms to complete. Then there's the nuisance of finding a parking spot and possibly another visit if you forget something. Here's how to avoid some of these problems:

•Use the phone. Most Social Security business (including applying for benefits) can be handled by phone. The number of the Abilene office is 915-698-1360.

•Time your contacts. The best and least busy times to contact Social Security are generally the last half of each day, week and month. There are times, however, when you should get in touch with Social Security as quickly as possible (such as reporting a change of address, work activity or other event that may affect your benefits.

•Find out what you need. If you decide to visit Social Security, call first to find out what information and proofs you need so you can avoid a second trip. Evidence required for most claims include proof of age and Social Security number for each applicant; most recent W-2 form or tax return; and possibly marriage, divorce, military or other documents.

If you apply for disability benefits, you will be asked for names, addresses and phone numbers for doctors, hospitals, etc. that have treated you and dates of treatment. If you need a Social Security card, be prepared to bring evidence of age, citizenship and identify.

"Little Miss" pageant set for Knox City

Knox City will be host July 25 to t'e second annual "Little Miss Pageant. Sponsored by the retain merchants of that city, the pageant will be in City Park, beginning at 8:30 p.m.

Trophies will be awarded in each of five divisions, toddler to 2 years old, 3-4, 5-6, 7-8 and 9-10.

Contestants may dress in either swimsuits or sportswear. Entrance fee is $7.50.

Live entertainment is planned before, during and after the program, and soft drinks will be available.

Admission at the gate will be $1.

Cable to add Discovery

Harmon Cable Communications which serves cable TV subsribers in Haskell will add The Discovery Channel Aug. 1. It will be available on basic cable channel 6.

Discovery is an 18-hour-a-day family education and entertainment channel which offers PBS-type programming about science, technology, nature, history, people and places, world exploration and human adventure.

Announcement of the new channel was made along with an announcement of a rate increase for basic cable service.

The increase, also to be effective Aug. 1, will be $1.25 per month, making the monthly charge $11.75 plus tax.

"We are striving to improve both our programming and our service,"

Try linen for cool fabric

If you're looking for a cool fabric to wear this summer, try linen.

Its fast absorbency makes it a cool and comfortable choice for summer clothing.

"Linen is a durable and attractive fabric," says Dr. Ann Beard, Texas A&M clothing specialist. "It absorbs moisture and dries fast, which makes it popular for women's suits, blouses and jackets. Its appearance is deceiving because it's really a tough, long-lasting fabric."

HAVE RESPECT FOR POWER LINES -BOTH THOSE OVERHEAD AND THOSE UNDERGROUND — ANYTIME YOU'RE DOING A JOB THAT REQUIRES YOU TO WORK NEAR THEM.

- Check your clearance carefully when you're carrying a tall pole or pipe on a tractor, or driving a truck with a raised bed, or operating machinery such as cranes, booms, hay loaders and well drilling rigs.
- Make sure you know the location of underground power lines before you install irrigation systems or unclog drain or sewer lines. Even routine projects like digging post holes or planting trees can be dangerous if you get too close to power lines.
- Fallen power lines also are extremely dangerous. If you see a line downed by a storm, high winds, car accident or other mishap, call WTU. Meanwhile, stay away from the wire and anything it touches — and keep others away, too.

Don't trim or cut down trees near power lines. This is work / best left to experts.
