High New Year 1988

Rates burden taxpayers

Major tax changes enacted by the Legislature take effect Jan. 1, affecting Texas taxpayers throughout the state. The changes include a sales tax change, corporate franchise tax changes, property tax changes, and a new property tax limit.

For example, most Texas taxpayers will see a decrease in their sales taxes due to a 1 percent decrease in the state sales tax rate, from 4.75 percent to 3.75 percent. This change is expected to result in an average savings of $400 for the average Texas family.

In addition, the property tax limit is now set at 2 percent of the taxiffable market value of a property. This limit will prevent local governments from raising property taxes above this level.

Political candidates file as deadline approaches

Three candidates, including the incumbent, have announced their candidacy for each of the two County Commissioners Court seats which will be decided in the March 8 Democratic primary.

In addition, a candidate for re-election in commissioner of finance is seeking the nomination of the Republican Party.

Moorman scholarship

J. R. Perry of Haskell is a candidate for re-election in commissioner of finance. He is being opposed by John Stone and Bob Zander.

Unopposed at this time are incumbents John Fouts, district attorney; Johnny L. Mills, county sheriff; Art Williams, county attorney; Bobby Collins, county tax assessor-collector; and Troy F. Brown, constable.

Political candidates will have to file their nomination petitions with the Texas Election Commission by Jan. 12. The general election is scheduled for Nov. 8.

Happy New Year 1988

THE HASKEL
Munday-McLellan vows exchanged

By Jo Fischer

The joy and love of the holiday season have been abundant at our nursing home during the past few weeks. There have been so many special events during the season, with the most joyous time being Christmastime. We are in our second year of celebrating a Christmas in July, and the home is still in the Christmas spirit!

The joyous spirit of the season was on our minds when we received a call from the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Kuehler, who were going to bring over a Christmas tree for our home. They were going to give us a special Christmas tree with lights, and it was going to be placed in the center of the dining room.

We were thrilled to receive this special gift, and we thanked Mr. and Mrs. Kuehler for their generosity.

We decided to decorate the tree with our own special decorations, and we invited all of our residents to come and help us decorate.

As we put up the decorations, we were amazed at how much joy and happiness came over all of our residents. We were all singing carols and decorating the tree, and the joyous spirit of the season was on everyone's minds.

Finally, we lit the lights on the tree, and it was a sight to behold. We stood back and admired our handiwork, and we were all in awe of the beauty of the tree.

As we looked at the tree, we realized that this was not just a decoration, but a symbol of the joy and love that we had shared during the holiday season. We were all grateful for the opportunity to share this special moment, and we were all filled with gratitude.

We took a picture of the tree, and we were all smiling and proud. We knew that this moment was one that we would never forget, and we knew that it was a moment that would bring joy and happiness to all of our residents for many years to come.

Thank you, Mr. and Mrs. Kuehler, for sharing your joy and love with us. We are grateful for your generosity, and we will always treasure this special moment.
"My mother couldn't do it"!

The empirical data collected showed that high school students are still very creative and their excuses will change to meet the available situations. Consider the following, deemed by professional Texas teachers to be the most creative excuses:

- "Said his super glad I came to the park," claimed one student. He was brought to class by another student named "Mary. "Mary was out of school for a reason I cannot mention in this book. But she was not playing hooky." The note was signed "my mother." Using unacceptable logic, a student said, "I would have said on time but the bell rang." Another just added, "Have you ever tried to find all that paper in this school?"
- The modern age has brought new excuses. "I had jet lag," said one, "my water bottle leaked and I spent two hours waiting for water." Said another, "For the most part of the new school year, my geometry book opener broke and I couldn't get my car out of the garage."
- Students have strange illnesses, report the teachers. One boy claimed "morning sickness" and another had an "uncontrollable stomach." A girl said she was absent because she had "lost contact," but teacher was uncertain if it was a medical or a business-related excuse.

In a case of betrayal by an animate object, homework can disappear because "my locker ate it." By the favor of a "faceless" ghost, another student said, "My math book is empty and couldn't find out where."

The student was so completely honest that his explanations warranted mention in this report. For being tardy, "Total unpreparedness on my part." For being late, "Just lucky." For being in class, "My mother couldn't do it."

Brazos Electric lowers rates

The Electric Utility Commission has approved an interim order reducing rates of the Texas Electric Cooperative by $10 million temporary rate reduction. Proponents of the reduction were considered by the commission. The Houston-based Brazos Electric Cooperative's wholesale customers will see a reduction of about $7.50 for each 1,000 kilowatt hours of power used per month. The decreased rates will be in effect through March.

"We're going to reduce our uncontrolled growth in electric cooperatives," said Richard E. McDonald, executive vice president and general manager of Brazos. "In fact, we are doing it," he added. "In '87 we introduced more than 1 million dollars to consumers through a temporary rate reduction."

Suit seeks damages for birth defects

Claiming that the alcoholic beverage industry has been opening at the expense of public health, attorneys have filed lawsuits against the industry on behalf of four children in Washington state. The action, taken Nov. 5, allege that the beverage industry has failed to warn the public about the potential dangers of birth defects.

Brazos Electric's firm, the most prominent in the state, has been involved in the settlement of Fetal Alcohol Syndrome cases. In 1987 alone, $200,000 was paid to newborns affected by FAS. This is a public health issue that can no longer be ignored.

Dickson adds that numerous state and national agencies, and organizations have been pushing for the establishment of a label on alcoholic products. In 1987 alone, $200,000 was paid to newborns affected by FAS. This is a public health issue that can no longer be ignored.

RJ Reynolds Tobacco, one of the largest tobacco companies, has been involved in the settlement of Fetal Alcohol Syndrome cases. In 1987 alone, $200,000 was paid to newborns affected by FAS. This is a public health issue that can no longer be ignored.

The controversial report was published in 1987, the year that Fetal Alcohol Syndrome cases were first established. The report is the most common cause of preventable birth defects. The report is often cited as the enabling force.

In the past year, 2,000 live births in Texas have been affected by FAS. This is a public health issue that can no longer be ignored.

AUSTIN—State Capitol halls were quiet during the Christmas recess as the Christmas season's chores and tasks were done and dusted and in preparation for the next session, which is expected to bring a lot of attention to the Lone Star State voter.

Social Security changes

The annual earnings base—the maximum amount of earnings that count for Social Security—will increase to $45,000 for 1988, up from $43,800 for 1987. In addition, the 1988 maximum tax rate for employees and employers will increase to 7.51 percent, up from the 1987 rate of 7.33 percent.

The increase in the wage base is not a cause of concern, Stenholm says, because the economic downturn seems to be ending. Indeed, the increase in the wage base is the reason why the Social Security Tax increase, is not as drastic as feared. In November 1988, the national focus on Social Security issues is on the agenda for every

Old Social Security figures are scheduled to increase in 1988 as well. The annual exempt amount used in the annual earnings test will increase. The annual earnings test is a measure used to determine whether a person's earnings result in Social Security benefits for the year. A person whose earnings do not exceed the annual exempt amount will receive all benefits for the year. A person's benefit is reduced by 1/2 for each $1 of earnings above the exempt amount. This test does not apply once a person reaches 70.

The earnings amount needed to earn a full benefit for Social Security is measured at $4,000 for 1988, up from $3,900 for 1987. In 1988, a worker will earn four Social Security credits covering his or her annual earnings of $4,800 or more.

Week of December 24

May you have a healthy, happy holiday season, is my wish for each of you.

We are delighted about the harvest being done.

Robert and Esther Smith, with their family returned several days ago. We welcome the children back to school here, as well as the families home after helping with the gathering of the harvest in Minnesota.

Laurence Mayfield spoke several days in Del Rio, Texas with her children. She helped care for his sick granddaughter, Adrianne Cramer, whom Laurence allowed Alexa to fulfill several singing engagements she had scheduled for the holiday season.

Emma passed to the woody Tarush home included their children, granddaughters, and grandchildren of Washington, with Lake and Lucas. She is Georgia, Texas. Emma's class at Memorial in Wichita Falls, her brothers, Susan Agnes of Wichita. Other guests were a nephew, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Monroe of Amarillo, Colo. (near Denver) and Georgia's family, Margie Jordan. She will return to Houston early next week for a check-up. She and her family are spending Christmas with her sister's family in Sweetwater.

Jamie Diaz, with Donna and Ruby, has returned home after extended stay in Minnesota.

I am running for County Commissioner of Precinct 1 of Haskell County. I am not going to make a lot of promises, only give you my word that I will do the best for every one of you, and the best of my ability since each person is the best citizens of Haskell County, and sustain the duties and obligations of Commissioner of Precinct 1.

It is the duty of each citizen to vote, to stand in faith and vote for the things which will be better for Christians and help you make my right decision on election day, and free of God knows what human king to have his hands in the government.

Thank you for taking time to read this article.

Farmers exempt from truck rules

The Railroad Commission has adopted amendments to its rules requiring that tractors and vehicles, including farm and ranch vehicles, vehicles maintained in a manner reasonably reflecting the intent of the legislature.

The amendments were passed in a meeting with a majority of the members, with the commission and the public support of the legislation.

Agricultural outlook remains 'fairly bright'

The agricultural outlook for 1987 remains fairly bright, according to an economist in marketing with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Texas farm and ranch income will continue to be supported by strong corn and cattle prices and subsidy government payments," says Dr. Carl Anderson. He emphasizes that moderate inflation and a relatively low level of planned acreage will dampen the increase in production expenses.

"As a result, agricultural incomes in 1987 are expected to be up substantially from the depressed levels of recent years," Anderson predicts.

For 1987, the general outlook is highlighted by smaller world crop inventories and higher demand for the commodities. Anderson says.

"In summary, net farm income in 1987 may decline slightly from 1986. Higher farm market prices, along with lower input costs, will cause net farm income to remain fairly bright, he says.

Farmers to receive forms for ag census

Haskell County farmers soon will be receiving forms to complete in the upcoming 1987 census of agriculture. Forms will be mailed to individual farmers and ranchers in late December by the Commerce Department's Census Bureau.

The agriculture census, being conducted nationwide, will focus on key information, including the number of farms, farm size, operator characteristics, production, and total financial health.

This is one of the 1987 economic censuses that will provide timely details of the manufacturing, mining, construction industries, retail and wholesale trades, service industries and transportation segments of the nation's economy.

The census is designed to provide the U.S. Department of Agriculture with data to define problem areas and recommend solutions to help farmers around the nation. Also through their state, farm organizations and other pie plans programs for farm operators improvements.

The information collected, such and land use and ownership, crop and acreage numbers, will be released to the 1982 census.

Farmers are asked to return the forms by Feb. 1, to be sure the information is complete, timely and accurate.

General summations of censuses in the future may be available to farm communities and others who have published similar work.

Farmers are asked to return the forms by Feb. 1, to be sure the information is complete, timely and accurate. Further results will be made available to farmers and ranchers in late December. Also through these plans programs for farm operators improvements.
