County Submits Rent Bid For Proposed Office Space

Coke County Commissioners Court took another step Monday toward firming up plans to construct an auxiliary office building on the courthouse square at Robert Lee. The additional space is needed to alleviate crowded conditions in the Courthouse, and would be used to house the various federal agencies which now have offices in the Courthouse.

The County's governing body agreed on a proposed bid to cover rent for the use of the agencies involved. The rent proposal is for payment for the Soil Conservation Service, the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service and the Farmers Home Administration. The federal government ordinarily pays rent for housing these three agencies, even though space has been provided free by Coke County since the Courthouse was built.

Also to be housed in the proposed structure would be the offices of the County Extension Service agents. However, these agencies would not pay rent, as the county is required to furnish offices for them.

Another section of the building is proposed to house the Coke County Library, which has during its short life acquired over 9,000 volumes and outgrown the cramped quarters provided in the old jail building.

County Judge W.W. Thetford said the court decided the additional office space is badly needed, and present plans are to use some of the county's federal revenue sharing funds for immediate financing of the structure. He said the money derived from rent to be paid by the three federal agencies should eventually pay for the construction of the new building.

Some funds from Coke County Library are also available for use in the construction costs of that part of the building.

The commissioners also met Tuesday, July 5, attending to routine business and discussing the rent proposal bids.

Congressman
Bob Krueger
Reports

Decision Was Easy, Yet Difficult

As you no doubt by now know, I have made a decision to seek statewide office, a decision reached some time ago, and formalized this past week during a July 4 picnic at my home in New Braunfels, Tex.

The decision to make the race for the United States Senate was, in one respect, a natural and easy one.

In another respect, it was the most difficult decision of my life.

It was difficult because during the three years I have been in congress, I have known the greatest joy of my life, being privileged to serve the people with whom I grew up, the people who taught me life, the people who have had such enormous impact on what I believe, what I am.

In finalizing my decision to seek statewide office, I considered many factors, but foremost among those factors was my concern and affection for the people of the 21st District, those of you who sent me to Congress.

It would be less than candid if I did not tell you that some loyal and good friends have told me they wish I would remain as their 21st District representative and, although my decision is now firm, it has been deeply gratifying that there are those who think I have served them well enough for them to want me to continue in that capacity.

However, what I have to believe, and what I ask you to understand is that the people of the 21st District will not be losing a congressman, should my endeavor be successful, as I think it will be, but they will be gaining a U.S. senator. The people of the 21st will not only not be forgotten, but will likely be better served by having a voice in the Senate. Hopefully, all of Texas will be better served.

To the other aspect of my decision, the easier part of my decision:

The lesson I have perhaps learned best in Washington is that there exists a vital need for strong and courageous and intelligent leadership. Certainly, many of my colleagues in public life possesses these traits. Some do not.

But because Texas is at a crucial point in development, in growth, in potential, I believe it is essential that Texas be represented by a special kind of senator in Washington. Because the state is growing rapidly, the senator must know something about the complexities of growth. Because the state remains a major agricultural one, the senator must understand the uniqueness of an agricultural economy and the needs of rural America. I believe I possess that diversity and I believe I possess it because in serving the people of the 21st, I have been challenged by a congressional geographical makeup that is, indeed, diverse.

In spite of my confidence regarding the endeavor, I've also confronted the fact that this effort will require stamina, much hard work, a new kind of growth, personal and professional. But I have announced early, allowing not only the people of Texas to examine my credentials, but allowing the people of the 21st District substantial time to become acquainted with who might wish to succeed me as 21st District congressman, and by announcing early I hope to be able to explore every portion of this state with a vigor that will be good for me, and for Texas.

But most important, as I move about Texas, will be the constant demand to rise to the challenge I have undertaken. As I do that, foremost in my mind will be what I have learned from you, the people of the 21st, because it is from you that my strength most surely will come.

The old ideas that something is "safe" or "unsafe" is no longer considered practical by experts in accident prevention. All activities contain "risk." The job is to separate "reasonable risk" from "unreasonable risk," says the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

To Help You...

Your ENERGY Dollar$

Use your Refrigerator Wisely...

- * Open and close the refrigerator and freezer doors only when necessary. Several items can be removed at once to reduce loss of cold air.
- * Freezers and refrigerators operate most efficiently when filled to the correct capacity. Foods should be placed slightly apart on refrigerator shelves for correct circulation.
- * Cover all liquids stored in the refrigerator (especially frost-free models). Moisture is drawn into the air from uncovered liquids making the refrigerator work harder.
- * Be sure your appliance is standing level so that the door seals properly. By setting a glass of water on the top, you can see if it is level.

Mrs. Quisenberry Given Weather Service Award

Mrs. Imogene M. Quisenberry of Robert Lee has received a letter of commendation and lapel pin from the National Weather Service for completing 20 years of service as a cooperative weather observer.

In a letter from Charles E. Ridge, Chief of the Regional Substation Management Branch in Fort Worth, appreciation was extended to Mrs. Quisenberry for her years of volunteer service to the Weather Service. The letter said in part:

"It is our pleasure to inform you that in June of this year you completed 20 years as a cooperative observer. The data you provide us becomes more valuable with time and is used by many organizations and individuals. Without your unselfish efforts we would not have access to such worthwhile information.

"Please accept this lapel pin as a small token of the high esteem with which your service is held."

CORRECTION--

In the last issue of the Observer, an ad run by Robert Lee State Bank stated that storage rooms for rent were 20x24 feet. This was an error, as the rooms are 10x24 feet. We regret this error and hope nobody has been inconvenienced by it.

Robert Lee Area Residents Enjoy Annual Fourth of July Celebration

Robert Lee's third annual July 4th celebration was held at Coke County Recreation and Show Center with around 80 persons attending. Table games, visiting, registration and miscellaneous entertainment began at 2:00 p.m. Recreation for children started at 4:30, followed by a pot luck supper at 7:00.

Dr. Thuy danh Do and his family were special guests of the Lions Club, sponsors of the celebration. Dr. Do gave an inspirational talk concerning the traumatic experience which he and his fellow countrymen suffered in the loss of political freedom. He had only praise and gratitude for the people of the United States. He was especially emphatic concerning his appreciation for the Christian influence found here. His three older children played a piano trio for visitors, and Khanh, the oldest son, played several solos.

During the evening, the crowd was asked to decide if the affair should be held annually or alternating years. Almost unanimous vote was for annual meetings. The celebration was first sponsored in 1975 by Festival, U.S.A. Division of the local Bicentennial Committee, and the City Council, and was repeated in the Bicentennial year, 1976. The Robert Lee-Silver Lions Club took the project in 1977 and plans to make each future celebration bigger and better.

At close of the evening's activity, W.T. Scott, incoming Lion President, thanked those who provided vocal and instrumental music, stunts, poetry, and other entertainment.

Special thanks were expressed for the many who helped by performing duties related to food, building preparation, clean-up afterward, and anything that helped to make the celebration the joy that it was.

Oldest attendants were Bertie Clift and Ira A. Bird, both 95½ years old. Youngest was Kim Do, seven years. Those who traveled farthest were Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Schooler, Mosca, Colorado. Twenty-two people had attended each of the three annual celebrations, and all agreed to try to be on hand July 4, 1978, when the 102nd birthday of the U.S. will be observed.

Miss Lupe Munoz Places in District 4-H Dress Revue

Lupe Munoz, daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Santiago Munoz of Robert Lee, modeled her pretty red, white and blue sundress at the District 4-H Dress Revue held in the Civic Center at Abilene on Friday July 8. She participated in the junior division and was awarded a red ribbon.

Lupe participated with senior and junior winners of 4-H Dress Revues in 38 counties comprising Districts 3 and 7 of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Iris Kalich, District 7 4-H Specialist, said, "One purpose of the 4-H Clothing program and the district dress revue is to develop skills in the planning, selection and construction of clothing for different occasions."

A program for adult leaders and parents was presented by Margaret Carlisle, a 4-H stylist with Simplicity Pattern Company of New York, and Marilyn Tindall, associated with Grigsby's Rag Doll of Abilene. The luncheon was hosted by West Texas Utilities Company.

Others attending the district dress revue from Robert Lee were Mrs. Marshall Milligan, adult clothing leader, and Mrs. Munoz.

Friends:

I am writing to once again ask for your help, support and good will.

Last Monday, July 4, at my New Braunfels home on the Guadalupe River, I announced my intention to seek to represent the people of Texas as your U.S. Senator. That office is one of high responsibility, and the decision to seek it was not made lightly. But I believe that position will allow me an even fuller chance for service to this area and the entire state. In my travels across Texas I have found that most people want the strength and vigor of our state to be represented by strong and effective leadership. They want more than just a vote in the U.S. Senate; they want a voice—one that can provide new direction for our state and nation.

In 1973, when I first sought to represent you and the people of the 21st District in the U.S. Congress, no one knew Bob Krueger, nor did we have the backing of any "political machine." We had something far more important. We had people. People who are willing to work for no other reason than that they were committed to open, honest government. I could never feel any closer to any area than to the one that gave me the chance to fulfill my most cherished goal—representing the people of the land that I come from. The new responsibility that I seek will not lessen this representation; it will strengthen it.

In our statewide effort we will face many obstacles. But I am convinced that with your help and the support of people like you all across this state, we can once again succeed. Thank you for your continued confidence. I shall never forget it.

Warmest personal regards,

Bob Krueger

The Krueger Senate Campaign is forming a "Committee of 21" in each county in the 21st District. The "Committee of 21" will be made up of 21 or more people who are willing to work to elect Bob Krueger to the U.S. Senate. Please help. Send to: KRUEGER OF TEXAS/P.O. BOX 911/NEW BRAUNFELS, TEXAS 78130

- I want to be a working member of the "Committee of 21."
- I want to make a contribution (make check payable to Friends of Bob Krueger).
- I want a bumper sticker.
