First Ford Agency Building Shown in Ads

Ivey Motor Co. of Robert Lee is going to have a prominent part in an advertising campaign which Ford dealers over the northern half of Texas are conducting this month in celebration of the 75th anniversary of the Ford Motor Co.

Driver Injured In Truck Mishap

Bobby James of Rankin was in satisfactory condition Tuesday after being injured in a truck accident near Silver about 1:30 p.m. Monday. James is a driver for the Halliburton Company and was in this area helping the Snyder Halliburton group catch up on their work.

He told the Observer Tuesday that he was driving behind another truck as they approached Highway 208 from the Silver cutoff when he lost control of the truck and it overturned in the ditch.

James suffered a cut on his hand and another near his eye and was still in the hospital Tuesday for observation.

The truck was heavily damaged.

and was selected as one of the few which will be featured in TV ads to be used over the area during the 75th anniversary celebration.

J.S. Craddock started out as a blacksmith in Coke County, but according to Observer files, started buying, selling and repairing automobiles about 1914. After serving as Ford dealer in Robert Lee until 1944, he sold the agency to Cumbie Ivey Sr. who operated it more than 20 years before retiring and turning over the business to his son, Cumbie Ivey Jr., the present dealer.

Actually, the Robert Lee dealership has existed some 63 years, and had only two owners, the Craddock and Ivey families.

Observer readers may be able to see this picture reproduced in the TV ads. It was published in an anniversary edition of the Observer May 7, 1964.

Fire Damages Fish - A - Rama

The Wildcat Fish-A-Rama store near Lake Spence was heavily damaged by fire in the early morning hours last Thursday, July 28.

The business is owned and operated by Maurice and Elna Duncan with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Tom (Bubba) Duncan.

The large building housed the store and office for the business as well as a cafeteria area and bait stand. A general stock of fishing tackle, camper's supplies and grocery items were on hand and several new boats and motors were displayed in one section of the store.

Almost all of the merchandise and fixtures in the building were destroyed or heavily damaged by the fire which started sometime after midnight but was not discovered until shortly before 4 a.m.

The Maurice Duncans, who live in a mobile home near the building, were awakened by noise and saw flames coming from air conditioner openings in the building. They called in the alarm to the Robert Lee Fire Department.

Because of intense heat and heavy smoke, Duncan did not attempt to open the building until firemen arrived. Apparently the flame had almost burned itself out having consumed the oxygen in the closed building, according to firemen, and flames were confined to the southwest corner of the building.

Mr. Duncan told firemen he had left his job at Sun Oil Co. Jameson Gas Plant before midnight and he had gone by the store to check on a new stock of minnows before going home and had not noticed anything wrong then.

No cause for the fire could be determined.

Congressman
Bob Krueger
Reports

Most Congressmen Are Honest

Much of Washington has been preoccupied in recent weeks with speculation surrounding the extent of involvement by congressmen in illegal influence-buying by Korean businessman Tongsun Park.

One newspaper story reported that more than 100 congressmen and former congressmen were involved with Park, and a TV network said powerful leaders of Congress were also involved. The rumor mill that is always busy in the nation's capitol has kept other reports just as stunning in circulation.

In retrospect, it appears that the newspaper story implying significant involvement by large numbers of congressmen was probably based only on a list naming congressmen who, at one time or another, had either met or had received campaign contributions, not knowing the contributions were perhaps coming from the government of South Korea.

While these facts continue to seep out to the press, the opposition party seem posed to make what they call "Koreagate" into a major campaign issue.

I've no way of knowing the true extent of wrongdoing, but it seems we have fallen into a relatively dangerous pattern of charges of wrongdoing receiving substantial amounts of publicity and then having the seriousness of the charges diminished upon closer scrutiny.

What we have been left with is perhaps the public view that members of Congress are less than cautious when it comes to their associations on Capitol Hill. I cannot speak, of course, of practices before I came here three years ago, but my experience has been that most congressmen I have come to know and respect are extremely conscientious regarding even their friendships.

Their friendships, their supporters, their contributors, all undergo a scrutiny that, in some cases, even seems unfair to the innocent, but at the same time essential if one is not only to avoid wrongdoing, but to also avoid the appearance of wrongdoing. Like other members of congress, I was recently asked to complete a questionnaire prepared by the House Committee on Standards of Official Conduct. I was asked three basic questions: had I ever visited the Republic of Korea as a congressman, had I or a member of my staff ever received anything of significant value from anyone affiliated with the Republic of Korea and had I or my staff ever received anything from five specific persons suspected of influence-peddling. My answer was "no" to all three questions. Most of my colleagues were able to answer in the same manner.

And most members of the House are anxious to investigate fully allegations that have been made and if that investigation proves wrongdoing by some, I am confident that this body will respond quickly to any improper activity that is proven.

This is not to say that there may not be members of Congress who have participated in wrongdoing, but, with the bulk of publicity riding on negative speculation, I felt it appropriate to tell you of my position on the Korean investigation and to submit to you that it is my contention that most of the men and women with whom I serve are honest people. I hope we do not fall prey to the guilt-by-association theory that would unfairly cast dispersions on a body that, for the most part, is one of immense integrity and commitment.

Reverse migration studies under way

AUSTIN, Texas (Spl.) — Two University of Texas marketing scholars have begun a research project to try to pinpoint what causes persons to move back to small towns from large cities.

To determine the influences that contribute to "reverse migration," Drs. W. Thomas Anderson and Linda Golden will survey the life styles over time plus the buying habits and attitudes toward traditional American values of about 4,500 persons who live along an urban-rural continuum radiating from a large metropolitan city to smaller towns.

They also will examine how the public and private sectors can adapt to provide services and goods to the small-town "migrants."

The sales accounted for more than $11 million in revenue to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department for fish, wildlife and law enforcement programs.

A total of 1,564,405 fishing licenses was sold, plus another 1,126,509 hunting licenses.

Texas trails a number of states in sales of both hunting and fishing licenses, according to recently released figures from the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

California far and away led the nation with 5.8 million fishing licenses sold. Texas ranked third behind Michigan.

Red Cross Asks Assistance for Flood Victims

Red Cross reports from eight Johnstown, Pa., area counties ravaged by flooding last week reveal 6,304 homes destroyed or with major or minor damage. In addition, 200 mobile homes were destroyed or suffered major damage, along with 491 small businesses. Red Cross estimates it will spend in excess of $2 million before this relief operation is complete.

As of this past weekend, 1,200 disaster victims were still being housed in nine Red Cross shelters, and some 3,000 disaster victims and emergency workers are being fed daily. Volunteer physicians have assisted over 120 Red Cross nurses at the shelters. Over 400 Red Cross volunteers and staff are involved in the relief operation. More rains have hit since the flash flood keeping water and mud in the homes and hampering disaster relief operations for the victims.

The Red Cross Chapter itself in Johnstown suffered the loss of two disaster vehicles but the inventory of human blood in the Red Cross blood bank was saved. Red Cross mobile feeding, first aid and communications equipment have been sent in from other Red Cross chapters in the area.

Death, injuries and loss of property, (to some all lost), has struck this community hard. Cash contributions are urgently needed to aid in the operations and help these families back to a normal way of life. The American Red Cross, through contributions from the American people can and will aid in this long term recovery.

Send contributions to; American Red Cross, P.O. Box 25 Robert Lee, Texas 76945 marked "disaster" and your gift will be sent immediately for this disaster relief operation.

Take a milk break today and every day. Get the habit. Toast your own health, daily, with a protein-powered drink that will lift sagging spirits, add a blush of good health to your cheeks, and tease jaded appetites.

Milk is in plentiful supply right now. According to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, milk and dairy products have climbed to new highs for the year. Seasonal production is up and supplies are spilling over.

If you haven't learned to enjoy milk for its good taste and valuable nutrients, get acquainted. Try some of these new ways with milk drinks. They make a big hit with youngsters, but they're not exclusively for kids. They're good for any age group, anytime.

Protein-Power Sipper:

Beat 1/2 cup creamy peanut butter and 1/3 cup honey in mixing bowl or blender. Add one quart milk gradually. Chill. Stir before serving. Yield; approximately 5 cups.

Milk Julep: Mix 4 tablespoons mint jelly with 1/4 cup milk in mixer or blender. Gradually add 1-3/4 cups milk and 1-2 drops green food coloring. To serve, pour 1 cup mint mixture in each glass, add 1/2 of a 7 ounce bottle of ginger ale, mixing well, Top with scoop of chocolate ice cream. Yield; two 12 ounce servings.

Orange Energizer:

Combine 2 eggs, 1/4 cup frozen concentrated orange juice and 1 tablespoon sugar in mixing bowl or blender. Gradually add 1-1/4 cups milk. Yield; 2 cups.

Lush Lime Cooler:

Beat 1/2 pint (1 cup) lime sherbet in blender or mixing bowl. Add 1 can (6 oz.) frozen concentrate for limeade. Add 3 cups milk. Pour into glasses. Top each with scoop of lime sherbet, garnishing with fresh mint or cherry. Yield; approximately 5 cups.

Chocolate Orange Blossom:

Blend 2 cups chocolate milk with 1 tablespoon frozen concentrated orange juice. Yield; 2 cups.

Vanilla Ice Milk:

is another delectable summer treat suggested by USDA. It is made with skim milk instead of cream and provides only about half the calories of ordinary ice cream. To make 26 servings of 1/2 cup each, you will need:

- 2 cups sugar
- 1/4 cups Cornstarch
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 8 cups (2 quarts) skim milk
- 3 eggs beaten
- 1 tablespoon Unflavored gelatin
- 1-1/2 tablespoons Vanilla

Mix sugar, cornstarch, and salt in the top of a double boiler. Blend in 4 cups skim milk gradually. Cook over hot water, stirring occasionally until thickened, 12 to 15 minutes.

Stir a little of the hot cornstarch mixture into the beaten eggs; then stir the eggs into the remaining cornstarch mixture. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly 4 to 5 minutes longer, or until the mixture is about the consistency of soft custard.

Soften gelatin in 1 cup skim milk. Stir into hot mixture. Chill thoroughly. This step is essential for a smooth ice milk.

Stir in vanilla and remaining 3 cups skim milk. Pour into a 1-gallon ice cream freezer canister; fill with not more than 2/3 full. Freeze in a handcranked or electric ice cream freezer, packed with a mixture of 1 part ice cream salt to 6 parts crushed ice.

Remove dasher. Repack ice cream freezer with a mixture of 1 part salt and 8 parts ice. Allow to ripen about 2 hours before serving. Or, pack ice cream in freezer containers and harden in a home freezer.
