

THE KERRVILLE ADVANCE

VOL. 2.

KERRVILLE, TEXAS, THURSDAY, APR. 16, 1914

NO. 25

At the Churches

PROTRACTED MEETING BEGINS HERE SUNDAY

Attention is again called to the protracted meeting which begins next Sunday, April 19. Rev. H. M. Whaling an able revivalist from Austin will do the preaching. The co-operation of all Christians is earnestly requested.

Rev. Whaling and wife recently held a very successful revival at Gonzales and the press of that city speaks in the highest terms of their work and ability.

The meeting begins next Sunday morning at the Methodist church.

Episcopal

Easter services on Sunday morning were well attended and a very fine sermon preached by Rev. Geo. Belsey, chaplain of the West Texas Military Academy, San Antonio, who took for his text: "If ye then be risen with Christ, seek those things which are above." Excellent music was rendered, Mrs. J. L. Pampell leading the choir and Mrs. L. E. King presiding at the organ given in honor of her mother, Mrs. Catherine Hole.

Owing to inclement weather the children's service was postponed from 7:30 Sunday evening to next Sunday morning at 10 o'clock.

Monday afternoon the Sunday School enjoyed a party and egg hunt on the church lawn.

Yesterday afternoon a lingerie sale was given by the Woman's Auxiliary, which netted a good sum for Home and Foreign Missions.

Baptist

Rev. J. T. Bell of San Antonio, preached at the morning service and owing to the rain there was no preaching at night. The collection for Home and Foreign Missions amounted to $304.00, the Sunday School contributing $64.00 of this amount. This is said to be the largest collection ever taken in this church for missions.

Rev. C. D. Daniel, Rev. Buldwin and Rev. Bell held services with the Mexican people at the Mission church in the afternoon and two Mexican women were received into the church.

Rev. A. P. Robb will preach next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, but there will be no preaching at night on account of the revival meeting at the Methodist church. Services the following Sunday have also been called in, except Sunday School, in deference to the revival.

Work on the new Baptist church is progressing nicely. The roof, floor and windows are in and the large crew now at work will soon have it completed.

We never had a better line of clothing than the Lion Brand. They take the cream of the business over any suits made. At West Texas Supply Co.

BATTLE SHIPS RUSH TO PORT TAMPICO

War Situation Takes More Exciting Turn and Big Navy is Hurried to Scene of Latest Troubles

The Mexican war situation is in a more strained condition than ever before. The United States is rushing eleven great battle ships and a fleet of cruisers to Tampico under command of Rear Admiral Badger to force Mexico to make respectful apologies for the recent arrest of some of our marines at that place. It is confidently hoped, however, that the Mexican provisional president will yet make reparation for the insult without a clash of arms.

ORANGES PROMOTE HEALTH AND BEAUTY

"If oranges could become as much our National diet as baseball is our National game we would all be healthy," a woman writes. "I want to add—and as a result we should all be beautiful."

"Oranges are not only a delectable food with valuable laxative qualities but they have strong cosmetic virtues as well, and can be combined into so many creams and lotions that if a lady decides to incorporate the oranges in her beauty she can fill her whole toilet table with orange cosmetics. The women of Spain and of the other Southern European countries are far ahead of us in this. They learned the wonderful cosmetic powers of the orange long ago, and have been using it ever since.

"Despairing maidens with sallow, muddy or pimply skins, will find a speedy cure in a diet of fresh rare beef, coarse grains in small quantity and oranges in abundance. Eat all the oranges you want; take one whenever you are hungry. This is one good thing of which there cannot be too much.

"Even if your skin is in fairly good condition, you are naturally concerned to keep it so, and the oranges will prove your best friend. Indeed you can bring your complexion to a state of perfection you had never dreamed possible before if you will do nothing more than form the simple habit of eating an orange nightly, just before your bed time. Supplement your nightly orange with a morning beauty-draught of a half glassful of orange juice."

Camp Verde Letter.

We have been having a siege of the measles for a month or so, but it has let go its grip and we feel free once more. Mr. J. J. New who had a bad case, says if he had to choose between having the measles or going to fight the Mexicans, he would go to Mexico.

The measles interfered with our Sunday School and prayer meeting for a while, but we are recovering and despite the very bad weather Sunday we had a nice crowd out to Sunday School. The children hunted Easter eggs while it sleeted and seemed to enjoy it.

We had quite an interesting debate Saturday night, the subject being, Resolved that Slavery as it existed in the U. S. should have been abolished. The affirmative was represented by Walter Garnette and O. Weltner; the negative by Oscar Nowlin and Virgil Storms. They made us some interesting talks; told us things we (nor anyone else) had ever thought of or heard of before (or since). The negative side won by unanimous vote.

Saturday night the 25th we will debate on Resolved that the U. S. should Intervene in the Mexican Revolution. Affirmative, O. Nowlin and Virgil Storms; negative, F. M. Oldham and O. Weltner. Come out and hear them and learn something.

Walter Garnette, the upper creek school teacher, left for his home at Moore, Texas, Monday. We regret to lose such a nice young man from our community. But there are some young girls who are more than sorry, they are heart broken. But never mind, girls, I never knew any one who came here and drank of the Camp Verde spring water who did not come again. So don't despair.

As this is my first letter to the paper I will close for fear I may land in the waste basket.

VERDETE.

PAINT NOW

If you ought to have painted last year and waited, how much do you think you made?

You'll buy an extra gallon this year. There's $5 or $6 for paint and labor. You think you won't, but you will; you can't stretch paint.

It is always so: the longer you wait, the more paint and wages. Besides what paint is for. What is it for?

ARMY TRANSPORTS ORDERED TO TAMPICO

HANCOCK LEAVES NEW ORLEANS FOR MEXICAN PORT TO TAKE ON REFUGEES THERE.

U. S. MARINES WERE ARRESTED

Flag Was Insulted in Streets—Rear Admiral Mayo Orders Federals to Salute the American Flag in Reparation for Indignities.

New Orleans, La.—The United States transport Hancock Sunday night received imperative orders from Washington to proceed at once to Tampico. It is understood that the Hancock will take aboard refugees who are fleeing from the battle-swept city of Tampico, where sharp fighting between Mexican constitutionalists and federals has been reported.

The Hancock took on 400 tons of coal, filling her bunkers, which have an 800-ton capacity, and sailed Monday.

The vessel arrived at New Orleans two months ago, bringing 950 marines from the advance base regiment. When the Hancock steamed south she was accompanied by the United States hospital ship Solace under orders to hasten to Tampico. The Solace arrived last week and the crew was given shore leave for eleven days. Two days after the Solace docked she was ordered to proceed immediately to Tampico, but was delayed by coal- ing and by necessary repairs to her ice manufacturing machinery.

Vera Cruz, Mex.—That the American flag was taken from the launch of the Dolphin by the captors of the American sailors who were arrested Friday and was subjected to insults while being taken to the police station, has been reported at Vera Cruz from a reliable source. This, says the report, is the chief provocation for Rear Admiral Mayo's demand that a salute be fired in reparation by the Mexican federal authorities.

It is said that while the flag was being borne through the streets various indignities were inflicted by the more anti-American of the populace.

Tampico, Mex.—The affair of the arrest by the Mexican federal authorities at Tampico of the boat's crew from the Dolphin may not be settled without serious international difficulties. General Zaragoza, while professing to apologize for the arrests, has demurred to the demand for a formal salute pending instructions from President Huerta. That this might be laid before the Mexican executive, Rear Admiral Mayo's ultimatum has been extended twenty-four hours from Friday, 6 p. m.

Immediately after learning of the incident Rear Admiral Mayo is said to have threatened to land marines to compel the release of the bluejackets and to establish a neutral zone for the protection of all foreigners from further indignities.

Rear Admiral Mayo Sunday sent the following wireless message to Rear Admiral Fletcher, which is received as an official report:

"General Zaragoza has sent me an official letter concerning the arrest of the boat's crew from the Dolphin and says that the affair was due to the ignorance of his officers. He has asked a few hours' delay in deciding upon a salute to the flag on account of the poor communication facilities for consulting his government at the City of Mexico. His request being reasonable, was granted for a period. Because of the feeling here in reference to Americans I am not inclined to diminish the demands. In taking refugees aboard I acted not only in accord with other foreign ships, but also on account of the increasing animosity toward Americans ashore."

Tampico, Mex.—An entire boat's crew of the Dolphin, auxiliary to the United States fleet now in Tampico harbor, was arrested and locked up Friday by Mexican federal soldiers. The crew was unarmed.

Shortly after the incident Rear Admiral Mayo, commander of the American fleet, ordered the release of the men and an apology. Admiral Mayo gave the Mexicans until 6 o'clock Friday afternoon to comply with his demand. Included in the ultimatum was a demand that the Zaragoza fire a salute to the American flag. The men were released before the time expired and the Zaragoza fired a salute, it is reported.

PLAN UNIT MARKETING SYSTEM

FOR HANDLING OF CABBAGE IN THE RIO GRANDE VALLEY.

Bankers and Farmers Hold Meeting. System of Marketing Will Likely Be Salvation of Truckers.

Mercedes, Tex.—An enthusiastic meeting of the Rio Grande Valley Bankers' Association and representatives of the Progressive League of Southwest Texas was held Wednesday.

The meeting was called for the purpose of considering the proposition of a unit marketing system for the products of the farmers, as advocated by Colonel Alba Heywood of San Benito, who was pleased with the results of a mass meeting held several weeks ago, which was attended by farmers, bankers and business men from all parts of the valley and at which the principal shippers of cabbage and other truck agreed to work together to the end that the farmer would get better prices for his truck.

He is not only convinced that the unit marketing system means the salvation of the truck growers of the valley, but also that such a system can be established at this time.

The valley bankers were instrumental in getting the three principal selling agencies together on the cabbage proposition and realize the necessity of a unit marketing system which will take care of the principal selling agencies now operated in the valley, and at the same time give the farmers an organization through which their products can be marketed to much better advantage.

At the meeting resolutions were passed unanimously endorsing the unit marketing system, and circulars will be sent to every farmer, merchant and business man in the valley within the next few days preparatory to calling a mass meeting, at which the matter will be discussed and preparations for the organization made.

Those attending the meeting were: O. W. Heywood, San Benito; Scott Cathorn, Mission; W. A. McNeil, San Antonio; S. A. Pipes, Mission; George A. Toolan, San Benito; J. T. Lomax, San Benito; McMurry, San Benito; D. H. Barr, Donna; E. Owen Scott, Mission; W. Ferguson, Mission; Colonel Alba Heywood, San Benito; F. C. Platt, San Juan; R. P. Boeys, Donna; I. V. Horner, G. O. Barnes, W. H. Lastinger, and N. P. Barton, Mercedes.

THE CLEANERS ARRIVE

ACCIDENT TO FATHER SAVES LIVES OF CHILDREN

Father, Thrown From Sulky, Writhe Little Ones In Water. Jumps In Time to Save Them.

Angleton, Tex.—A triple accident that did not prove mortal to any one almost by a miracle, and which probably has no parallel, occurred on Bastrop bayou, near Angleton, Tuesday.

H. F. Schmidt, a farmer, while plowing with a sulky plow, was thrown backward from his riding position when the seat broke, and while falling saw one of his children, which had been playing with its brother or sister on the bank of the bayou, fall into the water. Gaining his feet, the father rushed to the bank and plunged into the stream to rescue his child.

While taking the almost lifeless body from the water he stepped upon the other child, which had fallen into the water previously and sank from view. The father rescued both of the children and after much difficulty they were resuscitated and now seem fully recovered.

Underwood Defeats Hobson.

Birmingham, Ala.—Oscar W. Underwood, for nearly twenty years representative from the Ninth Alabama district in the lower house of congress, swept the state in the contest with Congressman Richard Pearson Hobson for nomination to the United States senate, according to returns from Monday's democratic primary. Mr. Underwood conceded the victory to his rival candidate.

Mr. Underwood's nomination terminated one of the most spectacular political contests in the history of the state.

Mr. Underwood sent the following telegram to Mr. Underwood: "Accept my congratulations upon your nomination. As the democratic nominee you can count upon my loyal support in the elections."

Armed Mexicans Invade Madero.

Mission, Tex.—The first invasion of American soil in the lower Rio Grande Valley by either rebel soldiers or bandits occurred three miles south of Mission at the little town of Madero, on the Rio Grande, Tuesday. Over sixty well-armed men swam their horses across the Rio Grande and entered the town and proceeded to make things lively. Sheriff Bill Shaffer, Al Truitt and others rushed to the scene of trouble in an automobile to find that the intruders had just recrossed into Mexico.

New York Gunmen Must Die.

Albany, N. Y.—Governor Glynn Tuesday refused to either commute the death sentence of the four gunmen convicted of slaying Herman Rosenthal, or to grant them a reprieve until after the second trial of former Police Lieutenant Charles Becker. They must die by electrocution in Sing Sing prison some time next week, probably Monday.

Women Vote Out the Saloons.

Chicago, Ill.—Women, voting for the first time in Illinois township elections, demonstrated their power Tuesday by closing the doors of more than one thousand saloons outside of Chicago, adding sixteen counties to the thirty already dry, and barring the sale of intoxicants in approximately 200 of the 309 townships in which local option was an issue.

Rockefeller Donates $750,000.

Wellesley, Mass.—Wellesley College has received a gift of $750,000 from the Rockefeller Foundation toward restoration of facilities lost in the recent college fire. In announcing the gift Wednesday, the board of trustees of the college said it was conditional on the raising of $2,000,000.

Moose in Honolulu Revolt.

Honolulu.—Honolulu Lodge of the Loyal Order of Moose repudiated the national organization Tuesday and then disbanded and proceeded to organize independently under a new name. There are about 1,500 members in five lodges.

Bombay Has Big Cotton Fire.

Bombay.—Cotton valued at nearly $500,000 was destroyed by fire Tuesday. Two weeks ago $2,500,000 worth of cotton was burned.

THERE'S NO PAT DUNN COUNTY

COURT OF CIVIL APPEALS HELD LINE LACKS 14-1000 OF MILE.

Opinion at San Antonio Based on Fact That Boundary is Nearer County Seat of Duval Than Allowed.

San Antonio, Tex.—By a small fraction of a mile, 14-1000 to be exact, Pat Dunn County has missed constitutional existence. Chief Justice W. S. Fly of the Fourth court of civil appeals rendered a decision Wednesday annulling an act of the Thirty-third legislature creating the county, predicting his decision upon the fact, as established, that the distance between Pat Dunn County and San Diego, county seat of Duval County, out of which the county in controversy was carved, was about seventy feet short of twelve miles.

The court's decision gives back to Duval County the territory involved in the dispute.

As cited by Justice Fly, that part of the state constitution which applies to the case of Pat Dunn County reads as follows:

"No new county shall be created so as to approach nearer than twelve miles of the county seat of a county from which it may in whole or in part be taken."

The proceedings in this case are without precedent in Texas jurisprudence. An appeal to the supreme court, it is understood, will be taken.

An appeal involving the location of the county seat of Real County was dismissed by the Fourth court of civil appeals Wednesday. Real County also was created by act of the Thirty-third legislature, and as a result of an election held to choose the county seat a contest arose between the towns of Leakey and Albin. The commission ruled that Leakey had won, but citizens of Albin contended that Leakey was outside a radius of five miles from the geographical center of the county, and that the law required a two-thirds vote in such a case. The decision of the lower court was adverse to a petition of the Albin citizens and an appeal was taken. The Fourth court of civil appeals held that the appellant had filed his brief after the expiration of the time allowed by law.

TOTAL INCOME OF TEXAS RAILROADS

Gross Receipts Reported to Be $115,973,120 During Year 1913—Operating Expenses $92,922,946.

Austin, Tex.—Total gross receipts of railroads operating in Texas during 1913 were $115,973,120 and operating expenses were $92,922,946, according to data compiled by the reports of the railroad companies to the state tax board. The aggregate of the net incomes of all the roads having a net income, before the deduction of any interest payments or additions and betterments is $12,107,582. The aggregate of net deficits of the roads having deficits, without the deduction of interest payments or additions and betterments is $1,894,459.

Suffragists Pass Up Ballot.

Dallas, Tex.—The annual convention of the Texas Equal Suffragist Association, which assembled in Dallas Thursday, adjourned at night. The association decided not to ask for a place on the ballot in the primaries this year, but to carry on a vigorous campaign of education, and if the time appears to be ripe, to make a trial of the strength of the movement in 1916. Officers were elected as follows: Miss Eleanor Brackenridge, San Antonio, honorary president for life; Miss Annette Finegan, Houston, president.

Amazon Expedition Is Well.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Word has been received that the members of the Amazon expedition of the University of Pennsylvania museum sent out in March, 1912, are all well after nine weeks of exploring in unknown territory in Southern British Guiana. BROADWAY JONES

BY EDWARD MARSHALL WITH PHOTOGRAPHS FROM SCENES IN THE PLAY
COPYRIGHT, 1915, BY G.W. DILLINGHAM CO.

SYNOPSIS.

Jackson Jones, nicknamed "Broadway" because of his continual glorification of New York's great thoroughfare, is anxious to get away from his home town of Jonesville. Abner Jones, his uncle, is very angry because Broadway refuses to settle down and take a place in the gum factory in which he succeeded to his father's interest. Judge Spawwood informs Broadway that $250,000 left him by his father is at his disposal. Broadway makes record time in heading for his favorite street in New York.

A year passed. Broadway carried three bank accounts, two of them not very large and seldom checked upon. The third was in New York's all-night bank. He kept busy. "I feel as if I ought to see the sun rise often," he explained. "Sunrises are so beautiful."

His first shock came when the All-Night Bank wrote him a letter, asking him to call and talk of his account, and this did not occur until four years had vanished in the haze of Broadway's lights. It made him sit straight in his chair and blink as a cold dash from a seltzer bottle sometimes had when he had needed it. Rankin, entering, asked him if he had a pain.

"You bet I have," said he. "And I'm afraid it's serious."

"Shall I call a doctor, sir?"
"No, call a banker."

Rankin, puzzled, withdrew carefully. He had learned to step with catlike tread when he discovered that his master was in serious mood. He had no wish to anger him. No butler in the history of butling had ever had a place so utterly ideal.

The day of the bank's letter was the first after he had reached New York when Broadway did not go about his gay and simple routine of up Broadway in the afternoon and down Broadway at night, with movements so timed that they made long pauses near the Circle and near Forty-second street seem natural. He went home before five.

When Rankin ventured to express surprise at his return to the apartment at that hour, he snarled at him. "Go to the devil, Rankin!" he suggested when he lingered.

"Yes, sir; thank you, sir," said Rankin and withdrew.

He reached the kitchen with a face so troubled that the Japanese boy, who had sought domestic service here with (judging from his wages) the commendable intention of patriotically sending home, each year, enough American money to build a warship for his nation's navy, showed interest.

"What is that matter, Rankin?" the sympathetic Oriental queried.

"I know men," said Rankin, "and if I didn't know that Mr. Jones is really a millionaire—made it out of chewing gum, his family, I'm told—I should say he was hard up."

The Japanese boy stared politely; he did not understand at all.

"Of course he's not hard up," Rankin continued. "No hard-up man could have sworn at me as he did just now. It can't be money, so it must be women."

"Limmin," said the Japanese, who had not mastered the English language. Rankin granted. "You're almost right. I never saw a man more popular. He spends his money like he didn't care for it, and does it well because that is the fact. He doesn't care for it. I never saw a human being who cared less. Why, he never counts the money on his dresser in the morning. Just throws it there when he gets into bed, and—"

The Japanese laughed merrily. "You gettin' litch?"

"No, you little heathen. I only know he does it that is all. I stack it up for him. Sometimes he throws it all about—that and his clothes and furniture. He's often merry that way. He threw me about one night. A fine, strong youth! I thought it better not to say much till he went to sleep, and then, as I crawled out from under the bed, I had a chance to see his arm. Quite muscular it is—just as it felt when he was joking with me."

"You've drawn rather heavily against it."

"But it was strong enough to stand a terrible strain."

"Not quite strong enough to stand without a protest the strain to which you have subjected it, Mr. Jones. It's not exhausted, but it's—"

"Getting tired?" Broadway himself supplied the words.

"About that. You have not been having it written up, you know; I thought perhaps you didn't realize the figures. I've had them all made out for you."

Broadway took one swift look at them, then sank back in his chair and took a longer look at them. "Well, I'll be—!" he ventured.

"I was afraid you'd feel that way. I only thought you ought to have a hint of just how things are running. Young men lose track of things sometimes. I've known it to occur before."

Jackson scarcely saw Broadway when he went out of the gray building, and it was the first time he had ever trodden Broadway without seeing and admiring it.

"Hello, Broadway!" cried a merry voice from just beyond the curb. It was a blonde voice, and issued from a natty little motor car with a sedan chair top. Broadway had bought that motor car and given it to the blonde voice. "Let me put you down some where?"

"I'm not feeling very fit. You might take me to the morgue."

"Jump in, we'll make it the Knickerbocker."

But the Knickerbocker had no charms for Broadway at that moment. He made his stay as brief as possible in the bright restaurant.

"Dollie, darling," he said gloomily. "I don't need a restaurant, today; I need a hospital. How would you like me, Dollie, honestly, if I was broke?"

"No? Seriously, how would you like me?"

"It's nonsense; but you know what Shanley Jones to broken dishes."

"The ash can, eh?"

"Mrs. Gerard," he ventured, "seems a well-preserved old—er—I mean that she seems well preserved."

"Well canned, you mean," said Wallace. "But too much chemical preservative in females is as dangerous as it is in food. How did we happen to go there tonight? You roped me into that, Broadway. You didn't tell me where you meant to take me. You merely said we'd go to dinner with some friends of yours."

"Well, she's a friend of mine." Broadway defended rather hotly. An idea, so terrible that it was fascinating, had occurred to him.

"She might have gone to school with your grandmother. It makes me sick to see her ogle you. I think she wants to marry you."

Broadway burst into a laugh which he was aware was quite too loud, too cackly and too hollow; he feared acutely that his friend would recognize its falseness.

"To marry me! Ho, ho!" Instantly his manner changed. "But I don't like the way you speak about her, Bob. Remember—we have just enjoyed her hospitality!"

"Enjoyed it! Speak for yourself, old man! If I had known where you were going, do you suppose I would have gone with you? I can meet grand-mother's schoolmates at the Old-Ladies' home. I don't have to go to dinner with them."

Wallace burst into a laugh. "I believe it is pure charity," he guessed. "You are trying to make others happy. You smile on her as you would throw a dollar into a Salvation Army cash pot around Christmas time."

"Bob, I'm thinking about getting married."

His friend sat straight and looked at him in dumb amazement for a second. "Married? And is grandma in some way related to the bride who may be?"

"Bob, I need—"

He stopped. Almost he had told his friend he needed money; but he had not the courage. To confess poverty on Broadway is like confessing murder in a church.

"Need what?"

"A rest. I'm going to—er—take some sort of a vacation. Don't know what. Maybe back to the old home. Anyway, you won't see me around for quite a little while."

"Never mind, old chap. I'll tell them all that you have had to go away on business. Go somewhere and get straightened out. You need it. There's something wrong with you, or you would never have gone to that dinner where that ancient maidservant could ogle you the way she did."

"Well, you won't see me for a week or two."

"Thanks, Rankin. Yes; I'm going to my study. Don't let me be disturbed."

"Till not, sir."

When he left that "study" he avoided Rankin. His fingers were ink-stained from calculations, his hair was quite disheveled, his eyes were wide and rolling. He could see no hope ahead.

He wrote a letter to his uncle explaining that investments had gone wrong and that he needed a small loan of fifty thousand dollars for three months. He was sure that if he got this he would be enabled to find some way out. By return of mail he had an answer in an envelope which strangely bulged. He opened it with trembling fingers and a package of Jones' Peppin Gum fell out.

"Chew this and forget it," said the cheerful note which Uncle Abner had wrapped round it. It said further: "I'm going to Europe for five years. Don't bother me again. You've made you bed, now lie on it."

That was the last straw. Without the least idea of what he wished to do, the frantic Broadway started out to find some work by which, at least, he could earn honestly his board and keep.

Wall street offered nothing, for when he went down to see his friends there his courage failed entirely and instead of asking them to find a place for him he bought them, one by one, expensive luncheons.

He went to neighboring cities, hoping there to find some means of getting food to eat without getting it on credit, and there he had some strange experiences which lasted several days. But, while he just escaped the uniform of the Salvation Army, he did not find work and wandered back to Broadway, the apartment and more debt.

He had no profession, knew no trade. Half crazed with the obsession that he must no longer run in debt, he decided to sell out the flat, discharge the servants and do menial labor. Running through the list of his abilities he decided, with frank self-contempt, that about the best thing he could do was help in a hotel as bellboy. He knew too little about mathematics to keep books; he never would succeed as desk-clerk. But he could not bring himself to try to get a job of that sort—it would too often bring him into contact with the folk he knew.

One afternoon, while wandering in an aimless funk upon a side street, he saw a card in front of an apartment house announcing that an elevator boy was wanted. He rushed in with alacrity and determination—and at the very threshold met Mrs. Gerard, who had been calling on a friend there. Instead of asking for the job he took a drive with her.

It was while this drive progressed that the sordid, vicious tempter definitely seized him in his toils. The ancient but vivacious dame was very affable—most agreeable indeed. She was not motherly; she was flirtatious. And she accompanied her coquetry by a shrewd appreciation of the magnitude of her unquestionably enormous wealth.

If he had not at the moment had a simple little Josie Richards' letter in his pocket he might have been swept under. A thousand times he had discovered the necessity of assuring himself, as he traveled up and down Broadway, that he did not care for Josie Richards. She was not the sort of girl who captivated one who knew life as he knew it; she was dear, but she was simple, unsophisticated and what he most admired was wide as plainness; he thought as little of her as he could, but now she popped into his mind and made him edge away from the aged, wealthy widow.

When he went back to the flat he found many are—are affected by the heat and before they realize it they are sneezing and coughing. The steam heated atmosphere is too much for them. They sit in rooms altogether too warm, although sometimes persons are unaware of this condition because the radiators do the heating slowly, and when they come out in the open the sudden change causes them to take cold.

STEAM HEAT CAUSES COLDS
Druggist Has Noted Effects at the Beginning of Winter—Busy Season for Medicines.

"Here, doctor," said a man as he hurried into a drug store, "give me something for a cold quick. Give me the best remedy you have in stock and I promise you that in future steam radiators and I will keep far apart. The radiator was the cause of my present trouble."

The druggist gave him the remedy and the man hurried off.

"That's strange," remarked the druggist to another customer who was waiting for a prescription. "Would you believe it if I told you he was the fourth person who came in here today buying medicine for a cold in the head? The peculiar part of the matter is that all of them complained that steam heat was the cause of their colds."

"On reflection, however, that shouldn't strike me as strange, for we have the same thing happen every year. Our busy season for cold medicines begins at the time when the steam heat is turned on."

"Persons susceptible to colds—" great many are—are affected by the heat and before they realize it they are sneezing and coughing. The steam heated atmosphere is too much for them. They sit in rooms altogether too warm, although sometimes persons are unaware of this condition because the radiators do the heating slowly, and when they come out in the open the sudden change causes them to take cold.

To Make a Bird Bath.
If for some reason or other known only to his stubborn little self your canary refuses to take a bath, try this remedy:

Don't give him any lettuce or other green for a week. Then put a small leaf of fresh, green lettuce in the bottom of his bath, half fill it with moderately cool water and put the bath in the cage.

The bird's desire for the lettuce will almost always cause him to go into the water before very long, and once in, he will find it so pleasant that he will doubtless take a bath regularly.

If he still refuses to bathe, repeat the same treatment until he learns to like his bath as much as he likes lettuce.

How to Clear Away Those Ugly Pimples
It is so easy to get rid of pimples and blackheads with Resinol, and it costs so little, too, that anyone whose face is disfigured by these pests is foolish to keep on with useless cosmetics, or complicated "beauty treatments." See how simply it is done:

Bathe your face for several minutes with Resinol Soap and hot water, then apply a little Resinol Ointment very gently. Let this stay on ten minutes, and wash off with Resinol Soap and more hot water, finishing with a dash of cold water to close the pores. Do this once or twice a day, and you will be astonished to find how quickly the healing, antiseptic Resinol medication soothes and cleanses the pores, leaving the complexion clear and velvety. Sold by all druggists, Resinol Ointment, 50 cents and $1, Resinol Soap, 25 cents.—Adv.

Reformer Rebuffed.
The nervous lady was calling on the calm and collected mother of six. "Do look at the baby!" shrieked the caller.

"What's the matter with the baby?" smiled the mother.

"He's playing with a big carving knife!"

"I see he is. But don't you worry. It's an old carving knife, and even if he did dull it a little, we have a lovely machine in the kitchen that will sharpen it again in a jiffy. You were saying?"

CRYSPEL AND CHILBLAINS
Alleviated and cured by the use of Tetterine. It is an old established and well known remedy for Eczema, Tetter, Ground Itch, the cause of Hookworm Disease, Infant Scorp Head, Chaps, Chafes and other forms of skin diseases.

R. Maxwell, Atlanta, Ga., says: "I suffered agony with a severe case of eczema. Tried six different remedies and was in despair, when a neighbor told me to try Shuptrine's Tetterine. After using $3 worth of your Tetterine and soap I am completely cured. I cannot say too much in its praise."

Student Housing.
The Drexel Institute of Philadelphia has a woman's problem on its hands in regard to older women who come there from out of the city, for whom there is no place in the city high schools or who are ineligible for the city schools. It is proposed that these girls shall live in approved boarding houses and not remove without special permission of the dean. An assistant dean is especially in charge of the women students.

Every Household Needs It.
For cuts, burns, sprains and bruises, Hanford's Balsam of Myrrh should give quick relief. These may happen any day in any home and the prudent housewife will always keep a bottle on hand. Adv.

An Agreeable Cure.
"If I ever have to choose a disease," said Weary Walker, "I'll pick neurasthenia."

"What's good for it, Weary?"
"Complete rest."

No. SIX-SIXTY-SIX
This is a prescription prepared especially for Malaria or Chills and Fever. Five or six doses will break any case, and if taken as a tonic the fever will not return. 25c.—Adv.

Have You a Bad Back?
Whenever you use your back, does a sharp pain hit you? Does your back ache constantly, feel sore and lame? It's a sign of sick kidneys, especially if the kidney action is disordered, too, passage scanty or too frequent or off color.

In neglect there is danger of dropsy, gravel or Bright's disease. Use Doan's Kidney Pills which have cured thousands.

A Texas Case
"My little boy," said Mrs. J. B. Benson, Anderson Ave., Houston, Tex., "I was operated on for kidney trouble. I had hemorrhages of the kidneys and passed pure blood. The pain and suffering in my back was terrible. I was unable to get up, and my skin and bones were all aching. When I had given up hope, Doan's Kidney Pills came to my rescue and cured me. Today I am in better health than ever before."

Robert Wallace

from charity to fare. The arrival of the sympathetic Rankin, who believed his master had a headache, with a note from Mrs. Gerard, interrupted the bookkeeping which, for the first time in his life, Broadway had begun. It had not been encouraging, as far as he had gone.

He read the note and found it to be an invitation. Deciding to accept it, he decided, also, that it must be the last one of the sort he must accept. It had become intensely plain to him that now had come the time when he must cease his gaieties and find more money.

He was a gloomy figure at the feast that night, and his gloom grew with every aged smile which Mrs. Gerard cast in his direction. It was plain enough to him, to everyone, that this exceedingly rich lady, of uncertain age, regarded him with very friendly eyes. She even sometimes called him "Jackson." After the dinner he took Robert Wallace downtown with him in his sixty-horsepower touring car.

"Indeed, sir? Fiction, sir?"

"Fiction? Gad, no! Fact."

"A book of travel, sir? I've traveled quite a bit. Perhaps—"

"No, or yes. Of travel up and down Broadway."

"Splendid, sir. If I may be excused for taking such a liberty. I'm sure no gentleman in all New York is more familiar with the subject, sir. I shall be glad to read it, sir. I'm sure it will be quite a revelation!"

"Rankin," said Broadway earnestly. "If I wrote what I really know about Broadway it would be a revelation." He grew very serious, for him. "It would put some men on pedestals, and they would not be those who now stand highest. It would put some men behind the bars, and among them are some men who now are free to come and go, with welcomes when they come and invitations when they leave. In every place where people gather in this town."

He burst into a sudden laugh. "Great stuff, eh, Rankin? When you say 'Broadway' you stir me up. I love it, hate it; it always fascinates me. There's no street like it in the world."

"If your book is like that, sir, it will be a big success," commented Rankin, spellbound. "It's going to be a fine book, Mr. Jones."

"It won't interest Broadway. There's only one kind of book that Broadway cares about."

"And what is that, sir?"
"Check books, Rankin. Now I'm going into—into—" He did not know just what to call the room which he kept locked.

THE KERRVILLE ADVANCE

Published Every Thursday at Kerrville, Texas, by T. A. Buckner.

SUBSCRIPTION $1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

Entered in the U. S. Mails as second class matter at Kerrville, Texas, on Oct. 17, 1912, according to act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

The "Constructives" met again Tuesday and tried to work the old "eliminator" but she wouldn't turn a wheel. J. Sheb cranked, Louis J. cranked, and Clarence gave her a turn or two, but she just wouldn't go. Then it leaked out that Banker Jim's allies had tapped her for her gasoline and Oscar Branch had stolen her batteries, and the old vehicle was abandoned in the middle of the road to be consigned to the scrap heap. Perhaps the whole trouble lay in the fact that the Spark plug was lost several weeks ago. Tom Ball stood by and watched the performance and some one thought they heard him remark that he knew of an "eliminator" once but it wasn't "constructed" like that one and it worked splendidly.

So the Fort Worth anti convention called to put out a man to oppose Col. Ball was a complete failure both in attendance and results, and the Ball goes rolling on.

The Advance congratulates Miss May, the popular young daughter of Postmaster W. G. Carpenter, upon winning a piano in the late San Antonio Express contest. The Kerrville young Miss stood second in the list of contestants in the 7th district, embracing thirty counties in Southwest Texas, and received 6,863,180 votes. Miss Dorothy Piper of Uvalde received the first prize in the district and capital prize of the territory outside of Bexar county, a Velie automobile. Hers was the highest vote in the entire contest, 8,991,670.

Civilization means the uplifting of manhood, womanhood and childhood, and the higher civilization advances the nobler becomes citizenship. In this great uplifting work the saloon's with their attendant evils are the greatest obstruction.

In Illinois on April 7 by the aid of women voters 946 saloons were closed, some of them in large cities. Even in Chicago there is a strong probability that the saloons will be swept out at next Spring election. The prohibition sentiment is growing in every part of the country.

Community Co-Operation

COPYRIGHTED FARM AND RANCH-HOLLAND'S MAGAZINE

F. P. HOLLAND

Everyone is more or less proud of the community in which he lives, and justly so. But, really, about the most inconsistent thing I know of is a person who evinces great interest in local affairs and conditions, and at the same time deliberately does those things that tend to retard the development of his home town or community.

Those people who proudly boast of the advantages offered by their home town as a desirable place in which to live, and then fail to extend their local merchants their patronage whenever possible, appeal to me as being about as ridiculous as the proprietor of a restaurant who loudly praises the quality of the food and service he offers the public and then eats elsewhere himself.

It may be a fact that your local stores are not as large or as handsomely equipped as some of the big city stores, but surely you will agree with me that your merchants cannot possibly enlarge their business or improve their service beyond the extent of the patronage accorded them. Therefore, if you are interested in bringing about better local shopping facilities, it is up to you and every other resident of your locality to buy in your local market whenever possible, thereby keeping your money at home, where it can work its way through various channels for the improvement and growth of your community.

KERRVILLE

The county seat of Kerr County, has a population of about 2500, is situated 70 miles northwesterly from San Antonio, and is the terminus of the Kerrville branch of the S. A. & A. P. railroad. It has two daily trains to and from San Antonio, and daily mail routes, carrying passengers in hacks, to Ingram, Junction, Rock Springs, Harper and other places north and west of Kerrville, and also a daily line to Fredericksburg. From Kerrville to Fredericksburg is 25 miles; to Banderita and Medina City, 25 miles; to Junction 60 miles; Rock Springs 80 miles, Harper 21 miles.

Kerrville has electric lights and a splendid system of water works. The sum of $20,000 is being spent on the streets and $10,000 has been voted for road improvements in this precinct.

The elevation at Kerrville is 1750 feet. The Guadalupe river, which heads 30 miles north of Kerrville, runs through the city. On the east side where the city is located, there are high bluffs on the river, and on the west side is a fertile and beautiful valley, and mountains surround the city on the east and west. The Guadalupe valley is occupied by thirty farmers and ranchmen, and the mountain regions, among which there is considerable valley, creek and arable land, there are large ranches of cattle, horses, sheep and goats, all of which do well in the Kerrville country. The land generally is well wooded, principally with live oak, Spanish oak and cedar, and the range is good, and water excellent.

Our farmers grow wheat, oats and all other small grain, cane and alfalfa, cotton and corn, and fruit and vegetables do well. Kerrville is one of the largest wool markets in the state, and large quantities of wool, mohair, cotton, oats, cattle, etc., are shipped from this point.

The climate of the Kerrville country is unsurpassed. The winters are short and generally mild and invigorating owing to the dryness of the climate and the prevalence of sunshine. The summers are cool and delightful, and the mountain air is pure and bracing. Game abounds in the Kerrville country, and fishing in the Guadalupe, especially north of Kerrville, is good. Kerrville and the adjoining towns are popular resorts for health and recreation.

The Kerrville Commercial Club, any of the different Realty Companies or any of our citizens, will be pleased to give prospective residents or visitors further information.

NEIGHBOR ASKED FOR INFORMATION

Which Was Promptly Disclosed and She Lost no Time in Profit-ing Thereby.

Miami, Okla.—"One of my neighbors," says Mrs. Hannah M. Turley, of this town, "came to my house last week, and said: 'Mrs. Turley, what did you take to help you so quickly?' I told her it was just Cardul, the woman's tonic, and she said: 'I wish I looked as well as you do.' I told her if she would only get $5.00 worth of Cardul, and take it, she would. So she sent her husband to town to get the Cardul, and commenced taking it. She looked so pale and sick all the time, but is beginning to look better already.

As to how it helped me—I suffered for about 5 years, with womanly troubles, and became so weak and nervous, and would suffer such pain every month, that I thought, at times, I would die. Was in such condition that I couldn't do my work half of the time, and would have awful smothering spells.

My husband bought me a full treatment of Cardul (6 bottles) and I can truthfully say that after I took the last bottle I was well. Am enjoying the best of health now, and am so thankful to Cardul."

Take Cardul for your trouble. You will never regret it. Begin today. Ask your nearest druggist.

TOAD A VALUABLE SERVANT

Its Uses in the World Have Not Been Accorded the Recognition It Has Long Deserved.

Few well-meaning creatures have been more thoroughly misunderstood than the homely, meditative and retiring toad.

Formerly the toad was considered a venomous reptile, but in our day its habits have been more carefully observed and its great value to the pomologist and gardener has been fully established on account of its propensity for destroying insects.

We should, therefore, cultivate the friendship and assistance of the insectivorous reptiles, including the striped snake, as well as that of birds.

Every tidy housewife detests the cockroach, mice and other vermin. Two or three domesticated toads would keep the coast clear of these and would be found more desirable than a cat, as they are wholly free from trespassing on the rights of man as does the cat. The toad is possessed of a timid and retiring nature, loving dark corners and shady places, but under kind treatment becoming quite tame.

Many instances might be cited of pet toads remaining several years in a family and doing most valuable service with no other compensation than that of immunity from persecution.

In Europe toads are carried to the cities to market and are purchased by the horticulturists, who by their aid are enabled to keep in check the multiplication of the insect tribes which prey upon their fruits, flowers, etc.

Found a Tintoretto.

A municipal councillor, Adrien Mithard, is responsible for the discovery of a masterpiece among the piles of old canvases put aside as almost valueless in the municipal storerooms at Autueil, Paris. His curiosity was aroused by the aspect of one of the canvases, which was so black that practically nothing was visible, and ordering the picture scrubbed, an "Adoration of the Magi" by Tintoretto, was disclosed.

UPWARD START

After Changing from Coffee to Postum.

Many a talented person is kept back because of the interference of coffee with the nourishment of the body.

This is especially so with those whose nerves are very sensitive, as is often the case with talented persons. There is a simple, easy way to get rid of coffee troubles and a Tenn. lady's experience along these lines is worth considering. She says:

"Almost from the beginning of the use of coffee it hurt my stomach. By the time I was fifteen I was almost a nervous wreck, nerves all unstrung, no strength to endure the most trivial thing either work or fun.

"There was scarcely anything I could eat that would agree with me. The little I did eat seemed to give me more trouble than it was worth. I was literally starving; was so weak I could not sit up long at a time.

"It was then a friend brought me a hot cup of Postum. I drank part of it and after an hour I felt as though I had had something to eat—felt strengthened. That was about five years ago, and after continuing Postum in place of coffee and gradually getting stronger, today I can eat and digest anything I want, walk as much as I want. My nerves are steady.

"I believe the first thing that did me any good and gave me an upward start, was Postum, and I use it altogether now instead of coffee."

Name given by the Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Postum now comes in two forms: Regular Postum—must be well boiled. 15c and 25c packages.

Instant Postum—is a soluble powder. A teaspoonful dissolves quickly in a cup of hot water and, with cream and sugar, makes a delicious beverage instantly. 30c and 50c tins.

The cost per cup of both kinds is about the same.

STOP CHILD LABOR

HOUSE COMMITTEE IS CONSIDERING MEASURE OF VAST IMPORTANCE TO COUNTRY.

PUTS BURDEN ON PRODUCER

Palmer Bill Would Make It Unlawful to Ship in Interstate Commerce Any Product of Child Labor.

By GEORGE CLINTON.

Washington.—For the last seven years there have been introduced into congress from time to time bills intended to prevent child labor in the United States. The bills have been various in form and none of them ever has gone any great distance on the way to passage. As long as the workers in behalf of the cause of the children continue their campaign there is no danger, however, that congress will be allowed to sidetrack for all time measures looking to the relief of the children workers in the industries of the United States.

The original attempts to prevent child labor were made by Republicans. Then when the Progressives succeeded in electing some members to congress they took hold of the matter. Now the Democrats have given the subject their attention, and Representative A. Mitchell Palmer, Democrat of Pennsylvania, has introduced a bill which he seems determined shall have a hearing in the house. It is a measure intended to put an end to child labor in the mills, mines and factories of the country.

Representative Palmer's measure is now before the committee on labor of the house of representatives which is investigating child labor conditions. Day by day witnesses in the committee room are telling of the evils of child labor and the injury it is doing American citizenship.

Question of Lawyers.

It is a matter for constitutional lawyers and other kinds of lawyers to determine whether or not the bill which has been presented by Mr. Palmer to end child labor will be an efficient if enacted into law as the Beveridge bill would have been if congress and the president should have taken to it kindly.

In explaining his measure the Pennsylvania representative said:

"In a word, the proposition is to provide that it shall be unlawful for any person to ship or deliver for shipment in interstate commerce the products of any mill, mine, quarry, or manufacturing establishment where the labor of children below a certain standard is employed. Now, this measure differs from the Beveridge amendment, which was passed in 1907, and upon which Senator Beveridge made his great argument in support of child labor legislation. It differs also from the Kenyon bill which in effect is the Beveridge bill proposition, in that both these bills put the burden upon the carrier and made it unlawful for any common carrier to receive or ship goods manufactured under conditions of the sort fixed by the law."

It will be seen that Mr. Palmer's bill makes it a misdemeanor for the producer, that is the man who is responsible for the employment of child labor, to put into interstate commerce the articles which are produced under these conditions. Mr. Palmer realizes that a good many of the states have child labor legislation on the statute books. He knows that it is hard for a manufacturer in a state which cannot employ children to compete in the markets with the manufacturers of states where children are employed. He thinks that the federal government has jurisdiction and that its action will put all manufacturers upon an equality, that child life will be saved and that the Constitution of the United States will not be smashed into bits by the operation.

There is an apparent awakening to the child labor question among the members of the majority in the house and senate. A few years ago they did not seem to care very much about the thing one way or the other. Public pressure has been strong within the last few years and the constant biting references to the killing of children in some of the states made some of the senators and representatives from those states at first resentful, and afterward apologetic. From this change of feeling in congress springs the strongest chance of the success of the measure of Mr. Palmer, or, if it shall fail, of the success of some other measure of like kind which shall be drawn on lines more nearly parallel to the views of certain of the states' rights advocates.

Start Campaign Early.

Democrats, Republicans and Progressives are making preparations for the coming congressional campaign and incidentally, of course, for the greater campaign which is to follow two years later. The Democrats seemingly will be content to stand on the record of the present administration. The Republicans are urging that the tariff law is working injury to the country, that prosperity is not at a high pitch and that a change is necessary. The Progressives will urge the inadequacy of the trust legislation of the Democrats and will charge an indisposition on the part of both old parties to pass genuine progressive legislation.

It is said by some of the politicians in Washington that the Republicans may have trouble in maintaining consistency of action in all congressional districts in the next campaign. The Republican party, it must be understood, still has within it two factions, the progressive Republicans and the conservative Republicans. The former desire and urge that progressivism shall be made a part of the Republican candidates' endeavor and of the campaign generally in every congressional district next fall.

Some of the conservative Republicans, too, who have leanings toward a certain kind of progressivism, say that this is not only a good policy, but a proper policy. On the other hand, there are some extremely conservative Republicans who hold that the next campaign should be made on the old lines and nothing should be yielded to the new thought.

Difference of Opinion. These matters are talked about freely in Washington by the representatives most concerned. Republicans talk about the necessity of yielding something to progressivism as long as it has a small "p," while others talk freely about the folly of yielding.

The Republican congressional committee which in a way will have an oversight of the campaigns in all the districts is inclined to urge a liberal and progressive spirit in all the districts. Naturally, the congressional committee feels that if one kind of a platform is used in one place and another kind in another, the charge of the Progressives and the Democrats instantly will be that the old party is utterly inconsistent and that if it cannot have platforms which are alike in congressional campaigns, how can it hope to have a platform in a presidential campaign upon which the Republicans of all the districts can stand.

It seems to be conceded that the members of the congressional committee will succeed in inducing the adoption of liberal platforms in most of the districts of the country. There are some districts, however, which will witness contests for the office of representative in congress that will be conducted by the Republican candidates on lines exactly parallel to those on which such contests were conducted ten years ago.

It matters little what the claims are at the present moment, for it is a long time until November, but one thing is virtually certain, the three parties are going into the congressional campaigns as early as possible, are going to do a lot of hard campaigning and use every effort possible, the Democrats to maintain their majority in congress or add to its strength, and the other two parties to upset the calculations of "both the enemies."

As Wilson Sees Himself.

President Wilson's intimate portrayal of himself as a man and as a president, drawn for the benefit of the members of the National Press club recently, has set men, particularly newspaper men in Washington, to thinking. It must be confessed that the outset that most of the Washington correspondents have looked upon Mr. Wilson as a man of cold demeanor and temperament. In his personal sketch of himself the president tore off the mask and showed himself as he thinks he really is, certainly as he would like to be, and he disabused the minds of a good many persons of formerly conceived opinions.

The president said in his speech to the members of the Press club that he never had read an article about himself in which he recognized himself, and that he had come "to have the impression that I must be some kind of a fraud, because I think a great many of these articles are written in absolute good faith."

"I tremble to think of the variety and the falseness of the impressions I make and it is being borne in on me so that it may change my very disposition—that I am a cold, removed person who has a thinking machine inside which he adjusts to the circumstances, which he does not allow to be moved by any winds of affection or emotion of any kind, but turns like a cold searchlight on anything that is presented to its attention and makes it work. I am not aware of having any detachable apparatus inside of me."

Appearance of Coldness.

It is probable that men who come in contact with President Wilson have thought he was a cold man because he was self-contained on matters of public moment, and that even when he feels he can discuss them freely his method of discussion is so entirely dispassionate. There are no evidences of the warmth of Roosevelt nor of the smiling geniality of Taft in Mr. Wilson's speech nor in his manner of speech. Sparks, however, are struck from stones, and if there were no latent heat there never could be even now and then a warm gleam on the surface. President Wilson on occasions has shown the warm gleam, but always it has been quickly shadowed as if his showing had been an error.

Now since the president spoke of himself and of his restraint of his emotions men who have come in almost daily contact with him are beginning to believe that there are fires inside and that the effort always has been to keep the cover on. The president in his talk to the members of the press said that he likes human beings and that both individuals and crowds interest him. It seems that a man who is interested in the human nature of individuals and of crowds must have a good deal of human nature in himself, and human nature is one of the warmest things known to mankind. Some of the newspaper men seemingly are not only sorry, but chagrined that they should have misinterpreted Mr. Wilson's temperament, should have portrayed him as a cold man with few sympathies.

More Information Regarding an Ancient People Found.

Evidences Accumulating to Show That Population of Missouri Valley in Prehistoric Times Came From South America.

Omaha, Neb.—"Evidences are accumulating to show that the ancient people who in prehistoric times so thickly populated the Missouri Valley originally came from Mexico, Central America, or even South America, and there has just come to light what appears to be one more link in this chain of proof, says Prof. R. L. Gilder, archaeologist, University of Nebraska.

"What appears to be more than a coincidence presents itself through a queer-looking face mask secured by C. N. Dietz, of this city, from a cavern in the Mexican state of Morelos, about 150 miles south of the City of Mexico. The coincidence comes from the fact that several years ago, while pursuing an archaeological survey in Sarpy county, Nebraska, I discovered a figurine which, placed side by side with the ancient Mexican mask, is almost an exact counterpart of the latter figure, which came from a sacred cave 2,500 miles south of the point where my figurine was discovered.

"The Mexican mask shows that it was intended for suspension, possibly in some sacred chamber, as it appears to represent a deity of the people to whom it originally belonged. The ears are pierced for rings and the facial expression is one of a type not seen nowadays. The eyes are mongoloid, the nose well defined and devoid of aperture. The mouth is opened and gives the mask the appearance of a person laughing. It is made of clay and is burned very hard.

"The Nebraska face so closely ressembles that from Mexico that I reproduce them here so that others can see the comparison. The ears of the Nebraska face show that they, also, have been pierced and then broken off. The Nebraska specimen is burned as hard as the Mexican image.

"It is interesting to surmise and speculate upon how these two figures bearing identical faces, should have been parted by 2,500 miles of desert, mountains and plains and great rivers. It could scarcely be an accident, both must have been made from the same conception of a god or a general type of a people. Was one a copy of the other, or were they each a copy of some great god so well known as to be worshipped by races so widely separated as those of Nebraska and southern Mexico?

"A Japanese friend, a graduate of Yale, and a man of wide reading and experience, assures me the Nebraska head is prehistoric Japanese in every detail, and he also says the same type of underground houses found along the Missouri river in Nebraska can be found today in Japan. Is there a connection between them?"

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By E. O. SELLERS, Director of Evening Department, The Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.)

LESSON FOR APRIL 19.

COST OF DISCIPLESHIP.

LESSON TEXT.—Luke 14:25-35. GOLDEN TEXT.—"Whoever would save his life shall lose it; and whosoever shall lose his life for my sake shall find it." Matt. 10:35.

While this discourse is recorded only by St. Luke, still there are many things mentioned here to which our Lord made reference on other occasions. Last Sunday's Easter lesson made a break in the sequence of lessons we have been following, and shall follow for several succeeding Sundays. Leaving the chief Pharisee's house wherein he criticized both host and guests, "great multitudes" followed our Lord. Turning, he uttered some of the severest and yet the most wonderful words that ever fell from his lips, as we shall see if we follow all of this part of our lesson series.

Multitude Rebuked.

I. A Caution, v. 26. On another occasion, John 6:26, Jesus rebuked the multitude which followed him. This multitude who pressed about him did not realize what was involved in a true following. They were influenced by the psychology of the crowd, and did not count the cost. Jesus does not mean that our discipleship will lessen our love for our kin (Eph. 5:25, 28-31; 6:1-4), but as compared with our love for him it is aversion. See Matt. 10:37; Phil. 3:7, 8; Ps. 73:25, 26. Aversion is to turn aside, and the Master told us that those who shall turn aside shall have an abundant reward, see Mark 10:28-30. Jesus Christ must be supreme in a Christian's affections. He who freely gave his own self (John 3:16; Phil. 2:8) has a right to demand a like devotion to himself, and as men have approached nearest to such a consecration he has exalted them. The Cross means the shame, sorrow, pain and death of self and all that lies in the pathway of loyalty and devotion to him. II Tim. 3:12, Acts 14:22.

II. A Challenge, vv. 27-32. (1) The Instruction, v. 27. As if to make this caution more solemn, Jesus sets before the multitude the manner of his approaching death and the condition of discipleship. He here lays down the first declaration of the severe terms of discipleship, but explains the meaning of his words. There is a new meaning of this passage suggested by the Revised Version of v. 32, "so likewise" is rendered, "so therefore." Our Lord does certainly insist that those who build a tower or conduct a war must count the cost; so, likewise, they who follow him. But by this change the opposite thought is suggested, viz., that those who follow him must do so whatever the cost may be. (2) The Illustrations. (a) The builder of a tower, vv. 29, 30, and (b) The King at war, vv. 31, 32. Too often we present to men what is to be gained by Christian discipleship. The gain does outweigh the cost, but as wise builders we must present the cost side of the transaction.

Homely Illustrations.

III. The Conclusion, vv. 33-35. We have already indicated the conclusion towards which Jesus was leading with terrific logic, and by looking back to the first verse of the lesson we see what it was he was seeking to impress upon the minds of the thoughtless multitude. Again the Master uses one of those homely illustrations gathered from the common experiences of life which he employed so frequently to amplify or to drive home a great truth. There must be quality as well as devotion to this discipleship. Salt preserves from corruption, seasons insipidity, freshens and sweetens. These qualities are referred to abundantly by Scriptural writers. Salt is highly prized in the East. The natural man is presented also as being corrupt, Gen. 6:11; 8:21; Ps. 14:2, 3; Eph. 2:1-3. The remedy for this is the active presence of his disciples among their fellows. The true disciple is like salt with a good savor. On the other hand, salt that has lost its savor is not even fit for a dunghill, but is thrown out and trodden under foot of men. So our Lord sets aside that disciple of his who has lost his usefulness. This expresses our Lord's contempt and scorn of those who lack not merely a certain kind of character, but whose profession and appearance would indicate a better expectation.

This lesson presents the severity of the claims of Jesus. Irresistibly he drew the multitudes to himself. Witness the crowd following him as he leaves the house of the ruler. But he paused and by his teaching sifted them, and seemingly made it difficult to follow him.

What is the purpose of discipleship?

It means co-operation. The work of the King is to build and to battle, so the disciple must wield both sword and trowel. He must set aside his interests and devote himself and all of his strength to the work and the warfare. We must not, as has been intimated, allow ourselves to imagine that these sayings of Jesus conflict with his tender words about the home or of men coming to him for rest (Matt. 11:28-30). The ultimate end of discipleship is that the surging restlessness of the multitude shall indeed find rest in him.

The citizens of Vernon are desirous of an interurban connection with Crowell and at a recent meeting of the business men a committee was appointed to devise ways and means for the construction of the road. Northern capitalists have offered to finance the project.

The Oxford Telephone Hanger company, which has under erection near Houston a new factory has practically completed its plant and will begin operation shortly. This manufacturing enterprise will make all kinds of telephone supplies and is considered a valuable acquisition to Houston.

The 228 Texas cotton seed oil mills crushed 1,156,963 tons of seed from the 1913 Texas cotton crop, according to a report just compiled by the census bureau. Texas leads the world in the production of cotton seed and cotton seed-products and 26 per cent of the cotton seed crushing establishments of the nation are located in this state. During the past year 19 cotton oil mills have been established in Texas.

C. H. Guenther & Sons have practically completed all necessary arrangements for the erection of one of the largest flour mills in the United States at San Antonio. It is their intention to have work start on this mammoth industry immediately and have it ready for operation by the time the next wheat crop is harvested. The mill will have a capacity of 2,000 barrels daily and will represent an expenditure of more than $100,000.

There was a fire in Texas every 40 minutes last year and each fire cost $14, according to a report just issued by the state fire insurance commission. The total number of fires reported during the year was 12,655, and the adjusted losses approximated $5,236,000. The predominant class of conflagrations occurred in frame dwelling houses, the total number being 5,120, or 40 per cent of the total fires. Texas property is insured against fire loss to the extent of $376,804,000, and the annual premiums paid by the policy holders is $10,089,375.

Three men narrowly escaped death by escaping from the plant a few moments before the explosion. The loss of the company is placed at $300.

PROSECUTOR MAURY KILLED IN AUTO WRECK

Car Collides With Cow and Auto is Thrown Thirty Feet—Accident Happened Near Dickinson.

Houston, Tex.—Richard G. Maury, criminal district attorney of Harris County, was killed Sunday afternoon while en route to Galveston when the automobile he was driving struck a cow that strayed into the road in front of his machine.

With terrific impact, a cow that strayed onto the right of way just as Mr. Maury's car reached that part of the road was struck broadside. The cow was killed. The car shot sideways, jumped to the railroad right of way, capsized and in a moment was a mass of flames, being totally destroyed.

The accident occurred between Dickinson and La Marque, near the Galveston, Houston and Henderson right of way. W. H. Hambleton of Houston, who was directly behind Mr. Maury in an automobile, was first at the scene of the accident and hurriedly called Dr. W. A. Hadley of Dickinson.

The injured man was lifted from the road, where he had been thrown, placed in the physician's car and hurried to the Woods drug store at Dickinson. Death occurred before the drug store was reached and without the injured man having regained consciousness. Dr. Hadley said that the injuries consisted of a fracture of the left hip, a fracture of the left arm and an injury at the base of the brain, the latter having caused death.

CABBAGE SHIPPED BY THE TRAINLOADS

One Hundred and Fifty-Six Cars Have Been Forwarded, and Two Hundred Cars Remain to Be Shipped.

San Benito, Tex.—Cabbage shipments from San Benito reached a new record during the past week, 129 cars having been forwarded. This is more by several cars than ever before left San Benito in a similar period. Together with previous shipments, a total of 756 carloads of cabbage has been sent out of San Benito, this season, which is more than double last season's output for the corresponding period.

However, this is the last big shipping week. There are not more than 200 cars on the San Benito tract and they will be scattered throughout the rest of this month and the early part of May.

Due to the rapidly increasing demand for citrus fruit trees, the local branch of the San Benito Nursery Company has increased its acreage twenty acres, on which it will propagate 175,000 citrus trees for this year's business. The proportions of this industry are expanding so rapidly in the Lower Rio-Grande Valley that it is a question as to whether this number will be sufficient to supply the demand from this year.

TWO WOMEN AVOID OPERATIONS

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Chicago, Ill.—"I must thank you with all my heart for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I used to go to my doctor for pills and remedies and they did not help me. I had headaches and could not eat, and the doctor claimed I had female trouble and must have an operation. I read in the paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I have taken it and feel fine. A lady said one day, 'Oh, I feel so tired all the time and have headache.' I said, 'Take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound,' and she did and feels fine now."—Mrs. M. R. KARSCHNICK, 1438 N. Paulina Street, Chicago, Illinois.

The Other Case. Dayton, Ohio.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound relieved me of pains in my side that I had for years and which doctors' medicines failed to relieve. It has certainly saved me from an operation. I will be glad to assist you by a personal letter to any woman in the same condition."—Mrs. J. W. SHERER, 126 Cass St., Dayton, Ohio.

FACE COVERED WITH PIMPLES

214 Brevard St., Tampa, Fla.—"Some three years ago I commenced to suffer from a rash on my face and back. Before the pimples came on my face there were a lot of blackheads. It looked as if the blackheads turned into pimples because after a little while all of them were gone and my face was covered with pimples. They were small at first but gradually grew and right at the end of each pimple it was all white. I carelessly picked them with my finger nails, which made them spread, and I soon discovered them on my back. My back was covered with pimples and my face the same way. At night I could hardly sleep on account of the burning and itching sensation they caused. I did not like to go out because the pimples caused disfigurement."

"Seeing the advertisement of Cuticura Soap and Ointment in one of the magazines I sent for a sample. I bought some Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and I am glad to be able to say that I am entirely cured of pimples." (Signed) Jno. O. Darlington, Jan. 25, 1913.

SCOURGE IS STILL DEADLY

Claims of a "Cure" for Consumption Have Not Been Verified by Scientific Authorities.

In spite of the statements of a number of individuals who have recently claimed that they have found a "cure" for consumption, the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, the highest authority on this disease in America, declares that there is no information at hand to justify the belief that any specific cure for tuberculosis has been discovered which deserved the confidence of the medical profession and the people. Backing up these statements, the United States Public Health Service declares that outside of the three essentials in the treatment of consumption, namely, rest, fresh air, and good food, "there is no drug known, however rare or expensive it may be that has any curative action in this disease, and all remedies advertised as such are to be avoided. Patent cough medicines are harmful; radium, X-rays or electricity in any of its forms have no special value in tuberculosis of the lungs. No serum has yet been found that will cure it, and there is no plaster or poultice which has any effect on the disease itself."

Modern Morals. Senator Joseph E. Ransdell was talking in Washington about his bill for the abolition of divorce. "The bill's object," he said, "is to object, is, of course, to reduce immorality, loose thinking, loose speaking." Senator Ransdell smiled and added: "Don't take it too seriously—but here is an episode that throws a light on modern morals."

"A business man came home unexpectedly one morning and found his little son busy at his wife's dressing table."

"What on earth are you doing there, my lad?" he asked.

"I'm mixing powdered quinine with mother's face powder, the youngster answered. "She's going motoring with Mr. Smith. Won't she taste bitter?"

TAKE SALTS TO FLUSH KIDNEYS IF BACK HURTS

Says Too Much Meat Forms Uric Acid Which Clogs the Kidneys and Irritates the Bladder.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.—Adv.

Good Cheer Aids Digestion of Food

Dyspeptics Can Make the Rest of the Family Happy by Using a Laxative-Tonic.

MAJ. S. MARTIN

The temper of the family and the good cheer around the table depend so much on the good digestion of each individual present that the experiences of some former dyspeptics who overcame their trouble should be of interest to those now suffering in this way.

The best advice one can give—but it is advice that is seldom heeded—is to eat slowly and masticate each mouthful carefully. However, if slow eating and careful mastication fail the next aid is one close to nature, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. This remedy is an excellent digestant, and in addition to helping in the digestion of the food, acts gently on the liver and bowels, ridding them of the accumulation of waste that should long ago have been passed off. It is safe, reliable, pleasant-tasting, and results are guaranteed.

Maj. S. Martin, of Joplin, Mo., now 77, thinks Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has helped him to a longer and happier life. He has not felt so good in years as he has since taking this excellent medicine, and in spite of his 77 years he says he feels like a boy.

It is the ideal remedy for indigestion, no matter how severe; constipation, no matter how chronic, biliousness, headaches, gas on the stomach, drowsiness after eating and similar annoyances.

IF HAIR IS TURNING GRAY, USE SAGE TEA

Don't Look Old! Try Grandmother's Recipe to Darken and Beautify Gray, Faded, Lifeless Hair.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy, and abundant with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, ready to use, for about 50 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well-known druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and abundant.—Adv.
