DR. J. B. LOVE, Scientific Optician.

GEORGE BOWLES

Talks About the Flowers of Childhood, and Compares Love and Sunshine.

RIGHT now I can hear some old sister say, "Well, for the Land sakes, what will that old fellow write a story about next? What does he know about children an' flowers, anyhow? The neighbors all say that if it wasn't for Mrs. Bowles he'd never know whether his own brats were all at home or not."

Now, just because a fellow is so busy getting up the winters wood and bottomin' chairs that he can't find time to count his chaps every night when they go to roost, is no sign that he don't know anything about them. Mr. Roosevelt created quite a furror in the country not long ago by making a talk about his fear of race suicide. Race suicide, like any other kind of suicide, is a mighty bad thing, but I have seen many children in my life that would be better dead, so far as their own happiness life, and the good that they'd do the world, is concerned. It sounds like the brutal statement of a cold-blooded realist, and it is. If you will admit the truth you will say the statement is, however, true.

There may be danger that the time will come when our country will lack population on account of the tendency towards small families, but I seriously doubt it. There is, though, little doubt in my mind that the time will speedily come in this world when there is a dearth of good people. I mean by that a dearth of great manly men and loving, tender, womanly women. There is no flower that is worthy the name, that does not require sunshine to make it mature. In like manner a little child that does not know the warm sunshine of love, can never develop into a psychically perfect man or woman. Did you ever hear woman say, "I wonder what makes my kids so mean?" Of course you have, and you have heard them say it right in the presence of the children. Haven't you heard a father say in the presence of his family, "I'll never have anything, this house full of brats keeps me broke all the time?" Never have anything? What is the matter with a house full of boys and girls being something themselves? They are something, or at least they will be if you will give them a chance and help them just a little.

I don't want to rob the Ladies' Home Journal of its job, and I am not going to deliver an essay on "Children, and How to Raise Them,"—suppose I should have said "How to Rear Them," but this paper will probably not be read much in Boston. It don't take a great deal of knowledge to raise children, all you have to do is too love them, feed them plenty of good, wholesome food, and don't keep them too clean!

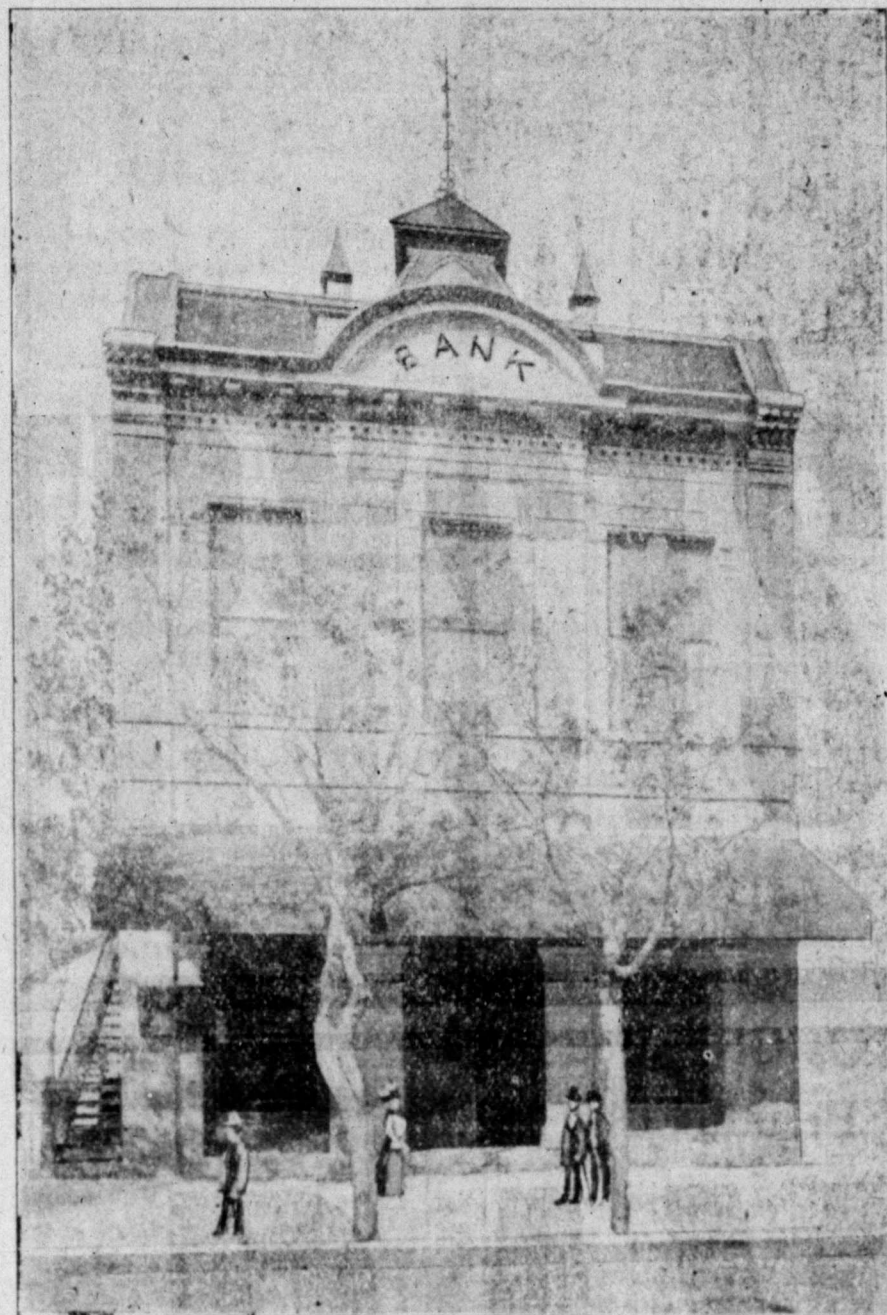

The part I am going to talk about right now is the matter of loving them. Nobody on earth can love like a mother, when she does love. It is a sad thing to see a child with nobody to love it, but it is sadder far to see one whose own mother don't love it. I remember when I was a little boy my grandfather had a large farm and kept a great many sheep. One day in the springtime I was at his house and there were several little lambs in a pen near the barn. I said, "Gran'pap, ain't these little sheep got no mammy?" And he said, "yes, son, they have mam-mies, but they won't claim 'em." worried about these little sheep a whole lot. Since then I have known many little children that had mammies that "wouldn't claim them 'em."

A mother that wants to send her children to school before they are six years old, in order to "get rid of the bother," a mother that says, "I know I have the meanest children that ever lived," a mother that says, "I can never have any pleasure for this house full of brats" a mother that is too busy to love her children, one that takes care of her children as if under protest and purely because the laws of society demand it, all these are "mammies that won't claim 'em."

"I think I can hear some woman say, "why the old pirate, I love my children as well as anybody on earth." All right my dear madam, if you love them well enough to want to fight about it, you are my kind of folks and we will not have any trouble. It's "the mammies that won't claim 'em" that I am after.

There is hardly a day that we do not hear some one say, "He used to be such a good boy, and now he is the wildest young fellow in town; I can't understand it." That is dead easy, "his mammy wouldn't claim him." She was sweet to him when company came. She gave him too much candy and sweetmeats when Christmas came, but the balance of the time she let him run with the herd and never noticed what he was doing. A child can be managed by fear while he is too little to know any better, but it is a kind of subjection that will not last. It is a great deal like going to heaven because you are afraid you will go to the other place.

Botany teaches that there are certain kinds of flowers that keep their faces always toward the sunlight, and when there is no sunlight they hang their heads. God Almighty, in his wisdom, created children with exactly the same disposition that the heliotrope has. As long as there is the beautiful sunlight of parental love for them to turn their faces to, they are bright, happy, good,—natural.

Do you love your baby? Have you an idea how you would feel if in his wisdom the Creator should take your little child away from you? Don't try to rule your little one by fear, but put a feeling into his heart that he must not do wrong because it will hurt you. Don't behave towards your child in a manner that will lead him to believe that you do not love him.

A few days ago I was prowling around among some old manuscripts that I wrote before I got so childish and had so much wood to cut, and I found this little verse:

STICKY FINGERS.

Mama what makes you frown at me?
An' look so cross an' mad,
A feller'd fink your little wee
Had been a bein' bad.
An' when you are cross you spank me too
Des' hard as you can lam,
A feller's finger stick like glue
When he been eatin' jam;
An' he can't help the wool and fings,
An' hair at's off the cat,
The dirt, an' mess an' cotton strings

'At sticks to him like that.
The day I broke the window out
Wif my new iron toy,
I never went to be so stout,
I's des' a little boy.

To day I crawled out froo de fence,
To visit poor Mis' Gray,
What had a little curly boy
'At used to come an' play
Wif me, but now he gone and lef'
Him mamma by herself.
An' she des' cried when I comed in
An' kissed him picture on the shelf.
She didn't scold an' look so cross,
She took me on her knee,
An' gave me pie an' sticky sauce,
Jes' good as she can be,
Wif all the jam that I could eat,
An' cream an' fings like that.
Mamma, I's 'traid you don't love me
Good as you do the cat.

Cut this little boy talk's to his mamma out of the paper and paste it in the scrap book.

Died.
Little Russell Tally, the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Tally, died November 17, 1908, at Mangun, Okla. The bereaved parents reached here, (Ingram), Thursday night with the remains of their precious one, who was laid to rest in the Nichols cemetery Friday evening, November 20. Little Russell was only given to brighten the home of the bereaved parents for two years, when the Master had need of the little one. The two short years spent here on earth will ever be remembered with joy by his loved ones. There is a vacant place in their hearts that can never be filled; but they can ever remember and think of their treasure in heaven.
Farewell, farewell, a sad farewell,
No more thy face we'll see;
No balm can heal, no tongue can tell
The sorrow felt for thee.
Farewell, farewell, a sad farewell,
We'll breathe it o'er and o'er,
Till 'round his throne, at Jesus' feet,
We'll meet to part no more.
A FRIEND.

Business Men's Club.
A meeting of the Kerrville Business Men's Club was held at Pampell's hall last Saturday night. Owing to the fact that the committee on Constitution and By-laws had been waiting for a visit from Mr. John B. Carrington, secretary of the Commercial Secretaries organization, that committee was not ready to report, and asked for further time, which was granted.

On motion the committee was instructed to report without fail at the next meeting of the club, which will be held on Wednesday night, December the 9th, at 8:30. At that time it expected that the committee will be ready with the Constitution and By-laws, which will be taken up and adopted, with such amendments as the club may see fit to add.

In addition to report of that committee, other committees, of minor importance, reported. The Trade's Day committee reported arrangements for the coming Trade's Day progressing, and the outlook for another big success very promising. They stated that there was no doubt that horse buyers, and also hog buyers, would be in attendance.

After the routine business had been disposed of, Mr. Lightbyrne of Roekport, who was present, was introduced and addressed the club on the matter of the great importance of a proper sewerage system as an aid to town building. The discourse was very entertaining and instructive, and was much appreciated by the members of the club.

DON'T GROUCH.

They ain't no time to growl an' grouch,
Stump yer toe an' holler "ouch,"
Like you was almost kilt;
Pull off yer coat an' go to work,
Fergit ter sojer an' ter shirk,
That's the way a live one's built.
If your neighbor's got some dough,
An' don't move so very slow,
That don't put no brakes on you;
Meet him with a pleasant smile,
Boost his game, if it's worth while,
An' by an' by you'll have some too.

The courts are doing their best to make Mrs. Guinness' ghost walk.

This town is no graveyard. There are plenty of red corpses in the blood of Kerrville people.

The only class of people who really respect a man for what he knows is the class that knows a great deal more than he does.

We printed four thousand copies of the paper this week because Trade's Day is a good thing and we wanted the people to find it out.

There are people in the world who would buy a two-tined pitchfork, not because it was cheaper, but because they wouldn't have to lift so much hay with it.

There are a lot of mistakes made in this world of ours. For instance, if your neighbor does more business than you do he is not a thief, he is a "hustler."

There are few people in the world who ever hate a man because he thinks he is smart; as a rule they hate him because he really is, or they at least fear he is.

Root for Trade's Day, root for the town, root for the county, and for Southwest Texas. If you have got a hammer use it to build something, or else throw it in the river. Don't knock.

Clean up your joint. Cobwebs denote establishment, it is true, but establishment is not always desirable. "Here to Stay" is an appropriate sign to put over the gate to a cemetery.

There have been two or three fellows taking sly shots at the Sun because it had a lot of red ink on it last week. The Sun is read every week. Besides that, there is no blood in a corpse.

A headline over an article reads, "Lives With Back Broken." That is not so novel. Every winter for the last quarter of a century has lived three to six weeks after the weather man had declared that it's back was broken.

Billy Hohenzollern and Teddy Roosevelt have each made pretty good demonstration of their ability to talk too much at the wrong time. The two monarchs should now enter into a "gabfest" contest, and let the gate money go to buy Christmas presents for the poor.

There are women in the world who seem to think "divided skirts" and "advanced thought" are synonymous terms. That is, however, a mistake. There are women who wear divided skirts, and yet never did any "advanced" or any other kind of thinking, because they had nothing to do it with.

A tale bearer, or a common liar, does very little harm in a community. It is when some man with a reputation for amounting to something, and who ought to know better, repeats the tattle, that real harm is done. When a fellow goes to telling you something about your neighbor tell him you are busy.

Men and Women

Of Quality

People who not only know Good Clothes, but who buy Them, and wear them, are Among our Customers.

The fact that a man has enough to pay a tailor for making a suit of tailor-made clothes, is not a reason why he should do so, if he can get clothes just as good, for less money. You don't have to spend money just because you happen to have it. Our lines of men's suits and overcoats is strictly up-to-date in every particular. We also make clothes for those who desire tailor-made goods. We have a first-class tailor in attendance. Tell us your clothes troubles.

Women are more particular, perhaps, than are men, in the matter of selecting wearables, but that does not prevent us from pleasing them in every particular. We can dress a lady from head to foot in the best and most stylish manner. Our Millinery Department comprises the newest in headwear. Our dress goods, ready-made skirts and waists, ladies' coats, shoes, and all the articles that a well dressed woman requires, are the best quality and latest style. The only difference between the service we give and that had in the large city stores is that OUR PRICES ARE MUCH LOWER.

We invite you to come in and see the line of wearables we are now offering to the trade, and consult us on your clothes needs.

The railroads seem willing to admit that they are skinning the people of Texas, but insist that it is a good thing for the public to be skinned. Perhaps that is true, but would appear to be in the same category with the case of toothache that kept the man awake so he wouldn't miss his train.

Work is a fine thing to keep the meal bar'l from getting empty.

The recent killing of Senator Carmack teaches two things: First, that mixing prohibition and politics creates the deadliest poison that can assail the human mind; second, that when a man puts a pistol in his pocket he is preparing to become a murderer.

A regenerated Turkey is going to take back all her old possessions including Herzegovina and Bosnia, so the Austrians would better come in out of the wet and give them up in time.

MISTAKE AS TO OWNERSHIP

Belated Discovery That Caused Lady to Understand Embarrassment of the Fat Man.

A woman slipped a dime into her glove on her left hand. She would be at the subway in a moment and the dime so placed would facilitate matters. As she passed the foot of the bridge extension by the city hall the ring of a coin as it struck the pavement reached her ears. She saw a dime rolling at her feet.

A fat man, subway bound, also heard and saw it. Both stopped to pick it up. She was first. His hand only fanned the dust from the sidewalk.

"I beg your pardon," he said as he straightened up rather red in the face.

"Not at all," she said. "I thank you for your courtesy." Then she hurried down the stairs.

Seated in an express train, her gloved hand involuntarily went up to her hair. A dime dropped in her lap. Then she understood.

Outside the fat man slowly closed his mouth. Then he hit Broadway in a northerly direction.—N. Y. Sun.

HER METHOD OF REASONING

Little One Used Sound Logic in Ascertaining Just How Old Mamma Was.

Little Frieda is a bright miss who comes to her conclusions on lines of what to her small mind seem strict and logical reasoning. So one shopping day, with more speculation in her eye than her mother noticed, she inquired, "What kind of a waist did you ask that lady for, mamma?"

"I asked her for a 38 waist," answered the mother.

When they got home, Frieda, with the air of a discoverer, pranced gaily up to her grandmother. "I've found out how old mamma is," she announced; "she's 38."

"How did you find it out?" queried the grandmother.

"Because she bought a 38 waist. She buys me ten-year-old dresses, so if she buys 38 waists for herself, she must be 38 years old," concluded Miss Frieda triumphantly.

HER BLUSHES HIDDEN.

Alfred G. Vanderbilt, at the Long Branch horse show, said of the sheath skirt:

"You know those thick double veils, similar to a Turkish woman's, that they have been wearing in Newport this summer? Well, they say in Newport that the other day an extremely pretty girl appeared in a very daring sheath skirt.

"Her father took her to task about it.

"Don't you think," he said, 'that the skirt you wore this afternoon is most immodest?'

"But, papa," said she, 'I wear one of those thick double veils with it.'"

ONLY AN ORNAMENT.

Handsome Percy Esterbrook had lost his job again—and winter coming on.

But the tall, graceful youth took the matter philosophically.

"You must remember"—thus over a gilt-topped cigarette he adjured his mother and sisters—"you must remember how seldom it is that the flower of the family provides the daily bread."

And in silent acquiescence the women took their lunch boxes in the shape of cameras and departed for the mill.

SOMEWHAT ANNOYED.

"What sort of a time did you have while you were abroad?"

"Not very satisfactory," answered Mr. Cumrox. "I saw a great many historical curiosities, but I kind of resented having the waiters and cab drivers put on airs over me because they could speak French, the same as mother and the girls."

SCIENCE AS A HOBBY.

Vary the routine of daily labor by cultivating a scientific hobby is the advice of Prof. S. P. Thompson, who reminds us that much of the world's scientific work has been done by amateurs. For instance, William Herschell, the astronomer, was a music teacher; William Gilbert, author of De Magnete, was a medical man; Dr. W. H. Dallinger, authority on the microscope, was a clergyman, and William Sturgeon, inventor of the electromagnet, was a shoemaker.

EASY VICTIM.

"You've got whiskers to burn," was the suggestive remark of the barber, as he inspected the long, straggling beard of the man in the chair.

"All right," said the customer, with a sigh of resignation. "You can go ahead and singe 'em."

For he didn't know but the barber's next suggestion might be that he make burnsides of them.

COMPENSATION.

TIMELY ENTERPRISE.

"The political situation is developing a considerable amount of acrimony," remarked the observer.

"Yes," answered the candidate. "It's a good thing we had all those photographs taken early in the campaign when we were still able to look pleasant."

MUCH DEPENDS ON THE POINT OF VIEW.

We shall preface this article with a reproduction of an editorial that appeared in the columns of The Oakland News, of November 22, 1895, a paper upon which this writer was at that time doing editorial service. The article referred to was in reference to some of the didos of the Boston Anti-Lynching Society last, after a sigger baute had been burned at the stake in Texas. The opinion then expressed, and which is unchanged, and unchangeable, follows:

"The Boston Anti-Lynching Convention, in regard to the recent sigger burning in Texas, reminds us very forcibly of the tail trying to wag the dog. If those gentle puritans want to send brutes, black or white, to a school of correction, and feed them on sugar plums, as a means of punishing rapists, they can import a few tough niggers from the south, take them to their bosoms and furnish their wives and daughters for victims, and they will soon find the kind of a taste the experiment will put in their mouths." Last August the most disgraceful, and disorderly race riot that has occurred lately, took place in Springfield, Illinois. Last week a jury, after four hours deliberation, possibly for appearance sake, returned a verdict of "not guilty" in the case of one Abe Rayner, who was the alleged leader of the mob. If a like occurrence had taken place in Boston it is highly probable that the same trial would have resulted in the same manner. Thus, when the red handed, blatant, brutish facts confront a community, be it in Maine or Texas, the people who possess the human instincts of self-preservation take the law into their own hands and administer it in the manner that seems to them best.

This publication, like all other good citizens, deprecates the necessity for lynchings. Such violations of the law of the land cannot fail to have a most unhappy effect upon the community in which they occur. We have no desire to be classed among those who uphold mob violence, but would direct attention to the fact that when a revolting crime is committed there are no people who are so cool and self-possessed that they will not fly to arms to wreak summary vengeance upon the wretch that is guilty of its commission. The worst feature of these things is not in the fact that the crime is committed, however horrible it may be, nor yet in the fact that the perpetrator loses his life for the offence. One human life lost is as an atom, compared to the hurtful effect it has in other ways.

The chiefest harm that results from these heinous crimes is in the cruel, malicious and unwarranted northern press. The press of the South does not engage in these indecent comments except to protect the South and Southern people, as far as possible, against the unjust and inexcusable attack of northern publications that, aside from their irrespressible hatred for the people who love to hear the band play "Dixie," are otherwise reputable journals. It has been a long time since any emergency has been able to cause this writer to notice the subject, but a recent paragraph in Collier's Weekly, containing the most flagrant and indecent insult to Southern women, and consequently to every man who has a drop of southern blood in his veins, has served to rouse the devil of resentment in our blood, that we have tried for more than twenty years to put to sleep. The matter referred to is taken from a race problem article that appeared in Collier's lately. In discussing the matter of southern women identifying the black brutes who assault them, that disgrace to the American press has this to say:

"It is well known that many 'identifications' are sheer hysteria, often for crimes that were never committed, and many other charges and identifications are founded on SOMETHING WORSE than hysterical invention; they are the easiest escape from scandal. Now these are not the things to say, no doubt. They altogether lack chivalry and the aristocratic virtues. But perhaps it is time to put justice and truth above 'honor' whatever that may be."

The civil war has been a matter of history nearly forty-three years. Even the cruelest feature of the strife, the reconstruction days, have been forgotten by all right minded men and women, as far as such forgetfulness is possible, and it remains only for the people of the country to throttle all such standard bearers of the devil as Collier's Weekly and a few other like publications. Why such indecent not should be permitted to creep into the columns of any publication managed by men who have sufficient human about them to walk on their hind legs and speak and write English, is beyond comprehension.

"Time to put justice and truth above 'honor' whatever that may be." Above the "honor" of a Southern Woman! Can it be that God permits the author of that to live. "Honor," whatever that may be. A thing claiming to be human wrote and printed such sacrilegious rot as that. Possibly because some victim of one of these fiends of hell was a poor laboring woman, or perchance the daughter of some poor farmer, whose only crime was poverty, and whose only wealth was her virtue.

There is no political campaign imminent at this time. Such disgraceful expression, such violation of all the rules of journalistic decency, as is contained in the above quoted paragraph, cannot be charged to "political heat," as are many other disgraceful things that are done. This publication cannot now be charged with writing and printing this article for political effect at this time. Every man who lays claim to southern blood, regardless of what his political beliefs and affiliations, should smart under the sting of such an open and flagrant insult. Every man in the United States, regardless of the section in which he lives, who possesses any of the instincts of a gentleman, should blush with shame to know that there still lives a man in the nation who harbors such poison of hate in his heart, and who, having the power possessed by a great and widely read publication, prostitutes that power to hurling such slander and insult at the women of the South.

The boasted regulation of the postoffice department, excluding certain matter from the mails, is a farce and a pitiful pretext, so long as publications originating such matter as above quoted are permitted in the mails. If southern men and women continue to buy and read Collier's Weekly after knowing that it published such matter, they are disloyal to themselves and to the Southland.

ERA OF ORGANIZATION.

"Not exactly," said the cautious citizen. "It seems to me that they both have their troubles. The workingman has to keep his eye on the walking delegate, and the business man has to be on the lookout for the captain of industry."

TEXAS FEDERATION OF WOMEN'S CLUBS.

BODY ADJOURNED AT SAN ANGELO ON 21ST INSTANT AFTER PROFITABLE CONVENTION.

The Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, after a very successful and highly profitable convention at the city of San Angelo, adjourned on Saturday, November 21st.

Among many important things performed by the convention, the passage of a resolution memorializing the Texas Legislature in behalf of a State Sanitarium for the care and treatment of tuberculosis. The resolution follows:

THE SANITARIUM RESOLUTION.

Following is the text of the resolution for the establishment of a State tuberculosis sanitarium, offered by Mrs. J. S. Peters of San Antonio, and adopted by the Federation:

To the Senators and Representatives of the State of Texas, in thirty-first biennial assembly at Austin:

We, the delegated representatives of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, in convention assembled at San Angelo, Texas, this 18th day of November, 1908, do hereby memorialize and pray the Texas Legislature to take such action as will result in the establishment of a State tuberculosis sanitarium.

We desire to call your attention to the fact that such a bill passed the Lower House of the Thirtieth Legislature, and that, while a lack of funds in the State Treasury was urged as a reason for the failure of its final passage at that time, no such reason exists at present. We would remind you that during the wide discussion given the matter at the time the bill was introduced, and upon its final passage in the House of Representatives, no word of unfavorable comment was ever uttered by the press or the people of the State.

This is a humanitarian work. Aye, so great is the need of this institution that it had ceased, long ago, to be a work of charity, and has become a battle for the preservation of the health and the very life of our people.

Therefore, we earnestly pray you that you give speedy attention to this matter; that you use your authority for the performance of this noble public work of humanitarianism, and in so doing add another star to that bright galaxy of institutions the State now has for the relief of suffering, for the assuaging of sorrow and for lightening the burden of affliction borne by humanity.

Whereas, medical science has declared tuberculosis the leading sanitary problem of today and the Federal census returns prove that consumption causes more deaths than all the common contagious diseases together; and

Whereas, Texas, especially South-west Texas, because of climatic conditions, year after year attracts a larger number of consumptives, who through improper restrictions and inadequate means for their care become a menace to the life of her own citizens; and,

Whereas, the most urgent need for the establishment of proper sanitarium for favorable locations, under strict State supervision exists; therefore,

Be it resolved, That the president of the fifth district of the State Federation of Women's Clubs be empowered to appoint a committee for the special purpose of promulgating an educational movement on the tuberculosis problem which shall enlist the support of all women's organizations; and,

Be it resolved, That the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs lend every effort to any legislative measure proposed for the relief of the deserving tuberculosis sufferers as well as for the protection of our people; and,

Be it further resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to every club holding a membership in the federation.

STORY OF A THREE-STRINGED FIDDLE.

What the Neighbor Said When We Went to Hear Him Play

There are not many of us, who have reached middle life that have not some time or other gone to a neighbor's house to hear the old man, or one of the boys, play on the fiddle. Few of us are there who have not been disappointed because the fiddle had only three strings, the "E" string being gone. The low, monotonous droning of the "Three-string fiddle was rather depressing. The missing treble, the string that should have furnished the spice of it all, the real music, was sadly missed. As you trudged home at late bed time, wearily dragging yourself along after paw, who was carrying the baby, and maw, who was leading little sister, didn't you feel pretty sore against all kinds of three-stringed propositions?

There is a lot of the "Three-stringed" variety of business doing in the world, and there are a lot of people who don't seem to know the difference. A fiddle without a full complement of strings don't make much music; likewise a man who has something the matter with his eyes can't cut as much ice in the world of business, science or letters that he would like. No offe, be a man in the marts of trade, or a child in the first form at school, can do his duty well unless his eyesight is good. A fiddler can't help his strings breaking, but he can get new strings; you can't help your eyes getting weak and troubling you, but you can have the trouble remedied by properly fitted glasses.

If you live in town you are doing your self an injustice if your eyes are weak, by not coming in and having them examined and fitted with proper glasses. If you live in the country, come in on Trade's Day, or any other day and have your eyes examined. Remember that there is little use for pills and head ache powders when there is no eye strain. If glasses will not relieve your eyes I will tell you so frankly; if glasses will benefit them I can do you good. I offer the service of a graduate optician, and the guarantee of a man who is permanently in business in Kerrville. I also carry a very complete line of Jewelry, Cut Glass, Silverware, Novelty Goods, Decorated China, and Musical Instruments. Fine watch and jewelry repairing promptly done.

"Do you expect to make people believe all you say in your speeches?"

MRS. C. C. BUTT

MUST HAVE MADE IT STRONG

Flattering Recommendation That Caused Irishman to Think Well of Himself.

An Irish gentleman of a very obliging-disposition, who thinks that personal favors do not cost much, while they make friends, was applied to some time ago by a laborer for a certificate of character. The gentleman, taking the man into his study, wrote out a very flattering recommendation, which he handed to the applicant for perusal. The latter took it, spelled it through, scratched his head, and remained silent.

"Well," said the gentleman, "don't you consider it favorable enough?"

"Oh, no, sorr, not at all; shure it couldn't be better, but—but—"

"But what?" angrily inquired the gentleman.

"Begorra, sorr," said the man, "I was just thinking the yer honor might give me something to do yerself on the strength of this recommendation."

STRENUOUS EMPRESS.

The empress dowager of China is a woman of spirit. One of her chief recreations is wrestling with the women of the court. In her palace is a vast apartment set aside for the practice, and each afternoon she has a turn or two with her attendants. Some time ago it was suggested to the empress that fencing would be a variation. She agreed to the proposal, and a European drill sergeant was engaged. But the first lesson settled the empress' views. Fencing was too tame. After the demonstration she went up to the instructor, took his foil from him, flung it to the other end of the room, and seized the sergeant. After a severe struggle she made him touch the ground with both shoulders.

WOOL AND MOHAIR.

Fall Clip of Mohair, Amounting to 400,000 and the Light Fall Clip of Wool, Which is Little More Than Half a Million Pounds, Is Sold.

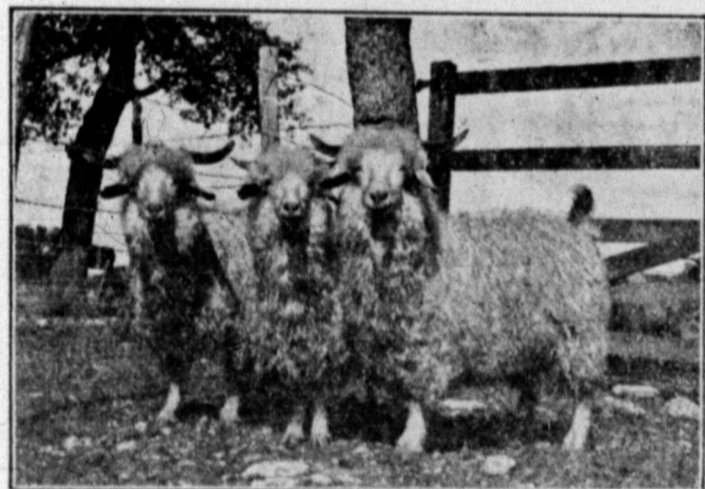

Product Brought Good Prices.

Outlook For a Very Heavy Spring Clip, and Better Prices, is Most Flattering.

Capt. Chas. Schreiner sold the fall clip of Kerrville mohair last week. The sale was made in three lots, to Willett & Co., Goodhue Studley & Emery and E. Lissberger and shipment is now going forward. The price brought was better than for some time, and on the whole was very satisfactory. There is little mohair of a finer quality grown in the United States than that of this section. The fall clip of mohair is, perhaps a little short of a full crop. Less than five years ago the annual shipments of mohair from this place did not exceed 100,000 pounds; there is now every indication that the shipments by the buyers. As stated in these columns recently, the fall clip of wool this year is very light, amounting to very little more than half a million pounds. The fact that the clip is so light, as heretofore stated, is largely due to the inability of ranchman to secure help at shearing time. The spring clip of 1909 will, therefore be a record breaker, and the promise of a good price is most gratifying to ranchmen.

In discussing the situation, Capt. Schreiner, who is the pioneer wool commission merchant of this section of the state, and owner of many thousands of sheep himself, within the next two years will reach a million pounds annually. The increase in the amount of the product has been wonderful, and the improvement in the quality has been almost as great. Kerr county ranchmen, and those of the mountain section generally, own some as fine pure-blooded Angoras as are in the world, and a constant effort is being made to improve the entire flocks of the country.

GROUP OF KERR COUNTY ANGORAS

The fall clip of Kerrville wools have also been sold. Buyers representing seven large eastern wool factors were among the bidders on the product. The price was much better than for some time, and a great increase is confidently expected by growers, and said: "Sheep are reported to be in excellent condition. There is no disease among them, and every thing at this time points to good times for Texas sheepmen. The wools and mohair just sold brought a price that was, on the whole, satisfactory. The fact that the fall clip is so light, together with the excellent condition of the sheep throughout this section, leads me to believe that the next spring clip will far exceed any that has ever been shipped from this point.

"EQUINOCTIAL STORM."

A search of the weather records will reveal the fact that the day which marks the separation of the seasons and on which the sun "souths" exactly at noon is more likely than not to be clear and beautiful, but with the latitude that the amateur weather prophets of the past always allowed themselves for safety's sake, any storm occurring within several days before or after the time of equal day and night has been held to be either an early or a belated coming of the inevitable "line" storm. A very little thought on the area of the habited portions of the earth and the known causes of storms should convince those who are willing to be convinced that the "equinoctial" is a superstition and a myth.

How to Cure a Cold.

Be as careful as you can you will occasionally take cold and when you do, get a medicine of known reliability, one that has an established reputation and that is certain to effect a quick cure. Such a medicine is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It has gained a world wide reputation by its remarkable cures of this most common ailment, and can always be depended upon. Its action on nature's plan, relieves the lungs, aids expectoration, opens the secretions and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. During the many years in which it has been in general use we have yet to learn of a single case of cold or attack of the grip having resulted in pneumonia when this remedy was used, which shows conclusively that it is a certain preventive of that dangerous disease. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy contains no opium or other narcotic and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. For sale by all Druggists.

NOT GUSH,

But real facts, as what people want in an advertisement. So, here is just a plain, straight-forward statement in regard to the line of Christmas presents, that we are now showing.

We have easily the largest stock of Holiday Goods shown by any one store in Southwest Texas, outside the city of San Antonio, and a close second to any in the city.

There can be no greater variety, or better quality of goods of this kind found anywhere. Our stock can only be excelled in quantity.

Speaking of quantity, we ask that the trade come in and buy early. If you see an article that you wish to give some one, buy it now and we will put it away for you. The stock is very complete, but as soon as the big rush begins popular lines are likely to be broken.

If We Know

In time we can re-order, but the distance from the jobbing houses and the crowded condition of the mails and express at this season of the year makes it doubtful if the present will reach you in time for Santa Claus, unless ordered at least a week before Christmas.

It is impossible for us to specialize on every line of this mammoth stock, but we invite your attention, especially to our line of Cut Glass and Decorated China. For those who wish to give valuable, and at the same time useful presents, there is nothing better. We also have Silverware, Jewelry, and like articles.

To sum up we have by far the biggest and best stock of Christmas goods we have ever had and we are ready right now to show you through.

HOT-WEATHER CLOTHING.

According to a Spanish physician, white clothing is unsuitable for use under a blazing tropical sun. He declares that people should wear red-colored clothing to keep cool. The disturbance of the nerves of the spinal column by excessive actinic rays reacts upon the stomach, he says, upsetting digestion as well as causing sunstroke. The remedy is a non-actinic covering for the skin, and a red lining for wearing apparel and helmet gives instant relief to the troubles from a torrid sun and enables a workman to stand exposure with comfort.

Remember to call on Dr. Galbraith, the dentist, and have your teeth examined and attended to. Office opposite St. Charles Hotel.

TURKEYS DRIVEN OVERLAND.

Llano, Texas, November 21.—A bunch of turkeys, numbering over 1300 head, was driven into Llano yesterday and shipped by rail from this place to Lampasas for market. It was the largest herd of turkeys ever shipped from here, and they were driven overland to the railroad and handled in the same manner as a herd of cattle. It was a novel and unusual sight and was witnessed by a great many people, who had never seen them handled in this manner.—S. Express.

Driving turkeys overland is a custom that was largely practiced in the early times, before the matter of railroad transportation was satisfactorily arranged. In the early 50s when St. Louis was the great trade center for the middle west, thousands of the birds were driven to that market, to be shipped by river boats to New Orleans.

Johny Heiman and Henry Storey made a trip to San Antonio last Sunday returning Tuesday.

JEWELRY

We are showing a line of jewelry that will compare well with that shown in the leading jewelry stores of large cities. The only difference is that the price is much lower on the same quality. The variety is great and the display very pleasing.

IT'S TO YOUR BENEFIT

To consult Dr. Werblum about your eyes. He makes regular visits and his glasses give satisfaction in every case. He also takes pains in fitting frames properly as this is almost as essential as the proper fitting of lenses. He carries the latest improved seamless bifocal lenses. Also the latest patents in nose glasses that fit every nose and wear perfectly easy. Will be in Kerrville, at Drs. Palmer & Fordtaan's office, December 4 and 5.

"I saw it first" was considered a good title to almost anything a fellow happened to "see," in the middle ages, but it don't go now. If you have something you have to look after it to keep it from getting away. There is no man in this world who can hold his trade because he "saw it first." The "live ones," the fellows who hold what they have got, and get some more, are the ones who advertise. Read the "ads" in this paper and then go to see the people who advertise. They all have red corpuscles in their blood.
