Modern Woodmen of America Entertain at Harper

ALL ENJOY GREAT FEAST

Kerrville Business Men Royally Entertained, and Report Harper Country in Fine Shape

The local camp, Modern Woodmen of America, gave a barbecue at Harper last Saturday that was an epoch maker in the history of public entertainments in that section of the country. Harper, the Harper country and the Harper people would be prize winners anywhere, and at any time, but when it comes to big hearted hospitality and free handed entertainment, they hold the record.

The only manner in which last Saturday's barbecue was an exception to the rule, was in that it out-rivalled and excelled all former attempts at public gatherings for pleasure. The attendance was large, and the dinner a veritable feast that showed very plainly that the people believe in good living, and are masters at the art of entertaining.

Among those who went from Kerrville to the barbecue were President W. G. Carpenter, and Secretary A. F. Thigpen, of the Kerrville Business Men's Club. These gentlemen are enthusiastic over the trip. Speaking of the visit, President Carpenter said:

"I have never in my life more fully enjoyed a trip than I did that to Harper. We were royally entertained at every turn, and the people extended to us a welcome that reminded us, that in spite of the march of progress there are still Texans in Texas, and that no power can efface the glad hand and real western hospitality of our country."

Dr. Thigpen spoke in highly complimentary terms of the kind hearted people of Harper, and became greatly enthused when he discussed the outlook in that section. Said he:

"I was most agreeably surprised at conditions in that section, in abundant evidences of progress, and the flattering prospects for prosperity. Crops are as fine as I ever saw and the people wear every appearance of prosperity. There is an air of progress about the town of Harper, and her wide-awake people are determined to place their town permanently on the map and they are the kind of people who will succeed in doing that very thing."

Sold 250 Yearlings.

J. M. Lowry sold to Otto Doebler 250 yearlings, at $15.00. Mr. Doebler drove the cattle to his ranch 15 miles west of Rock Springs.

All Cars Looked Alike to Him.

J. B. Tolle accidentally came to Kerrville Wednesday. Jake is a painter, and ordinarily can tell which anything is, but Wednesday the heat affected his eyes, and mistaking a "Sap" railroad coach for an uptown car, he boarded it and when he noticed things looked different, and he was in Kerrville, Jake said he didn't care, this was the best part of Texas anyway.

Cypress Camp 58, W.O.W., Unveiling the Monument of Their Late Sovereign Everett L. Anderson

MONUMENT UNVEILED

Cypress Camp No. 58, Woodmen of the World, Conduct Impressive Ceremony at Morris Ranch and Dedicate Shaft to Memory of

SOVEREIGN EVERETT LEE ANDERSON

Large Attendance From Kerrville, Harper and Local Points

Cypress Camp No. 58, Woodmen of the World, of Kerrville, went to Morris Ranch in a body last Sunday to unveil the monument erected to the memory of Sovereign E. L. Anderson, who was a member of the Kerrville Camp.

In addition to the large contingent that went from Kerrville, members of Harper and Fredericksburg camps, and also practically the full membership of the Morris Ranch Camp were in attendance. Many ladies, families of Woodmen and friends of the bereaved family were present.

The impressive unveiling ceremony of the order, was conducted by Consul Commander A. T. Adkins, of Cypress Camp No. 58, assisted by the other officers of the Camp.

Messrs. G. H. Coleman, E. C. Fiske and Dr. J. B. Love sang, "Jesus, Pilot Leads," and "Somewhere the Sun is Shining." The grave was covered with beautiful floral tributes and was a bank of roses and other flowers. The service was closed by prayer by Rev. J. E. Ellis.

No more beautifully impressive ceremony of the kind has been performed by the order in the history of Woodcraft in this section.

Change Dates of Reunion.

Owing to the fact that the election on the proposed constitutional amendments will be held on the first Tuesday in August, the dates for holding the annual reunion of the Mountain Brigade of Confederate Veterans at Fredericksburg have been changed and the reunion will be held on the last Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of July, being the 28th, 29th and 30th of the month.

Great preparations are being made to entertain the large crowd that is expected to attend. Speakers of national and state reputation have been secured and it will be the effort of the committee to make this one of the greatest reunions ever known in the history of the organization. A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend and every effort will be made to insure one and all a pleasant time.

PRESBYTERIAN ENCAMPMENT

Arrangements Are Going Forward at Westminster Assembly Grounds For

VERY LARGE ATTENDANCE

And Indications Now are That When the Season Opens, July 22, There Will be a Well Populated City of Tents on the Grounds

The 1909 Presbyterian Encampment, at Kerrville, promises to be a success. The enterprise has been widely advertised and the campaign of publicity is now being closed by mailing out a very handsome booklet covering the entire field and containing the program in full. Among the leading numbers on the program are the Home Mission Conference, Foreign Missionary Conference, Sunday School Conference. In addition to these conferences there will be the usual Bible study and lectures by many of the most eminent divines of the southwest.

In addition to these excellent features of the program the encampment will offer to visitors out door camp life, without the drudgery incident thereto, spacious and well conducted dining hall will serve meals. Visitors can live in camp, go fishing and swimming in the river, climb mountains, make kodak pictures of the scenery and realize all the joys of out door life in the "Hill Country."

The Encampment will open July 22 and close August 11. Rev. Hugh W. Hoon, business manager, is now at the grounds conducting the normal encampment. All letters addressed to him at Kerrville will receive prompt attention.

Tarpley Country Looking Good.

J. F. Bandy, a merchant of Tarpley, was in Kerrville Thursday. Mr. Bandy in speaking of conditions in the Tarpley country, said:

"Our country, is looking fine. The corn is a little late, but never looked better. We had a three hours' rain last Sunday and there is now a fine season in the ground. If we can have another rain in ten days we will make a record crop."

Thompson-Ragland.

Mr. James M. Thompson and Miss Frances Scott Ragland were quietly married at the Baptist parsonage Wednesday evening at 3 o'clock, Rev. R. A. Cochran officiating. Besides the contracting parties, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Fawcett were the only persons present.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Ragland, whose ranch home is thirty miles west of Kerrville. She is a most estimable young lady, and Mr. Thompson is to be congratulated upon securing such a life partner. Mr. Thompson is a prosperous ranchman of the same community and stands high in the esteem of the people of Kerr county. A wide circle of friends and acquaintances, join in wishing these popular young people a long and happy life.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson left Thursday for their home.

Specially Favored.

The communities of Harper and Morris Ranch have been specially favored with good rains. Last Saturday night the rain which was light in many places, amounted to good growing rains throughout those localities. As a result, the crop outlook there is most flattering.

Wanted.

A girl to do house work for small family. Address Box 43, Kerrville, Texas.

STORY OF THE HUMBLE CLAM

Small and Comparatively Unimportant, Nevertheless He Has His Good Points.

Everybody has heard of the clam, for he has of late years achieved celebrity by lending the use of his name for broth, a form of warm water used in restaurants and soda fountains.

Those who have studied the clam, however, know that he is in reality a remarkable individual.

The clam begins by depositing himself in a sand bank. He takes out no fire insurance, and may be seen occasionally squirting out water, as a precaution against any sparks that might fall inadvertently.

The clam in summer wears a sheath gown open at the sides, but so modest is he (or she) that it is immediately closed up at the approach of another person.

Clams have decollete necks, which they are very fond of displaying in broad daylight. This, of course, makes them very sunburned.

It would be much better if, during the sunny part of the day, the clam would wear a veil.

Clams live usually in flats, and always go down through the roof.

In their native element they are very much at home, but when seen in company with human beings they are usually in the soup or frittering away their lives.—Judge.

Dog's Well-Earned Monument.

Near the hospice of St. Bernard, Switzerland, is a monument to Barry, one of the dogs, which always interests tourists. This animal died some years ago, and a writer in the Wide World Magazine tells his story: "During the ten years he was at the hospice he saved the lives of 40 persons who had lost their way in the snow. On one occasion he found a child, ten years old, lying in the snow under the influence of the fatal slumber which precedes death. The dog warmed the child with its breath, and then roused it from sleep by licking it. This much accomplished, Barry, by lying down on its side, gave the child an obvious invitation to get upon its back and ride. The child did so, and was thus carried to the monastery. Barry was killed by some unknown person, probably in mistake." The inscription on the monument is: "Barry, the heroic. Saved the lives of 40 persons, and was killed by the forty-first."

New Clocks for Old.

Josh—Jerusha, here be a letter from Miss Van Astor sayin' she will give y $100 for that old mahogany clock o' yer gran'dad's!

Jerusha—Dew tell, Josh! Now I kin git that marbled clock at the Corners with the gilt figgers; and Josh, while I think on it, I want you to go right down to the barn and git that drab paint left from paintin' the cowshed last spring. We'll give the old clock a couple o' coats. I bet that'll please Miss Van Astor a heap, and we really ought to after her bein' willin' to give such a big price.

Josh—I'll git the paint, Jerusha. You always wuz great on style, and Miss Van Astor kin tell her friends it's a brand new clock!—Puck.

Translated Into English.

Every one has heard the story of the Englishman who was told, when asking what was done with all the superfluous fruit grown in California—"We eat what we can, and what we can't we can."

The joke was told to another Englishman, who received it with rather a sticky smile, and upon his return home gave his own version of it.

"Queer people, those Americans," he said. "Peculiar sense of humor. They told me as one of their choice jokes that when asked what they did with their fruit that was left over, they answered that 'They ate what they could and what they couldn't they could.'"

This remedy has been in use for many years and is thoroughly reliable. Price 25 cents. For sale by all druggists.

NATURAL ENEMY OF MOSQUITO

Fish Known as "Millions" Relied On to Exterminate the Pest That Spreads Malaria.

That the destruction of mosquitoes and the elimination of malaria should be brought about by the greedy appetite of any tribe of the piscatorial species, seems like a far-off and improbable dream, but such an event is the hope and prophecy of men who have been experimenting with a minute fresh water fish from Barbadoes, known as "millions" (Girardinus pectioloides), a large number of which have recently been presented to the zoological gardens in London.

They are of special interest because of their supposed action in preventing malaria. This disease is far less prevalent in Barbadoes than in other West Indian islands, and it is claimed by many that this is due to the presence of "millions" in the fresh water pools.

The little fish is very voracious and destroys large numbers of the larvae of mosquitoes that spread malaria.

It is proposed to make experiments in the line of introducing this fish into tropical countries where malaria is prevalent.

There are two things in life which are full of magic and mystery—the circus and the sea.

Of Interest to Farmers and Mechanics.

Farmers and mechanics frequently meet with slight accidents and injuries which cause them much annoyance and loss of time. A cut or bruise may be cured in about one-third the time usually required by applying Chamberlain's Liniment as soon as the injury is received. This Liniment is also valuable for sprains, soreness of the muscles and rheumatic pains. There is no danger of blood poisoning resulting from an injury when Chamberlain's Liniment is applied before the parts become inflamed and swollen. For sale by all druggists.

Sicilian Superstitions.

Over almost every door you will find a stuffed glove with two fingers extended to keep away the evil eye. When a child is born the mother hangs a string about its neck to which she ties a number of little articles; a twisted horn of coral to keep away the jettatura, of which the Sicilian has a mortal dread; a tiny cockshell, the old Crusader's emblem, for safe-keeping and goodness; a little key with which to enter Paradise and a bag of salt for wisdom. When a baby is baptized mothers implore that it be given much salt, and often the tiny thing is all but strangled.

The women, too, do everything to keep from having a child born in March.

Fritz Real returned last Saturday from Georgetown, where he had been attending the Southwestern University. He will spend the vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Real, at their home on Turtle creek.

Miss Elsie Johnson is visiting relatives at Junction.

Miss Mary Colquitt, daughter of Railroad Commissioner Colquitt, of Austin, is visiting at the home of her cousin, Mr. J. H. Colquitt, in Kerrville. Standing collars in cotton have been used for centuries, but eight cents gross for pork will put frills on the whole herd. The time is now here when hundreds of American families will look upon meat as a luxury. Breakfast bacon at thirty cents a pound is beyond the reach of the average family, and hog products of all kinds are climbing out of reach with it. There is no reason why cotton seed oil should go up at the same time, other than that there is a greater demand for it, because people cannot afford to use hog's lard. It is highly probable that the seed of the 1909 cotton crop will sell at a decided advance over any price heretofore paid for that product.

THERE is a big effort now being put forth to make this, that or the other thing an issue in the next gubernatorial race. If Texas has the proportion of patriots that we believe she has the people will select a man with some brains and some character and elect him without reference to factional quarrels.

If you have it in for some fellow real bad and don't want to over exert yourself this hot weather, you might borrow Dr. Rankins' opinion of Jake Wolters and use it on the object of your dislike.

THERE has probably never been so much political talk indulged in by the people of Texas on an off year as is now going around. It is strongly probable that some of the booms will be pulled before they are ripe.

ONE hundred people lost their lives in France last week from earthquake shocks.

Where You Don't Know a Thing—But Its Summer.

Beneath the shade, by some purling brook,
Where there is no clang of the city's noise,
I'll sit me down with pipe and book,
And rest, just rest, 'mid rural joys.

Where limpid waters that turned the mill,
Released from labor, all laughing and free,
Gathered from far off silver rill,
Come dancing over the stones to me.

Or, down by the romping river side,
Where tangled bough and climbing vine
Run riot; where the shadows glide,
And in the night great glow worms shine.

It's all the same, it's just out doors,
Where the sky's a tent and the moon a lamp,
And the dewy grass and leaves are floors
To the roomy rooms of the rambler's camp.

I want no gun, nor line and hook,
Just want to ramble and be let alone
Don't want a thing but a pipe and book,
And the joy of studying flower and stone.

Out in the woods for a vacation romp,
Where there's neither gasman nor plumber,
Where there is no pageant, paint, nor pomp,
And you don't know a thing—but it's summer.

THERE is no place where it is not hot in the summer time, but the heat never oppresses when a fine breeze is blowing. The "Hill Country" enjoys fine breeze and cool nights.

PEOPLE get things in this world by hustling. Kerrville wants a boys' school, and some fellow who is willing to hustle can build up a fine school here.

THE Senate is billed for a final vote on the tariff bill today. When it gets a little hotter the solons begin to think of adjournment a recess.

GOVERNOR CAMPBELL and the commercial secretaries should call their scrap until fall. It is too hot to work a typewriter so hard.

ONE "booster," with fifty cents, is worth more to a town than a hog pen full of knockers who have a gold mine each.

THE newspapers correspondents keep we poor country people wondering how they know so much. It is more than a year until the next democratic primary, and yet they are telling us who has a chance and who has not.

Blind Men Hold Convention.

Columbus, O., June 15.—What is said to be the largest and most successful conference in the interests of the blind in the history of the world was begun here today on the occasion of the opening of the biennial convention of the Association of Industrial Workers for the Blind. Tadasu Yoshimoto, special representative of the Emperor of Japan, delivered an address.

A feature of the day was the reading of a letter from Helen Keller in which she urged the blind not to needlessly quibble over items of print, but to devote their time toward solving the ultimate and more important problem of how to prevent blindness.

Leslie Owen, who less than ten years ago was received at the State Institution for the Deaf, a helpless mass of flesh like Miss Keller in infancy, but who has made phenomenal progress in education despite the absence of sight, hearing and speech, addressed the delegates in the sign language.

WE don't know Chas. H. Mills, the alleged prospective candidate for governor of Texas, but judging from two and a half columns of junk he wrote to inform a friend that he "don't know" whether he will be a candidate, it would take a rare bunch of wood pulp to hold his message if he should undertake to tell something he "does know."

Cloudburst at Childress.

Dallas, Texas, June 15.—A cloudburst today did extensive property damage at Childress. The Fort Worth & Denver Railroad shops were flooded to a depth of more than two feet. The main track and switching terminals were badly washed out and nearly half a mile of main line was washed away.

Locomotives are being used at shops to pump the water from the turntables, storerooms, basement and transfer stables. Many houses are standing in lakes of water.

The Cicero Smith Lumber Company was heavily damaged, lumber being washed out of the yards. Lake Keller, Lake Scott and the city waterworks reservoir are flooded. The light and power plant is out of commission.

The total precipitation was four inches, and it fell in two hours. Rain has fallen every day for the last nine days. There are six inches of water in the street. Farm lands are under water.

The estimated damage is near half a million dollars.

Jacob Hirsch Dead.

San Antonio, Texas, June 15.—News was received here today of the death of Jacob Hirsch, deputy collector of customs at Port Lavaca. He died last night at the age of 69 years after a three weeks' illness.

Mr. Hirsch was postmaster at Fredericksburg for four years during the Harrison administration and was well and favorably known there. For the past ten years he has held his present position at Port Lavaca. He is survived by a widow, four sons and two daughters. The sons are Herman of San Antonio, Louis of Skidmore, Henry of Fredericksburg and Max of Sheepshead Bay, N. Y. The daughters are Mrs. Wittenbert and Mrs. Olga of Port Lavaca.

The funeral will be held Thursday at 9:30 o'clock at Fredericksburg.

PRESBYTERIAN MEETING

The Protracted Meeting at the Presbyterian Church, Conducted by Dr. Thomas Stone Clyce is Attracting Large Crowds

SPECIAL SERVICE TOMORROW

Tomorrow Night's Service is Especially For Men, But Women May Attend

Protracted meetings continue the chief attraction of the city. The meeting which commenced at the Kerrville Presbyterian church on Friday night of last week, is progressing favorably and promises great success.

Rev. Thomas Stone Clyce, D.D., president of the Austin College at Sherman, who is assisting the pastor of the church, Rev. John H. Green, in the meeting, is a preacher of great ability and pleasing address. Tomorrow at 11 o'clock Dr. Clyce will take for the subject of his discourse, "Almost a Christian." At night the subject will be, "Christ on Trial." The discussion of the latter subject tomorrow night is designed to appeal to the cold, business reasoning of men. It is not a "men only" service, however, and the women are earnestly urged to attend also.

Madman's Wild Course.

According to advices from Valladolid, Spain, a dangerous lunatic, who was about to be confined to an asylum, succeeded the other day in eluding the vigilance of his friends and rushed into the street. Here he fell upon a policeman, and wresting his sword from him, killed him with it. The lunatic then took possession of the man's revolver, and continued upon his wild career through the city, firing right and left as he ran. A number of police and gendarmes started in pursuit, emptying their rifles and revolvers at the maniac, who was eventually shot down, but not until he had seriously wounded three persons. The noise of the firing caused a panic, and the doors of houses and shops were hastily shut. The excitement did not subside for some hours.

Some New Definitions.

Girls in a fashionable seminary not a hundred miles from town, in examination papers, recently turned out a new batch of delightful definitions. It is evident from their answers that several of them, while they may not be trained thinkers, have more or less logical processes of thought. One defined "red tape" as "the inability of any one holding a political position to do anything necessary without special orders," showing she had read her "Little Dorr;" to advantage, to say nothing of "Bleak House." Another girl, asked "Why does a ship float the right way up?" replied, "Because if it did not the people in it would tumble out." One ingenious girl suggested, "foxtet" as a noun for a young fox, which certainly is more specific than pupples. And a young person, evidently determined not to let herself be humbugged, said "B-Se." meant "Ead science."—Philadelphia Evening Telegraph.

Proceeding to the next platform, I call your attention to the Egyptian mummy, supposed to be that of Rameses the Great."

DRAUGHT THAT SAVED A CITY

Well Does Rothenburg Commemorate the Heroic Act of Its Self-Sacrificing Burgomaster.

It was back in the Thirty Years' war, it was in 1631, that the principal event in the history of the city took place; the principal event, in the judgment of every inhabitant. It is annually commemorated by a play, a pageant, in which all that happened in the course of the great day—the day of the Meister-trunk, the Master Drink—is represented by generals and counselors, soldiers and people, costumed in character, in the streets, in the market place, in the rathhaus. Robert Shackleton says, in Harper's.

For the ferocious Tilly captured Rothenburg, and, enraged by his losses, declared that the town should be destroyed, the leading inhabitants slain, and the rest turned over to the soldiery. But women and children wailed lamentably as he rode to the rathhaus, and clung to his stirrup imploring mercy. And he flung them mercy with contempt. "Let the dogs live." He said: "I will be merciful. None but the burgomaster and all the counselors of the town shall die."

He went into the great room of the rathhaus and called for wine and a frightened girl carried in a huge and brimming goblet—a goblet so huge that he burst into a great laugh. "Am I to drink this?" he said, holding it up. And the grim humor seized him. "If any man of Rothenburg will drink this at a single draught I will spare the city and spare every life!"

There was a great silence, and then a former burgomaster, a certain Nusch—his name is worthy of remembrance—stepped intrepidly forward and took the goblet from Tilly's hand. He drank, and the silence deepened as the foot of the goblet slowly rose in the air; he drank and drank till every drop was drained. Then he fell senseless to the floor.

"Revive him!" said Tilly; and Nusch came slowly back to life.

Tilly was a good loser. "You have won," he said, admiringly, as the man raised himself and looked around.

Whereat Rothenburg's hero could only gasp out with a touch of good old-fashioned humor even in such a presence: "I never—could—save—another town!"

Every Town in County "Dry."

Little Yates has the distinction of being the only county in the state that is absolutely "dry." Every town in the county has voted no license. The village of Penn Yan, the county capital, will use "cold tea" as a regular beverage for the first time in 30 years. Yates is the smallest county in the state, and the tourist can cross it in either direction before he gets very thirsty without exceeding the speed limit.—Utica (N. Y.) Press.

A Glimmer of the Truth.

Asked to write a report of a lecture on "Phases of Human Life—Youth, Manhood and Old Age," a young English girl produced: "In youth we look forward to the wicked things we will do when we grow up—this is the state of innocence. In manhood we do the wicked things of which we thought in our youth—this is the prime of life. In old age we are sorry for the wicked things we did in manhood—this is the time of our dotage."

India Victims of Tigers.

The ferocity of the tiger can be seen from the fact that according to a recent writer he is made responsible for 37 per cent. of the human beings killed by the wild animals of Hindustan. The writer adds that once a tiger has tasted human flesh he is satisfied with nothing else, and that in southern India one of these man-eating tigers has devoured 200 human beings.

Delayed.

Though his complexion was pale green, he managed to totter to the deck in the third day after leaving port. There he met an exasperatingly jovial and healthy looking fellow-passenger.

"Glad to see you," exclaimed the latter to the man with the green face; "how is it that you haven't been on deck before this?"

"Well, you see," replied the other, "each time that I planned to get on deck, something kept coming up, so I had to postpone the trip."

EMPLOYING HANDS AND BRAIN

Edgar Allan Poe's Humorous Idea for Saving of Time in Literary Labor.

Many traditions and stories of Edgar Allan Poe are still current at the University of Virginia, at Charlottesville, where he was a student, says James Bernard Lyon in the Home Magazine.

Poe was very proud of his penmanship. One day, so the story goes, a friend entered the room to find Poe writing busily with both hands.

"What are you doing?" asked the friend.

"Writing with both hands," said Poe.

"Both hands!" exclaimed the friend. "But how on earth can you make any progress in that way?"

"Easy enough. It is a theory of mine that it is a waste of time not to be able to use both hands at the same time. Both hands and brain can be trained, with care and attention, so that each hand may do its full share of work—each hand being employed on a separate task. It is not really an affair of the hands at all, in the last analysis, but an affair of the intellect. I am training my hands and brain now so that I can do twice as much work as the ordinary person in a given period of time. At the present moment I am writing a poem with my right hand; one that I confidently believe will startle the world. And with my left hand I am blocking out a wonderful story; a story which should capture thousands of readers.

"It will only be a short time before I will be able to take my examinations in this manner and dispose of two subjects simultaneously. It will save time and will give hands and brain their full duty."

His Ancient Grievance.

The congressman met the correspondent.

"Say," he exclaimed, "I have a mild grievance against you."

"Get it off your mind," said the facetious scribe.

"It's just this," said the congressman. "When you put what you call a clever story into my mouth don't let it be the vintage of the year before the flood. Gimme something that doesn't date back any farther than the Crusaders, or possibly the sack of Babylon. You see, most of my constituents read the almanac. There's a good fellow."

And he shook hands effusively with the correspondent and passed along.

Necessity, Not Choice.

A young man engaged board in a private family who were extremely devout. Before each meal grace was said. To their dismay the new boarder sat bolt upright while the others reverently bowed their heads. When the second day passed, and the young man evinced no disposition to unbend, the good lady of the house could endure the situation no longer.

"Agnostic?" asked she, sharply.

"No, madam," humbly responded the young man, "bott."—Harper's Magazine.

Baldwin Apple Honored.

A chance seedling that grew up on a farm near Lowell, Mass., about 1740 became the first Baldwin apple tree, but it was not until 1784 that Col. Baldwin became interested in the apple, developed it and gave it his name. The original tree lived till after 1817, and the place where it grew is now marked by a monument. The Baldwin is the only apple thus honored.

Spoiled Her Sleep Word.

A little girl of four years was heard repeatedly murmuring a long word. Her father, thinking to please her, told her the meaning of it. She burst into tears. At last, with her mother's assistance, the father learned the meaning of her grief. "It was my word that I put myself to sleep with, and now you've spoilt it."—M. Loane in "An Englishman's Castle."

Characteristics of Servians.

Servians in their good nature and love of humor are said to remind travelers of the Irish peasantry. They are hospitable to strangers; their patriotism is vehement, almost quixotic, and they take great interest in politics. Many of the domestics in the towns and cities come from abroad, as the Servian girl is too independent for domestic service.

Trouble Makers Ousted.

When a sufferer from stomach trouble takes Dr. King's New Life Pills he's mighty glad to see his Dyspepsia and Indigestion fly, but more—he's tickled over his new, fine appetite, strong nerves, healthy vigor, all because stomach, liver and kidneys now work right. 25c at Rock Drug Store.

BOTH QUICK IN CONTROVERSY

Scotsmen Evidently Had "Searched the Scriptures" and Held Them in Their Memories.

Ian Maclaren used to tell a story of two Scots worthies, douce elders of the kirk, who found themselves alone in the compartment of a railway carriage traveling in Perthshire, and thrown upon each other for company they fastened on a knotty point in theology to beguile the time. The subject of controversy was whether a man is saved by faith or works. The discussion became heated, and the train drew up at the destination of one of the debaters not a moment too soon. Loath to give up the argument, they continued to wrangle until the train began to move out of the station, and the discharged passenger had to run along the platform to eke out the precious moments left for a last work. The subject seemed to hang fire for a perilous moment—the train was accelerating its speed—when back from the figure leaning far out of the carriage window came the cry: "Hebrews 10:38!" ("The just shall live by faith.") Quick as lightning the other flung after the receding anti-nomian: "James 1:24!" ("By works a man is justified, and not by faith only.")

Attitude Toward Death.

The normal attitude of men toward death seems to be one of inattention or evasion. They do not trouble about it; they do not want to trouble about it, and they resent its being called to their notice. On this point the late Frederick Myers used to tell a story which I have always thought very illuminating. In conversation after dinner he was pressing on his host the unwelcome question, what he thought would happen after death. After many evasions and much recalcitrance the reluctant admission was extorted: "Of course, if you press me, I believe that we shall all enter into eternal bliss; but I wish you wouldn't talk about such disagreeable subjects." This, I believe, is typical of the normal mood of most men. They don't want to be worried; and though probably, if the question were pressed, they would object to the idea of extinction, they can hardly be said to desire immortality. Even at the point of death, it would seem, this attitude is often maintained.—Atlantic.

Taunting Him.

It was housecleaning time, and Mr. Stubb was removing the dusty pictures from the walls. The frames slipped, the step-ladder creaked ominously, and the perspiration rolled from Mr. Stubb's brow. In the humor to bite a nail in half he turned and discovered Mrs. Stubb laughing.

"That's it!" he roared, as the step-ladder swayed. "Laugh and show your god teeth."

And still she laughed.

"Do you think there is anything funny in my moving these pictures?" he sputtered, in fierce tones.

"No, indeed, John," said Mrs. Stubb, soothingly, "but you know you look so funny it looks like a moving picture show."

Case of Unselfish Crusaders.

Not a Question of Ideas.
"I think," said Miss Cayenne, "that in the course of time we shall be communicating with Mars."

"What of it?" inquired the professor. "We won't be able to exchange any ideas of importance."

"Perhaps not. But the conversation at teas and receptions should fortify us for a little disappointment like that."

An Error in Philanthropy.
One of the first lessons that philanthropists must learn is that it is not always easy to do good. There is a perversity of human nature; even when inspired by the best intentions, which sometimes seems to operate invincibly in favor of wrong. If the mischief that is done by those who mean nothing but good could be eliminated from the world the sum total of error would be noticeably reduced.

Says Uvalde Country is Blooming.
Col. Ike West, of San Antonio, who owns large ranch interests in Uvalde county spent Thursday in Kerrville a guest of his daughter, Mrs. C. A. Schreiner, Jr. Speaking on the condition of the Uvalde country Col. West said:
"I have never seen that country in finer shape. The pastures look like oat fields, cattle are fat and fine. Abundant rains have fallen, and there is every promise of prosperous times."
Col. West returned to San Antonio yesterday.

Guarding Against Earthquakes.
All great crises have stimulated the creative faculty of mankind, and earthquakes have, of course, earned a full share of attention. The most original notion in the connection was put forth by a genius who quite satisfied himself that if houses were provided with wheels or rollers they would move about backwards and forwards during an earthquake and escape disaster.

Hollanders Heavily Taxed.
All told, a Hollander pays about 12 per cent. of his yearly income for taxes. He is taxed for his business income, for the interest he collects, on his house rent, his furniture, on six fireplaces and all the stoves in the house he rents or owns, on his horses, bicycle and servants. On an income of $2,400 a year he pays $298.

The company also shipped on the same day ten car loads of muttons.

Knew Her Missis.
"Hadn't you better wash the dishes before we go?" said a man, who was taking a hired girl out for a walk; "your missis will be sure to see them and scold you." "No, she'll not," replied the girl; "as soon as she learns I am going out for the evening, she'll spend all the time looking through my trunk."—Puck.

New Hampshire's Name.
New Hampshire was called so with reference to the original patentee, who was governor of Portsmouth in Hampshire, England. It is known as the Granite state, from the fact that its mountains are largely composed of that stone.

Manhattan Indians.
The earliest notice we have of the island which is now adorned by New York City is to be found in Hudson's Journal. Mana-hata is therein mentioned in reference to the hostile people whom he encountered on his return from his exploring of the river and who resided on this island.

Make the Outlook Brighter.

METHODIST REVIVAL

Big Protracted Meeting at Kerrville Methodist Church Closed Sunday Night

SIXTEEN ADDED TO THE CHURCH

Church is Greatly Revived as Result of Meeting

The protracted meeting at the Methodist church, conducted by Rev. J. A. Waltrip, closed Sunday night. Under Mr. Waltrip's preaching the church was greatly revived and placed more firmly on its feet as a working, militant body.

There were eight or nine conversions, and sixteen were added to the church. Mr. Waltrip is an eloquent and forceful preacher and is doing splendid work in his chosen field. In a short time he will open a protracted meeting at Harper, where he will be assisted by the local ministry.

Husbands Take Second Place Now.
In the day when women sat at home and did needlework they may possibly have had time to be interested in their husbands' careers. To-day their own careers monopolize their attention.—London Ladies' Field.

The Only Alternative.
Mother (to her daughter)—What is your father making such a row about in the other room? Either the doctor has forbidden him to smoke or he is now asking him for your hand.—Fliegende Blaetter.

A Consistent Deceiver.
"What are you going to do with all that counterfeit money?" asked Sapphira. "My dear," answered Ananias, "I am going to pay my dues in the distinguished club that bears my name."

Affinity Defined.
A man who has a penchant for phrase-making and whose wife has a vivid imagination got into difficulties the other day. The lady was reading an account of the latest divorce and chanced to run across the "affinity" bromide. "Such a senseless word!" she exclaimed; then, turning to her husband, "What is an affinity, anyhow?" "Affinity? Oh, accommodation train," he defined with conscious aptness. And ever since he's been using all his cleverness in the effort to explain how he knew.

A Financial Deal.
"Why did he remarry his divorced wife?"
"For money."
"Why, where did she get it?"
"Saved her alimony."—Cleveland Leader.

An Apology.
Little Jim and Pat, the gardener, had been great pals, and when Pat went back to the "Old Sod" to end his days, and slow-witted Dutch Jan took his place, Jim was a very unhappy kiddie. After sundry unsuccessful attempts to interest Jan in his small affairs he waxed wroth, and one morning his father heard a tempest in the garden, culminating in "Oh, Jan, you're such a fool!" Father took matters in hand at this point and an instant apology was next in order. Jim rebelled, but finally calmed his ruffled feelings and went to the aggrieved gardener, more in sorrow than in anger, with: "Jan, I—I'm awfully sorry you're a fool!"

Progress.
It generally happens that along about the time one becomes able to recognize true art one loses the knack of being able to take advantage of business opportunities when they present themselves.

Fisherman's Luck.
"In the skillful handling of fine tackle lies a large part of the angler's enjoyment," says a current magazine writer. It's about all many of them get.—Boston Herald.

Make a Note of This.
There may be no psychological significance contained in the fact, but we may lay down the dictum, nevertheless, that few women who are good bridge players trim their own hats.

Tree Has Many Qualities.
While the seeds of the dorowa, an East African leguminous tree, are extensively used for food, the pods and leaves form an excellent cement when mixed with crushed stone.

PAT HAD BROUGHT THEM ALL

Coachman Too Well Remembered His Orders as to Doing Things by Combination.

A gentleman in want of a coachman had an Irishman apply for the situation, when the following conversation took place between them: "You know, Pat, if I engage you I shall expect you to do things by combination. For instance, if I tell you to bring the carriage round at a given time I shall expect the horses with it and driving gloves, etc."

"Yes, sor," said Pat.
He was duly engaged and gave satisfaction. One day his master came to him telling him to look sharp and go for a doctor, as his mistress was ill. Pat was gone for a long time, and on his master grumbling at him for his delay he said: "Sure, they're all here, sor."

"All here?" said the master. "What do you mean?"
"Didn't you tell me to do things by combination?"
"What's that got to do with it?" said the master.

"Well," said Pat, "I've got the doctor, the parson and the undertaker."

Improvements on Old Sayings.
"Never do things by halves," unless you open oysters. Whatever is worth doing at all is worth doing well. Let your motto be "Excelsior!" Single out some specialty for which you have genius, then devote yourself to it thoroughly, and you won't have to look for a job, the job will be looking for you. The most brilliant men are often lamentable failures. Be thorough! Stick like the postage stamp—till you get there. Dogged does it.

Take a Cab.
A friend the other day came in bewailing the ruin done to her pretty shoes, frock, hat, etc., by a heavy shower, through having to wait for an omnibus. "You ought to have taken a cab," I told her. The idea of such extravagance quite appalled her; yet more than the amount spent would have been saved to her wearing apparel. This fallacy of judgment is very common among women, I have observed.

Cure for Pneumonia.
This remedy has been known to cure pneumonia after the patient had been given up to die. Apply sweet oil to the chest, then cover thickly with powdered lobelia, after which cover with several thicknesses of warmed flannel.

Dolls Are Matrimonial Agents.
Travelers through Servian villages often see dolls suspended in the windows of cottages. The dolls have nothing to do with child life but signify that a marriageable daughter or a widow lives in the house.

Town Built of Meerschaum.
The town of Valdeas, in Spain, is almost entirely built of meerschaum. Valdeas has on its outskirts great quarries of a meerschaum too coarse for pipe-making, and a meerschaum-built town is the result—an ivory white town that shines in the Spanish sun.

The Religious Life.
A religious life is not a thing which spends itself like a bright bubble on the river's surface. It is rather like the river itself, which widens continually and is never so broad or deep as where it rolls into the ocean of Eternity.—Deeher.

Cynical.
"Eugenia must be very much in love with his wife to buy her so much jewelry." "Perhaps," answered Miss Cayenne, "although it is sometimes difficult to determine whether expensive gifts are inspired by affection or a bad conscience."

THE EYE ON CHINESE JUNKS.

Cantonese Legend Explains Why Apparently Purposeless Symbol is Placed There.

Few people know why Chinese junks have an eye painted on the port side of the bow. A Cantonese legend explains the origin of that singular custom in a way that is suggestive of Anglo-Saxon humor.

A Chinese mandarin who lived centuries before the Christian era, finding himself in need of a navy, sent for the royal boat builder and ordered him to build a certain number of ships. So the builder drew up plans and presented them to the mandarin. But the plans evidently did not suit his majesty, for he flew into a violent rage and ordered the boat builder from his presence.

"Then how shall I build them, your celestial highness?" he pleaded.

Whereupon the mandarin drew off one of his slippers and threw it at the boat builder, who fled from the room. At the door he turned for a moment, just in time to catch the mandarin winking at his prime minister.

The boat builder picked up the royal slipper and used it as a model, and then painted one eye on its bow to represent the royal master's wink.

His Photographic Plates Spoiled.
A New York photographer recently learned, to his sorrow, that the gas mantle emits a ray. He had stored away a large number of plates in a dark place and inadvertently left a gas mantle near the plates. They remained in the place for a month, and when the photographer took his plates out he found all of them fogged. The mantle contained thorium, a radioactive substance that penetrates a cardboard plate box as easily as it goes through glass. The man didn't know this, but now he knows better than to leave gas mantles near his plates.

Luxuries.
Luxuries are those possessions which are enjoyed chiefly and almost solely because other people do not have them. All other possessions are necessities. If every one were a Standard Oil magnate, it would be an insufferable bore, and it is getting to be almost that anyway. Luxuries do not connote comfort. On the contrary, they connote litter, indigestion, gout and lassitude. Comfort comes only from necessities.—Life.

Would Have to Take Ribs and All.
She went into a Fifth avenue hair dresser's shop to have her head shampooed. She wore her hair in a Psyche knot. The shampooer seemed to be a trifle rough, and finally her tugs at the Psyche knot became so forceful that the woman in the chair cried out in pain. "What are you trying to do; pull my head off?" she exclaimed. "I am trying to get your Psyche knot off," replied the shampooer, "but it won't come. How did you ever get it pinned on so firmly?" The customer almost shrieked: "Come off! Why, it's my own hair."—N. Y. Tribune.

Revision.
"Now," said the distinguished representative, "we have arranged the tariff precisely as it should be and all you have to do is to say 'Amen.'" "No," answered the distinguished senator, "not 'amen,' amend."

Large Stream of Meteors.
The August meteors, according to a leading astronomer, form a stream so broad that the earth, though it travels faster than 18 miles a second, takes seven weeks to cross it.

Trout for British Colonies.
Britishers are the first colonizing race and the most resolute sportsmen in the world, so that it was natural that British colonial waters should have been the first scenes of experiment in artificial propagation of fish. Trout have been established in the streams of Kashmir, the Nilgheries and Ceylon, and of New Zealand.

The Frog as a Husbandman

BY HEINDRICH VON ROOSKERMITT

Following up the theory that it is only the simple, every day, common place things that we know little about, we continue the study of the frog and his habits. If a frog was some rare animal of which but few specimens were in existence, naturalists would long since have developed every atom of information to be had concerning them, but as frogs are common things, the natural histories merely state that the eggs are deposited in marshy places, that they hatch out tad-poles, and that after passing through several stages of a metamorphosis, they develop legs and become full fledged frogs. Here the learned naturalist usually stops.

Leaving the formation of the frog anatomy to the men who prefer the physical formation, as a study, to the habits and employments, for every living creature has employment, we will discuss the frog, not from a psychological, viewpoint—I do not claim that they have souls—but from a sociological standpoint.

In the first place there are many kinds of frogs. Some species, for instance, spend much of their time in the water and are fishermen by preference, subsisting almost entirely upon smaller inhabitants of the water. Another family lives on the land almost all the time, and lives on flies and bugs. Each of these species are divided into numerous families, having slightly varying habits, but all are carnivorous. The family of the GENUS RANA that we are about to discuss is the fungivorous, or vegetarian frog.

Scientists long ago discovered that all frogs, in the early stages of life, subsist upon grasses and vegetable matter. We may, therefore, very justly conclude that all frogs were originally vegetarians, but that certain families became carnivorous, and even cannibalistic, from perverted tastes. This very naturally brings us to the conclusion that the fungivorous, or "Farmer Frog" is the aristocrat of the frog world, especially as he is by far the most intelligent of all the various families of frogs. Prominent among the fungivorous, or agricultural frogs, is the tree frog, which is the most exclusive vegetarian of them all. The most remarkable specimen in all the frog world, however, is the "Farmer" that lives in decayed logs, or marshy places where various kinds of fungi grow easily. These queer little animals actually propagate the different kind of fungi and grow the plants much as a farmer would care for and grow that which he raises on his farm. The preparation of the places, either on the decayed wood or upon the marshy ground, where the fungi is grown, is usually done with the frog's feet, but I have witnessed one instance where the frog possessed the intelligence to imitate human beings.

When I was a youth I assisted one spring in planting a very large crop of sweet potatoes. Every time we would go out to plant potato slips I noticed an old frog would get on an old rail fence that stood near and keep up a continuous croaking while we were at work. Finally, after the plants were all in the ground, I spent a great deal of time hoeing in the potato patch alone. In a corner of the old fence, in a damp, marshy place, grew a large, vine-like bush which covered a place ten feet or more across. One day while passing this bush I heard a slight commotion, and peeping under the branches I saw a sight that was almost unbelievable. There was my friend, the old frog. He had managed in some way to get two lizards yoked together and had hitched them to a stick which he was using as a plow to "list" the land for his crop, as we had done the potato ridges. The novel team did not seem to be accustomed to that kind of work, and his frogship was having a pretty warm time of it; but not worse than many people have experienced in springing innovations in the way of progress. I watched the performance for a while and then went about my business. That night a light rain fell, and the following day as I chanced to pass the bush I took another peep, just by way of satisfying my curiosity as to what was going on in the miniature field in the bare, shady place under the branches. The old frog had finished throwing up his beds, and one little frog was hopping along with an armful of fungi, dropping the minute plants at intervals, while another little frog was coming on behind placing them in the ground, just as we had done the potato plants. I am persuaded that was the first performance of the kind ever known in the frog world, though I have frequently seen like performances in that same locality since then.

Of all the various species of GENUS RANA, the agricultural, or "Farmer Frog" is beyond question the most remarkable.

Pieces Contained in Violin.

A violin contains 69 pieces, made up in the following way: Back, two pieces; belly, two; ribs and blocks, six; sides, five; side linings, 12, bar one; purflings, 24; neck, one; fingerboard, one; nut, one; bridge, one; tailboard, one; button for tailboard, one; string for tailboard, one; guard for string, one; sound post, one; strings, four; pegs, four.

Chances of the Sailor Man.

The sea as a calling is certainly not what it once was by a long way. The class of men who did well 30 years ago would make a poor show now. It was common enough in days gone by for owners to look for a suitable man, and then build a ship for him, but it's the other way now.—British Nautical Magazine.

"Ma," said a newspaper man's son, "I know why editors call themselves 'we.'" "Why?" "So's the man that doesn't like the article will think there are too many people for him to tackle."—Christian Work and Evangelist.

Real Aim of Religion.

Religion has loftier aims than the education of a good man. It presupposes that he is good already, and its principal aim is to uplift this good man to the highest stage of understanding.—Lessing.
