DIRECTORS SET 1920 WEST TEXAS FAIR DATES FOR AUGUST 25-26-27

Yes Sirree, the West Texas Fair is going to be held again this year, and it's going to be a humdinger.

A well attended meeting of the stockholders and directors was held Saturday, March 27, at the Court House; the directors were re-elected and in turn re-elected the officers, and committees are already at work getting up matter for the catalog and will soon have it in the printer's hands.

The report of the treasurer was received and showed the association to be in good shape.

After the stockholders adjourned the directors re-elected W. R. Schreiner as president, M. F. Weston as vice president and Chas. Real as secretary-treasurer, and set the dates for the 1920 Fair as August 25-26-27.

After a thorough canvass of the situation, the directors decided to eliminate the ladies' department and the agricultural department and make the Fair strictly one devoted to the vast live stock interests of this section, with races, ball games and other amusements. It was thought that the agricultural exhibits it would be possible to gather would be very fine, but that they would come from comparatively a small proportion of the county, it being a fact that stock raising is much the greater industry and resource of this section. For this reason it was thought best to concentrate every effort on increasing the interest in better stock and make the live stock department a thoroughly representative one.

A resolution was passed, heartily thanking Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Rigsby of San Antonio for bearing the expenses of the magnificent military band, which played during the 1919 Fair, and which was one of the leading and most attractive features of the occasion.

Another resolution was passed, extending the sincere appreciation of the very valuable assistance rendered the institution by Ally Beitel, also of San Antonio, who aided the secretary's office materially during the Fair.

Begin right now, everybody, to boost the 1920 Fair. It will require the united effort of all our people to make the Fair the success it ought to be, and no citizen should withhold his active support. It is a considerable sacrifice for the officials to devote so much time and effort to it, to the neglect of their private affairs, and no citizen should leave them with the bag to hold.

live stock within, into and from other counties shall remain in full force and effect.

This order shall become and be effective on and after date hereof.

Witness our hands this 24th day of March, A. D. 1920.

LIVE STOCK SANITARY COMMISSION OF TEXAS.

K.M.S.
WM. E. GREEN

The subject of this sketch was born in Blanco County May 19, 1891. He departed this life March 27, 1920, at the Secor Sanitarium-Hospital. He was thrown from a horse on January 22, sustaining injuries from which he never recovered. He was brought to the hospital here and operated on five days later and received every attention which medical skill and good nursing could give, but gradually grew worse until the end came.

He came to Kerr County with his parents several years ago and has been one of the prominent stock farmers of his section since.

Will Green loved his country. Having volunteered to fight her battles, he was sent over-seas June 14, 1918, and received his discharge on May 3, 1919.

He leaves a father, mother, three brothers and four sisters to mourn his departure. Will was an obedient son, a thoughtful and devoted brother, a good soldier of his country, and best of all a good, steady soldier of Jesus Christ. He lived a true Christian life, a life of patience and purity. Truly "He rests from his labors and his works follow him." A FRIEND.

MONSTER MASS MEETING HELD AT COURT HOUSE MONDAY EVENING

The District Courtroom was crowded to SRO Monday evening in response to a call for a mass meeting to discuss the matter of a suggested change in the location of the Soldier Hospital. Probably no other mass meeting ever held in Kerrville was so well attended.

The meeting was entirely informal, electing no officers and appointing no committees. It was called to order by Dr. W. P. Dickcy, who presided. After stating the object of the meeting, and to some extent his views in the matter, he called upon Dr. S. E. Thompson, who stated that it was immaterial with him, personally, as to where the hospital was located, but expressed the opinion that while its location on the Lewis site would not damage or jeopardize the town, a location that near town would possibly and very probably not be best for the patients of the institution. In closing he called upon L. A. Schreiner, who responded with a brief statement that when the matter of locating the hospital near Kerrville was first broached, he and his associates did not think it a good idea, but that they now saw their mistake and had decided to donate a site for it in case it was located further from town.

Judge Wheelless was next called upon, and gave a very conservative and detailed account of the work of the Commercial Club Committee, which was appointed to handle the matter, and of which committee he was chairman. He said the committee in its work had made every effort to conserve the best interests of the sick soldiers and of our community; had taken options on various properties in different directions and at various distances from town; had acquainted all concerned with these options, and had invited the cordial co-operation of our entire citizenship in the matter of location. It had then shown all the properties & the locating board of the Benevolent War Risk Society and had left to their wisdom and judgment the choice of a site, after which the work they had been appointed for having been completed to the best of their ability, they had dissolved their committee.

The chairman then called upon Dr. E. E. Palmer, who responded in a brief talk, saying that undeniably Kerrville is in the heart of the best health zone in the State, and that he felt that in this zone and near Kerrville was the best place for the hospital, but would feel better satisfied if it were located a bit further from town, especially for social reasons.

Father Kemper next spoke, calling attention to the danger of delay in getting the institution ready for work and strongly recommending that nothing be permitted to obstruct the early commencement of building work.

Mayor Geddie followed, praising the climate and commending the work of the committees, both local and State, also urging no delay and predicting that the locating board would stand by its decision that the Lewis site, which they had selected after a careful survey of the entire State, was the best that could be found.

Judge E. F. Ferguson made the concluding speech of the evening, ending by offering the following resolution:

"We, the citizens of Kerrville, assembled to consider the question of the location of the sanitarium for the soldiers who suffer from tuberculosis; believing that the members of the State Locating Committee are broad, intelligent citizens, and men who seek to work for the best interests of the soldiers and of the citizenship as well, hereby resolve;

"That, it is the sense of this meeting, that said State Locating Committee be assured that whatever action said committee may take or wherever said committee may locate said sanitarium, it has the moral support and influence of the citizenship of Kerrville."

The motion to adopt this resolution carried with very little dissent, after which the chairman dismissed the audience.

CHILD HEALTH CENTER FOR EACH COUNTY IN STATE

Austin, Tex., March 30.—There is no end to the good that may be accomplished and the extent to which they may be developed, declared Dr. C. W. Goddard, State Health Officer, in discussing his plan to establish a Child Health Center in every county in Texas.

The primary object is to safeguard the health of the children of Texas by making available knowledge of the best means to prevent needless sickness. This work begins with the expectant mother, and the Child Health Center would instruct her on care of herself and infant and supervise the health of the child of pre-school age.

The best available possibility for a foundation upon which to build a constructive program along health lines is the child, and Texas proposes to be second to none in this important work.

The Child Health Center is the opening wedge for establishment of a complete health center, embracing the various clinics, such as psychopathic, tuberculosis, dental, etc., and the result will be a better health standard for all the people of the State.

HOSPITAL PLANS RAPIDLY BEING MADE COMPLETE

San Antonio Express.

With the final building site marked off, the deed to the land signed, sealed and delivered, plans for immediate building of the hospital for tubercular ex-service men are being pushed by Architects Phelps and Dewese, who returned, with Judge Birkhead, from an inspection trip to Kerrville yesterday.

Ground for the building has been broken and it is expected that materials for laying the foundation will be delivered on the grounds this week. This marks the beginning of a memorial to Texas heroes that places the Lone Star State foremost in answering the plea of her heroic living. It sets an example for other States in the building of soldier memorials, for how better can a people express gratitude than in providing proper care for the men who are paying the price of liberty in agonizing coughs and pain, and mental as well as physical depression?

K.M.S.—Don't overlook the election of School Trustees Saturday. Every community owes it to itself and to its children to give careful attention to the choice of the men who are to handle its educational interests. "Just any good man" is good as far as it goes, but it doesn't go far enough. The School Trustee should be not only a good man, but a man fully imbued with pride in his community's school interests and with executive ability and tact. Let every community in Kerr County honor itself in the selection of the best possible material for its School Board.

BASEBALL SEASON OPENS; ATHLETICS VS. ARTILLERY

The baseball season here will open on Sunday afternoon, April 4, in a game between the Kerrville Athletics and the 17th Field Artillery team from Camp Travis. Game will be called promptly at 3 p. m.

This team is considered to be one of the best military teams in San Antonio and a hot game is expected. The home team has been strengthened by the addition of the two Holchak boys in the infield, while "Dutch" Manny will preside in the pitcher's box as usual, and, taken altogether, the Athletics ought to prove the strongest team we have ever had.

The management is trying to get the Camp Travis team to bring up a military band with them, and to open the season in style, but can not say yet that for certain they will be able to do so. At any rate you are promised a good, clean, exciting game.

LIVE STOCK COMMISSION POSTPONES ERADICATION

Live Stock Sanitary Commission of Texas, Fort Worth, Tex., March 24 1920.—To Whom It May Concern: Until further notified, the Live Stock Sanitary Commission will not conduct active tick eradication in the following Counties: Bandera, Kerr and Real.

In explanation of the above, you are advised that the Live Stock Sanitary Commission has only a limited number of supervising inspectors, and inasmuch as we have a large territory in which to work, where tick eradication is already considerably advanced it will be impossible for us to withdraw supervising inspectors from such territory to take charge of the work in any of the above mentioned counties. The Governor's proclamation, heretofore issued, placed said counties under quarantine, subject to tick eradication under the rules and regulations of this commission, but for the reasons stated herein, the quarantine established by said proclamation is suspended until further notice.

Therefore, the effect of this order is to suspend the quarantine restrictions in said counties, and there will be no restrictions against the movement of live stock into, within and from any of said counties. Railroad companies may accept shipments of live stock into, within and from said counties without certification. In fact, the effect of this order is to place all of said counties in the same status as they were in before the issuance of the Governor's proclamation.

This order affects only the counties listed herein. All existing rules and regulations relative to movements of Kerrville Electric Light, Heat & Power Co. is making some very notable improvements in its plant, and will ere many weeks be in position to greatly improve its service.

A new and commodious engine room has been added to the plant and a new oil-burning engine of the latest and most efficient type, 125-horsepower, has been bought and will be installed as soon as it reaches here. In addition, a new generator of sufficient capacity to supply Kerrville for some time to come will also be installed.

The new equipment will give the plant three separate units, one steam and two of the internal combustion type, and Manager Eastland hopes to be prepared for any reasonable emergency or growth.

REAL COUNTY COMING ON WITH GOOD ROADS WORK

The Mountain Sun is much gratified to learn through The Real County News of Leakey that elections have been ordered in that county for the formation of Road District No. 1, with a bond issue of $25,000, and of Road District No. 2, with a bond issue of $80,000, both elections to be held this Saturday, April 3.

We trust that our neighbors of Real County will put the proposition over in great shape, and join heartily in the work of building this great section of Texas out of the mud.

HISTORY OF DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CONVENTIONS FROM 1832 TO 1820

(By Henry C. Fuller)

January 8, of the present year, the Democratic National Executive Committee met in Washington City and decided that the next National Democratic Convention should be held in San Francisco, Calif., and the date was set for June 28. The Republican National Convention will be held in Chicago, June 8, so when the Democratic hosts meet they will have the advantage of knowing who their opponents are on the National ticket and also the platform upon which their opponents stand.

Texas will send forty delegates to San Francisco, and one feature of the great contest now in Texas is to see whether Wilson or anti-Wilson men be sent as delegates. Prohibition, Woman Suffrage and League of Nations will also figure largely in the convention, which beyond doubt promises to be one of the greatest and most momentous ever held by the Democratic party, not excepting that held at Charleston, S. C., just before the breaking out of the Civil War. It is, therefore, timely to review in brief, the history of National Democratic Conventions.

The first Democratic convention was held at Baltimore in 1832, and Andrew Jackson was nominated and elected President.

No convention was held in 1836. Martin Van Buren being nominated in a caucus under the whip hand of President Jackson. Van Buren was elected.

In 1840 there was no convention. Van Buren again being chosen by caucus and was defeated by Gen. Wm. Henry Harrison, a Whig.

In 1844, the Democratic National Convention was held in Baltimore and James K. Polk nominated and subsequently elected.

In 1848, the convention was held in Baltimore and Lewis Cass nominated. He was defeated by General Taylor, Whig, the hero of the Mexican War.

In 1852, the National Democratic Convention was held in Baltimore and Franklin Pierce was nominated on the ninth ballot. Pierce was elected.

In 1856, the Democratic National Convention was held in Cincinnati and nominated James Buchanan on the seventeenth ballot. Buchanan was elected.

In 1860, the Democrats held their National Convention in Charleston S. C., and the convention split on the slavery question. Stephen A. Douglas was nominated by one faction and John C. Breckinridge by the other. Still another nominated John Bell, and Lincoln was elected.

In 1864, the convention met in Chicago and nominated Horatio Seymour on the first and only ballot, and he was defeated by Grant.

In 1868, the National Convention was held in New York City and Seymour was again nominated and again defeated by Grant.

In 1872, the Democrats held their convention in Baltimore and nominated Horace Greeley on the first and only ballot. Greeley was defeated and died of a broken heart.

In 1878, the National Democratic Convention was held in St. Louis, June 28, and Samuel J. Tilden was nominated. In the National election he tied with Rutherford B. Hayes and an Electoral Commission, appointed by a Republican Congress, decided in favor of Hayes.

In 1880, the National Convention met in Cincinnati, June 23, and nominated Winfield Scott Hancock, who was defeated by James A. Garfield.

In 1884, the convention met in Chicago, July 11, and nominated Grover Cleveland, who was elected, defeating James G. Blaine, and being the first Democratic President since Buchanan. In 1888, the National Convention was held in St. Louis, June 8, and Cleveland renominated. He was defeated by Benjamin Harrison.

In 1892, the National Convention was held in Chicago, June 23, and Cleveland was nominated the third time and was elected, defeating Harrison.

In 1896, the convention was held in Chicago, July 10, and split on Free Silver, the silver wing nominating W. J. Bryan and the gold wing nominating Gen. S. B. Buckner. McKinley, Republican, was elected.

In 1900, the National Convention was held in Kansas City, July 5, and Bryan was again nominated and defeated again by McKinley.

In 1904, the National Democratic Convention was held in St. Louis, July 7, and Alton B. Parker was nominated and defeated by Theodore Roosevelt, who had succeeded to the Presidency on the death of McKinley.

In 1908, the National Convention met in Denver, July 7-10, and Bryan nominated for the third time and again defeated, this time by Taft.

In 1912, the National Convention was held in Baltimore, June 25 to July 2, and Woodrow Wilson nominated on the forty-sixth ballot. Champ Clark led up to the forty-second ballot.

In 1916, the National Convention met in St. Louis, June 14 to 16, and Wilson and Marshall were nominated by acclamation.

In Democratic National Conventions it takes a two-third vote to nominate. The Republicans require a majority only.

The convention that meets in San Francisco will have about 1,080 delegates.

ABREVIATED FICKSHUN

Written for The Mountain Sun by A. Podger.

The Lost Bride

This is a little fickshunette about a man and a woman that got all married up together and started away off on a wedding tournament, only they didn't get started—that is, they didn't neither him nor her get started at the same time—if you can guess what I mean.

As near as anybody knows—an' I'm not countin' on what peoples say about it, 'cause generally folks says too much—so far as anybody come from it was a good deal of a ways. I'm n-."

"Say, Uncle Milo, let me take your fountain pen."

"Lend you my founting pen? I've owned several kinds of pens—pens for pigs, an' sheep, an' calves, an' chickens, but never no founting pen."

"What's that in your vest pocket?"

"That, my dear Podger, is a perfect invention to get money easy. I'm hopin' the feller that invented it will invent some way to stop it from leakin'."

"Why don't you buy a pen that don't leak?"

"They jest ain't no such animal."

So from here on it is wrote with a leaden pencil.

Anyway, when the train started to roam across the country the bride was aboard with no groom, which wasn't the worst of it, for any other woman in the world would have considered herself lucky to be shed of him so much quicker than the ordinary way but she didn't had no railroad fare ticket. She knew her ridin' was paid up for 'cause she seen it done.

Well, she fought her way up the road for four or five stations and finally had to get off 'cause they chucked her suit case, which had in it some lot of new things she hadn't never yet wore on her back or nowhere, so she jest naturally had to get off.

"Say, Uncle Milo, lend me your knife; this here pencil is busted."

"Lend you my knife? Is there any particular thing you ain't borrowed off'n me at one time and another? My knife? Where in blazes is my knife? If I owned sixteen knives I wouldn't have any more than I've got right now, which is none. If I lend you one I'll owe myself one first. It's come to be a pretty state of affairs when an old man like me has to keep a whole family in pocket knives. I see you've dug up the one I borrowed to you last night—when you got that pencil tinkered, just hand it over."

So the groom he got onto the next train and went up the line a lookin' for the conductor what kidnapped his wife, but when he got to the end of the road the conductor was on his way back to the place that they all three started from the day before it was then. So the groom he started back that way and the train he rode onto never quite ketched up to the one the

"Say Podger, ain't you got any better tobacco than you had last night; that smoked like it had goat hair mixed in it?"

"Nope, Uncle. Here it is."

Well, them two trains kept runnin' up and down the road for about two years, and the groom never did get an eye on that conductor. He had to lay off a couple of times to rustle money to keep up the chase, but the conductor kept right on his beat, only strikin' once for more pay. Maybe the conductor already forgot where he chucked the ticketless bride anyway, even if he had got ketched up to him. He was workin' for the Government now and when you do that you ain't supposed to remember anything in particular, just general-alities. Anyway we've got to make an end of this business.

The best way I can think of it is to wreck the train the groom is a riding onto right at the station where the bride disboarded two years back.

No! You're wrong. He wasn't taken to no hospital to wake up an' find her a nursing of his case. He just plain got up out of the dirt, found out he was alright, only hungry, and hiked it for a restaurant to get some chow.

Now, that was just what the bride had done when she come to that place hungry; she—

"Say Podger, what does k-n-x-o-s-t-s-k-y spell?"

"Nothing, Uncle Milo."

"Hee-hee! That wasn't the way they spelled it when I went to school."

When the bride she come to the restaurant she seen a fine chance to wear them new things what was in the suit case, which she hadn't wore on her yet, 'cause they wanted a waiterette right bad. She took the job and had hung right onto it ever since, and was willin' to say that married life wasn't entirely a failure after all its early disappointments. Well, anyway, she'd been there ever since wearin' a lot of new things and breakin' in' old crockery, glassware and porcelain; savin' a little of her high wages an' even at that she wasn't satisfied. And the man that owned the restaurant, not havin' no wife, was more unsatisfied than she was.

Well, she was waitereasing when the groom busted in at the door and she seen him and he seen her, 'cause you see they was not neither of them blind. She chucked her surprise into the discard 'fore he could; that is, she got her tongue balanced and ready to operate first.

"Well, Mr. Man," she says with asperity (got to put in once in a while a big word), "where have you been? I don't remember seein' you 'round very lately."

"I been lookin' for that conductor," he says.

"What conductor," she asked?

"The conductor that put you off'n the train."

"You just never mind trying to bash that conductor. He done me a good turn. He put me off where there was a good job waiterin' waiting for me, and a good movie theater and other things, an' everything."

"Well, I though if I could find that conductor he could tell me where he put you off at, and I also thought—"

"Never mind what else you also thought. Thinkin' appears to be one thing you don't do very well. You ought to take a correspondence school course at it. Perhaps you can tell me where you went just before the train pulled out of the depot?"

"I run across the street to buy us another Liberty Bond."

"Well now, I'll just run down to the court house and buy us a Liberty Bond in two parts. Then I'm goin' to trade my Liberty Bond to the man that owns this restaurant for a half interest for life. He's crazy to make a trade like that."

Note—The votes didn't all come in to get counted up yet.

CATHOLIC CHURCH NOTES

By Father Kemper

Easter services will be conducted in St. Mary's Church at 10:15 a. m. St. Cecilia's Choir extends a cordial invitation to every citizen for this solemn festival.

Through the kindness of Henry H. Kuhlmann, the beautiful Florida palms were donated to the parishioners on Palm Sunday. His son, Valeska, a partner in one of the largest floral houses in Texas, came up personally from Houston with this generous offering.

On Maundy Thursday is commemorated the institution of the Last Supper, or the Holy Eucharist. The Blessed Sacrament is exposed in a magnificent repository until 8 a. m.

In memory of Our Savior's death for us on Mount Calvary, the Sorrowful Way of the Cross will be made on Good Friday at 3 o'clock. No classes will be taught at either parochial school on this momentous anniversary for Christendom.

Services begin on Holy Saturday at 6:30 a. m. with the blessing of the paschal candle, of the baptismal font, and of the sanctuary light. After this follows the reading of the twelve most common prophecies of the Old Testament in reference to Our Redeemer and His Church. Finally the Litany is duplicated, and High Mass closes the impressive ceremony.

At the Mexican Church last Sunday one of our Guadalupe pupils, Marcelino Arreola, was united in the sacrament of matrimony to Hortensia Escovedo. Baptism was administered on Palm Sunday to Gertrude Rodriguez and Clara Silvas.

A parochial picnic will be held by the Guadalupe congregation on Easter Monday. Miss Sue Robinson of Ingram donated nine dozen fresh eggs for the rabbit hunt. Several of the parishioners added to this supply so that there will be no shortage for this big annual event of the Mexican Parish. Classes will be dismissed at both schools on Easter Monday.

Under the direction of our caretaker, Wm. Farrish, who for many years was janitor of the Main Avenue High School at San Antonio, a thorough Spring house-cleaning was carried out at Notre Dame and Guadalupe. The task was easily accomplished, because it is repeated every quarter in a scientific manner.

One of the Notre Dame Sisters made the solemn profession of her life vows on the Feast of the Annunciation, last Thursday. She could not be spared to go to the Motherhouse in San Antonio, and therefore will renew her perpetual consecration during the Summer. This obligation, voluntarily assumed, binds her forever to her heroic and self-sacrificing vocation, aloof from the world.

Henry and William Voiss and Clarence Mosel came from St. Louis College on Maundy Thursday to enjoy a brief Easter vacation. Willie Farrish spent the week-end with acquaintances in Boerne.

Last Monday, Mrs. Delfina Torree motored to San Antonio with Mrs. Donacion Espinosa and other Guadalupe parishioners. They stopped en route at the Soldiers Tubercular Sanatorium at Boerne in order to have dinner with some of the Sisters who used to be in Kerrville. Old as she is Mrs. Espinosa had never been in San Antonio, and enjoyed many thrills on the occasion of her first visit. Delfina remained at the home of her sister Mrs. Michael Peche, whose sons are gold medalists at the Catholic High School.

Mrs. Wm. Kuesel returned on Saturday from a lengthy visit to her sister, Mrs. Joe Bader, in Galveston. Mrs. Horace M. Waite of San Antonio was a Sunday guest of her brother, Frank Michon.

Sam O'Bryant of Blanco visited his cousin, Mrs. James Buchanan Hunter. Among recent acquisitions to our parish are Albert Ebner of String Prairie, Tex., and Gregory Simons of Kaplan, La.

We beg leave to use this occasion to wish all our friends a very joyous Easter season, and hope to meet them in the House of God on Sunday.

Peterson Well Report

Leader, Rocksprings.
Two weeks ago The Leader reported that an entirely new well would be drilled on account of the cave-in in the Peterson well, but it seems that we were either misinformed, or the drillers changed their minds.

Jim Newton, who works at the well, was in town Sunday and says they are now pretty sure they can manage the cave-in and get out the string of tools that were caught without having to make a new hole.

They are still working on the derrick and getting ready to resume drilling.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES

ROY T. HOUTS, Pastor

As we approach the great Easter season our hearts ought to be warmed by the memory of what that day means to us and to the world. We who put our faith in Jesus Christ as the hope of the world, ought to approach this day with profound gratitude in our hearts for Easter and all it means. It seems to me that the very memory of the day ought to compel every Christian to come to the house of God for worship on this great occasion. Whether you are Methodist Baptist, Presbyterian, Lutheran, Catholic, or what not, Easter ought to be the one day in all the year when you would make a supreme effort to come to the Sunday morning worship of your church.

We will have special Easter services Sunday morning. There will be special music. We want to make this service the most helpful, inspirational and attractive service you have attended in a long while. You are not doing us a personal favor by coming to church, but you certainly will rob yourself of an ordained means of grace if you fail to be there.

The decorating committee will meet Saturday afternoon to decorate the church. If you want to go along with them in your car, and help with the work, come right along. The more the merrier.

There will be others coming into the church Sunday. Several of those, who were to come in last Sunday, could not be there, and we hope they can be there Easter Sunday to come into the church.

If nothing happens the Sunday night service will be a Message in Song and Pictures. We hope the children especially will be there, father and mother with them.

The Sunday School last Sunday was fine. Come and be with us next Sunday. Make it better.

GRADY GRINSTEAD HEAD OF BIG ST. LOUIS MEET

The following excerpt from the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, of the 24th ult., will be of interest to the host of friends of Grady Grinstead, another Kerrville boy who is making good:

"Several new departures in convention program will be carried out by the Central Oil Jobbers' Association, which will meet here April 21, 22 and 23, at the Planters' Hotel. Members of the association, representing all of the Central and some of the Southern States, will have the railroad fares refunded upon their arrival here. In conjunction with the convention will be held an exposition of all jobbers' products and manufacturers' supplies.

"The Jobbers' Association has secured the entire second floor of the Planters' Hotel for the convention and exhibition. The large dining room, which measures 115x44 feet, will be used for the exhibits. Nearly all the twenty spaces have been taken. The St. Louis Petroleum Club, which forms the nucleus of the Jobbers' organization, will occupy parlor E. Parlors H and I have been reserved for the ladies, and parlor J will be used by the officers of the association. In the center of the floor are the reception room and the registration desk. Press headquarters will be located to the south of the main stairway.

"It is expected that hundreds of jobbers from all over the country will attend. A very large delegation of petroleum jobbers from Chicago have already signified their intention of coming here. Speakers prominent in the National oil industry will address the convention.

The St. Louis officers of the association are: H. G. Grinstead, commissioner; R. J. Brown, secretary; A. L. Stocke, president. All inquiries regarding the convention and exhibit spaces should be addressed to Grinstead, 612 Fullerton Building, who is in charge of the arrangements."

A National Problem

A. & M. Bulletin.
Facing the United States today is the growing problem of the uneducated, of which these facts stand out:

1. Only 4 per cent of boys entering American and Canadian schools finish a high school course.
2. Millions of adults—95 per cent of the men, are without specific training for their occupations.
3. In United States there are 8,500,000 over 10 years old who cannot read English. At least 5,500,000 cannot read any language.
4. Of the first 2,000,000 men drafted into our army, at least 200,000 could not read their orders in any language.
5. Men from 20 to 25 years of age awakened to a realization of their need for education and need only be shown how they can greatly increase their personal earning power and service to mankind.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

J. B. HOLT, Pastor

The Prayer Meeting last week was extra fine. A large congregation was present and nine were received into the fellowship of the church. At our prayer service we desire to put first things first, therefore the program will consist of the following features: Bible Study, Prayer, Testimony and Christian Sociability. Those who miss this meeting will sacrifice a great opportunity for spiritual culture. We were glad to have Brother Houts to worship with us. All who love the prayer life are asked to come and be with us. We start at 8 o'clock promptly.

Sunday was a day of the Lord's presence and power. The congregations were good and the spirit of fellowship was like that above. Surely the people have a mind to serve God better. To build up Christ's Kingdom is the most challenging task on earth and work that will bless us and the world throughout all time and eternity. If you are not in on this big business you need to wake up, no matter who you are.

At the close of the evening service the ordinance of baptism by burial in water was administered to eight new candidates. The house was crowded and the people were reverential. Surely this picture of the resurrected life is both beautiful and impressive. Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Garrett of the Allen Avenue Church, Fort Worth joined us by letter Sunday. We give them the hand of cordial Christian fellowship. We wish that every ambitious Baptist in Kerrville, who is not a member with us, would fall into the ranks. It would be a convincing evidence of their Baptist quality.

Our Sunday School auditorium was crowded Sunday. The secretary reported 167 present. Only one teacher was absent. Supt. C. C. Butt is taking hold with a masterful hand. Put your child in Sunday School if you love him. Bible study makes character. Life without moral quality is empty. Do not sin against your child, you will live to regret it if you do.

Miss Turley, Sunbeam leader, reports 26 present in the afternoon, a very spicy program.

The Junior B. Y. P. U., under M. Ayleen Procter, is growing like may, and all the members are enthusiastic. Her helpers are Eugene Butt and M. Ethel Moore.

The Senior B. Y. P. U. is making some readjustments and is planning a vigorous program of enlistment and enlargement.

Following the Prayer Meeting Wednesday evening there will be a social aftermath at the pastor's home. All are welcome.

Secretary W. P. Phillips, S. S. Expert, will be with us for an Institute in the near future. We are anxious for him to come.

The following letter from Secretary Groner will be of great interest to many:

"The Executive Board of the Baptist General Convention, Dallas, Tex.—Dear Brother: You will see in the papers this week about four regional conferences that are to be held the week following the first Sunday in April. They will be held as follows: Sweetwater, Tuesday, April 6; Dallas Wednesday, April 7; San Antonio Thursday, April 8; Houston, Friday April 9.

"We are asking all of our pastors, missionaries and associational and district organizers to attend the conference most accessible to them. The board will take care of your expenses.

"This letter is to urge you to not fail to attend the conference nearest you, or most convenient for you to reach.

"We want to plan to round-out our Spring campaign in such a way as to make it a thorough and glorious success.

"Another important matter. Our office, so far, has not had to borrow any money to finance this year's work but we are right now at the point where we shall have to borrow unless we get more cash from the field. Please see the treasurer of your church at once, and send to our office immediately all the cash you have or hand to the credit of the 75 Million Fund.

"May the Master bless you and guide us all to the great achievement and continued success.

"Cordially yours,
"F. S. GRONER"

The Fourth Court of Civil Appeals handed down an opinion on March 17 affirming the judgment for $5,000 damages which a jury in the District Court of Kendall County had awarded to Miss Beulah Guidry last September against Arthur Vogt of Boerne, the result of an alleged breach of promise to marry. Both parties to the suit are well known in this county, and the case when tried at Boerne last Fall aroused an extraordinary degree of interest.—Comfort News.

The Sunday School will meet at 9:45 a. m. for the usual work. At 10:30 the officers and teachers, who have been appointed for the year, will be publicly installed.

The Easter service will be held at 11 o'clock. The choir has prepared a good program of music and the pastor will preach on the Living Christ, "He is alive forever more."

At the close of the morning service, a short meeting of the congregation will be held to hear the report of the year's work.

The evening service will be at 7:30 and all members and friends are invited to attend.

Ward King, known to thousands of farmers in many States as the inventor of the split log drag, died recently in St. Louis, Mo. Mr. King's home was in Maitland, Mo., where he was engaged in the farming business. Always a good roads enthusiast, he perfected his simple road drag in 1900 and gave it to the world without asking for financial return. He was later sent to all parts of Missouri and other States to preach the doctrine of road dragging and to explain the work of his simple but effective invention.—American Hereford Journal.

LING UP HAPPINESS

DOES one fear find you wishing and hoping for things in the future—and regretting lack of accomplishment in the past?

There is one sure way to fill your horn of plenty with all the good things of life. It entails sacrifice now. It merely means the forming of good habits.

That good old formula for success is as true now as when it helped build the fortunes of our pioneer railroad builders, manufacturers and promoters.

KUM TO KAPTIVATING KERRVILLE

The eyes of Texas are on Kerrville

Great is the Hill Country, and Kerrville is its gateway.

It takes team work to build prosperous, progressive communities.

If you are living in the Hill Country and are not glad you're living, you must be a tough proposition, old dear.

It transpires that Old Sol was only slightly mildewed during the wet drouth, and is once more on the job as bright as ever.

The Benevolent War Risk Society came to the conclusion that Kaptivating Kerrville's recuperative climates kures konsumption.

The fame of Kaptivating Kerrville has long gone abroad in the land, but the average visitor exclaims as did Sheba's queen, "The half had not been told me."

The Mountain Sun is anxious to serve every good interest of its town and county, commercial, spiritual, educational or other. It fully realizes that as the only paper in the community, it belongs, in a certain sense not to its owners merely, nor to any one faction or denomination, but in a large sense to the entire community each interest of which is entitled to consideration in its columns. It is our desire and our pleasure to meet this responsibility to the best of our ability, and to treat all concerned fairly and squarely.

A fraternal visitor to The Mountain Sun sanctum Monday was D. J. Little of Harper, formerly a reporter on The Kansas City Star, who, with R. T. Gliddon of Johnson City, is preparing to break into the newspaper game with The West Texas Star at Harper. The Star is to start small, four pages five-column, but this will not prevent its scintillating and will leave plenty room for growth. Mr. Little tells us he is to commence on the free distribution plan for the first few issues after which The Star hopes for a healthy subscription growth. The Mountain Sun extends its best wishes to its new neighbor.

HOW TO HELP YOUR EDITOR

Mangum Star.

First of all give him the news. He wants it. Give it to him, even though sometimes it does not get in the paper. He hasn't time always to tell you why some piece of news is not printed. But ten to one he has a good reason. Give him the news, even though you may not be especially interested in it. Some people never think to give the editor news except when they are concerned in it some way or another.

Second, don't give a piece of news to him unless you want it printed just as it is written. There's a right and a wrong way to do even such a simple thing as writing an article for a newspaper. And I heard of one man who had to leave town because he had written every piece of news just as it was handed in, spelling, punctuation, and all, and printed it with the name of the person who gave it to him.

Third, don't try to play a joke through the paper unless you explain it to the editor. A thing in cold type looks a lot different and sounds different from a thing repeated by word of mouth, when the voice, facial expression, and a gesture, perhaps, help show its meaning.

Fourth, don't worry for fear the editor is making too much money. You ought to want him to be prosperous. He can and will give you a better paper. He will be less likely to have to compromise with his conscience over certain kinds of advertising. And anyhow, he can't make a big fortune out of his paper. He will be lucky if he can keep it going.

Fifth, get your copy to him just as early as you can. Take it in for the next week the day after publication day, if you can. It takes time to set type and make a paper. Did you ever wonder what the editor did all the time between publication days? If so, go in several times during the day, and you will have more of a realization of what a job it is to make a newspaper.

Sixth, be ready to tell your editor when some thing in the paper pleases you. Once in a while you tell your preacher he had a good sermon. Tell the editor the same about his paper.

Seventh, remember that, while the function of the newspaper is to serve it must also make its publisher a living, yes, and something for his old age. There are no pensions for worried editors.

Three cases from Cooke County were reversed and remanded in the Court of Criminal Appeals at Austin last week because the words "So help me God" had been omitted in swearing in the juries in the trial court. The Appellate Court held that the words were the most vital part of the oath as prescribed by law, and that a verdict rendered by a jury not fully sworn is a nullity.

One of the best pieces of good news that has come out of Washington City in quite a while is the dispatch saying: "Congress has begun weeding out the department and bureau press agencies." Much of their work has been good, but it has been one of the worst overdone things imaginable. The weeding out process, if efficiently done, will save the Government and the long-suffering publishers many thousands of dollars annually.

Remember that a Mayor and two Commissioners for the City of Kerrville are to be chosen next Tuesday. Don't fail to take a worthy part in the selection of the men who are to manage our municipal interests.

We've been in Texas too long to risk prophesying a rain, but we'll risk saying it looks "suspicious" as we close the matter for this issue of The Mountain Sun, Wednesday evening and we miss our guess (not prediction, remember) if we don't have a shower in the near subsequently.

Don't forget the municipal election next Tuesday. Kerrville is vitally interested, or at least should be, in the men who are to control her affairs for the ensuing term, and earnest thought should be given to their selection. Good men should be elected, and the vote should be large enough to show to them that the citizens are behind them. Kerrville is far beyond the point where "just anybody that'll serve will do." The municipality is a big business, with more than two thousand shareholders and good directors should be chosen to manage its affairs.

The Old Spanish Trail

State Press.

How many Texans know that one of the most fascinating transcontinental trails in American history or experience is that same dim road that led from the Spanish settlements of Florida to the missions of California?

We have all read ten pages concerning the Santa Fe Trail, for instance, as against one paragraph concerning the coastline path that led the early trekkers across the lower edge of the continent from the Florida Peninsula to California's golden strand. Yet there was more romance, more adventure, more dashing history connected with the latter than with the former road.

The South has not produced the same type of publicists that the North and East have. Southern traditions have been large and grandiose rather than particular and intimate. Our writers have been inclined to specialize too much in "justification" and too little in actual history. They have been controversial rather than historical. They have magnified the abstract rather than the concrete. The result is that the romantic history of the South differs in comparison with that of other portions of the country. If the Southern Spanish Trail has a single authoritative historian, State Press, for one, is unable to identify him.

The Ford car can well be called the "peoples car," because there are more than 3,000,000 of them in daily operation. That is about four to one of the nearest follower in the motor car industry. This would not be so if the Ford car had not for sixteen years proven its superiority in service, in durability, and in the low cost for operation and maintenance; this would not be so if the Ford car was not so easy to understand, so simple in construction that anybody and everybody can safely drive it. Robert E. Teague, who came here some months ago for his health, has now returned to his home in Anniston, Ala., rejoicing in the entire restoration of his health.

The inconveniences of having "juice" for The Mountain Sun's Linotype machine only on Tuesday and Wednesday of each week was exemplified last week in a little joke the weather man played on the editor. Wednesday afternoon we wrote a little squib winding up with the words, "Nothing doing in the rain line." That night there came a dandy rain of 1.14 inches but no juice next morning to report it with in these columns. Anyhow, the shower did a lot of good, and was heavier and better in some other localities than here in town.

Victor Edward Ragland, whose home was at Orange Grove, Tex., but who has been here sick for some time, passed away Saturday morning, March 27, 1920, aged 57 years, 1 month and 5 days, death resulting from Bright's disease. He was a brother of S. G., F. S. and Thos. Ragland, and was buried from the Ragland home on Clay Street, the funeral service being held at Glen Rest Cemetery by Rev. R. T. Houts. Numerous friends attended the funeral, and many floral tributes attested the esteem in which the deceased gentleman and his brothers are held among our people.

CHRISTIANIZED FOREIGNERS PROVE LOYAL TO FLAG OF UNITED STATES

SOUTHERN BAPTISTS FIND THAT NO EVANGELIZED PERSON FROM OTHER COUNTRIES HAS PROVED TRAITOR TO HIS ADOPTED LAND—LARGE WORK IS BEING DONE AMONG THEM.

A group of large boys of foreign parentage, reached and made happy by Baptist Good Will Center.

Patriotism and religion go hand in hand in the work which Southern Baptists are doing for the foreigners in their midst, declare the several workers in this field who have found that wherever a man, woman or child of foreign birth or parentage has been won to the Christian religion that one stands foursquare for the flag, laws and institutions of the United States. Work in evangelizing and Americanizing the 4,000,000 people of foreign birth and parentage residing within the territory of the Southern Baptist Convention has been carried on by representatives of the Home Mission Board and the Women's Missionary Union of the Southern Baptist Convention and the various state mission boards for several years, but this work will be enlarged and intensified as a result of the larger proceeds made available for it through the 75 Million Campaign.

Important Centers Named.

Among some of the more important centers in the South and Southwest where work of this character is carried on are Richmond and Norfolk, Virginia; Baltimore, Maryland; Louisville, Kentucky; Tampa, Florida; Birmingham, Silver Hill and Mobile, Alabama; Meridian, Miss.; New Orleans and Church Point, La.; San Antonio, Laredo, El Paso and Fort Worth, Texas; Krebs, Okla. and East St. Louis, Herrin, Christopher, Harrisburg, Granite City and other points in Illinois.

Aims That Are Sought.

Indicating the aims that are sought in this work, they may be briefly summarized as follows:

1. To reach the little children that their feet may be started in the upward path.
2. To inspire the older boys and girls with ideals that will help them to improve their environment and give them strength to cope with temptations.
3. To interest the young people in sane and wholesome pleasures that their energies may be rightly directed.
4. To help the women to be better home-makers, more careful wives and mothers and better Christians.

RURAL CHURCH WORK WILL BE DEVELOPED

BAPTISTS PLAN TO REACH 15,000
COUNTRY SUNDAY SCHOOLS
THIS SUMMER.

PROVIDE BETTER TEACHERS

75 Million Campaign, with Assistance of Sunday School Board, Makes Extension Program Possible.

DR. I. J. VAN NESS,
Corresponding Secretary Baptist
Sunday School Board.

In what is believed to be the most extensive campaign for the development of rural Sunday Schools that has yet been undertaken by any single denomination, the forces of Southern Baptists especially interested in Sunday School work will undertake to reach 15,000 or more rural Sunday Schools of the South and Southwest this summer, announces Dr. I. J. Van Ness, corresponding secretary of the Baptist Sunday School Board at Nashville.

The work is made possible by the larger funds available from the 75 Million Campaign and will be carried on by the forces of the eighteen states of the Southern Baptist Convention, in co-operation with the Sunday School Board. Additional workers will be put on in every state and a large number of Sunday School institutes will be held in the hope of reaching a great majority of the rural Sunday Schools in every state. Normal Sunday School Institutes will be held in fifty counties of Tennessee, for instance, and over 500 rural centers will be reached with the better system of Sunday School teaching and methods of administration. Similar methods will be followed in all the states.

Every State Enlarges Work.

Over $200,000 a year will be expended on Sunday School field work in the territory of the Southern Baptist Convention, it is announced, and every state organization will greatly enlarge its Sunday School force, giving special attention to the development of the rural schools.

In order that an adequate number of instructors may be available for carrying on this larger program, a thirty day normal school will be held in Nashville, beginning May 31, in the institution in which a large regular faculty of Sunday School experts and many special lecturers will be employed.

The Sunday School Board at Nashville has just established a department of Sunday School administration which will deal with all questions of Sunday School organization and equipment. This department will be in charge of Arthur Flake, who has been a member of the field force of the Sunday School Board for quite a while and who was formerly superintendent of the Sunday School of the First Baptist church of Fort Worth, Texas, said to be the largest Sunday School in the South.

Build Better Church Houses.

Another department of the Sunday School Board is giving attention to the encouragement of better church houses and pastors' homes in the rural districts, furnishing architects' plans for this purpose and detailed instructions without cost to churches which contemplate buildings along these lines.

THESE FREQUENT REMINDERS

BUSINESS OF BEING A MAN THE IMPORTANT THING

A. & M. Bulletin.
"Be a Man" was the advisement of Dr. K. P. Barton, pastor of the University Methodist Church of Austin in his sermon at the morning service held in the Airdome Sunday.

You will go out from this great school and take your place as a citizen of this country as engineers and agriculturists, to build great buildings and bridges and roads; to construct irrigation projects; to clear extensive tracts of land for the plow, but your greatest task will be to make a man of yourself, he told the student body.

He chose his text from I Samuel 4:9. "Be strong and quit yourselves like men, O ye Philistines, that ye may be not servants unto the Hebrews as they have been to you; quit yourselves like men and fight."

This passage, he said, was taken from an unpleasant section of Jewish history, unpleasant to us because our religion came out of the religion of the Hebrews and we hate to think of them as ever being defeated. He described the battles of the Jews against the Philistines and gave an account of the final victory of the Philistines over the Jews, which was brought about by an exertion of human strength by the Philistines against the attacks of the Jews, who relied for their strength on the power of the ark of God. They depended upon the ark of the covenant of the Lord to save them out of the hands of their enemies, the Philistines; and they lost. The victory fell to the Philistines, who "quitted themselves and fought" with confidence in the strength of men.

We had rather have men who believe in a pagan god and yet rely on their individual strength to fight the battles of this life, men who depend on their own arm for safety, to protect their life from starving, thirsting or drowning, than men who lie down and expect God to preserve them in health and happiness without any exercise of individual, human strength.

Too many men of this world believe in the exercise of an invisible destiny controlling all things of the earth; they speak of the crawling insignificant humans groveling on this earth. Such an attitude is not Christian humility but human littleness. Men are worth while. God saved them because they were worth saving.

The people look upon religion as a thing to get them out away from this world and to heaven. They think religion is out of sympathy with the big things of the world. Religion is no escape from life. It is a serious adjustment to this life, wherein all one's forces are brought into play, all one's talents are put to use and one's whole being is put to tasks to work out salvation.

The soul is not a commodity played out by an invisible destiny, man is not a mere chattel upon this earth. Although he is affected by the general laws of the universe—the law of gravity and the law of decay—yet he may be superior to his surroundings, knowing his needs he must not necessarily starve or drown. He can put forth strength and work out, but it takes a real man to use force, to make a serious effort.

The divinest thing in the world is a man working at a task, actually accomplishing something. The Master often referred to Himself with certain titles and the one most often used was "The Son of Man." His trust, His task, His business was in saving men by being a man.

Your business is being a man and not an angel. Men are wanted. The world is crying out for them. The supply will never equal the demand.

K.M.S.
Junior B. Y. P. U.

BABY CHICKS MUST BE FED VERY CAUTIOUSLY

On account of the very large number of baby chicks now being hatched in this section, The Mountain Sun reproduces an authoritative article on the subject of their care, written by F. W. Kazmeier, poultry expert of the A. & M. College, as follows:

There are many good ways of feeding baby chicks. Some general principles should be observed regardless of the method followed or used.

Before emerging from the shell the baby chick absorbs the yellow or yolk of the egg. This is nature's provision to keep the chick alive until a few days old and strong enough to move about. The absorption of this yolk makes it necessary not to feed the chick too soon. We believe it better to wait with the substantial food until the chick is very active and hungry generally not much before three days old.

Do Not Feed Too Soon

The first three days, the baby chicks need heat and sleep above all else. We find it advantageous to give them sour milk to drink as soon as they are dry. Fresh water, chick-size grit and charcoal may also be placed before them as soon as possible. If they get very restless, darken the brooder until time to give them their first food. Darkening the brooder will prevent toe picking and other bad habits they sometimes develop before they are given substantial food. The water and milk should be given in special dishes, so they cannot get into them. Chick-size fountains are best.

When by their actions they show to be very hungry give them their first food. A good starting food is common corn bread, thoroughly baked, and dry and ground up fine. Equal parts of dried bread crumbs and rolled oats mixed with 10 per cent of hard boiled eggs is another good starting food. These starting foods should be fed in such a way they can find it readily. We recommend feeding on low rim pint, shingles, clean boards or card board. Feed in such a way all chicks can eat at one time without crowding. The same applies to water fountains.

The first five days feed starting food five times a day, but never all they want or would eat. Keep them a little hungry at all times.

Never Oxer Feed

Many people over feed the small chicks.

The baby chicks that refuse to come to the feeding dishes the morning of the second day should be killed and burned. At best they could not develop into profitable chickens.

Never feed anything but pure wholesome feeds. Musty, mouldy or heated corn meal or any other kind of food will kill baby chicks.

Sour milk is a most wonderful food for baby chicks and should be provided by all means, even though comparatively expensive.

From five days to two weeks, feed the starting food three times a day and give two feedings of fine cracked corn, Kafir, milo or a mixture of fine cracked grains, including wheat and heavy rolled oats. These grains may be fed scattered in a dry litter, to induce exercise. For best results it is necessary to keep the chicks working and busy. It aids digestion and keeps them out of mischief.

At this time a very small amount of green food may also be provided. Any kind of succulent green food will answer the purpose.

In the period of five days to two weeks a dish full of dry wheat bran may be kept before them all the time. When they get so they waste it place it in special chick dry mash hoppers or boxes.

From two weeks to four weeks reduce the number of feedings from five to three a day. One feeding of starting food two of fine cracked grains in the litter and the following dry mash mixture before them all the time in place of the dry wheat bran—namely two parts wheat bran, two parts corn meal, one part wheat shorts, one-half part of high grade sifted beef scraps and 5 per cent of pure ground bone meal.

From four to eight weeks, reduce number of feedings to two daily, at noon and night, of cracked grain mixture (coarse) in the litter. Discontinue starting food entirely. Dry mash mixture before them all the time, as of course also a dish of sour milk, fresh water, chick-size grit charcoal and plenty of green food.

Keep the chicks warm at all times. Allow the chicks to run on fresh ground.

Keep them dry and free from vermin. Make them work. Do not let them crowd. Kill off weak and ailing chicks. Never feed doubtful feed. Do not use mouldy litter.

How to Spend $10.00

I know—you don't need anybody to tell you how to spend your money, you say. But wait a minute—do you get ten dollars' worth of food values when you spend ten dollars for food? Sort of subtle, yes? Well, you get the answer in

The COUNTRY GENTLEMAN

What I'm leading up to—subtly—is that you should start next week to read a series of articles about—I guess I won't tell you, after all, what it's about. Read this issue and see!

I will tell you this much: Look for an article by R. M. Cleveland, with a cartoon by Edwin Marcus—and see what the woman in the picture has bought with her ten dollars. Then go and spend your ten-spot the same way. It will pay you. . . . And really you need eleven dollars if you are to let me advise your spending—ten, as aforesaid, for food, and one to pay for a year's subscription for THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN. You need not be without it from week to week for I'll have the postman deliver it to you every Thursday for a whole year for only $1.00.

That's Less Than Two Cents a Week!

The Law of Compensation

"To him that hath shall be given, and from him that hath not, shall be taken away, even that which he hath."

We have heard good, sincere, intelligent and orthodox men puzzle over that passage of Scripture, groping for an interpretation which should, as they said, be free from the appearance of hardness and injustice which it bears on its face.

To us, we confess, there is no such appearance in the passage quoted. We regard it as merely a concise promulgation of the Law of Compensation on the job, so to speak, working out to its logical conclusion.

The truth of the statement, just as it stands, appears to us to be writ so large in the lives and daily experience of humanity as to need no amplification.

It is true of morals. It is true of intellect. It is true of character. It is true in many other applications, but it is of its financial aspect that we purpose here to speak. Like attracts like. The mass gathers and absorbs the itinerant atom.

It is an old, true saying that "It takes money to make money." How often have you heard, and how often have you said, "If I had a hundred dollars or five hundred dollars, or a thousand dollars, I could make this or that investment and make some easy money." But you lack the ready cash and you miss the opportunity, while he "that hath" the money embraces the opportunity and makes more money.

Look back over your past and you will see it thickly strewn with these lost opportunities. Look closely and you will see another thing; namely, that you have frittered away enough in small dribbles, pennies, nickels and dimes, which you thought too small to be worth bothering with, to have grasped most of those lost opportunities if you had only been thrifty and saving.

Now, face it squarely, if you are ever going to do anything or have anything, you must begin NOW slowly and patiently, little by little, to save and get a start. It is the only way. You have been wishing and hoping, but it has not gotten results. You will still be wishing and hoping when the Judgment Angel comes, if you depend upon that.

Stiffen up all along the line. Put your backbone where your wish-bone has been and MAKE things happen instead of WISHING something would.

One of the sanest, safest ways to begin stopping the small leaks which have bled away your past opportunities is to pay cash for all your purchases. You will be surprised at the difference. Come in and let us figure with you on your next bill.

DO YOU LIKE TO GO FISHING?

You know, to a good sportsman, Shakespeare means something far more meaningful than "Hamlet" and "The Merchant of Venice." Your true angler may not know how Othello won Desdemona with wild and thrilling tales, but he could undoubtedly go the Moor one better with his stories of how he landed 'em one after another with Shakespeare fishing tackle. For he knows that Shakespeare means first, last and all the time the best tackle—the smoothest-running reels—the most dependable line—the luringst bait. To go fishing with Shakespeare stuff means that—if the weather is right—and the season is on—and you're not an utter boob—you're BOUND to get the biggest bass in the hole.
