NEED MORE FUNDS TO COMPLETE KERRVILLE'S TOURIST CAMP SITE

Judge R. H. Burney was the last contributor to the Kerrville Tourist Camp Site, the amount being $5.00. There are some others who have subscribed but not yet paid, and there are quite a number who ought to contribute.

There has been collected $927.60 and paid out $654.82, while a contract has been made to clean up the grounds, paint the buildings, fence, gate posts and sign board with two coats of paint, for $82.00. This work is to be done as soon as the weather permits. That will leave a balance of $99.78. The amount required to finish paying for the plumbing and to extend the electric light wire to the Camp Site will be about $175.00.

Let us raise this right away, so the Camp Site can be made ready for use of the tourists soon to come through here.

We will have one of the prettiest and most convenient Camp Sites in Texas.

MRS. ADAIR LEAVES $45,000 TO 2 TEXAS INSTITUTIONS

London, Jan. 26.—Mrs. Cornelia Adair, who died last September at Corshan, near Bath, left property in the United Kingdom of a gross value of 40,840 pounds, says the London Times. According to the newspaper she left $35,000 to the Adair Hospital at Clarendon, Texas, and $10,000 to St. Matthew's Home for Children, Dallas, Texas. In addition she made bequests to Irish churches, members of her household and the staffs on her ranch in Texas.

Mrs. Adair was a daughter of the late Gen. James S. Wadsworth of New York, who was killed in the battle of the Wilderness. For years she was prominent in English society. She was 84 years old when she died.

Mrs. Adair was widely known in Texas, especially in the Panhandle, having spent much time on her ranch, the J-A, near Clarendon.

SMALL TOWN SOCIETY GIRLS BEING DEMORALIZED BY FAG

Chicago, Jan. 28.—From the ultra-fashionable restaurants of the big cities, the cigarette habit among women is sweeping to the "smart set" of the small towns and the effect is most demoralizing, threatening the future of the Nation, Lucy Page Gaston, famous foe of the fag, asserted in an interview today.

The situation is worse than at any time in twenty years, she declared. While shocked, she is not dismayed. She is "carrying on."

"A year ago there was no smoking among girls and women in the small towns," she said. "Today it is more or less common. The smart society girl has brought the habit in."

"Cigarette smoking has increased 50 per cent among women in this country in the last year. This is national suicide. The whole future of America depends upon whether our girls are flappers and vamps—ally themselves with the fag, or whether they are sensible and all that goes with it."

GARRETT-BAKER AMERICAN LEGION POST HOLDS INTERESTING MEETING

At the regular meeting, Thursday night, January 26th, of the Garrett-Baker Post, American Legion, there was probably the largest crowd of any previous meeting since the organization of the Post some two years ago. There were twenty-one present of the twenty-six members now enrolled, and from the enthusiasm shown the successful future of Garrett-Baker Post is practically assured.

With the assistance of the ex-service men in this community we could have some very interesting times, so come out and see what we are doing.

The business of the last meeting was handled very efficiently by Commander Robinson, there being a number of resolutions passed for the benefit of the ex-service men, who are sorely in need of assistance. Dr. Jackson was appointed as Compensation Officer, and is willing to aid in any way in which he may be of service in that capacity. Rev. Macdougall and J. Grady Timmons and J. A. Oswalt were appointed as a visiting committee to the sick. Rev. Macdougall was appointed Post Chaplain.

A very commendable letter from the Ladies Auxiliary to the Post was read by the adjutant, Chas. Mason, who gave a very interesting talk on the work being done by the Ladies Auxiliary of Kerrville, after which the Garrett-Baker Post adopted a resolution to write a letter of thanks to the Auxiliary and to assure them that they may at all times depend upon the support and assistance of this Post.

The Entertainment Committee has arranged for some very lively times for the pleasure and financial benefit of the Post. On February 9th there is to be a wrestling match, which will be advertised later, also a Minstrel on or about Washington's Birthday. This promises to be a very good show and is worthy of your patronage.

On the next meeting night there will be a number of very important questions concerning every ex-service man brought up for discussion, and it is not only to your your interest, but your duty to be there. We guarantee amusement.

WILL MEAN MUCH TO BOYS; ALSO GREAT GOOD TO COMMUNITIES

Monday afternoon a crowd of Kerrville representative boys returned from a trip which is to mean much to our town and community in the near future. They had attended the Older Boys' Conference, which held its annual meeting with the Agricultural and Mechanical College as hosts.

Five hundred of the pick of Texas High School boys were selected to attend this splendid meeting and to hear plans discussed for the betterment and upbuilding of the younger men all over the State. Matters pertaining to the religious life were discussed and when the opportunity was presented more than 250 boys expressed their intention of joining the church and 43 signed up for life work.

High School Y. M. C. A's, called "Hi-Y's," are to be organized in each town represented at the conference.

The delegates from this place were Marshall Leazar, sent by the Methodist Church; Bruce McGee and Scott Fawcett, by the Presbyterian Church; Francis Melear and Sydney Wheless, by the Men's Club; Robert Hagens, by the Baptist Church; Gerald Stafford, by the High School, and Prof. Guy Moses, as leader of the group, was also sent by the High School.

Kerrville is to be congratulated upon this move on the part of her High School boys, and with the proper support and co-operation on the part of the older men and women an organization among the young men, who are our future citizens, will be perfected that will be far reaching in its effects.

Macdougall Literary Society

The society met on Tuesday at the usual hour and place. An average attendance of over thirty youths were present. Bob Edwards, the secretary, read extemporaneously minutes of the previous meeting, which was a mock trial with Randolph Wheless the prisoner and his brother, Sidney, the sheriff. Judge Baker was the "court" and a jury of the prisoner's peers found a verdict of "Not Guilty" in spite of the circumstantial evidence to the contrary.

The boys thoroughly enjoyed the proceedings, and President Macdougall regretted that his absence in San Antonio prevented his participation in the trial. Another trial will be staged in the near future with Judge Baker again on the Bench.

Sheep and Goat Shearing

There was a meeting held at Kerrville last Saturday afternoon, attended by sheep and goat raisers, at which it was decided to pay the following prices the coming season for shearing:

Where owner furnishes power and board, but not combs and shears, the price for shearing goats is 3 cents, and 4 1/2 cents where everything supplied by the shearer.

For sheep, the price is 4 cents where the owner furnishes power and board, and 5 cents where everything is supplied by the shearer.

Highway Department operates, including the allotment of the funds, and an avowal that compliance will be made with the new Federal highway act, either by "constitutional amendment" or "legislative enactment."

Under the Federal act of November 9th, 1921, the States are given three years to provide State funds to match Federal highway apportionments and do away with the bond issues and appropriations by counties.

It will be up to the 38th Legislature in January, 1923, to submit a constitutional amendment to conform to the Federal act and it must be adopted, says Windrow, otherwise Texas will lose Federal aid after the expiration of the three years from November 21st, 1921.

Windrow things there is no doubt but that the bill in the National Congress, appropriating $100,000,000 for each of the next three years to aid road building in the States, will be passed, thus giving Texas $6,000,000 each of these years. He says the measure has had general approbation in official circles and is included in the Dawes budget.

KIMBLE COUNTY ASSURED MORE GOOD ROADS SOON

Junction Eagle, Jan. 27: Judge Weaver H. Baker informs us that there is no longer any doubt about the building of the highway from the six-mile crossing on the North Llano to or beyond Roosevelt. County Engineer W. E. Simpson has just been to Austin to confer with the Highway Commission at its recent meeting, and this county was promised $24,000 Federal and $12,000 State aid. In other words, the Federal aid will equal the State and County funds. This will give $48,000 for the construction of this prolongation of State Highway No. 27, on the Old Spanish Trail, beginning at the terminus of Division B, Federal aid project No. 133A, which is the first Llano River crossing on the road to Sonora.

Judge Baker, the County Commissioners and Engineer Simpson are to be congratulated in their efforts to secure this large amount to match the $12,000 County funds. We understand that out of the thirteen counties making application for aid, recently, this was the only county to secure it. On other road work in the county, only 49 was secured from State and Federal allowances. On this project we get 75 per cent.

Everything possible is being done to arrange for actual construction and as soon as complete plans can be made, bids will be let.

TEXAS TO RECEIVE $4,425,000 AID ON STATE HIGHWAYS

Austin, Tex., Jan. 27.—Rollen J. Windrow, State Highway Engineer, today completed the certificate for the signature of Governor Neff whereby Texas is to get $4,425,000 road funds from the Federal Government for the fiscal year ending June 30th next. All of this money has been allotted, but will not be paid until the certificate is executed. It will be given as the estimate on each project are completed.

Next fiscal year $4,000,000, Mr. Windrow says, will be available. No that amount succeeding years. There is an estimate for this year which is the Texas

HUNDREDS CRUSHED AND KILLED WHEN THEATER ROOF COLLAPSED

Last Saturday night, the Knickerbocker Theater roof in Washington City collapsed, crushing about 500 people, killing over 100 and injuring most of the remainder of the audience, as a result of snow on the roof.

There was an unprecedented heavy snow, which was still falling, and that with the extreme cold kept many away from the theater, which was usually crowded at each performance, as it is in one of the thickly populated residence sections of that city.

The rescue of the pinned people was difficult, because of the network of steel and iron girders and concrete composing the roof. The fire department, marines, soldiers and police force worked faithfully and heroically in the rescue work. General Pershing was directing part of the aid.

The United States Senate is going to require an investigation as to the buildings erected in Washington during war times, as this Knickerbocker was one constructed at that time, and was supposed to be a solid and safe structure.

Quite a number of prominent people in official and army life were among the victims.

It is one of the worst catastrophes that has happened in some time and cast great gloom over Washington as well as the country. All social festivities were postponed in that city.

GROUND HOG DUE TO SEE SHADOW THURSDAY

Kerrville, if popular superstition is accepted, is to have six more weeks of severe weather. On February 2nd, according to belief which is said to have originated with the Germans, the "ground hog" will emerge from his winter quarters for a survey of weather conditions.

If the weather is fair and he can see his shadow, he is supposed to return to his home underground, there to remain six weeks, at the end of which time winter will have departed. He then comes out for his spring and summer sojourn above ground.

According to the weather forecast for Thursday, there will be fair weather and sunshine. If the old superstition is accepted, therefore, the "ground hog" will see his shadow and return to his winter quarters for six weeks.

FIRST CANDIDATE TO ANNOUNCE FOR OFFICE IN KERR COUNTY

R. V. Nichols inserts his announcement in The Sun this week as a candidate for County Judge, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

Mr. Nichols is comparatively a young man and member of one of the prominent pioneer families of this county, where he was born. He attended school at Ingram and Kerrville, and then went two years to a private school at San Antonio and two years in A. & M. College.

Mr. Nichols has a wife and two children and he lives between Kerrville and Ingram. He is an industrious and studious young man with pleasing address. During the campaign he will visit the voters of Kerr County and give them a chance to become better acquainted with him and pass upon his qualifications for the position he seeks.

Mr. Nichols has the confidence of those well acquainted with him, and he is a young man of high probity of character, excellent moral attributes and mental attainments.

Red Cross Meeting

The Executive Committee of the Red Cross met Wednesday afternoon to transact routine business.

The resignation of Mrs. Sid Rees as Executive Secretary was accepted. On account of insufficient funds it was found impossible to retain her services. Dr. Dickey submitted the following resolution: "On the occasion of the retirement of Mrs. Sid Rees from the secretaryship of the Red Cross, the Executive Committee, by unanimous rising vote, expresses its deep appreciation of her faithful and very efficient services to the Red Cross and the community during the years of her connection with the work."

Dr. Dickey also moved that a committee, consisting of Chairman Rev. J. Grady Timmons, Mrs. Wheless and W. G. Carpenter, be appointed to confer with the Chamber of Commerce, the American Legion and other organizations to provide means for continuing this relief work; motion passed.

The meeting adjourned to meet at the call of the chairman.

S. A. SYMPHONY RECITAL

The celebrated mezzo-soprano, Miss Barbara Maurel, gave a vocal recital in Beethoven Hall Thursday of last week, under the auspices of the San Antonio Symphony Orchestra. Julien Paul Blitz, an enthusiastic Knight of Columbus of our Ciucil, is director of this musical organization.

Sister Eugenia, in charge of the musical department at Notre Dame, went to the metropolis with one of her senior pupils, Miss Marie Rogers, to attend the program.

On Sr. Eugenia's return, she held a constructive criticism test among her junior pianists. Miss Louise Colbath distinguished herself as the best critic, and Miss Velma Brown carried away the honors as the best performer among the contestants.

Arbor Week

Although Arbor Day falls on Saturday, we took the advice of an experienced nursery-man, Harvey Mosty, and did our planting as soon as the last cold spell had subsided. Mr. Mosty, who takes a personal pride in St. Mary's Park, picked out a fine assortment of vines to beautify the pergola which shades the afternoon side of the convent, and protects the students' refectory from the scorching summer sun.

Instead of observing Child Labor Day on the Sabbath, as designated by President Harding, the Notre Dame pupils postponed it till Monday, so that the non-Catholic children could also be benefitted by the program.

Miss Eugenia Wyrick became "sweet sixteen" last week, and of course her mother had to come up from San Antonio to do justice to this occasion. Before returning home, Mrs. Wyrick called on her friends, Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Owey, at the American Legion Memorial Sanatorium.

Pupils of Notre Dame are eligible to a free collegiate or High School scholarship next school year at St. Edward's College in Austin, through the kindness of Very Rev. Dr. Schumacher and the Knights of Columbus. Father Kemper was Dr. Schumacher's first private pupil at Notre Dame University.

Bunco Party

The young folks at Notre Dame heard the farewell strains of "Home, Sweet Home" and "Auld Lang Syne" several times before they could make up their minds to leave the captivating social which lasted far beyond the midnight hour. Needless to say, therefore, that all those present at Miss Mary Mosel's Bunco Party in Washington Hall on Saturday night had a glorious time.

Besides the senior boarders at the academy, and many of the High School pupils, as well as some former scholars of Notre Dame, the party included Doris Robinson, Myrtle Bra-shour, Raymond Fisk, Arthur Lochte, William Saenger, Charley Pfeiffer, Bernhard Kuhlmann and others.

The first part of the evening's enjoyment was spent in card games, whereas the highest score fell to Miss Courtney Kaiser and Arthur Lochte. The consolation prizes were awarded Suddenly and quite unexpectedly the stillness was broken by a quick gentle sigh. But was it a sigh? It seemed almost like a sob to the man sitting upright in his chair in the library, straining his eyes to pierce the darkness, and his ears to catch the next sound that might break the silence. But no sound came, and after sitting tense and motionless for a few seconds he loosened his grip on the arms of the chair, rose, and walked quietly and unhurriedly to the open window opposite. The scene from the window was as peaceful as could be imagined.

Somewhere out there in the darkness was a human being—a girl, or a woman—who had crept up to his window with what intention it was impossible for him to guess.

With a sudden determination to find her, Roger Tilton put his foot over the window sill and in a moment more he had dropped noiselessly to the ground and was ready to begin his search.

"Oh, for a clue!" he whispered to himself. And then, gradually, it came to him that the air seemed to carry a very faint, sweet perfume.

He drew a flashlight from his pocket and threw its rays about the place where his feet had landed in the soft earth. Not two inches from the toe of his polished oxfords lay a crumpled little white handkerchief, and with a queer thrill of excitement he picked it up, smoothing it out between his fingers to see if there might be an initial in the corner. It was a small white square of linen, and it was still damp.

"So it was a sob, after all," he thought, and then his eyes caught the monogram—three letters embroidered very neatly and obscurely in one corner: RLB. The man looked as though he had been struck and after a moment he, too, caught his breath in something very like a sob.

"Ruth!" he whispered. He felt as though someone had gripped his throat in a vice. At last, almost desperately, he breathed this prayer:

"Oh, God, if it is Ruth, please let me find her. Please, for I can't let her go again."

He moved slowly toward the west wing of the house.

It was then that one might have noticed the slight limp that was always with him, and perhaps, if his thoughts could have been read, one would have found a world of suffering and sorrow behind those clear, blue eyes that were eagerly searching every shadow and hiding place. For his memory had gone back to that day two years ago when he had come back from France—a victim of shell-shock and bearing in his thigh an exceedingly disagreeable wound which would thereafter place an impediment on every step he took. That day was the hardest he had ever faced, for the thing he wanted most in all the world to do he could not do—to see Ruth Bradford; to go to her and to feel the comfort of her hot tears on his face.

He remembered with a twinge of pain the contagious ripple of her laughter, and he wondered whether she had learned to laugh again after he stopped writing. They had been engaged when he went to France and for months their letters were long, frequent and comforting. Then came the shock and the wound, followed by many weeks in a hospital. After that he had sent her no more letters. His pride and his sense of honesty forbade it, for he realized that it would not be fair to expect her to bind her perfect womanhood to one who was maimed for life.

All these thoughts and many more raced through his mind tonight and it was with a start of surprise that he found himself at the edge of the swamp.

It was only a matter of minutes before he found her, but it seemed like years. She lay face down in a patch of moonlight. Her hair was loosened so that it lay like a pool of gold about her shoulders. One foot was unceremoniously twisted in the gnarled root of a tree; that had been the cause of her cry of pain. Roger knelt beside her and with fingers that trembled he loosened the strap of her slipper and very, very gently removed the injured foot from its imprisonment. He lifted a strand of her hair in his fingers and pressed it to his lips.

"Oh, little girl, I didn't know; I—didn't know!" he sobbed.

At last, while he was watching her closely, her eyes opened, slowly, quivering, and looked up at him with a questioning, far away look.

"Ruth!" he whispered, and again, "Ruth!"

His lips sought hers again and again, and it was many minutes before either of them remembered that they had voices.

"Roy," she said when she finally did remember, and the old familiar nickname sent a thrill of joy right straight to the man's heart. "Roy, you'll never hide from me again, will you? Oh promise that you won't, for it's been almost too much to bear."

"No, dear, for I couldn't. I couldn't if I would; and I wouldn't if I could. Does that make you feel better?"

Ruth closed her eyes to hide the great wave of happiness that went surging through her heart, and it seemed to her that she could hear the music of children's laughter ringing in her ears.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

By Annie Claire Enderle

The girls of the Sophomore, Junior and Senior Classes met in Room 10 Tuesday afternoon to discuss the organization of a Girls' Club to run parallel to that of the Hi-Y Club to be organized among the High School boys. The purpose of this club is to aid in the moral development of the girls in the school and to form a student self-governing body among them. This club will be entirely managed by the girls and the majority seemed to be very enthusiastic about it. The officers of the club were elected as follows: Minnie Dietert, president; Mary Claire Williams, vice president; Margaret Morris, secretary, and Annie Claire Enderle, press reporter. The president appointed a board of directors to prepare the constitution and by-laws and several suggestive titles for the club, which are to be submitted to the club for adoption at the next meeting.

Last Friday our basket ball boys went to Center Point to return their games. Both teams were defeated, but they returned with smiles on their faces. The first team will go to Com-fort this Friday to return a game. Much practicing is being done.

The Grammar Department is getting ready for an entertainment, to Poppies transported from Flanders Fields to dump heaps of Jersey are adjudged a nuisance and a pest to agriculture by the Federal Horticultural Board. They are to be plowed under at once. The seed of the poppies came over in earth ballast, shipped from France by troop transports. The pathologist of the Federal Horticultural Board believes the reason the poppy blooms in Belgium and France is because the farmers cannot get rid of it.

The sidewalks of Manchester, Vermont, are of marble, the commonest rock found in that vicinity.

Sir Walter Raleigh Had a Bright Idea

YOU remember the episode of the rainy day when he threw his cloak into a puddle that the good queen might cross without getting wet feet and perhaps the flu. That was advertising. Sir Walter had a message of import to her majesty. He wanted a hearing. He got it—by a courteous and ingenious method of attracting favorable attention. It was another case of advertising that paid both ways.

Business today is metaphorically throwing its cloak before you. It seeks your favorable attention. It uses its most effective method of capturing it—ADVERTISING. Day after day it caters to your tastes, and your desires through advertising.

The men who advertise in this paper believe that if they succeed in getting their messages across to you, you will often be interested and sometimes inspired with a little of their own enthusiasm for their wares.

Advertising will help you. Whether you realize it or not, advertising is a big vital force in your life. Through it, American genius and American manufacturers are putting within your reach the many boons of modern life.

Advertising keeps your information up to date on every article of human need, whether food, clothing, articles of household utility, necessities or luxuries.

Advertisers deserve your support. The queen knighted Sir Walter.

CATHOLIC CHURCH NOTES

By Father Kemper

PAPAL MOURNING

By order of Bishop Drossaerts, special prayers were said daily after mass for the deceased pontiff, Benedict XV, after his demise until the time of his solemn funeral.

At Notre Dame the flag was flown at half mast while the body of the Holy Father rested in state in St. Peter's Basilica.

Father Kemper knew Pope Benedict when he was Monsignor Giacomo della Chiesa, under-secretary to Cardinal Merry Del Val.

Once the Conclave starts, the doubly locked and sealed doors of this walled enclosure will not be opened until the next pope is chosen.

Thursday, the opening of the Conclave, is the feast of the Purification of the Blessed Virgin, also known as Candlemas-day, because on this occasion the wax candles are blessed that will be used in liturgical services during the year.

Another High Mass will be sung on Friday, with the customary devotions in honor of the Sacred Heart. After Benediction of the Bl. Sacrament, the blessing of St. Blase will be given.

On Tuesday morning a Requiem Mass will be read in the Convent chapel for the repose of the soul of Pope Benedict XV.

Because of the crowded program, no church functions will be held this week in the Mexican chapel.

J. O. Ahnert motored to Sabinal on Thursday of last week, scouting for a new bakery opening.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH

J. GRADY TIMMONS

On next Sunday we will have our regular program throughout the day. Everything locally, of course, was practically disbanded last Sunday, because of the Central Group meeting at Center Point.

The Sunday School will meet at the regular time, 9:45 a. m. We are moving splendidly and hope to increase the school in attendance and efficiency.

At the morning hour of worship, 11 a. m., the subject will be: "The Functions of the Church." And we cordially invite all our friends and visitors to worship with us at this hour.

The Junior League meets at 3:30 p. m. This department of our life is enthusiastic and growing.

At 6:45 p. m., the Senior League will meet, and to this we invite all young people who are not already engaged in similar work.

At 7:30 p. m., we will have our evening worship. Subject, "Righteousness Dissatisfaction."

The Prayer Service meets each Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, and choir practice follows immediately.

The Central Group Meeting at Center Point last Sunday was a success in every way. Two of these group meetings were held in the Kerrville District on that day.

The people at Center Point proved themselves to be delightful hosts in every sense of the word.

Court Bars Boys

Peoria, Ill., Jan. 28.—Boys under 21 years of age are barred from entering Peoria County court rooms while court is in session, as a result of an order Friday by the chief deputy sheriff, who says that youths observing the attorneys in action learned to disregard the law.

The decree is the outgrowth of complaints made by Peoria welfare societies. It is the belief of these organizations that youths come to look on an attorney as a superman and that they get the idea that they can be freed no matter what the offense.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

J. B. HOLT, Pastor

The Fifth Sunday Meeting closed Sunday evening. It was a good meeting, and everyone present seemed to enjoy it.

The all-day meeting of the women Thursday was excellent clear through. Aside from their regular program they had two very fine readings by Miss Bruff of Center Point and a special song by the Sunbeams.

Another good surprise was the visit of members of the Center Point B. Y. P. U. to our Young People's Rally Sunday night.

Our Bible School superintendent, F. E. Garrett, made a splendid address Sunday at the Sunday School Rally on "The Qualifications and Work of a Bible School Superintendent."

Mrs. Huber, our Sunbeam leader, was sick during the meeting and

IRISH LAVA COOLS

Philadelphia Public Ledger: From Ireland the news is good, even remarkable. South Ireland is to lift the boycott against Belfast goods and wares and banks. Ulster undertakes to see that Catholic workmen chased away from the Belfast shipyards shall go back to work. Dublin and Belfast have struck out on their own way to finding and fashioning machinery to deal with island problems better than the 1920 act for a council of Ireland can deal with them. They propose to fix their own boundaries, mutually deal with a threatened rail strike and empty their jails of political prisoners.

If you guess that De Valera had nothing to do with all this, you guess right. Premier Craig of Ulster and Michael Collins of South Ireland were the men who have worked out this fine, plain, practical, common-sense agreement.

In a hopeful time for Ireland this is not the least hopeful happening. It is plain that Belfast and Dublin are moving nearer each other in the common interest of a common country.

Of course, there will be lingering bitterness and hot hate nursed and codded to keep it hot. It takes time for lava to cool. When Belfast and Dublin, James Craig and Michael Collins find themselves in accord, that cooling has begun. Both Ireland South and Ireland North are to be congratulated.

Those who work and economize can successfully meet almost any kind of a situation in this country.

Those who are properly situated for it, ought to irrigate and raise plenty of vegetables this spring. There will be a good local demand.

The slight rainfall and misty, cloudy condition for the past two or more weeks has helped some, but a good trash mover is needed to meet the needs of this section.

Henry Ford has signed the proposition to take over Muscle Shoals in Alabama, which Congress is to pass upon. Write your Congressman and the two Texas Senators to give this measure their support, as it means cheaper fertilizer and also the employment of thousands of idle men, as well as developing an immense electric power by use of water.

THE SHEEREST ROT

Fort Worth Star-Telegram: A New York broker, who has made $2,000,000, has handed his business over to his brother and nephew and quit.

He says he has made enough money. And besides he wants to run a small newspaper he has purchased. He describes this last as "playing with his hobby."

"Piling up money doesn't do you any good," he says. "You can only eat three square meals a day. And dissipation isn't any good—it just gives you a headache."

Probably 999 persons out of every thousand who read that statement will think it's good sense.

One in a thousand will know that it is sheer rot.

If he really believed that, he could have quit when he had made $200,000 and then had an income of $10,000 a year to live on, which certainly would provide three meals a day.

With $2,000,000 he cannot possibly spend his income at 5 per cent without living extravagantly.

And if he lives on $1,000 a month and reinvests the remainder of his income, he'll be worth another million in about ten years.

He's only 40 now.

But it is not from that standpoint alone that this sort of talk is the sheerest rot.

It is the implication that there is something commendable about retiring from business—at 40, mind you—when a man has made as much as $2,000,000.

His own observation about "three square meals a day" replies decisively to that idea. For it is true that even men who are worth hundreds of millions of dollars can eat only three meals a day, wear one suit of clothes at a time, sleep in one bed and have only a limited amount of amusement. Do such men keep on the job, and work hard in directing the affairs of their business, simply for such things? Are the most conspicuous men in the business world—the men of many millions—notorious spenders? On the contrary, are not some of them notoriously frugal?

The fortunes of such men are invested in industry. They are the capital of railroads, of factories and the like—they make up the great supply of capital which makes it possible for the United States to turn out the greatest per capita production in the world. And it is this fact—that we have the greatest per capita production—that makes our standard of living the highest in the world—and this fact alone. The standard of living in any country is determined by its per capita production and by nothing else. And not only are the fortunes of such men tied up in the industrial machinery which makes that possible, but a major portion of their annual income goes back into industry in new investment. All they get is what they consume—the three square meals and the rest—and their fortunes are employed in the service of society.

The point here is that the accumulation of capital and the skillful direction of capital in industry are among the highest types of social service, from an economic standpoint. And it is a lack of recognition of that great fact that is responsible for most of our economic sins, both as individuals and as a Nation.

RIDICULING PROHIBITION

Dearborn Independent: Evidence abounds on all sides that the American people have been made the victims of a country-wide system of propaganda in favor of the outlawed liquor traffic. This propaganda has taken the form of ridiculing prohibition—that is to say, ridiculing the Constitution and the laws of the United States.

We are an easy-going people and especially susceptible to the species of humor which consists of exaggeration. Our risibilities are stirred especially by the newspaper cartoon, or the theater and film joke, or the sly allusion which in some sort demonstrates how well we have gotten rid of the bump of reverence. In essence, there is much wholesome common sense in the democratic instinct which is not deterred by ancient tradition or convention from laughing at pretense or stupidity in high places. Not even a Senator is safe from the shafts of our satire or caricature.

But the sort of "humor" exploited by the "wet" propagandists just now is not American. There is nothing spontaneous or good humored about it. Its artificiality and premeditation are obvious and give it a false and hollow ring. There is something sordid in its mockery—a suggestion of the laughing-jackass or the hyena. And that sort of a campaign is very likely to overshoot the mark and prove a boomerang. In the oft-related story of Congressman Tim Murphy's telling President Cleveland that "a little thing like the Constitution should not stand betwixt friends," it is Tim's notion we laugh at, not the Constitution.

The present propaganda of ridicule is based on a fundamental misconception of American mentality. It is as if our laughing at Artemus Ward's declaration of his readiness to sacrifice all his wife's relations on the altar of his country should be interpreted as proof that we harbored murder in our hearts against our own mothers-in-law.

"Whether prohibition can be made to work," says Bishop Lawrence of Massachusetts, "depends largely on the support of public sentiment." The good bishop may rest assured that, the American people being sound at the core, stand ready to listen to the appeal from Philip drunk to Philip sober. A reaction toward stern reality is already apparent in refusal to see any cause for mirthfulness in wholesale murder or in the deliberate attempt of an alien element to bring our laws and our Nation into contempt. A New York daily may feature under first-page headlines a cable dispatch, "Our 'Dry' New Year a Joke for London: American Brand of Prohibition Gets Huge Laugh"; but clear-thinking and right-minded Americans understand very well that it is the fault of the contempters, and not of the friends of prohibition, if our country is made a laughing stock abroad. They will hardly thank the "wets" for bringing this reproach upon American institutions.

The cold horror of the whole thing is being brought home to all of us, day by day, incidents of which the following is typical: On the morning of New Year's Day, a bright and popular 17-year-old youth in Ann Arbor, Michigan, was found lying dead in an automobile left standing before his parents' home. He had gone out with several companions the evening before to celebrate the coming in of the New Year. They indulged in "moonshine" whiskey and when they returned, this boy told his companions to let him "sleep it off in the car," as he did not want his parents to see him in an intoxicated condition. An autopsy showed that he had drunk more than a pint of a poisonous concoction called "whiskey" and containing a high percentage of wood alcohol. The man who supplied the poison is held on a charge of manslaughter; but his punishment will not restore the young and promising life nor lift the gloom and grief cast by the tragedy on the home of his father and mother and on the entire neighborhood. This is not funny!

With the work on the American Legion Memorial Sanatorium and the dirt roads in Kerr County, there will be an unusual demand for chickens, eggs and butter, fresh vegetables and fruit. Those who turn their attention to furnishing these things will be in a more prosperous condition.

The Kerrville branch of the Aransas Pass Railroad could increase its patronage by putting on gasoline motor cars and making two trips a day each way. However, if it wants to rot out and let the motor trucks, autos and jitneys carry the passengers and freight, there is nothing to prevent that result. So far as the people generally are concerned, more of the money for such service is kept at home if the motor trucks and autos do the work. Heavy engines and cars are out of date on short line railroads, and those failing to observe this will eventually go into the discard. There is one feature of it, in which Kerrville and the other towns along this branch line are interested—the possible further curtailing of railroad service. How long can this branch line continue to give even the limited service it does, when its patronage is no more than it evidently is at present? If the railroad service would be abandoned altogether, can the motor trucks and autos meet the demands for freight and travel?

In quite a lengthy and accurate article on the business and financial situation of the world, and this country in particular, Theodore H. Price of New York, sums up the condition very accurately in the following paragraph: "All over the world there is a disposition to rely on conference and legislation and bond issues to remedy conditions that would probably yield to hard work inspired by faith in the belief that the Lord helps him who helps himself. This faith is the supreme need of the present hour."

OKLAHOMA BANK USES NEW IDEAS FOR FARMS

Mountain Park, Okla., Jan. 28.—"With five cows and 150 hens, J. H. Good, who lives west of town, sold $67 worth of young chickens, $165.42 worth of eggs and $256.24 worth of cream, making a total of $488.66, during the year, 1921."

No, that's not a county agents report. It's a part of an advertisement appearing in the Mountain Park Herald, Kiowa County, paid for by the Planters' State Bank of that town.

This bank doesn't use the old stereotyped phrases about saving money, thrift and "start a bank account." There's nothing said about "service with conservatism" in these advertisements. Instead the bank advertises that "The dawn of prosperity is near. Let us be better prepared to meet it by living at home and having money to invest when the time comes."

Then to make its argument carry weight, the bank starts a "live at home" contest, and offers a prize of $50 in gold to the farmer bringing the greatest amount of farm produce, cream, poultry and eggs to market in the next eight months. Every week it prints a report of how some farmer made money last year in this way.

The new immigration law of America has kept 1,000,000 farmers out of the United States for the next five months, according to the House Immigration Committee. Only 180,000 aliens are allowed to enter the country in five months of the year.

If Carefully Selected and Kept Free of Broken Glass and Tin 30 Per Cent Saving Made.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A practical manner of reducing the production costs of market eggs consists in feeding fresh garbage placed before the flock as soon as possible after it has been rejected from the table. Used judiciously it will reduce the cost of egg and meat production from 25 to 30 per cent. The garbage must be fresh and free from all fermentation and sourness. The intrinsic value of garbage as a poultry feed is due to the fact that it provides a varied ration which fits all the needs and requirements of the flock.

One explanation of why the small flock owner, with his backyard bevy of hens, secures heavy production of eggs, hinges around the fact that he emphasizes the use of table scraps in the ration. Similar results obtain where large commercial flocks are given access to daily allowances of sanitary, well-selected and palatable garbage. Although the character of garbage varies throughout the year, due to the fact that more succulent vegetables and fruits are used during the summer, this refuse is also a valuable substitute for costly grains and concentrates in the hen menu.

Unfortunate results which in some instances have followed the use of garbage are due to feeding a mixture of table scraps that was not carefully selected. Hens like fresh garbage, but are not able to digest scraps of tin, phonograph needles and similar foreign material. Unless such substances are separated from the garbage, disastrous results invariably follow and the poultryman soon abandons garbage feeding and condemns it as unsatisfactory. The Department of Agriculture recommends that fresh garbage be run through a meat or vegetable chopper, and mixed with a little ground feed before it is fed to the fowls.

As much of the table refuse should be fed as the flock will clean up with a relish in the course of an hour. All feed which the birds reject should be removed from the feeding pens or yards as soon as possible thereafter. Otherwise, it sours and contaminates the premises and, subsequently, if the fowls eat it it invariably causes digestive troubles.

Where garbage is fed, it is also prerequisite to provide a light ration of grain twice daily, as well as to supply dry mash in a hopper before the flock. As a rule table scraps are rich in protein and only occasionally is it necessary to supplement the mash with approximately 5 per cent of meat meal. During the summer garbage decomposes and ferments quickly and it must be fed before it reaches this stage. The feeding of garbage is favored during cold weather because in the winter the refuse keeps better. Suburban flock-owners may often secure the garbage from neighboring families who do not keep hens. This source of feed may be so plentiful that the flock-owner can expand his hen-keeping operations and even afford to pay a small amount for the garbage.

Experiments in feeding garbage at the government experiment farm at Beltsville, Md., indicate that ten hens will consume about one quart of garbage daily. A suitable dry mash as a supplement to this garbage consists of three parts by weight of cornmeal, one part of bran, one part of middlings and 5 per cent of meat scraps. This mash is kept before the fowls all the time. If the table scraps contain much fruit and vegetable peelings, more mash should be added, while if the garbage consists chiefly of potato peelings, bread and meat less mash should be used. Care should be exercised to drain off soapy water or excess liquid from the garbage.

PULLETS MUST HAVE GREENS

Fowls Seldom Pick Up Enough on Free Range in Fall on Account of Plants Drying Up.

Green feed must be provided if the pullets are to grow rapidly. They seldom get enough even when on free range in early fall, for most of the plants and herbage have long since turned the succulent stage. A newly hatched bird of grass or a patch of rye, surviving barley, or rape sowed early in the fall, gives the best results. Green chard, or beet tops

TURKEYS FOR THANKSGIVING

Six Weeks in November and December Constitute Duration of Market for Big Birds.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The American public demands turkey for Thanksgiving, and gets it usually if it is humanly possible. On no other festival of the year do the people of this country feel it necessary to have any one kind of meat, but Thanksgiving without turkey is like Hamlet without the ghost to most Americans. Many serve turkey at Christmas and New Year's also, but after the holiday season is past the demand for turkeys is usually small. This makes the marketing season for turkeys very short, running as it does from the middle of November to the latter part of December.

In sections where turkeys are grown in large numbers, as in Texas, dressing plants have been built by poultry dealers, who buy the birds alive and dress them for the various city markets. In such cases practically all the turkey raisers sell to these dealers, who often send buyers out into the country to gather up a drove of several hundred birds by stopping at each farm as they pass, weighing whatever turkeys the farmer may have to sell, and adding them to those already collected.

Turkeys to be killed and dressed on the farm should first be deprived of feed for 24 hours, but given plenty of fresh, clean water in order to clean the crop and intestines of all feed. When ready to kill, the bird should be hung up by the feet; holding the bird in one hand, a sharp, narrow-bladed knife is used to sever the veins in the throat by making a small cut inside the mouth on the right side of the throat, at the base of the skull. After making this cut and bleeding begins, the knife is thrust up through the groove in the roof of the mouth and into the brain at the back part of the skull. The bird gives a peculiar squawk, the feathers are loosened by a quivering of the muscles, and death is instantaneous.

In dry-picking, the feathers should be plucked immediately, and if the bird has been properly stuck they come out very easily. The tail and large wing feathers are removed first, after which the body feathers are pulled out. When the turkeys are to be marketed locally or are to be shipped but a short distance, they are cooled to a temperature of about 35 degrees Fahrenheit by hanging in the open air, provided the weather is cold enough, otherwise they are plunged into ice water and kept there until thoroughly cooled.

After cooling they are packed undrawn in boxes or barrels. It is inadvisable for the producer without proper refrigerating facilities to ship dressed turkeys, as losses from improper cooling and from their being exposed to warm weather during transit are liable to occur. Aside from this it is seldom profitable to ship turkeys any great distance except in carload lots; when this is done the turkeys are cooled to 32 degrees Fahrenheit, packed in boxes or barrels, and shipped in refrigerator cars.

YOUNG FOWLS BEST LAYERS

Seldom Pays to Keep Hens for Laying After They Are Past Two Years of Age.

There are people who have the right variety of fowls, who house and feed them properly, and yet who cannot obtain eggs early in the winter because their fowls are too old. It is seldom that it pays to keep hens for laying after they are two and a half years old; not that they will not give a profit, but because younger fowls will give a greater profit.

MAKE PROFIT OUT OF FOWLS

Farmer Should Keep Hens in Pink of Condition by Giving Good Care and Proper Feed.

Farmers should not endeavor to raise hens under natural conditions. For a hen raised that way is a liability rather than an asset. A profit out of hens is a sure thing if they are kept in the pink of health. This can only be done by giving good care and

STROUD MOTOR COMPANY IN HANDS OF RECEIVER

Edwards County Leader, Jan. 27: A report from Sonora in the San Angelo Standard says Judge Jas. Cornell has appointed L. J. Wardlaw, prominent lawyer, as receiver for the Stroud Motor Co. of San Antonio, on petition of a number of Sutton County stockholders, who charge fraud and mismanagement on the part of the officers of the Stroud Company. About $50,000 of Stroud Motor stock is held by Sutton County people. And it is charged that the company has ceased to operate, yet a salary account of $6,000 a month continues, and that the company only built about forty tractors.

There are a considerable number of Stroud stockholders in Edwards County, who will be interested in this proceeding. They each expected it to make them rich, and no doubt it would have done so had conditions remained good so people could have brought tractors and such things.

The Fifth Sunday Group Meeting, held here last Sunday by the Methodist people, was quite a success, considering the inclemency of the weather. There were in attendance from Kerrville some forty or more, fifteen from Comfort, besides a few from Boerne and Bandera. Dinner was served in the Sunday School rooms to more than three hundred. The dinner consisted of excellent barbecued beef, bread, pickles, cake and coffee. A well arranged program of speaking and music was carried out, which lasted throughout the day. A permanent organization was effected and an executive committee appointed, consisting of one member from each of the pastoral charges represented. Judge H. C. Geddie of Kerrville was elected chairman of this committee. Bandera was selected as the place for holding the next meeting, which will be the fifth Sunday in July.

R. T. Ross returned Monday from Hattiesburg, Miss., where he has spent the past two weeks visiting relatives. He told your reporter that it rained every day while he was there, and the sun did not make his appearance at any time.

Among those attending the Group Meeting, held here Sunday, from Kerrville we noticed the following: Rev. and Mrs. Timmons, Judge and Mrs. H. C. Geddie, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Meeker, J. J. Starkey, Mrs. D. H. Compartmente, Mrs. J. E. Grinstead, Miss Janie Clark and many others whom we do not now recall.

On last Friday afternoon the boys' basket ball team from the Tivy High School came down to measure skill with the teams from our school. Notwithstanding the disagreeable weather, a large crowd witnessed the games, which were both won by our home teams. The score for the first team was 22 to 12 in favor of Center Point, and the score for the second team was about the same.

Ford Garage at Rocksprings Sold

Edwards County Leader, Jan. 27: A deal was completed this week whereby J. W. Gilmer sold his Ford Garage property, consisting of several lots and the big uncompleted garage building, and the meat market building, on the west side of the square, to Tom Moore, the well known Ingram merchant. The sale also includes an interest in the rock walls of the drug store building and the First National Bank building.

Mr. Moore is reported to be a wide-awake, thorough-going business man, and it is good that he is going to be in business here. We have not learned anything of his plans, nor of Mr. Gilmer's, as he left immediately on a trip to San Antonio.

Ask Your Doctor About This

The well equipped bath room is now one of the fundamental necessities of decent, healthful living.

If you have no bath room in your home, or if you are putting up with out-of-date plumbing, it means that you and your family are depriving yourselves of an economic convenience and luxury which most of your neighbors are enjoying.

Your doctor will tell you that a morning shower or a dip in the tub just before retiring will increase your vitality and with it your mental and physical efficiency.

Considering the matter from a standpoint of health, it will pay you to have a modern bath room in your home.

PETE

By MOLLIE MATHER

Copyright, 1921, Western Newspaper Union.

Dora turned her petulant gaze upon the young man seated before her. He was an idle, good looking young man, and as Dora's petulance merely added to her charms, he smiled good humoredly.

"Well, what's the affliction now? New car not turned out to be all as expected, or has Phipps developed distemper?"

"The new car," Dora answered crisply, "is all that was represented. And Phipps is a healthy dog. The trouble is, I wish Aunt Celesta had willed her valuables, (meaning house and garden) to some other dependable relation. The gift to me was unexpected because Aunt Celesta and I never did get along well. And she hasn't left money enough to properly care for the place, which, under the condition of legate, I am obliged to occupy. Look at that lawn, Bertie Barlow, grass so tall and bushy one can scarcely walk through it, and no man to cut it down. Why don't you prove yourself a friend in need, and bring out the lawn mower? The exercise would do you good."

Bert Barlow glanced ruefully down his immaculate white flannels. "Wouldn't do the suit any good," he objected, "anyway I am out here for a vacation. What's the matter with asking the fellow across the way to come over and mow this grass when he is through with that job over there."

Dora hopefully regarded the khaki-clad figure, busily troweling the garden beds opposite.

"I am afraid," Dora said, "that the people over there hire him regularly. Thornton is the name on their mail box. I have not met Mrs. Thornton, but she is a sweet-faced, silvery-haired old lady, who frequently comes out to give the man directions regarding the pruning of trees and so forth."

Dora crossed the dusty highway and presented herself to the laborer. "I would like to engage you," she announced, "to mow my lawn—the garden opposite—I have also other odd jobs for you to do, if you work out by the day."

The man straightened from his task. He was tall and lissome, his dark eyes gravely regarded Dora, while he brushed the hair from his forehead with a grimy hand.

"I am the new tenant of the Harmon house," she explained, "when will you be able to come over and work for me?"

The man's eyes were still speculative. "Well, I've got a lot here to finish," he began.

"Tomorrow then?" Dora's tone was imperative.

The man smiled in sudden surrender. His white teeth flashed against the tanned brown of his face.

"Tomorrow then," he agreed.

Bertie was lolling on the veranda the following morning, when Dora's workman reported for duty. He still wore the dirty khaki suit, and set to work with a will. She went with him to hunt the cythe and mower with the garage and admired the free easy swing of his arms as he worked.

Bertie's indolent inactivity fretted her more than usual; Bertie was becoming each day more uninteresting. Dora was quite sure now that she could never marry him. His visit to the country had proven the fact.

"If you please," called the workman, "will you show me where to hang the hammock beneath the trees?"

Dora went to show him, and when the hammock was placed, she sat in it, and explained—while the man stood looking up into the branches—just how she would like the tree trimmed. And as he got out his pruning knives, he talked to her respectfully, yet with a pleasing humor, concerning the countryside and its residents.

Dora was utterly astonished when the noon whistle blew and quite indifferent to Bertie's resentment of her neglect.

"I am going," she told him after the noon meal, "to direct Pete in the arrangement of a flower bed. 'Pete' is the name the man told me to call him by. So you will have to amuse yourself this afternoon, Bertie, or go home."

Bertie, in his grievance, promptly went home. But as days passed with no word from her desirable admirer, Dora felt no regret.

She was busy—happily busy—in the planning out of an entirely new garden, which her workman was to bring to achievement; and sometimes as she sat at twilight, with only Aunt Celesta's housekeeper for company, Dora thought very wistfully of the strange contrast in life of Bertie and his kind, aimless, assured and tiresome; and of the other man, assured too, in some mysterious, masterful way, but tiresome. Oh! never; Dora sighed over her thought; the big man's mere presence was satisfying as no man's presence had ever been before. Through the shadowy garden, she saw him coming slowly toward her, not a khaki-clad figure now. She marveled at the trim, gray suit, the smooth, dark hair. "Pete," Dora cried, tremulously. And he took her hands in his clasp and sat down beside her.

"Otherwise Peter Thornton," he explained, "your neighbor across the way."

"And I went over," she murmured, confused, "and boldly engaged you." Peter Thornton laid his bronzed cheek against Dora's clasped hands.

"And now, dear," he said, "I have come over boldly asking to be engaged to you."

FEDERAL PROHIBITION AGENTS IN TEXAS TO HAVE MACHINE GUNS

Houston, Tex., Jan. 28.—Federal prohibition agents in Texas will soon be armed with machine guns.

Morris A. Moore, head of the field forces of the prohibition agents in Texas, made this announcement here today, following receipt of notice that a requisition has been approved.

With the use of machine guns, Moore said, the work of the prohibition sleuths will be made easier and the death rate among his men while on duty will be lowered. To date four agents have been killed in action, Moore asserted.

One man in the United States is living in approximately four different States at the same time. He is a ranchman whose house and lands cover the corners of Utah, Colorado, Arizona and New Mexico. The windmill that pumps water for his stock stands in New Mexico and pumps water into a trough in Arizona. The house is exactly in the center of where the four corners of the several States meet.

John Morris, who has been spending several weeks at Morris Ranch, left last week for his home in New York.

Mrs. Kate Dewees has returned to her home in San Antonio, after a visit with her daughters, Mrs. Robt. Remschel and Mrs. Ola Gammon.

The Parent-Teachers' Club will meet next Wednesday, February 8th, when the following program on "How to Keep Well" will be given: Vocal solo (selected), Miss Clara Herzog; "Fresh Air and Exercise," Mrs. J. S. Wheelless; "Food," Mrs. Robt. Knox; "Milk, the National Drink," Mrs. J. L. Leisinger; "Tooth Inspection in the School," a teacher; "Nerves and Grouches," Mrs. R. L. Schmerbeck; piano duet, Mrs. J. B. Young and Miss Lucille McCoy.

Rev. Dr. Macdougall has returned from San Antonio, where he spent several days attending the Annual Council of the Episcopal Church. The Right Reverend Bishop Gailor, D. D., who is the "Archbishop" of the whole Church in the United States, honored the Council with his presence and
