RAIN EXTENDED 2,000 MILES; WORTH HALF MILLION HERE

The rain that fell last Friday night and Saturday extended for 2,000 miles and was worth half a million dollars to this trade territory.

The Divide reported a two-inch rain, as did the Rocksprings section, while it lessened between those points and Kerrville to about two-thirds of an inch.

The ranchmen have had to buy lots of feed for lack of rain and considerable live stock died, but even at this, the rain will prove of inestimable benefit to the people of this whole western section. The grass will soon shoot forth, and wheat and oats are expected to make excellent crops.

It is also believed that the epidemic of flu will be curtailed, as it had begun to cover this whole drouth section, in which thousands were affected.

San Antonio, March 25.—Violent thunderstorms in Fort Worth and Houston, a precipitation of seven inches in the latter city, increasing floods near Iola, Kan., long-needed moisture for the farms and ranches of Central West Texas, and a prospect of increasing danger in the flooded Mississippi are some of the things brought by a 2,000-mile storm cloud, extending from the Texas Gulf to Kansas during Friday and Saturday. Good rains have been reported as far south as Brownsville and as far west as Big Springs, Texas. The rainfall has been the most general since the fall of 1921.

Ballinger, Tex., March 25.—Nine months of drouth was broken in this section by a rainfall of one to three inches last night. Ample stock water now is assured in places where the farmers for several months have been hauling a supply for their live stock.

San Angelo, Tex., March 25.—Rainfall, averaging one inch, last night shattered a dry spell of several months' duration in Tom Green, Sterling, Howard, Mitchell, Nolan, Runnels, Coleman, Concho, Schleicher, Sutton, Edwards, Crockett, Upton, Reagan and Irion Counties. Cattlemen say water holes have been filled on the ranges and that weeds and grass will spring up, thus eliminating the necessity of further feeding live stock.

SUPERINTENDENT J. W. CAREY CORRECTS A RECENT REPORT

Kerrville, Tex., March 25.—Dr. J. W. Carey, superintendent of the American Legion Memorial Sanatorium, has issued the following:

"An article in the San Antonio Express under date of March 22nd leaves an erroneous impression upon the public mind. I am therefore writing this with a view of correcting same. The statement is therein made that there are 60 patients in the American Legion Memorial Sanatorium at Kerrville, of which number only 12 are Texas ex-service men. There are 33 patients transferred there by the Federal Government and 15 civilians admitted by the Board of Control. It is the policy of the board to give the Texas soldiers every preference, said Chairman Cowell, but so few asked for admission that we made the contract with the Federal Government on a per diem basis and also admitted worthy civilians who couldn't enter the State Sanatorium at Carlsbad."

"The facts are there are 65 patients now in this institution, instead of 60 as above stated, 41 of whom are ex-service men and 24 civilians. All of the 65 are Texans, we have admitted none but bona fide citizens."

"Of the 41 ex-service men now present 22 are wards of the Federal Government but are Texans, the other 19 ex-service men are Texans but are entered as State patients, same as civilians are. The Federal Government is paying this institution $3 per day for the care of its wards, which amount as well as other earnings from whatever source is remitted to the State Treasury on the first of each month."

"This institution opened for service June 23rd, 1921, with a then capacity of 32 patients, and on November 9th, 1921, another ward of a like capacity was put into service. Since opening there have been 109 entrants; 68 were ex-service Texans and 41 civilians; of that total seven have died, two were dismissed on account of improper conduct, and 35 left of their own accord.

"At one time the Federal Government had 34 wards here, but a ruling has been handed down that all contract hospitals would be abandoned, hence the decrease in our Federal patients. I trust that this will correct the impression that we are receiving other than Texans in this institution. I am sure Chairman Cowell never intended leaving the impression that we were receiving other than Texans."

OLD FREIGHTERS HEAR STORY OF KIDNAPING FIFTY-SIX YEARS AGO

San Antonio Express: Kidnaped by Indians 56 years ago from their home 20 miles north of San Antonio, forced to ride horseback the entire distance to the Comanche Nation in the Old Indian Territory, now Oklahoma, exposed by day and night without the protection of a single garment, "staked out" when rests were made, and thrown the cast-off meat as their only nourishment—that in brief was the harrowing experience of Jefferson Davis Smith, now of San Antonio, and his brother, C. L. Smith, now of Rocksprings, as related by the former. The occasion for the story was the annual convention of the Pioneer Freighters' Association, which convened last Saturday at San Pedro Park. The boys were 6 and 8 years, respectively, when they were kidnaped.

Here is the story the younger Smith told his companions as they sat under the big trees in San Pedro Park:

"My brother and I were out herding goats one Sunday morning, March 10, 1866. It was about 10 o'clock in the morning that 12 Comanche Indians swooped down upon us, stripped us of our clothes and carried us away on horseback across the Red River into Indian Territory, which is now Oklahoma. We were only a few hundred yards from home at the time.

Father Saw Capture
"My father noticed the Indians chasing us, which chase lasted for a half mile before we were caught. One of the Indians rode his horse up beside me and pulled me up beside him by the hair of my head.

"The Indians had with them about 60 horses, which they had stolen. We took a northern course. Within a few hours a posse of friends and relatives took up the trail. That night we camped in cedar brakes in the vicinity of Fredericksburg. It was a cold night and my brother and I had no clothes to keep us warm. We were tied to stakes with small ropes.

"Near midnight we succeeded in breaking the ropes and started toward a light in the distance. But within 200 yards we were overtaken and returned to camp.

"The next morning we passed a house at day-break. An all-night dance was just closing and several members of the party were in the front yard, including my brother-in-law, who recognized us, and joined in the chase with 60 other men who had been on the trail all day and night.

"Up above Fredericksburg, the Indians had killed a man with their arrows and had my brother to get down from the horse and see if he was dead. Twenty arrows pierced the man's back and he died almost instantly. He was killed while chopping wood near his home.

"Most of the time we traveled both day and night. I suppose the Indians knew that we were being followed. The posse kept a hot trail until the bloodhound gave out and could follow the trail no longer. Several times the Rangers were within sight of us, but never approached within firing distance.

Buffalo Herd Seen
"We rode bareback without any clothing, and it was severe riding, day after day and night after night. When we got to the Wichita Mountains, I saw great buffalo herds grazing on the ranges. The herds disappeared like a black cloud on the ground on sight of us.

"One of the Indians succeeded in roping one of the animals. My brother and I were placed on his back, tied fast so we could not jump off, and the buffalo ran away with us. All we could do was to stay with the mount, and my brother fared better than I did, as he was older and knew how to stay on top, but I lost my grip and slid under the animal and was severely bruised before getting on his back again.

"The buffalo ran as far as he could and then stopped. The Indians were there and released us.

"After a ride of five or six days we reached the Comanche Nation. A four-day celebration was held. I led a rough life with the Indians, never had any cooked meat to eat. I remember once the Indians killed a young calf. The liver was cut out before the animal stopped kicking and I had to eat it.

"As captives of the Comanche Indians were severely treated. We had no place to sleep and no clothing to wear. Our duty was to herd horses day and night. We spent such a life for three years, and when I was finally rescued by the Government and returned home, I could not speak English. I was then 9 years of age and my brother was 11 years."

BAPTIST SUNDAY SCHOOL TEAM WINS IN THE SECOND CONTEST

Monday night in the Presbyterian Church the Baptist and Methodist Sunday School spelling teams met in contest and the former were victors.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Garrett and Mrs. Roebuck were the spellers left on the Baptist side after all the Methodist team had missed and retired. J. J. Starkey was the last speller on the Methodist team.

The winning by the Baptist team necessitates another match, which will be between the Presbyterians and Baptists. This will take place Saturday night at the Methodist Church.

Judge Lee Wallace did the pronouncing during the contest Monday night and gave entire satisfaction.

There was a crowded house to hear the spellers and the spectators enjoyed the ordeal very much.

Director Guy Moses says that the younger members of the various Sunday Schools will be given a chance at spelling contests, if they desire.

CHAS. DUBOSE MADE SPLENDID ADDRESS TO THE MEN'S CLUB

A the regular meeting of the Presbyterian Men's Club Tuesday night, Chas. Dubose, a prominent business man of San Antonio, made a splendid address. He had for his subject, "Service," which he broadened into correct living, Christian character, good citizenship and the doing well of anything undertaken.

Mr. Dubose rightly took the viewpoint that religion was not any longer for the ministers and women alone, nor was it necessary to wear a long face and have a sour appearance to be a Christian, but that the business and political affairs of the world were the gainers by applying religious principles and teachings.

In the World War, Mr. Dubose stated, our boys who went to battle for their country, performed a noble service, and the feeling that actuated them in this act was one we could emulate in the more prosaic affairs of life.

Mr. Dubose is a successful business man, but that does not prevent him being a conscientious Christian and making his religion an everyday affair. His was a most splendid address, and it will have a very beneficial effect on all those who heard it. Several members commented favorably upon the address.

There was an interesting social program rendered as usual, including music furnished by Messrs. Robinson, Bowden and Emil Saenger, as well as humorous stories by Judge Turner, R. A. Franklin and Dr. S. E. Thompson.

BOOTLEGGER A TRAITOR, SAYS GOVERNOR NEFF IN AN ADDRESS

Austin, Tex., March 24.—Gov. Neff was the principal speaker at a mass meeting held last night at Creedmoor, Travis County, under the auspices of the Travis County Law Enforcement League, recently organized. The meeting at Creedmoor, which is a hamlet, located 15 miles from Austin, marked the first move of the league to carry the doctrine of law enforcement into the rural communities. Governor Neff discussed the bootlegger. He said:

LUCIAN W. PARRISH

CONGRESSMAN LUCIAN W. PARRISH DIES FROM AUTOMOBILE INJURIES

Wichita Falls, Tex., March 25.—Congressman Lucian W. Parrish of the 13th Texas District, who was injured in an automobile accident near Roby, Texas, on the night of March 15th, died here tonight after a game fight for life.

Congressman Parrish was a candidate for the Democratic nomination to the United States Senate, and was on a speaking tour when an automobile containing him and a companion went off a bridge. Congressman Parrish suffered a fractured jaw in addition to other injuries.

He was brought to a hospital here where attending physicians did not regard his condition as serious. For several days he showed marked improvement, but later his condition was complicated by an attack of cerebral meningitis. He then became gradually weaker until his death tonight.

COMFORTABLE AND UNIQUE HOME ON WHEELS PASSES THROUGH HERE

One day last week a tourist car was in Kerrville that attracted the attention of everyone who passed by. It was a Ford truck with a closed body which had daintily curtained windows and every convenience of a modern home.

March 27th, 1921. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Drew of Los Angeles, Cal., left in their home on wheels for a trip over the Santa Fe Trail, going where and when their fancy led. The Grand Canyon was explored and all cities of interest visited as far north as Chicago; then into Kentucky, where the Mammoth Cave was the main point of interest; then down to Mississippi, over into Arkansas and then to Texas, where the scenery and climate proved so delightful that they tarried several weeks before starting once more for their California home.

"The Roamer," as they call their car, was planned and fitted out by Mr. Drew. It contains clothes closets, an ice box, a fireless cooker, coal oil stove, a sink with a ten-gallon water tank above, a five-gallon gasoline tank, medicine chest, shaving cabinet; in fact, a place for all articles of comfort, and everything in its place. In the fireless cooker a roast was being prepared in one compartment with soup and vegetables in the others. Lineoleum covered the floor and a folding bed furnished comfortable sleeping quarters. At night the interior was brightly lighted by a mantle light.

Mr. and Mrs. Drew are proceeding leisurely and are following the Old Spanish Trail on the return trip, going to Junction from here. They will arrive in California some time in the early summer.

"A man who sells liquor in defiance of the laws is a traitor to his country, and an enemy to every good citizen and an insult to the flag of our Nation. I am against the bootlegger—I covet none of his good wishes and I long to see the day when every one will be expelled from the bounds of Texas and from the country. As long as a Texas Ranger can pull a trigger, no such place as that found at Mexia can exist while I am your Governor."

Religious Intolerance Shakes America to Its Foundation, President Tells Bible Class

Washington, D. C., March 24.—The church can render no higher service at this time than to put forth its utmost influence in behalf of "frank and willing obedience to the law of the land," President Harding declared tonight in an address before the Bible class of Calvary Baptist Church. No newspaper correspondents were admitted to the church, but the President's address was made public from the White House.

Without giving too much weight to alarmist expressions, the President said: "We must, nevertheless, recognize that there is a very apparent tendency to a lighter and more frivolous view of the citizen's relations to both the state and the church." "If people who are known as leaders," he added, "become known for their defiance of some law, they need not be astonished if their example is followed by others."

At another point, Mr. Harding discussed "the loose talk nowadays about the cause of the spiritual demoralization of the community" and declared that it could not be laid entirely to the war but to a tendency before that period toward "a certain moral laxity, a shifting of standards, a weakening of the sterner fibers."

In his experience of a year in the White House, he said, "there has come to me no other such unwelcome impression as the manifest religious intolerance which exists among many of our citizens."

"I hold it to be a menace to the very liberties we boast and cherish," he asserted.

Loving of God Urged
Declaring his belief in the part which religious reverence has played in American achievement, the President said:

"If I were to utter a prayer for this Republic tonight, it would be to reconsecrate us in religious devotion, and make us abidingly a God-fearing, God-loving people."

"There is no relationship here between church and state," the President said. "Religious liberty has its unalterable place, along with civil and human liberty, in the very foundation of the Republic. There is shown the far-seeing vision of the immortal founders, and we are a better people and a better Republic because there is that freedom."

"I fear it is forgotten sometimes. In the experiences of a year in the Presidency, there has come to me no other such unwelcome impression as the manifest religious intolerance which exists among many of our citizens. I hold it to be a menace to the very liberties we boast and cherish."

"In spite of our complete divorce of church and state, quite in harmony with our religious freedom, there is an important relationship between church and nation, because no nation can prosper, no nation can survive if it ever forgets Almighty God. "I have believed that religious reverence has played a very influential and helpful part in the matchless American achievement, and I wish it ever to abide.

Simpler Living Asked

"I do not fail to recall that the religious life makes for the simple life, and it would be like a divine benediction to restore the simpler life in this Republic."

"I think we should do well to recognize that intellectual and moral evolution of the community. It would be grievous error to allow ourselves to feel too confident that this is only a temporary and passing aspect."

"Take for example the matter of regard for the law. Without giving too much weight to alarmist expressions, we must nevertheless recognize that there is a very apparent tendency to a lighter and more frivolous view of the citizen's relations to both the state and to the church. We can hardly hope for a restoration of the old ideals in religion and in moral conduct so long as this tendency to disregard for the law shall continue. It is absolutely essential to the maintenance of a secure society and to the attainment of a proper moral plane, that the law should be recognized as sacred and supreme. It should have at its back, and enlisted in its support, every element of the community that realizes the desirability of sound, secure and stable institutions. Disregard of one statute inevitably must breed a lack of respect for the law in general. This tendency is obvious, and ought to give the deepest concern to people who have seen, in this world, the fearful results that flow from the breakdown of respect for the social fundamentals."

Laws Should Not Be Defied

"Whatever breeds disrespect for the law of the land, in any particular department of our community relations, is a force tending to the general breakdown of the social organizations. If people who are known as leaders, as directing influences, as thoroughly respected and respectable members of society, shall in their respective communities become known for their defiance of some part of the code of law, then they need not be astonished if presently they find that their ex-

RANCHER PREFERS MEXICAN BANDITS TO TEXAS THUGS

San Antonio, Tex., March 24.—Eduardo Baldo, wealthy rancher of Monterey, Mexico, today prefers his much advertised "wild and woolly native band," with its bandits, to the brightly lighted streets of San Antonio with its sleepy bluecoats and highwaymen.

For fifty years Baldo has enjoyed safety in his turbulent Mexico. On his first trip to San Antonio, he was assaulted and robbed of $3,320 in cash by two highwaymen. The robbery occurred last night on a brightly lighted street only a few blocks from the main business section. One of the bandits held a dagger so close to Baldo's heart that it pricked the skin, while the other smote him on the back of the head with brass knucks. No command of warning was given.

The unconscious victim's pockets were rifled, but a $400 diamond was overlooked.

Baldo told police his assailants were two men who had shown him some cattle. He came to San Antonio five days ago.

KIMBLE COUNTY PIONEER PASSES 103RD MILESTONE

Junction Eagle, March 24.—"Uncle" John J. Smith was in Junction from his home four miles up South Llano Tuesday greeting his friends. On Friday of this week, he will be 103 years old. He was born in Washington County, Illinois, in the same year as Chas. A. Dana and Julia Ward Howe, both of whom have played their parts in the world events and passed away. It was the same year that the State of Alabama was admitted to the Union, and in the same year that marked the crossing of the Atlantic by a steamboat, during the administration of President James Monroe, and two years before the death of Napoleon at St. Helena. These events seem a long way back in history, and it can hardly seem possible that one man has lived to see all the progress and inventions that have come in these years.

"Uncle" John came to this county over forty years ago, and has lived at his present location ever since.

For several years prior to the Civil War he was in the Texas Ranger service in the Red River county fighting Indians. During this service he formed the habit of eating a hearty breakfast and getting little or nothing to eat at other times, as it was always a bad policy to build fires at night in the Indian country. He has followed that habit to the present time, rarely eating much for dinner or supper. He has ten children, all living, the oldest of whom is 57.

"Uncle" John served the entire four years of the Civil War.

When he came to the Eagle office to renew his subscription, we asked if he was going to have a birthday party, to which he replied that if the weather was favorable, he would be planting corn on his birthday.

Without doubt, "Uncle" John Smith is the oldest resident of the Eagle, the oldest citizen of Kimble County, and among the oldest in the State.

Cities to Lose Poll Taxes

Temple, Tex., March 28.—Scores of incorporated municipalities in Texas are facing a loss of revenues as a result of a decision relating to the collection of city poll taxes recently promulgated by the office of the Attorney General at Austin.

The opinion held that where a city had not amended its charter in accordance with the home-rule act, so as to provide for poll tax payments by members of both sexes, the collection from members of either sex would be unlawful.

OIL WELL EXPERT

For forty-three years Anthony Blum has devoted his entire time to mining engineering in the gold, copper and oil regions of Canada and the United States. It was his fortune to discover the richest gold mine in Canada. Last year out of sixteen wild cat ventures he struck eleven paying wells of petroleum. His last book has just issued from the press, and sums up his personal experiences on the "liquid gold" problem: "Petroleum, Where and How to Find It."

On Monday afternoon Mr. Blum addressed the Notre Dame high school students, and for clearness' sake drew on a black-board the tell-tale geological formations. He added interest to his scientific discourse by describing the deepest oil well, and the deepest mining shaft in the world. Mr. Blum was a guest at the Rectory for several days and left on Wednesday to resume his oil operations in the Blum-Notre Dame field. On his way north he was requested to repeat to several hundred high school boys in San Antonio the lecture he had given to us on Monday. Bishop Droessaerts has also entrusted him with the diocesan oil lands at Somerset. Previous to specializing in mining engineering, Mr. Blum founded the shoe factory at Dansville, N. Y., which he turned over to his brothers, and which has a daily output of 5,000 pairs.

Postulate Closes
 For several weeks we had the pleasure of conducting a sort of novitiate at St. Mary's Convent on account of our restorative climate and commodious quarters. The last of these candidates for the Sisterhood was recalled to the mother-house in San Antonio on Saturday. Miss Bridie O'Neil of Ireland and Miss Olive O'Shea of Ranger regretted to say au revoir to our healthy Hill Country, where they had recuperated their strength so rapidly. With a surplus store of energy they resumed their Normal School work, and look forward to graduation and an early return to Notre Dame after they have been finally admitted into the religious order of the Sisters of Charity. This preliminary training is practically equivalent to a recognized A. B. college degree, but many nuns are obliged to get their doctor's degree before teaching.

Miss Margaret Rose Cross spent the week-end with her parents in San Antonio.

Two more applications of young lady boarders had to be declined last week on account of the proximity to school close.

Bishop Droessaerts has promised to boost our summer vacation camp, which also won the eager endorsement of Rev. S. P. Hoffman, director of the largest Catholic Women's League in America.

Mr. Briggs of the Underwood Typewriter Co. came here on Tuesday to adjust all our machines in the commercial department, which our students may use without a cent of rental. A business course is included free with a standard high school curriculum.

Notre Dame high school pupils are reminded to attend the Auxiliary meeting on this Friday evening at 7:30 p. m.

Bandera Budget

New Era, March 23: It is reported that the Sinclair Oil Co., which has secured holdings in the Vanderpool region, sent geologists there last week to make locations for the wells they will drill, and it is expected that drilling operations will begin within a very short time.

In order to secure release from quarantine for the entire county at the earliest possible moment, it is considered advisable by those in charge of the tick eradication work, that everyone, whether released or not, begin dipping the first of April. Those who have been released will probably have to dip only three or four times.

Mrs. M. C. McGraw, mother of T. B. Welch, died at San Antonio yesterday morning, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ed. Leach. Mr. Welch was at her bedside when she came. Mrs. McGraw lived here and at Center Point and Camp Verde many years ago, and was known to many of the early settlers. Our sympathy is extended to the bereaved family.

Judge J. A. Eames, ex-officio county school superintendent, informs us that under existing school laws census trustees are required to deliver the scholastic census to the county superintendent in person. It is imperative that the law be complied with to prevent scholastic enumeration from being reduced by county board of education.

DISTILLED IRISH TABLEWARE IS FOUND IN U. S. MAILS

Chicago, March 24.—Postal clerks sorting dead letter parcels for the annual parcel post auction next month found a package labeled "knives and forks," mailed from Ireland to an unreadable Chicago destination.

Opening it to catalogue the contents, a clerk found the Irish tableware had been distilled and bottled. The tableware was poured into the sewer.

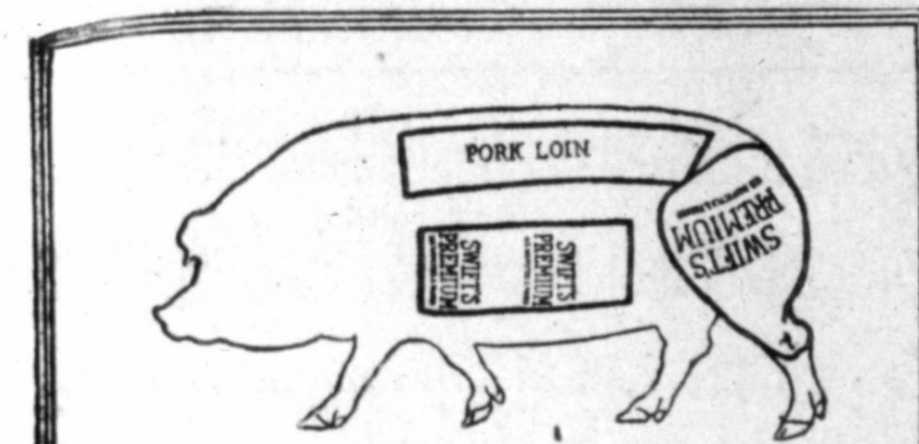

The clerk opened a package labeled cake. The white icing exterior was beautiful to look at, but age had not improved its qualities. The cake was shoved aside, falling off the table. The fall shattered a quart of old rye "filling."

BOOZE CHAIR WITH CABINET, NEW INVENTION

Winnipeg, March 24.—"Billy" Martin, the newest species of liquor law violators, was behind police doors today. "Billy" is a convenient chair equipped with a liquor cabinet, which opens at the back under the seat and was used, it is alleged, in a local hotel for the benefit of thirty guests.

When occasion demanded, it is charged, the chair was sent up and the room registered as occupied by "Billy" Martin. William Hogan, proprietor, yesterday paid a $500 fine for breach of the Manitoba temperance act.

Luther Burbank's latest addition to the plant world is a new blackberry, known as the "thornless blackberry." The cane has no thorns and the fruit is larger and more delicious than the ordinary blackberry.

34 vs. 66

Swift's Premium Ham and Swift's Premium Bacon are produced from only the best hogs, cured and smoked in the best way, with scientific care and precision, they are naturally in great demand; but these cuts, with the loin from which pork chops come, represent only about 34 per cent of the live animal.

The remaining 66 per cent consists of the cheaper cuts, such as spare ribs, shoulders, trimmings, pigs' feet, lard, etc., and shrinkage in dressing and curing. Shrinkage is equal to one pound in each five, and has no value whatever.

That is why the prices of "Premium" Ham and Bacon and pork loins are higher than the price of the live animal.

Everybody wants them—and yet they are only about one-third of the entire weight. "Premium" Bacon alone is only about 8 per cent.

The great demand for the choicer cuts, and the smaller demand for the cheaper cuts, constitute the reason for the comparatively higher price of the one-third, and the lower price of the other two-thirds. (Some of the lower priced cuts sell at less than the per-pound price of the live animal.

It is only by utilizing all possible by-products and exercising the utmost skill and efficiency that we are able to average a profit of a fraction of a cent a pound on all our business.

N. B. Some very delicious dishes can be prepared from the cheaper cuts.

HOW the cost of building quality tires has been brought down to the lowest level in history was explained by H. S. Firestone, President of the Company, to the stockholders at the annual meeting on December 16, 1921.

1. All inventories and commitments at or below the market.
2. Increased manufacturing efficiency and volume production reduced factory overhead 58%.
3. Selling costs reduced 38%.

Mr. Firestone stated, "This reduction in prices is made possible by our unusually advantageous buying facilities, and the enthusiasm, loyalty and determination of our 100% stockholding organization.

"Due credit must be given to Firestone dealers who are selling Firestone tires on a smaller margin of profit. This brings every Firestone saving direct to the customer."

The saving through first cost plus the saving through high mileage doubles Firestone economy and is daily adding new fame to the Firestone principle of service.

CATHOLIC CHURCH NOTES

By Father Kemper
REV. HOFFMANN'S LECTURE

Last Friday evening the Parish Auxiliary, with the help of the Brownson Literary Society, presented an open air entertainment on the Notre Dame campus, which was electrically illuminated for the occasion.

He received his theological course at the Propaganda University in Rome, where also Rev. Dr. Kemper graduated. Later, Father Hoffmann specialized in social welfare work at Innsbruck University and at the headquarters of the Central Verein in Munchen-Gladbach.

The distinguished orator explained the history and nature of the Central League; its care of the immigrants even before they embark for this land of their adoption; its educational campaign from press, pulpit and platform; its defense of an enlightened citizenship, of religious education, and of fearless patriotism.

After Father Hoffmann concluded his address, the entire audience rose to sing one of our National hymns. The Notre Dame College song rang down the final curtain.

In mid-summer a State Convention will be held at Shiner, where Rev. S. P. Hoffmann will be the principal speaker. Around that time he hopes to return to Notre-Dame and give a couple of illustrated travelogues about some of his European journeys.

Good Friday Observance

Last year the school board, post office, telephone company and nearly every business establishment in Kerrville joined hands in a Christian observance of the anniversary of Our Redeemer's crucifixion. This year Good Friday falls on April 14th, and we anticipate that all merchants will continue the edifying custom of interrupting their business for brief five minutes' pause from 3:00 to 3:05 p. m.

Last Sunday, at Comfort, Father Kemper administered the sacrament of baptism to Elmer Alfred Harry Stieler and to Jose Flores. He was accompanied on this trip by Walter Meyer Jr. and by Enrique Castillo.

The morning Angelus will be rung next Sunday at the customary time of 6:30 a. m., because a later hour for Holy Communion crowds too much for the 8 o'clock services at Our Lady of Guadalupe and High Mass at 10:15 a. m. in St. Mary's.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH

J. GRADY TIMMONS
We had a good day last Sunday. The house was comfortably filled at the evening service.

Now let us all pull together in these next few days for the Centenary cause. Those who are behind with their pledges, please arrange to take care of them as quickly as possible.

On account of the illness of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Laughman, the former's mother arrived from Beaumont, and the latter's sister, Mrs. Benjamin Franklin Smith, came from Elizabeth, La.

Mrs. Farrish took her sixth trip to San Antonio for this year on Saturday, with her daughter, Margie, and Mrs. Geo. W. Doyle.

THAT BAD BACK

Do you have a dull, steady ache in the small of the back—sharp, stabbing twinges when stooping or lifting—distressing urinary disorders? For bad back and weakened kidneys Kerrville residents recommend Doan's Kidney Pills.

Tom Eaton, farmer, says: "My kidneys were in a bad fix. I had such severe backaches and soreness across my kidneys I could not do much stooping or lifting. Mornings I was stiff and lame and at times I had sharp catches in my kidneys and the secretions passed irregularly."

Price 60c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Eaton had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

Church of Christ

At the old Union Church for each Sunday our program is: Bible study at 10 a. m., preaching services at 11 a. m. and 7:45 p. m., and song practice on Friday evenings at 7:30 o'clock.

There seems to be a spirit of indifference towards Christianity everywhere, but it is the desire, wishes, hopes and prayers of the devout religious people of our country that there will soon be a return to that which is good from that which is bad. It is true, that men can do as they please about what they do here in this life, but I am convinced that in the day when the human family shall finally come before the Judge of all the earth that they will not have the opportunity to choose for themselves the place to which they may go to live eternally.

DAVID O. GRIFFITH, Minister.

Many thousands of clams were killed along the famous Pismo Beach in Southern California, by the cold weather recently, according to the fish and game commissioner of San Luis Obispo. Thousands of pelicans and sea birds swarmed the beach, feasting on the clams.

All pilots on transcontinental mail airplanes in the United States are to be furnished with side arms.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

J. B. HOLT, Pastor
There was a splendid spirit of hope in the services Sunday. Every one was in a good humor, but was intensely in earnest about the success of God's work.

Rev. P. F. Evans of Fort Worth will arrive here next Saturday with his singer and will stay with us in a great revival campaign until the Lord leads him to close.

Services will be held each day at 10 a. m. and 7:45 p. m., and everybody, irrespective of name or denomination, is cordially invited to attend and help.

Later, the club will present Harry Rimmer, a noted speaker. Watch for announcement of date and place.

THE HI-Y CLUB

The Hi-Y Club will present on April 4th, at 7:30 p. m., a stereopticon lecture on sex hygiene for men and boys over 14 years of age.

Later, the club will present Harry Rimmer, a noted speaker. Watch for announcement of date and place.

THE SECURE FUTURE

Capper's Farmer: Probably the most important question before farmers is that of the adjustment of cropping methods and live stock production to the needs of 1922.
Now that that time of trial is over, why not pay more attention to the declining fertility in our fields, and meet this by good crop rotations which include a much larger place for the legumes adapted to the section in which we live?
And then why not feed these crops to live stock? Prices for dairy and poultry products are much above pre-war levels—grain farmers, please take notice. The outlook with hogs is most favorable, and even the breeders of beef cattle and horses are beginning to show a more hopeful spirit. The future of the man who believes in well bred live stock and in good soil management is secure.

IT'S A GREAT GAME

Fort Worth Star-Telegram: The overwhelming vote by which the bonus bill passed the House means, of course, that so far as the House is concerned the measure can be passed over the President's veto.
Opinion in Washington is to the effect that no such vote can be obtained in the Senate, and there are those who believe the bill will be delayed in that body until after the Congressional elections. In any event it is not thought that a two-thirds vote of the Senate, necessary to pass it over the President's veto, could be obtained, and it is indicated that the President intends to veto the bill if it is passed.
But the gentlemen of the House have accomplished their purpose. It is little concern of theirs now whether the measure ever finds its way to the statute books. They are now in shape to go into the Congressional campaign and say that they voted for a bonus bill. Of course, the likelihood is that the service men will never reap any benefit from the measure passed, but that makes no difference to the gentlemen. They are "in the clear." That's their chief concern.
It's a great game when you know how to play it.

Wasn't that rain a "G-r-a-n-d and G-l-o-r-i-o-u-s F-e-e-l-i-n-g?"

Watch things get back to their normal good times in the Hill Country. A little rain goes farther and does more good in this section than anywhere.

That was not as big a rain as we wanted, but it did a great amount of good, and since a start has been made possibly we will be favored more regularly in the future.

The cow and the hen, always dependable stand-bys of our agriculture, have demonstrated their worth as reliable sources of income during periods of depression and returned good profits, according to the secretary of the Kansas State Board of Agriculture.

San Antonio will soon have to secure the aid of the Texas Rangers, as robberies on main thoroughfares is becoming a daily occurrence. Even girls are knocked down and their money grabbed, when it is only fifty cents. There is too much friction among those in authority in the Alamo City.

SECRETARY MELLON ASKS FORD ABOUT THAT $29,000,000

Washington, D. C., March 28.—Secretary Mellon has written Henry Ford inquiring as to the reported return of $29,000,000 in war profits to the country by the Detroit manufacturer, it was said today at the Treasury.

Reports that Mr. Ford had made such a return to the Government were understood to have been investigated by the Treasury, which was unable to locate the reported fund.

661-POUND MAN BUYS CLOTHING AT COTTON MILL

McKinney, Tex., March 28.—Sam Harris, farmer living at Farmersville, who tips the scales at 661 pounds, was in McKinney and visited the big Texas Cotton Mill, where he purchased 150 yards of pin check and palm beach cloth which he will have made into suits.

It requires thirteen yards to make a coat and a pair of trousers for Harris. His waist measure is seventy-nine inches. His knee measurement is fifty inches.

IT WILL NOT REVIVE OF ITSELF

Fort Worth Star-Telegram: "Texas is coming back fast and from what I have seen of your great Southwest I cannot conceive how it would be possible to keep you down."

Thus declared John N. Willys of Toledo, president of the Willys-Overland Company, who spent several hours in Fort Worth Thursday.

Business conditions, he said, are improving throughout the country. There is no question but that the worst is over so far as financial depression is concerned and it is now up to the business men of America to shake off the feeling of lethargy and to bring production and sales to a normal basis.

"Conditions in the automobile industry," he said, "are improving rapidly and I do not know a more delicately adjusted industry or one that responds more rapidly to change."

It is a striking fact that industrial leaders like Mr. Willys, who have had the most difficult problems to face during the period through which we have recently passed, are the most emphatic in declaring that we are now working in the direction of normal and that it requires only hard work, courage and persistence to bring about a revival of prosperity. It is such leaders we should heed now. For it is certain that normal conditions are not going to be brought about by sitting down. Conditions do not adjust themselves. Men must adjust conditions. The revival of business will not reach its height until men make the effort to bring this condition about. And the men who have the foresight and courage to go ahead without waiting upon their neighbors are the men who are going to reap the benefits from it.

WOES THAT DIDN'T HAPPEN

Daily Oklahoman: Eulogizing the wondrous wizardry of wine, its inspiration to the arts and sciences, its contribution to human happiness, Premier Poincare recently predicted that America must return to its use. With all his ardent French vivacity, he went on to warn us that no nation can win greatness or maintain it without the witchery of wine. Bacchus must have gloried in his eloquence, and the Broadway rounder's heart been broken with recurring thoughts of other days.
Yet, save for the Gallic grandeur of his phrases, the premier's predictions are ancient stuff to us. America was warned repeatedly. Business, they told us, would be ruined by prohibition, but the apex of prosperity came after the Volstead act. Copious tears were shed for the poor farmers lacking a market place for their rye and barley, but the Nation went on and set a new record in the value of agricultural products. Foreigners would cease to come to our shores, the clackers wailed, and those here would return to Europe and personal liberty. The truth is that it has been found necessary to pass a law to keep them out. Even the soviet sympathizers go back to their glorious Russia, if at all, under protest and sometimes under guard.
Of course wine isn't utterly abolished. There are home vintners as well as home brewers, and the bootlegger is abroad in the land. But there is admittedly less drinking, and no formidable inclination to heed the soulful appeal of the French premier. There is much talk against prohibition, but only a minority is voting that way.

Next Tuesday is the date for the city election. You have a chance of two for each position to make your choice, so don't complain.
Just about anybody who has ever held office or felt like being a candidate for anything, is mentioned for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the San Antonio district.

ATHLETIC CLUB TO BE ORGANIZED IN KERRVILLE

A mass meeting of all the young fellows who are interested in organizing an Athletic Club here is called for 8 p. m., Friday night, March 31st, at Pampell's Hall.

It is to be self-supporting, each member paying $5.00 to join the club and dues each month as the members may decide. A complete outfit of gymnastic apparatus will be obtained, including boxing gloves, wrestling mat, punching bags, Indian clubs, ring, etc. A capable athletic instructor is to be placed in charge to train the members of the club and to see that things are properly conducted. Domino tables and also tables for writing will be provided. The club will likewise subscribe to all the leading magazines, etc.

A club like this is one of the most urgent needs of Kerrville, as it will give the young fellows something to do besides loafing on the corner or shooting craps, and provide a place where they will be benefited both morally and physically.

DAMAGE DONE BY ICE STORM

Destruction of Trees is Incomparably the Worst Part of the Wholesale Devastation.

One of the most distressing consequences of an ice storm is the irreparable damage done to trees. The telephone and telegraph poles can be replaced. Wires can be restrung. Train and trolley schedules can be restored. One and all these are inanimate things. But trees are living things and can no more be restored without a lapse of time than any other living thing. It takes a generation to grow a fine tree, remarks a writer in the Worcester Telegram. It takes a decade to line a residential district street with shade, a second decade for that shade to increase and become an asset to the neighborhood; a third decade sees the trees which have grown up with the children become, instead of a subsidiary attraction, the principal one in the neighborhood.

Yet in a single night the careful solicitude, the care and nurture of the trees is destroyed. The great limbs which residents have watched grow for years, the towering tops which twenty years before barely came to the porch roof and which for the last ten years have given grateful shade through the summer and autumn are broken, split and sundered. The thirty years have gone for naught.

Other ephemeral things, such as telephone service, trolley schedules and trains will resume their accustomed routine within a day or two after the skies clear.

Only the shattered trunk of the trees will remain as a reminder.

It takes a generation of man to grow a fine tree.

HOW CHARCOAL IS MADE

Method of Burning is Much the Same, No Matter Where the Process is Carried On.

The usual method of making or "burning" charcoal is to build up a cone-shaped pile of wood, about twelve feet in height and ten to forty feet in diameter—leaving a central hole or chimney; then to burn it from above downward, and from the outside inward. The trees are cut down in winter and should be fairly dry. The wood is built up with the bark outward, the largest pieces being placed furthest inside, and a covering of turf, or of charcoal dust and soil, is placed over the whole, leaving holes at the sides of the bottom for air. The first three or four days bring out the moisture onto the cover. The openings around the base are then covered, and holes are made about halfway up. When the smoke ceases to issue from these, they are closed and other holes are made below. Tar products, which collect when the charcoal is nearly burned, are removed by means of pipes or gutters. When the air-holes cease to emit flame and smoke they are covered and the pile is allowed to cool for two or three days. Then the charcoal is "drawn," and any pieces still burning are quenched with water or sand.

Seem Larger Near Horizon.

The United States naval observatory says: "The sun and moon seem larger near the horizon because of an optical illusion. The horizon appears to be more distant than the zenith because the eye, in looking toward the horizon, rests upon many objects by the way. The sun or moon near the horizon and at the zenith is seen to be the same object in both positions; but when near the horizon, it seems larger because the distance is apparently greater, the mind unconsciously reasoning that being so much farther away, the sun or moon must be larger in order to look the same.

"The moon at the horizon is really about 4,900 miles more distant from the observer than when nearly overhead; and its apparent diameter, as measured by an astronomical instrument, is actually less by about one-sixtieth."

Old Friends.

The bride's mother had her doubts about the feasibility of letting Pickle, the South Carolina cook, wait on the door during the arrival of wedding guests. True, she made the best sweet potato pies ever, but she knew so little of formal northern customs. However, there seemed no alternative, Pickle ushered the guests quite solemnly and wordlessly in. However, near the last there came a family friend who was a frequent visitor. On opening the door and seeing of all the throng the first familiar face, Pickle broke into a loud pean of welcome. "Come right in, Missus Brown, Ah knows you, 'deed, Ah does. You jes' walk right in. Ah'se mighty glad to see you, Missus Brown, 'deed Ah is." And Mrs. Brown walked in, the observed of all observers.—Chicago Journal.

Frogs in Rocks and Trees.

Attention may be invited to the astonishing longevity of the popular delusion, to which even educated persons at the present day give credence, that living frogs, toads and other animals are sometimes discovered in hermetically sealed cavities in tree trunks and rocks.

A little reflection shows, from the very nature of things, that such tales are incredible, and that those who vouch for them must be mistaken in their observations, as the most sharp-sighted persons are deceived by the feats of a juggler.

SEAPLANE PASSENGERS PERISH; PILOT RESCUED

Miami, Fla., March 25.—A tragedy of the sea, in which husbands and wives clung to the framework of a disabled seaplane drifting in the straits of Florida until one by one they died of exhaustion or slowly slipped into the water and were swallowed up by the waves before each others' eyes, was brought to light here today. Tormented by thirst, buffeted by waves, the five victims fought death for days. Crazed by suffering and by the horror of seeing their loved ones perish—powerless to aid—they all succumbed at last, save Robert Moore, son of C. H. Moore, Paris, Tex., pilot of the plane, who was picked up by the tanker William Green. He mumbled his incoherent story to Capt. William Wachmuth. Tonight he is lying half conscious and delirious in a hospital here.

Making Himself Clear

A subscriber writes to the Anthony (Kan.) Republican as follows: "Don't send us your paper any more. We ain't taking any papers now or we would take yours. But we don't want none at the present time. The Republican is a awful good paper but we can't take no paper now, so please stop your paper. We'll take your paper again when we can take a paper. Don't send it no more."

The substance Toronto Kelly makes out of the foregoing is that the man evidently wants his paper discontinued.—From a clipping sent in by a loyal subscriber.

GALILEO made the telescope and brought to light unknown stars and planets, the craters of the moon, the rings of Saturn and other things.

Properly used, the telescope is a wonderfully effective instrument. But look through the wrong end and your vision becomes distorted; things get out of focus; objects well within your reach look miles away.

An important province of this paper is to act as your telescope. Use it PROPERLY and your vision is enlarged. That means reading the advertisements as well as the other news. Fail to read the advertising and you overlook a great deal that you ought to see and know—the best in values—opportunities for economy, increased comfort, convenience and happiness.

Advertising brings close to your hand the things you want. Tells you where to buy them—what they cost. You glean much valuable information about merchants, their stores, their goods, their services—all important points to you as a possible customer.

You may read every line of the news columns—but if you overlook the advertising you remain uninformed about the very things that concern you most vitally. Unquestionably, you narrow your vision. Get a "CLOSE-UP".

Her Ferryboat Hero

By CLAIRE SMITH

Copyright, 1922, Western Newspaper Union.

Everybody in the hotel smiled at the little bride. She was so obviously in love with her husband, and he with her.

So everybody was really sorry for the bride when the bridegroom was called back to the city on a most important business matter which meant the transference of several thousands of dollars.

And out of her own heart, overflowing with sympathy, she gave a bounteous store to the lonely girl who knitted on the piazza. She wondered why such a nice girl had never married. One day, in a moment of confidence, the lonely girl told her.

"You see, my dear," she said, "when once you have really been in love you cannot ever love again in the same way. I gave my heart long ago—five years ago, my dear. It was stolen, I should say, because—" She hesitated. "I never learned his name," she said. "You never learned his name?" questioned the little bride.

"I was living on Staten Island and crossed on the ferry to Manhattan every morning to my place of business. He lived there, too. I used to see him on the boat. The look in his eyes used to be a delight to me; he was so youthful in spirit, so happy, so buoyant, so different from that crowd of commonplace city men. I knew he wanted to speak to me. But he was a gentleman.

"I think we must have known each other in this way for three months, although we never exchanged a word, or bowed. And then—do you remember the ferry ramming the steamship?"

"Yes?" said the little bride breathlessly.

"We were almost side by side when the shock came. The ferryboat turned on her side and a dozen of us were flung into the water. I could not swim. I was struggling wildly, battling with death when I felt his arm round me and heard his voice in my ear. 'Keep cool,' he said quietly. 'There is no danger. In a few moments the boat will reach us.'

"When he said that my terror left me. I just lay still and let him support me above the water. I think those were the happiest moments of my life. And when at last we were picked up and put safely aboard and given warm clothes and hot drinks in the saloon cabin, a sudden fear fell on my spirit. I knew that, since he had spoken, I should never see that look in his eyes again.

"Just before we stepped ashore he came up to me. He looked at me inquiringly. He said nothing; there was nothing for either of us to say. He took me in his arms and kissed me.

"Then he spoke. 'I am going West today,' he said. 'Tell me your name. When I come back I shall come to see you. It may be six months or six years, but I shall always claim you. I shall never let you go out of my life.'

"And?" questioned the little bride.

"That is all, my dear."

The lonely girl had arrived the day before the bridegroom was called back to the city. She was due to leave on the day that the bridegroom returned. The bridegroom actually arrived at the hotel just as the lonely girl stood in the office, her baggage beside her, waiting for her carriage. The bridegroom walked in and the lonely girl turned and looked him full in the face.

The little bride saw the look on her face, but she was too much absorbed in the bridegroom to think much of the lonely girl. The lonely girl sat down in a chair and leaned her head back against the wall, her face the color of chalk. The bridegroom had gone out of the office and the little bride hurried to the girl in the chair.

"You feel ill?" she asked. "Can I get you some water? Won't you lie down?"

"No," answered the girl, rising with an effort. "It was the heat, I think. The little bride had thought that it was very cold. She did not say anything, however, but helped the lonely girl into the carriage and waved her good-by.

The lonely girl had recognized him as soon as he entered the office.

Meanwhile the little bride had sought and found her husband and taken him to the cozy seat on the stoop. "Arthur, dearest," said the little bride, "I want to say something—something awful. Do you remember a confession you made to me the day before we were married about—about kissing a girl once after a ferry accident?"

"I don't want to remember those past transgressions," growled the bridegroom, kissing the little bride.

"But why did you do it, Arthur?" persisted the little bride.

"I felt sorry for her," answered the bridegroom, "and—well, she looked as if she wanted someone to kiss her. That's all. What harm did it do?"

"You hadn't ever seen her before, Arthur?" persisted the little bride.

"Not so far as I am aware, my dear," her husband answered. "Go on; don't spare my feelings."

"You've not seen her again, have you, Arthur?"

The bridegroom took the little bride in his arms.

"My dear," he said, "I never saw her before and I've never seen her since. To my belief, I shouldn't know her from Eve. Why?"

"O, nothing," answered the little bride happily.

ample is followed by others, with the result that presently the law in general comes to be looked upon as a set of irksome and unreasonable restraints upon the liberty of the individual. * * * Our only safety will be in inculcating an attitude of respect for the law, as on the whole the best expression that has been given to the social aspiration and moral purpose of the community.

"Unless we can accomplish this, in the domain of citizenship, and thereby sustain enforcement, we may well feel that the outlook is not encouraging for the achievement of those loftier spiritual purposes to which the church is devoted. * * *

"The failures of the past invariably have been preceded by contempt for the law, by spiritual paralysis and moral looseness, all of which had their earlier reflex in the weakened influence of the church. We know the helpful, exalting influence of our religious institutions. We shall be made stronger as they become stronger, and we shall ever find greater pride and greater security in the nation which righteousness exalteth."
