GREATER PRODUCTION MEETING TO BE HELD AT COURT HOUSE SATURDAY

Chamber of Commerce Campaign Will Close Here After Meeting With County-Wide Success.

The County-wide drive to increase production of foodstuffs and other commodities, inaugurated three weeks ago by the Kerrville Chamber of Commerce, will be brought to a close with a mass meeting at the Court House Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Every farmer, dairyman, poultry raiser and truck gardener in Kerr County is urged to attend the final meeting of the campaign.

Ingram School House was the scene last Friday night of one of the meetings being held at all the community centers in Kerr County and Saturday night found the committee at the Hunt School House. Another session was held Tuesday night with the Center Point School House as the gathering place.

Community leaders acted as chairmen at the various meetings and the principal addresses were delivered by the speakers sent by the local Chamber of Commerce. Following the addresses general discussions took place with the result that the people were enabled to clear up any doubts or questions that existed in their minds and to obtain a better and fuller understanding of the wonderful opportunities that lie before them.

Judge Julius Real, former State Senator and well known throughout the Hill Country as one of its most successful ranchmen and farmers, gave the principal addresses at each meeting. In his talk Mr. Real compared the advantages of Kerr County with other sections of the country, showing very clearly in his characteristic forceful manner, how unusually fortunate is this section in being blessed with its wonderful climate, its favorable location in the State's most picturesque mountains, its unlimited advantages for producing truck, dairy products, poultry and eggs, wool and mohair, and numberless other commodities that have a ready market with steady demand right at home.

Mr. Real discussed each of the forementioned industries in detail, pointing out things to be considered in producing their commodities. He urged, above all other things, that the best stock be kept, that only high grade poultry be used, and that the enterprise be carefully managed in a business-like way and at the same time neglecting nothing that would improve the quality and quantity of the commodities.

The speaker laid before his audience the present situation that confronts them and the unusual opportunities that await those who are willing to take advantage of them. He painted a beautiful word picture of the future that lies in front of Kerr County producers and urged them to make preparations to meet the demands of home consumption, keep home money at home and increase the prosperity of the County.

Mr. Real was followed by O. W. Hinds, Chief Clerk of the U. S. Veterans' Hospital No. 93, who does the buying for that institution. Mr. Hinds presented facts and figures on the needs of the hospital for produce, stating that practically 90 per cent of its supplies must be bought in San Antonio, Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth, Kansas City and other markets, because they cannot be obtained locally in the quantities required.

Mr. Hinds stated approximately $1,500,000 was spent annually by the institution for these supplies and that a very small percentage of this amount was being spent with local people. He assured his audience that he was willing, and even anxious, to spend all of this total, or as much as possible, in Kerr County and let Kerr County reap the benefit.

He urged the people to increase their production, showing clearly there is a market right at home for everything that can be raised or produced in the county, and cash in on the huge sum spent annually by the hospital.

County Agent J. C. Yearly followed Mr. Hinds with a short talk along the line of the producers, assuring the people that he is here to co-operate and help them in every way he could. He introduced A. B. Williamson of the First State Bank who assured his audience that the banks of Kerrville were willing to help in every way they can to improve and increase Kerr County production.

Lee Mason of this city was called upon at the Ingram meeting for a few remarks and gave an interesting talk on his experience with a dairy herd when owner of the St. Charles Hotel a number of years ago.

The committee is highly pleased with the response from all sections of the county and considers the campaign a great success in every way. The people are fast realizing, as a result of the drive, what wonderful advantages they enjoy in this section and interest is at a high point in taking advantage of the opportunities.

Every one who is interested in the campaign should make it a point to be in Kerrville Saturday afternoon to attend the meeting at the Court House. Able speakers who know what they are talking about and who realize the situation now confronting Kerr County producers will give addresses showing the ways that lead to prosperity through the utilizing of the opportunities.

MILLER HARWOOD RESIGNS FROM SCHREINER BANK TO LEAVE CITY

Will Make Home at Sinton to Look After Farming Interests—Milton Gold To Teller's Window.

Miller Harwood, who has filled the position of teller at the Chas. Schreiner Bank for the past several years, discontinued his connection with that concern Monday morning. He had tendered his resignation more than a month previously. Milton Gold, an employe of the bank for five years, was promoted to the position of teller vacated by Mr. Harwood.

The retiring teller is well and favorably known in Kerrville as one of its most progressive citizens. He has taken an active part in the church work of the city and has been identified as an endorser of all projects for the betterment of the Gem of the Guadalupe and of The Hill Country. Mr. Harwood has been prominent in church and social affairs of the city.

Mr. Harwood's resignation was tendered because of personal business requiring more of his time. He will leave shortly for Sinton to take an active part in the management of his agricultural interests there. His family will remain in Kerrville until the first of the year, when they will join Mr. Harwood at their San Patricio County home.

Mr. Gold is well known in Kerrville as a young man of exceptional business ability and the news of his promotion is welcomed by his many friends. He has been a valued employe of the bank for five years, returning to the institution after serving a year in the U. S. Navy during the World War. He is the son of Postmaster E. Gold and has spent the greater part of his life in this city, being a graduate of Tivy High School.

Bernard Kuhlmann was promoted from the remittance desk to the individual ledgers, filling Mr. Gold's place, and Herman Saenger went from the mailing desk to Mr. Kuhlmann's place and Louie Wilson, a new man in the bank, was selected to fill the vacancy at the mailing desk.

The Sun joins the many friends of the Harwoods in expressing regret at their departure from Kerrville, and in wishing them success and happiness at Sinton.

HORSE WITH SIX LEGS UNUSUAL CURIOSITY OWNED BY LOCAL MAN

Animal Has Extra Pair of Distinctly Developed Legs and Hoofs Above Fetlocks on Rear Feet.

A full grown horse with six legs, the extra pair of which are distinctly developed parts of the rear legs, is the unusual curiosity owned by Oliver Goss, who resides about three miles south of Kerrville.

This statement reads as if some one had been imbibing a liquid stronger than water, but was verified last Sunday morning when a reporter from The Sun office, in company with County Agent J. C. Yearly and former County Agent T. F. White made a special trip to Mr. Goss' place to see the freak.

Mr. Goss brought the horse to the city last Saturday afternoon and stated that he expected to bring him back again this week end.

The horse was purchased by Mr. Goss from a Mexican some two weeks ago, who, it is thought brought him to this country from Old Mexico. He is blaze-faced and stocking legged and is about 7 or 8 years old.

The animal has small rudimentary feet on both hind legs, attached at fetlock joints on the inside. The hoofs are about one-fourth the size of the other feet and hang about two-thirds of the way to the ground. The additional legs do not interfere with working the horse.

LOCAL RED CROSS CHAPTER TO HOLD ANNUAL ROLL CALL DRIVE SATURDAY

Booths With Chairmen and Corps of Workers to Be Placed all Over Business Section of City.

The annual Roll Call and drive for members of the American Red Cross will be held in Kerrville Saturday, November 24, according to an announcement made by the committee in charge of the work. The drive will continue all day, ending Saturday night.

Booths in charge of the various chairmen with their corps of workers will be placed in various places in the business section of the city with one station at the Veterans' Hospital.

Following are the locations of the booths with their chairmen: Chas. Schreiner Store, Mrs. W. G. Ward in charge; Pampell's, Mrs. L. Sandel;

Miller's Grocery, Miss Angeline Kemper; Post Office, Mrs. Richard Holdsworth; Chas. Schreiner Bank, Mrs. G. M. Doyle; First State Bank, Mrs. Ola B. Gammon; U. S. Veterans' Hospital at Legion, Mrs. A. Schofner; and Burney's Store, Mrs. J. W. Burney.

The above mentioned booths will be maintained from 8:30 a. m. After they are closed another will be opened about 7 o'clock in front of the Dixie Theater with Misses Dorothy Doyle and Maybelle Roberts in charge.

The officers of the local chapter of the Red Cross with the chairmen and workers in the drive urge everyone to take a membership in the National organization. The price ranges from $1 to $100, with the former giving ordinary membership.

Since 1881 the American Red Cross has spent $20,000,000 in disaster relief and in the past six years has expended approximately $163,000,000 in along the river are urged to list them not later than November 30—earlier if possible. It was impossible to see every one on Tuesday's trip, and those who have available places who were not approached by the committee members and wish to take advantage of this advertising are asked to get in touch with the committee or the Chamber of Commerce office as soon as possible.

Subscription Honor Roll

Christmas is nearly here and it is to decide whether a modern sewer system and disposal plant will be installed in the city. The City Commissioners have called an election on the issuance of bonds in the sum of $78,000 for the construction of such system and have set the date mentioned above.

The Municipal Engineering Company of Dallas recently completed a preliminary survey of the entire city and submitted plans with estimates on a system to cover the entire city. A map of the proposed system is posted in one of the windows at the Post Office and several others have been placed in various public places.

The map shows that every house within the city at present will have direct connection to some main and the future growth of the city is provided for by the network of branches that are to be laid. Citizens are invited to inspect these maps and note how thoroughly the city will be covered with the collecting system of pipes.

A complete description of the proposed system and disposal plant has been furnished The Sun by the engineers who prepared the plans. It is devoid of all technical language and terms and can be easily understood. For those who wish further details they are referred to Mayor A. T. Adkins who has a bonum copy of the complete report, estimate of cost and complete specifications.

The complete system may be described under two divisions: 1st, the collecting system; 2nd, the treatment plant.

The collecting system will consist of lines of clay tile laid in ditches, the bottom of which are dug to such depth that all pipes will have a uniform grade or slope and all leading into a common outlet line which in turn is connected to the treatment plant.

The collecting system is designated to cover all the City of Kerrville, the pipes lying in ditches in the streets or alleys and it is to these pipes that the house connections will be made.

These collecting lines are of different sizes, depending on the slope or grade, and on the length of the line and the quantity of sewage it will be required to accommodate.

In the proposed Kerrville system there will be 62,860 feet of 6-inch vitrified clay tile, 7,000 feet of 8-inch vitrified clay tile, 4,000 feet of 10-inch vitrified clay tile.

At the upper or highest end of each line as well as where one line joins another, and at frequent intervals along these lines there will be built "manholes." These are small wells, large enough for a man to enter. They are constructed of brick or concrete and have convenient steps and hand holes built in them. Each manhole is covered with a cast iron cover, neatly fitted in a cast iron ring collar.

The purpose of these manholes is to provide means to inspect the Sewer lines and to remove obstructions should any occur. There are 111 of these manholes in the proposed Kerrville sewers.

In these lines there will be provided "wyes." These are lengths of pipe with a branch made on the side. One of these fittings will be set in the line opposite each lot in the city. They are provided to accommodate the house connections and obviate the necessity of breaking into the pipe lines to make connections.

There are also at intermediate points "cleanouts," constructed for the sole purpose of dislodging anything which might cause a stoppage of the lines, but are not of such size as to permit entrance to the pipe by an attendant.

These lines of pipe with their appurtenances constitute a collecting system of the most modern character. Nothing better can be found in any city of the land. The collecting system will be capable of caring for 15,000 people without any extension of the lines.

The grades or slope of the lines is such that the sewage will reach the treatment plant in a fresh state, that is, putrefaction will not have set up, hence there will not be danger of sev-service to America's disabled war veterans and their families.

"Most people do not see the need of the Red Cross locally," said John H. Ward, chairman of the Kerr County Chapter. "This organization is needed in Kerrville now more than at any previous time. There are numbers of families of disabled ex-service men in Kerrville who need assistance and the Red Cross has been providing it as best they can."

"Let every one," he continued, "make it a point to go to one of the booths next Saturday and take a membership in the Red Cross. It will pay hundreds of times to become a member in this great humanitarian enterprise, for the money raised is used in relieving the sufferings of humanity, improvement of health conditions, preparing American children for a better citizenship and many other worthy causes."

TRESPASS NOTICE — We have leased the hunting rights to the Del J. F. McCann to OPEN STUDIO IN SCHREINER BANK BUILDING

Well Known Victoria Artist to Make Kerrville His Headquarters and May Locate Here Permanently.

An art studio was opened this week on the second floor of the Chas. Schreiner Bank Building by J. F. McCann, of Victoria, well known throughout the State as an artist of unusual ability.

Mr. McCann has been visiting Kerrville and the Hill Country at regular periods for the past fifteen years, but this is the first time he has opened a studio locally. In the past the artist made sketches of the scenes, etc., he wished, taking them back home with him for completion.

Mr. McCann has done a great deal to spread the fame of the Hill Country of Texas through his wonderful paintings of its beautiful scenery. The noted artist specializes on landscape painting and a large number of his works have attracted widespread attention and commendation.

Miss Dolly Spidle, one of Mr. McCann's students who has been in this city for some time past, will be associated with the artist in his new studio.

M. McCann, while not stating definitely, seemed to think he might locate in Kerrville permanently, and his many friends here will no doubt be glad to have him do so.

PLANT OF AMERICAN CREAMERY NOW UNDERGOING IMPROVEMENT

Interior of Office and Creamery Being Painted—New Machinery Has Been Ordered.

With the addition of new machinery ordered and the finishing of the interior decorating now under way, the American Creamery Company will soon have one of the finest creamery plants in the State of Texas.

The office of the company has been remodeled and redecorated and new office equipment is to be added, making one of the neatest office rooms in the city.

The work shop, or creamery proper, is not being neglected in the general clean-up but is also being treated to a freshening up with white paint, and as soon as the machinery arrives a modern sterilizer and bottle washing machines, power driven, will be installed therein.

Hal Peterson states that the ranchmen and farmers are awakening to the possibilities offered by the dairy branch of their business and that milk and cream is coming in rapidly now, but that they can use quite a bit more each day. He also reports a demand for their products that cannot be supplied.

Miss Dorothy Doyle has been employed as office girl by the Creamery.

FEW CASES OF HOG CHOLERA REPORTED IN HILL COUNTRY

Federal Government Hog Specialist Completes Inspection of This Section for Disease.

F. J. Wolma, Hog Specialist of the Federal Government, who has been in the Hill Country the past week checking up on the situation generally in regards to hog raising, but more particularly on a threatened epidemic of hog cholera, reports that several cases of the cholera have been found.

The disease is very contagious among hogs, but will not spread to human beings or other animals. However, when a hog contracts cholera, there is no cure for it and unless immediate steps are taken all hogs coming in contact with the infected animal will contract the disease.

Mr. Wolma says that the only safe plan is for hog owners in communities where the disease has appeared to immunize their hogs by vaccination. The cost of this vaccination varies with the weight of the hog, costing from 60 to 70 cents for a hog weighing 100 pounds. He advises vaccinating pigs while they are young, when the cost is small, not exceeding 20 cents per animal. This vaccination immunizes the hog for life against cholera.

Hog cholera is a serious matter to the community in which it breaks out, and when it first appears or any hog becomes sick in any way, call in a veterinarian at once.

Garrett-Baker Post No. 13, American Legion, held its regular November meeting last Thursday afternoon in the Chamber of Commerce building with a representative membership in attendance.

Several important matters were taken up for consideration in addition to a few miscellaneous items. The principal matter of the meeting was the report of the nominating committee which gave the names of candidates for post officers at the election to be held December 20.

The committee reported the following nominations: J. C. Robinson, for post commander, W. A. Salter for vice-commander, C. M. Doss for adjutant, Jack C. Allen for finance officer, Dr. G. M. Macdougall for chaplain and Payne L. Williamson for sergeant at arms.

The matter of Garrett-Baker Post assisting in organization of a troop of Boy Scouts was put before the assembly, but was tabled until the next meeting for discussion and action. Plans for the holding of a barbecue for the dedication of the U. S. Veterans' Hospital were discussed briefly, but they were also deferred until the next session.

The December meeting will be held Thursday evening, the 20th, at the Chamber of Commerce Building and all members of the Post are requested to be present at the election and installation of officers that date.

Address and Round Table Discussion in Addition to Refreshments to Feature Bi-Monthly Session.

The regular bi-monthly session of the Kerrville Retail Merchants' Association will be held at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon at the Guadalupe Cafe. Several important matters pertaining to the development and promotion of the Association will be taken up at a round table discussion to follow the light lunch to be served.

Arrangements are being made to have a short address on the work of the Retail Merchants' Association so as to bring out new ideas in connection with its operation.

Local merchants are more than pleased with the results they have obtained through membership in the organization, it is averred. The Kerrville branch has grown steadily and substantially, according to some of the members.

Friday's session will be more in the nature of a development meeting and to promote a better spirit of fellowship among the members. A good attendance is expected.

ENLARGEMENT AND IMPROVEMENTS MADE IN JACKSON JEWELRY STORE

New Fixtures Installed and Stock Increased—Added Equipment in Optometrical Department.

An enlargement in the quarters occupied by the Jackson Jewelry Store in the old bakery building was made the latter part of last week. Mr. Jackson had formerly occupied half the building and a real estate office took up the remainder of the floor space.

The real estate office was discontinued, however, and the jewelry store took over the space it had filled. New fixtures have been installed and more are due to arrive the last of this week or the first of next.

The stock of jewelry, cut glass and silver has been greatly increased and additional shipments are arriving daily.

Among other improvements new and up-to-date equipment in the optometrical department have been made. These instruments increase the efficiency and accuracy of eye tests and eliminates practically all the guesswork common to certain phases of an ordinary test outfit.

THE WEEK IN SOCIETY

Veterans at Hospital Entertained
The Auxiliary to the Garrett-Baker Post of the American Legion entertained the veterans in U. S. Hospital Tuesday evening. The party was held in the Red Cross Hall and this room was crowded to its capacity. All the young ladies in Kerrville had been invited, and more than 100 people from Kerrville were in attendance.

Herbert L. Crate acted as master of ceremonies and this fact alone insured the success of the evening. The first number on the program was a violin solo by Miss Maybelle Roberts, accompanied by Mrs. J. B. Young at the piano. The crowd was then divided into two groups, with Jess Stallings as captain of the Harvard team and Mr. Zimmerman as captain of Yale. Much enthusiasm was shown in the contests, a potato race, shot put, candle race and the annual football game. The event ended with Yale as winner of the most entries.

Mrs. G. M. Doyle and Miss Harriet Garrett sang "Carmena," with Mrs. Young at the piano. Miss Dorothy Doyle sang a number of "Blues," with Charles Kuesel at the piano. This number proved to be very popular and was repeatedly encored.

Refreshments were served to about 250 guests.

The Auxiliary wishes to thank all who assisted in the entertainment, especially Mr. Crate, who was the director of activities and Mrs. J. B. Young, who so cheerfully gives so much of her time and talent to the people of Kerrville, not only as a soloist but in the much more difficult and less appreciated role, that of accompanist to others.

METHODIST CHURCH

(By Member)

The attendance was quite good last Sunday in spite of the inclement weather. Dr. White preached at both the morning and evening hours.

Next Sunday has been designated as Golden Cross Day, and we hope for fine weather and a full attendance of Methodists to launch this important work. The Golden Cross movement was designed to raise a fund for building hospitals. The recent Annual Conference at Gonzales voted the location of at least one and possibly more hospitals within the bounds of this conference.

It is to be hoped that all our people will take out membership in the Golden Cross, and push this very worthy enterprise.

Our returned pastor and his wife were given a most cordial welcome last Tuesday by the ladies of the Missionary Society. This was the occasion of the regular social and missionary meeting, which was held at the home of Mrs. H. C. Geddie, with Mrs. A. L. Starkey, Mrs. Banks Lawrence and Mrs. Geddie as joint hostesses. The expression of a sincere welcome was made a special feature.

Miss Josephine Johnson returned to her home in Austin last Thursday after a visit of several weeks with her sister, Mrs. R. T. Self. She was accompanied home by Mrs. Self and daughter, Catherine, for a visit of about two weeks.

P. W. Lemans of Fredericksburg was in Kerrville Wednesday, and thereby hangs a story: Several weeks ago Mr. Lemans lost a fine gold watch up above Hunt. He was in Kerrville a few days later and placed a want ad in The Sun regarding same, and last week I. E. Copley, who resides above Hunt brought the watch in. Mr. Copley said that the watch had evidently been lost out of Mr. Lemans' pocket when he got out to open a gate, as he found it beside the gate almost entirely covered with mud, a week or so later. Mr. Lemans got his watch Wednesday, not even the crystal being broken, and The Sun can boast of another instance of "Sun Want Ads Get Results."

CAMP SITE LOCATING COMMITTEE GIVEN EXCELLENT CO-OPERATION

Property Owners Urged to List Their Locations Before Nov. 30—Map To Be Made of Sites.

Members of the Chamber of Commerce Camp Site Locating Committee were accorded fine co-operation when they made a preliminary trip up the Highway Tuesday. Walter Saenger and Chas. L. Mason were the members who made the survey.

They covered the Kerrville-Junction Highway to the Kimble County line and then worked back to Hunt and from there into Kerrville. Nine locations for camps were assured them on the trip.

The committee reports some of the sites will be opened at a charge of 25 cents daily per car, and others will be free. It is the intention of the Chamber of Commerce to furnish neatly painted location signs to all owners who list their places.

A map is to be made of the Highway, showing the exact location of all these camp grounds and with directions for reaching them. These charts will be furnished to campers at no cost to the owners of the sites.

All persons who have locations along the river are urged to list them not later than November 30—earlier if possible. It was impossible to see every one on Tuesday's trip, and those who have available places who were not approached by the committee members and wish to take advantage of this advertising are asked to get in touch with the committee or the Chamber of Commerce office as soon as possible.

Ford Trucks Are Bought On Performance Records

If you were to ask a hundred—or a thousand—Ford truck owners why they use Ford trucks, in preference to all others, they would likely say, "Because the Ford stands up."

They would emphasize the work this truck does, not its initial cost.

They know that under the endless grind of daily service the Ford stays on the job month in and month out, with very little mechanical care, and with practically no expense for repairs or replacements.

Ford Trucks can be bought through the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan.

Makes home grown crops into a bulky mixed feed in a most efficient and economical manner at half the price of manufactured feed.

Every alert feeder knows that bulk in feed will increase milk or beef production fifteen to thirty per cent—but best of all, home grown crops made into a bulky feed with the Letz-Dixie reduces cost of feed twenty-five to fifty per cent and also preserves the animal's health for future usefulness.

Corn stalks, kaffir corn, sheaf oats, alfalfa or clover hay, soy beans or peaboy, oats, wheat, rye, barley, or any crops grown on the farm, can be cut, mixed and ground in one operation with the Letz-Dixie into a fine meal at a capacity of 25 to 150 bushels per hour.

WORTH-WHILE CITIZENS

The Sun wants, on behalf of the business men of Kerrville and the citizens generally of The Hill Country, to publicly thank Col. E. L. Cook, commanding officer of U. S. Veterans' Hospital No. 93, and O. W. Hinds, purchasing agent for the same institution, for the active, personal interest they are taking in the development of the resources of The Hill Country.

These officials could just as easily purchase the supplies needed for their institution from outside sources, possibly with less inconvenience to themselves, but they prefer to buy everything possible at home, and are devoting a large part of their time to the proposition of organizing the farming and truck raising interests of this section to provide supplies for next year.

And just a word to the farmers: Never before in the history of The Hill Country have the agricultural and kindred interests had such an opportunity as is presented by the establishment of the Federal Hospital here. Truck farming, dairy products and poultry farming is bound to pay big with this fine market right at home.

However, it is going to take organization and co-operation on the part of the citizens to properly handle the situation. The committee from the Kerrville Chamber of Commerce are meeting with enthusiastic response from the agricultural interests in the meetings that have been held throughout the county the past ten days, and will without doubt meet with enthusiastic reception next Saturday, when the windup of the campaign is staged in this city.

However, we should not kill the goose that lays the golden eggs, but should all co-operate together, business men and farmers and Legion officials, and exact a fair profit for our labors, neither charging too much for our products or labors, and taking no unfair advantage of each other. That is true co-operation.

THE DEPENDABLE MAN

J. Ogden Armour: There is a type of man who is built for success. He may have genius or just ordinary talent—no matter. The point is that he always "arrives". While others plod a weary way, he gets ahead.

Those who take note of his progress often cannot account for it. So they say he is "lucky." Or they whisper it about that he has a "pull with the boss."

But the secret is deeper than that. He is a man who is absolutely dependable.

Make yourself dependable, and you come as near being indispensable as any of us can hope to be. You will be the last one your employer will wish to part with, and the first one that he will want to promote to greater responsibilities.

But do not be deceived. Dependability is a rare accomplishment—so rare that every executive is on the lookout for it wherever it may be found. It cannot be acquired by wishing for it. It is the prize that comes from self-mastery.

What is a dependable man? You can tell him by these ear-marks:

First, he is one that you can rely upon to do his own thinking. Business requires thinking, and someone must do it. The dependable man never side-steps his share nor tries to pass it along to someone else. You always find him on the alert. His brains do not flit away on vacations, leaving his job without a guardian.

of workmen will have everything in readiness for the first performance at 2 p. m. Elephants, camels, bison, dromedaries, sacred oxen, zebras and other "led" animals will lumber, waddle, pad and walk to the grounds in the wake of the wagons and the clatter of six and eight-horse teams will resound in the streets.

And, after the great tents are raised against the sky and the hundreds of people, horses and animals have been fed, groomed and garbed for parade, that mile long procession will head glitteringly toward the heart of the business district. It leaves the show lot at 11 a. m. promptly, and much of novelty is promised, together with a world of color, gorgeous tableaux, wagons, floats, four bands, two calliope, and all cages and dens open to view.

The performance, which opens with stirring and opulent pageantry, starts at 2 p. m. and 8 p. m. Hundreds of arenic artists, clowns and trained wild beasts will do almost impossible thrills in the four rings, the air and the steel arenas, all will be the best that there is to be seen in the land, from the big elephant act to the last monkey races.

The Osborne Circle of the Baptist W. M. U. will have their regular circle meeting at the home of Mrs. C. H. Richerson Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Special plans for Christmas will be discussed.

Diving on a wet concrete pavement more than 100 wild ducks broke their necks near Champaign, Illinois. The pavement, wet from drizzling rain and lighted by the moon, looked like a shimmering body of water.

Junction Eagle: Although it has been on the statute books for a number of years, some people are still ignorant of that provision of the game laws that prohibit the killing of game at night, between sundown and sunrise. The reason for this provision is very obvious. The law prohibits the killing of does and turkey hens. A person hunting at night, and shooting deer with a light, or shooting turkeys in their roosting places, could never know whether he is shooting at a doe or hen.

A. W. Henke has a pear tree in his back yard that demonstrated the adaptability of the Hill Country for fruit growing. Many of the pears weighing nearly two pounds. Mr. Henke estimates that they have gathered nearly 20 bushels of fruit from this tree this season.

Legion Memorial Sanatorium Now Under Federal Control

Grinstead's Graphic: One of the most interesting show places about Kerrville is the Legion Memorial Hospital. It is now known, officially, as United States Veterans Hospital Number 93.

The origin of this institution was a result of the late world war. In the winter of 1919 with thousands of American soldiers home but a few months from the wars over sea, flu swept the country. Many ex-service men, broken in health from exposure in the trenches, fell victim to flu, and contracted tuberculosis as an aftermath of the malady. A near-panic swept the country, and the matter of caring for these soldiers became an engrossing topic.

In Texas, Maj. John C. Townes, who had been at the head of the selective service machinery of the state, called on the local draft boards of Texas to raise half a million dollars, for the purpose of erecting a tubercular hospital for Texas soldiers. This looked like a pittance, compared to the enormous sums that had been readily raised to send these same boys overseas. But, by the time the campaign was fairly on, the financial slump had hit the country. A few counties raised their quota, among them Kerr county. Approximately three hundred thousand dollars were raised in cash and pledges.

In the early spring of 1920 a site was secured at Kerrville. This site was donated by citizens of Kerr County, and comprises a little more than seven hundred acres, with a mile and a half river front on the Guadalupe. On the 12th day of April, 1920, a rig was set up on the spot where the subsistence building now stands, and drilling started on the first well.

The architects employed were Messrs. Phelps & Dewees, two young men of San Antonio, both of whom were officers in the army over seas, and who had but recently doffed their implements of war to return to the drawing table. They designed a wonderful plant, and work began on the first units. Throughout 1920 the builders labored on, and the War Risk Benevolent Association, as the promoters were known, fought on to raise the necessary funds. Finally, despairing of raising adequate funds, the association turned the matter over to the Texas Legion. It was thought that this organization, the members of which were so lately returned from service of their country, would have no difficulty in raising any reasonable sum of money. But, there were no drums or bugles, now. Financial depression had fallen on the country, and money was apparently not to be had.

In the early part of 1921, while the Legion was struggling with their unweildy gift, the Legislature of the State of Texas came to their aid. The members of the law-making body said: "Texas wants to erect a memorial to her soldiers and sailors who fell in the world war, and those survivors who have returned to their homes. Turn this thing over to the State, and we'll erect a real sanatorium, to be known as the America Legion Memorial Sanatorium, and open to all citizens of Texas."

So, it was agreed. The site and buildings under construction were deeded to the state. Additional appropriation of one and a half million dollars was made, and the work went forward again, according to the original design. In June, 1921, the first unit was opened, and care and treatment was given Texas soldiers as far as the finished buildings would permit.

The architects' original designs, provided for twenty-three immense buildings. By the end of 1922 practically all of these were finished. These great buildings, all constructed in the most modern manner, and equipped with every possible thing for the care and comfort of the veterans, literally grew in concrete and steel from the face of the mountain on which the institution stands.

Meantime, the State undertook to equip the plant, and did furnish several of the great ward buildings. But, it was plain that Texas had taken a large order, and that the proper authority for the handling of so large a concern was the Federal Government. Accordingly, a movement was set on foot to lease the plant to the Government. This was carried out, and in the early part of the present year the immense hospital became the leased property of the Federal Government, and known as United States Veterans' Hospital No. 93.

Under Federal supervision work has gone forward rapidly. Ten additional buildings are under construction, and much work has been done on the grounds. The buildings are being rapidly equipped, and within a short time the hospital will be open to its full capacity of six hundred patients. The Government is operating the institution under lease from the State, but it is hoped that it will become a permanent Federal Hospital.

The site upon which this institution stands is one of the most attractive of the many wonderful scenic situations around Kerrville. It stands on an eminence overlooking the lovely Guadalupe Valley, and commands a view of miles of mountain and valley in every direction.

Climatic conditions in the Hill Country about Kerrville are such that this section has acquired a nationwide reputation for many marvelous cures of tuberculosis.

Of the buildings, pages of description might be written. They cover acres of ground, and each of them is perfect in appointment, with every modern convenience. There is the administration building, a handsome structure of brick, trimmed with native stone from the quarries on the side. Then there is the Nurses' Home, an immense building, plain brick and tile as to exterior, but like all the other buildings finished to perfection inside.

There are ten dormitory buildings. Five of these are one story, and five two-story buildings. The subsistence building was the first constructed. It and two of the ward buildings are of white stucco. All the other buildings are of brick. Ten new buildings are now under construction. These include homes for the medical staff, institution garage, and other buildings. Miles of concrete curb have been laid, much of the walk is down, and a little army of men is constantly at work on the landscape gardening that will make this one of the prettiest places in the Hill Country.

The largest building of them all, and probably the best equipped of its kind in America, is the infirmary.

The nerve center of the whole plant is the power house. This building is 52x110 feet. The stack is 152 feet high, and furnishes draft for three boilers of 750 h. p. each. The electric plant consists of two direct connected engines and dynamos. In addition to power for the electric plant, these great boilers furnish steam for heating the entire plant, and for every purpose for which live steam is used.

The laundry is equipped with all modern machinery, and could readily handle the laundry business of a considerable city.

An artesian well seven hundred feet deep furnishes water for the institution. All the section round about Kerrville is underlaid with artesian water. The first stratum is reached at three hundred feet. The second stratum, and that from which the city of Kerrville secures its excellent water supply is at seven hundred feet. Driving the sanatorium well down to that depth, an inexhaustible supply of pure water was secured. The full capacity of this well is not known. The water does not flow, owing to the well being located on top of the eminence. The stream rises to within forty feet of the top, and is pumped thence, by a powerful pump, into the immense tank at the top of the water tower. The only test of the well, as to capacity, was a twenty-four hour continuous pumping, at 125 gallons per minute, or 180,000 gallons for the twenty-four hours.

The Kerrville Mountain Sun, $2.00 per year, after January 1st, 1924.

ANT CONTROL NOW POSSIBLE

R. R. Reppert, Entomologist: The housewife experiences a great deal of annoyance by ants of various species. There are among these number of species of garden, or lawn ants, that enter the house and carry away food. They also cause annoyance at this season of the year, and in early spring, by nesting in boxes or pots containing flowers, setting outside the house, sometimes damaging the plants.

The fact that they so readily enter these containers suggests a method of control at this season, and during the late winter and early spring months. During the rainy period, ants seek a place from which the water will drain and that will be reasonably dry. They also seek a place that will furnish them heat. They can be readily trapped by providing boxes into which is packed something that will provide these conditions. Often fairly dry earth alone will be sufficient. However, substance such as cotton seed hulls, grass, leaves, and such other material, slightly moistened and packed so it will heat, will be best. Set the box near the house or other place which it is desired to protect, and leave it for a number of weeks. After the ants have moved into this home, the box can be covered with another box larger and practically air tight, and heavily fumigated with carbon bisulphide, or covered with canvas or cloth sized with linseed-oil, or covered heavily with blankets, and fumigated. In this fumigation, pour about a quarter of a pint of the liquid into a shallow pan, and place on top of the box, throwing the blanket over the whole, first putting sticks over the pan to keep the blanket raised above the liquid. Fumigate for thirty-six hours, preferably on warm days. Then remove the blankets, and the box is ready to be colonized by other ants that may remain in the vicinity.

Caution: Carbon bisulphide is inflammable and explosive. Keep away from fires.

PECAN TREE YIELDS OWNER LARGE PROFIT

Austin, Tex., Nov. 21.—J. E. Pearce, professor of anthropology at the University of Texas, has been experimenting with pecan grafting for the last twelve years. He started with the ordinary scrawny variety of pecans and grafted with scions from trees producing good nuts. Five years ago they began to bear.
 "The best trees for this locality," said Professor Pearce, "are the Texas Prolific. These trees withstand droughts and insect pests better than the average varieties, and bear the largest nuts in the greatest quantities."

From one tree last year he sold $100 worth of nuts. He has about 300 trees, and last year sold more than $300 worth of nuts. He believes the pecan growing industry is in its infancy, and that the market is infinite. Quantity production will lessen the value of pecans, he says, but the time is far away when the pecan crop of Texas will supply the demand.

Legion Memorial Sanatorium Now Under Federal Control

Grinstead's Graphic: One of the most interesting show places about Kerrville is the Legion Memorial Hospital. It is now known, officially, as United States Veterans Hospital Number 93.

The origin of this institution was a result of the late world war. In the winter of 1919 with thousands of American soldiers home but a few months from the wars over sea, flu swept the country. Many ex-service men, broken in health from exposure in the trenches, fell victim to flu, and contracted tuberculosis as an aftermath of the malady. A near-panic swept the country, and the matter of caring for these soldiers became an engrossing topic.

In Texas, Maj. John C. Townes, who had been at the head of the selective service machinery of the state, called on the local draft boards of Texas to raise half a million dollars, for the purpose of erecting a tubercular hospital for Texas soldiers. This looked like a pittance, compared to the enormous sums that had been readily raised to send these same boys over seas. But, by the time the campaign was fairly on, the financial slump had hit the country. A few counties raised their quota, among them Kerr county. Approximately three hundred thousand dollars were raised in cash and pledges.

In the early spring of 1920 a site was secured at Kerrville. This site was donated by citizens of Kerr County, and comprises a little more than seven hundred acres, with a mile and a half river front on the Guadalupe. On the 12th day of April, 1920, a rig was set up on the spot where the subsistence building now stands, and drilling started on the first well.

The architects employed were Messrs. Phelps & Dewees, two young men of San Antonio, both of whom were officers in the army over seas, and who had but recently doffed their implements of war to return to the drawing table. They designed a wonderful plant, and work began on the first units. Throughout 1920 the builders labored on, and the War Risk Benevolent Association, as the promoters were known, fought on to raise the necessary funds. Finally, despairing of raising adequate funds, the association turned the matter over to the Texas Legion. It was thought that this organization, the members of which were so lately returned from service of their country, would have no difficulty in raising any reasonable sum of money. But, there were no drums or bugles, now. Financial depression had fallen on the country, and money was apparently not to be had.

In the early part of 1921, while the Legion was struggling with their unenviable gift, the Legislature of the State of Texas came to their aid. The members of the law-making body said: "Texas wants to erect a memorial to her soldiers and sailors who fell in the world war, and those survivors who have returned to their homes. Turn this thing over to the State, and we'll erect a real sanatorium, to be known as the America Legion Memorial Sanatorium, and open to all citizens of Texas."

So, it was agreed. The site and buildings under construction were deeded to the state. Additional appropriation of one and a half million dollars was made, and the work went forward again, according to the original design. In June, 1921 the first unit was opened, and care and treatment was given Texas soldiers as far as the finished buildings would permit.

The architects' original designs, provided for twenty-three immense buildings. By the end of 1922 practically all of these were finished. These great buildings, all constructed in the most modern manner, and equipped with every possible thing for the care and comfort of the veterans, literally grew in concrete and steel from the face of the mountain on which the institution stands.

Meantime, the State undertook to equip the plant, and did furnish several of the great ward buildings. But, it was plain that Texas had taken a large order, and that the proper authority for the handling of so large a concern was the Federal Government. Accordingly, a movement was set on foot to lease the plant to the Government. This was carried out, and in the early part of the present year the immense hospital became the leased property of the Federal Government, and known as United States Veterans' Hospital No. 93.

Under Federal supervision work has gone forward rapidly. Ten additional buildings are under construction, and much work has been done on the grounds. The buildings are being rapidly equipped, and within a short time the hospital will be open to its full capacity of six hundred patients. The Government is operating the institution under lease from the State, but it is hoped that it will become a permanent Federal Hospital.

The site upon which this institution stands is one of the most attractive of the many wonderful scenic situations around Kerrville. It stands on an eminence overlooking the lovely Guadalupe Valley, and commands a view of miles of mountain and valley in every direction.

Climatic conditions in the Hill Country about Kerrville are such that this section has acquired a nation-wide reputation for many marvelous cures of tuberculosis.

Of the buildings, pages of description might be written. They cover acres of ground, and each of them is perfect in appointment, with every modern convenience. There is the administration building, a handsome structure of brick, trimmed with native stone from the quarries on the side. Then there is the Nurses' Home, an immense building, plain brick and tile as to exterior, but like all the other buildings finished to perfection inside.

There are ten dormitory buildings. Five of these are one story, and five two-story buildings. The subsistence building was the first constructed. It and two of the ward buildings are of white stucco. All the other buildings are of brick. Ten new buildings are now under construction. These include homes for the medical staff, institution garage, and other buildings. Miles of concrete curb have been laid, much of the walk is down, and a little army of men is constantly at work on the landscape gardening that will make this one of the prettiest places in the Hill Country.

The largest building of them all, and probably the best equipped of its kind in America, is the infirmary.

The nerve center of the whole plant

is the power house. This building is 52x110 feet. The stack is 152 feet high, and furnishes draft for three boilers of 750 h. p. each. The electric plant consists of two direct connected engines and dynamos. In addition to power for the electric plant, these great boilers furnish steam for heating the entire plant, and for every purpose for which live steam is used.

The laundry is equipped with all modern machinery, and could readily handle the laundry business of a considerable city.

An artesian well seven hundred feet deep furnishes water for the institution. All the section round about Kerrville is underlain with artesian water. The first stratum is reached at three hundred feet. The second stratum, and that from which the city of Kerrville secures its excellent water supply is at seven hundred feet. Driving the sanatorium well down to that depth, an inexhaustible supply of pure water was secured. The full capacity of this well is not known. The water does not flow, owing to the well being located on top of the eminence. The stream rises to within forty feet of the top, and is pumped thence, by a powerful pump, into the immense tank at the top of the water tower. The only test of the well, as to capacity, was a twenty-four hour continuous pumping, at 125 gallons per minute, or 180,000 gallons for the twenty-four hours.

The Kerrville Mountain Sun, $2.00 per year, after January 1st, 1924.

ANT CONTROL NOW POSSIBLE

R. R. Reppert, Entomologist: The housewife experiences a great deal of annoyance by ants of various species. There are among these number of species of garden, or lawn ants, that enter the house and carry away food. They also cause annoyance at this season of the year, and in early spring, by nesting in boxes or pots containing flowers, setting outside the house, sometimes damaging the plants.

The fact that they so readily enter these containers suggests a method of control at this season, and during the late winter and early spring months. During the rainy period, ants seek a place from which the water will drain and that will be reasonably dry. They also seek a place that will furnish them heat. They can be readily trapped by providing boxes into which is packed something that will provide these conditions. Often fairly dry earth alone will be sufficient. However, substance such as cotton seed hulls, grass, leaves, and such other material, slightly moistened and packed so it will heat, will be best. Set the box near the house or other place which it is desired to protect, and leave it for a number of weeks. After the ants have moved into this home, the box can be covered with another box larger and practically air tight, and heavily fumigated with carbon bisulphide, or covered with canvas or cloth sized with linseed oil, or covered heavily with blankets, and fumigated. In this fumigation, pour about a quarter of a pint of the liquid into a shallow pan, and place on top of the box, throwing the blanket over the whole, first putting sticks over the pan to keep the blanket raised above the liquid. Fumigate for thirty-six hours, preferably on warm days. Then remove the blankets, and the box is ready to be colonized by other ants that may remain in the vicinity. Caution: Carbon bisulphide is inflammable and explosive. Keep away from fires.

PECAN TREE YIELDS OWNER LARGE PROFIT

Austin, Tex., Nov. 21.—J. E. Pearce, professor of anthropology at the University of Texas, has been experimenting with pecan grafting for the last twelve years. He started with the ordinary scrawny variety of pecans and grafted with scions from trees producing good nuts. Five years ago they began to bear. "The best trees for this locality," said Professor Pearce, "are the Texas Prolific. These trees withstand droughts and insect pests better than the average varieties, and bear the largest nuts in the greatest quantities."

From one tree last year he sold $100 worth of nuts. He has about 300 trees, and last year sold more than $300 worth of nuts. He believes the pecan growing industry is in its infancy, and that the market is infinite. Quantity production will lessen the value of pecans, he says, but the time is far away when the pecan crop of Texas will supply the demand.

Mrs. Dietert of Kerrville presented the hospital with several large potted plants as a gift that all might share. These are used for interior decoration and look very beautiful in their new home.

The patients of the Infirmary Ward express their appreciation of the lovely flowers that are placed in their rooms almost daily through the kindness of Mrs. W. A. Salter, Mrs. Henry Kuhlmann and the Auxiliaries of the Garrett-Baker Post of Kerrville.

For the entertainment of the patients of the Veterans' Hospital, a short comedy sketch entitled, "Vivian Stays at Home," was given at the Red Cross Hall Saturday night. The piece was full of very funny situations and amused the audience from start to finish.

Those who were represented in the cast were: Miss E. L. Sheppe, Pauline Cash, Isabelle Pierdolla, Mrs. Charles Swartz, and Frederic Sevier, A. J. Bessan and C. D. Stuart.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the First Presbyterian Church of Kerrville held an open meeting at the Red Cross Hall Sunday night. The meeting was open to any of the patients and personnel who cared to attend. The topic of the meeting was: "How to obtain a Great Missionary Advance," and it was introduced by the leader, Mr. Kelley.

Miss Ora Bruchmiller, Chief Nurse, has returned from a conference of Veterans Bureau chief nurses convened in Washington, D. C. This conference was headed by Miss Mary A. Hickey, Superintendent of the Veterans' Bureau nurse corps, and was held in connection with matters pertaining to the administration of Veterans' Bureau affairs.

Miss Bruchmiller was among those who were received at the White House by Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, first lady of the land. Miss Bruchmiller visited friends in Washington for a week, after the close of the conference. She expressed great pleasure, however, in returning to her official station at Legion in the Hill Country.

SPORTSMEN AND POACHERS

Texas Commercial News: There is staged for next Thursday, November 22nd, in the rooms of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce, a meeting of the Texas Game and Fish Conservation Association.

The spirit to conserve is a beautiful trait, and this meeting should have the attendance of every sportsman in Texas, who is able to attend.

Holland's Magazine has thrown its great faith and strength behind the conservation of wild life, and it is hoped that it shall be as successful in this campaign as it has been in preceding campaigns.

There is much need of concerted action in calling hunters' attention to the importance of conserving wild life.

It is sad, but true that all hunters are not sportsmen. Too many of them are poachers. We have never been able to understand the man who finds his chiefest pleasure in the number he bags.

We had the pleasure of accompanying a real sportsman on one of his quail hunts.

With him it wasn't the number bagged but the behavior of his dog, the difficult shot, the beauty of the scared fields—these were the ambitions of his hunt.

He wouldn't pot the covey nor shoot before the quail had been flushed and had spread before him. Then he picked his shot, not more than two, and seldom missed.

He said that only a sneak would pot the birds, or fail to give the bird a fair chance for his life.

It was a beautiful sight to watch the sportsman and his dog at work. Patience and certainty marked both dog and hunter.

Joy spread over his face as he discovered his pointer with muzzle extended, with his tail in direct horizontal, steadily holding a rigid body, poised on three legs while the left fore paw would be held in easy command.

The beautiful dog's white body silhouetted against the brown stubble made a picture even a novice would admire, and with an almost inaudible "steady" from the lips of his master, the dog would hold the birds until the hunter approached.

Reaching his wanted distance, for an instant drinking in the beauty of it all, he would signal his dog for the flush.

This sportsman was never heard to boast of the number he bagged—he seemed to feel just a bit embarrassed if his number was large; but he never tired drawing word pictures of his dog in action, or giving in minute detail the difficult shot he scored.

He seemed to be happiest of the thought of the number he had left in the fields.

He was a true sportsman, and were all hunters such as he, our wild life for many hundred years would delight the sportsman's eye and bless the rural life; but with the automobile, the dog, the repeating shotgun, only a few years of poaching shall leave our wild life practically extinct.

Center Point Comments

News, Nov. 15th: Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Gibbons and two children of Faunsdale, Ala., are visiting home folks in Center Point.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Herndon were over from Kerrville Monday and were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Witt.

Rev. J. C. Evans and family, who have been making their home in Kerrville for the past several months, were in Center Point Wednesday enroute to Medina, where Rev. Evans accepts the pastorate of the Methodist Church at that place.

The Center Point Mercantile Company has sent several truck loads of turkeys to the Kerrville market during the past week. They have been getting some mighty fine turkeys and expect to handle quite a number between now and the holiday season.

Rev. R. S. Adair and family arrived from Boerne last week and are at home now at the Methodist Parsonage. Rev. Adair is the new pastor of the church here. He has lived at Boerne for the past seven years, where he served as pastor of the Methodist Church, and it is said that members of the church there made an appeal to keep him the coming year. Our little town is fortunate to have this good family locate here.

TIVY SWAMPS FREDERICKSBURG IN SINGLE GRID GAME OF WEEK

Moses' Pets Uncork Too Much Speed for Opponents Saturday—Play at Comfort Friday.

Coach Moses' Tivy High School pets uncorked a whirlwind of speed last Saturday afternoon and Fredericksburg High drew the minus end of a 51 to 0 score, the second time this season a top heavy shutout score has been run up on them by the local school.

It was a run-away for Tivy from the first whistle, although the visitors got within striking distance a couple of times only to be turned back by the fighting feather-weights of the High School. The domestics had the pork-skin the greater part of the time and kept it within their opponents territory.

The initial counter came within the first few minutes of play after Tivy had taken the ball near the Fredericksburg goal. Saenger's sweeping end run found no one to stop him and he carried the leather across from the 25-yard line. Tarver added the second one on a long pass from the 40-yard mark.

The second quarter bore the burden of most of the scoring when 26 points were rung up by the home eleven. Saenger toted a pair of them over, each from the 40-yard stripe. The first one came after a run around the right wing and the second was made on a beautiful broken field run after receiving a punt. Tarver broke away from the 45-yard mark for the last one just as the whistle tooted for the half.

After the first half the visitors put up a good fight and held Tivy to a pair of touchdowns in the last two periods. It was in the last half that the Fredericksburgers got within striking distance of Tivy's goal twice and lost the swineskin before putting it over for a counter.

Twice the visitors punted within 15 yards of the Tivy goal and held the locals for downs, Saenger kicking out of danger each time.

Probably the feature of the entire game was Saenger's pretty return of a kickoff 65 yards in the second quarter. He took the ball on his own 30-yard mark and with beautiful interference swept up the field. After a part of his interference had been cut down he attempted to dodge a tackler, but slipped and before he could recover himself the visitors stopped him on their 10-yard stripe. Wolfmueller, who had been shifted to halfback, plowed through the line for the touchdown.

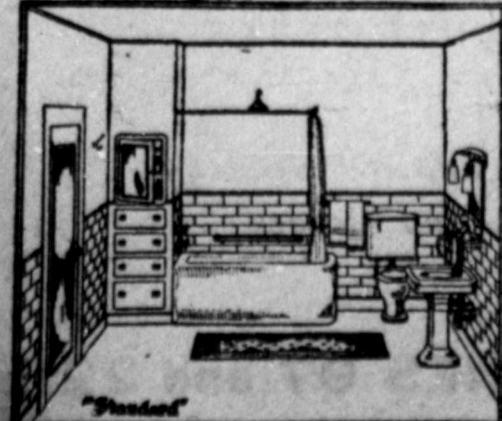

Wall played his usual steady game and Spinks did some good tackling. Osborne and Tarver gained considerable ground, the former on line bucks and the latter on end runs and passes. The entire Tivy line played fine football.

Coach Moses will take his speed demons to Comfort Friday afternoon for a return game with Comfort High School. A number of rooters are expected to accompany the local team.

er compartment while the water thus relieved of all particles that are heavier than the water itself passes beneath over-head projections which retain those things lighter than water.

The liquid part of the sewage, which flows on relieved of its solids, then passes on and is settled, and is delivered by the Imhoff tank to the dosing tank and is held there until a given quantity has accumulated. It is then discharged by an automatic siphon to the sprinkler heads on the filter bed. As the effluent enters the surface of a sprinkler, particularly as sprayed from nozzles as in this design, the liquid is usually from 60 to 80 per cent saturated with atmospheric oxygen. This holds true during the colder seasons of the year, but at times during the summer anaerobic decomposition has proceeded so far that the liquid leaving the tank absorbs at once practically all the oxygen which reaches it during aeration at the filter nozzles. As this process requires all steps to be taken on an oxidizing basis as far as possible, aid is received from the movements of air vertically from top to bottom and from bottom to top of filter.

When sludge is first applied to a new trickling filter the suspended matter clings to the surface of the stones where it is temporarily retained, forming a suitable habitat for the bacteria in the sewage. Thus a bacterial film, sometimes called jelly, is gradually built up, covering the surface of the stone of the entire bed. As the sewage trickles over this jelly-like substance, the finely divided colloidal and some of the dissolved matter is retained upon and in it and apparently furnishes the food supply for the myriads of micro-organisms present. In this manner the sewage is deprived of its putrescible organisms and ultimately given off to the passing sewage and carried away in the form of mineral or stable organic substances. It is of vital importance to provide the proper quantity of food supply and an ample opportunity for the absorption of atmospheric oxygen. The operation of the filter is approximately continuous, and thus has a distinct advantage over other types of beds, which of necessity are both dosed and aerated periodically.

Every highly efficient trickling filter will carry the process of oxidation so far that effluent will keep indefinitely, and if the contact material is relatively fine, the suspended matter withdrawn therefrom will be retained and a practically clear and sparkling effluent will be produced. Such a filter will cause a large reduction in the number of bacteria present in the original sewage.

One of the prime objects in the design of a sprinkling filter is to so construct it that the solids shall not accumulate indefinitely in the stone, but may wash out from time to time and thus avoid the necessity of taking out the stone to free it from the accumulation of such substances which otherwise might clog the filter.

Meanwhile nature has set up its bacterial action in the lower chamber of the Imhoff tank where the solids remain for several months to undergo biological decomposition, and through this change the solids are finally converted back to mineral ash, commonly termed sludge, and about twice a year this is drawn out of the tank through a valve opening to be dried on the bed provided for that purpose. It is found to be in a perfectly harmless condition and quite similar to any other soil except that it is high in fertilizing values.

The treatment plant is designed for a city about twice the size of Kerrville now is, while the collecting system will never have to be added to except as the corporate limits increase or other outlying districts are brought into the city.

It should be remembered that all of the things which are used in the construction of a sewer system are of a very permanent character, and most of them are indestructible. The treatment plant consists of nothing but concrete and cast iron except the steel reinforcing bars that are inside the concrete and hence likewise indestructible. The collecting lines are of vitrified tile pipe and are likewise indestructible.

The cost of operating the plant will be extremely small. One may safely say that 50 cents a day will cover every possible expense of its operation.
