HIGH ROLLS ROAD TO BE SCENIC ROUTE

The surveyors of the U. S. Bureau of public roads have completed, except as to minor details, the survey of the new High Rolls-Clouderoft road. From Cloudcroft the route comes down the south side of the mountains on the north of Haine's Canyon to the foothills; then across above the Haile ranch to the present Cloudcroft road above Mountain Park. This gives a route reasonably free from snow, with no sharp curves and with a nice grade in no place exceeding 7 percent. It will be a scenic route seldom surpassed. #### DONATIONS

We have all heard of the fellow who boasts that he has the world by the tail and a down hill drag, and that individual finds his counterpart in the conscienceless vulture who preys on the merchants and business men of any town, confidently asking them for donations on the grounds that they "owe it to the community."

If this is the best argument that any solicitor for funds can give, he should be treated with the same courteous respect that would be accorded a pole cat in the living room of your house.

We have had several examples of this sort of thing in Hagerman during these "depression" years. The Central Committee at its meeting on September 22 adopted the following statement with respect to the Roll call to be held this year.

The American Red Cross today faces a great emergency. Demands for its services exceed those of any period since the World War.

Millions are without employment. They have seen their resources dwindle in the economic catastrophe, as victims of disaster have their posesssions snatched from them by tornado, flood, fire 1931. and drought. During the last year Red Cross aid has been carried to more than three and a half million of these families. This reof local communities, has reached into every state. The Red Cross was asked by the government to distribute, in the form of flour and feed for livestock, forty million bushels of wheat. This vast supply has gone into homes of needy and distressed people in cities and towns of every state. It has filled the gap in depleted local resources in shipments into the area west of countless communities.

The Red Cross must administer additional forty-five million bushels of government wheat. It must administer the transportation of 500,000 bales of government cotton into garments for men, women and children.

Red Cross chapters in 2,276 communities have been engaged in unemployment relief. Food. shelter, clothing, garden seed, medical and nursing care have been given in industrial centers, coal mining regions and agricultural sections.

WESTERN FEEDERS SMALLER THAN 1931

The shipments of stocker and feeder cattle, inspected through markets, into the corn belt states in October were very small, being over 10 per cent smaller than the relatively small shipments in October, 1931, nearly 20 per cent smaller than the October average for the preceding 5 years and the smallest for the month in twelve years. Most of the decrease from last year was in the shipments into the states west of the Mississippi river, which were the smallest for the month in at least fourteen years. Shipments into the area east of the Mississippi, while smaller than in October, 1931, were larger than in any of the four years preceding

This decrease in shipments in October was in contrast to the preceding three months in each of which the movement was larger than in the corresponding months of 1931, and reduced the total for the four months, July to October, inclusive, below the corresponding total for 1931 and to the second smallest in twelve years. The four months' shipments into the area east of the Mississippi, however, were 15 per cent larger than n 1931 and much above the average of the years 1927 to 1931; the Missippi were 8 per cent smaller than in 1931 and 10 per the distribution of flour from an cent smaller than in any other year since 1919.

The decrease from last year was most marked in the shipments into the states west of the Mississippi river. Shipments into these states in 1931 were relatively small due to the short production of corn and other feed crops resulting from the 1931 drought. Feed grain and hay production this year are much above 1931 been provided. This relief has but the in-shipments of feeder cattle through markets have again declined. Reports from these states, however, indicate that the direct movement of feeder cattle (not going through stockyards markets) is much large this year than last, and the supply of locally raised cattle avilable for feeding is relatively large. Hence shipments through markets this year do not give a dependable indication as to the probable volume of feeding this season, which is expected to be larger markets in October were due in part to the very small supplies of cattle at markets during that month. Cattle receipts at seven leading middle western markets in October 1932 were above 15 per cent smaller than in October 1931, which in turn, were the smallest for the month in at least fifteeen years.

But she would like to look nice at Ernest's wedding. Ernest had been fond of her in the old days.

Well, there were those two fivedollar bills hidden away in the toolhouse. Joe was saving them for seeding the small meadow. And there were four dollars and seventy cents-she'd kept careful of the count-in her dime bank, almost another five. Joe had been dear about dimes for her little bank-but too determined about business. Always business first, with Joe.

"Fifteen dollars would buy that flowered satin dress she'd seen in the window of the village store, marked down from twelve-seventyfive, and shoes. The very best shoes in the store would cost less than five dollars.

Here her glance rested upon Joe's best on the closet floor beside her own. Their bulk reminded her of something Ernest had said once about Joe's "number tens" being in the way when her future husband inferred comparison at the time. Ernest wore sevens.
