CONTROL ON OIL OUTPUT SOUGHT

President Power To Control the Import of Oil and Would Prevent "Hot Oil" Shipments.

Administration officials agreed at a meeting Tuesday on immediate action to establish a federal oil control program.

Mr. Roosevelt forecast a message, requesting a board of adjournment, would be forwarded to Capitol Hill.

Representatives Cole, Clegg, and Disney, Missouri, were present.

The board to administer a law forbidding interstate shipments of "hot oil"—oil in excess of state quotas—was announced by Morgenthau.

Experts in Washington included it is unlawful to issue pieces or tokens of change in connection with the law.

Public Schools Of New Mexico Are In Good Condition

Financial condition of the public schools of the state is not only excellent, but there is every indication that every county will finish the coming year on a cash basis.

Reports that the schools would close the year with a shortage of $500,000 to $1,000,000 were not only discounted by Mr. Rodgers, but declared to be impossible under the present financial set-up.

At the present time, Mr. Rodgers said, "there are only two counties in the state which show an indebtedness. All the rest have their bills paid and will begin the school year on a cash basis.

The total maintenance budget this year in the tentative set-up is $5,709,599 compared with $5,422,116 last year, an increase of nearly $300,000.

Against this maintenance budget the schools have credits sufficient to meet proposed expenditures.

The tentative budget shows a grand total for maintenance of $5,837,907 compared with $5,709,599 for the basic budget, which it should be remembered, is a five-year average.

Credits to meet the tentative budget have been set up as follows, Mr. Rodgers said:

State apportionment, $1,354,720; motor vehicle license fees, $60,122; property tax, $1,282,369; interest on deposits, $5,875; forest funds, $12,831; vocational, $14,200; merchandise licenses, $3,105; miscellaneous, $12,138. These items total $2,745,360.

The state has a cash balance in the school fund of $150,000. Income from the school emergency tax, liquor stamp tax and income tax will total $2,550,000, according to Mr. Rodgers' estimates. This brings the credits up to $5,445,380, or more than the total budget for the last school year.

New Deal Laws and the Courts

THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES

By WILLIAM C. UTLEY

THE New Deal has been tossing about in stormy political seas during the past few months in its struggle to gain the shore of economic security, and has at last run aground on the Constitution of the United States, from which not even the churning over of billions of dollars in bailout seems likely to be able to lift it.

Court decisions have been falling thick and fast, now that New Deal legislation has had a chance to get into application, and claims against it have had a chance to find their way to the tribunals. At one time approximately 400 cases involving New Deal legislation were pending in the courts.

Many of these have already been decided upon, some by the lower courts and a few finally by the Supreme court. There are about 17 of them which the consensus of the press has imbued with more importance than all of the others. Of these cases 15 have been decided against the present administration and two for it.

Most important of all such decisions was that which threw out virtually the entire structure of the NRA, knocking the props from under New Deal planning. This left the President with three courses of action open: To build a new and better NRA, to simply suspend action for a while and "let us see how they like it," or to campaign for an amendment to the Constitution which would further centralize legislative power to aid the administration in coping with changing social and economic conditions.

For a while it looked as if the President's policy was to be a combination of all three, but of late weeks the third has emerged more and more clearly.

CHART OF NEW DEAL'S COURSE IN COURTS

For New Deal.

Government gold clause cases upheld.

TVA declared constitutional, reversing decision of lower court.

Against New Deal.

Sec. 9c of NRA (President's power to prohibit interstate transport of oil in excess of state quotas) declared unconstitutional.

Sec. 7a of NRA declared void when applied to companies not engaged in interstate commerce.

Government power to regulate wages in bituminous coal industry denied.

Right of PWA to condemn land for slum clearance in Kentucky denied. Again denied by Cincinnati court.

NIRA lumber code held invalid.

Right of states to form NRA divisions voided in some states.

Steps for stabilizing milk industry declared unconstitutional.

Railroad retirement act held invalid.

Whole NIRA ruled unconstitutional.

Frazier-Lemke farm moratorium act voided.

President stripped of power to remove federal officers.

PWA power loans voided.

Kerr-Smith tobacco act voided.

AAA processing tax ruled out.

Hog processing tax from packers voided.

Composite Score.
For New Deal: 2. Against: 15.

dictums of the court said: "We hold that the joint resolution of June 5, 1933, so far as it attempted to override the obligation of the United States created by the bond in suit, is invalid. It went beyond the constitutional authority of congress. But we hold that the action is for breach of contract and that the plaintiff has failed to show cause of action for actual damages. Hence the court of claims could not entertain the suit."

About the same time a Federal court in Louisville, Ky., denied that the PWA had the right to condemn land for slum clearance. A Cincinnati court did the same. Another court held the lumber code of the NRA unconstitutional. In some states, state courts threw out state recovery acts which were designed to complement the national one.

Another blow to NRA labor relations was an injunction granted by Federal District Judge Charles Irvin Dawson at Louisville to 35 soft coal operators, relieving them from the rigors of NRA minimum wage requirements.

of the New Deal for stabilization of the milk industry in New York. In May the Supreme court delivered three death blows to the New Deal. One was the decision which voided the railroad retirement act.

In another case the court put a further crimp in President Roosevelt's power by denying him the right to remove a federal officer from office. The President had sought to remove William E. Humphrey from the Federal Power commission.

And Another Blow. The third blow, the one that left even Franklin D. Roosevelt speechless (for awhile) was the decision of the Schechter poultry case. The decision was all the more crushing because it was unanimous. In delivering the court's opinion Chief Justice Hughes declared definitely that all of the code-making provisions were an unconstitutional transfer of legislative powers from congress to the President and others who had no constitutional right to them. About the codes, Chief Justice Hughes said:

"... Section 3 (NRA) of the Recovery act is without precedent. It supplies no standards for any trade, industry or activity. It does not undertake to prescribe rules of conduct to be applied to particular states of fact to be determined by appropriate administrative procedure. Instead of prescribing rules of conduct, it authorizes the making of codes to prescribe them."

"... We think that the code-making authority thus prescribed is an unconstitutional delegation of legislative power." About the power of the federal government to regulate local wages and working hours the chief justice said: "We are of the opinion that the attempt through provisions of the code to fix the hours and wages of employees of defendants in their intrastate business was not a valid exercise of federal power."

Improved Uniform International SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago, and Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for August 11 DANIEL

LESSON TEXT—Daniel 1:8-26. GOLDEN TEXT—Kiss not that your body is the temple of the Holy Ghost which is in you, which ye have of God?—I Corinthians 6:19. PRIMARY TOPIC—How Daniel Grew Strong. JUNIOR TOPIC—Ten Times Strong. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Obeying the Laws of Health. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Motives for Total Abstinence.

The lessons committee has designated this lesson, "Temperance and Health." In the use of this as a temperance lesson it must be borne in mind that it is temperance in the sense of self-mastery, rather than having to do with indulgence in intoxicating liquors. Daniel's self-mastery was due to his right relation and loyalty to his God. It is utterly futile to hope to enforce a program of temperance upon those who are in rebellion against God.

1. Daniel in Captivity in Babylon (vv. 1-4). Daniel with his companions were carried away to Babylon in the first siege of Jerusalem by Nebuchadnezzar. At the command of the king, certain choice young men were carried away because they were "skillful in wisdom, and understanding in science," that they might be trained to stand in the king's palace.

2. The change of name (vv. 6, 7). Among the Hebrews names were given to children which were most significant. Daniel means "God is my Judge." The significance of this name is that all the problems of life were submitted to God for decision. God was made the arbitrator of his life. His name was changed to Belshazzar, which means "Bel's prince." It meant, therefore, one whom the chief god of the Babylonians favored. Hananiah means "gift of Jehovah." His name was changed to Shadrach, which signified "illumined by the sun god, Raah." Mishaal means "who is as God." His name was changed to Meshach, which means "who is like the goddess, Sheshach, the gentle one." Azariah means "Jehovah is our help." This was changed to Abednego, which means "the servant of Nego." Back of the change of names was the attempt of Satan to wipe out the name of the true God and to have these young men to lose their separation, thus becoming assimilated among the heathen.

3. Daniel's Courtesy (vv. 8-13). Daniel seems to have been the spokesman for the company. Although his heart was fixed, he did not forget to be a gentleman. He requested to be excused from this meat and drink in order that he be not defiled. We should learn from this that in times even of great trials we should be courteous. When Daniel asked that a test be made as to the effect of the food upon the countenance of himself and companions, gracious consideration was given to them.

4. Daniel's Triumph (vv. 14-21). 1. As to physical health (vv. 14-16). A test was made for ten days, and it was shown that Daniel and his companions were fairer in countenance and fatter in flesh than those who indulged in the eating of the king's meat. This meat and wine would have been pleasant to the palate, but would have meant a compromise of the conscience. It is obligatory upon God's children today to conscientiously abstain from that which is contrary to his law. It means the total abstinence from intoxicating liquors and everything which would injure the health.

2. Spiritual insight (v. 17). Because of Daniel's loyalty to God, Nebuchadnezzar's dream was revealed to him (2:31-45), and he was given visions sketching the whole history of the world.

3. Mental growth (vv. 17-20). Daniel and his companions were found to be ten times superior in matters of wisdom and understanding to their comrades. Those who abstain from indulgence in the use of strong drinks have clearer minds and are thus better equipped mentally for their work than those who indulge therein.

Let Our Motto Be GOOD HEALTH

BY DR. LLOYD ARNOLD, Professor of Bacteriology and Preventive Medicine, University of Illinois, College of Medicine.

NEW PROBLEMS IN RURAL HEALTH

Something new has been happening in this country since 1930. We are having a back-to-the-land movement. Before this, ever since we became an industrial nation, we had an on-to-the-city urge. The new movement is giving the rural community a lot of new problems. There are more children to go to school, for instance, and so new school rooms must be built. And then an influx of more people means that the community health problems are greatly increased.

We were an agricultural country during Colonial times. Almost every one got his living from the land, and practically the only industry was home industry. The only power, outside of the muscle power of man and beast, was the power of a few water wheels in the streams along the New England coast. It was at these sites that our first industrial towns and cities grew. Then came steam power, and since steam power could not be transported easily, the workers flocked to where the boilers were. And then came electricity. Electricity can economically be transported long distances, and hence the development of industries using electrical power, could be spread over a wide geographical area.

This led naturally to the rediscovery of small towns as ideal factory sites. But whether in city or small town the industrial worker did not till the soil.

During the last 40 years the population of the United States has almost doubled. For every 100 persons living in the United States in 1890, there were 195 in 1930. But for every 100 farmers in 1890, there were only 124 in 1930. In other words, there was an actual decrease in the farm population in those four decades. On the other hand, the population of towns of 25,000 or 500,000 inhabitants increased 300 times as compared to a general population increase of 200 times. The figures are still more striking in the larger cities of half a million to a million in population. Here the increase has been 700 times what it was in 1890. We were in 1930 a decidedly more urban than rural population.

Now, due to the depression, we are in the midst of a redistribution of population. It has been estimated that more than 100,000 persons a month are moving from the cities to the land. Many city homes have to LET signs on them, but it is difficult to find a vacant farm house almost anywhere. Likewise it is difficult to find a vacant house in a small town. I heard of one town the other day of about 2,000 population. It was in the iron mining district of Upper Michigan. When the mine shut down 15 years ago because the ore had run out, half the population moved away. But a newly married pair recently could not find a house of any sort to live in. So many former residents had come back, or people from Milwaukee or Chicago, who had loaded their families into cars, hunting for cheaper living, had decided to stay in this town. The newcomers figure they can raise food, if they can't do anything else. And this condition is duplicated all over the country.

Many of these people will stay permanently in the small towns and on the farms, although the probability is that only a small proportion of them will continue farming as an all time occupation. The majority are still machine-minded. Great industrialists, such as Henry Ford, hold that the solution of manufacturing slack is for the factory to be situated in the country, with the employees working their home gardens on off days to supplement, with homegrown fruits and vegetables, their factory income.

Be that as it may, the present fact is that the rural districts have had washed upon them an influx of population that has been trained to city ways. Is the migration going to be for the health benefit of every one? We believe it is.

On the other hand, the city-borne people have been accustomed to better sanitary health guards than the country-borne people have. They have, for instance, been accustomed to safe drinking water, while in some country communities the well water is not safe.

A Tough Old Bird Five Billions More? News of Hogs Submarines Wanted

Amos R. E. Pinchot, who has lefture and thinks, utters profound truth writing to one of the "professors."

"Capitalism is a tough old bird, that will live a good deal longer than any of us will."

Capitalism, which means government by organized dollars and industry, instead of organized soldiers, will last longer than this present generation, longer than this century. Capitalism is the new financial feudalism that replaced military feudalism. There is no reason why it should not last as long as military feudalism lasted, many centuries.

Senator Borah, one of the senate's able men, predicts that congress will sit until November 1, and that five thousand one hundred and twenty millions more will be appropriated for immediate spending. That would make about an even ten billions in extra appropriation for this year.

Two thousand one hundred and twenty millions of the money would pay the soldiers' bonus in "greenbacks," and three thousand millions would be used to take up mortgages on farms.

"Hogs sell up to $10.10, best price since September, 1930." That comes from Kansas City—ten dollars and ten cents for a hog weighing one hundred pounds. That may not mean much to you; it means much to the farmers that raise hogs. It also has meaning for housekeepers that buy sausages.

For some mysterious reason, when pork prices go up 10 per cent sausage prices go up 100 per cent.

Rear Admiral Yates Stirling, Jr., commanding Brooklyn navy yard, says America needs long-range submarines to protect our interests in the Pacific.

Since 1918, when sweet peace returned, wise Japan, according to Admiral Stirling, has built 64 submarines, including 27 of long range, each carrying six torpedo tubes, powerful guns, able to cross the Pacific and return without refueling. Japan has also a special fleet of eight submarines for placing destructive ocean mines, four of them able to operate 5,000 miles from their base. Each could place 45 bombs in the path of enemy shipping.

Newell P. Sherman, choir singer, Boy Scout master, fell in love with a girl sixteen, admits that to make his way clear he upset a canoe, throwing the mother of his two children into the water, kept pushing her away from the boat until she sank and drowned. This young gentleman is 6 feet 4 inches tall, but the electric chair can doubtless be arranged to fit him.

You will hope that no tender-hearted parole board will say, "He ought to have another chance." One chance to drown the mother of your two children seems enough.

Rome reports Fascist excitement because "Japan assumes the role of Abyssinian champion." Mussolini's press says Japan sets herself up as leader of Asiatic and African peoples, "against the civilization and culture of the white race."

A Fascist newspaper calls Japan "the enemy of Europe and America, dreaming of world conquest." That seems to be a keg of powder with only a spark lacking.

HOLC Borrowers Find Santa Claus

WASHINGTON—Some persons who obtained government aid to save their homes were declared to be deliberately evading repayment and resorting to threats of dire political consequences if the Home Owners Loan Corporation forecloses on them.

Investigators also reported that other borrowers of HOLC loans actually were boasting that they do not intend ever to repay.

This was disclosed as the HOLC, cracking down, published figures showing that up to July 31 foreclosure proceedings had been instituted in 45 states and the District of Columbia against home owners in default.

More than one-third of these—340—were declared due to deliberate delinquency, or what the corporation terms officially as "obstinate refusal to pay," notwithstanding that the borrowers have funds.

Investigators' reports said the incomes of many borrowers have increased considerably since they obtained HOLC aid in times of stress yet some have made no payments for a year or more.

They said one person eleven months delinquent on a $10,194.48 loan operates a large retail business and some other improved real estate, lives in an apartment building which he owns and is reported to be relying on "political affiliations" to prevent foreclosure. Immediate foreclosure on his property has been recommended.

Another report said a woman borrower who negotiated a HOLC loan of $3,750 thirteen months ago, but has repaid nothing, has written a high percentage in Washington complaining that she is being victimized by "a rich government" because the corporation intends to foreclose. She is described as cherishing the expectation that the government will finance a home for her at its expense while she retains her own funds.

Dozens of cases are shown in HOLC files where delinquent borrowers are collecting high rentals on their properties, yet refuse to pay anything on their HOLC loan.

A borrower in Massachusetts with an income of $128 monthly and obligated to pay $12.15 monthly on his HOLC loan, not only has refused to make any payments for nine months, reports say, but has demanded that the government keep his property in repair.

Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation Abilities Placed At $18,000,000,000

WASHINGTON—The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation has estimated its liability to insured banks at $18,000,000,000.

The first annual report, it put the liability in these institutions on a basis which guarantees up to $5,000 on deposits of more than $41,000.

The corporation said that in the first six months ended with June 30, 1935, insured banks had insured deposits of $2,760,000,000 in deposits.

Crowley, chairman, said that "this small number of failures constitutes real evidence of the soundness of the bank reconstruction program."

For the same year and a half the corporation reported the closing of fifty-one uninsured banks involving $35,143,000 in deposits. It said the recent bank record compared with failures of 7,066 institutions involving deposits of $2,478,831,000 during the ten years ending with 1930.

The corporation said its income on investments, including profit from the sale of bonds came to $9,057,195 in the year ended June 30. Its current assets were listed as $333,936,634, of which $315,080,009 was invested in government securities.

Michele, who is state chairman of constitution and by-laws, also attends as a delegate. Legionnaires planning to attend are John Clark, Lloyd Harshey and Jim Michele.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Curry and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Curry returned Tuesday night from an extensive trip which included Nebraska, where they visited Mrs. F. F. Thomas (Julia Curry) and family, and they went on to Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, and Ohio, as far as Cleveland. They reported the trip fine going, but hot and dry on the trip home. Conditions were very good east of the Mississippi river. Nebraska and Kansas were very dry and unless they get some rain immediately, they will not make very good crops.

FOR HOUSE WEAR IN THE MORNING

Just exactly right for a Good Morning of household chores. As cheerful as the chirp of the first robin, and as necessary as your next breath, is this cool, adorable, simple frock. If you like this young, dainty kind of dress that looks so inviting across the breakfast table, by all means make it of sheer swiss or dimity and decorate it with contrasting ruffles; if it's destined for a life of "hard labor," choose a sturdier material. Printed cotton and colored ric-rac braid makes a sensible and colorful substitute for the ruffles. In one morning you can run up enough of them to last all summer.

Pattern 2241 is available in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 takes 3 yards 35 inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included. Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE. Address orders to Writing Circle Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth Street, New York.

Oil Wells at Sea Are Expensive but Pay Out

THE tremendous output of oil wells drilled at sea has justified the expense of the unusual undertaking near Ventura, Calif. A rich stratum of oil-bearing sand was discovered more than a quarter of a mile off shore. Drilling was started shortly afterward and the resultant wells far beyond the breaker line have been a highly successful venture.

ONE SUMMER NIGHT

SITTING beside you on the cool gray stone, I saw through your dear eyes the summer night. The trees were shadowy, their dark leaves blown By perfumed breezes . . . In the misty light Of the far moon, I caught the pure white gleam Of your loved profile. . . . REPUBLICANS now over the administration of the Virgin Islands was so prominent that President Roosevelt felt impelled to settle it himself. So he removed from office the two chief batters, Gov. Paul M. Pearson and Judge T. Webster Wilson, and had other jobs found for them, and nominated as Pearson's successor Lawrence W. Cramer, who was serving as lieutenant governor of St. Croix island.

Opponents of the AAA amendments designed to strengthen the powers of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace decided to let the basic act go up to the Supreme court, so the administration bill was passed by the senate with only 15 adverse votes.

Both Republican and conservative Democratic foes of the AAA are confident that the Supreme court will hold the basic act unconstitutional and an early test is assured by a senate amendment permitting suits to recover processing taxes that have not been passed on to producers or consumers.

Immediate convocation of the League of Nations council to deal with the Italo-Ethiopian question was demanded by Haile Selassie, emperor of Ethiopia. On his behalf the demand was telegraphed to the league secretary at Geneva by Tacla Hawariat, Ethiopian minister to France and delegate to the league. He insisted that the council proceed to the examination of the situation under article XV of the league covenant, Ethiopia invoking this article because of the "threat to her independence from Italy."

British dispatches said Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin and leading members of his cabinet were believed to favor full league action, if other nations agree, as a last resort to avert the threatened conflict. Diplomatic quarters in London heard that the British government probably would alter its policy and permit export of arms to Ethiopia. The emperor's new minister there, W. C. Martin, had a conference at the foreign office and came out smiling happily, but saying nothing.

Previously Mr. Martin had admitted that Ethiopia was short not only of arms but also of money. "At the moment we have very little money," he said. "I am doing all that is possible to raise loans in London, but thus far I have not met with a great measure of success."

Stories have been published that there are large secret funds available and that Emperor Haile Selassie has a treasure hoard of gold and jewels, but that is wrong. I am over here to offer concessions for gold, copper, and oil in return for loans, but the London bankers with whom I have had discussions do not seem willing to part with their money. The attitude of the City of London men seems to be that if Italy defeats Ethiopia it will not recognize concessions granted other countries by Ethiopia.

TOM HEPLIN of Alabama once more is on the federal payroll. The big former senator and representative who was beaten in 1931 by Bankhead has accepted an appointment as administrative assistant for the Atlanta district of the federal housing administration. The job pays $4,900 a year.

CHESTER C. DAVIS, AAA administrator, and his fellow officials were gravely shocked when they were shown this classified real estate advertisement in the Globe of Joplin, Mo.: "Dandy way to make money. Buy this 13 acres for hog raising. Sign up with the government to not raise, say, 500 hogs. It will pay you $1,000. That will pay for the acres and have some left."

PERMANENT federal control of the liquor business is provided for in a bill which was passed by the house and sent to the senate with prospects of early adoption by that body. The measure, which creates within the treasury a new agency to be known as the federal alcohol administration, was asked by the President to replace the FACA killed by the Supreme court's NRA decision. Mr. Roosevelt wanted the new agency to be an independent office, but the house decided otherwise.

DETERMINATION of the Nazis to put an end to "political Catholicism" in Germany and their consequent drive against Catholic youth organizations may bring on results more serious even than has the Nazi anti-semitism.

decreed threatening prosecution for any priest violating Goering's injunction. Throughout the country generally the Catholic clergy was cautious, but in Friburg, Baden, where the Goering order had not been published before Sunday, the priests read in their pulpits a letter from the episcopate calling the Nazi action a violation of the concordat with the Vatican. To this charge the Nazis reply that the Catholics were the first to violate the concordat by making attacks on the Hitler youth movement in their parish papers.

This new "purge" by the Nazis includes a renewed crusade against the Jews and dissolution of the Steel Helmets, veterans' organization, in various provinces. The Jews are helpless and, if Julius Streicher has his way, will be driven out of Berlin or segregated in ghettos. But the Steel Helmets, whose chief is Minister of Labor Franz Selbte, are likely to cause the Hitler government a lot of trouble. The organization's weekly paper is using language that is not often heard in Germany these days, and Selbte is demanding the reason for suppression of the local divisions.

That wholly un-American procedure, the general strike, was tried out by organized labor in Indiana and the 67,000 inhabitants of Terre Haute were deprived of all food supplies. The local authorities of Vigo county called on the governor for help and Mr. McNutt promptly ordered 14 companies of the National Guard to the scene. Brig. Gen. Wray De Prez, in command, promised the merchants who had been bullied into shutting their shops would be given protection, and said his first endeavor would be to restore the milk and ice service. This had been cut off even from hospitals and homes with sick children.

The general strike was called by 48 unions without warning, because labor leaders had been unable to reach an agreement with the Columbian Enameling and Stamping company. Some 600 of that concern's employees went on strike in March and the plant was closed down, but the union leaders thought it was about to be reopened by strikebreakers.

Conciliators from the Department of Labor arrived and within 48 hours the general strike collapsed and was called off by the union officials in charge. The strike at the stamping company, however, continued in effect and several times the troops were forced to use tear gas bombs to disperse riotous mobs.

Terre Haute merchants estimated that the two days' strike cost them at least half a million dollars. The state spent probably $50,000 in maintaining order by use of the troops. The state federation of labor asserted the sympathy walkout was unauthorized—which didn't help much.

Washington.—President Roosevelt and those close to him realize that something more than a laugh is required to kill off a rumor. That is one of the reasons why the President is planning if and when congress adjourns to make an extended tour of this country. He knows of rumors going about the land that his health is not up to par and he is taking this method of disclosing to the American people by action rather than word the answer that he is physically fit.

Whoever occupies the White House is continually subjected to whispered rumors as well as open assertions of one kind or another. Some, as in this instance, reflect on the health of the chief executive. Others, as happened within the last quarter of a century, reflected on the personal habits and practices of the President. Still others have related in times past to personal fortunes and financial dealings of the man in the White House. Usually these "whispering campaigns" are of a derogatory character. No one ever knows exactly how they start nor is it ever possible for observers to put a finger on the rumors as they float by. It is a condition that seems to be bred by prominence of the individual about whom the rumor mongers can operate because people are always interested in what a President of the United States is doing.

In the current instance the "whispering campaign" was largely unknown to Washington until summer resort residents began returning to the city. They brought back all sorts of stories that were being circulated in distant places concerning Mr. Roosevelt's health. The gossip, for that is what it appears to be, spread like wild-fire in Washington and became so much concern that it crept into one of the White House press conferences.

"Mr. President," one of the 200 correspondents present asked, "are you in a little bad health?"

The chief executive's answer was the laugh which has endeared him to many people. He was just back from a short cruise aboard a yacht in Chesapeake bay. His face was sun-tanned. He leaned back in his chair and demanded to know what the correspondents thought about it. I think that the news dispatches from Washington that night indicated rather clearly what the correspondents thought about the state of the President's health, for surely none of these dispatches indicated any particular alarm.

Nevertheless, the rumors continued to go on, and a good many thousand people apparently believed that Mr. Roosevelt had broken under the strain of his New Deal presidency. So, before the summer is over millions of Americans probably will have an opportunity to see for themselves just as the correspondents saw at the press conference that the President still has his smile; that his hair is no more gray than when he took office in 1933, and that his countenance shows no earmarks of the strain which every President of the United States finds an inherent part of that job.

One trip upon which Mr. Roosevelt has set his heart is a tour to the Pacific coast and return. It will provide an opportunity for several millions of Americans to see him and a lesser number to hear him speak. It will carry him through territory which contains probably about half of the nation's population.

It is well recognized in Washington that no amount of denials by informed persons or any amount of second-hand testimony is sufficient to squelch malicious stories of the kind that have been circulated about the President. The eye witness is the only one who is prepared to discredit such stories and, unless present plans are revised, the eye witnesses will be many this summer. The President probably will make other trips during the late fall and early winter as well. Plans for these are still in the making and their length and number depends somewhat upon the date of congressional adjournment.

The program fits well into the Roosevelt methods. In the 28 months of his tenure the President has done a considerable amount of travel. He has made three cruises on the yacht owned by Vincent Astor, two of which lasted more than two weeks each. He traveled to the east coast of Canada in June, 1933, aboard the craft, Amberjack, and returned two weeks later aboard a navy ship. Last year, it will be remembered, he visited Haiti, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, Colombia, the Panama canal, Clipperton Island, and Hawaii. On his return from that cruise he crossed the Northwest, making several speeches before reaching Washington. In 1933 and in 1934 he visited Warm Springs, Georgia, the colony where victims of infantile paralysis are nursed back to health and with which the President, because of his own affliction, has had much personal connection. In returning from the 1934 visit to Warm Springs, Mr. Roosevelt stopped at Muscle Shoals, Norris dam, and Birmingham for personal visits to points and things which interested him. All of these trips have been in addition to periodical visits to his home at Hyde Park, N. Y., and, apparently, all that he needs to add to his mileage this summer is a period of comparative calmness in Washington.

If superficial appearances count for anything, the administration is actually making moves designed to reduce the federal treasury's deficit. It is yet too early to tell definitely what the plans are and administration spokesmen are strangely quiet about them but there are certain signs and portents which may be examined in the effort to determine which way the government is headed in respect of the gigantic expenditures for public works, relief, and general government costs.

While congressional committees continue to examine tax questions with a view to enactment of legislation that will increase federal revenue, the President and his advisers have taken steps to cut down the drain on the treasury.

The first and probably the most important of these moves is the announcement that on November 1 federal aid to those people unable to work will cease definitely. Relief Administrator Hopkins announced after a conference with the President that the relief policy will be changed on November 1 and that the various states, counties, and municipalities will be expected after that date to look after that segment of the population known as the unemployables. These are people who for one reason or another cannot earn their own living by work.

Previously Mr. Roosevelt had directed his fiscal advisers to make a thorough study of relief requirements for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1936. While this is almost 11 months away, the President told newspaper correspondents that he desired to know as early as possible what the burden of relief would be in the future. His announcement was interpreted as having a connection with budget requirements and prospective revenue under the proposed new tax legislation.

Earlier, Public Works Administrator Ickes had made known that the program of public works expenditures for improvement of the Mississippi valley and its rivers had been abandoned. It will be recalled that the National Resources board had recommended extensive improvements to be carried out from public works funds in the hands of the public works administrator. These involve vast sums. Now, it is made to appear that the PWA and the administration have in mind some restraint on expenditures of that character and that hereafter gigantic allotments of a public works or improvement character may be expected to be fewer in number.

The result of this will be, of course, to hold in the treasury some of the total of the $5,000,000,000 public works appropriation.

Reduction of the outgo for direct relief necessarily will be reflected in the remainder of the public works-relief fund and it is reported that other plans are in the making which will have as their prospective end a restoration to private employment of greater numbers of idle workers than heretofore have been contemplated.

I have reported to you previously how slowly the administration plans for spending the $5,000,000,000 works-relief fund were progressing.

In connection with the Hopkins' announcement on relief and the President's relief survey order, it was disclosed that only approximately fifteen thousand persons have been given jobs since the money was made available. This figure does not include the additional list of recruits for the Civilian Conservation corps whose numbers have grown from 300,000 to 403,000. It will be recalled that provision was made in the $5,000,000,000 appropriation resolution for an increase of the CCC from 300,000 to 600,000. Thus, in two months, the CCC has had only about one-third of the total increase which was expected. Frankly, CCC enlistments have been so disappointing that the responsible authorities have changed the age limit in order to permit the maximum of entries into that service. Those in a position to know and who will speak candidly about conditions entertain some fear that the total ever will approach the 600,000 to which enlistments are restricted.

ONCE MORE, WHO FOUND AMERICA?

This Time, Writer Advances Claim of Irish.

In spite of the tribute paid Columbus and the recognition given Lief Ericsson, the Norseman, for his earlier landing on the shores of America there is still considerable uncertainty as to who was actually the first discoverer of the New world. Archeologists take us back an indeterminate number of years to what they consider the first discovery when hordes came to our continent from Asia, crossing the Bering straits from Siberia to Alaska and then making their way south. Others picture some of the tribes crossing over from Asia in boats and settling in America with still a few coming by way of Alaska. Evidence indicates that the Maya civilization in Central America had reached a high state shortly after the death of Christ. This would mean that the first boats landed on our shores at a very early date, or the great migration through Alaska started ages ago.

But dropping the consideration of the first coming of man because of its apparent remoteness there is still evidence that Columbus was at least as far down as third on the list of early comers to America. Even before Lief Ericsson and his band of rovers were blown upon the shores of the New world Irish wanderers may have landed here. The most pointed evidence is the existence on old Irish maps of an island called Brazil, located about where Newfoundland now appears on modern maps. An even weightier fact in connection with this implied discovery of America is the fact that on these old maps the outlines of the island are strikingly similar to the land surrounding the Gulf of St. Lawrence. John Cabot had one of these ancient maps and was searching for "Brazil" when he found North America.

Then, too, there is the Irish legend of the old saint who sailed to the far-off land where he was greeted by a strange figure with his body all decorated with feathers. There are also other facts which would support the theory of an Irish discovery. When the Norsemen first arrived at Iceland in 870 they found that the island had been occupied by Irish Christians for nearly a century. The nearness of Iceland to Greenland and its nearness to the New world makes it seem entirely possible that the Irish might have visited America at an early date. Then, too, there is the possibility that some of the Irish boats might have been blown from their courses onto American shores while going to and from Iceland as was Lief Ericsson's. The Irish of ancient times were sea rovers as were the Norsemen of a little later period.—Pathfinder.

JAPANESE WOMEN WORKERS

Quarterly Review, London, contains an article as to conditions among factory workers in Japan. The writer tells of the 1,600 young girls in a cotton-spinning factory near Osaka, who, far from a "sweat-and-martyr" condition, often reported for Japanese women workers, lived in spotless, airy halls with every comfort. They are fed well for 15 sen (5 cents) a day, by a management, who deducts this amount from their wages. For clothes and recreation, the workers spend 20 cents a day.

Boy Lost Six Days Is Found

SILVER CITY—Six-year-old Albert "Buddy" Reasoner, found Sunday after wandering six days and nights in the almost impenetrable Pinos Altos mountains, gazed in wonderment on innumerable bouquets of flowers banked around his room and gifts of candy and toys strewn over his hospital bed, as he awoke this morning from a sound sleep to ask his mother—"When can I go home?"

"Buddy" said he wasn't hungry after the first day in the mountains. Puzzled by all the excitement which greeted his arrival at the hospital and the attention showered upon him, a bar of chocolate given him by his physician took precedent above all else.

Dr. Watts definitely pronounced the boy out of danger Monday morning and said "he will be all right in a few days with proper attention."

Meantime blasts of dynamite set off in the mountains near "Sack's" sawmill camp from where "Buddy" wandered away last Monday notified searchers that he had been found. Most of the searching parties had been disbanded over the night.

The child, his clothes torn and wild-eyed as if in a daze from his privations, startled like a young deer, when searchers came upon him and scurried into the bushes to hide.

Mrs. Wilbur Morey of Cliff, who first sighted the lad, and Ben Eastley and Theburn Gregory of Silver City, who with her were making a volunteer search for him, hurried the boy to Sack's sawmill camp, from where he wandered away a week ago, and he was brought to the hospital by Sheriff Owen Matthews.

"I'm hungry," Albert told his rescuers in his first words.

Mr. and Mrs. Karner Blythe and young son Phillip of Amarillo made a brief visit with friends in Hagerman and Roswell the first of the week.

Mrs. Warren Perry returned the latter part of last week from Hobbs where she has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Smith. L. G. has been very ill but is better.

Girl Scout News

"Taos," or in the Indian language, "the gateway to heaven," is the name of the new unit that has been created for 12-15 year old Girl Scouts in Camp Mary White, the regional Girl Scout camp in the Sacramento mountains.

An Indian theme is followed in the program of the unit, where they are learning Indian crafts and songs. A tomtom, to serve as a gong, is a project of the group. They are also branding all the unit silverware with the camp brand, a Hopi horse, and are flooring their unit dining room with stone flagging. Next week they will have an overnight trip to Allen Canyon to learn Dutch oven cookery and the Indian style of camping out.

Leaders of the group are Mrs. Fred Norris of Robstown, Texas, and Miss Ruth Jean Smith of Roswell.

Four girls of the Santa Fe Indian school, who are teaching crafts in the camp, had an Indian program Sunday, August 4th, to dedicate the new unit. Famous legends of their tribes were told by Lupe Sando, of the Jemez tribe; Cecilia Bernal, Taos tribe; Reyquita Cruz, San Juan, and Mary Belle Prowell, of the Delaware tribe.

They also sang Indian songs and had tableaux depicting the crafts for which their respective tribes are famous.

On Saturday the entire camp had a rodeo and round-up at the Turkey Springs outpost camp, at which time the units participated in competitive games.

Salt Loss

It was discovered some years ago that miners who work in very hot mines and so lose a lot of fluid by perspiration are liable to muscular cramps. However, if they slake their thirst by drinking dilute salt solution instead of plain water they do not get cramps.

Peoples who live in hot countries regard salt as a very precious part of their diet. The saying "Ye are the salt of the earth" would mean much more in Palestine than in Alaska. Scientists are beginning to think that salt is more important in hot weather than we have known.

It can be shown that we lose a great amount of salt with the sweat that our skins pour out to keep us cool. If we lose twelve pints of sweat, as is quite easily possible, we shall lose at least half an ounce of salt. There is good reason to believe that this loss may be greater than can be made good by the salt we ordinarily take in our diet.

An English army doctor came to the conclusion three years ago that the troops under his care in the hot climate of the Punjab were suffering from salt loss during the hot seasons. He reports that since he increased the salt in their diet his men have suffered much less from heat prostration as well as from muscular cramps.

If we drink three quarts of water on a hot day we can add to that amount a tablespoonful of salt without making the water too brackish. If that method is distasteful it should not be very difficult for a clever cook to work in some extra salt in vegetables and sauces. The salt water method is, however, to be preferred because it makes sure that plenty of water is taken with the salt and that only those who are perspiring freely and therefore are thirsty are getting the extra salt.
