Oil Activity Experienced In Area Lately

Productions for Twelve New Wells Made; Nine Wells Finished; A Lovington Wildcat Shut Down.

Oil activity is noted in the eastern oil area the past week. Twelve new locations were made and nine wells added to the production column. Monument, in county, a comparatively new well, continues to lead development with eight new wells staked. Five wells completed. The field now connected with Monument was next in order. Two locations for new wells were staked.

The largest well of the period, an initial production of 7,460 barrels daily, was finished in the monument area. At a depth of 1,000 feet, the Laughlin No. 1 of Empire Gas and Fuel Co., SE 1/4-30-37, tested at the rate of 100 barrels an hour making a natural flow through open casing, 15,000,000 feet of gas.

Monument producers now being produced include the B-1 of the Gulf Production Co., SE 1/4-31-37, drilled to an initial production of 190 barrels in five hours of 1,250,000 feet of gas. Also McGraw No. 1 of the Ohio Oil Co., SW 1/4-26-19-36, which flowed at the rate of ninety-one barrels an hour with 2,000,000 feet of gas to a depth of 3990 feet. Also the Petroleum Corp., Cooper No. 1, SW 1/4-20-37, which made an initial flow of 387 barrels in three hours with 2,000,000 feet of gas.

Three producers added to the district were comparatively new, these being the Gulf Production Corp., Graham State No. 3, SE 1/4-21-36, drilled to 3885 feet and an output of 120 barrels in five hours with 1,000,000 feet of gas. And the Humble Oil and Refining Co., Knox No. 5, SE 1/4-23-36, which is rated good for 400 barrels an hour with 1,000 feet of gas from 3885 feet.

And the Repollo Oil Co., Graham No. 1, SE sec. 11-21-36, made seventy-two barrels in four hours from 3882 feet. The deepest wildcat in the southern portion of the state, the Scharf-Eldon No. 1, NE sec. 29-37, southwest of Lovington in county, is shut down for orders 100 feet with lost drilling tools on hole.

Locations for new wells by disinterested: Monument: Gulf Production Corp., Culp 3-B, SE sec. 31-36; Gulf, Williams No. 2, SE 1/4-29-37; Atlantic Oil Co., Sheffield No. 1, SE sec. 32-19-37; Empire Gas and Fuel Co., Laughlin No. 2, SE sec. 5-20-37; Texas Energy, State Aggies No. 4, SE 1/4-29-37; Ohio Oil Co., Barber No. 4, SW sec. 5-20-37; Tidewater Co., Anderson No. 2, SE sec. 37; Union district: Sun Oil Co., Akens No. 6, lot 15, sec. 6-36; Sand belt district: Samedan Co., Hughes No. 2, SE sec. 37; Jal district: Continental Co., Sholes A-24 No. 1, SE sec. 5-36.

ALSABD CAVERNS TO GET RADIO SPOTLIGHT
A billowing sea of pure alabaster—only wonderland like kind on earth—a dazzling and thirty miles long and miles wide, with miniature mountains of white crystals 100 high. This and other interesting New Mexico sights will be explored by Carveth Wells in his new radio broadcast, "Exploring America's Conoco and Carveth Wells," Sunday, October 4.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Sperry and Mrs. Gertrude Hope Carrizosa visited Mr. and Mrs. Wood Waitford and family Saturday afternoon and were overnight guests of Mr. and Mrs. James and children.

Potash Worker Is Charged with Criminal Assault At Carlsbad
Charges of criminal assault against Chester Burgess, Potash Company of America employee, made by Elva Pixler, formerly employee of the Crawford Hotel and Shop, in a complaint filed in justice of the peace court at Carlsbad.

Mrs. Pixler, about 22 years old, the mother of a young son, Burgess drove her on a lone road east of Carlsbad, beat her and criminally attacked her last night.

Watkins Bound To District Court After Trial Sat.

Bradford Watkins, employee of the Cross Roads Filling Station, eight miles south of Roswell, was bound over the action of the Eddy county district court at a preliminary hearing in Artesia Saturday afternoon before Justice W. H. Ballard. Watkins is charged with involuntary manslaughter in connection with the death of Victor Buel, Artesia farmer, on the north highway the night of September 14th. Watkins plead not guilty to the charge of involuntary manslaughter in the death of Buel and for failure to stop and render assistance to Buel in violation of section 11828, the statutes of New Mexico.

Testimony of Stanley Jones, J. C. Floore, Fred Hill, Irvin Martin and Dwight Lee was heard at the preliminary trial. The defendant was represented by Caswell Neal of Carlsbad. Lake Frazier of Roswell, assistant district attorney, represented the state.

SIMS DEAD

BOSTON — Admiral William Sims, wartime commander of the American fleet and one of the navy's caustic critics during his active service, died of a heart attack at his doctor's home here Saturday. He was 77 years old.

May Dredge Pecos River Channel

Unofficial information is to the effect the reclamation service may dredge the Pecos river from the Dayton bridge south to Lake McMillan. The purpose of dredging the channel would be to prevent wastage of water in the bogs. Much of the water now running down the river never reaches the lake but spreads out in the tamaracks and creates standing pools and bogs. If the river is dredged, a new channel will probably be run south from the Dayton bridge and west of the present river bed which has practically filled with silt. The gauge at Lake McMillan Tuesday read twenty feet of water, but allowing for the silt that has about drifted into the lake bed, it is estimated the lake now contains about ten feet of water or is about half full.

The river channel would be dredged for about four miles if the present plans are carried through. Such a plan would permit the river waters to flow into Lake McMillan unobstructed.

HEDGES DELIVERS FAREWELL SERMON

In a union service last Sunday evening at the Presbyterian church in which all churches of Hagerman joined in a farewell service for the Rev. James A. Hedges and Mrs. Hedges and mother, Mrs. A. A. MacKintosh, the Rev. Hedges delivered the address.

Preceding the sermon, a choir composed of members of the different churches, sang several hymns, among them "Blest Be the Tie That Binds." The Rev. E. L. Askins of the Nazarene church and the Rev. J. W. Slade of the Methodist church each made talks, speaking their appreciation of the hearty cooperation of the Presbyterian church and of the helpful attitude toward all their efforts that the Rev. Hedges had shown, and their regret at losing him from Hagerman.

The Rev. Hedges used as his text the verse "Always My Savior Leads Me," using his own life as a basis of illustration, he told that since a young lad events of his experiences clearly proved that he had been led by his Savior and that in such a way that he had always loved the results. He ended his address with the quotation "God works in mysterious ways his wonders to perform." He added that their memory of Hagerman would always be one of love and appreciation and that their going was already one of homesickness.

The morning service at the Presbyterian church was an address of farewell to members of his individual congregation. At this service five new members were added to the church, three of these by baptism.

SUPERVISORS CONFER WITH SOIL OFFICIALS

Albert Mitchell of State College, state supervisor for the agricultural conservation program was in the county last week contacting district supervisors, and in several instances giving instruction in the work.

Mrs. Bill Ehret has returned home after a two weeks visit with relatives.

Democrats Open Campaign Tues.

SANTA FE—Democrats of New Mexico opened their campaign for return to office of both state and national administrations at Santa Fe and Belen on Tuesday.

Four candidates, Senators Carl A. Hatch, Dennis Chavez, Congressman John Dempsey, and Governor Clyde Tingley were scheduled to appear on the platform together at Santa Fe, but Governor Tingley was called to Ohio on account of the death of his mother.

The other party, headed by Attorney General Frank Patton, addressed a rally at Belen. The Patton party will be joined in Raton October 8th by Senator Hatch.

Following the meeting in Santa Fe, the top four candidates split up and either in pairs or singly will head a speaking party.

"Our campaign will be short but instructive," Chairman Miles said. "The accomplishments of democratic state and national administrations have been so valuable to New Mexico that it is going to be a pleasure to conduct this campaign. We are going to push forward in a hard, clean fight that will carry our message to every community in the state. We are going to seek office on our own strength, rather than the weakness of our opponents."

BEAR SEASON OPENS TODAY

The bear season opened today and will continue until December 10th, with a limit of one bear per person for the entire season. Bear must not be trapped at any time and dogs must not be used on bear during the deer season.

The deer, turkey and squirrel season is from October 25th to November 15th, with limits of one deer (buck with horns six inches or more), two turkeys, and five squirrels for the season.

2,000 NAMES ADDED TO CHAVES REGISTRATION LIST

Approximately 2,000 names were added to the Chaves county registration list at a hearing before Judge James B. McGhee Saturday at Roswell. Names were presented by both democratic and republican county officials.

Band Instruction Is Now Available Over A National Radio Hookup

Instruction on band instruments will soon be available over radio. This should be a boon for boys and girls who desire to learn to play band instruments, especially those located where teachers are not available.

Instruction books can be secured for only 25c for each instrument through National Broadcasting Company, Chicago, Illinois.

ELEVEN FOUND GUILTY BLACK LEGION SLAYINGS

DETROIT—Eleven of the twelve men charged with plotting the Black Legion "execution" of Chas. A. Poole, on an isolated suburban road last May 12th, were convicted Tuesday in circuit court.

Of the eleven convicted, all but four were convicted of first degree murder. The jury of nine men and three women held two of the others guilty of second degree murder, and Judge Joseph A. Moynihan returned a second degree murder conviction against the two defendants who waived a jury trial.

The jury, which had listened to the prolonged testimony in the case since September 10th, required an hour and twenty-five minutes to reach its decision.

The acquittal of Hershell Gill, the only defendant freed of the charges by the jury, had been suggested by Assistant State Attorney Chester P. O'Hara.

CATTLE OUTLOOK IMPROVES

The cattle outlook is improving with a better demand and a steady price range, according to local buyers. The general price range is around five and a half cents per pound with choice steers bringing 6½ cents per pound.

Miss Peggy Harrison went to Ruidoso Sunday.

Old Timers Day To Be Observed Sunday At Roswell Church

Southeastern New Mexico old timers will observe the annual "Old Timers Day" Sunday, October 4th, at the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, of Roswell, the oldest church in the valley. Residents of this section for thirty years will be eligible to attend. The Rev. Arthur Marston of El Paso, Texas, pastor of the Roswell church thirty-eight years ago, will deliver the sermon for the occasion. Only old timers will be eligible for the dinner served at the church following the sermon.

LOCAL GINNINGS

The rains and cold slowed cotton picking during the past week, but the sunshine since Monday has warmed and dried the fields until picking has practically been resumed in all the vicinity. The local gins report the following:

Grazing Meeting Held At Roswell

Approximately 150 stockmen attended a grazing meeting held at Roswell Friday and Saturday and heard R. F. Carpenter, director of grazing, explain the Taylor act. At a business session Friday officers were elected for the ensuing year, all former officers being reelected, including: B. C. Mossman, Roswell, president; J. Frank Joyce, Carlsbad, vice president, and Martin Boswell of Roswell, secretary-treasurer.

Several speakers gave short talks relating to the Taylor grazing act Friday. Mrs. Antoinette Funk, assistant secretary of the department of the interior, spoke on the administration of the act. Director Carpenter told of the uphill fight to have some sort of regulation passed to protect the grazing rights of southwestern livestockmen. Senator Floyd Lee, president of the New Mexico Wool Growers association, also made a short talk. Henry Grisham, Chaves county rancher and president of the Stockmen's Protective association, presented his complaint to the grazing board and to Mr. Carpenter, stating he had not been fairly treated by the board and further that he did not believe the administration was competent of settling the question. He also claimed the grazing board had not acted sincerely in his grazing license and had underestimated the grazing potentialities of his grazing land. J. E. Stabellin, regional director, was asked to clarify the question of Mr. Gresham.

Carpenter described all phases of the grazing act and declared his field men were rapidly learning the facts of the district. He announced a meeting of all field men in Salt Lake City, Utah, on October 4, 5 and 6. Reports from various districts will be heard at this time.

TRAIN HITS 108 M. P. H.

PASADENA, California — The Santa Fe's "Super Chief" claims the world's speed record, at least over a distance of 10.8 miles. This stretch between Caddo and Prowers, Colorado, is covered regularly at the rate of 108 miles an hour, or in six minutes.

The New York Giants won the first game of the World baseball series yesterday from the New York Yankees behind the effective pitching of Carl Hubbell, ace Giant hurler. The game was played at the Polo grounds before a capacity crowd and during a drizzling rain. In beating Chas. Ruffing of the Yankees, Hubbell was in a tight place once and then the Yankee batter hit into a double play. The score by innings:

N. Y. Yankees.....001 000 000—1
N. Y. Giants.....000 011 04x—6

MOORE IS GUILTY IN HOBBS CASE

A jury in district court after long deliberation Tuesday morning at Lovington found M. E. Moore guilty of manslaughter but recommended clemency in connection with the shooting of J. V. Harper in Hobbs last May.

Sentence was deferred. Moore had pleaded not guilty to charges of murder by reason of insanity.

Testimony had been introduced at the trial to show Harper and Mrs. Moore, the defendant's wife, had lived together the week prior to the shooting on the downtown streets of Hobbs, and that the defendant was made temporarily insane because of this.

BORDER PATROL NOW STATIONED AT CARLSBAD

Richard M. Hardin and John R. Link, border patrolmen, have been stationed in Carlsbad, and according to present plans, will make their headquarters in Carlsbad.

The duties of the border patrol here will be to keep up a continual search for aliens, who are in this county illegally. As fast as they are located and evidence substantiating illegal entry, or other reasons why they are not entitled to residence in this country, they will be sent back to the countries of their nativity.

FEDERALS WAGE NARCOTICS WAR

WASHINGTON—Treasury department threw 2,500 narcotics agents and law enforcement officers into a nation-wide drive Monday against narcotics and illicit liquor.

Agents were ordered to make sudden raids in an effort to round up a large number of law violators.

Mountain Fruit Is Damaged by Cold; Cotton is Also Hurt

The cold weather prevailing over this section the first two days of the week did some damage to cotton in the upper valley, according to reports reaching here, but all crops, even tomatoes, escaped damage here. In the Roswell territory, where two white frosts occurred, cotton in low places lost some of the top leaves and some bolls were damaged, it was learned.

The mountain fruit crop was damaged, but the extent of the damage could not be learned. The damage was more severe to apples and pears in the higher altitudes where the heaviest snow fell.

Goat raisers in the Pinon and Weed sections, who have recently completed the fall shearing operations were fortunate in saving all of their animals, at least no losses have been reported here.

GOVERNOR TINGLEY'S MOTHER DIES MONDAY

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio — Mrs. Belle Tingley, 78, mother of Governor Clyde K. Tingley of New Mexico, died Monday in City Hospital, following a one week illness.

Mrs. Tingley was born in Mount Sterling, Ohio, and had lived here for the past eighteen years. Other survivors include a brother, Grant Conell of Columbus.

Health Meeting Is Held At Carlsbad

Health workers from the three counties of district six, composed of Eddy, Lea and Chaves counties, attended a health meeting held in the office of Dr. O. E. Puckett, district health officer, Saturday. Two nurses from Eddy county, two from Chaves county and one from Lea county were in attendance in addition to the clerk from each county office. Miss Margaret Breninstall of Roswell, supervisor of public health nursing in the seven counties of eastern New Mexico, was present and gave an interesting discussion of her work. Topics discussed included keeping of the county health records, means of preventing spread of communicable diseases and infant and maternity care to reduce the death rate of motherhood.

VOTE WITH ROOSEVELT POSTERS NOW ON SALE

Brilliant red and white license plates are appearing on the cars of New Mexico and carry to the voters of the state their message: "Vote With Roosevelt."

Sale of these supplementary license plates is sponsored and directed by the Young Democratic clubs of New Mexico, with county and precinct workers in every county of the state engaged in placing them in the hands and on the cars of as many as possible of the democrats who drive automobiles and trucks.

Benjamin D. Luchini, president of the Young Democratic clubs of New Mexico, states that 40,000 plates have been distributed over the state, and that they are selling rapidly at $1.00 per pair.

NEW ROBOT RECORDS DATA ON COSMIC RAYS

SWARTHMORE, Pennsylvania—Cosmic rays have been measured at an altitude of approximately 14 miles by equipment carried aloft by a cluster of three small balloons released by scientists of the Franklin Institute's Bartol Research Foundation.

Automatic radio broadcasting equipment carried by the balloons transmitted cosmic rays and barometric signals throughout the course of the flight.

POTASH FOREMAN DEAD

Robert A. Leivo, age 41, foreman of the Potash Company of America mine in southeastern Eddy county, died in a Carlsbad hospital Sunday morning following a heart attack. Leivo was stricken with indigestion early Sunday morning at his home near the mine of the potash company and was rushed to Carlsbad for medical aid. He was thought to have been improving, but died instantly when he suffered a heart attack. Funeral services were held at Carlsbad Wednesday. Burial was made in a Carlsbad cemetery.

THANKS FOR SUBSCRIPTIONS

Sam McKinstry, Dr. I. B. McCormick, Elton Lankford, Ruth Utterback.

Mr. and Mrs. V. P. Fletcher of Carlsbad and Miss Vera Goodwin of Elkins were Hagerman visitors last Sunday.

3.75 Inches of Rain Falls In 10-Day Period

Biggest Rain of Season Falls Here, While Snow Falls in the Mountains; Low Temperature of 33 Degrees Reached Here.

About a third of the supposedly annual normal rainfall fell here over a ten-day period from September 19th to 28th, inclusive. The total moisture measured 3.75 inches. The heaviest rainfall occurred here on last Thursday. From last Thursday through Sunday the precipitation measured 2.61 inches. Clear weather Saturday morning brought a sharp drop in temperature as wintry clouds scurried southward. Winter weight clothing felt very comfortable Saturday night. Sunday a cold rain fell here until noon. The low temperature reached here Sunday night was thirty-three degrees above zero. Because of the recent heavy rains the near freezing weather did little or no damage to growing vegetation.

The moisture measurements were divided as follows during the ten-day rain period:

September 18 and 19.....	1.14
September 24.....	1.46
September 25.....	1.46
September 26.....	.84
September 27.....	.21
Total.....	3.75

While a cold rain fell here Sunday morning, snow fell in the hill and mountain district. Snow fell at Weed, Pinon, Cloudercroft and the intermediate mountain section, starting Saturday night. Sunday afternoon the snowfall measured six inches at Pinon and nine inches at Cloudercroft, according to reports. Seven inches of snow was reported at Vaughn and about six inches at Clovis. Estimates say over a foot of snow fell in the mountains, but melted rapidly as it fell. The storm extended as far east as the Y. O. Crossing. Mountain roads were practically impassable in places Monday.

Following the rains of last week the temperature dropped on Sunday night, until frost was reported over the vicinity. Farmers in this section state that even it was spotted in their fields. Several also report some damage to row crops and garden truck. The cotton did not show serious damage. Light frost was also reported on Monday and Tuesday.

HARDIN-SIMMONS NEWS

The famous Cowgirl organization at Hardin-Simmons University at Abilene, Texas, issued a membership card to Elizabeth McKinstry of Hagerman last week as one of twenty-one new members, according to an announcement from the office of Dr. J. D. Sandefur, president.

Miss McKinstry was notified of her election to membership following a university tea for all eligible girls. "Tryouts" during the course of the afternoon constituted a basis of the 1936-1937 additions.

Dr. Rupert N. Richardson, vice president of Hardin-Simmons, welcomed the new members on behalf of the faculty.

The Cowgirls, bedecked in purple divided skirts and gold shirts, tennagoun hats and boots, rival the famous Cowboy band.

A tea within the next few days will officially welcome Miss McKinstry and the twenty other newcomers to Hardin-Simmons' most colorful feminine organization.

Gunlock Ranch

By FRANK H. SPEARMAN
COPYRIGHT FRANK H. SPEARMAN W.N.U. SERVICE

SYNOPSIS

Sleepy Cat, desert town of the Southwest, is celebrating the Fourth of July. Jane Van Tassel, beautiful daughter of Gus Van Tassel, hated owner of Gunlock ranch, has arrived from the East for the first time. She watches the Frontier Day celebration in company with Dr. Carpy, crusty, tender-hearted friend of the community. Henry Sawdy of the Circle Dot ranch, tricked in a fake horse race the day before by Dave McCrossen, foreman at Gunlock, plans revenge. He enters Bill Pardaloe, a handsome young Texas wrangler, in the rodeo which McCrossen is favored to win.

Tension, when introduced, looked over Sawdy's hope in his usual cold-blooded fashion. Jake Spotts, the profane barber-shop-and-bar magnate, appeared meantime. Tension asked for six hundred dollars. Jake counted his roll. He showed four hundred odd. "Give me the four, Jake," said Tension calmly. "I can get all you want up at the bar, Harry," suggested Spotts, thin, tall, bald-headed, hollow-jawed, and hollow-eyed.

"There's no time to make the trip, Jake," interposed Sawdy, nervous. "The races are pretty near over, and the trick ridin' comes next."

"No matter," interposed Tension. "I'll borrow a couple hundred from Harry Boland."

"Why, Boland's backin' the Gunlock outfit?"

"All the better, I'd just like to double-cross the . . ."

Within the next five minutes he was talking to Boland. "What's next on the program?" asked the Medicine Bend gambler after the preliminaries.

"Trick ridin'," said Boland. "Chance to pick up any money on it?"

"Sure, if you can place any money. Bet on McCrossen, ridin' for Gunlock."

"The rustler?"

"Hell, he's foreman at Gunlock now."

"I suppose Van Tassel wouldn't feel easy if he had an honest man stealin' for him. All right, if you say it's McCrossen, lend me a couple of hundred, Harry. I'd like to make my fare up here, anyway."

Boland counted out two hundred dollars and handed it over. Tension handed half of it back to Boland. "Put this on McCrossen for me—I'll see if I can place the rest on him myself. Who's ridin' against him?"

"Two or three buckaroos. The Circle Dot outfit have entered a young fellow—we'll clean 'em, same as we did yesterday," predicted Boland.

"I heard about that—suckers will always fall for it, Harry. Well, I'll go over and talk to Sawdy and Lefever—see if they got any money left—maybe I can get a small bet."

Boland was fat and short. He never breathed easily; but he would not have been able to breathe at all if he had heard the next talk between Tension and Sawdy.

"How does it look to you, Harry?" blurted out Sawdy.

"Like many things have looked before takin'; they don't always look so good after. Here's Jake's four hundred. I'm addin' six hundred—that makes your thousand. I don't know about that cigarette trick. I never saw it done but once."

"Where was that?"

"In Madison Square Garden."

knew how to ride; and an ex-sheriff, Bill Pardaloe—now a deputy.

The first test came in Indian-style riding. This meant bareback first with bridle striped; then with bridle. The Reservation entry was at home in this.

Pardaloe gave him a hundred points and waited for the next man. The local boy passed out on this test. McCrossen made a splendid showing, but his size was against him for that style of horsemanship.

The wrangler, almost as large a man, seemed able better to twist and wind himself around his gelding. The last time he raced down the course it looked as if the horse had lost his rider, so completely did the wrangler hide himself on the opposite side.

The judges, at least, decided that no buck they had ever seen ride could hide himself more effectively from a foe—they gave the Texan par with the buck. McCrossen fell a few points under the two.

Wild West riding followed. In this McCrossen made a perfect score. His long, lithe body in action, his perfect ease and his striking garb brought enthusiastic applause. The wrangler, now well thought of, was a disappointment in this test. He got through all the work, but seemingly unevenly and with an effort. He dropped to eighty points, with McCrossen at par. Even the local boy and the Indian passed him.

"Looks like yesterday over again," said Harry Boland, disposed to jeer at Sawdy. "Guess your boy shot his bolt on the first round."

The laugh seemed to bore into Sawdy. "We don't quit yet," he blurted out like one baffled but not beaten.

"What do you think, Harry?" Boland said Harry Boland, disposed to jeer at Sawdy. "Guess your boy shot his bolt on the first round."

"Looks like the wrangler is through," assented Tension. Backing then to one side and speaking loud to Boland, he added: "Put that money of mine on McCrossen—he's got the act in the bag."

"Well, better luck next time, Henry," said Boland, resuming his prod of Sawdy.

"I don't ask any better luck," retorted Sawdy. "My boy is the best rider in this bunch, an' I know it."

"Henry," asked Boland, "have you got any money that says that?"

Sawdy fairly hated the sound of the fellow's sneering voice. "The boy's just havin' an off spell—might be all right next event."

"But you wouldn't bet on it?"

Sawdy looked at his tormentor gravely. "You want a bet, eh?"

"Sounds like it, don't it?"

"What odds'll you give?"

Boland turned to Tension to laugh. "Here's a man with the best fancy rider on earth and askin' odds on him."

"Askin' odds on him today only," explained Sawdy defensively. "He's just off color today."

Boland sneered again. "An' there ain't going to be no trick ridin' tomorrow. That's a fine proposition of yours, Henry."

"I'll have my boy in the saddle tomorrow for any kind of ridin' you name against any rider you name," retorted Sawdy.

"What odds you askin', Sawdy?" asked Boland, dangerously near to a sneer as he questioned.

"On the showin' the boys made," responded Sawdy impressively, "and only on the chance he can pull himself together by tomorrow, I'm askin' two to one."

"How much do you cover at that?"

"All you can raise."

part way to the stand. "You said a thousand at two to one," panted Sawdy. He drew hastily from his pocket a roll of bills and laid the money in Tension's hands. "Count that—they're mostly fifties. Now, Boland, put up or shut up."

"Just a minute!" Boland conferred with his cronies—a group of them were already about him. There was a turning sidewise, a digging into pockets, an assembling of wads; the thousand was hurriedly put into Tension's hands.

Boland was excited, Sawdy particularly calm. "Boland," he said casually, "I'm hungry."

"What do you mean, Sawdy?"

"I'm hungry for another thousand, same odds."

"Like hell, I guess."

Sawdy pulled from another pocket a second roll of bills.

"Put up, Boland, or shut up, just's you like."

"Sawdy, I'll bet you five hundred more, even money." It was purely a bluff, but it brought an unpleasant surprise.

"I want to be fair, Harry Boland," retorted Sawdy, "just's you was, yesterday. Put up your five hundred, buddy. I'll cover it."

The words were a blow to Boland. Sawdy's not even pausing to insist on odds as the money went up told him that somebody, somewhere, had loaded something. Sawdy hustled back to the stand and winked anew at Pardaloe. The bell clanged. The contestants rode up. The wrangler now, as Jane Van Tassel saucily whispered to Dr. Carpy sitting next to her, was a symphony in brown, from head to foot—a skeleton brown jockey cap, close-fitting brown jersey, brown jersey riding trousers, and low, soft, brown boots made up his rig.

McCrossen clung to his scarlet sash and silk shirt—nor had the Indian or the local boy changed.

As the riding went swiftly forward and the feats grew more difficult, the boy and the Indian were eliminated.

McCrossen took these stunts readily, the wrangler riding fourth, and easily, in all the tests after him. These two riders seemed indifferent in all the earlier feats. They rode standing, feet first or head first; twirling rifles, turning lightning-like in the saddle to face forward or backward at full speed.

With the struggle narrowed to the two seemingly even-matched riders, spectators began to wonder how the contest could be decided. The judges, after conference, asked for a further trial of the familiar feat of picking objects from the ground.

Already these feats had been made a feature and creditably performed. But some word had reached the judges that there might be further possibilities in this field. The two contestants were asked to propose their own stunts, tossing for first choice. McCrossen won. A lady's white handkerchief was dropped, and riding at speed, turned backward in the saddle, McCrossen picked it from the ground. The wrangler followed suit.

It was now the Texan's turn. Sawdy ran out on the track to his side. "Give him the saddle-and-bridle trick," he whispered.

The wrangler, still breathing fast, demurred. "He's seen it done. Probably he can do it himself, Sawdy."

"No matter. It'll make a hit, tire him out."

"I'm getting tired of this show myself. It's been pretty long," objected the rider. "Leave it to me, will you? I'll give him one he's never seen." There was a further whispered conference.

"Go to it!" exclaimed Sawdy, after a moment, seemingly confident of his representative. Then he turned to the little grandstand.

"Ladies 'n' gentlemen an' honorable judges," he began. "Circle Dot has tried to contribute in a humble way to your entertainment this afternoon. You're all anxious to see this contest, grand as it has been, brought to a decision. Our entry for the prize will now present a feat never before seen in Sleepy Cat."

Reining to the middle of the track, the wrangler drew from a buttoned breast pocket of his jersey a packet of cigarette papers and a small sack of tobacco. Seated on his pawing horse, he rolled his cigarette, put away the makings, hung the cigarette on his lip, and lifted his hat as he looked up at the spectators and felt in another pocket for a match. While doing so he awkwardly dropped the cigarette; it fell from his lip to the dusty track. He bent over in the saddle to look regretfully down at the cigarette where it lay.

Sawdy stepped to the side of the grandstand and, after his usual salutation, began, hat in hand: "Our Circle Dot wrangler seems to be a little awkward today—nervous, maybe. You see, ladies, he hasn't had such a bevy of elegant women to look at for many, many weeks. We've been on a long, hard drive an' haven't seen so much as a picture of a smart girl for nigh three months—no wonder he's nervous."

"Hear! Hear!" cried Carpy and his group. Sawdy, surprised, looked up. "Where?" he demanded. And getting only a laugh, continued:

"Whatever the reason, ladies an' gents, the boy has dropped his cigarette. He's makin' motions to me to pick it up. But it's too much to ask of a fat man. Let him pick up the cigarette himself. Go, boy, go!"

As the wrangler cantered leisurely down the track, Sawdy, as speaker, continued to Sawdy:

"He will now try ridin' at top speed, to pick up his cigarette. If he succeeds, I am sure you will all be willin' to see him enjoy smokin' it, after a hard hour's work. If he falls under these speed conditions, he will retire as gracefully as possible from the track an' turn a similar job over to his esteemed rival. Our wrangler will use the quirt on his pony for the first time today. All we'll ask is, just please give the boy quiet when he rides up."

The wrangler had wheeled his horse fifty yards down the track and sat waiting for Sawdy's signal.

The cowman raised a warning hand. "Are you ready?" The wrangler nodded. "Go!" shouted Sawdy.

Quitting his pony smartly and bending in the saddle as the wiry little gelding sprang in long leaps and bounds, the wrangler, nearing the stand, swung over to the right so low in the saddle that he grazed his hand in the dust.

CHAPTER II

ONLY the soft clatter of the pony's hoofs as he now flew down toward the grandstand struck the ear. A slender streak of dust rose from where the fingers trailed along the track. As he neared the vicinity of the cigarette, the wrangler lifted his fingers just above the dust and bent his straining eyes ahead. He passed the grandstand like a flash.

As he did so, his right hand was flung out, just once, and his fingers struck at the dust. He dashed ahead, straightened himself gradually in the saddle, and, holding his right hand high, checked the pony and rode slowly back.

The judges clambered down from their stand and ran out on the track. They looked in vain circles for a trace of the cigarette; stirred up the dust where it might be hidden. But the wrangler, riding back toward them, held the damaged cigarette.

Boland was wild. He rushed out to join the judges. "It's a plain trick," he shouted. "He pretended to pick up one cigarette an' had another in his hand."

"Where's the cigarette he dropped here in the first place?" asked Pardaloe, pointing to the track. "It was right here. I seen it." He appealed to the other judges. "You seen it." The two nodded assent. "What you talkin' about, Bo?" Boland was indignantly searching the track. "Find it! But be careful you don't try to drop another cigarette like it!"

"The horse might have picked it up on his hoof," bellowed Boland. "Yes," commented Selwood. "Yes. Examine the pony's mouth, too, Boland. He may not have swallowed it yet. I say, gentlemen," he added, "the Circle Dot boy has done a clean job. Now, let's see McCrossen perform."

But McCrossen, stubbornly rejecting all his backers' entreaties, refused to perform. "Wouldn't I be a sucker to try to beat a man at his own game?" he demanded.

"That trick's no part of frontier ridin'. It's never been done before at Sleepy Cat celebration."

"It's progress, gentlemen; progress, I call it. If it ain't been done in Sleepy Cat, it's been done plenty at other celebrations. So you," thundered Sawdy, "want a brilliant crowd of fair women and brave men to set here year after year an' be bored stiff with the same old tricks? Gents!" he appealed to the judges, "I call for judgment."

The judges huddled. At a little distance Sawdy and Lefever huddled with the wrangler on the gelding. Presently Lefever stepped over to the judges. "Gents," he announced, "before you decide, we make another proposal. Our man will now undertake to duplicate any trick on a horse that the Gunlock champion wants to try. We want to be perfectly fair."

"You mean," retorted Selwood, "you're mean enough to beat the boots off him an' carry away the boots. Well, Boland," he called out, turning to the saloonkeeper, "you heard that. Do you want to take that challenge?"

"McCrossen has done all the tricks and done 'em well."

"If you decline," declared Selwood, "judgment for the fancy ridin' goes to Circle Dot. It is so ordered. Stop your yawn, Harry Boland."

Boland continued to protest, but the verdict, announced to the spectators, met with wild approval. They declined to let the wrangler go.

He was assailed with cries. "Do it again! . . . Once more! . . . Again!"

Sawdy, after a conference with the favorite, made a stentorian announcement: "If you'll all get off the track and shut up," he began, "our lad will give you one more exhibition."

Early Use of Stocks

In Shakespeare's day every town and village was compelled to maintain stock to deal with the rogues and vagabonds who infested the country. A vagabond "caught in the act" was put in the stocks for three days and three nights on a diet of bread and water; if he repeated the offense in the same parish the time was doubled. It was up to the tramp to keep moving. When this punishment proved insufficient the stocks fell into disuse, and flogging and branding were substituted. In a number of museums in this country says London Answers Magazine, there are iron masks with two square holes cut in each, so that the felon could be branded prominently on either cheek.

Italian Army Tank Carries a Bridge

This is a new Italian tank which carries a bridge for transporting soldiers over small rivers. It was demonstrated for the first time at the huge Italian war maneuvers held near Avellino recently.

Musk Ox on Its Way to Chicago

Dr. W. Provence of Franklin, Ind., feeds Amelia, one of the two-month-old musk ox calves who arrived at New York on the schooner Effie M. Morrissey. Captain Bob Bartlett, veteran explorer of the far north, brought back these denizens of the frozen regions for the Chicago Zoological society.

Leahy May Be Operation Chief

Admiral William Daniel Leahy, now commanding the battle force of the United States fleet, is expected to be named as the new chief of naval operations, succeeding Admiral William H. Standley, scheduled to retire in December. Leahy, who has a distinguished naval service record, will have almost two and a half years of service remaining, if appointed, before compulsory retirement at the age of sixty-four.

SETS WORLD RECORD

A typical leatherneck in appearance is Marine Gunner Henry P. Crowe of Lincoln, Ill., who is pictured here after he had set a new world's marksmanship record at Camp Perry, Ohio, outshooting 1,570 riflemen.

Makes Golden Gate Bridge Job Safe

Pictured here is a section of the great net which has been swung beneath the Golden Gate bridge at San Francisco to insure its being the safest job in the world. The net, first of its kind to be used in construction history, has been swung thirty feet below the bridge and is designed to prevent workmen plummeting to their death from the dizzy heights of the bridge in the event of a fall.

Temple in Iraq Four Thousand Years Old

This unusually well preserved temple of sun-dried bricks, of the age of Abraham, 2100-1900 B. C., was discovered by the Iraq expedition of the Oriental Institute, University of Chicago, at Ischali, site of an ancient Babylonian city northeast of Bagdad. The recessed niches on either side of the doorway leading into the sanctuary are ornamented. The brick seat in the sanctuary, rear, was for the cult statue.

Roosevelt vs. Hearst

"Red Backing"
ASSERTIONS made by William Randolph Hearst and other opponents of the New Deal that the President "passively accepts" the support of the Communists have got under Mr. Roosevelt's skin. A statement issued through Stephen T. Early, his secretary, said:

W. R. Hearst

"My attention has been called to a certain notorious newspaper owner to make it appear that the President passively accepts the support of alien organizations hostile to the American form of government.

"Such articles are conceived in malice and born of political spite. They are deliberately framed to give a false impression, in other words to 'frame' the American people.

"The President does not want and does not welcome the vote or support of any individual or group taking orders from alien sources.

"This simple fact is, of course, obvious.

"The American people will not permit their attention to be diverted from real issues to fake issues which no patriotic, honorable, decent citizen would purposely inject into American affairs."

Mr. Hearst, who was in Amsterdam, promptly replied by cable, saying in part:

"The President has issued a statement through a secretary. He has not had the frankness to say to whom he refers in the statement . . . I think I am justified in assuming that I am the object of the statement, and that I may courageously endeavor to correct Mr. Roosevelt's misstatements and to set him right . . .

"Let me say that I have not stated at any time whether the President willingly or unwillingly received the support of the Karl Marx Socialists, the Frankfurter radicals, communists and anarchists, the Tugwell bolsheviks, and the Ribicrg revolutionists which constitute the bulk of his following.

"I have simply said and shown that he does receive the support of these enemies of the American system of government, and that he has done his best to deserve the support of all such disturbing and destructive elements."

Communism Is Outlawed

By Greek Government
GREECE has joined the list of nations that will not tolerate the Communists and their activities. A ministerial decree establishing new state defense laws was sanctioned by King George. It outlaws Communism, punishing by heavy prison sentences and fines any one publishing anti-state propaganda. All book shops were ordered to surrender anti-state literature within 30 days.

Al Smith Will Make Some Anti-Roosevelt Speeches

SPECULATION concerning what part Al Smith would take in the Presidential campaign seems to be settled by the news that he will deliver several anti-Roosevelt addresses, the first probably in Carnegie hall in New York in October. He is reported to be making out his own program and planning talks also in Massachusetts and New Jersey. It is said neither the Republican party nor the American Liberty League will be sponsor for his appearances. Until Mr. Smith announces his intentions it will not be known whether or not he will advocate the election of Governor Landon.

Crop Insurance Pushed by the President

IMMEDIATE action toward putting in operation a two-fold crop insurance and drought prevention program was called for by President Roosevelt. It is designed to guard the farmers and the consumers against the danger of food shortages or price collapses. Two committees were named to work out legislation to be asked of the next congress.

Mr. Roosevelt named Secretary of Agriculture

Henry Wallace chairman of a committee directed to "prepare a report and recommendations for legislation providing a plan of 'all risk' crop insurance," and suggested that the system provide for payment of premiums and insurance in commodities. This is in accord with Wallace's proposed plan under which groups of good years into a pool from which they could draw in lean years. It would serve, he believes, to keep surpluses from destroying the price structure in good years and provide an "insurance" against crop failures in other years.

Morris L. Cooke, rural electrification administrator, was named chairman of another committee to draft recommendations for a permanent land use program designed to avert drought emergencies in the great plains area.

The President suggested the crop insurance plan might be limited to one or two major crops at the start and that it should be formulated with the advice and assistance of national farm organization leaders so that it can be submitted to congress with their support.

Veterans of Two Wars Open Conventions

VETERANS of the World war and of the Civil war opened their annual gatherings, the American Legion in Cleveland and the Grand Army of the Republic in Washington. The Legionnaires, many thousands of them, started off with the dedication of the Peace Gardens in the Ohio city, for which soil had been brought from sacred shrines of foreign countries and the forty-eight states. National Commander Ray Murphy presided over an impressive ceremony and unveiled a memorial plaque bearing the inscription:

"These gardens, planned by men who know the horrors of war, were dedicated to the brotherhood of man and peace throughout the world."

Commander Murphy in his annual report said: "Whether our country shall be spared participation in another great international conflagration will depend upon our courage as Legionnaires to stand up and demand that our government now take the steps which may save us, without the loss of honor—a sacrifice we are unwilling to make at any cost."

Only about nine hundred survivors of the Union army were able to attend the G. A. R. encampment, and many believe it will be the last to be held. The aged warriors, headed by Oley Nelson of Iowa, the national commander, began their proceedings with a service in Washington cathedral. The route of their parade was six blocks on Pennsylvania avenue, the scene of the grand review of the Union armies before President Andrew Johnson seventy-one years ago.

Virgin Islands Have New Federal Judge

GEORGE P. JONES of Minnesota, who has been serving as a special assistant to the attorney general of the United States since 1934, has been made judge of the federal district court for the Virgin Islands. This is a recess appointment by President Roosevelt and is subject to confirmation by the senate. Mr. Jones planned to leave for St. Thomas about October 1. He succeeds Judge Albert C. Levitt of Connecticut, who resigned August 1 because, as he alleged, the Department of the Interior interfered with the processes of his court.

G. P. Jones

The oath of office was administered to Mr. Jones in Washington by Ugo Carusi, executive assistant to Attorney General Cummings, in the presence of Mr. Cummings and a number of other officials.

McAlexander, "Rock of the Marne," Dies

MAJ. GEN. ULYSSES S. GRANT McALEXANDER, U. S. A., retired, who won fame in the World war as "The Rock of the Marne," died suddenly in his home in Portland, Ore., at the age of seventy-two.

The general won his appellation for his stand in stemming a terrific assault by the Germans in their final great offense on the western front in July, 1918.

He was then colonel in command of the Thirty-eighth infantry, and at the most critical period of the German attack he was told fall back if he thought best. He replied positively: "I will hold my lines," and he did. It was the Germans who fell back.

Havana Paper Dynamited; Four Persons Killed

FOUR persons were killed and two buildings wrecked by a dynamite blast that shook Havana, Cuba. The plant of the newspaper El Pais was destroyed, and only the quick work of the police saved that of the Diario de la Marina.

Informed authorities expressed belief the explosion was planned by Spanish residents who became angry over publication of Spanish civil war news in the two newspapers.

The blast demolished a Catholic church near the El Pais building. Scores of suspects were arrested, many of them being members of the Spanish Socialist circle.

Spanish Rebels Push on Toward Madrid

SEVERAL columns of Spanish Fascists and Moorish legionnaires were reported to be making a determined drive toward Madrid under the direction of General Franco, and the loyalists were falling back at the rate of five miles a day.

The rebel garrison of the Alcazar in Toledo was still holding out though the government forces, after dynamiting part of the old fortress, made attacks with flaming gasoline. The defenders lost heavily but the survivors kept up their deadly machine gun fire and repulsed the charges of the loyalists.

The American State department ordered the embassy in Madrid closed and warned all Americans still in the capital that they remained at their own risk. The consulate at Malaga also was closed and the consul took refuge in Gibraltar. Diplomats of 13 nations, who had gone to Saint Jean de Luz, France, rejected the Spanish government's demand that they return to Madrid.

Killings Pave the Way for Japan's Move Against China

PROBABLY Japan is about ready to proceed further with the subjugation of China, the latest evidence being the alleged murder of several Japanese nationals by Chinese. It was announced by the navy department in Tokio that Japanese marines had been ordered to land at Hankow to protect the life and property of Japanese there, and that "the navy fears that it may be forced to resort to some defensive measures in the near future." The announcement added that the sincerity of the Nanking government in wanting to end anti-Japanese feeling in China was not dependable and hence protective measures were taken.

Defeat of Senator Couzens Pleases the Republicans

REPUBLICANS were highly gratified by the results of the Michigan primary election for two reasons: First, because three out of five persons who went to the polls asked for Republican ballots; second, because a Senator James Couzens, a Republican who has openly declared that he is supporting President Roosevelt for re-election, lost his fight for re-nomination. Couzens, one of the wealthiest members of the senate, was badly defeated by former Gov. Wilbur M. Brucker, and there is more than a suspicion that he knew his fate beforehand. Brucker, who is only forty-two years old, has been in public life for almost twenty years. The Republicans re-nominated Frank D. Fitzgerald for the governorship.

Sen. Couzens

On the Democratic side Representative Prentiss M. Brown won the senatorial nomination against Louis B. Ward who was supported by Father Coughlin. For governor they chose Frank Murphy, high commissioner to the Philippines and former mayor of Detroit. Both Murphy and his defeated opponent, George Welsh, campaigned as Roosevelt supporters.

In the New Hampshire primaries Gov. H. Styles Bridges won the Republican senatorial nomination, ending the effort of former Senator George H. Moses to stage a comeback. The Democrats put up Representative William N. Rogers. Nominees for governor are Maj. Francis P. Murphy, Republican, and Amos N. Blandin, Democrat.

Massachusetts will have for senator either Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., Republican, or James M. Curley, now governor, Democrat. John W. Haigis, Republican, and Charles F. Hurley, Democrat, were nominated for the governorship.

The gubernatorial nominees in Wisconsin are: Gov. Philip La Follette, Progressive; Alexander W. Lueck, Republican, and Arthur W. Lueck, Democrat.

Savants Gather for the Harvard Tercentenary

IT IS pleasant to turn from war and politics and read of the doings at Cambridge, Mass., where Harvard university is celebrating the tercentenary of its founding. In Sanders theater was held the academic reception for 554 scholars representing 502 universities, colleges and learned societies in every state of the Union and in forty foreign countries, and all of them wearing the caps, gowns and hoods signifying their various degrees of scholarship.

Dr. James B. Conant

President James B. Conant greeted the guests, accepted their credentials and delivered a simple address of welcome. He noted that the assembly was an impressive demonstration of the solidarity of the academic world, and saw in the greetings of the delegates "the continued aspiration of mankind toward a universal fellowship based on human reason."

When the delegates were called up in the order of the age of the institutions they represented, first to respond was Prof. Saleh Hashem Attia of Al-Azhar university of Cairo, founded in 970.

Airplanes at $750 Each Perils of Pacifism The "Man of Calcium" Improving Human Breed?

Fourteen concerns have offered to build small airplanes to cost as little as $750. That is important aviation news; the bureau of air commerce is to be congratulated on its effort to encourage individual flying.

Arthur Brisbane

The day is coming when there will be more machines in the air than there are automobiles on the ground now. More than 25,000,000 airplanes may sound like exaggeration. But it sounded like exaggeration some years ago when this writer published editorials urging citizens not to spread tacks and cut glass on roads, to puncture automobile tires, because, before long, automobiles would be used by workers going to and from work. That prediction came true.

Some one preparing a list of ten things that Christians would and would not do says:

"There would be no private wealth; Jesus denounced great possessions as alien to His gospel, and fatal to His kingdom.

"There would be no poverty and no war, because real Christians would refuse to fight."

In this civilization, if Christians refused to fight, they would rapidly diminish in numbers and the Pacific coast would be settled by Asiatics.

The founder of Christianity taught that what was due to Caesar should be rendered unto him.

If he were on earth now he might say the same of organized capital, knowing that it supplies, in our complicated system, the possibility of steady work.

Nobody, not even a clergyman, can be positive as to what Christ's commands would be if he returned in this age of flying machines, automobiles, public schools and the strange problem of too much of almost everything, combined with want among many thousands of families lacking food and the government wondering occasionally what to do with millions of bushels of wheat.

Before long you may have football coaches feeding calcium to their players. You know what we call "a man of iron" is really the "man of calcium."

The metal calcium in the blood, in quantities that do not change, or that change little, produces a steadiness of nerve lacking in men with a fluctuating calcium supply.

It is said that experiments made on four young men at an eastern university showed that a drop in calcium brought on "moodiness, depression and pessimism."

If there is high calcium content in the blood serum they are in a "happy, cheerful, optimistic, emotional state."

But ask your doctor about it. Don't swallow calcium recklessly.

London thinks something should be done about "more than 250,000 mental defectives" and sterilization, on the German plan, is suggested, on condition that the individual consents. With such a law, government sterilization agents would have few customers.

Under one law suggested, the health minister would order the sterilization of "physically ailing persons shown to be carriers of transmissible disabilities."

The world is preparing to regulate and improve the human breed, as it has long regulated and improved breeds of cattle, swine and other creatures; a step in the direction of uniformity that may not be desirable.

One of the most enlightened educators in America tells teachers and undergraduates that the important thing is the general welfare, not the individual welfare. An excellent idea to put into the minds of young people.

They should also be told that individual welfare and striving, with selfishness back of it, is the foundation of general welfare.

The baby wiggling its arms and kicking its legs in the cradle is building up one more strong baby, for its own sake, not for the general welfare, to which it, nevertheless, contributes. The man, concentrating on his career, and on the care and education of his children, has chiefly in mind his career, children and family. But he also is building up the general welfare. Each tiny coral builder worked only for its own speck of coral, but beautiful islands are the result.

After four years of study, wise men discover that ideas are impressed on the minds of children more deeply by moving pictures than by reading books. Less than four minutes is required to establish that fact.

Let Us Take a Page From the Note Book of the Hotel Chef

Favorite Meat Dishes Which May Be Served in Home Meals.

Certain hotels and restaurants through years of service have gained for their foods a reputation which has traveled far and wide. These dishes, many of them, can become favorites at home, if we but take a page from the chef's note book.

Steaks and mixed grills—in fact, broiled dishes of any kind—are hotel favorites, say the chefs.

Choosing Tender Steaks.

The chef usually knows how to choose a tender steak. His best indication of tenderness is the amount of fat which it carries. It should have a generous covering of fat over the outside and a marbling of fat throughout the lean. The steak should be cut thick, at least one inch, and if it has been aged, so much the better. Frequently, the hotel chef buys a whole loin of beef and allows it to hang in his refrigerated room for several days before he cuts it into steaks, and in some markets this same practice of aging is followed before the steaks are cut.

The best way to broil a steak is to thoroughly preheat the broiling oven with the regulator set to "high," and then place the steak on a rack far enough from the flame or heating element that by the time it is nicely browned on one side it will be half done. When browned on one side, it is seasoned with salt and pepper, turned, and allowed to brown and finish cooking on the second side. The steak should be served without a moment's delay after it is cooked. This, as much as any other factor, makes the steak served in a hotel so thoroughly enjoyed, because it is still sizzling hot and puffy with its own juices when the diner makes the first cut.

For a Delicious Mixed Grill.

The mixed grill means simply a whole meal cooked in the broiler. Usually this includes a lamb chop, perhaps little link sausages, sweetbreads, which have been parboiled in acidulated water and put under the broiler to become browned, and frequently ground meat patties wrapped with bacon. These are broiled in exactly the same way as the steak, except for the length of time needed in broiling. This depends on temperature and the thickness of the meat. Broiling, however, should be done at a moderately low temperature for the best results.

Pork chops, too, can be just as delicious as those baked and served at hotels if you but insist that they are cut thick and cooked slowly. Here is the way one hotel chef prepares them:

Baked Stuffed Pork Chops.

Pork chops, cut thick
1/2 cup minced ham
1/2 cup minced mushrooms
1 cup bread crumbs
1/2 cup rice, uncooked
2 tablespoons minced onion
2 tablespoons minced green pepper
1/2 cup tomatoes

Brown the ham, mushrooms, onions and green pepper, then add the uncooked rice and tomatoes, together with two cups meat stock. Let cook until the rice is tender. Add the bread crumbs and season to taste. Fill pocket in chops with this. Brown the chops on both sides, cover tightly and bake slowly for twenty-five or thirty minutes.

SUCCEED WHERE YOU ARE, WORD OF HELEN KELLER

There is nothing like the pride of doing something worth while to make us forget the limitations, is there? We can do anything we really want to if we stick at it long enough. No matter how handicapped we are, we can always do something, if it is only a bright smile, or a kind word, or a helpful act.

Many of us make the mistake of thinking that if we were as fortunate as our neighbors, we could live better, purer, and more useful lives. I have learned from experience that if we cannot succeed in our present position, we cannot in any other. If we cannot help the world where we are, we cannot help it anywhere else. It is not the kind of environment we have, but the kind of thought we think every day and the ideals we are following—in a word, the kind of men and women we are.

We have already that within us which will respond to the right influence when that comes. Let us stand upright in our own lot, and try to discover beauty, service and happiness in our own lives.—Helen Keller, L.L.D.

Better Wisdom

IT is not until the soul has learned a better wisdom, learned that the human race is one, and that none can really rise by treading on his brother men, learned that true art is not the slave of luxury, but the servant of humanity, learned that happiness is born, not of the lust to possess and enjoy, but of the desire to give and to bless,—then, and not until then, when she brings others with her, can the soul find true rest in her Palace.—Van Dyke.

The little things make up life.

Booth Space Filled At Fair

WELL—With all available space in the exhibit building at the Eastern New Mexico Fair next week taken, and the exhibits this year are larger than ever before, commercial exhibits had to be placed because of lack of space every inch of space was utilized in assigning location of booths. Directors emphasized, however, that individual entries in the products department, the craft, fine arts and domestic department would be well cared for up to the closing hour in the premium list for various divisions. This fair opens Wednesday, October 7, and Saturday night.

floats for the big opening were already under construction a week before the opening of the fair. This spectacular event at ten o'clock Wednesday morning is always one of the most drawing cards of the week. Amateur rodeo each afternoon is attracting the best cowboys in the southwest. Seating capacity is being enlarged and seats will be under cover.

Wintz and his public address system will be here from Roswell to announce the rodeo.

State Operates 448 Vehicles

New Mexico has 448 state-owned motor cars and trucks, a department of state-owned cars reported to Governor Clyde Tingwell last week shows.

The report was requested by the governor after he had read newspaper reports that republican campaign speakers were telling audiences that the state has more than 400 state-owned cars.

The statement was about as accurate as most of the other campaign charges, the governor said. Their effort to get something out of the present administration, he said, is manufacturing their own report.

The report showed that the highway department, which is the biggest user of automobiles and trucks, has two fewer passenger cars than a year ago and sixty fewer trucks.

In all departments there are 110 passenger cars, of which the highway department has 31. There are a total of 125 half-ton trucks, of which the highway department owns 118, and 215 trucks, of which the highway department owns 192.

Plant Flower Bulbs In Fall

It will soon be time to plant bulbs for blooming next spring, A. B. Fite of the New Mexico College. While emphasis should be placed on the importance of having good, fertile soil for best results with flowering bulbs, care should be taken not to place the bulbs in contact with manure that has not thoroughly decomposed and mixed with the soil. Unless thoroughly decomposed fertilizer is available, it would be better to mix the manure with the top soil only and plant food will be leached down through the irrigation water.

Hyacinths, paper-white narcissus, crocus, hyacinths and iris should be planted in the open for blooming in practically all parts of the state in the latter part of September or first week of October. Bulbs that have been in the ground through the summer should also be lifted, cleaned, and replanted at this time to insure quality blooms in the fall. To often the taking up and replanting is neglected until middle of winter; then, when the bulbs are spaded out, they are found to be so far advanced in growth of both tops and roots that it is impractical to molest them.

Preparation of the soil is essential and the bulbs should be planted into the ground in plenty of water to make a good root growth before the ground freezes. If any bulbs are growing on the ground as they are to be planted, they should be spaded up and planted immediately, and if it is not possible, preparation for the fall should not be delayed.

Lesson for October 4

THE MACEDONIAN CALL

LESSON TEXT—Acts 16:6-15, Romans 15:13-21. GOLDEN TEXT—Go ye therefore, and teach all nations.—Matthew 28:19. PRIMARY TOPIC—Paul's Wonderful Dream. JUNIOR TOPIC—God's Call to a New Continent. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—A Cry for Help. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The World's Need of Christ.

The roots of American life, cultural and religious, reach back into the European soil on which our forefathers dwelt. The lesson before us is therefore of peculiar interest, for it relates the first step in the carrying of the gospel into Europe, and ultimately to America.

Paul, the missionary with a pastor's heart, felt constrained to go and visit the centers where he had ministered on his first journey. As he proceeded he was providentially hindered and led by the Holy Spirit to Troas. Here his next "step" seemed for a time to be a "stop," but soon God in a vision called him into Macedonia—and the gospel had come to Europe.

It is of interest to note that Paul, as he thus began his second missionary journey, was

I. Obedient to the Spirit (Acts 16:6-12).

He had certain plans in mind. He set out with a purpose, but he was willing to have his own itinerary changed as the Holy Spirit led. It is significant that the guidance was negative as well as positive. The stops as well as "the steps of a good man are ordered by the Lord" (Ps. 37:23). Christians will do well to remember that providential hindering circumstances may be as much the leading of God as the heavenly vision. We are to be obedient to any guidance He gives but we are not to be merely passive, but actively submissive to His will. Paul was about the Father's business, not idly waiting for the speaking of a voice from heaven. It is to such a man or woman that the Macedonian call comes even in our day, only now it comes from China, India, South America, or Africa.

II. Faithful in Testimony (vv. 13, 14).

Paul, with his companion Silas, Timothy who had joined them at Lystra, and Luke (note that the "they" of v. 8 becomes "we" in v. 10) came to Philippi in Macedonia, but they found no Macedonian man waiting for them. Had they been mistaken in their vision and call? True missionaries are not thus easily discouraged. They had come to be fishers of men. The fisherman does not expect the fish to come to him. He goes after them. Paul soon discovered that there was a place of prayer at the river side, evidently a gathering place of devout Jews for worship. There he met the man of Macedonia who turned out to be a woman. For some reason the men were absent from the place of prayer on that all-important Sabbath morning. They were undoubtedly the ancient counterpart of our present day men who are "brothers-in-law" to the church, these foolish men who seem to assume that a bit of "religion" second hand through wife or children will suffice.

Lydia was a woman of distinction, business ability, and of high moral character. But Paul knew that even good people need to be saved. He spoke the truth of God. She accepted the message as God opened her heart, and at once she entered into

III. Fellowship in Service (v. 15).

Lydia proved herself to be one of that noble succession of women who have served Christ and the church. She and her household shared in the ministry of Paul by their Christian hospitality, thus helping forward the missionaries. Observe carefully that she was not saved by her works, but that her works followed naturally after her salvation.

Turning now to one of the epistles of Paul we look at his exposition of certain

IV. Fundamental Missionary Principles (Rom. 15:18-21).

Those things which Christ had wrought (Paul took no glory to himself) through him Paul had consistently directed into fields where no one else had preached the gospel.

The spirit of the missionary of the cross is that of the pioneer, pressing ever onward, taking new land, not duplicating the work of others, not jealous of their success, not seeking comfort or glory. Men need the gospel; they are lost without it. Let us press on into the yet unoccupied territory.

Our Place in the World

Whatever the place allotted to us by Providence, that for us is the post of honor and duty. God estimates us not by the position we are in, but by the way in which we fill it.—Tyron Edwards.

BEDTIME STORY

JERRY MEETS WITH AN ACCIDENT

IF JERRY MUSKRAT had not still been suspicious of Farmer Brown's Boy the accident might not have happened. Then again it might, if not at that particular time at some other and less fortunate time. Anyway, it happened, and Jerry will not soon forget it.

He was a little way up the Laughing Brook that morning when he heard some one coming down the Laughing Brook. By the sound he knew that it was one of those two-he jumped over them, whichever seemed easiest and best.

Now Jerry was in such a hurry to get back to the Smiling Pool that he didn't watch his steps as he should have. Perhaps it was because at the same time he was trying to watch behind him to see who it was that was coming. Anyway, in jumping over some of those tangled roots he didn't jump quite far enough and one hind foot slipped down between them. It went in easy enough, but when Jerry tried to pull it out it didn't come. It was held fast. You see his weight had forced two roots apart just enough to allow his foot to slip down between, and now they pinched it tight.

Jerry's first thought was that he had stepped in another of those dreadful traps. He hadn't a doubt of it. He was quite frantic with fear, and he tugged and wrenched with all his might. It was a wonder that he didn't break his leg. But the more he struggled the tighter he was held. You see, that leg began to swell at once where it was caught, and, of course, the more it swelled the more impossible it was to get it free.

Poor Jerry! Hop, died as he heard the footsteps coming nearer and nearer. He twisted around so as to get a good look at the trap, and when he discovered that it wasn't a trap at all that held him he could hardly believe his eyes. The discovery would have been a great re-legged human creatures and at once Jerry started pell-mell back toward the Smiling Pool.

Now the water in the Laughing Brook was low. In many places it was too low for swimming, so Jerry ran along the shore just under the edge of the bank. There were many roots of trees and bushes from which the water had washed away the earth, and they crossed and recrossed each other. Sometimes Jerry ran under them and sometimes

MOTHER'S COOK BOOK

LUNCHEON DISHES

FOR a most tasty luncheon dish, try the following when it is convenient:

Casserole of Noodles and Tuna Fish.

Take two cupfuls of uncooked noodles, one pound can of tuna fish, one-fourth cupful of chopped pimiento, two cupfuls of drained, canned peas, two cupfuls of thin white sauce and buttered crumbs. Cook the noodles until tender in three quart of boiling water to which one tablespoonful of salt has been added. Drain and place a layer of noodles in the bottom of a buttered baking dish, then a layer of fish, pimiento and peas. Season well and repeat until all the ingredients are used. Pour over the white sauce and top with a thick layer of buttered crumbs. Bake until brown.

Chicken Pie Supreme.

Cut up a cooked chicken and arrange in a large casserole in layers with uncooked rice, add small onions, broken mushrooms and a few peas. Dot each layer with butter, using two layers of chicken. Pour over well-seasoned chicken broth, season well, cover and cook until the rice is done. Uncover and place very small baking powder biscuits over the top or well-browned croutons.

Orange Tapioca.

Take four tablespoonfuls of quick cooking tapioca, one-fourth teaspoonful of salt, one and one-third cupfuls of boiling water and cook in a double boiler for 15 minutes, or until the tapioca is transparent, stirring frequently. Add one-half cupful of sugar, and when well mixed a cupful of orange juice and lief had it not been for those foot-steps coming nearer and nearer. "If I had time I could gnaw those roots off," thought Jerry, and he wrenched and twisted and pulled. But there wasn't time, and so he continued to struggle, hoping to get free before he should be discovered.

TRY THIS TRICK

By PONJAY HARRAH

THE HINDU RICE MYSTERY

HERE is a trick in which the magician duplicates one of the celebrated mysteries of the Hindu fakirs. A small bowl, a bag of rice and a table knife are the items used.

The magician fills the bowl with rice. He takes the knife, thrusts its blade deep into the rice grains; and then raises the knife by the handle. In uncanny fashion, the bowl of rice comes up with the knife blade and remains suspended until the magician grips the bowl with his left hand and removes the knife with his right.

The whole secret lies in the shape of the bowl. It must be of a type which bulges at the sides with a narrow mouth. In this type of bowl, the knife forces rice to the sides and the tight grains cause sufficient pressure to raise bowl and all when the knife is lifted.

Love, Honor and Obey

DEAR ANNABELLE: DO YOU THINK LONG HAIR MAKES A MAN LOOK INTELLECTUAL? JAY. DEAR JAY: YES—BUT NOT WHEN HIS WIFE PICKS ONE OFF HIS COAT LAPEL. ANNABELLE.

THE TWO-THIRDS RULE

IN 1832 a Democratic President decided to have his party's convention (the first it had ever held) renominate him and along with that decision he directed that the nomination of his running mate should be made by vote of two-thirds of the convention delegates.

One hundred and four years later a Democratic President decided to have his party's convention renominate him and along with that action he brought about the abolition of the century-old "two-thirds rule."

The man who originated that distinctively Democratic institution was Andrew Jackson. The man who ended its existence was Franklin D. Roosevelt. Jackson had selected his secretary of state, Martin Van Buren, for the position of vice-president. The senate had only recently rejected Van Buren's appointment as minister to Great Britain and "Old Hickory" thought it would square accounts with that body to have the "Red Fox" preside over it. Also vice-presidents in those days usually succeeded to the Presidency through regular election and Jackson wanted Van Buren to be his successor four years hence. If, for any reason, the Democrats should try to rebel against the domination of their outgoing President, his control over at least one-third of the convention votes would enable him to block the nomination of any candidate whom he opposed.

So when his party prepared to hold its first convention in Baltimore in 1832, Jackson wrote out this resolution which he gave to one of his lieutenants to present to the delegates:

"Resolved, That each State shall be entitled, in the nomination of a candidate for the Vice-Presidency, to a number of votes equal to the number to which they will be entitled in the Electoral College under the new apportionment in voting for President and Vice-President; and that two-thirds of the whole number of the votes in the convention shall be necessary to constitute a choice."

The Baltimore convention was as completely dominated by Jackson as the recent Philadelphia meeting was controlled by Roosevelt so the delegates obediently adopted the resolution. During Jackson's lifetime several efforts were made to abolish the rule but all of them failed. After his death it became all but sacred and for the next hundred years the shadow of Andrew Jackson, in the form of this rule, hung over every Democratic convention, causing many a stormy session. But that was not inappropriate, considering the stormy career of the man who left his party that legacy.

GASTRONOMICAL

ONE of the best ways to win a Presidential campaign is to get a good slogan and din it in the voters' ears. A good slogan appeals to the instincts or to the emotions rather than to the intellect. Combine that fact with the old saying about "the best way to a man's heart is through his stomach" and it's easy to understand certain incidents in political history.

Back in 1840 when the Whigs were trying to elect Gen. William Henry Harrison over Martin Van Buren, the Democratic candidate, they raised the cry of "Van's Policy, Fifty Cents a Day and French Soup; Our Policy, Two Dollars a Day and Roast Beef." Would a hungry voter hesitate long, between the two? Of course not!

But there was another gastronomical angle to this campaign. The "singing Whigs" set to the tune of "Auld Lang Syne" such words as these:

Should good old cider be despised And ne'er regarded more? Should plain log cabins be despised Our fathers' built of yore? For the true old style, my boy! For the true old style, Let's take a mug of cider now For the true old style.

So the thirsty voters who wanted "good old cider" joined with the hungry voters who wanted "roast beef" and together they elected Harrison. Although the Whigs' slogan in 1840 was the ancestor of the "Full Dinner Pail" of a later era, that expression didn't actually come into use until 1896. In that year the opponents were Democratic Bryan and Republican McKinley. The tariff was the principal issue and the Republicans started out with such slogans as "Protection and Prosperity," "Free Trade and Pauperized Labor" and "Free Trade and the Destruction of American Industries." But wise old Mark Hanna boiled them all down into the vetegeting slogan of the "Full Dinner Pail" and the American laborer who wanted one voted for McKinley and elected him.

Thirty-two years later the Republicans used a variation on the prosperity theme and their promise to the voters of "A car in every garage and a chicken in every pot" helped Herbert Hoover defeat Al Smith in the election of 1928.

FAMOUS HEADLINE HUNTER

FLOYD GIBBONS

ADVENTURERS CLUB

Hello Everybody

"Hackman Turns Detective"

By FLOYD GIBBONS,

THE other night, boys and girls, I got myself into a fine argument with a bird who said there wasn't any adventure more. Or, to be more accurate about it, this fellow said there wasn't any more adventure in peace time.

He said that civilization had so caught up with the world that the exploring trip was nothing but a cut-and-dried business of hiring a bunch of natives to carry your baggage and then going for a walk in the woods.

He said that big game hunting had degenerated into a sort of game of hide-and-seek with a tame elephant on a practically deserted reservation. He seemed to think I had a monopoly on all the adventures because I was a war correspondent and got around to the spots where fighting was going on.

Well, sir, I've been to a couple of wars where I didn't have anything exciting happen to me than having a family of cooties move into vacant flat on my top floor. And on the other hand, I had one of the toughest times in my life in peace-time taking a trip across the Sahara desert.

Taxi Driver's Life Is an Adventurous One.

That trip was just like the exploring jaunts that bird was talking about. A camel carried my baggage. A camel carried me too—never I wasn't too doggone weak from heat and thirst to stay on doggone brute. I'd rather go through six wars than take that across the Sahara again.

But all that is beside the point. What I want to talk about is exploring, and big game hunting—and taxi driving. You know when that bird was through with his spiel I said to him: "Who cares about the explorers and the big game hunters? They're not such big potatoes in the adventuring business. Why a New York taxi driver runs into more adventure in the course of a year than an explorer does in ten."

And maybe it's co-incidence, and maybe it's fate. But two days I reach into a pile of your letters on my desk and out comes this from taxi driver Andy Muscarella, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Suspicious Looking Fare Hires Andy for Jaunt.

Andy tells us about an adventure that happened to him at four o'clock in the morning on March 26, 1934. Andy had his cab parked in front of Madison Square Garden when a young fellow hailed him.

"Come on," the fellow said, "Hand Over Your Dough."

Andy told him to drive him to an address in Thirtieth street between Tenth and Tenth avenues.

Andy had had a good day that day—one of the best in weeks. He had nineteen dollars and sixty-five cents on the clock and enough tips to make it all come to about twenty-two bucks. Having that much money in his pocket at four a. m. made him sort of careful. And besides, he didn't like the looks of this new job he was being handed.

In the first place, he didn't like the fellow's appearance, and in the second place he knew that Thirtieth, between Ninth and Tenth is a residential neighborhood. But a cab driver can't turn down anybody who looks suspicious. He could lose half his fares that way. Andy took a chance.

Passenger Turns Out to Be a "Stick-up" Guy.

Sure enough, as the cab neared its destination, Andy felt a gun against the back of his neck. A gruff voice ordered him to stop and get out of the cab. As Andy stepped to the sidewalk, the gun was put into his stomach. "Come on," the fellow said, "hand over your dough."

"Go ahead and take it," said Andy. He figured if the fellow went through his pockets he might leave an opening and give him a chance to swing a haymaker. But the fellow was too smart for that. "Do I look like a sap?" he said. "Hand it over!"

Reluctantly, Andy passed over the twenty-two dollars. The bandit led him into a hallway and ordered him not to come out for ten minutes. Through the crack-like opening of the door Andy saw him in the cab and drive away. Then he came out, ran back to Eighth street and called the police.

Sleuthing Cabbie Gets His Man!

The bandit had made a clean getaway. The police didn't find him. Andy went back to the office and told his story. The company didn't pay him for the lost money, but still he wasn't satisfied. That night he told his wife he was going to get the bird who robbed him and took him all the rest of his life.

The next day was a Monday. Andy was back at his stand with another cab, but he was paying less attention to hailing drivers than he was to the faces of the people who passed by. All day Monday and all day Tuesday he watched without success. He did the same thing most of Wednesday night, with no luck either. But along about three in the morning he got a sort of feeling that he was going to see his man. Sure enough—while he was cruising on Eighth avenue near Fifty-first street, he spotted him crossing the street.

It was raining hard, but that didn't stop Andy. He cruised along the man till he saw a policeman. Andy told his story to the cop, and the pair of them went after the bandit. They grabbed him at Fifty-ninth street, took him to the station house, and after a ten minute grilling he admitted the hold-up.

"He proved to be an ex-convict on six years probation," says Andy. "I felt pretty good about catching him. I guess it just goes to show that there isn't such a lot of difference between a detective and a hackman."

Wool-Fur Ensembles for Autumn

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

WOOL-and-fur ensembles for brisk autumn days are the most talked of costumes among new arrivals for brisk autumn days. Precious furs are combined with very fine sheer wools in stunning formal daytime modes, while popular sports furs such as kidskin and leopard are teamed with novelty wools in outfits that will add extra glamor to the football stadium and campus promenade this fall.

Fingertip and three-quarter length jackets and capes are favored in these costumes, as this type of styling plays up the smart contrast between gleaming fur and dull-surfaced wool used for the lining of the coat and for the accompanying frock or suit.

Capes appear in both swagger and formal styling in any number of the most striking wool-and-fur ensembles. The new square-shouldered slim capes that are making their appearance in advance showings are creating no end of excitement for they are so startlingly different from anything in the way of a daytime wrap seen in recent years. For real swank and a dramatic sensation a likely formula calls for a square-shouldered cape of safari brown Alaska sealskin which, when it swings back, shows a lining of sheer rabbit wool in matching, brown, and a fitted frock of the same sheer wool with touches of gold lame at the high collar and tailored cuffs—a true aristocrat this in fashion's realm. The belt buckle of the frock and the neck clasp of the cape are of handsome hammered metal. See this patrician two-some pictured to the right in the illustration (same cape closed, in tiny inset).

LACE OVER METAL

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

All the rich fabrics have a leading place in first fall showings, and the picture is one of luxury. Special importance is placed on metal cloths, heavy nubby silks and woolens, in such variety as has not been seen before, even in these last few seasons when lace has been foremost in vogue. The redingote dinner gown pictured combines the high-style features of rich fabric and the accepted silhouette. The foundation is heavy metal brocade.

The blouse has a clever feminine touch in its soft gathers that peep cunningly from beneath the yoke, which is topped by a narrow standing collar that ties in a dainty knot. To please your whim, omit the necktie and substitute a neckerchief, or ascot tie; then again forget about the buttons, open the yoke, press down the sides forming a V and trim it with a bright boutonniere. You may have your way about the sleeves, too, for the pattern offers both, long and short. A graduated gore reduces the sweep at the hipline and gives the much desired flare to the hem.

30 DAYS LATER

WELL—HOW DOES IT FEEL TO BE HIGH-SCORING CHAMPION OF THE STATE?

FINE! BUT THEN, I'VE FELT LIKE A MILLION DOLLARS EVER SINCE I SWITCHED TO POSTUM!

WELL—WE LOST THE FIRST GAME IN SPITE OF TONY'S TOUCHDOWN!—AND YOU WEREN'T EVEN ON THE FIELD! WHY DID THE COACH BENCH YOU?

AW—BECAUSE I BROKE ONE MEASLY TRAINING RULE! HE WANTED ME TO QUIT COFFEE AND SWITCH TO POSTUM!

TELL HER TO KEEP OUT OF THIS! WHEN DID SHE START COACHING FOOTBALL, ANYWAY?

WELL... IF YOU WANT TO SEE ME ANY MORE, YOU BETTER DO AS THE COACH SAID! I DON'T LIKE A QUITTER!

IF YOU FEEL THAT WAY, I SUPPOSE I MIGHT AS WELL TRY IT!

CURSES! I'M LICKED! POSTUM ALWAYS RUNS ME OUT OF BOUNDS!

AW—WHAT IF YOU HAVE? TELL HIM COFFEE NEVER HURT YOU ANY—YOU'RE NO SISSY!

OF COURSE, children should never drink coffee. And many grown-ups, too, find that the caffeine in coffee disagrees with them. If you have headaches or indigestion or can't sleep soundly... try Postum. It contains no caffeine. It is simply whole wheat and bran, roasted and slightly sweetened.

You may miss coffee at first, but after 30 days you'll love Postum for its own rich, satisfying flavor. Postum comes in two forms—Postum Cereal, the kind you boil, and Instant Postum, made instantly in the cup. Either way it is easy to make, delicious, economical, and may prove a real help. A product of General Foods.

FREE—Let us send you your first week's supply of Postum free! Simply mail coupon.

TREE RINGS TELL STORY OF NORTHWEST WEATHER

Periods of good growing weather have alternated with poor ones through the last 650 years, but there has been no general trend toward either a drier or a wetter climate in the Pacific northwest, according to the records made by tree rings in the forests of northern California and eastern Oregon.

The growth pattern of these trees, the study shows, has been woven by the weather, the rings increasing in width with increased precipitation.

The average ring growth from 1900 to 1919 was identical with the general average during the past six centuries, bearing out the generally accepted theory that climatic history repeats itself thru the ages.

Imports Into U. S. Not Alarming

Government statistics on the importations of beef, lard, etc., into the United States reveals there is nothing to be alarmed over.

Consumption of beef, pork, lard, and mutton in the United States amounted to 53 pounds per person during the first seven months of 1936.

Imports of cattle from Canada, Mexico, and other countries were large—319,349 head—during the seven month period, January thru July, 1936, or 28 per cent more than during the same period in 1935.

Total consumption of beef, pork, lard, and mutton in the United States exceeded a billion pounds during July, 1936, and averages close to that figure monthly.

Scout News

In a tabulation of the 100 rural Boy Scout councils (i. e. councils with not over 10 per cent urban population) in America, the Eastern New Mexico Area Council ranks high in status and progress.

Compared on a basis of councils with approximately the same population the record is even better.

Despite the high rating in these four items the Eastern New Mexico Area Council is now engaged in a vigorous campaign to organize a large number of new Scout troops, Cub packs, and Sea Scout ships.

one guest, Mrs. A. A. MacKintosh. Two new members, Mrs. Frank McCarthy and Mrs. Robt. Conner, were welcomed into the club.

The first study meeting of the club meets with Mrs. Willis Pardee this afternoon.

WOMAN'S CLUB MEETING

Roosevelt Opens Campaign Tues.

SYRACUSE—President Roosevelt opened his campaign for another new deal victory at the November election with a repudiation Tuesday night of communist support and an assault on present and past republican leaderships.

A yelling, whistling throng greeted the president as he stepped onto the platform and chatted with Mrs. Roosevelt.

Absentee Voting Law Wiped Out

SANTA FE—All absentee voting laws, including a constitutional provision enabling soldiers and sailors to vote, were wiped from New Mexico statute books Saturday by the state supreme court.

The decision, written by Justice C. R. Brice, affirmed Santa Fe county district court. All justices concurred except A. L. Zinn, who did not participate.

There was considerable conjecture in the capital city following the decision as politically-interested persons pondered the results of the decision.

Railroad workers, soldiers and sailors, students and residents employed in public and private work outside their home cities will be among those most noticeably affected by the lack of an absentee ballot law, it was pointed out.

Grade of N. Mex. Cotton Declines

The report on cotton classed from the southwest irrigated section, which includes the states of Arizona, New Mexico, California, and Texas, district 1 (that section of Texas west of the Pecos river), indicates a small reduction in grades this week in all of the irrigated sections.

The cotton classed this week and to date from New Mexico shows no extra white grades, but 62.3 per cent was white good middling and better.
