Lou Howard lay on a bunk staring at the ceiling. Buck Conrad, his guard, had turned in for the night. He was sullen and despondent. Why was his father not doing something to get him out of this trouble? He knew Sherm had sent a messenger to Chiswick threatening reprisals if any harm happened to his son. But why didn't he do something instead of just talk?

spill before you start foggin.' I been out to the L C ranch for a li' call on Lee Chiswick. I bumped off one of his warriors and brought back with me Lou Howard. I got to apologize for not getting that spy Gray. He wasn't there."
"Didn't I have something to do with all this?" sneered Clint Duke. "Sure. You went along with me. But I thought of it. I ran the show." The killer swaggered to the bar.

white hands. His expressionless eyes were fixed on the other. "Come clean, Lou," he ordered. "What does this Gray know? What did you tell him?"
Tiny beads of perspiration began to stand out on the forehead of the younger man. "You didn't do a thing for me," he protested, with the violence of weakness. "Left me there to be hanged. If they hadn't got Ruth home safe, that's what would have happened to me, too. You look after your own hide mighty well, but you don't want me to do the same."

"Where's he at?" asked Norris, a sharp edge to his voice. "Unless I'm 'way off he's spending the night with his friend Hank Ransom."
"How d'you know?"
"I don't know for sure. I'm reasonably certain. Maybe a little bird told me."
Howard was secretive by nature. It was his opinion that one made no mistake to live under his hat, as he expressed it. The habit had grown on him. When mystery was not necessary, he had an irritating way of hinting at one. There was no reason for not telling that a Mexican had brought him word he had seen Ransom catch and saddle a horse in Willard's pasture, none except that he liked to convey an impression of omniscience.

France, Britain Turn to U. S.
In Search for War Support
By Joseph W. La Bine

Domestic
Chief U. S. interest in the current European squabble (see FOREIGN) has been America's chance of staying neutral. If they once felt secure under the state department's isolation policy, under the neutrality act or under the Johnson act forbidding loans to debtor nations, that cozy feeling was dissipated last fall. In his famed Chicago speech, Franklin Roosevelt pointed to the hopelessness of isolation, favored aggressive U. S. action to preserve world peace.

AMBASSADOR BULLITT
'No human being could say...'

Lee Chiswick looked down at the body lying on the cot. "Buck would have been alive now if I hadn't given him the job of guarding that stamp," he said sorrowfully.
"Here'd been alive if he had obeyed orders," Dan Brand said. "You got to look at this right, Lee. We told him not to open the door unless he was sure who was there. I reckon he was roused from sleep and didn't stop to use his head."
Ruth stood behind her father, her gaze fixed on the still figure of the cowpuncher. "Who did it?" she asked in a low voice.

ately. Almost overnight, 300,000 reservists were rushed to the Maginot line.
Meanwhile, Great Britain enjoyed another spell of worrying, notifying Ambassador Henderson that he might warn Germany of England's inability to remain out of any conflict der fuhrer might start. Inasmuch as Ambassador Henderson has been alternately warning and pleading with Germany since early August, his ultimatum probably fell on deaf ears.
At Prague, observers watched the result of Konrad Henlein's conversation. England's mediator, Viscount Runciman, hurried around. The Czech cabinet met secretly, finally emerged to offer Sudeten (1) territorial autonomy; (2) recognition of their full equality in the Czechoslovak state; (3) recognition of full equality of the German language in Sudeten areas.

Politics
Behind Franklin Roosevelt lay two smarting political defeats. South Carolina's Democrats had elected Ellison D. ("Cotton Ed") Smith over his objection. California's Democrats had kicked his favorite, Sen. William Gibbs McAdoo. These defeats, plus earlier primary shellacings, plus the prospect of more losses in Maryland and Georgia, made Franklin Roosevelt realize that next winter's congress will be stubborn as an army mule and completely devoid of party lines.

Explained he: "The true Republicans running for congress this year are liberals. Most of the Democrats seeking re-election are not. True liberals are those making a determined fight against centralization of powers in one man. True liberals would never vote for... New Deal schemes to restrict production... for irresponsible fiscal measures."
Soundest comment came from Illinois' Sen. James Hamilton Lewis, vacationing in California where

Religion

Though Fascism and Nazism jibe in theory, Fascist Italy has never discriminated against Jews like Nazi Germany. But last month, Italian Jews began tasting the bitter fruits of Adolf Hitler's friendship for Benito Mussolini. First hint of this trend was expulsion of Jews from all Italian administrative offices, a step which brought down the wrath of Pope Pius, and brought an equally righteous reply from Il Duce.
Fortnight ago, it became clear that Italy was only starting a campaign of racial intolerance that will equal Germany's. From the council of ministers came a decree that all Jews who settled in Italy, Libya or the Aegean islands since 1918 must get out. Still open, presumably, is Italian East Africa (Ethiopia), an unpopular land where few Italians wish to live.

Aviation
At Burbank, 10 speed pilots nosed their ships into the rising sun, bound for Cleveland's annual air show, 2,042 miles away. Ahead was a handsome prize for the winner of the annual Bendix race. Among the last to leave was attractive, 29-year-old Jacqueline Cochran, whose fast Seversky plane had set an east-west record the week before.

was boosted $2,500 because a woman won. Ten minutes later she left for Bendix, N. J., winning $1,000 more and setting a new coast-to-coast women's record of 10 hours, 7 minutes, 10 seconds.
Jacqueline Cochran did not need the $12,500 she won, for her husband is Floyd B. Odium, head of the 140-million-dollar Atlas corporation that controls several dozen prosperous companies. Orphaned as a child, taking her first job at 20, America's new No. 1 woman flier eventually controlled a chain of such shops from Florida to California. In 1932 she met Odium, who dared her to fly alone after three weeks' practice. They were married in 1936.
Jacqueline Cochran's good luck in the Bendix race was not shared by others. Said Frank Fuller, second-place winner: "It was the stinkingest weather I've ever seen." Said Paul Mantz, who followed him: "The weather was awful. And to cap it all I hit a bird at 14,000 feet where no bird should be."

Two days later, Chicago's Roscoe Turner averaged 283.419 miles per hour over 30 laps of Cleveland's 19 mile course, winning the $45,000 Thompson trophy race. After flying an extra lap for luck, Turner landed, jumped out, threw his arms around his ship, cried: "Oh, you sweetheart!"

People

In 1867, a son named Patrick Joseph was born to Daniel and Mary Hayes in New York city. Orphaned, Patrick Hayes eventually became Patrick Cardinal Hayes, distinguished prelate, head of the world's Catholic archdiocese in his birth on Seventy-one years after his birth, on a Sunday morning in Manhattan, a devout Catholic attending 11 o'clock mass in St. Patrick's cathedral heard Reverend Henry F. Hammer speak: "I am about to make a most difficult job in very few words, because my heart is so filled with grief... Your archbishop, Cardinal Hayes, passed away in his sleep last night. Will you please pray for the repose of his soul."
At Alexandria, Egypt, 19-year-old King Farouk emerged from an athletic club, heard a revolver explode, turned to see spectators pounce on would-be assassin Jean Asfar, 400 of a noted Cairo lawyer.
Frightened after his famous charges suffered a three-week throat infection, Dr. Allan Roy Daffoe was reported planning to remove tonsils and adenoids from the Dionne quintuplets next month.
At West Orange, N. J., Mrs. John Eyre Sloane, daughter of Inventor Thomas A. Edison, ran for Republican congressional nomination.

CHAIRMAN HAMILTON
'True Republicans... are liberals.'

Sheridan Downey had just won senatorial nomination on a state pension platform. "There are no national political parties left in the nation," he said. "The California election... is an expression of what may now come in every state... of gentlemen running for federal office upon wholly state issues and local remedies."
Three days later, Franklin Roosevelt spoke at Denton, Md., seeking the scalp of Sen. Millard E. Tydings. Again hitting the liberalism tack, he answered "Ham" Lewis' comment: "The Democratic party will live and continue to receive the support of the majority of Americans just so long as it remains a liberal party. If it reverts, it will fail."

Investigation Discloses That People of Stone Age Suffered From Toothache

No you can't blame it all on the can opener. The handy gadget, called "the housewife's best friend," has been charged with direct responsibility for toothaches, gum boils and other dental atrocities just because it opened the cans whose ready-to-eat contents could be gulped down without first passing through the process called mastication.
But science has stepped forward and declared that the can opener and the gaudy hued carton are not responsible for all the tooth ills which have been charged against them. At least that is the indicated opinion of Prof. W. M. Krogman of Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio.
"The widespread belief," said Dr. Krogman, "that man's dental ills are attributable solely to modern civilization—its canned and mushy foods, its unbalanced diets and dietary fads, its frantic tempo—is not wholly correct.
An extensive study which includes thousands of prehistoric, early historic and modern dentitions has revealed that ancient man had plenty of toothaches and that primitive man today (the back-to-nature

Foreign
Italy's Benito Mussolini, who could do no better than create mild furor with an anti-Jewish drive, must have envied the headlines being made by his fellow dictator, Adolf Hitler. Since early August, the one-time Austrian housepainter has kept all Europe in a "crisis," until last week the word "crisis" began losing its significance.
To Berchtesgaden, der fuhrer's Alpine chalet, sped Konrad Henlein, Czechoslovakian Sudeten leader whose followers want autonomy and eventual annexation by Germany. While Fuhrer Henlein talked with Fuhrer Hitler, German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop closed himself in Berlin with Henderson, emerged after assuring the nervous Englishman that Germany plans no hasty step in the Czech squabble.
But Europe had a hopeless case of war fever. If Adolf Hitler's 1,000,000 war-gaming soldiers had gone home, tension might have been relieved. Instead, several hundred thousand Nazi warriors massed on the Rhine frontier, visiting new fortifications they would use in a war on France. Paris bristled immedi-

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for September 18

Without question, the most precious possession any man or woman has...

Friendships must be "kept in repair." Foolish and almost wicked...

We live in an age which affects an upward veneer of culture but which is at heart often thoughtless and ungodly.

Friendships that last must be built on absolute candor, not the kind that delights in telling an unpleasant truth...

Things that cost as nothing are usually "worth it." Real friendship calls for sacrifice...

Who could question the propriety of such devotion between true friends?

Friendship is akin to our relationship to God in that it calls for a complete giving of ourselves...

HEADLINES FROM THE LIVES OF PEOPLE LIKE YOURSELF!

HELLO EVERYBODY: Maurice Dumford of Chicago is today's distinguished adventurer.

Maury made a rush for the station. Firemen from all over the town were running to the same point.

The burning building was only two blocks from the fire house. It was a small dwelling and the fire was in the attic.

"The heat and smoke were terrific," he says. "I started creeping forward so I could get at the seat of the blaze."

Maury couldn't even move a muscle. He couldn't even turn around.

Another hose. The water from that hose was drenching me, but it was doing little toward putting out the fire.

The little attic was fairly flooded with water now. What's more, that water was hot.

And then it happened. He felt as if something had grabbed him all at once.

His whole body was stiff. It wasn't exactly trembling, but it felt to Maury as if something was trembling inside of him.

Where was the shock coming from? He had stepped on no wires. There wasn't any wiring anywhere within ten feet of him.

He tried to move the hose—divert the stream of water away from that wire—but he couldn't budge an inch.

"The pain was getting terrible," he says. "Every joint—every muscle—every bone in my body was aching."

Some One Pulled the Switch. Maury knew that even house current could kill a man under the proper conditions.

And then, all of a sudden, Maury felt his body relax. He tried to move—and found that he could—and turned the nozzle upward.

Says he: "The force of the upturned stream of water battered through the roof. Shingles went flying. Sunshine came pouring in. And I felt like a million dollars!"

Thoughts and Language. In its broadest sense language is any means of expressing thought.

"Keeping up with the Joneses" becomes a booming thing when we allow snobbish to disturb our true sense of values.

By WINIFRED WILLARD

SISTER SUE was invited to be adviser to the rich couple furnishing their new home in New York.

Sister Sue thought they were snooty, badly dressed and of color. Next day Sister Sue said, "Why pay $8 when you can get a more stunning pair at Covington's for $6.50?"

A few days later, Sister Sue played a trump card with apparent anonymity.

Over New York way is a family whose educational affections are rooted in one particular exclusive college.

A man was buying his wife a wondrous ruby ring. Its color and cutting and setting were perfect.

They reminded me of the man who went to market to buy a big pipe organ, one with chimes and harps and all the modern gadgets.

Most of us are like that! We purchase a sensible little string of beads as a gift to some graduating girl.

Really it is the same thing with infinite variations as Mistress' two red elephants, highly desirable at $3.49.

The SALLY SMILE

By D. J. Walsh

MRS. PINNEY had called to see Miss Bowman, and the two women were in close conversation.

"Well, it simply has come to this," Miss Bowman said, wiping her eyeglasses nervously.

"Like Mrs. Chichester?" suggested Mrs. Pinney. Mrs. Pinney was a small, eager woman.

"Yes," Mrs. Chichester. She is our richest citizen. She could give $50,000 and never feel it."

"There's the question, I'm afraid she wouldn't. I've approached her unsuccessfully."

"So have I," moaned Mrs. Pinney. "Well, you can't force a person to give up her money, that's certain. I suppose it's hopeless."

"I don't know about that. I've been thinking I'd send Sally Drew to her and see what good that Helen wouldn't let me come. You would do."

A Costly Road

The Pulaski skyway is probably the most expensive road in the world for its length.

The Pulaski skyway is probably the most expensive road in the world for its length. The part of it that is raised is three miles long and cost $21,000,000.

See, we haven't spoken before in thirty years—

"Thirty years," nodded Sally. "I did have to go. But after I got there it was all right. Here's your money."

"Fifty thousand dollars?" Mrs. Pinney could just articulate. "But we hoped your smile would do it."

"It did," Sally grew grave. "Thirty years ago Helen got the man I wanted. But no one ever knew I except her and me, for the day she was married I pinned on my smile and I've worn it ever since."

She paused reflectively. "She says she was puzzled for thirty years over my smile. We made a fair exchange. I told her how I got it and she gave me $50,000 for my secret."

Herbert Chichester had only lived five years, but he had lived long enough to spoil the lives of two women. His wife had grown selfish and sore, but the woman she had won him from had "pinned on a smile" that had brightened a whole community.

Maury couldn't even move a muscle. He couldn't even turn around.

The 'Million Dollar' Room

The walls of the million dollar room of the Union League club at Chicago are papered with certificates of stocks that were once said to be as good as gold.

We carry the same sort of standards as far as the schools we choose for our children. Tradition, price, social register, what the Joneses do, all weigh heavily with us instead of where our children will learn the most and become their best.

Over New York way is a family whose educational affections are rooted in one particular exclusive college. Costs $2,500 a year for daughter to go there.

A man was buying his wife a wondrous ruby ring. Its color and cutting and setting were perfect. Anything leveler couldn't be imagined.

They reminded me of the man who went to market to buy a big pipe organ, one with chimes and harps and all the modern gadgets. He did not know anything about organs; only something about dollars.

Most of us are like that! We purchase a sensible little string of beads as a gift to some graduating girl. Then we scour around until we find a Tiffany box in which to send it.

Roosevelt's Canadian Speech Revives Hope for St. Lawrence Waterway, International Problem for 20 Years

JOSEPH W. LABINE

Roosevelt's mind wanders away from his neatly typed script. Out front stood several people come to hear him speak. The Thousand Islands are near by. He is speaking to the Canadian Prime Minister, Mackenzie King. But the President's mind wanders to the St. Lawrence waterway. Finally he spoke forward to the day when the Canadian Prime Minister and the President can meet to discuss the bridge across this water, but the very water itself, to be dug and productive use of the respective peoples.

Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario, the waterway's biggest foe, who refuses to consider it until Canada's railroad problem is solved.

900,000 program. This latter concession is most certainly justified.

Canals to Be Dredged.

One part of the job consists principally of deepening channels. To carry a 27-foot ship from Duluth to the sea, Canada would deepen her locks at Sault Ste. Marie and increase the depth of locks in the Welland project. The United States would deepen the channel of the Detroit and St. Clair rivers between Lakes Huron and Erie.

But the biggest job would be in the 183-mile stretch from Montreal to Lake Ontario, where those rapids are located. Here, four great dams would be built to deepen the waters and generate power. Ships would run around the dams. An estimated 2,300,000 horsepower would be developed, half going to New York, the other half to Ontario. Therefore these commonwealths would pay a large part of the bill. New York being assessed $19,736,750 against $182,726,250 for the United States government.

A large portion of Canada's expenditures would be channeled against Ontario, but the treaty has been arranged so that these outlays need not start until 1949. Nevertheless, it is from Ontario's Premier Mitchell Hepburn that major objections to the waterway plan are coming. Three years ago he announced that his province would not abide by the Hoover treaty, which automatically died in the United States senate.

Hepburn Fears for Railroads.

Premier Hepburn's objections are valid enough. He refuses to take action on the waterway until Canada's railroads are in better shape. President Roosevelt's answer to this same problem is that improved communications have always worked to the benefit of all sections. Looking beyond the practical purposes of lake navigation and power development, far-sighted idealists regard the project as but another step in welding North America into a continent of unified social and economic ambition. But the expenditure of $550,000,000 is no task for idealists.

Prime Minister King has promised to give the proposed treaty "careful study." Premier Hepburn shows no signs of weakening. Meanwhile, hard-pressed American railroads will not stand idle when their already dubious future is jeopardized. It's beginning to look like the folks in Massena, N. Y., were right. The St. Lawrence waterway is coming, but maybe we won't live to see it!

It's so easy to sew a few rows of braid onto a house dress or a little girl's panty-frock, and it's such a smart way to brighten up simple fashions and make them more becoming. So let's rejoice that the fashion of using braid trimming is back with a bang, this Fall. Here are two very attractive and unusual designs that you'll enjoy making at home, in pretty fabrics of your own selection. Each includes a detailed sew chart to guide beginners.

How Women in Their 40's Can Attract Men

Here's good advice for a woman during her change (usually from 38 to 42), who fears she'll lose her appeal to men, who worries about her fashion, loss of pep, dimmy spots, spots, spots and moody spells.
Get more fresh air, 4 hrs. sleep and if you need a good general system tonic take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made especially for women. It helps nature build up physical resistance, thus helps give more vitality to enjoy life and avert coming (fussy nervous and disturbing symptoms that often accompany change of life. ## Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them!
Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The art of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer recurring backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, grinding or aching, swelling, puffiness under the eye—lost time, nervous, all worn out.
Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance.
The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed the country over. At least as Doan's, sold at all drug stores.

dream is an alluring one. It is a new seacoast for the United States, 1,578 miles long and stretching into the heart of the continent. It would encompass 20,000-ton icebergs plying their way across the Gulf of St. Lawrence, thence up the river and down through the lakes to Chicago or Duluth. It would include an abundance of power, principally for New York State.

Massena, N. Y., which state officials believe would be a new Chicago or Detroit on the waterway is completed. The waterway is completed. The waterway is completed. The waterway is completed.

As Americans view the Mississippi as the Father of Waters, so Canadians call the St. Lawrence the Mother of Waters. One hundred years before Boston was settled, Jean Cartier reached the site of Montreal. And before the American Revolution, canal-minded Canadians began digging their way through the rapids between Montreal and Lake Ontario, and the equally dangerous rapids of the Sault Ste. Marie. Canada's canal building has been ever since, most recent being the Welland canal to carry lake ships around Niagara falls.

Today the chief remaining job is a chain of dams to quiet those rapids between Montreal and Lake Ontario. It was in 1919 that the senate first requested an international commission to investigate the rapids. Immediately came support from the East, Midwest and South, stacked against opposition from New York and New England. Up sprang the St. Lawrence Tidewater association, headed by active membership in the midwestern states and supported by the powerful Farm Bureau federation. By 1928 the Republican party made the waterway plan its major farm relief plank, promising a reduction of from 8 to 10 cents a bushel in grain exports.

A peek from the cloudy present into the hoped-for future. Will ocean-going steamers like this ply up the St. Lawrence into America's Great Lakes, making Chicago, Detroit and Cleveland "seacoast" cities?

70 fine roll-your-own cigarettes in every 2-oz. tin of Prince Albert

PRINCE ALBERT THE NATIONAL JOY SMOKE

NO WONDER Vernon Edwards is so keen on P.A. It burns slower—smokes cooler—gives him more full ripe taste in his "makin's" smoke. Take a whiff of P. A.'s fragrant, mellow aroma—then you'll see why so many roll-your-owners (and pipe-smokers too) agree, "Prince Albert's the National Joy Smoke."
