Hawk Is a Strong Farmers Must Ally of Farmer in Grasshopper War

SCC Man Makes Plea That Birds Be Protected by

The hawk is a strong ally of the farmer in the battle to check in last year, Director Jo-sey said.

Cording to Philip F. Allan of the Soil Conservation Service. In addition, it is pointed out, hawks also feed upon jackrabbits and rodents which often cause damage

"In view of the great service that hawks are rendering farmers in the fight to check grasshoppers, the killing of the few chicken thieves among them should be left to the farmer who catches them red-handed," Allan declares.

Grasshoppers lay their eggs in small areas with well-defined boundaries, and it is around these areas that hawks congregate for a feast in late summer and fall. value of cooperation, then they must be loyal to farmers' organizations," stated Dick Bevens last week in a lecture made before the local Men's Club. Mr. Bevens discussed at length the value of membership in farm bureaus; the value of farm education, which is derived in a number of ways; the importance of loyalty of members to their organization, which is of utmost importance to each farmer. Another point brought out by

Mr. Bevens is the fact that farmers must assume the responsibility of formulating legislative programs of interest to them, or else these same legislative programs would be drafted by politicians, which is not always to the interest of the farmer.

He also named some features which the farm bureau has helped to promote, namely; the aid in conservation programs; aid in lowering freight rates; commodity prices boosted; advocated "farm to market" roads. It has helped to crystalize public opinion around the fact that agriculture is a national problem, and one of its main objects today is to enlighten farmer and for the general econmic welfare of the country.

Mr. Bevens talk was heard by a good representation of community-minded men and received unanimously favorable comment.

the booklet are farm houses, without plumbing, but a few are urban or suburban homes. All are small homes that fall within the broad category of "low cost" structures. The Farm Security Administration has received a great many requests for plans for the Southeast Missouri homes, almost 100 of which were built at an average cost of $1,105 by making use of a pre-fabrication and pre-cutting The booklet illustrates this method of construction with pictures, gives the floor plan for one of the typical houses, and describes the materials used.

"Into the Whirling Knives"

HELLO, EVERYBODY: Here's a tale of the wheat fields of Canada, an exciting account of how a man, trying to yank loose a sheaf of wheat that was plugging the blades of a threshing rig, sudbout her living room recently denly found himself being carried along toward them by the machinery he had succeeded in freeing.

It was a frightful experience, and Howard C. Flanders of Rutland, Vermont, won't forget it till the day he dies. Incidentally, I'm flattered—and a bit curious—to learn that A color note is added by drawing my column in the New York Journal is read way up in a ribbon through the beading Rutland, Vermont.

Howard's story begins back in 1924, when he was a youth 5071 contains instructions and of 16 living in the town of Sherbrooke, Quebec. In those days, during the fall of the year they would import men from the East and even from Great Britain to work in the harvest fields of western Canada. As Howard puts it succinctly: "The dough was good, the hours long, etc., so I decided I would try it." A week later Howard left Sherbrooke on the Harvesters' Special. week later he arrived in Calgary, Alberta. A train that ran only three times a week took him on to Granger, Alberta, and thence he went by bus to Carbon. Here he got a job in the wheat fields and worked three weeks.

"So far, so good," Howard says. "I then went to work for a threshing outfit where I came near losing my neck-or feet would be more bases; none distinguished at all. So rear of the outfit. There is a carrier-something of the endless belt variety. You pull up alongside this carrier with your team and rack, grab your pitchfork and get going.

The carrier moved slowly but inevitably toward the floating knives

As you threw your wheat sheaves on the carrier, Howard explains, it took them to the mouth of the machine where a series of knives work up and down so fast the eye could not follow them. These knives. as Howard puts it, "do a job on the wheat," and also cuts the cord that holds the bundle together.

'We would work like mules," Howard goes on, "unloading so as get through and catch up a few minutes on the other fellow and take it easy. Sometimes we would plug the rig and the carrier would stop,

This certain day-September 29, 1924, to be exact-the rig plugged on them, and not thinking. Howard jumped on the carrier and grabbed a sheaf that was plugging the knives and started to pull and yank.

"All of a sudden," Howard says, "it let go and there I wasriding along to those knives and destruction. Picture the scene for yourself-the carrier, with Howard on board, moving slowly but inevitably toward the flashing knives that, freed now is at home, his hearth the earth, of their obstruction, were slashing at a speed that made them invisible his hall the azure dome.-Emer-To make matters worse, Howard, because he had been obliged to go close to the knives in order to free them, was now practically on top of them, being carried closer every second by the speeding carrier, as it picked up momentum it had lost when the sheaf had blocked it. Howard heard a yell. It may have been that yell that broke the spell that his startled senses were under. At any rate, he was galvanized into action. Just as the greedy knives were reaching for his clothes to drag him in and shred him to death, he swung, jumped on to the bundle rack of his wagon! Breathless, his heart pounding, his limbs so weak he could hardly hold himself together, Howard climbed down to the ground. And then, suddenly, he remembered the yell, and the strange quality that made it somehow more than just a cry of warning. He looked about.

The Mystery of the Machine Owner.

On the opposite side of the machine he found one of the owners of the outfit with his right hand all mangled and bleeding at his side! "In his hurry," Howard explains, "he said he had been pulling a chain on the outside of the carrier, trying to help the bundles through, and when she started he looked up, and there I was riding merrily along. His story was that the only thing to do was to plug those gears some way and slow up that carrier or stop it and give me a chance to get off, and not having anything to use he slaps his hand between the gears and it slowed it up and gave me the chance to save myself."

To this day, Howard says, he can't remember whether that platform slacked up in its speed or not. He does know he got himself clear. "I have often wondered," Howard goes on to say, "if the man in his hurry to get the thing going, had taken hold of one of the crosspieces of the gear and yanked on it, and when she started, slipped and went into the gear himself-or whether he was the means of saving my life or limbs. I don't know. The least I could do was thank him, which

"A week later he gave me the gate and I have been wondering ever since just what did happen."

Pull the Trigger on Constipation, and Pepsin-ize Acid Stomach Too

When constipation brings on acid indigestion, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste, and had breath, your stomach is probably loaded up with certain undigested food and your bowels don't move. So you need both Pepsin to break-up fast that undigested food in your stomach, and Lagative Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels. So be sure your laxative contains Pepsin. That means your laxative contains Pepsin. That means trigger on those lary bowels. So be sure your laxative contains Pepsin. That means Dr. Caldwell's famous medicine, because its Pepsin helps you gain that wonderful stomach-relief, while the Laxative Senna moves your bowels. Tests prove how quickly each dose of Syrup Pepsin fortifies your stomach with power to dissolve those undigested proteins which may linger in your stomach, to cause grs., belching, gastric acidity, nausea and headache. At the same time it wakes-up lazy nerves and muscles in your bowels to relieve your constipation. Here's one laxative you can take right after a full meal to get Pepsin at work relieving stomach discomfort fast. Guaranteed to contain no Cathartic Salts, does not cause distress. Even finicky children love to taste this family laxative. So buy Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin combined with Laxative Senna Compound on money back offer today. money back offer today.

FIRE DRILLS

Fire is one thing few of us desire to experience. The incident last week when what perhaps what might have been a tragedy was averted by the immediate aid of efficient volunteers, left an impression, and a thought.

Few know, until tested, what they will do in moments of sudden stress, but it is a psychological fact, that the faculty of reason can be developed with training; confidence in ability is made more certain with knowledge; thus the thought that if everyone used reason in event of fire, there would be fewer accidents and tragedies.

One of the best beginnings is in the school room. A personal incident of school teaching days, when one day it became necessary to guide a roomful of little tots through a haze of inky smoke in a huge two-story building and to safety, taught the advantage of training. We were always thankful that not even one was hurt that Children love marching in some fashion of order and naturally adapt themselves to this idea. They do not soon forget that precept of reasoning and therefore, it is wisdom to start early in their lives to safeguard the future in event that dreaded word, "Fire"

HAGERMAN'S PROGRESS

The announcement that the new stadium in the city park is fin ished marks up another score in Hagerman's progressive program.

It is indeed complimentary to have the addition of the park; the football field is being seeded to and an evergreen here and there, and it will in time be a thing of

The stadium and the ball grounds will be a boon to lovers of sports. There has been heard much favorable comment.

After all, Hagerman never lags, but is listed among the top of little, progressive good towns of New Mexico.

LITERARY DICTATORS

The current popular fad of reading unabridged editions of Hitler's "Mein Kampf," or at least pretending to a reading knowledge of it, has led to the unearthing of same surprising facts about the book, particularly in Germany.

'Mein Kampf" has been translated into eleven languages with a total of 5,200,000 copies of the German edition sold, according to latest reports from Berlin. Germany alone, the sale of the book has brought Hitler about $3,000,000 in profits. Purchase of "Mein Kampf" is practically compulsory in Germany. Incidentally, the book is six years old. From a monetary standpoint, it appears as important for a dictator to write a book as to hold his public job, just as in the United States a physician who would get ahead must have a literary knack as well as medical and surgical knowledge.

Despite the force of the government behind "Mein Kampf," the Bible, without any such aid, has outsold Hitler's book in Germany by 200,000 iopies annually for the last six years. The annual average sales of 950,000 Bibles in Germany somewhat discounts the reports that a state religion is supplanting the old one.-Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

Burton Dwyre, state highway engineer, has announced the appointment of Fred G. Healy, former State Works Progress administrator, as assistant state highway engineer in charge of construction. Healy succeeds F. M. Limbaugh, who resigned with the change of administrations.

State Highway Engineer Burton Dwyre said a survey of a proposed improved section of U.S. Highway 285, between Encino and Lamy, was underway preparatory to putting the project in the department's 1940 construction program. He said if approval is given the project by the Federal Bureau of Public Roads, it will be possible to let the contract this summer. Other surveys have been made, he said, but the winter's snowstorms blocking the route through Kline's Corners convinced officials that earlier surveys would have to be

In focus here is "Stagecoach," opening in New York with generous salutations by reviewers, who note that, with a no-star cast, a natural-born horse opera has been conjured into an excellent film by the deft artistry of John Ford, director, and Dudley Nichols, scenarist. Most definite U. S. aid has been the sale of airplanes to France and For several years, Mr. Fairchild has Britain, allowing those nations to change their armies overnight from weak, cowering units to potent forces which neither Hitler nor Mussolini dared trifle with.

But a more positive U. S. aid has been the moral support tendered France and Britain via both direct statement and round-about action. Not confirmed, but well authenticated, is the report that President Roosevelt injected a sedative into jittery France and Britain by advising those chancellories to resist any new Rome-Berlin demands. Since foreign trade is an important weapon of the 1939 model aggressor. the U.S. inflicted its deepest wound in German-Italian ambitions by formulating an important trade and credit pact with Brazil, largest and most important of the much-covefed South American nations.

Though many countries (like Argentina, Chile and Peru) have accepted totalitarian trade gestures, the U. S.-Brazilian pact politely hints that it would not be wise for South American nations to become too entangled with Europe. Moreover the pact gives Brazil enough financial encouragement to make her tomorrow's No. 1 South American nation, whose example her neighbors will be wise to follow Gist of the pact: In return for Brazilian thawing out of frozen American credits and resumption of payments on Brazilian bonds held here, the U. S. will place $69,000,000 in credits at Brazil's disposal, also making other efforts to stimulate the country's industrial output and her trade with the U. S.

How these developments have strengthened the European backis immediately apparent. The proposal, as voiced by Home Secretary Sir Samuel Hoare: 'Suppose in the space of five years there were neither wars nor rumors of wars, and suppose the peoples of Europe were able to free themselves of the nightmares that haunt them and from the expenditures that beggar them? Here, indeed, is the greatest opportunity ever offered to leaders of the Sir Samuel explained that Europe's big five would be "blessed in their efforts by the President of the United States," but the Washington that inspired his outburst was less eager to endorse it. Recalled was Secretary of State Cordell Hull's statement of February 13, to the effect that the time is not yet ripe for disarmament talk.

Italians commented the plan was "so vague it is not worth considering." Germany grumbled about the lack of "tangible proposals," within 24 hours something else had Such developments made Europe forget Sir Samuel Hoare's peace plan. But what Europe could not forget is that both Britain and France agreed to guarantee Czechoslovakia's new boundaries after the Munich conference, a guarantee which has now been ignored. > In a day that demands strong men the church could find none stronger. none better fitted by experience and instinct to carry on-with greater emphasis-the policies of international statecraft which first found expression under the late Pius XI. Since 1929 the new pope has engineered Vatican foreign policy from behind scenes as papal secretary of state. Since 1917, when Benedict XV sent him to war-torn Germany in a vain peace gesture, Eugenio Pacelli has been what any nation but the Vatican would term a "career diplomat."

Comes From Vatican Family.

Forty years ago Pius XII disregarded a century-old family tradition which has made the Pacelli family esteemed members of the old Vatican aristocracy. His grandfather was undersecretary of the interior from 1851 to 1870. His father was an attorney at the papal court, as his brother, Francesco, is today. The subsequent years have been far from happy for the Vatican or its chief diplomat. Early in 1929 the Lateran agreement with Italy allowed Pius XI to end his voluntary exile in Vatican City. Since then old treaties have been renewed with Austria, Germany and Yugoslavia, while Rumania signed a new pact. And though Cardinal Pacelli could take heart from these accomplishments, he must have frowned over less happy developments which placed the Catholic church diametrically opposite the anti-Christ spectres of totalitarianism.

Under Adolf Hitler the church has suffered first in Germany and later in Austria. In both Italy and Germany there have arisen neo-paganism movements for "racial purification" and persecution of minorities. Mexico's religious foundations have been rocked, and the Spanish civil war came-in the eyes of 350,-000,000 Catholics-closer than any since the crusades to being a holy Changed Attitude Seen.

This was initiation under fire, but the cardinal rose to his task. So well, in fact, that democracies which had long frowned on the Vatican's "interference" now discovered a strong ally for the inevitable showdown with dictators. Typical was the reaction in Protestant England, where for 500 years the pope has been something to fear. But the election of Pius XII brought editorial praise for "the wisdom of the sacred college."

No nation can claim the Vatican's political support against another nation, but the spiritual influence of Catholic upon Catholic, as voiced through the pope, is a potent force in the Twentieth century battle between Christianity and paganism. England cannot forget this, nor has Hitler forgotten it, if we may believe his reported comment on the new pope several years ago: "It isn't the pope (then Pius XI) who is making all the trouble for Germany. He is too old and sick to busy himself with such affairs. It is Cardinal

There is still another lesson in the choice of a papal diplomat. One of the Catholic church's proudest stories concerns the aforementioned monk Hildebrand, last secretary of state to become pope. As Gregory VII he, too, had trouble with a German ruler. The last pope who felt he must obtain imperial ratification for his election, Gregory was blocked by Germany's Emperor Henry IV. Gregory had demanded that Henry cease dictatorial rule over the Catholic church in Germany. Henry replied by summoning several high German prelates and declaring Gregory deposed. Emperor Finally Absolved.

This game ended when Gregory publicly absolved Henry's subjects of allegiance to him. The climax came when Gregory, stopping at the castle of Canossa on his trip northward into Germany, kept Henry waiting barefoot in the snow for three days, dressed as a penitent. session of much.—Antipated a favorite of Finally he granted absolution and Henry's authority was restored.

Rome and Berlin may not be led to Canossa by Pius XII, but this modern counterpart of Gregory VII includes both Italy and Germany among his problems. A pope's chief duty, naturally, is to maintain the Catholic religion where it already has root, and to evangelize it in new lands. But this is an age where extraordinary duties sometimes seem more vital at the moment, Catholics and Protestants alike recognize their need for a united Christian front against political doctrines which they believe are working to place mankind's every action and thought under state domination. That is why Pius XII will be a popular pope, especially among democ-

Whereas Pius XI described himself as a "library mouse," the new pontiff has led a more worldly life. As cardinal legate he traveled through the United States and South America. On the latter trip he did penitence for the honors heaped on his shoulders by removing the soft mattress from his bed and sleeping on the blanket-covered springs.

New Pope Popular Here.

On his trip to the United States he crossed the continent by air; he thereby becomes the first pope to have flown. At that time the new pontiff lunched with President Roosevelt and "his truly American family." So far as is known; no previous pope has visited this country, and this-coupled with the recent date of his visit-makes him especially popular here. There is good reason to believe it may lead the United States to send a minister to the Vatican.

Already there are conciliatory signs in the air as Germany and Italy begin recognizing the new pontiff's vigor. This is especially marked in Italy, where even the mighty Premier Mussolini dares not flount open defiance of the Catholic church in a strongly Catholic counwearing rubbers when it rains, red flannel undies in the winter, and if you don't sleep in a draft, you probably take pretty good care of your health. But how about your safety?

The National Safety council reports that from the age of three years to 21, accidents kill more persons (both sexes) than any disease; from the age of three years to 40, accidents kill more males than any disease.

Among males of all ages only heart disease claims more victims than accidents-301.6 of every 100,000 males die of heart disease each year while accidents kill 119.6.
