THE CAPITAN NEWS The Gorilla in History

Gorillas have figured in the writings | of historians, or at least of some of them, for thousands of years according to Andrew Wilson, the naturalist. The ancients, however, were apparently unable to distinguish them from savages. "In the sixth century before Christ," says Mr. Wilson, "we find Hanno, the voyager of Carthage, telling of his encounter with what seem to have been man-like apes. He speaks of a bay called the 'Horn of the South.' This was probably situated near the Gabcon, on the African east coast. Here the chimpanzee is met with to-day, the gorilla being found, as a rule, farther inland. 'In the bay,' says Hanno in his 'Periplus,' 'was an island of great size, having a lake, and in this another island full of wild men. Much the greater part were women with hairy bodies, whom the interpreters called gorillas. We were unable to capture the men, who escaped by reason of their great agility. They climbed precipitous rocks and trees and defended themselves by throwing stones at us. We took three women, who bit and tore those who caught them and were unwilling to follow. We were obliged, therefore, to kill them, and took their skins off, which skins were brought to Carthage, and wood."

for we did not sail farther, provisions becoming scarce.'

"Thus far Hanno. There may be a doubt regarding the identity of the animals he saw, while the name 'gorilla' must not be regarded as necessarily applying to the real animal. Purchas, of the 'Pilgrimages,' records next the story of a native of Leigh, in Essex, Andrew Battell by name. Battell, it appears, was 'sent by the Portugals prisoner to Angola,' and 'lived there and in the adjoining regions neere eighteene yeers.' Purchas tells us 'of a kinde of Great Apes, if they might so bee termed, of the height of a man, but twice as bigge in feature of their limmes, with a strength proportionable, hairie all over, otherwise altogether like men and women in their whole bodily shape.'

"Battell discourses of their habits. They sleep in trees and build shelters against rain. They walk on their legs, but carry their hands clasped on the nape of the neck when on the ground. They are vegetarians, eating no flesh. They have no speech, and cannot keep up a fire they have found because they have no understanding to lay fresh wood thereon. When they die, according to Battell, the survivors cover the dead with heaps of boughs valued at $600,000,000. This would be nearly $40 for every family in the United States.

The corn crop is even greater. The value of the corn raised in a single year could pay the national debt, says the New York World, with interest for one year, and leave enough to help out President Roosevelt on governmental expenses so that there need be no deficit for four or five years.

The American hen lays enough eggs in one month to pay the interest on the national debt. The one and two-thirds billion of eggs laid in one year would reach 30,000 miles, or ten times across the continent, if placed side by side in a continuous line.

The automobile is all very well, but horses and mules are still worth a trifle of a billion and a third of dollars. That is an average of $65 worth of horseflesh for every family in the

The total products of the farm in nearly equal to the total capital stock of New York city.

The cotton crop of a single year is , of all American railroads before the "boom" of 1900.

> This sum is more than six times the capital stock of all the national banks. It is three times the gross earnings of all the railroads. It is nearly as great as the value of manufacture in 1900, less cost of raw material.

In two years the farmers have proall the gold mines of the world since Columbus discovered America.

In six years the deposits in all the banks of three farming states have increased as follows: Iowa, 164 per cent; Kansas, 219 per cent; Mississippi, 301 per cent.

Even rice, which few families make much use of, is grown to the extent of 650,000 pounds. Macaroni wheat is a novelty in this country, yet the year's crop of it would fill a bin 100 feet high and completely covering a city "long block."

The increase alone of farming capital in four years, aside from the appreciation in the value of the land. 1904 are $5,000,000,000. That is would build sixty subways like that

A dispatch from Redding, California, says that while shoveling gravel from a pit at Black Butte mountain, five miles above Sisson, Southern Pacific workmen have discovered a vast underground sea of ice that is believed to have been formed in prehistoric times. Some are of the opinion that the Black Butte mountain that now rears its peak skyward came into existence after the formation of the ice.

The Black Butte mountain is a great source of supply for ballast for the railroad company. The ice was discovered after a vast quantity of gravel had been removed from the mountain. The ice is said to be of a good grade and it is possible the company may utilize its find by developing it into an ice quarry. The ice appears to be almost one solid mass.

Peary Going North.

Lieutenant Robert E. Peary, who has commanded four expeditions in quest of the north pole, will make his next dash for the pole in July of next summer. This announcement was made duced wealth exceeding the output of at a dinner tendered to Commander Peary by William Berri at the Oxford Club, Brooklyn. Commander Peary is now having constructed a powerful steam vessel with auxiliary sail equipment and a bow of such strength and stability that Commander Peary says he can use her as a battering ram to smash his way through the huge ice floes.

> The vessel will have a complete wireless telegraph equipment and by means of several relays the great explorer expects to be placed in constant communication with New York.

HABIT'S CHAIN

Certain Habits Unconsciously Formed and Hard to Break.

An ingenious philosopher estimates that the amount of will power necessary to break a life-long habit would, if it could be transformed, lift a weight of many tons.

It sometimes requires a higher degree of heroism to break the chains of a pernicious habit than to lead a forlorn hope in a bloody battle. A lady writes from an Indiana town:

"From my earliest childhood I was a lover of coffee. Before I was out of my teens I was a miserable dyspeptic, suffering terribly at times with my stomach.

"I was convinced that it was coffee that was causing the trouble and yet I could not deny myself a cup for breakfast. At the age of 36 I was in very poor health, indeed. My sister told me I was in danger of becoming a coffee drunkard.

"But I never could give up drinking coffee for breakfast although it kept me constantly ill, until I tried Postum. I learned to make it properly according to directions, and now we can hardly do without Postum for breakfast, and care nothing at all for coffee.

"I am no longer troubled with dyspersia, do not have spells of suffering with my stomach that used to trouble me so when I drank coffee." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

We Call To-Morrow

There's a place we call Tc-morrowjust a step beyond the day;
You may see its spires and towers in the twilight's dim half-gloom.

'Tis the land beyond the sunrise, where the time is always May,
When the fragrant buds of promise are just bursting into bloom; Hope, the wanderer, finds haven there, and sorrow's hollow eyes

Seek to see beyond the starless night the twinkling lights that play From its towers that like beacons to the shadowed heavens rise, 'Tis a place we call To-morrow-just a step beyond the day.

There's a place we call To-morrow-just a step beyond the Now,
'Tis the summit of endeavor, lying further up the hill; 'Tis the place where Glory waits with garlands fashioned for thy brow; Where thy hopes find full fruition and thy longings all are still; 'Tis the 'biding place of dreams, and sun-set streaks its gorgeous skies

With an ebbing sheen of splendor; for the twilight, growing gray, Dulls the crimson glow of promise and the luster dims and dies For 'tis always over yonder-just a

There's a place we call To-morrow-and its clustered groves are fair With their dells and rills and flowers, and its echoes rich with song; Fame bides there, and Love and Riches, and the heart of Joy is rare

With a heavenly completeness, nor the way seems overlong; But the feet grow weary, weary, and the toiler's yearning eyes See its towers always rising o'er the hilltops; for the ray the setting sun with splendor streaks the arch of distant skies. But the place we call To-morrow lies a step beyond the day.

Though the days be cold and cheerless and the ways be thick with gloom, Yet we see its towers and spires rising grandly over there. Where the fragrant buds of promise are just bursting into bloom,

And the lights like flaming beacons gild the heavens with their glare; Hope, the wanderer, finds haven there, and sorrow's sigh is stilled,
And the brow of Toil is garlanded with roses of the May.

Like the rarest wine o'erflowing angels' sparkling laughter spilled In that place we call To-morrow—just a step beyond the day!

Death of Russian Spy

"It was about twilight of Sept. 29," says a Tokyo aper. "A Japanese soldier camped in the neighborhood of Yentai was cooking his supper when a man attired in a Chinese farmer's clothes and hat passed by. The soldier asked him to bring some fresh water. Instead of complying with the request the man took to flight. This conduct aroused the anger and suspicion of the Japanese soldier, who at once pursued the man. He caught up with him and, tearing off his hat, discovered that he was a Russian in disguise. He was a spy. The following day a court-martial sat to deliver judgment on the Russian soldier, whose name was Vasilli Liaboff. He was 33 years old and a private belonging to the 284th Chenbalsky regiment of the 71st division of the 5th army corps. He walked calmly into the court and bowed to the judges, his dignity and manliness commanding the respect of all present. Capt. Hamao, one of the associate judges, read the verdict, which stated that the accused was a spy and therefore was to be punished with death. When the full meaning of the sentence was explained to him by an interpreter he said, respectfully but clearly, that he was satisfied, and showed no sign of fear.

"It was drawing near sunset when he was executed in a neighboring valley. He was led into an inclosure by a gendarme. There was a small gathering of the judges, newspaper correspondents and others. The prisoner asked Capt. Hamao, who was in attendance, for permission to pray. The request was of course granted. When he had finished his prayers Capt. Hamao asked him if he was married and whether he had children. Both of the questions being answered in the affirmative, the captain told him that he was one of the bravest and most honorable soldiers of Russia. The interests and law of Japan, however, demanded his death. But the captain, in his private capacity, admired his bravery and deeply sympathized with him. If he had anything to leave or communicate to his people the captain would gladly undergo any trouble in order to fulfill his desires.

"These encouraging words caused tears to rise to the eyes of the brave Russian. He said he had no word to send to his people. The only thing he wanted to express was his gratitude to the captain and the only favor he would ask from him was permission to shake hands with him. This was done in the heartiest manner. A few minutes later Vasilli Liaboff was dead."

breaks forth in a mass of bloom, but the complete covering of delicate white blossoms disappears in a very few days. A period of four or five months must elapse before the next period. Then, as the bean is firmly attached to the branch and the region is not subject to heavy storms, the crops are not depleted by windfalls, the trees showing almost an complete a covering of fruit as of blossoms. The picking is done by a large force of peasants, each with basket slung over his shoulder, in a short time. The fruit is hauled in lumbering ox-carts of mediaeval pattern to the patios or drying yards. The latter are literally huge cement floors, which form admirable tennis courts when not being put to their legitimate use, and on a large plantation will cover several acres.

Here the berries are spread out in a layer a few inches deep, and then hoed up into rows, being continually turned, so as to present all fruit to the sun. By a new method the coffee is dried by a machine which resembles a huge

Russian Spy in Japan.

A Moscow dispatch says: V. F. Grazuesy, correspondent of the Russky Slava, has just arrived at San Francisco, after a long and hazardous trip through Japan, where he traveled as an American journalist under the name of Percy Palmer. He undertook the journey to ascertain the real situation of affairs in the enemy's country, taking the risk of discovery and execution as a spy.

He had a complete American outfit and arranged to have letters forwarded from various cities in the United States. He has telegraphed to the Russky Slava from San Francisco that he visited Yokohama, Tokio, Sasebo, Osaka, Kioto, Shiminseki, Nagasaki and Matsuma; photographed the Russian prison camp, examined the hospitals, fortress and troops and met and entertained high Japanese.

Grazuesky is bringing home a mass of interesting material which will make many interesting disclosures. He says his most dangerous moment was when he faced 3,000 Russian prisoners. If he had been recognized by one of them he would have received short shrift.

PLANS ODD FACTORY TOWM.

Ebenezer Howland Founds Garden City With House for Each Family.

An industrial town unlike any other in the world is about the rise near London. It is to be called Garden City, because every house will be surrounded by a Garden. Ebenezer Howard is the projector of this Utopia and he has, after many years, induced rich philanthropists to form a stock company and to furnish the large capital necessary to begin work.

There is to be one family to each house, flats and two-family houses being absolutely barred; the total population is not to exceed 30,000 and a maximum of one-sixth of the town area is to be given up to buildings. There are to be factories, but every window of these is to be a window garden. Meat is to be supplied direct from the surrounding farms; each famiy is to grow its own vegetables on its own land; cows to be pastured in the town and each house is to be hygienic and pretty. Garden City is to be governed by a board of managers and is to be managed strictly as a business enterprise. There is nothing socialistic about it and the residents will have little to say about the government of the place.

The projectors expect to scatter such Garden Cities all over England.

Gems Found in Maine.

The minerals of Maine are becoming of world-wide reputation. The great aqua-marine, found in Stoneham, and probably the most valuable gem ever found on the American continent, has recently been purchased as a valuable acquisition to the crown jewels of Germany. The German prince, while in this country, saw the gem at Chicago and admired it so much that the government has been negotiating for it ever since, and recently sent a man over to this country, who finally succeeded in closing the trade, taking the gem back to Germany with him. At the world's fair at Chicago the gem was valued at $30,000. It weighed 183 carats. One crystal taken at Paris, Me., this summer has been sold for $500.

Cremation of Dead Soldiers.

Military critics say that the Japanese have a great advantage over Christian nations in the matter of sanitation because of their method of disposing of the dead by cremation. After the great battles of the civil war in the United States the soldiers slept in graveyards and drank the water tainted with the seepage from the graves of the dead. During that war one man in sixty-five was killed in battle, one in fifty-six died of wounds and one in thirteen died of disease.

Carved Out a Kingdom

In new kilts and plaid and playing thirst and fatigue he found himself a pibroch of triumph on his pipes, John Farquharson Macrae, formerly of Scotland, but now of Tierra del Fuego, strode the gangway of a steamer in Liverpool the other day, bound once more for South America. During twenty-two years, spent for the most part among the hostile natives of the land's end of the Western continent, Macrae clung to his pipes as he clung to his Scottish accent. When he had no human companion to converse with his pibroch resounded over the waters of the Magellan strait.

As a youth he left his native heath for Argentina and reared cattle. After a few years he found himself in possession of 500 horses and a couple of thousand sheep.

These animals he marched 2,000 miles, with the aid of a compass and chart, to southern Patagonia. He watered and fed his flocks and herds with only five men to assist him, but at the end of a year of hunger and bagpipes that he rules.

in possession of a fine stretch of country over 80,000 acres in extent. After leasing this land for ten years he sought fresh territory and marched over into Tierre del Fuego.

He was the first Briton to penetrate into the country and the natives resented the intrusion. The tall Aonas and the stunted Yaghanas came in hordes, attacked his little castle and lay in wait for him with arrows.

An intrepid rider and an unerring shot, however, he would ride away concealed by the horse's body and shooting with deadly effect. For several years he carried his life in his hands, but at last the savages began to regard him with such respect and fear that they christened him "Sorto," the native equivalent for "the devil."

For some years the Scottish pioneer has been undisputed monarch of Tierra del Fuego, where he has amassed a fortune. It is with the

Jewelry of the World

London is the greatest mart in the world for all precious stones. Hither are brought from the mines of South Africa, from the ocean reefs of Ceylon, from the jungles of Burma, diamonds, pearls and rubies. The finest stones in the world are bought and sold in London.

Britain is very proud of its jewelry trade. "Whatever they may say in Paris," remarked C. E. Newbegin, managing director of the Goldsmiths and Silversmiths' Company, 112 Regent street, to an Express representative recently, "the fact remains that wealthy clients from all the world over come to London to buy jewelry.

"We are not insular in our ideas," continued Mr. Newbegin. "We go to Paris once or twice a year to study new designs, and sometimes we discover something original. But, as a rule, the jewelry of France is unsuit- Daily Express.

ed to the wearers of Britain. It is too flamboyant in style. There is an extravagant female clientele over there, delighting in the most expensive and obtrusive gems, which has no existence on this side of the channel."

Mr. Newbegin gave it as his opinion that the stocks in the great jewelry shops of Regent street and Bond street amounted in value to close on £5,000,000. Single stones costing from £2,000 to £7,000 are by no means uncommon.

This great wealth, while it rests in British hands, finds work for British labor. The foreign jeweler opens only one or two rooms in London. All his work is done abroad. He imports his manufactured jewelry free of duty, sells it at a high profit, and the money goes back to his native land without the payment of any income tax to the British exchequer.-London

Animal Trainer in Luck

Street lawyer, W. H. Norledge, walked into Bostock's Hippodrome, in the Boulevard de Clichy, and asked the great lion trainer if he had in his employ an Englishman named Caldwell. "Yes," said Mr. Bostock, and he sent for the man, an alert, wellset-up, well-educated Britisher, who, before talking to elephant training, had served as a cavalry officer with Kitchener in the Soudan and was with "Bobs" in the Transvaal. After he had assured himself of the Englishman's identity the lawyer said: "I have to inform you that your grandmother is dead." "Poor old soul," said Mr. Caldwell. "I'm sorry. I would rather it had been my grandfather. He's had a lot of money for years that I ought to have had." "But he's dead, too," said Mr. Norledge. "Then I'm glad to hear it," was the Globe.

Yesterday a well-known Wall prompt response. "And you are the only heir," continued the lawyer. "I'm glad to hear that, ioo," said Mr. Caldwell, "and you can fulfill all the necessary formalities as soon as you care to." The amount of the fortune to which Mr. Caldwell has just succeeded is about £50,000. But it seems to have made no difference to him. He has been training Mr. Bostock's elephants for the last three years, and he says he has no intention of changing his mode of life. He likes his profession, risky though it is, too well to leave it, and although he has more than once been badly mauled by a vicious-tempered brute, he delights in maintaining his mastery over the animals, which have fascinated him ever since he went tiger shooting in India.-The London

The letter of Miss Merkley, whose picture is printed above, proves beyond question that thousands of cases of inflammation of the ovaries and womb are annually cured by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM: - Gradual loss of strength and nerve force told me something was radically wrong with me. I had severe shooting pains through the pelvic organs, cramps and extreme irritation compelled me to seek medical advice. The doctor said that I had ovarian trouble and ulceration, and advised an operation. I strongly objected to this and decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I soon found that my judgment was correct, and that all the good things said about this medicine were true, and day by day I felt less pain and increased appetite. The ulceration soon healed, and the other complications disappeared, and in eleven weeks I was once more strong and vigorous and perfectly well. "My heartiest thanks are sent to
