Three Trains on a Pennsylvania Railroad Crash into Each Other.

PITTSBURG, June 26 .- A triple collision of freight trains occurred near Latrobe, on the Pennsylvania railroad, this morning, in which thirty cars were wreck ed. At the hour named a freight train west bound, left Latrobe and had just reached the bridge, fifty yards west, when it collided with an extra freight train coming in the opposite direction. Another east bound freight train was standing on a side track on the bridge, and the wrecked trains crashed against it, causing one locomotive and a number of cars to go over the embankment into the creek, a distance of fifty feet. A car load of lime in the center of the train was the last to go down, and the lime was scattered over the pile of shattered cars. Then the debris took fire and is still burning. Arms and legs of the victims can be seen protruding from the debris. No member of the crew remains to tell of those who went down.

The debris of the wreck is being rapidly cleared away. At 8 o'clock to-night ten dead bodies had been recovered. Those of Engineer Caldwell and George Franch, the fireman, have not yet been found, but it is expected will be reached before long. A dozen men were more or less injured. several of whom it is thought will not recover. It is almost certain that from 25 to 30 people were killed in the wreck. Death of Simon Cameron.

LANCASTER, Pa., June 26.—General Simon Cameron died at 8 o'clock this evening. The General's condition during the day was rather encouraging, and death came suddenly during a weak spell. Up to the last attack he was conscious, and had no trouble to swallow the food given him and which he appeared to assimilate. Around the death bed were ex-Attorney General MacVeagh and wife, Mrs. Haldeman, Mrs. Cameron, Simon D. Cameron and wife and Mrs. David Watts, granddaughter. The funeral will be held at Harrisburg.

Simon Cameron was born in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, in 1799, and was left an orphan when 9 years of age. While pursuing the employment of a printer at Harrisburg and Washington, he educated himself, and at the age of 22 conducted a paper at Harrisburg. He was elected United States Senator in 1845 and was reelected in 1857, resigning his position in 1861, and became Secretary of War under President Lincoln. In 1862 he was appointed minister to Russia. He was sent to the Senate for the fourth time in 1873, but resigned in favor of his son, J. Donald Cameron. During his active public life he was a power in politics, practically dictating the policy of the Republican party in his native State and wielding a strong influence over its national policy.

The Latest Developments in the Cronin Murder Case.

CHICAGO, June 24.—To-night the sensation in the Cronin case is a circumstantial report that the authorities have information showing that a committee of a camp of the Clan-na-Gael, after a formal trial, found Cronin guilty of being a British spy. The charge was that Cronin under the guise of endeavoring to expose the alleged malfeasance of Alexander Sullivan, Michael Boland and Dennis Feeley, was in reality attempting to bring about a public investigation of the work and accounts of the order for the information of the British Government and the London Times commission. It was shown that the exposure of the workings of the order which would be necessary in order to refute Cronin's charges would furnish to the London Times all the information which it had despaired of obtaining by the appoint. ment of a government sub-commission in America. Cronin's manœuvers, it was also pointed out, whatever his motives, could hardly help but insure the extradition of every man who had gone across the water on "active service." Chief Hubbard aud State's Attorney Longnecker neither explicitly affirm nor deny the reports.

The story is that two trials of Cronin were held. The first was in January, but when it came to rendering a decision upon the evidence one man weakened. The trial committee was dissolved, but subse. quently reorganized in secret, the place of the man who weakened being filled by another man. The man who retired from the first meeting became aware of the reorganization since Cronin's disappearane, so it is claimed, and has been the source from which information has come to the authorities. The trial committee consisted of seven persons, each of whom, it is said is now under surveillance. They did not sentence any one to death or have any with luring Cronin from his office, or with the scenes in the Carlson cottage. All that, it is claimed, was the outgrowth of proof showed Cronin to be a spy.

State's Attorney Longnecker went before Judge Shepard this afternoon and obtained an order whereby Postmaster Sexton, of Chicago, is directed by the court toproduce before the grand jury all applications for post-office money-order books, or applications for registered letters, or any other information that may be required by the jury in relation to the investigation of the parties who killed Dr. Cronin.

A Daring Bank Robbery, Special to Denver Republican.

OURAY, Colo., June 24 .- The San Miguel Valley Bank, of Tulluride, was robbed of the available cash on hand this away with their booty. The robbery was committed in broad daylight, and for daring is unsurpassed in the history of this part of the country.

About ten o'clock this morning, while the cashier, C. F. Painter, was out making collections, three men entered the bank, and, covering the bookkeeper with their revolvers, demanded that he hand over to them the cash of the concern. The bookkeeper was alone and unarmed, and was compelled to comply.

Having secured the money the three joined their companion, who was holding their horses in front of the building.

All quickly mounted and left the town on the run, firing their revolvers in the air as they went. No one interfered with them and all four escaped without difficulty.

The robbers are described as looking like plainsmen or cowboys, and evidently knew the bank and the habits of its officials as their raid was well timed. The exact amount secured is not absolutely known here, but if the hold-ups succeed in evading capture they will each have a comfortable little fortune. The news of the daring deed and description of the perpetrators has been sent in every direction, and the whole neighboring country is on the alert. It is thought that the chances are favorathe capture of the robbers soon.

Affairs at Johnstown.

JOHNSTOWN, June 22 .- Seventy-four of the portable houses from Chicago were assigned to the same number of the most destitute families here to-day.

The county treasurer has notices posted to-day stating that he would be here July 3 for the purpose of collecting taxes. But little of the property assessed can be found, and all the taxpayers left here feel outraged at the posting of the notices, many of which have been torn down and destroyed.

R. L. Johnston, judge of Cambria County, to-day issued an order closing all saloons and liquor places in Johnstown and surrounding boroughs and townships, until otherwise ordered. Unless the order is strictly obeyed, the court says, the licenses of the violators will be revoked.

JOHNSTOWN, June 23 .- Colonel Spangler in charge of the commissary department, to-day presented his weekly report to Adjutant General Hastings. The report shows that 25,000 people are still being daily fed here by the State, a reduction in number of 3,500 during the week. Colonel Spangler recommends that the relief money be turned over to the citizens and that necessary supplies be purchased from the sixteen general stores and three bakeries now running here. The report suggests that onethird of the present commissary be abolished on Wednesday next.

The town clerk of Cambria borough has just completed a list showing that in that place alone 325 houses have been entirely swept away and not even a trace of them can be found.

The bodies of two women, a child and a Chinaman were found to-day.

A STARVING POPULATION.

The Pitiable Condition of People in Illinois Mining Towns:

CHICAGO, June 22 .- A Local paper publishes the results of a tour of investigation into the condition of the mining people in the coal mining town s of Braidwood and Streator, Ill. 1t says: "The condition of Braidwood is one to call forth the commiseration and immediate practi cal help of the people of the United States. The normal population of the town is about 5,000, all directly dependent upon the coal mining industry for their daily bread. At this time not one ounce of coal is being mined and the inhabitants are at the point of starvation. Men, women and children alike share in the blight which has overcast this section. The causes of the stagnation are too-continued depression in the local industries here, the calamitous strike or lock-out which has placed 1,500 bread-winners beyond the possibility of utilizing their labor. The reporters found that most of the single men and some of the married men had left town. In scores of cases he discovered many families with six, eight or ten children without a morsel of food in the house. Some who have gardens are living on potatoes and lettuce. Many have not tasted meat this year. Food supplies in small amounts have been sent, but they are totally inadequate to the necessities of the case."

The article says there is pressing and mmediate necessity for relief for these poor people. Not less than 3,000 women and children are in absolute want of food. and relief cannot be too quickly sent to them. At Streator about 2,500 miners have been idle for seven weeks, resisting the proposed reduction of 20 cents per ton for mining. About 800 applications for knowledge, much less have anything to do relief have been received. The relief committee states that many families are living on bread and water, and there are about 300 applications for help which they the verdict, which was simply that the have failed thus far to relieve on account of lack of funds.

DISASTROUS FLAMES:

A FireWorks House Burned -- Six Lives Lost.

Boston, June 21 .- A disastrons fire accompanied by serious loss of life, occurred this evening in the fireworks establishment of Hever Bros. Three dead bodies have been taken from the ruins, and three others received injuries which will probably result fatally. Shortly after 5 o'clock, while a salesman was waiting on a customer upon the second floor, he saw a morning, by four armed men, who rode | flash among some fireworks behind one of the counters. He ran for water, mean time giving an alarm. The flames spread with almost incredible rapidity, cutting off the escape of several of the men on the upper floors, and in five minutes a dense smoke and the almost incessant discharge of fireworks of different kinds made in the building a perfect pandemonium for those within its walls.

Albert Gage, aged 22, who was employed in the third story, hung from a window until he was obliged to release his hold and then fell to the ground, breaking his back. He will probably die. Charles F Callahan and Thomas Paine, who were working on the fourth floor, jumped from the window in their fright. Paine was killed while Callahan's injuries are fatal William Brenenstuhl, on the second floor, lost his way and rolled down stair and was picked up fatally injured. Samuel Cord was taken out dead. Another body, that of a boy, has not yet been identified. This completes casualities so far as known at present. A large proportion of the $100,000 stock is ruined but is well insured.

LATER.-Investigation places the num per of fatalities at five. One other is prob ably fatally injured and two boys are miss-

A Son of Chairman Brice in Trouble. CHICAGO, Ill., June 20 .- Stuart M.

Brice, son of Chairman Brice, of the National Democratic Committee, has been expelled from the Phillips-Exeter College. About six weeks ago young Brice left Exeter for Cambridge, where he studied with a private tutor in order to enter Harvard this fall. During this time he has frequently returned to Exeter on Sundays and holidays, and as he always had plenty of cash and spends it lavishly, his visits have been somewhat demoralizing to the students at Exeter.

He was notified by the faculty that his visits must cease as they were detrimental to the working interests of the students Brice remained away until last Saturday when a great ball game between the And. over and the Exeter nines tempted him to the occasion. During the evening he rode on the highest seat of a tally-ho coach filled with rolicking students and visited the residences of the faculty cheering vociferously.

Brice had always been a general favorite with the faculty as well as students, and it was generally believed his disobedience would be overlooked. But Monday morning he was expelled and his diploma withheld. Of course the class of '89 sympathize with him and as he was not permitted to read the class history as programmed the students met in the lower hall after the exercises, where he read it amid great enthusiasm and applause.

The class of '89 elected Brice president and voted to meet in Exeter during commencement week in 1891.

DEATH OF MRS. HAYES. The Close of a Nuble Career --- Brief

History of Her Life. FREMONT, Ohio, June 25 .- Mrs.

Hayes died at 6:30 o'clock this morning. The funeral will take place on Friday. Mrs. Hayes' maiden name was Lucy

Ware Webb. She was born August 28, 1831, at Chillicothe, Ohio. She was the youngest child and only daughter of Dr. James Webb and Maria Cook. Her grandfather, Judge Isaac Cook, came from Connecticut in 1781, and all four of her great grandfathers served in the revolutionary war. Her father served in the war of Mrs. Hayes was married on December 30, 1852. At the breaking out of the rebellion her husband entered the army, and from that time until the close of the war her home was the refuge for wounded, sick and forloughed soldiers while they were going to or returning from the front. She spent two winters in camp with her husband in Virginia, and after the battle at South Mountain, where he was badly wounded, she hastened and joined him at Middleton, Md., and later spent much time n the hospital near Frederick City.

White House she was distinguished by the cordiality with which she received all who | tice.' came. Since the retirement of her husband from public life she has been an ardent's interested member of the Weman's Relief Corps, and has served during succer, sive years as president of the Woman's Home Missionary Society, of the Methoflist Episcopal Church.

Mrs. Hayes passed a quiet night, sinking gradually until the hour of her death. At her bedside were the members of her family, together with Mrs. Mitchell, a cousin of General Hayes, Mrs. Huntington, a cousin of Mrs. Hayes, Lucy Keeler, Mrs. A. H. Miller, and the physician.

All night long the sorrowing family watched around her bedside. Mrs. Hayes lay motionless and but for her faint breathing and the weak fluttering of her pulse there were no signs of life. noon at 2 o'clock, from the residence in Spiegel Grove. Complete arrangements have not yet been made. President Mc-Cabe, of Delaware University, will be the officiated at their marriage and also at their silver wedding anniversary.

WASHINGTON, June 25 .- The death of Mrs. Hayes was received with a feeling of genuine sorrow and regret by the olde employes of the White House, to which she was endeared by fond recollections of her kindness to them while she was mistress of the White House. One of the older door-keepers, in speaking of her, said: "Mrs. Hayes was a good, kind woman if ever there was one; everyone about the White House liked and loved her, She seemed to take notice of those about her and she would often stop to make inquiries about how we were getting along. 1 shall always remember Mrs. Hayes' last reception. I never saw such crowds. Women pressed in and would hardly move when they passed through the lines, pleading for only one more look. We had to close the doors when there was lots of peo ple outside, and many went home disap. pointed because they could not see her.

A Sad Suicide.

TRINIDAD, Colo., June 25 .- Yesterday the little village of Hoehne, ten miles northeast of Trinidad, was thrown into the wildest excitement over the sorrowful ending of the life of one of its fairest young ladies, Miss Tennie Richardson

The Richardson family is widely known and highly respected, and Miss Tennie was especially popular for her amiable disposition. She was ambitious withal and had been a zealous student, intending to become a teacher. Her health began to fail some two years ago. A disease which defied medical treatment seized her. Her life had grown to be one of almost continual weariness. She was a good Christian lady and was loved and cherished by her many friends and acquaintances.

Miss Richardson left the family residence vesterday and went to a house near by. She entered and closed the door. This was at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. In a short time some of the members of the family heard a quick, sharp report of something like a board falling, and paid but little attention to it.

Half an hour later Miss Tennie had not returned, and the family went to the room she had entered. The door was fastened on the inside and an entrance could not be return and he became the leading spirit of effected. Through a window the body of Miss Tennie was seen in a half sitting posture, leaning against a chair, a great pool of blood being around her. It is needless to say that the family was horrified and almost distracted upon seeing such a sight.

Neighbors were summoned and further investigation developed the fact that she had taken her own life by shooting herself through the head with a rifle. The wound produced by the bullet was a ghastly one, and death must have been instantaneous.

The bullet entered the forehead and came out at the crown. One eye protruded from its socket and blood issued from the wound in great quantities.

The funeral of the departed young lady was conducted this afternoon at 4 o'clock by Rev. Blackwood. The remains were interred in Ho chne cemetery.

DRFENDING EGAN.

The Governor of Nebraska Makes an Eloquent Appeal for Justice.

LINCOLN, Neb., June 21.-Governor Thayer upon receiving a request from the British-American Association of Boston that he assist in securing the recall of Minister Egan from Chili, wrote a letter reproving that organization sharply for attempting to blacken the name of Mr. Egan. The Governor defends the Minister warmly and is very bitter in his denunciation of the course of that association.

The letter is addressed to John Low, secretary of the British-American Association of Boston. Governor Thayer acknowledges the request of their communication and quotes portions of their protest in which Mr. Egan and the administration are scored vigorously. Among other things the protest says that "the appointment is insulting to the national dignity and ability of sixty millions of people comprising this great Republic, for it virtually proclaims to the world that of all its sons to the manor born, and otherwise there was not to be found one so well qualified to represent this greatest American Nation During the four years of her life at the in a progressive state of civilization as this fugitive from the power of British jus-

He has always proven himself an upright, He has always proven himself an upright, honorable man, a good citizen in every respect. You can no more tarnish his reputation with your vile slanders than the foul bird of night can assail the eagle. To vent your rage and your venom at Mr. Egan's appointment you have seized the weapons of a defeated, despised and unprincipled slanderer; yea, of a vile London fish-wife, and you call him by opprobrious names, which act always furnishes evidence that the party using them is completely worsted Alleged Frauds in the Importation of Mexican Lead Ores.

WASHINGTON, D., C., June 23 .- Secretary Windom has determined to settle as soon as possible all the important tariff questions which have been raised since his incumbency.

The principal questions considered to-day related to the classification of lead ores containing silver, the drawback on jute bagging and the classification of Canadian built cars used on American railroads. In regard to the former question it is learned that the department has received reports from the special agents sent to the Mexican border for the purpose of investigating the subject of importing lead ores from Mexico, that extensive frauds have been practiced and the payment of a proper amount of duties on this commodity has been systematically evaded. These reports will have great weight in the settlement of the question at issue, and it is believed that the department will hold that the dutiable value of imported ores containing lead and silver must be determined by the relative weight of the two metals, instead of by their relative value, as under the present practice.

A Cowboy's Recollections of the Innocent-Looking Desperado.

"A feller was askin' this mornin' if I ever met Billy the Kid. Well, I should snicker! I was down that way when the Kid was killed by Pat Garrett, an' know all about it; an' I know, too, that Pat didn't give him a fair show for his life. Of course he'd been a fool if he had, 'cause Billy handled the shootin' irons better than any man in New Mexico. The Kid was, 'an no mistake, a had been cut on the Pecos three weeks holy terror. He was as smooth an' pleasant a lookin' a little fellow as you would wish to 'sociate with, but he was like a snake shinin' in the sun, so slick an' shinin', but death was in his touch. He was slim, and light haired, and blueeyed, an' his upper teeth stuck out in front an' made him look more innocent than ever. He was a pleasant kind o' feller until he got mad, an' then the dust used to fly just a trifle. I seen Billy kill two men at White Oaks, an' he did the job up clean. They never kicked.

"I was in Santa Fe when Bob Ollinger and Jim Bell brought Bill in after he'd bin arrested. He nearly dug out 'o jail there, but they were too slick for him, an' they tuk him for trail to Mesilla. The principal witness agin him was a feller as owed him an old grudge, an' so Billy got it hot. The necktie party was to be held at Lincoln, an' when Bob-Ollinger an' Jim Bell tuk him there they put him in an upstairs room next where the deputies kep' their guns an' things. They knew Billy was smart an' always one 'o them kep' in the room with him.

"The mornin' after they got to Lincoln Billy asked the deputies for old times' salse to loose one of the bracelets he had on, an' as Bob, an' Jim, thought they couldn't refuse a request like that, so they loosened one bracelet an' left it danglin'

"At dinner time Bob said he was goin' over the way to get something to eat, an' Jim, he was left with Billy. The Kid was dragin' his leg irons after him as he walked about, and Jim Bell was readin', but lifted his eyes every time the Kid come close to him. All the same, Billy got his work in in great shape, for he watched his chance an' buried the loose handcuff in the skull of the deputy. To make no mistake he pulled Jim's gun from his boot an' started pumpin' lead into him at a great rate. At the first shot Bob Ollinger got up from the table where he was eatin' and said: 'My God! there's Billy tryin' to git and Jim's shot him!' He rushed out and across the street an' was just skippin' up the stairs when he seed Billy standin' at the top p'intin' a Winchester at him. Next minit Bob dropped, done up in real good style, with a bullet through his head. Billy never did no bunglin' work, it was always done slick an' neat. "O' course, a big crowd got around, but they wasn't all agin Billy. An' when he got the drop on a feller, an' told him to come up an' file his irons off, why, he did it. When he got free he rode out o' Lincoln, an' nary a man darst try to stop him. Pat Garrett wasn't there then, but when he heard didn't he cuss? Parties made out to ketch Billy, but he got down to the Panhandle, an' after things had toned down he come up into New Mexico agin. Billy had been goin' it purty strong in Lincoln county, and no mistake. In the tusslin' back an' forrard his gang got purty well cleaned out, an' Garrett swore he'd git even

"Billy had taken a fancy to the pretty daughter o' a small ranchman, an' she was sort o' fascinated with him; but the old man wasn't pleased. He knowed Billy'd jest take her away with him when he went, an' if the old man kicked he'd get killed, that's all. Billy wasn't perticular; he'd just as soon kill one man as another. The old man was in a bad fix, when as luck would have it, Pat Garrett he come along and said he was lookin' fe Billy. Now, Billy was keepin' shady at young Maxwell's place, an' the old man put Pat on his trail. Pat got there all right, an' seein' no one around, he went inside an' found Maxwell in bed. He denied that Billy was aroun', but when Pat got the drop on him an' swore he'd shoot him if he didn't talk straight, he confessed that Billy had just gone to the outhouse to get some steak for cookin'. Pat had just time to drop behind the bed, where young Maxwell was lyin', when in come Billy with his knife in one hand and his gun in the other. The Kid was 'spicious, however, as if he'd smelled somethin' was wrong. Comin' from the blindin' sun into 'dobe house he couldn't see well, but when he entered, he asked, 'Quion sabe?' He was jest sayin' the words when Pat put two bullets into him before anybody could wink twice. He hated Pat like pisen, an' if he'd had any idea that Pat was armed you bet he'd never taken chances, for he was like an Indian, an' jest as treacherous. He'd play up to a man an' make him think he was his friend. He was a mighty queer lad; whenever he got his fingers near a gun there was bound to be a dead man not far away. Why, he could jest make a pistol talk, an' when he was around all the boys sung low. I did't pine much when I heard he was killed, fact is, I thought Billy had somethin' agin' me, an' I was lookin' out sharp that he didn't plug a hole in me.

Whatever may be said of Arizona people, it is evident that when they come to make wedding presents they have their eye on the practical every time. At a recent wedding there the bride received, among other things, a furnished house, a mule, a heifer, a barrel of beer, a cask of wine, some whiskey and a corkscrew. Such thoughtfulness!

IRRIGATION INQUIRIES.

Some Further Facts of General Interest to Southwest Readers.

The Pecos Interesting the People.

The Chicago Economist deserves a vote of thanks from the people of the southwest for the interest it is taking in the subject of irrigation and the reclamation of western lands. In its issue of June 22d it has the following by Mr. Chas. W. Green:

An article published in your paper last month in reference to irrigation has called forth a number of interesting inquires from parties who are becoming interested in the subject.

One correspondent after studying the article in connection with the proposition of the Pecos Irrigation & Investment company, where the water right is established at $15 per acre, payable onetenth cash and the balance in nine annual payments, with interest at 8 per cent. on deferred payments, with an an-nual rental of $1.25 per acre for cultivated lands, and 50 cents per acre for uncultivated lands, figured that the farmer would be compelled to pay nearly $4 a year for the first nine years, and he could not comprehend how such a charge could be paid in cash. If they could not the interest on its bonds?

It should be understood that all of the payment for the water right in per-petuity is in fact so much paid for the land. The government price is only $1.25 per acre, but the land without water is not worth owning. The water right attaches to the land and becomes a part of the realty, so that the payment on that account is in no sense a part of the rent. Even though it should all be considered as rental the charge is in no sense exorbitant or difficult to pay. The correspondent was accustomed to New England farming, and at the time he wrote the grass was just beginning to grow there. If the farmer should secure a ton of hay to the acre, from a single crop, for the year it would be above an average crop. It might possibly be worth, if near a town or villiage, $15 a ton on the farm. The first crop of hay, as much as a ton and a half to the acre, before that time and the second was about half grown; four such crops will be cut before October 1, and then for two months the same ground will furnish pasturage for two grown steers per acre until the middle of December, and in some years all the winter through. Hay is worth $10 a ton at the stack down there, so that the four crops are worth at the least $50 and the pasturage $5 per

Wheat was just coming in blossom in the north when it was ready for the harvest on the Pecos. In the latter the yield was at least twice as much per acre and at prices equally high. The cost of cultivation was no greater aside from irrigating; the net profit was almost double. and no risk of crop failure. The ground was already down there for planting another crop, and the farmer controls his own water supply, or his "season."

In brief, the Pecos farmer has already earned three times the amount of rent, clear of all expense, before the northern farmer's crop has begun to grow.

localities in the same latitude through southern New Mexico, Arizona and ment of these enormous sums and the southern California. It is because of right of water consumers are protected these advantages that investments in irrigating enterprises down there are proving so uniformly remunerative.

There are certain advantages which irrigation enterprises, as a class, have over all others.

First, the potent fact that water is the absolute necessity; the land is valueless without it. It is the key to the situation in the fullest sense. To secure it the land owner is willing to make liberal concessions and can afford to. If when a railroad is about to be built and the people along the line are willing to assent to any sort of charges or pay any bonus that is asked of them; the com-pany should fix the rate of charge at a profitable point, and could get a contract which can be enforced for all time to come, and could have the payment of those charges secured by a mortgage on all the land along the line, it would be in practically the same situation that an irrigation company is. Its bonds would certainly be on a better footing than under the present conditions.

Second, in almost every other class of enterprises there is constant depreciation of the plant; rails wear out, machinery runs down, buildings need re-An irrigation plant is constantly growing better. As its banks get settled, and the bottom becomes cemented by sediment, and the ground becomes saturated by sub-irrigation so that it needs less water applied to the surface, as the trees, vines and grasses get a deeper root, the canal becomes of the greater capac-It will easily irrigate twice as much land the fifth as it will the second year. At the same time the cost of maintenance is decreasing in an inverse ratio. It will hardly cost half as much the fifth year as the second. Third, the collection is as certain as possible and is more easily enforced than the collection of gas and water charges in the city. Every acre once contracted becomes a perpetual rent payer. The deed carries with it a contract signed by the land owner securing the payment in perpetuity. The water rates are a first lien against the land. Under these conditions is it any won der that the correspondent before alluded to added, "I must admit that in all my investigations I have not been able to hear of an irrigating company that has failed." Can that be said of any other class of investments?—Santa Fe New Mexican.

Our Commissioners Get it Again.

J. T. Lard, of Upper Penasco, was in Las Cruces last Wednesday and made this office a pleasant call. It would seem that notwithstanding the action of the board of commissioners of both Dona Ana and Lincoln counties, the old misunderstanding about the boundry line is not yet settled. The Lincoln county authorities having assessed and are now advertising Mr. Lard's property for sale for taxes. While here Mr. Lard paid his taxes to our sheriff and carried his receipt home with him and will show it to the Lincoln officials when they next invade our county. It is about time this foolishness on the part of the Lincoln county people should be stopped.—Mesillia Valley Democrat.

Beware! Their Fooling Thee.

H. W. Gunn and J. M. Woods, promi nent stockmen from Kansas, are here on a still hunt for bargains in cattle. They are pleased with New Mexico and say that this is the finest natural cattle country they have ever seen.—Optic.

H. W. Gunn and J. W. Woods are well known in Roswell, but not as stockmen from Kansas, but doubtful characters who have made Roswell their headquar ers for some time past, and a short time ago left on the quiet.

About six months ago H. W. Gunn ame here from White Oaks, where he had been for some time gambling and drinking, a business he kept up after his arrival in Roswell until he became a busted community," when he attempted to take his life at Mr. Davidson's hotel. Dr. Skipwith by his timely aid alone prevented it, for which kindly service the Dr. is still unpaid. He then went down on the ditch and worked for awhile, behaving himself pretty well until the man Woods came to Roswell; he claimed to the editor of the REGISTER to be a native of Michigan, and that he had recently left that state to locate in the Pecos valley. He was recognized by a pay in cash how could the company meet | party here, who use to know him in Indiana as a worthless, good for nothing boy, a cooper by trade, and whose name is George Peak. The two were inseperable from the time he came to the city, and they left together very mysterously.

About three weeks ago a well dressed and gentlemanly looking fellow came here who announced himself as D. W. Gunn, a horse trader and owner of a prominent ranch near Medicine Lodge, Kansas. The three entered into a trade with Tony Turner, of Tar Lake, for a large number of horses. Mr. Turner was warned by a friend, of the mens character, and the result was that when he had the horses gathered and ready for delivery, he told Mr. Gunn he could have them for cash or the best security in the country, and no other way. Gunn said all right. He then went to Jaffa, Prager & Co. and asked Mr. Prager to cash a check for $2,5000; Mr. P. of course refused, but told him he would send it to the bank and collect it for him. All right, said Gunn, but the next morning the trio were out of the country.

Mr. C. C. Perry upon investigating the parties, discovered Gunn to be not himself at all, but Guy Wilcox, a prominent confidence man of Medicine Lodge, Kansas, and formerly a mail contractor in Colorado. They are confidence men, and we advise our Las Vegas friends to beware of them.

Irrigation in the West.

Some idea of the prominence irrigation is assuming in the arid districts of the west can be obtained from the fact If he has a few acres in orchard or that already twenty millions of dollars vineyard, each acre will pay his rent and have been expended in the building of annual payments on twenty-five acres of the farm. These remarks apply to other right of water consumers are protected by proper legislation there, and at the last session of the state legislature an irrigation committee was created by law, whose duty it is to report upon the entire irrigation question to the next legislature, with suggestions as to improvements in the present laws regarding this matter. We understand that one of the commissioners leaves for Europe early in July, and will make a thorough research into the foreign laws and customs regulating this important matter. That farming by irrigation pays seems to be clearly demonstrated from the fact that these Colorado farmers are obtaining a net revenue from their potato and alfalfa lands of from $10 to $40 per agre per year, and the same lands which a few years ago was purchased from the government at $1.25 per acre returns now an annual revenue of 10 per cent. on valuations from $100 to $400 an acre. The general government has recently taken an interest in this important matter by appropriating some $250,000 for surveys in the west to locate storage reservoirs, etc. If it be possible to hold these large bodies of water in storage reservoirs at flood time and apply them later to beneficial use in the cultivation of the soil, instead of allowing them to overflow the streams further down, great good will be accomplished in two directions. A recent feature in irrigation in Colorado is the introduction of the steam vacuum ises to open up a very wide field for the pumps for elevating water upon the land from running streams, reservoirs or wells. We understand this machinery is a decided success, and if so, this promfarming industry, upon lands which could never be reached by diverting the water from the natural streams, on the ground. The world moves.-Citizen.

In order to gather data I will re-Pecos valley last week. He is traveling quest every brother Knight to hand his name to the editor of the REGISTER during the coming week, so we may know how many there are among us.

-A protracted meeting was begun by the M. E. church last Sunday night. Services will be held every night at 8:30 o'clock, as long as it is thought best by the pastor. Quarterly meeting was held last Sunday morning, and Rev. Gibbons was assisted by Rev. Monk, a veteran completing of the ditch being made by itinerant in the church. Rev. Monk will assist throughout the meetings.

-Bob Burns, of the new firm of Smith & Burns, was riding a horse over the while on the bridge, which was wet and muddy, he attempted to turn around -Mr. Winfrey, a ranchman from the sharply, when the horse slipped and fell Plains, was in Roswell Sunday. He came | throwing Mr. Burns off and fracturing is not considered a serious fracture. Dr. Graham set the leg.

-We are, by the courtesy of Secretary C. B. Hawley, in receipt of a complimentary to the Ninth Annual New Mexico Exposition, which opens at Albuquerque Sept. 30th and closes October 4th, and promises to be a first-class fair. We are certain the management will do everything possible to make it pleasant

-We regret to announce that Captain Overton is compelled to leave the Fort on a sick leave; he is troubled by a serious affection of the heart. The Captain has been at Fort Stanton so long and has taken such an active part in the interest of the county that he has become an important citizen. We hope however for his speedy return to his post of duty his preset affliction.

-Dr. V. E. Hestwood, Jas. Brannen and Mr. McCluer, of Raton, are taking a Dr. and McCluer came to New Mexico shop of Jaffa, Prager & Co. several years ago for their health, both being consumptives, here however they enjoy comparatively good health. The Picnic.

The glorious Fourth was, in a climatic way, indeed glorious in the Pecos valley. The day was bright and beautiful, not too warm, and with the recent rains the ground moist and the air free from dust, our citizens took advantage of the fine weather to spend the day under the great trees out at Poe's lane enjoying the picnic. Everybody seemed to be in a cheerful mood, and the ladies having prepared plenty of good things to eat everything went merry as a marriage bell. The crowd was limited to the number of people in the country, for every body seemed to be there. This is a frontier town and country, and where it is considered away behind all kind of civ- the establishment of this route; of course ilization by our eastern cousins and our uncles and our aunts, but we think there never was a more innocent and happy gathering than under those trees and on the huge dancing platform, not a harsh word, not a rude action from a soul the whole day. It was indeed an enjoyable sight to see so many strangers together House are becoming more and more at- who could enjoy themselves like a family. The program as previously announced did not materialize, but no one cared for that, they were in too good a humor to kick about anything, and all good naturedly forgave the managers the loss of the spread-eagle oritory promised. After dinner, however, Judge Lea mounted the stand and in a few happy remarks called attention to the fact that framed and signed by our fore-fathers and that it was proper and fitting that and going up the Pecos to Lloyds crossthis time, it was proper to keep it in our memory, it was proper to educate our children to honor it as our fore-fathers had honored and died for it, and as we have through our whole lives honored it as a legacy of gracious gift. He then introduced Mr. M. Howell, who read in an impressive manner, to an audience who listened as if hungry to hear, the

After that there was dancing, prominading, lunching, talking, laughing, and and the best gentleman waltzer on the active man, and his visitwill do us good floor. Messrs. J. P. White, C. C. Foun--Mr. C. L. Ware, with the general as judges. Mrs. Walter Booth, a gracemerchandise firm of Wm. Martin, of Am- ful and gracious lady of our town, captured the prize. Mr. J. B. Trotter, who part of last week and the fore part of has by us been considered heretofore a who filed on the land as a desert claim; this. Mr. Ware is, in addition to looking better carpenter and boss viol player Mr. Pierce follows Stinnett in a contest after the business interests of his house, than a waltzer, carried off the prize for on the grounds that the land is not subthe gentlemen, and thereby added anments and a badge of honor to his fame. Mr. John Pollock was accredited as being the most correct and graceful quadrille dancer, and received the prize.

grand old Declaration of Independence.

The evening was spent as the day, happy as could be; lights were hung among the branches and the scene among the trees became one of fairy brightness. had had a good time, and with unani mous voice accorded Messrs. Donaldson, Lea and Fleitz credit, honor and gratitude for affording them a day of unalloyed pleasure. The gentlemen deserve it, they spent their money that others might enjoy the Fourth, and if they ever attempt to chaperone the public again they will be the most popular young men in the valley.

The New Church.

Rev. W. F. Gibbons, the pastor of the M. E. Church South at this place, as previously announced has been trying to secure funds enough to build a house in which his congregation can worship, and it is gratifying to know that he has succeeded so well that the contract will be let this week for the building of the walls. There is not money enough rais distributed the huilding but by the letter of the supplier of the supplier of the building but by the letter of the supplier of the suppl ed to complete the building, but by the time the walls are up it is thought there will be secured the funds to cover and finish it. For his energy in the matter Rev. Gibbons deserves great commendation; our valley needs and must have Fort. Stanton. from below, where he had been looking his limb. The hurt is very painful, but churches, and our people think so, for they are willing to give their money to build them. We feel sure that Mr. Gibbons will have no serious trouble in completing this building in good shape. The location is two blocks west from Poe, Lea & Cosgrove's store; it is a pretty site and will add greatly to that portion of the town. Capt. Lea donated the lot. In town. Call and see. this, like all other public enterprises, he is always in the front.

A Fine Saddle.

W. S. Grey, with Jaffa, Prager & Co., nas just completed a saddle that is a marvel of beauty and workmanship. It is a saddle, saratoga, dressing case and ranchmans office combined, equipped with mirrors, comb, tooth-brush and account book. It is made of the best material, stamped with beautiful designs in relief all over, the pockets are covered with seal skin with a mirror, oval in shape, neatly set in each side. Mr. Grey may well be proud of his work; he is withous doubt the best saddler in the territory. We understand the saddle is to be raffled off soon. Information may pleasure trip through the country. ROSWELL AND AMARILLO.

A New Mail and Wagon Route to be Established Between the

Two Points. Petitions have been in circulation and generally signed both at Amarillo, Texas, a point on the Denver, Texas & Fort Worth railroad, and Roswell, asking for the establishment of a mail route between the two points. Amarillo is about 215 miles northeast of here, and the most prominent cattle shipping point in the southwest, and although a small town yet is doing an extensive mercantile jobbing business. The D., T. & F. W. R. R. is taking an active interest in securing the object is to extend their business. The Santa Fe at present control the bulk of the trade in this part of the country, and the other roads are beginning to look after it, since the Pecos valley traffic is no small item in the earnings of the Santa Fe road. A careful examination has been made of the proposed route and it is claimed to be a better one than any road now running into the valley from any railroad point; by this way the hills and sand are avoided, and there is plenty of water at distances of from 5 to 20 miles apart. Mr. McCrickett, the engineer of the Panhandle R. R., who was over the route a few weeks ago, made a report wherein he recommended the following to be en-113 years ago that day a document was tirely practicable and opened with little or no expense: Beginning at Roswell the precious document should be read at ling, where the river may be safely and easily crossed at almost all times, and where you have an easy ascent to the plains through Lloyds arroya direct to Mr. McCarty's ranch, about seventy-five miles northeast of town; from thence by a well established road to Boon's ranch, thence to the state line by way of Terra Blanca, and on by a direct line to Amarillo. Mr. Leary approves of the route

-The contest case of H. H. Pierce vs A. R. Stinnett, came up before Judge F. H. Lea, special commissioner, for hearnothing else but a good time. There ing on last Monday; the case was conwas a prize awarded for the best lady tinued until to-day, (Thursday,) however upon the application of the plaintiff. J J. Cockrell represented the defendant tain and J. L. Zimmerman were chosen and J. A. Erwin the plaintiff. The case involves the land occupied for some time past by Chas. Sheeler as a homestead. Sheeler it seems sold out to Stinnett, ject to the desert land act. It is a case other accomplishment to his attain- of considerable importance in that it will, if pushed through the courts, determine the question of what class of land comes within the meaning of the desert land act.

-Mr. Scott Truxtun returned from Ft. Stanton last week, where he has been for some time under the care of Dr. Tay lor. Mr. Truxtun had a serious time All went home feeling as though they with his eyes, but we are glad to report him all right now

Harper's Monthly for October has this to say of the Detroit Free Press:

"The Free Press is a weekly literary and family paper, with a funny department that has given it a reputation and circulation in every part of the United States, and made profitable the publication of a special edition in England to be sold in Europe. The writer of the most popular humorous articles and sketches for The Free Press is Charles B. Lewis, whose nom de plume is M. Quad."

"The reputation of the Free Press was not built up exclusively on the reputstion of M. Quad's funny articles, nor is it retained solely or chiefly by them. The proprietors have made of it a popular literary and family paper. The expectation of finding something funny in the 'Bijah' or 'Lime-kiln Club' papers may cause one who has never seen a copy of The Free Press to buy it to read upon the cars or in a leisnre hour. The interesting character of its general contents causes that purchaser to subscribe for it for a year."

This is high praise from a high quarter, but is deserved. You can have this great family paper and the Pecos Valley Register both for one year for $3.25.

Sir Bache Cunard, of the famous steam ship line bearing his name, is the only Bache in the world who is a married man.

"For seven long years I struggled away farming, running a mill, &c., until I was fortunately introduced to B. F. Johnson & Co., Richmond, Va., by my brother, and I went to work at once, and in seven months I had made more clear money than I had made in the seven years before. They took me right by the hand from the start and seemed to be very glad of the chance to show me how to do it." This is about what a young man said a year or so ago of the above mentioned firm. Since that time he has been steadily at work for them, and is now one of the happiest men in America. If you need employment, it would be a good thing for you to follow this young man's example.

THE "STARLSPANGLED!"

Ircumstances Under Which Fran-(4s Scott Key of Baltimore Comp sed Our National Song.

H. w came the "Star-Spangled Banner" to be written? The writer (Marg aret Armistead Baker, in the New Y. wk World) is enabled to give the follo wing account as an established

The nig ht of Sept. 10, 1814, was a memorable one in the American history. The British fleet, comsisting of thirty sail, : uppeared at the mouth of the Patapsco river with every intention of attacking the city of Baltimore. A short distances from the mouth of the river stood Fort McHenry, commanded by Lieut. Col. George Armistead, U. S. A., a young man not over 34 years of age. He had under 'his command about 1,0(%) men. From the 12th to the 14th of September the enemy besieged the fort in every available way -first landing many of their men within a few miles to the north of the fort, and finding they could gain no headway in this manner they returned to their vessels and kept up a perfect; cannonade.

In sheer desperation the British again landed a force of men-in all about 1,200 - but they were again repulsed by the intrepid fighting of Col. Armistead's men and fin ally beat a hasty retreat. The bormburdment lasted about twenty-five bours, during which time from 1,50 1 to 1,800 bombs were thrown, but, sir gular to relate, they nearly all broke it a fragments over the fort. In spite of the severe firing Col. Armistead only le st four men, and about twenty-five were wounded. Of all that fought that de wy not one man is alive, though in 1873 one of the company of the Fencibles survived-M. J. Cohen of Baltimore. The garrison at Fort McHenry on the 14th day of September consisted of one company United States artillery; commanded by Capt. Evans; two companies of Sea Fencibles, the Washington artillery of Baltimore, the Baltimore Independent artitlerists, the Baltimaore Fencibles, a detachment of flotill'a men, and Col. George Armistead.

George Armistead, was born in Newmarket county, Carolina, Va., on the 10th of April, 1780. He entered the army as a second lieutenant in 1799. He rose to the rank of major, 1813, and was breveted ligutenant-colonel for gallamtry at the capture of Fort George in May, 1813. He had five brothers in the army during the same year, many of whose descendants now live. The vessels which attacked Fort McHenry were sixteen in number, five of them being bomb vessels, and for this reason it was all the more remarkable that the fort should have held out, as it was anything but bomb-proof. Knowing this the generat had sent Col. Armistead orders to surrender the fort as he considered it an impossible thing to resist such a large fleet with cmly 1,000 men. Like Nelson at Copenhagen, Col. Armistead turned a blind eye to the orders, defended his fort, knowing that if he failed court-martial stared him in the face. Nothing, however, succeeds like succees, and of course all was forgotten when he achieved such a gallant victory. The incessant firing of bombs, the clash of musketry, the red glare in the heavens, the groans of the dying, the moaning of the wounded-such was the scene which the flag waved over which inspired Francis Scott Key to compose our national song. The song was first published one week after the battle in the Baltimore American of Sept. 21, 1814, and from its pages the following extract is taken:

"This song was composed under the following circumstances: A gentleman had left Baltimore, under a flag of truce, for the purpose of getting released from the British fleet a friend of his, who had been captured at Mariborough. He went as far as the mouth of the Patuxent and was not permitted to return, lest the intended attack on Baltimore should be disclosed. He was, therefore, brought up the bay to the mouth of the Patapsco, where the flag vessel was kept under guns of a frigate, the Surprise, and was compelled to witness the bombardment of Fort McHenry, which the admiral had boasted he would carry in a few hours. He watched the flag at the fort through the whole day with an anxiety that can be better felt than described, until the night prevented him from seeing it. In the night he watched the bombshells, and at early dawn his eye was again greeted by the proudly-waving flag of his country." It was therefore while pacing his own ship, the Minden, that this song was composed. When Key was first taken prisoner he and his friend, Mr. Skinner, were brought before Admiral Cochran, who informed them that he regretted he could not accommodate them on his own vessel, the Royal Oak, but they would be as well taken care of on his son's vessel, the Surprise, where they were accordingly taken, but were afterward conveyed to the Minden, where Key composed this immortal song. All through the long night Key could hear the roar of the bombs as they tore through the air. but no explosion followed, and he was left in painful doubt until dawn as to the fate of his beloved country. Before it was light enough he turned to see if his flag "was still there," and he was rewarded by seeing the beautiul stars and stripes still floating on to bear -Merchant Traveler.

the coft morning air. It was at this moment that Key, completely carried away by the excitement of the hour, wrote the "Star-Spangled Banner." In hunting for paper he could only find the back of several letters in his pocket, and it was as if on odds and ends in Baltimore, where he completed his work, and the next morning he took his maiden piece to Judge Nicholson, his brother-in-law. The judge was so struck with its force and beauty that he had it sent immediately to the printer, and within one hour it was printed on hand bills and all over the city. Every one was wild about it, and it at once took its place as the

Around the border of the song, in the type of the day, was the legend: "Bombardment of Fort McHenry." Below the song are the words: "Written by Francis S. Key of Georgetown, D. C." The Baltimore American of 1872, on the anniversary of the battle of North Point, republished the song which had been written just fifty eight years before. Samuel Sands, the printer boy who put the song in type, was living up to a few years ago and was the respected editor of the American Farmer.

Several copies of the song, with the autograph of Key attached, are known to be in existence—one in possession of the late Mrs. Charles Howard of Baltimore, a daughter of the author; another belongs to Gen. Keim of Pennsylvania, whose son now has the poem, and the third went to Mr. Mahar, for many years head gardener of the executive mansion in Washington. In after years Mr. Key changed a good many words of the song.

There can be no doubt of the authenticity of the flag. It was preserved by Col. Armistead and bears upon one of its stripes his name and the day of the bombardment in his own handwriting. At his death it fell to his widow, who at her death left it to her daughter, the late Mrs. William Stuart Appleton, who was born at Fort McHenry some years after the siege and at whose birth the flag was raised. It has ever been sought after on all state occasions, one of these being when Lafayette was entertained in this country and another was in the recollection of the writer, when it was displayed for weeks at our centennial, where it had a special guard of honor. At the time of Col. Armistead's defense the city of Baltimore presented him, as a token of their high esteem of his great bravery, an elegant silver punch-bowl in the shape of the largest bombshell thrown into the fort by the British. The body of the bowl rests upon four eagles. On one side of the bowl is an engraving of the bombardment, and on the other the inscription. Accompanying this magnificent present were twelve silver goblets representing powder barrels, the whole resting on a massive silver slaver. He was also presented with a superb sword by his native state, Virginia. Some nine years ago the citizens of Baltimore had a magnificent monmuent erected to his memory, and it may be seen now in Druid Hill park. where it is visited by hundreds of strangers throughout the year. On looking at the flag it will be seen that one of the stars is missing and a piece was torn away. One of these disfigurements was occasioned by a bomb passing through it, and the other piece which is missing was cut out and sent to bury the body of one of Col. Armistead's soldiers in. Of all the devoted body of men who fought in that battle, as I have said before, none remain.

The flag which inspired Key to write his immortal song is now in the possession of Col. George Armistead's grandson, Eben Appleton, a wellknown citizen of this city. In 1874 the late Commodore Preble, U. S. N., held a special meeting of the Massachusetts Historical society, where were displayed the three flags bearing the greatest interest in the history of our country, the most prominent, of course, being the star-spangled banner. On this occasion it was seen covering part of the ceiling and held up at the sides by cannon balls and chains. Present at this time were some of the Key descendants and Mrs. William Stuart Appleton and her daughters. At the close of the meeting Marshall P. Wilder invited the writer of this article to sing the "Star-Spangled Banner," which she did, the immense audience joining in on the last stanza.

A Difference in Cigarettes.

A correspondent of the Boston Transcript, talking about cigarettes, says that "those bought by our boys are quite another thing from those comparatively innocent ones smoked by Cubans and South Americans that set the fashion. Wrappers, 'warranted rice paper,' are proven to be ordinary paper whitened with arsenic. In the sixteen expensive popular brands, with one exception, were found sufficient quantities of opium to create such a craving as could only be satisfied by an incessant use of cigarettes or resort to opium alone. We see many cases of lightning paralysis, insomnia, insanity, unquestionably so produced, and the whole army of cigarette smokers show it in skin, weak eyes and weaker manhood,"
